Item number: 01

RUPRO ACTION REQUEST FORM

RUPRO action requested: Recommend JC approval (has circulated for comment)

RUPRO Meeting: April 9, 2020

Title of proposal (include amend/revise/adopt/approve + form/rule numbers):
Appellate Procedure: Appointment of Counsel in Misdemeanor Appeals

Committee or other entity submitting the proposal:
Appellate Advisory Committee

Staff contact (name, phone and e-mail): Christy Simons, 415-865-7694, christy.simons@jud.ca.gov

Identify project(s) on the committee's annual agenda that is the basis for this item:
Approved by RUPRO: 10/28/19 and 10/19/2018
Project description from annual agenda: Consider amending rule 8.851 to (1) conform to the California Supreme Court's opinion in Gardner v. Superior Court (2019) 6 Cal.5th 998, which held that a misdemeanor defendant has a right to appointed counsel to respond to a pretrial prosecution appeal; and (2) clarify that an appellate division may deny a request by a defendant convicted of a misdemeanor to be self-represented on appeal and instead appoint appellate counsel (Martinez v. State of California (2000) 528 U.S. 152, 161; People v. Barnett (2003) 31 Cal.4th 466, 473). Also consider revising form CR-133, Request for Lawyer in Misdemeanor Appeal, to clarify that a defendant need not be the appellant to use the form to request appointment of counsel. Subcommittee: Appellate Division.

If requesting July 1 or out of cycle, explain:

Additional Information: (To facilitate RUPRO's review of your proposal, please include any relevant information not contained in the attached summary.)

JUDICIAL COUNCIL OF CALIFORNIA

455 Golden Gate Avenue · San Francisco, California 94102-3688
www.courts.ca.gov

REPORT TO THE JUDICIAL COUNCIL

For business meeting on: May 14–15, 2020

Title
Appellate Procedure: Appointment of Counsel in Misdemeanor Appeals

Rules, Forms, Standards, or Statutes Affected
Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rule 8.851; revise forms CR-131-INFO and CR-133

Recommended by
Appellate Advisory Committee
Hon. Louis R. Mauro, Chair

Agenda Item Type
Action Required

Effective Date
September 1, 2020

Date of Report
March 9, 2020

Contact
Christy Simons, Attorney, 415-865-7694
christy.simons@jud.ca.gov

Executive Summary

To implement the California Supreme Court's decision in Gardner v. Appellate Division of Superior Court (2019) 6 Cal.5th 998, the Appellate Advisory Committee recommends amending the rule regarding appointment of counsel in misdemeanor appeals to expand the circumstances under which the appellate division is authorized to appoint counsel for an indigent defendant. The proposal would also revise two forms to be consistent with the rule amendments.

Recommendation

The Appellate Advisory Committee recommends that the Judicial Council, effective September 1, 2020:

1. Amend California Rules of Court, rule 8.851 to require the appellate division to appoint counsel for an indigent defendant who has been charged with a misdemeanor and the appeal qualifies as a critical stage of the criminal process; allow the appellate division to appoint counsel for any other indigent defendant charged with a misdemeanor; add an advisory committee comment describing Gardner v. Appellate Division of Superior Court (2019) 6 Cal.5th 998; and make other conforming changes and corrections;
2. Revise form CR-131-INFO to reflect the amendments to rule 8.851 and to clarify language explaining that a misdemeanor defendant does not have a right of self-representation; and

3. Revise form CR-133 to reflect the amendments to rule 8.851.

The text of the amended rule and the revised forms are attached at pages 6–18.

Relevant Previous Council Action

In 1991, the Judicial Council adopted former rule 185.5 regarding appointment of counsel. The rule provided in part: "On application of an indigent defendant-appellant, the appellate department shall appoint counsel on appeal for a defendant convicted of a misdemeanor who is subject to incarceration or a fine of more than $500 (including penalty and other assessments), or who is likely to suffer significant adverse collateral consequences as a result of the conviction." (Former Cal. Rules of Court, rule 185.5(a).) In the years since, the rule has been amended and renumbered, but the portion of the rule that is relevant to this proposal has not substantively changed.

Similarly, both of the forms have been revised at various times, but the council has not taken action relevant to this report.

Analysis/Rationale

Currently, rule 8.851 of the California Rules of Court provides for the appointment of counsel on appeal only for convicted defendants. On application, the appellate division must appoint appellate counsel for a defendant convicted of a misdemeanor who was represented by appointed counsel in the trial court or establishes indigency and who either "is subject to incarceration or a fine of more than $500," or "is likely to suffer significant adverse collateral consequences as a result of the conviction." (Cal. Rules of Court, rule 8.851(a)(1).) The appellate division "may appoint counsel for any other indigent defendant convicted of a misdemeanor." (Id., rule 8.851(a)(2).) The rule does not authorize the appointment of counsel for defendants who have not been convicted.

In Gardner v. Appellate Division of Superior Court (2019) 6 Cal.5th 998 (Gardner), the Supreme Court addressed the question of whether a defendant facing misdemeanor charges, who filed a successful motion to suppress evidence with the help of court-appointed counsel, was entitled to appointed counsel's assistance in responding to a pretrial prosecution appeal of the suppression order. The court explained that, under the California Constitution, a criminal defendant's right to counsel is not limited to trial; rather, it "extends to other, 'critical' stages of the criminal process." (Gardner, 6 Cal.5th at p. 1004 (citations omitted).) Further, "critical stages can be understood as those events or proceedings in which the accused is brought in confrontation with the state, where potential substantial prejudice to the accused's rights inheres in the confrontation, and where counsel's assistance can help to avoid that prejudice." (Id., at pp. 1004–1005.) In light of the consequences to the defendant if she lost the appeal and the difficulty of defending a suppression order without the assistance of counsel, the court held that the pretrial prosecution appeal of an order granting the defendant's motion to suppress evidence was a "critical stage" of the proceedings at which the defendant had a right to appointed counsel as a matter of state constitutional law. (Id., at p. 1005.)

Rule 8.851

To implement the Gardner decision, the Appellate Advisory Committee recommends amending rule 8.851(a) to require the appellate division to appoint counsel for defendants charged with a misdemeanor in circumstances that qualify as "critical stages" of the proceedings. A pretrial prosecution appeal of a suppression order is a critical stage for which counsel must be appointed, but, as noted above, the Gardner court's holding was not limited to this one situation. Accordingly, the recommended rule language is intended to be broad enough to encompass other possible critical stages in the proceedings for a defendant who has been charged with, but not convicted of, a misdemeanor. For clarity and to avoid repetitiveness, the committee has reorganized paragraph (1) of subdivision (a) to include the indigency requirement, kept the provisions regarding defendants convicted of a misdemeanor in subdivision (a)(1)(A), and drafted new language for subdivision (a)(1)(B) regarding defendants charged with a misdemeanor who are entitled to appointed counsel.

The committee also recommends amending rule 8.851(a)(2), which currently allows the appellate division to appoint counsel "for any other indigent defendant convicted of a misdemeanor," to allow the appellate division, in its discretion, to appoint counsel for any other defendant charged with a misdemeanor. This amendment would maintain the parallel structure of requiring the appointment of counsel in certain situations for those charged with or convicted of misdemeanors, and permitting the appointment of counsel in other situations for those charged with or convicted of misdemeanors. A situation warranting the discretionary appointment of appellate counsel for a defendant charged with a misdemeanor would be relatively rare, but authorizing the appellate division to appoint counsel should the circumstances support it is consistent with the Supreme Court's reasoning in Gardner and with the Judicial Council's goal of improving access to impartial justice.

The rule amendments also include minor conforming changes to other parts of subdivisions (a) and (b) and the existing advisory committee comment, as well as a new advisory committee comment for subdivision (a)(1)(B) to provide information on the Gardner decision.

Information on Appeal Procedures for Misdemeanors* (form CR-131-INFO)

The committee recommends revisions to this information sheet that conform to the proposed rule amendments. Item 5 ("How do I get a lawyer to represent me?"), which describes the circumstances in which the appellate division is required to appoint counsel, would be revised to include an appeal involving a defendant who has been charged with a misdemeanor and faces potential substantial prejudice (i.e., a Gardner situation). A reference to rule 8.851 would also be added to item 5.

Item 6 ("Who can appeal?") would be revised to clarify that, in some cases, the government agency that filed the criminal charges is the appellant and the party against whom the charges were filed is the respondent.

In addition, the committee recommends revising item 4 ("Do I need a lawyer to appeal?") to clarify that a defendant does not have a right of self-representation and to add language advising a defendant whose request for self-representation was denied of the need to either hire an attorney or request that an attorney be appointed.

Request for Court-Appointed Lawyer in Misdemeanor Appeal (form CR-133)

The committee recommends a number of changes to this form for requesting a court-appointed lawyer, to be consistent with Gardner. Currently, the form is addressed exclusively to an appellant who has filed a notice of appeal, and the instructions refer only to a convicted defendant as eligible for appointed counsel. References to "appellant" and "your notice of appeal" in various places on the form would be replaced with "defendant" and "the notice of appeal." The instructions would be revised to include defendants in Gardner situations by adding the same new language proposed for item 5 on form CR-131-INFO. Current item 4 would be renumbered as item 3f to group together all questions regarding a convicted defendant's sentence and other negative consequences resulting from the conviction. A new item 4 would be added for defendants who have not been convicted to describe the order being challenged so the appellate division can determine whether the appeal is a "critical stage" of the criminal process under Gardner.

Policy implications

The committee has identified no significant policy implications associated with the recommended changes to the rule and forms.

Comments

The proposed amendments to rule 8.851 and revisions to the two forms were circulated for public comment between December 13, 2019, and February 11, 2020, as part of the winter comment cycle. Eight individuals or organizations submitted comments on this proposal. Four commenters agreed with the proposal, two agreed with the proposal if modified, and two did not state a position on the proposal but provided positive comments. A chart with the full text of the comments received and the committee's responses is attached at pages 19–34.

The committee sought specific comments on whether subdivision (a)(2) of rule 8.851, which allows the appellate division to make a discretionary appointment of counsel "for any other indigent defendant convicted of a misdemeanor," should be amended to authorize such an appointment for any other defendant charged with a misdemeanor. Four commenters responded to this question: three indicated support for this amendment, one recommended against it. For the reasons described above, the committee recommends this amendment.

The committee also requested comments on whether there should be a separate rule regarding appointment of counsel in appellate division writ proceedings. Four commenters responded; all were in favor. The committee will consider developing such a rule as a future project.

In its comments, a bar association suggested adding specific examples of "significant adverse collateral consequences" (rule 8.851(a)(1)(A)) to clarify the information being sought on form

CR-133 in requesting appointment of counsel. The committee recommends clarifying language regarding the different requirements for entitlement to appellate counsel on both forms and the corresponding questions asked on form CR-133, and agrees with the commenter that specific examples would be helpful. The committee has made these modifications to item 5 on the information sheet, and to the instructions and items 3f and 4 on the request form.

Alternatives considered

In the wake of Gardner, the rule and forms were no longer correct. Thus, the committee did not consider the alternative of taking no action.

The committee considered narrower language in rule 8.851 to implement Gardner, but concluded that the Supreme Court's analysis of the right to counsel was broad enough potentially to include proceedings other than a pretrial prosecution appeal of an order granting a motion to suppress evidence that take place before the trial court issues a final judgment.

The committee also considered a new subdivision (d) of rule 8.851 regarding appointment of counsel for a defendant whose request for self-representation was denied. The committee does not recommend a new subdivision because self-representation on appeal is not sufficiently related to the content of rule 8.851 and would be better addressed, if at all in the rules of court, in a separate rule. The proposed revisions to item 4 on form CR-131-INFO, described above, are intended to clarify that a misdemeanor defendant does not have a right of self-representation on appeal.

Fiscal and Operational Impacts

Based on feedback in the comments, the committee anticipates that impacts on the courts will include some education and training, updates to procedures, and changes to case management systems. The Civil and Appellate Division of the Superior Court of Orange County estimates that 16 hours by a Program Coordinator Specialist over the course of one month will be required to revise procedures, train staff, and implement the changes.

JRS notes there will be cost impacts to the county indigent defense fund and potential issues with implementation and payment since current contracts likely do not address the expected additional appointments. Communication with justice partners will be important.

Attachments and Links

1. Cal. Rules of Court, rule 8.851, at pages 6–7
2. Forms CR-131-INFO and CR-133, at pages 8–18
3. Chart of comments, at pages 19–34

Rule 8.851 of the California Rules of Court would be amended, effective September 1, 2020, to read:

Rule 8.851. Appointment of appellate counsel

(a) Standards for appointment

(1) On application, the appellate division must appoint appellate counsel for a defendant ~~convicted of a misdemeanor~~ who was represented by appointed counsel in the trial court or establishes indigency and who:

(A) Was convicted of a misdemeanor and is subject to incarceration or a fine of more than $500 (including penalty and other assessments), or who is likely to suffer significant adverse collateral consequences as a result of the conviction; ~~and~~ or

(B) ~~Was represented by appointed counsel in the trial court or establishes indigency.~~ Is charged with a misdemeanor and the appeal is a critical stage of the criminal process.

(2) On application, the appellate division may appoint counsel for any other indigent defendant charged with or convicted of a misdemeanor.

(3) For applications under (1)(A), a defendant is subject to incarceration or a fine if the incarceration or fine is in a sentence, is a condition of probation, or may be ordered if the defendant violates probation.

(b) Application; duties of trial counsel and clerk

(1) If defense trial counsel has reason to believe that the client is indigent and will file an appeal or is a party in an appeal described in (a)(1)(B), counsel must prepare and file in the trial court an application to the appellate division for appointment of counsel.

(2) If the defendant was represented by appointed counsel in the trial court, the application must include trial counsel's declaration to that effect. If the defendant was not represented by appointed counsel in the trial court, the application must include a declaration of indigency in the form required by the Judicial Council.

(3) Within 15 court days after an application is filed in the trial court, the clerk must send it to the appellate division. A defendant may, however, apply directly to the appellate division for appointment of counsel at any time after ~~filing~~ the notice of appeal is filed.

(4) The appellate division must grant or deny a defendant's application for appointment of counsel within 30 days after the application is filed.

(c) * * *

Advisory Committee Comment

Request for Court-Appointed Lawyer in Misdemeanor Appeal (form CR-133) may be used to request that appellate counsel be appointed in a misdemeanor case. If the ~~appellant~~ defendant was not represented by the public defender or other appointed counsel in the trial court, the ~~appellant~~ defendant must use Defendant's Financial Statement on Eligibility for Appointment of Counsel and Reimbursement and Record on Appeal at Public Expense (form ~~MC-210~~CR-105) to show indigency. These forms are available at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.

Subdivision (a)(1)(B). In Gardner v. Appellate Division of Superior Court (2019) 6 Cal.5th 998, the California Supreme Court addressed what constitutes a critical stage of the criminal process. The court provided the analysis for determining whether a defendant has a right to counsel in confrontational proceedings other than trial, and held that the pretrial prosecution appeal of an order granting the defendant's motion to suppress evidence was a critical stage of the process at which the defendant, who was represented by appointed counsel in the trial court, had a right to appointed counsel as a matter of state constitutional law.

CR-131-INFO Information on Appeal Procedures for Misdemeanors

1 What does this information sheet cover?

This information sheet tells you about appeals in misdemeanor cases. It is only meant to give you a general idea of the appeal process, so it does not cover everything you may need to know about appeals in misdemeanor cases. To learn more, you should read rules 8.800–8.816 and 8.850–8.890 of the California Rules of Court, which set out the procedures for misdemeanor appeals. You can get these rules at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/rules.

For information about appeal procedures in other cases, see:

- Information on Appeal Procedures for Infractions (form CR-141-INFO)
- Information on Appeal Procedures for Limited Civil Cases (form APP-101-INFO)

You can get these forms at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.

2 What is a misdemeanor?

A misdemeanor is a crime that can be punished by jail time of up to one year, but not by time in state prison. (See Penal Code sections 17 and 19.2. You can get a copy of these laws at http://leginfo.legislature.ca.gov /faces/codes.xhtml.) If you were also charged with or convicted of a felony, then your case is a felony case, not a misdemeanor case.

3 What is an appeal?

An appeal is a request to a higher court to review a decision made by a lower court. In a misdemeanor case, the court hearing the appeal is the appellate division of the superior court and the lower court—called the "trial court" in this information sheet—is the superior court.

It is important to understand that an appeal is NOT a new trial. The appellate division will not consider new evidence, such as the testimony of new witnesses or new exhibits. The appellate division's job is to review a record of what happened in the trial court and the trial court's decision to see if certain kinds of legal errors were made in the case:

- Prejudicial error: The party that appeals (called the "appellant") may ask the appellate division to determine if an error was made about either the law or court procedures in the case that caused substantial harm to the appellant (this is called "prejudicial error"). Prejudicial error can include things like errors made by the judge about the law, errors or misconduct by the lawyers, incorrect instructions given to the jury, and misconduct by the jury that harmed the appellant. When it conducts its review, the appellate division presumes that the judgment, order, or other decision being appealed is correct. It is the responsibility of the appellant to show the appellate division that an error was made and that the error was harmful.
- No substantial evidence: The appellant may also ask the appellate division to determine if there was substantial evidence supporting the judgment, order, or other decision being appealed. When it conducts its review, the appellate division only looks to see if there was evidence that reasonably supports the decision. The appellate division generally will not reconsider the jury's or trial court's conclusion about which side had more or stronger evidence or whether witnesses were telling the truth or lying.

The appellate division generally will not overturn the judgment, order, or other decision being appealed unless the record clearly shows that one of these legal errors was made.

4 Do I need a lawyer to appeal?

You will probably need a lawyer. You are not allowed to represent yourself in an appeal in a misdemeanor case unless the appellate division permits you to do so. But appeals can be complicated, and you would have to follow the same rules that lawyers have to follow. If you have any questions about the appeal procedures, you should talk to a lawyer.

If the appellate division permits you to represent yourself, you must put your address, telephone number, fax number, and email address (if available) on the cover of every document you file with the court and let the court know if this contact information changes so that the court can contact you if needed.

If the appellate division does not permit you to represent yourself, you must hire a lawyer at your own expense or ask the court to appoint a lawyer to represent you.

5 How do I get a lawyer to represent me?

The court is required to appoint a lawyer to represent you if you are indigent (you cannot afford to pay for a lawyer) and:

- You were convicted and your punishment includes going to jail or paying a fine of more than $500 (including penalty and other assessments); or
- You are likely to suffer other negative consequences from the conviction (for example, immigration problems or inability to get or keep a license or permit); or
- You have not been convicted but you are likely to suffer significant harm if you lose the appeal.

See rule 8.851 of the California Rules of Court for more information about when the court is required to appoint a lawyer to represent you.

The court may, but is not required to, appoint a lawyer to represent you on appeal in other circumstances if you are indigent. You are automatically considered indigent if you were represented by the public defender or other court-appointed lawyer in the trial court. You will also be considered indigent if you can show that your income and assets are too low to pay for a lawyer.

If you think you are indigent, you can ask the court to appoint a lawyer to represent you for your appeal. You may use Request for Court-Appointed Lawyer in Misdemeanor Appeal (form CR-133) to ask the court to appoint a lawyer to represent you on appeal in a misdemeanor case. You can get form CR-133 at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.

If you want a lawyer and you are not indigent or if the court turns down your request to appoint a lawyer, you must hire a lawyer at your own expense. You can get information about finding a lawyer on the California Courts Online Self-Help Center at www.courts.ca.gov /selfhelp.htm at the "Getting Started" tab.

6 Who can appeal?

Only a party in the trial court case can appeal a decision in that case. You may not appeal on behalf of a friend, a spouse, a child, or another relative.

The party that is appealing is called the APPELLANT; in a misdemeanor case, this is usually the party convicted of committing the misdemeanor. The other party is called the RESPONDENT; in a misdemeanor case, this is usually the government agency that filed the criminal charges (on court papers, this party is called the People of the State of California). In some cases, the government agency is the appellant and the party against whom the charges were filed is the respondent.

7 Can I appeal any decision that the trial court made?

No. Generally, you may appeal only the final judgment —the decision at the end that decides the whole case. The final judgment includes the punishment that the court imposed. With the exception listed below, rulings made by the trial court before final judgment generally cannot be separately appealed, but can be reviewed only later as part of an appeal of the final judgment. In a misdemeanor case, the party convicted of committing a misdemeanor usually appeals that conviction or the sentence (punishment) ordered by the trial court. In a misdemeanor case, a party can also appeal:

- Before the trial court issues a final judgment in the case, from an order granting or denying a motion to suppress evidence (Penal Code section 1538.5(j))
- From an order made by the trial court after judgment that affects a substantial right of the appellant (Penal Code section 1466(2)(B))

You can get a copy of these laws at http://leginfo.legislature.ca.gov/faces/codes.xhtml.

8 How do I start my appeal?

First, you must file a notice of appeal. The notice of appeal tells the other party in the case and the trial court that you are appealing the trial court's decision. You may use Notice of Appeal (Misdemeanor) (form CR-132) to prepare and file a notice of appeal in a misdemeanor case. You can get form CR-132 at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.

9 Is there a deadline for filing my notice of appeal?

Yes. Except in the very limited circumstances listed in rule 8.853(b), in a misdemeanor case, you must file your notice of appeal within 30 days after the trial court makes ("renders") its final judgment in your case or issues the order you are appealing. (You can get a copy of rule 8.853 at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/rules). The date the trial court makes its judgment is normally the date the trial court issues its order saying what your punishment is (sentences you). This deadline for filing the notice of appeal cannot be extended. If your notice of appeal is late, the appellate division will not be able to consider your appeal.

10 How do I file my notice of appeal?

To file the notice of appeal in a misdemeanor case, you must bring or mail the original notice of appeal to the clerk of the trial court that made the judgment or issued the order you are appealing. It is a good idea to bring or mail an extra copy to the clerk and ask the clerk to stamp it to show that the original has been filed.

There is no fee for filing the notice of appeal in a misdemeanor case. You can ask the clerk of that court if there are any other requirements for filing your notice of appeal.

After you file your notice of appeal, the clerk will send a copy of your notice of appeal to the office of the prosecuting attorney (for example, the district attorney, county counsel, city attorney, or state Attorney General).

11 If I file a notice of appeal, do I still have to go to jail or complete other parts of my punishment?

Filing the notice of appeal does NOT automatically postpone your punishment, such as serving time in jail, paying fines, or probation conditions.

If you have been sentenced to jail in a misdemeanor case, you have a right to be released either with or without bail while your appeal is waiting to be decided, but you must ask the court to set bail or release you. If the trial court has not set bail or released you after your notice of appeal has been filed, you must ask the trial court to set bail or release you. If the trial court denies your release or sets the bail amount higher than you think it should be, you can apply to the appellate division for release or for lower bail.

Other parts of your punishment, such as fines or probation conditions, will be postponed ("stayed") only if you request a stay and the court grants your request. If you want a stay, you must first ask the trial court for a stay. You can also apply to the appellate division for a stay, but you must show in your application to the appellate division that you first asked the trial court for a stay and that the trial court unjustifiably denied your request. If you do not get a stay and you do not pay your fine or complete another part of your punishment by the date ordered by the court, a warrant may be issued for your arrest or a civil collections process may be started against you, which could result in a civil penalty being added to your fine.

12 What do I need to do after I file my appeal?

You must tell the trial court (1) whether you have agreed with the respondent ("stipulated") that you do not need parts of the normal record on appeal, and (2) whether you want a record of what was said in the trial court (this is called a record of the "oral proceedings") sent to the appellate division and, if so, what form of that record you want to use. You may use Notice Regarding Record on Appeal (Misdemeanor) (form CR-134) for this notice. (You can get form CR-134 at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms). You must file this notice either:

- Within 20 days after you file your notice of appeal; or, if it is later,

- Within 10 days after the court decides whether to appoint a lawyer to represent you (if you ask the court to appoint a lawyer within 20 days after you file your notice of appeal).

13 In what cases does the appellate division need a record of what was said in the trial court?

You do not have to send the appellate division a record of what was said in the trial court. But if you want to raise any issue in your appeal that would require the appellate division to consider what was said in the trial court, the appellate division will need a record of these oral proceedings. For example, if you are claiming that there was not substantial evidence supporting the judgment, order, or other decision you are appealing, the appellate division will need a record of the oral proceedings. Since the appellate division judges were not there for the proceedings in the trial court, an official record of these oral proceedings must be prepared and sent to the appellate division for its review.

Depending on what form of the record you choose to use, you will be responsible for paying to have the official record of the oral proceedings prepared (unless you are indigent) or for preparing an initial draft of this record yourself. If you do not take care of these responsibilities, a record of the oral proceedings in the trial court will not be prepared and sent to the appellate division. If the appellate division does not receive this record, it will not be able to consider what was said in the trial court in deciding whether a legal error was made and it may dismiss your appeal.

14 What are the different forms of the record?

There are three ways a record of the oral proceedings in the trial court can be prepared and provided to the appellate division in a misdemeanor case:

a. If a court reporter was there during the trial court proceedings, the reporter can prepare a record called a "reporter's transcript."

b. If the proceedings were officially electronically recorded, the trial court can have a transcript prepared from that recording; or if the court has a local rule permitting this and you and the respondent (the prosecuting agency) agree ("stipulate") to this, you can use the official electronic recording itself as the record, instead of a transcript.

c. You can use a statement on appeal.

Read below for more information about these options.

a. Reporter's transcript

When available: In some misdemeanor cases, a court reporter is there in the trial court and makes a record of the oral proceedings. If a court reporter made a record of your case, you can ask to have the court reporter prepare a transcript of those oral proceedings, called a "reporter's transcript." You should check with the trial court to see if a court reporter made a record of your case before you choose this option. Some courts also have local rules that establish procedures for deciding whether a statement on appeal or a transcript of only some of the oral proceedings will be a good enough record to consider the issues you are raising on appeal. You should check whether the court has such a local rule.

Cost*:* Ordinarily, the appellant must pay for preparing a reporter's transcript. The court reporter will provide the clerk of the trial court with an estimate of the cost of preparing the transcript and the clerk will notify you of this estimate. If you want the reporter to prepare a transcript, you must deposit this estimated amount or one of the substitutes allowed under rule 8.866 with the clerk within 10 days after the clerk sends you the estimate. However, under rule 8.866 you can decide to use a different form of the record or take other action instead of proceeding with a reporter's transcript.

If, however, you are indigent (you cannot afford to pay the cost of a reporter's transcript), you may be able to get a free transcript. If you were represented by the public defender or another court-appointed lawyer in the trial court, you are automatically considered indigent. If you were not represented by a court-appointed lawyer in the trial court, you can complete and file Defendant's

Financial Statement on Eligibility for Appointment of Counsel and Reimbursement and Record on Appeal at Public Expense (form CR-105), to show that you are indigent. You can get form CR-105 at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms. The court will review this form to decide whether you are indigent.

If the court finds that you are indigent, a court reporter made a record of your case, and you show that you need a transcript, the court must provide you with a free transcript. Whether you need a transcript depends on the issues you are raising on appeal. If the issues you are raising on appeal include that there was not substantial evidence supporting the judgment, order, or other decision you are appealing or that there was misconduct in your case that harmed you, that is generally enough to show that you need a transcript. If you ask for a reporter's transcript, the court may ask you what issues you are raising on appeal and may decide that a statement on appeal or a transcript of only some of the oral proceedings will be a good enough record to consider the issues you are raising.

If the court finds that you are not indigent, it will send you a notice and you will have a chance to pick another form of the record or take other actions listed in rule 8.866.

Completion and delivery: Once you deposit the estimated cost of the transcript or one of the substitutes allowed under rule 8.866 or show the court you are indigent and need a transcript, the clerk will notify the reporter to prepare the transcript. When the reporter completes the transcript, the clerk will send the reporter's transcript to the appellate division along with the clerk's transcript.

b. Official electronic recording or transcript from an official recording

When available: In some misdemeanor cases, the trial court proceedings are officially recorded on approved electronic recording equipment. If your case was officially recorded, you can ask to have a transcript prepared from that official electronic recording. You should check with the trial court to see if your case was officially electronically recorded before you choose this option. As with reporter's transcripts, some courts also have local rules that establish procedures for deciding whether a statement on appeal or a transcript of only some of the oral proceedings will be a good enough record to consider the issues you are raising on appeal. You should check whether the court has such a local rule.

If the court has a local rule for the appellate division permitting this and all the parties agree ("stipulate"), a copy of the official electronic recording itself can be used as the record of the oral proceedings instead of preparing a transcript. You should check with the trial court to see if your case was officially electronically recorded and check to make sure there is a local rule permitting the use of the recording itself before choosing this option. If you choose this option, you must attach a copy of your agreement with the other parties (called a "stipulation") to your notice regarding the oral proceedings.

Cost: Ordinarily, the appellant must pay for preparing a transcript or making a copy of the official electronic recording. The court will send you an estimate of the cost for this transcript or the copy of the electronic recording. If you still want this transcript or recording, you must deposit this amount with the court. However, you can also choose to use a statement on appeal instead, or take one of the other actions listed in rule 8.868.

If, however, you are indigent (you cannot afford to pay the cost of the transcript or recording), you may be able to get a free transcript or recording. If you were represented by the public defender or another court-appointed attorney in the trial court, you are automatically considered indigent. If you were not represented by a court-appointed lawyer in the trial court, you can complete and file Defendant's Financial Statement on Eligibility for Appointment of Counsel and Reimbursement and Record on Appeal at Public Expense (form CR-105) to show that you are indigent. You can get form CR-105 at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms. The court will review this form to decide whether you are indigent.

If you are indigent, an official electronic recording of your case was made, and you show that you need a transcript, the court must provide you with a free transcript. As with reporter's transcripts, whether you need a transcript depends on the issues you are raising on appeal. If the issues you are raising on appeal include that there was not substantial evidence supporting the judgment, order, or other decision you are appealing or that there was misconduct in your case that harmed you, that is generally enough to show that you need a transcript. If you ask for a transcript, the court may ask you what issues you are raising on appeal and may decide that a statement on appeal or a transcript of only some of the oral proceedings will be a good enough record to consider the issues you are raising.

If the court finds that you are not indigent, it will send you a notice and you will have a chance to use a statement on appeal instead or take one of the other actions listed in rule 8.868.

Completion and delivery: Once you deposit the estimated cost of the transcript or the official electronic recording with the clerk or show the court you are indigent and need a transcript, the clerk will have the transcript or copy of the recording prepared. When the transcript is completed or the copy of the official electronic recording is prepared, the clerk will send the transcript or recording to the appellate division along with the clerk's transcript.

c. Statement on appeal

Description: A statement on appeal is a summary of the trial court proceedings approved by the trial court judge who conducted those proceedings (the term "judge" includes commissioners and temporary judges).

When available: If the trial court proceedings were not recorded either by a court reporter or by official electronic recording equipment, or if you do not want to use either of these forms of the record, you can choose ("elect") to use a statement on appeal as the record of the oral proceedings in the trial court (please note that it may take more of your time to prepare a statement on appeal than to use either a reporter's transcript or electronic recording, if they are available).

Contents: A statement on appeal must include:

- A statement of the points you (the appellant) are raising on appeal;
- A summary of the trial court's rulings and judgment; and
- A summary of the testimony of each witness and other evidence that is relevant to the issues you are raising on appeal.

(See rule 8.869 of the California Rules of Court for more information about what must be included in a statement on appeal and the procedures for preparing a statement. You can get this rule at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/rules.htm.)

Preparing a proposed statement: If you choose to use a statement on appeal, you must prepare a proposed statement. If you are not represented by a lawyer, you must use Proposed Statement on Appeal (Misdemeanor) (form CR-135) to prepare your proposed statement. You can get form CR-135 at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.

Serving and filing a proposed statement: You must serve and file your proposed statement in the trial court within 20 days after you file your notice regarding the record of the oral proceedings. "Serve and file" means that you must:

- Have somebody over 18 years old who is not a party to the case—so not you—mail or deliver ("serve") a copy of the proposed statement to the prosecuting attorney and any other party in the way required by law.
- Make a record that the proposed statement has been served. This record is called a "proof of service." Proof of Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109) can be used to make this record. The proof of service must show who served the proposed statement, who was served with the proposed statement, how the proposed statement was served (by mail or in person), and the date the proposed statement was served.

- File the original proposed statement and the proof of service with the trial court. You should make a copy of the proposed statement you are planning to file for your own records before you file it with the court. It is a good idea to bring or mail an extra copy of the proposed statement to the clerk when you file your original and ask the clerk to stamp this copy to show that the original has been filed.

You can get more information about how to serve court papers and proof of service from What Is Proof of Service? (form APP-109-INFO) and on the California Courts Online Self-Help Center at www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp-serving.htm.

Review and modifications: The prosecuting attorney and any other party have 10 days from the date you serve your proposed statement to serve and file proposed changes (called "amendments") to this statement. The trial court judge then reviews both your proposed statement and any proposed amendments filed by the prosecuting attorney and any other party. The judge will then make or order you to make any corrections or modifications to the statement needed to make sure that the statement provides a complete and accurate summary of the relevant testimony and other evidence.

Completion and certification: If the judge makes or orders you to make any corrections or modifications to the proposed statement, the corrected or modified statement will be sent to you, the prosecuting attorney, and any other party for your review. If you disagree with anything in the judge's statement, you will have 10 days from the date the statement is sent you to serve and file objections to the statement. The judge then reviews any objections, makes any additional corrections to the statement, and certifies the statement as a complete and accurate summary of the relevant testimony and other evidence.

Sending the statement to appellate division: Once the trial court judge certifies the statement on appeal, the trial court clerk will send the statement to the appellate division along with the clerk's transcript.

15 Is there any other part of the record that needs to be sent to the appellate division?

Yes. There are two other parts of the official record that need to be sent to the appellate division:

- Documents filed in the trial court: The trial court clerk is responsible for preparing a record of the written documents filed in your case, called a "clerk's transcript," and sending this to the appellate division. (The documents the clerk must include in this transcript are listed in rule 8.861 of the California Rules of Court. You can get a copy of this rule at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/rules.htm.)

- Exhibits submitted during trial: Exhibits, such as photographs, that were admitted in evidence, refused, or lodged (temporarily placed with the court) in the trial court are considered part of the record on appeal. If you want the appellate division to consider such an exhibit, however, you must ask the trial court clerk to send the original exhibit to the appellate division within 10 days after the last respondent's brief is filed in the appellate division. (See rule 8.870 of the California Rules of Court for more information about this procedure. You can get a copy of this rule at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/rules.) Sometimes, the trial court returns an exhibit to a party at the end of the trial. If the trial court returned an exhibit to you or another party and you or the other party ask for the exhibit to be sent to the appellate division, the party who has the exhibit must deliver that exhibit to the appellate division as soon as possible.

16 What happens after the record is prepared?

As soon as the record of the oral proceeding is ready, the clerk of the trial court will send it to the appellate division along with the clerk's transcript. When the appellate division receives this record, it will send you a notice telling you when you must file your brief in the appellate division.

17 What is a brief?

A brief is a party's written description of the facts in the case, the law that applies, and the party's argument about the issues being appealed. If you are represented by a lawyer in your appeal, your lawyer will prepare your brief. If the appellate division has permitted you to represent yourself, you will have to prepare your brief yourself. You should read rules 8.880–8.891 of the California Rules of Court, which set out the requirements for preparing, serving, and filing briefs in misdemeanor appeals, including requirements for the format and length of those briefs. You can get copies of these rules at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/rules.htm.

Contents: If you are the appellant (the party who is appealing), your brief, called the "appellant's opening brief," must clearly explain what you believe are the legal errors made in the trial court. Your brief must refer to the exact places in the clerk's transcript and the reporter's transcript (or other record of the oral proceedings) that support your argument. Remember that an appeal is not a new trial. The appellate division will not consider new evidence, such as the testimony of new witnesses or new exhibits, so do not include any new evidence in your brief.

Serving and filing: You must serve and file your brief in the appellate division by the deadline the court set in the notice it sent you, which is usually 30 days after the record is filed in the appellate division. "Serve and file" means that you must:

- Have somebody over 18 years old who is not a party to the case—so not you—mail or deliver ("serve") the brief to the respondent (the prosecuting agency) and any other party in the way required by law.
- Make a record that the brief has been served. This record is called a "proof of service." Proof of Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109) can be used to make this record. The proof of service must show who served the brief, who was served with the brief, how the brief was served (by mail or in person), and the date the brief was served.
- File the original brief and the proof of service with the appellate division. You should make a copy of the brief you are planning to file for your own records before you file it with the court. It is a good idea to bring or mail an extra copy of the brief to the clerk when you file your original and ask the clerk to stamp this copy to show that the original has been filed.

You can get more information about how to serve court papers and proof of service from What Is Proof of Service? (form APP-109-INFO) and at www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp-serving.htm.

If you do not file your brief by the deadline set by the appellate division, the court may dismiss your appeal.

18 What happens after I file my brief?

Within 30 days after you serve and file your brief, the respondent (the prosecuting agency) may, but is not required to, respond by serving and filing a respondent's brief. If the respondent does not file a brief, the appellant does not automatically win the appeal. The court will decide the appeal on the record, the appellant's brief, and any oral argument by the appellant.

If the respondent serves and files a brief, within 20 days after the respondent's brief was served, you may, but are not required to, serve and file another brief replying to the respondent's brief. This is called a "reply brief."

19 What happens after all the briefs have been filed?

Once all the briefs have been served and filed or the time to serve and file them has passed, the court will notify you of the date for oral argument in your case unless your case presents no arguable issues for the court to consider. If your case presents no arguable issues, the court will not hold oral argument.

20 What is oral argument?

"Oral argument" is the parties' chance to explain their arguments to the appellate division judges in person. You do not have to participate in oral argument if you do not want to; you can notify the appellate division that you want to "waive" (give up) oral argument by serving and filing a notice within 7 days after the notice of oral argument was sent by the court. You can use Notice of Waiver of Oral Argument (Misdemeanor) (form CR-138) to waive oral argument.

If all parties waive oral argument, and the appellate division approves the waiver and takes the oral argument off calendar, the judges will decide your appeal based on the briefs and the record that were submitted. But if one party waives oral argument and another party or parties do not, the appellate division will hold oral argument with any party or parties who choose to participate, including any party who asked to waive oral argument.

If you choose to participate in oral argument, each party will have up to 10 minutes for argument, unless the court orders otherwise. If the appellate division has permitted you to represent yourself, remember that the judges will already have read the briefs, so you do not need to read your brief to the judges. It is more helpful to tell the judges what you think is most important in your appeal or ask the judges if they have any questions you could answer.

21 What happens after oral argument?

After the oral argument is held (or all parties waive oral argument and the court approves the waiver), the judges of the appellate division will make a decision about your appeal. The appellate division has 90 days after oral argument (or the date its waiver was approved) to decide the appeal. The clerk of the court will mail you a notice of that decision.

22 What should I do if I want to give up my appeal?

If you decide you do not want to continue with your appeal, you must file a written document with the appellate division notifying it that you are giving up (this is called "abandoning") your appeal. You can use Abandonment of Appeal (Misdemeanor) (form CR-137) to file this notice in a misdemeanor case. You can get form CR-137 at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.htm.

If you decide not to continue your appeal and it is dismissed, you will (with only very rare exceptions) permanently give up the chance to raise any objections to your conviction, sentence, or other matter that you could have raised on the appeal. If you were released from custody with or without bail or your sentence or any probation conditions were stayed during the appeal, you may be required to start serving your sentence or complying with your probation conditions immediately after your appeal is dismissed.

CR-133 Request for Court-Appointed Lawyer in Misdemeanor Appeal

Clerk stamps date here when form is filed.

DRAFT

03-09-20

Not approved by the Judicial Council

Instructions

- This form is only for requesting that the court appoint a lawyer to represent a defendant in a misdemeanor appeal.
- Before you fill out this form, read Information on Appeal Procedures for Misdemeanors (form CR-131-INFO) to know your rights and responsibilities. You can get form CR-131-INFO at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.
- The court is required to appoint a lawyer to represent you if you are indigent (you cannot afford to pay for a lawyer) and:
  - (1) You were convicted and your punishment includes going to jail or paying a fine of more than $500 (including penalty and other assessments); or
  - (2) You are likely to suffer other negative consequences from the conviction (for example, immigration problems or inability to get or keep a license or permit); or
  - (3) You have not been convicted but you are likely to suffer significant harm if you lose the appeal.
- Fill out this form and make a copy of the completed form for your records.
- Take or mail the completed form to the clerk's office for the same trial court where the notice of appeal was filed. It is a good idea to take or mail an extra copy to the clerk and ask the clerk to stamp it to show that the original has been filed.

You fill in the name and street address of the court that issued the judgment or order you are appealing:

Superior Court of California, County of

You fill in the number and name of the trial court case in which you are appealing the judgment or order:

Trial Court Case Number:

Trial Court Case Name:

You fill in the appellate division case number (if you know it):

Appellate Division Case Number:

1 Your Information

a. Name of Defendant (the party who is filing this request):

Name: _____

Street address: _____ (Street) _____ (City) _____ (State) _____ (Zip)

Mailing address (if different): _____ (Street) _____ (City) _____ (State) _____ (Zip)

Phone: _____ Email: _____

b. Defendant's lawyer (skip this if the defendant is filling out this form):

Name: _____ State Bar number: _____

Street address: _____ (Street) _____ (City) _____ (State) _____ (Zip)

Mailing address (if different): _____ (Street) _____ (City) _____ (State) _____ (Zip)

Phone: _____ Email: _____

Fax: _____

Trial Court Case Name: _____ Trial Court Case Number:

Information About Your Case

2 Were you/was your client represented by the public defender or another court-appointed lawyer in the trial court proceedings in this case? (Check a or b.)

a. ☐ Yes

b. ☐ No (Complete and attach Defendant's Financial Statement on Eligibility for Appointment of Counsel and Reimbursement and Record on Appeal at Public Expense (form MC-210) showing that you/your client cannot afford to hire a lawyer. You can get form MC-210 at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.)

3 If you have been convicted, describe the punishment the trial court gave you/your client in this case (check all that apply and fill in any required information):

a. ☐ Jail time

b. ☐ A fine (including penalty and other assessments) (fill in the amount of the fine): $ _____

c. ☐ Restitution (fill in the amount of the restitution): $ _____

d. ☐ Probation (fill in the amount of time on probation): _____

e. ☐ Other punishment (describe any other punishment that the trial court gave you/your client in this case):

_____

_____

_____

f. ☐ Describe any other negative consequences that you are/your client is likely to suffer because of this conviction:

_____

_____

_____

4 If you have not been convicted, describe the order being challenged on appeal:

_____

_____

_____

Notice to Defendant: If you were represented by appointed counsel in the trial court and the trial court finds that you are able to pay all or part of the cost of that counsel, at the conclusion of the proceedings, the court may also determine after a hearing whether you are able to pay all or a portion of the cost of any attorney appointed to represent you in this appeal. If the court determines that you are at that time able to pay, the court will order you to pay all or part of such cost. Such orders will have the same force and effect as a judgment in a civil action and will be subject to enforcement.

Date: _____

_____ ▶ _____

Type or print name Signature of defendant or attorney

W20-01

Appellate Procedure: Appointment of Counsel in Misdemeanor Appeals (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rule 8.851; revise forms CR-131-INFO and CR-133)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committee Response
1.	California Lawyers Association By Leah Spero, Chair Committee on Appellate Courts and Saul Bercovitch, Director of Governmental Affairs	A	The Committee on Appellate Courts supports this proposal. The proposed amendments to Rule 8.851 sufficiently implement the ruling in Gardner v. Appellate Division of Superior Court (2019) 6 Cal.5th 998, by requiring the appellate division to appoint counsel for an indigent defendant facing a misdemeanor charge when an appeal is taken by either party before judgment, if the appeal arises from a "critical stage" of the criminal proceedings.	The committee notes the commenter's support for the proposal.
			The Request for Specific Comment asks whether subdivision (a)(2) of the rule should be amended to specifically authorize the appellate division to appoint counsel even if the proceedings are not at a critical stage, and the Committee supports that further amendment. The Committee does not anticipate that this provision would be invoked often, and the appellate division would have the discretion to decline any unwarranted request for appointment of counsel at a non-critical stage. In the Committee's view, the appellate division is in the best position to determine whether an individual request for counsel is unwarranted, and its discretionary authority should not be limited as a whole based on theoretical concerns that the rule could have unintended consequences.	The committee appreciates this feedback and agrees with allowing the appellate division the discretion to make this determination.
			The Committee suggests the following amendment to Rule 8.851, subdivision (a)(2): "On application, the appellate division may	The committee thanks the commenter for suggesting specific language and has included this language in the proposal.

 Positions: A = Agree; AM = Agree if modified; N = Do not agree; NI = Not indicated

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committee Response
			appoint counsel for any other indigent defendant charged with or convicted of a misdemeanor."
2.	Jayce Hottenroth Cypress, California	NI	My name is Jayce Hottenroth. I am currently a student at Oxford Academy in Cypress California, and am writing in regard to the proposals open to public comment. Specifically this email is directed towards the Appellate Procedure, and the Appointment of Counsel in Misdemeanor Appeals. The judicial system plays such an important role in the image of our nation, as well as a massive role in people's lives, those innocent and guilty. The judicial system is far from perfect as all things are, and I believe such action towards the Appellate Procedure is a step in the right direction. More outlets for those who are placed on trial will not only benefit the individual, it would benefit the government as each individual prisoner requires an estimated $31,000 dollars a year. A more open minded judicial system when it comes to those who are attempting to appeal their cases would also be beneficial. The Judicial system can make mistakes whether it be due to false forms of evidence, such as false testimony. This lack of certainty in the conviction process as well as the cost of financing a prisoner makes it all the more reasonable to hear more cases. In a nation where an immense number of individuals are convicted yearly, the introduction of such action	The committee notes the commenter's support of efforts to improve the justice system and appreciates the thoughtful comments and participation in this process. The committee appreciates the commenter's thoughts on the judicial system. The committee works to improve the administration of justice in appellate proceedings (see Cal. Rules of Court, rule 10.40), and welcomes feedback and suggestions for how it may best serve the interests of the public.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committee Response
			towards the Appellate procedure is a step towards the right direction. As humans we are imperfect which suggests faulty systems all throughout the globe, however steps such as the inclusion of such proposal to the Appellate Procedure is a major step in the right direction. Directing our judicial system in this manner will only yield positivity for our nation and I hope for further advocating for actions which may benefit all citizens equally in court. Thank you for your time in reading this email.	The committee thanks the commenter for taking an interest in this proposal and the time to respond.
3.	Joint Rules Subcommittee (JRS) of the Trial Court Presiding Judges Advisory Committee (TCPJAC) and the Court Executives Advisory Committee (CEAC)	AM	The JRS notes the following impact to court operations: • Impact on existing automated systems (e.g., case management system, accounting system, technology infrastructure or security equipment, Jury Plus/ACS, etc.) • Results in additional training, which requires the commitment of staff time and court resources. • Impact on local or statewide justice partners. The JRS notes that training would not create a major impact given the straight-forward nature of the change and that the forms will be updated within the same implementation timeframe as the rule change. Changes to CMS systems may present delays given time to develop, test and implement. Costs should be within the cost for	The committee notes the commenter's support for the proposal if modified and appreciates the feedback regarding impact to court operations. The committee appreciates this information, and acknowledges the commenter's concern regarding the time for implementation.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committee Response
			maintenance and changes due to change in law and under the purview of the vendor.
			There will be cost impacts to the county indigent defense fund as appointments increase with this proposed change. Current contracts likely do not address this additional appointment which may lead to delayed implementation and appointment/payment challenges. Communications to Justice Partners will be vital.	The committee notes this feedback and appreciates the commenter's raising these points.
			Request for Specific Comments: 1. Does the proposal appropriately address the stated purpose?	The committee thanks the commenter for responding to the request for specific comments.
			• Yes	No further response required.
			2. Should subdivision (a)(2) of the rule be amended to authorize the appellate division, in its discretion, to appoint counsel for any other indigent defendant accused of a misdemeanor?
			• Including the term "accused" may be an expansion of the rule beyond the intent of Gardner v. Appellate Division of Superior Court. It is difficult to see how the appellate division will be hearing a matter that does not follow a conviction or responding to an appeal from the prosecution following a suppression motion or a motion to dismiss. This idea may have flowed from language in Gardner that	The committee agrees that the situation warranting a discretionary appointment of appellate counsel for a defendant charged with a misdemeanor would be relatively rare. However, defendants may appeal under both Penal Code section 1510 and 1538.5(j). The committee concluded that amending the rule to provide the appellate division with discretion to appoint counsel if warranted is consistent with Gardner

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committee Response
			identified a right to counsel during pre-indictment lineups, citing Bustamante. The appellate department would not appoint counsel until there was some trial court decision to appeal. 3. Should the committee consider developing a separate rule regarding appointment of counsel in writ proceedings in the appellate division?	and could improve access to justice if the situation did arise.
			• Yes. Suggest amending Rule 8.931 and the APP-151 form to include a right to counsel in misdemeanor writ proceedings.	The committee appreciates this feedback and specific suggestion for a future proposal.
			4. Would the proposal provide a cost savings? If so, please quantify.
			• No. However, there may be a time-saving advantage to the court to have attorneys, rather than self-represented litigants, file and process the misdemeanor appeals. The clerks often spend a great deal of time working with self-represented litigants when processing appeals, and documents are routinely returned multiple times due to errors.	The committee appreciates this feedback.
			5. What would the implementation requirements be for courts - for example, training staff, revising processes and procedures, changing docket codes in case management systems, or modifying case management systems?

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committee Response
			• Training on forms changes and minute order entries would likely be minimal in time and cost and would likely be part of meetings or updates incorporating other law or procedural changes. Cost would be negligible. The change may or may not include a required change to the CMS system, but costs would likely be covered by ongoing maintenance by vendor which includes revisions required due to change in law. 6. Would three months for Judicial Council approval of this proposal until its effective date provide sufficient time for implementation? • Changes to CMS systems routinely take time to develop, test and implement. Six months would be a necessary minimum although courts with manual processes could begin within the three-month time period. An effective date of January 1, 2021 should provide sufficient time for implementation. 7. How well would this proposal work in courts of different sizes? • Resultant procedures will vary depending on automation maturity of each court and there will be a larger impact on public defenders in larger courts which may increase delays in case flow. Other Comments:	The committee thanks the commenter for this information on implementation requirements for courts. The committee notes the commenter's recommendation that the amended rule and revised forms take effect on January 1, 2021 rather than September 1, 2020. However, it is important that they take effect as soon as possible. The current version of the rule is incorrect and the forms are incomplete. The committee appreciates this insight.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committee Response
			In looking at the language proposed in rule 8.551(1) (B), consider using the language in the proposed CR-133 form: The appeal is before a final judgment, and the defendant is likely to suffer significant harm if the defendant loses the appeal. Also, it would seem consistent that an appeal of a pre-conviction ruling would also be limited by the same penalty provision in 8.551(a)(1)(A), i.e., when the conviction would subject the defendant to incarceration, fine of more than $500, or likely result in significant collateral consequences. This language would cover all of the situations raised in Gardner and would also cover pre-final judgment writ proceedings. The judgment is final when the time to appeal any proceeding within the case has lapsed, or when all appellate remedies have been exhausted. This would also apply to retroactivity issues when new statutes are enacted, and conviction is not final (i.e., suspended sentence). (See, for example, People v. McKenzie (2018) 25 Cal.App.5th 1207.) Right to self-representation. There is a suggestion on the bottom of page two that item 4 of the CR-131 INFO form be modified to clarify that a defendant does not have a right of self-representation and to add language advising a defendant whose request	The committee appreciates this suggestion. In drafting the amendments for rule 8.851(a)(1), the committee sought to maintain the current structure of the rule and to use language that closely tracks Gardner. Since Gardner did not limit the appointment of counsel for a pre-conviction defendant to the same penalty provisions that apply for a defendant who has been convicted of a misdemeanor, the committee did not include that language. The committee will consider developing a rule for appointment of counsel in misdemeanor writ proceedings. The point about retroactivity issues and a judgment that is not final is an interesting one. The committee has removed reference to final judgment from the forms and would welcome further input if there are any ambiguities in the language.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committee Response
			for self-representation was denied of the need to either hire an attorney or request that an attorney be appointed. This raises two questions: 1. Should Rule 8.851(a) (1) be amended to provide that an attorney will be appointed, rather than include the language "on application"? If there is no right to self-representation for an appeal, then why is an application necessary? 2. Does the limitation on the right to self-representation apply to all types of appeal, including the appeal at issue in Gardner that was an appeal that occurred prior to a conviction? The California Supreme Court, In Re Barnett (2003) 31 Cal.4th 466, a capital case, held that a criminal defendant's rights regarding legal representation are more limited on appeal than at trial. This is because the Sixth Amendment does not include a right to appeal. California has conferred a right to appeal in a criminal case. The court held that "Notably, however, there is no right—constitutional, statutory, or otherwise—to self-representation in a criminal appeal in California." As the United States Supreme Court recently explained [Martinez v. Court of Appeal (2000) 528 US 152] , the sole constitutional right to self-representation derives	An application is required in order for the court to determine whether the defendant is requesting appointed counsel and entitled to appointed counsel. The committee's understanding of the case law is that a misdemeanor defendant has no right of self-representation on appeal, including a pre-conviction appeal.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committee Response
			from the Sixth Amendment, which pertains strictly to the basic rights that an accused enjoys in defending against a criminal prosecution and does not extend beyond the point of conviction. Emphasizing that the change in one's position from "defendant" to "appellant" is a significant one, the high court found that the balance between a criminal defendant's interest in acting as his or her own lawyer and a state's interest in ensuring the fair and efficient administration of justice "surely tips in favor of the [s]tate" once the defendant is no longer presumed innocent but found guilty beyond a reasonable doubt. Consequently, the court concluded, states may exercise broad discretion when considering what representation to allow and may require an indigent inmate "to accept against his will a state-appointed attorney" for representation on a direct appeal without violating the federal Constitution. (emphasis added.) People v Johnson (2012) 53 Cal.4th 519 held "California law is subject to the United States Constitution, including the Sixth Amendment right to self-representation as established in Faretta. Thus, a criminal defendant's right of self-representation in California is rooted in the federal constitution only, and a court in California may deny self-representation to the extent permitted by Faretta and its progeny. (Johnson, at p. 528.)

W20-01

Appellate Procedure: Appointment of Counsel in Misdemeanor Appeals (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rule 8.851; revise forms CR-131-INFO and CR-133)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committee Response
			Opposing an appeal from the People following a successful suppression motion occurs prior to conviction (the person remains a defendant and not an appellant) and appears to fall within the scope of "defending against a criminal prosecution." If a self-represented litigant can argue a suppression motion, then it is not clear why they would not have the right to represent themselves in an appeal from a ruling on that motion by the People.	The committee appreciates the commenter's observations. No further response required.
4.	Office of the Marin County Public Defender by Jose H. Varela Public Defender	A	At the Marin County Office of the Public Defender we do not have a writs and appeals attorney as do other larger counties. This proposal ensures that our misdemeanor clients, the vast majority of our clients, have equal access to appellate review. The changes are doable and clear.	The committee notes the commenter's agreement with the proposal and appreciates the feedback.
5.	Orange County Bar Association by Scott B. Garner, President Newport Beach, California	A	Does the proposal appropriately address the stated purpose? Yes. Should subdivision (a)(2) of the rule be amended to authorize the appellate division, in its discretion, to appoint counsel for any other indigent defendant accused of a misdemeanor? Yes. Currently subdivision (a)(2) permits the discretionary appointment of counsel when a defendant has been convicted of a crime that	The committee notes the commenter's agreement with the proposal and thanks the commenter for responding to specific questions. The committee agrees with the commenter that this subdivision should be amended, but to clarify, the amendment would add the category of does not meet the criteria delineated in subdivision (a)(1). Historically, this has meant individuals who were convicted of misdemeanors not punishable by incarceration or a fine of more than $500 or were not likely to suffer adverse collateral consequences, such as violations of Health and Safety Code section 11357(b) [possession of less than an ounce of marijuana], prior to the statute being amended by Proposition 64. Amending the subdivision by replacing "convicted" with "accused of" will presumably only impact self-represented defendants who find themselves as real party in interest when opposing counsel seeks review of pre-trial orders (primarily orders related to discovery) in the appellate division by way of extraordinary writ petitions. Gardner explains that appointment of counsel to assist in the appellate phase of a misdemeanor criminal case is required because appellate "rules are forbidding for any layperson, but all the more so for criminal defendants who come to court with a wide range of educational backgrounds and linguistic and other abilities." (Id. at p. 1006.) The same could be said of extraordinary writs. Should the committee consider developing a separate rule regarding appointment of counsel in writ proceedings in the appellate division? Yes, assuming the subdivision (a)(2) is changed as contemplated above. If that change	defendants accused of/charged with a misdemeanor to those for whom the appellate division is authorized to appoint counsel, i.e., defendants convicted of a misdemeanor, rather than replace "convicted of" with "accused of." The committee notes the commenter's support for a rule regarding appointment of counsel in misdemeanor writ proceedings.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committee Response

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committee Response
			does not occur, there would be no authority for the appellate division appointing counsel, absent a determination that a writ is a critical stage of the proceedings.
6.	Orange County Superior Court Civil and Appellate Division Management and Analyst Team	NI	Does the proposal appropriately address the stated purpose? Yes, the proposal addresses the stated purpose. Should subdivision (a)(2) of the rule be amended to authorize the appellate division, in its discretion, to appoint counsel for any other indigent defendant accused of a misdemeanor? Yes, subdivision (a)(2) should be amended to read "convicted or accused of a misdemeanor". Ensuring the appellate division has broad discretion to appoint is in the spirit of the purpose of the proposed revisions. Should the committee consider developing a separate rule regarding appointment of counsel in writ proceedings in the appellate division? Likewise, since the purpose of this revision is to remove any constraints on the appellate division's authority and discretion to appoint, management agrees that proposing a separate rule regarding appointment of counsel in writ proceedings in the appellate division would be appropriate.	The committee thanks the commenter for responding to specific questions presented. No further response required. The committee agrees with the commenter, and has amended this subdivision of the rule, modifying "accused of" to "charged with." The committee notes the commenter's support for a rule regarding appointment of counsel in misdemeanor writ proceedings.

W20-01

Appellate Procedure: Appointment of Counsel in Misdemeanor Appeals (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rule 8.851; revise forms CR-131-INFO and CR-133)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committee Response
			Would the proposal provide cost savings? If so, please quantify? Costs would increase commensurate with the increased number of appointments and appellate division hearings. However, this might be offset by a reduced number of criminal proceedings in the superior court. What would the implementation requirements be for courts—for example, training staff (please identify position and expected hours of training), revising processes and procedures (please describe), changing docket codes in case management systems, or modifying case management systems? For implementation, court operations would need to update procedures to include the revisions to form CR-133. Information would need to be provided to the Judicial Officers. Courtroom clerks and case processing staff would need training. Training materials would need to be updated and/or created. The approximate level of effort is estimated at 16 hours FTE by a Program Coordinator Specialist over approximately one month to revise procedures, approve through workflow, train staff and implement.	The committee appreciates this feedback. The committee thanks the commenter for this input regarding specific implementation requirements.
7.	San Diego County Bar Association Appellate Practice Section by Helen Irza, Chair	AM	The Appellate Practice Section of the San Diego County Bar Association shared with its membership the proposed changes to the California Rules of Court contained in	The committee notes the commenter's support for the proposal if modified.

 Positions: A = Agree; AM = Agree if modified; N = Do not agree; NI = Not indicated

W20-01

Appellate Procedure: Appointment of Counsel in Misdemeanor Appeals (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rule 8.851; revise forms CR-131-INFO and CR-133)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committee Response
			Invitation to Comment W20-01. After canvassing its membership and forming a subcommittee to discuss them, our section has the following comments about the proposal: General Comments The Invitation to Comment requested comments on these general topics. 1. Does the proposal appropriately address the stated purpose? The Executive Summary of the Invitation to Comment states the purpose of the proposed rule change and form change is to implement the California Supreme Court's decision in Gardner v. Appellate Division of Superior Court (2019) 6 Cal.5th 998 by expanding the circumstances under which the superior court appellate division in misdemeanor appeals must appoint counsel for an indigent defendant. Our section agrees that the proposal as a whole appropriately gives flexibility for the appellate division to appoint counsel for indigent defendants in misdemeanor appeals at critical stages of a criminal proceeding other than a People's pretrial appeal of the grant of a motion to suppress evidence. Regarding the specific changes that are proposed for the forms, we suggest adding language to the information sheet on form CR-	The committee notes this feedback. The committee appreciates the suggestion that the information sheet provide more assistance and specific examples of significant adverse

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committee Response
			131-INFO in section 5 ("How do I get a lawyer") to provide more directed guidance to the defense about potential adverse collateral consequences. Questions 3-f and 4 of CR-133 ask defendants to describe any significant harm they are likely to suffer because of the conviction or if they lose the appeal. Presumably, these questions relate to rule 8.851(a)(1)(A)'s language directing that defendants be appointed counsel if they are "likely to suffer significant adverse collateral consequences as a result of the conviction." Based on experience, our members believe that absent a concrete list of specific examples of potential adverse collateral consequences, defendants will not tailor their responses in questions 3-f and 4 of CR-133 appropriately and will give generic or unhelpful responses that the vast majority of criminal defendants would otherwise state (e.g., if they are not appointed counsel they may lose on appeal and the risk of conviction increases). The information sheet gives examples in section 7 ("Can I appeal any decision that the trial court made?") of what types of rulings can be appealed. The Appellate Practice Section suggests section 5 of CR-131-INFO provide a nonexhaustive list of examples of adverse collateral consequences that may follow a conviction that would correspond to the significant harm that is referenced in questions 3-f and 4 of CR-133. For example, such harm could include, but not be limited to, immigration consequences, professional or vocational	collateral consequences to assist the defense in answering questions on the request for counsel form. The committee agrees and has revised language on both forms.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committee Response
			licensing consequences, or student loan eligibility. 2. Should subdivision (a)(2) of the rule be amended to authorize the appellate division, in its discretion, to appoint counsel for any other indigent defendant accused of a misdemeanor No comment. 3. Should the committee consider developing a separate rule regarding appointment of counsel in writ proceedings in the appellate division Our section supports developing a separate rule to address the appointment of counsel in writ proceedings in the appellate division. In general, the rules distinguish between direct appeals and writ proceedings. (Compare Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.252, 8.366 with rules 8.368, 8.384.) Without a rule addressing appointment of counsel in misdemeanor writ proceedings, defendants in such proceedings may be confused as to whether they can or should rely on the rules that relate to appointment of counsel in appeals. Clarity would be helpful.	No response required. The committee appreciates the feedback on this question and will consider developing a rule for appointment of counsel in writ proceedings in a future rules cycle.
8.	Superior Court of San Diego County by Mike Roddy Executive Officer	A	No specific comments provided.	The committee notes the commenter's support for the proposal and appreciates the response.

Item number: 02

RUPRO ACTION REQUEST FORM

RUPRO action requested: Recommend JC approval (has circulated for comment)

RUPRO Meeting: April 9, 2020

Title of proposal (include amend/revise/adopt/approve + form/rule numbers):
Appellate Procedure: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings

Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401; approve form JV 291-INFO; revise forms JV 285, JV 290, JV 295, JV 321, JV 325, JV 569, JV 570, JV 571, JV 572, JV 573, JV 574, JV 800, JV 820, and JV 822

Committee or other entity submitting the proposal:
Appellate Advisory Committee and Family and Juvenile Law Advisory Committee

Staff contact (name, phone and e-mail): Christy Simons, 415-865-7694, christy.simons@jud.ca.gov and Daniel Richardson, 415-865-7619, daniel.richardson@jud.ca.gov

Identify project(s) on the committee's annual agenda that is the basis for this item:
Approved by RUPRO: 10/28/2019

Project description from annual agenda: Implement legislation (AB 1617 (Bloom) Juvenile case files: inspection (Ch. 992, Statutes of 2018)) that allows certain parties involved in appeals of juvenile court orders, who previously had been granted access to the juvenile court case file under a court order, to access the case file for proceedings in the appellate courts. Requires the Judicial Council to adopt rules to implement this provision.

If requesting July 1 or out of cycle, explain:
Winter cycle proposal; second circulation

Additional Information: (To facilitate RUPRO's review of your proposal, please include any relevant information not contained in the attached summary.)

JUDICIAL COUNCIL OF CALIFORNIA

455 Golden Gate Avenue · San Francisco, California 94102-3688

www.courts.ca.gov

REPORT TO THE JUDICIAL COUNCIL

Item No.:

For business meeting on: September 25, 2020

Title

Appellate Procedure: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings

Rules, Forms, Standards, or Statutes Affected

Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV-325, JV-569, JV-570, JV-571, JV-572, JV-573, JV-574, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822

Recommended by

Appellate Advisory Committee
Hon. Louis R. Mauro, Chair
Family and Juvenile Law Advisory Committee
Hon. Jerilyn L. Borack, Chair
Hon. Mark A. Juhas, Chair

Agenda Item Type

Action Required

Effective Date

September 1, 2020

Date of Report

April 2, 2020

Contact

Christy Simons, 415-865-7694
christy.simons@jud.ca.gov
Daniel Richardson, 415-865-7619 daniel.richardson@jud.ca.gov

Executive Summary

Recent Judicial Council–sponsored legislation amended the statute governing access to records in a juvenile case. The statutory amendment provides that individuals who petitioned for, and by order of the juvenile court were granted access to, the juvenile case file are entitled to access those same records for purposes of appellate court proceedings in which they are parties. To implement that legislation, the Appellate Advisory Committee and the Family and Juvenile Law Advisory Committee now recommend amending the rules regarding confidentiality in juvenile court and appellate court proceedings, approving a new information sheet, and revising a number of forms used in juvenile dependency matters and subsequent appellate proceedings.

Recommendation

The Appellate Advisory Committee and the Family and Juvenile Law Advisory Committee recommend that the Judicial Council, effective September 1, 2020:

1. Amend rule 5.552 of the California Rules of Court to replace the terms "disclosure" and "disclosed" with "access to" and "released," to more accurately describe the juvenile court's action as permitting access to records in the juvenile case file rather than permitting disclosure;

2. Amend rule 8.401 of the California Rules of Court to add new subdivision (b)(2) to implement the new statutory provision, add a new advisory committee comment for the new subdivision, add definitions to clarify terms, and make other changes to clarify the application of each paragraph;

3. Approve Information on Requesting Access to Records for Persons With a Limited Right to Appeal (form JV-291-INFO);

4. Revise the following forms to add a notice to potential parties in appellate proceedings who are not entitled to access records in the juvenile case file absent court order:

    a. Relative Information (form JV-285);
    b. Caregiver Information Form (form JV-290);
    c. De Facto Parent Request (form JV-295);
    d. Request for Prospective Adoptive Parent Designation (form JV-321); and
    e. Objection to Removal (form JV-325);

5. Revise Proof of Service—Request for Disclosure (form JV-569) to rename it Proof of Service—Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File, update the language, and add new item 3 for the filer to explain any failure to serve required public entities;

6. Revise Request for Disclosure of Juvenile Case File (form JV-570) to rename it Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File, update the language, and make other clarifying changes;

7. Revise Notice of Request for Disclosure of Juvenile Case File (form JV-571) to rename it Notice of Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File and update the language;

8. Revise Objection to Release of Juvenile Case File (form JV-572) to update the language;

9. Revise Order on Request for Disclosure of Juvenile Case File (form JV-573) to rename it Order on Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File, update the language, add check boxes and space in item 1 for the judicial officer to state the reason for denying the petition, and add new item 6 to provide space for other orders;

10. Revise Order After Judicial Review (form JV-574) to rename it Order After Judicial Review on Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File, update the language, and add check boxes for the judicial officer to indicate the reason for denying the petition and information regarding redaction and dissemination of records;

11. Revise Notice of Appeal—Juvenile (form JV-800) to add a notice to potential parties in appellate proceedings who are not entitled to access records in the juvenile case file absent court order, to add an item allowing the litigant who has been granted access to records to indicate this and attach a copy of the order, and to add to the list of appealable orders in item 7 an order under Welfare and Institutions Code section 305.5 denying transfer to the tribal court and an order under section 388;

12. Revise Notice of Intent to File Writ Petition and Request for Record to Review Order Setting a Hearing Under Welfare and Institutions Code Section 366.26 (form JV-820) to add a notice to potential parties in appellate proceedings who are not entitled to access records in the juvenile case file absent court order and to add an item allowing the litigant who has been granted access to indicate this and attach a copy of the order; and

13. Revise Notice of Intent to File Writ Petition and Request for Record to Review Order Designating or Denying Specific Placement of a Dependent Child After Termination of Parental Rights (form JV-822) to add a notice to potential parties in appellate proceedings who are not entitled to access records in the juvenile case file absent court order, add an item allowing the litigant who has been granted access to indicate this and attach a copy of the order, and clarify that this form may be signed by the attorney of record.

The text of the amended rules and the new and revised forms are attached at pages 13–41.

Relevant Previous Council Action

In 2017 the Appellate Advisory Committee, after consultation with the Family and Juvenile Law Advisory Committee, recommended that the Judicial Council sponsor legislation to amend the statute that specifies who may access and copy records in a juvenile case file. The amendment would clarify that persons who are entitled to seek review of certain orders in juvenile proceedings or who are respondents in such appellate proceedings may, for purposes of those appellate proceedings, access and copy those records to which they were previously given access by order of the juvenile court.

This legislation, Assembly Bill 1617, added new subdivision (a)(6) to Welfare and Institutions Code section 827[1] (section 827) and took effect on January 1, 2019. New subdivision (a)(6) authorizes a person who is not entitled to access the juvenile case file under section 827(a)(1)(A)–(P) to access records in the case file for purposes of the appeal or writ if the person has previously petitioned for, and been granted access to, those records under section

[1] All further unspecified statutory references are to the Welfare and Institutions Code, and all rule references are to the California Rules of Court. The full text of this statute is available at http://leginfo.legislature.ca.gov/faces/codes_displaySection.xhtml?sectionNum=827.&lawCode=WIC.

827(a)(1)(Q) by the juvenile court. New subdivision (a)(6) also requires the Judicial Council to adopt rules to implement the paragraph.

Rules 5.552 and 8.401 have been amended over the years, but the council has not taken action relevant to the recommendations contained herein. Similarly, the forms have been revised periodically, but none of those prior revisions has bearing on this proposal.

Analysis/Rationale

This proposal is intended to help parties to appellate court proceedings, particularly those who are self-represented, recognize as early as possible whether they need to file a petition for access to records, better understand the procedure, and better navigate the process. The new and revised forms are also intended to assist judicial officers, who must review the petitions and make decisions regarding access to records in the juvenile case file, and court staff, who must prepare and send the record.

Background

The confidentiality of juvenile case files is established by section 827. This confidentiality is intended to protect the privacy rights of the child who is the subject of the juvenile court proceedings. Section 827(a)(1) identifies those who may inspect and receive copies of a juvenile court case file, including the child who is the subject of the proceeding, the child's parent or guardian, the attorneys for the parties, the petitioning agency in a dependency action, or the district attorney, city attorney, or city prosecutor authorized to prosecute criminal or juvenile cases under state law.

Ordinarily, to help resolve these matters as quickly as possible, when an appeal or petition is filed challenging a judgment or order in a juvenile proceeding, the record for that appellate proceeding is prepared and sent to the Court of Appeal and the parties very quickly. The items that must be included in the record on appeal or for certain writ proceedings are listed in rules 8.407, 8.450, and 8.454. The trial court is required to begin preparing the record in these proceedings upon filing of the notice of appeal or notice of intent to file a writ petition.

However, some individuals who are authorized to participate in juvenile proceedings and have the right to seek review of certain orders in those proceedings or who have a right to respond to an appeal or petition seeking such review are not entitled under section 827, absent court order, to access (inspect or copy) any records in a juvenile case file. This situation occurs, for example, when the appellant is a family member or other person who files a petition seeking de facto parent status and is appealing the denial of that petition or who files a petition under section 388 to change, modify, or set aside a juvenile court order on grounds of change of circumstance or new evidence and is appealing the denial of that petition. In those cases, before the recent legislation, the juvenile courts and Court of Appeal followed various procedures to decide, on a case-by-case basis, what records such litigants could receive. Doing so took time and resources of the juvenile court, the Court of Appeal, and the persons seeking access to records for such proceedings. It also resulted in delays and, particularly when the appellant or petitioner was self-represented and failed to obtain the necessary records, procedural dismissals of these appeals without consideration of their merit.

Prior circulation

This proposal circulated previously in spring 2019. At that time, the committees proposed extensive amendments to several rules relating to juvenile appeals and writs to include provisions relating to persons required to petition for access to records in the juvenile case file and the limited record to be prepared and provided to these persons. The proposal included a new information sheet and a notice on certain forms regarding the process to seek authorization from the juvenile court to access records in the juvenile case file.

The committees received a number of public comments raising various concerns with the prior proposal, including, among others, due process issues and perceived gaps in the proposed rules that would require more rules. The committees concluded that, in attempting to provide detailed procedures and information for litigants and courts and to account for various situations that could arise, the proposal's scope and complexity expanded beyond what was necessary to implement the legislation, which was narrow in scope and aimed at a situation that arises relatively infrequently. Accordingly, the committees determined that the best way to move forward would be a more focused rules proposal to add the juvenile court petition process to the appellate rule on access to records in a juvenile case.

Rule amendments

The committees recommend amending both the appellate and juvenile rules on confidentiality of records. The proposed rule amendments appropriately track the provisions of section 827.

Rule 5.552

To be consistent with the language of section 827, the committees recommend amending the rule on confidentiality of records in the juvenile court to replace the terms "disclosure" and "disclosed" with "access to" and "released," respectively. The committees also recommend making these changes to the names of several forms that are referenced in the rule and are part of this proposal (see below). These changes would more accurately describe the juvenile court's action in granting a petition as permitting access to records in the juvenile case file rather than permitting disclosure, which could suggest that the petitioner may disclose the information.

Rule 8.401

Rule 8.401 is the appellate rule on confidentiality in juvenile proceedings; subdivision (b) addresses access to documents and records. The committees recommend adding a new paragraph regarding access to records in the juvenile case file under section 827 stating that individuals who were granted access to records by order of the juvenile court may access the same records for purposes of an appeal or writ proceeding. A new advisory committee comment would describe the petition process under section 827 and refer to rule 5.552 and the mandatory form a petitioner must use.

Other amendments to this rule would add definitions to clarify terms. Existing rule 8.401(b) refers to "filed documents," "documents filed by the parties," "the record on appeal," and "records" in presenting various rules regarding access to documents and records, and proposed new subdivision (b)(2) would add the term "records in the juvenile case file." To eliminate confusion and draw clear distinctions, the committees recommend defining "filed document," "record on appeal," "record on a writ proceeding," and "records in the juvenile case file."

New and revised forms

Whereas the rules component of this revised proposal is narrower than what was originally circulated, the forms portion now includes several additional forms. The committees recommend a new information sheet for individuals who must use the petition process to access records in the juvenile case file and adding a notice regarding the petition process to certain forms. Other revisions to forms are intended to raise awareness of the possible need to petition for access to records and to assist the juvenile court and litigants in that process. In addition, several changes are intended to update or clarify content on the forms.

Proposed information sheet

Information on Requesting Access to Records for Persons With a Limited Right to Appeal (form JV-291-INFO) provides information for individuals with a limited right to seek review of a juvenile court order, such as relatives and de facto parents. This includes information about requesting access to the juvenile case file through a petition under section 827(a)(1)(Q). The form emphasizes that these individuals have a right to appeal or file a writ petition only in limited circumstances. This form is substantially similar to the version included in the earlier proposal, but renamed and with other minor clarifying changes.

Notice on JV forms

Potential parties in appellate proceedings who are not entitled to access records in the juvenile case file absent a court order may be unaware of the requirement to petition for such access, and thus may not file such a petition until after the appellate proceeding has begun. This situation can cause delays and difficulties for litigants and the courts—problems the legislation was intended to solve. The committees recommend adding a short notice to forms typically used by these litigants in dependency and juvenile justice cases. The notice reads as follows:

> If you are not the child, child's parent, or child's legal guardian, you may have a right to challenge a decision by the juvenile court, but only in very limited circumstances. You may need a court order granting you access to records in the juvenile case file. For more information, please see Information on Requesting Access to Records for Persons With a Limited Right to Appeal (form JV-291-INFO). You can get form JV-291-INFO at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.

The committees recommend adding this notice to the following forms:

- Relative Information (form JV-285)
- Caregiver Information Form (form JV-290)
- De Facto Parent Request (form JV-295)
- Request for Prospective Adoptive Parent Designation (form JV-321)
- Objection to Removal (form JV-325)
- Notice of Appeal—Juvenile (form JV-800)
- Notice of Intent to File Writ Petition and Request for Record to Review Order Setting a Hearing Under Welfare and Institutions Code Section 366.26 (form JV-820)
- Notice of Intent to File Writ Petition and Request for Record to Review Order Designating or Denying Specific Placement of a Dependent Child After Termination of Parental Rights (form JV-822)

Revisions to notice of appeal and notice of intent to file writ petition forms

In addition to adding the notice described above, the committees recommend adding an item to these forms so that the litigant who has been granted access to records by order of the juvenile court may indicate this and attach a copy of the order, if it is available. This item will provide notice to the juvenile court clerk who prepares the appellate court record that the litigant's access to records is specified in the juvenile court's order.

The committees recommend adding this item to the following forms:

- Notice of Appeal—Juvenile (form JV-800)
- Notice of Intent to File Writ Petition and Request for Record to Review Order Setting a Hearing Under Welfare and Institutions Code Section 366.26 (form JV-820)
- Notice of Intent to File Writ Petition and Request for Record to Review Order Designating or Denying Specific Placement of a Dependent Child After Termination of Parental Rights (form JV-822)

Revisions to mandatory forms for the section 827 petition process

The Judicial Council adopted mandatory forms for use by litigants and the juvenile courts in the section 827 petition process. The committees recommend updating the names of these forms and language within the forms to refer to "access" and "petition for access" rather than "disclosure" and "request for disclosure."

The committees propose making these revisions to the following forms:

- Proof of Service—Request for Disclosure (form JV-569), renamed Proof of Service—Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File
- Request for Disclosure of Juvenile Case File (form JV-570), renamed Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File
- Notice of Request for Disclosure of Juvenile Case File (form JV-571), renamed Notice of Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File

- Objection to Release of Juvenile Case File (form JV-572)
- Order on Request for Disclosure of Juvenile Case File (form JV-573), renamed Order on Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File
- Order After Judicial Review (form JV-574), renamed Order After Judicial Review on Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File

Other revisions to forms

The committees recommend additional changes to the forms as described below.

Form JV-569 is the mandatory form for filing proof of service of the petition under section 827(a)(1)(Q). Under rule 5.552, the petitioner is required to serve notice of the petition on certain individuals and entities, but if the petitioner does not know the names and addresses and is unable to effect service for that reason, the clerk must do it. The committees recommend adding a new item 3 for litigants to indicate that they were unable to serve county counsel and the child welfare agency (if the petition is filed under section 300), or the district attorney and the probation department (if the petition is filed under section 601 or 602). The new item requires the litigant to describe the efforts to locate the addresses and to provide an explanation for not being able to locate the addresses. This is intended to reduce the number of instances in which the burden of serving notice on public entities is unnecessarily transferred to the court.

Form JV-570 is the mandatory form used to petition for access to the juvenile case file. It requires the petitioner to describe in detail the records that are sought and why the records are needed. The committees recommend expanding the instructions for item 5, which requires the petitioner to describe the records being sought, and revising item 6 to add the option that records are sought for a juvenile court proceeding or an appellate court proceeding and provide space for the petitioner to list the relevant hearing dates.

Form JV-573 is the mandatory form for the juvenile court to make its ruling on the petition. The revisions would add check boxes and space in item 1 for the judicial officer to indicate the reason for denying the petition, and add new item 6 to provide space for other orders.

Form JV-574 is the mandatory form for the juvenile court to issue orders after judicial review of the juvenile case file. The committees recommend adding check boxes and space in item 2 for the judicial officer to indicate the reason or reasons for denying the petition, adding a check box to items 3a and 4c to indicate that records released to the petitioner must be redacted, and adding a check box and space to item 6 to permit the petitioner to disseminate records to a specified person and to indicate that those records must be redacted or are subject to a protective order.

Form JV-800, the notice of appeal form, would be revised to add check boxes to item 7, which lists appealable orders under different sections of the Welfare and Institutions Code, to include an order under section 305.5 denying transfer to a tribal court and an order under section 388 (request to change a court order).

Form JV-820, the notice of intent to file a writ petition challenging the setting of a hearing under section 366.26, would be revised to add language to the box on page 2 titled "What Will Happen at the Hearing to Make a Permanent Plan?" to include the court's option of ordering another planned permanent living arrangement for a child who is 16 years old or older at the section 366.26 hearing.

Form JV-822, the notice of intent to file a writ petition challenging the court's placement order, would be revised to add language to the box on page 2 titled "Who Must Sign the Notice of Intent?" to clarify that the notice of intent may be signed by the attorney of record.

Policy implications

The committees have identified no policy implications.

Comments

This proposal was circulated for public comment from December 13, 2019, to February 11, 2020, as part of the regular winter comment cycle. Eleven organizations submitted comments on this proposal. Three commenters agreed with the proposal. Five organizations, including the Joint Rules Subcommittee of the Trial Court Presiding Judges Advisory Committee and the Court Executives Advisory Committee, agreed if the proposal if it is modified. Three others submitted comments but did not state a position. A chart with the full text of all comments received and the committee's responses is attached at pages 42–96.

Petition process

Three commenters, Advokids, Appellate Defenders, and California Appellate Project–Los Angeles (CAP-LA), submitted extensive comments regarding the petition process: that it is difficult and frustrating, causes long delays, and results in an inadequate record on appeal. The committees understand the difficulties and attempted to address them more fully in the earlier proposal. However, as described above, those proposed rule amendments raised extensive issues and concerns, created additional gaps in procedures, and far exceeded the legislative mandate to implement the new statutory provision.

Advokids comments that limiting access to the record in appellate matters without also amending the rules regarding juvenile appeals and writs will create confusion and delay. To address this issue and to streamline the process, Advokids proposes revising several forms used in the juvenile court to add an item that requests an order granting access to records in the juvenile case file pursuant to section 827(a)(1)(Q). The committees note that the limitation on access to records in the juvenile case file is mandated by statute and has not changed as a result of this proposal. The committees will retain this suggestion for consideration in the future.

To ease the delay problems, Appellate Defenders contends that third party litigants (family members, former caretakers) who have been present at juvenile court hearings have been implicitly granted access to the records used at those hearings, meaning they should not have to file a petition. This commenter also suggests that a full copy of the record should be provided for appellate counsel for the third party, with the caveat that counsel cannot share it with the client.

However, absent case law or statute supporting these interpretations, the committees reject these interpretations as inconsistent with section 827. To address the problem of an inadequate record, Appellate Defenders suggest including on form JV-570 additional specific types of records to assist third party litigants with requesting what they will need. The committees declined to add this content to the form, reasoning that the additions would likely result in voluminous requests and that the instructions on the form are sufficient.

CAP-LA suggests shifting the burden of designating the record and serving the JV-570 petition from the third party appellant to the juvenile court judicial officer who heard the dependency case, and to include a time frame for the judicial officer to return form JV-570 to the clerk. The commenter suggests that the judicial officer is better able to identify the necessary record based on the order being appealed from, and also suggests adding a mechanism for seeking completion of an inadequate record filed in the Court of Appeal, prior to briefing. These comments are beyond the scope of the proposal that circulated for public comment. The committees will retain them for consideration as part of a future proposal.

Questions presented in the ITC

The committees included four additional questions on the ITC.

On the first question regarding whether the definition of "records in the juvenile case file" in rule 8.401(b) should more closely track the definition of "juvenile case file" in rule 5.552(a) or section 827(e), the committees received four responses that came to various conclusions. The committees considered the feedback and modified the definition of "records in the juvenile case file" to include records lodged, as well as filed, in the juvenile court.

The second question asked for feedback on the new information sheet, form JV-291-INFO. Most of the commenters responded that the form is helpful and provides the necessary information. One commenter suggested formatting it along the lines of form JV-060-INFO, which uses a question-and-answer format. The committees will retain this suggestion for future consideration. Two commenters suggested including a note of caution or warning that the petition process can cause lengthy delays. The committees declined to add this note because each court is different and there are no "typical" time frames. In addition, such warning might have the unintended effect of deterring someone from filing a petition.

The third and fourth questions concerned the notice requirements of rule 5.552. Question three asked whether rule 5.552 should continue to require notice to county counsel and the parents when a petition for access to records is filed by an adult who is a former or current dependent. Question four asked whether the rule should be changed to require that a parent's attorney of record receive notice of a petition for access to records. To the third question, two commenters responded no, and one said yes. Five commenters responded to the fourth question; all said some version of yes. The committees decided that notice to parents and county counsel is important to any petition for access as their input is needed on confidentiality issues concerning records in the case file. The committees also determined that notice to parents usually includes their attorney if they have one, so notice is sufficient in this respect as well.

Suggestions for rules and forms
Several commenters submitted specific suggestions for clarifying edits and corrections to rule language and the forms. As indicated in the comment chart, a number of these suggestions were accepted; others were declined or deferred.

Alternatives Considered

The committees did not consider proposing no rule changes because the legislation requires the Judicial Council to adopt implementing rules.

As described above, the committees previously proposed more extensive rule amendments to describe procedures for appellate proceedings involving individuals whose access to records is limited. However, these extensive changes to the juvenile appellate rules would have added numerous new procedures, raised many more issues that would have to be addressed, and went well beyond what is necessary to implement the new statutory provision.

The committees considered making no changes to JV forms, but rejected this option. Because of the likelihood that individuals may be unaware of the potential need to petition for access to records in the juvenile case file, the committees chose to develop a new information sheet, include a notice on certain forms, and make other changes to improve awareness of the petition process and assist litigants and courts in navigating it.

Fiscal and Operational Impacts

The Joint Rules Subcommittee and a superior court advise that implementation requirements for the courts will include staff time and printing costs for the new information sheet, communication with judicial officers and staff, and possible revisions to procedures and updates to case management systems.

Another superior court cited training for staff who process appeals and writ petitions and clerks who process petitions for access to records under section 827. Revision of local rules, local forms, and local procedures will also be required. In addition, the court indicated that it may need to collaborate with the Court of Appeal to ensure efficiency and compliance with new rules.

A third superior court also mentioned training, including training on redaction software, and updates to its case management system. The court also noted that non-party appeals and writs require significant additional resources. Redactions to both clerks' and reporters' transcripts are necessary and costly.

Attachments and Links

1. Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401, at pages 13–15
2. Forms JV-291-INFO, JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV–325, JV-569, JV-570, JV-571, JV-572, JV-573, JV-574, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822, at pages 16–41
3. Chart of comments, at pages 42–96

4. Attachment A: Chart of comments on proposal SPR19-06 (proposal circulated for comment twice; this chart from first comment cycle provided for background)
5. Link A: Welfare and Institutions Code section 827, http://leginfo.legislature.ca.gov/faces/codes_displaySection.xhtml?sectionNum=827.&lawCode=WIC
6. Link B: Assembly Bill 1617 (Stats. 2018, ch. 992), http://leginfo.legislature.ca.gov/faces/billTextClient.xhtml?bill_id=201720180AB1617

Rules 5.552 and 8.401 of the California Rules of Court are amended, effective September 1, 2020, to read:

Rule 5.552. Confidentiality of records (§§ 827, 827.12, 828)

(a) * * *

(b) Petition

Juvenile case files may be obtained or inspected only in accordance with sections 827, 827.12, and 828. They may not be obtained or inspected by civil or criminal subpoena. With the exception of those persons permitted to inspect juvenile case files without court authorization under sections 827 and 828, and the specific requirements for accessing juvenile case files provided in section 827.12(a)(1), every person or agency seeking to inspect or obtain juvenile case files must petition the court for authorization using ~~Request for Disclosure of~~ Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File (form JV-570). A chief probation officer seeking juvenile court authorization to access and provide data from case files in the possession of the probation department under section 827.12(a)(2) must comply with the requirements ~~of~~ in ~~subdivision~~ (e) of this rule.

(1)–(2) * * *

(c) Notice of petition for ~~disclosure~~ access

(1) At least 10 days before the petition is submitted to the court, the petitioner must personally or by first-class mail serve ~~Request for Disclosure of~~ Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File (form JV-570), Notice of ~~Request for Disclosure of~~ Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File (form JV-571), and a blank copy of Objection to Release of Juvenile Case File (form JV-572) on the following:

(A)–(I) * * *

(2) The petitioner must complete Proof of Service— ~~Request for Disclosure~~ Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File (form JV-569) and file it with the court.

(3) If the petitioner or the petitioner's counsel does not know or cannot reasonably determine the identity or address of any of the parties in (c)(1) above, the clerk must:

(A) Serve personally or by first-class mail to the last known address a copy of ~~Request for Disclosure of~~ Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File

(form JV-570), Notice of ~~Request for Disclosure of~~ Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File (form JV-571), and a blank copy of Objection to Release of Juvenile Case File (form JV-572); and

(B) Complete Proof of Service—~~Request for Disclosure~~ Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File (form JV-569) and file it with the court.

(4) For good cause, the court may, on the motion of the person seeking the order or on its own motion, shorten the time for service of the petition for ~~disclosure~~ access.

(d) Procedure

(1)–(4) * * *

(5) If the court grants the petition, the court must find that the need for ~~discovery~~ access outweighs the policy considerations favoring confidentiality of juvenile case files. The confidentiality of juvenile case files is intended to protect the privacy rights of the child.

(6) The court may permit ~~disclosure of~~ access to juvenile case files only insofar as is necessary, and only if petitioner shows by a preponderance of the evidence that the records requested are necessary and have substantial relevance to the legitimate need of the petitioner.

(7) If, after in camera review and review of any objections, the court determines that all or a portion of the juvenile case file may be ~~disclosed~~ accessed, the court must make appropriate orders, specifying the information ~~to be disclosed~~ that may be accessed and the procedure for providing access to it.

(8) * * *

(e)–(f) * * *

Rule 8.401. Confidentiality

(a) * * *

(b) Access to filed documents and records

For the purposes of this rule, "filed document" means a brief, petition, motion, application, or other thing filed by the parties in the reviewing court in a proceeding under this chapter; "record on appeal" means the documents referenced in rule

8.407; "record on a writ petition" means the documents referenced in rules 8.450 and 8.454; and "records in the juvenile case file" means all or part of a document, paper, exhibit, transcript, opinion, order, or other thing filed or lodged in the juvenile court.

(1) Except as provided in (2)–~~(3)~~(4), a filed document, the record on appeal, or the record on a writ petition ~~and documents filed by the parties in proceedings under this chapter~~ may be inspected only by the reviewing court, ~~and~~ appellate project personnel, the parties, ~~or their~~ attorneys for the parties, ~~and~~ or other persons the reviewing court may designate.

(2) Access to records in the juvenile case file, including any such records made part of the record on appeal or the record on a writ petition, is governed by Welfare and Institutions Code section 827. A person who is not described in section 827(a)(1)(A)–(P) may not access records in the juvenile case file, including any such records made part of the record on appeal or the record on a writ petition, unless that person petitioned the juvenile court under section 827(a)(1)(Q) and was granted access by order of the juvenile court.

~~(2)~~(3) A filed document~~s~~ that protects anonymity as required by (a) may be inspected by any person or entity that is considering filing an amicus curiae brief.

~~(3)~~(4) Access to a filed document or ~~records~~ items in the record on appeal or the record on a writ petition that are sealed or confidential under authority other than Welfare and Institutions Code section 827 is governed by rules 8.45–8.47 and the applicable statute, rule, sealing order, or other authority.

(c) * * *

Advisory Committee Comment

Subdivision (b)(2). Welfare and Institutions Code section 827(a)(1)(Q) authorizes a petition by which a person may request access to records in the juvenile case file. The petition process is stated in rule 5.552. The Judicial Council has adopted a mandatory form—Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File (form JV-570)—that must be filed in the juvenile court to make the request. This form is available at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.

JV-285 Relative Information

Clerk stamps date here when form is filed.

DRAFT
Not approved by the Judicial Council

As the relative of a child who has been removed from the home, you may give written information to the court about the child at any time on this form or in a letter. After filling out this form, give it to the clerk of the court.

Please note that other people involved in the case, including the parents, will see your answers on this form. If you prefer to keep your contact information private, fill out Confidential Information (form JV-287) and do not write your address or telephone number below.

Social worker fills in court name and street address.

Superior Court of California, County of Social worker fills in child's name and date of birth.

Child's Name:

Date of Birth:

Social worker fills in case number.

Case Number:

1 Your name: _____

Your address: _____

_____

Your telephone number: _____

☐ Check here if contact information is confidential and form JV-287 is attached.

2 Your relation to the child: ☐ maternal ☐ paternal

☐ grandparent ☐ brother/sister ☐ aunt/uncle ☐ cousin

☐ family friend

☐ tribal extended family member

☐ other (specify): _____

3 Child's name: _____

4 ☐ I would like to talk to the judge at the next court hearing.

Please fill in as much of the following information as you know. If you need more space to respond to any section on this form, attach additional pages as needed and check the box at item 12.

5 Information about the child's medical, dental, and general physical health:

_____

_____

6 Information about the child's emotional and behavioral health:

_____

_____

7 Information about the child's education:

_____

_____

8 Other information that might be helpful to the court:

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

Child's name: _____ Case Number:

Below are some things you might do to help the child. You can pick some or none of the things listed below. It is up to the social worker and the court whether you will be asked to do these things.

9 I want to

- ☐ telephone the child.
- ☐ write letters to the child.
- ☐ take the child on outings.
- ☐ take the child to/from school.
- ☐ take the child to visits with brothers or sisters.
- ☐ take the child to therapy.
- ☐ take the child to family gatherings.
- ☐ help the social worker make a case plan for the child.
- ☐ take the child to visits with parents.
- ☐ take the child to medical appointments.
- ☐ supervise the child during visits with brothers and sisters.
- ☐ watch the child after school.
- ☐ have the child live with me.
- ☐ other (describe): _____

You can also help the parents. For example, you might help with transportation, housing, visits, or child care. It is up to the social worker and the court whether you will be asked to do these things.

10 I want to help the ☐ father ☐ mother
(Describe): _____

11 Other relatives who might be able to help the child:

a. Name: _____ Relationship to child: _____
Contact information: _____
or ☐ I want to keep the contact information confidential and ask that the child's social worker get this information from me.

b. Name: _____ Relationship to child: _____
Contact information: _____
or ☐ I want to keep the contact information confidential and ask that the child's social worker get this information from me.

c. Name: _____ Relationship to child: _____
Contact information: _____
or ☐ I want to keep the contact information confidential and ask that the child's social worker get this information from me.

12 ☐ If you need more space to respond to any section on this form, please check this box and attach additional pages.
Number of pages attached: _____

NOTICE

If you are not the child, child's parent, or child's legal guardian, you may have a right to challenge a decision by the juvenile court, but only in very limited circumstances. You may need a court order granting you access to records in the juvenile case file. For more information, please see Information on Requesting Access to Records for Persons With a Limited Right to Appeal (form JV-291-INFO). You can get form JV-291-INFO at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.

Date:

_____ ▶ _____
Type or print your name Sign your name

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA, COUNTY OF STREET ADDRESS: MAILING ADDRESS: CITY AND ZIP CODE: BRANCH NAME:	FOR COURT USE ONLY DRAFT Not approved by the Judicial Council
CHILD'S NAME: HEARING DATE AND TIME:
CAREGIVER INFORMATION FORM	CASE NUMBER:

To the current caregiver, preadoptive parent, community care facility, or foster family agency caring for the child: You may submit written information to the court, and you may attend review and permanency hearings. You may use this optional form to provide written information to the court. Please type or print clearly in ink and submit the original and eight copies of the form to the court clerk's office at least five calendar days (or seven calendar days, if filing by mail) before the hearing. Be aware that other individuals involved in the case have access to this information. See form JV-290-INFO for instructions on how to complete this form and file it with the court.

1. a. Child's name:
   b. Child's date of birth: c. Child's age:
2. Caregiver Information (Answer only if you are a caregiver, skip #3.):
   a. Name of caregiver:
   b. Type of caregiver: ☐ Foster parent ☐ Relative ☐ Legal guardian ☐ Preadoptive parent ☐ Nonrelative extended family member ☐ Other (specify):
   c. The child has been living in my home for (specify): years months.
3. Agency or Facility Information (Answer only if you are an agency or facility, skip #2.):
   a. Name of agency or facility:
   b. Address:
   c. Telephone number:
   d. Type of facility: ☐ Foster family agency ☐ Community care agency ☐ Other (specify):
   e. The child has been placed with our agency/facility for (specify): years months and in the current home for (specify): years months.
   f. Name of person completing form: Title:
   g. Hours per week the person completing this form spends with the child (specify): hours/week.
   h. The information on this form consists of
      (1) ☐ the observations and recommendations of the person filling out this form.
      (2) ☐ the observations and recommendations of a group or team made up of the following individuals (specify):
4. Current Status of Child's Medical, Dental, and General Physical and Emotional Health
   a. ☐ There is no new or additional information since the last court hearing.
   b. ☐ There is new or additional information since the last court hearing, as follows (do not include the names of doctors):
5. Current Status of Child's Education
   a. ☐ There is no new or additional information since the last court hearing.
   b. ☐ There is new or additional information since the last court hearing, as follows (do not include the names of schools):

Form Approved for Optional Use
Judicial Council of California
JV-290 [Rev. September 1, 2020]

Welfare and Institutions Code, §§ 366.21(c), (d); Cal. Rules of Court, rule 5.534(k)
www.courts.ca.gov

CHILD'S NAME:	CASE NUMBER:

6. Child's Special Education Status
   a. ☐ The child is a special education student. Date of last Individualized Education Plan (IEP):
   b. ☐ The child is not a special education student.
   c. ☐ I do not know the child's special education status.

7. Current Status of Child's Adjustment to Living Arrangement
   a. ☐ There is no new or additional information since the last court hearing.
   b. ☐ There is new or additional information since the last court hearing, as follows:

8. Current Status of Child's Social Skills and Peer Relationships
   a. ☐ There is no new or additional information since the last court hearing.
   b. ☐ There is new or additional information since the last court hearing, as follows:

9. Current Status of Child's Special Interests and Activities
   a. ☐ There is no new or additional information since the last court hearing.
   b. ☐ There is new or additional information since the last court hearing, as follows:

10. Other Helpful Information
    a. ☐ There is no new or additional information since the last court hearing.
    b. ☐ There is new or additional information since the last court hearing, as follows:

11. Recommendation for Disposition *(Outcome)
    a. ☐ I have no recommendation for disposition (outcome).
    b. ☐ I am recommending the following disposition (outcome):

12. ☐ If you need more space to respond to any section on this form, please check this box and attach additional pages.
    Number of pages attached:

NOTICE

If you are not the child, child's parent, or child's legal guardian, you may have a right to challenge a decision by the juvenile court, but only in very limited circumstances. You may need a court order granting you access to records in the juvenile case file. For more information, please see Information on Requesting Access to Records for Persons With a Limited Right to Appeal (form JV-291-INFO). You can get form JV-291-INFO at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.

Date:

(TYPE OR PRINT NAME)

▶ (SIGNATURE OF CAREGIVER OR FACILITY/AGENCY STAFF PERSON WHO HAS COMPLETED THIS FORM)

JV-291-INFO Information on Requesting Access to Records for Persons With a Limited Right to Appeal

Under very limited circumstances, a person who is not the child, parent, or legal guardian in a dependency or juvenile justice case has the right to seek review of decisions made by the juvenile court by filing an appeal or writ petition in the Court of Appeal. Such a person, however, is typically not entitled to access records from the juvenile court case file that will be considered by the Court of Appeal unless the person gets approval from the juvenile court. The purpose of this information sheet is to inform those persons who are not the child, parent, or legal guardian, and who may have the right to seek appellate review, of the requirement to file a Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File (form JV-570) to have access to certain records in the juvenile case file during an appeal or writ.

1 When would I have the right to seek review?

To have a right to seek review, you must be harmed by an order or judgment of the juvenile court. In the vast majority of cases, only the child, parent, legal guardian, county welfare department, or district attorney will have the right to file an appeal or a writ petition challenging a juvenile court ruling. However, the law also protects those individuals who have a relationship to the child in certain situations.

You might have a right to appeal or file a writ petition if, for example, you are:

- The child's relative, and the child was ordered to be removed from your home, or you requested that the child live with you and the court denied your request.
- Someone who requested de facto parent status, which was denied;
- Someone who requested a change of court order through a section 388 petition (form JV-180), which was denied; or
- A prospective adoptive parent or de facto parent challenging the juvenile court's decision to remove the child from your home.

2 If I want to file an appeal or writ petition, what additional steps must I take?

If the juvenile court has not already authorized you to access records in the juvenile case file, to have access to such records for an appeal or writ proceeding, you must request access from the juvenile court. To make this request, you must file Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File (form JV-570). Use Notice of Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File (form JV-571) to provide notice of this request. You will need to serve copies of these forms on all interested parties to the case, if you know their names and addresses, including the child, parents, social worker, and probation officer.

On the petition form, you will need to identify which specific records you are requesting. Your request for information can include any documents that you are aware of that exist in the juvenile court file. Be sure to indicate the dates of the hearings that relate to the decision you are challenging. As the basis for the petition, you may indicate the appeal or writ proceeding in the Court of Appeal. You will also need to explain why you are requesting the records. Your explanation should show how the records, including any transcripts, relate to the decision you are challenging (for example, a report or court order following a hearing on your issue). The juvenile court will make a decision on your petition by issuing an order that identifies the records you are authorized to access. The court's order is made on Order After Judicial Review on Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File (form JV-574).

When you file a notice of appeal or a notice of intent to file a writ petition, you should attach a copy of the court's order on the JV-574, if you have one. Doing so will alert the clerk that you are authorized to access records in the case file and will ensure that a record will be prepared for you.

Note: An order from the juvenile court granting you access to records in the case file is not a condition for filing an appeal or writ petition.

You may wish to consult with an attorney when considering whether to file an appeal or a writ petition and request access to records in the juvenile case file. The timelines for filing an appeal or a writ petition apply whether or not the juvenile court has granted you access to the juvenile case file. A notice of appeal usually must be filed within 60 days of the date the order being appealed was made. For writ review, a notice of intent to file a writ petition must be filed as early as 7 days after the court makes the challenged order, either orally in court or in writing, whichever occurs first. But note that the deadlines for filing a notice of appeal or a notice of intent to file a writ petition may differ, depending on the circumstances. For more information, read rules 8.406, 8.450, and 8.454 of the California Rules of Court.

JV-295 De Facto Parent Request

Clerk stamps date here when form is filed.

DRAFT
Not approved by the Judicial Council

The address of any licensed foster family home must remain confidential unless the judge or the foster parent authorizes release of the address. Court clerks should not send this page to the parties without a court order or authorization of the foster parent. (Welf. & Inst. Code, § 308(a).)

1 My/Our name(s): _____

My/Our address: _____

City: _____ State: _____ Zip: _____

My/Our phone #: _____

Fill in court name and street address:

Superior Court of California, County of

2 I am/We are asking that I/we be appointed de facto parent(s) of

(Child's name): _____

Court fills in case number when form is filed.

Case Number:

Date: _____ _____ ▶ _____

Type or print your name Signature of person requesting de facto parent status

Date: _____ _____ ▶ _____

Type or print your name Signature of person requesting de facto parent status

Date: _____ _____ ▶ _____

Type or print attorney's name Signature of attorney (if applicable)

Attorney's address: _____

City: _____ State: _____ Zip: _____

Attorney's phone #: _____

NOTICE

If you are not the child, child's parent, or child's legal guardian, you may have a right to challenge a decision by the juvenile court, but only in very limited circumstances. You may need a court order granting you access to records in the juvenile case file. For more information, please see Information on Requesting Access to Records for Persons With a Limited Right to Appeal (form JV-291-INFO). You can get form JV-291-INFO at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.

JV-321 Request for Prospective Adoptive Parent Designation

Clerk stamps date here when form is filed.

DRAFT
Not approved by the Judicial Council

After filling out this form, bring it to the clerk of the court. If you want to keep an address or telephone number confidential, do not write that information on this form. Instead, include that information in Confidential Information—Prospective Adoptive Parent (form JV-322).

Fill in court name and street address:

Superior Court of California, County of

Fill in child's name and date of birth:

Child's Name:

Date of Birth:

Fill in case number:

Case Number:

1 Information about the person or persons you want to be designated as prospective adoptive parents:

a. Name: _____
b. Name: _____
c. Street address: _____
d. City: _____ State: _____ Zip: _____
e. Telephone number: _____

2 If you are not a person in (1), fill out below.

a. Name: _____
b. I am the ☐ child ☐ child's attorney ☐ other (specify role): _____
c. Street address: _____
d. City: _____ State: _____ Zip: _____
e. Telephone number: _____

3 If you are not the child's attorney and you know who the child's attorney is, fill out below.

a. Name of child's attorney: _____
b. Street address of child's attorney: _____
c. City: _____ State: _____ Zip: _____
d. Telephone number of child's attorney: _____

4 ☐ The child is 10 years of age or older. Child's telephone number: _____
or ☐ Telephone number is confidential.

5 The child has lived with the person from (date): _____ to the present.
In order for the person in (1) to become a prospective adoptive parent, the child must be living with that person now.

6 Date of Welfare and Institutions Code section 366.26 hearing: _____
The person in (1) should not file this form with the court until a Welfare and Institutions Code section 366.26 hearing has been scheduled.

7 ☐ The person in (1) is committed to adopting the child.

Child's name: _____ Case Number:

8 The person in 1 has (check all that apply):

a. ☐ Applied for an adoptive home study.
b. ☐ In a case in which tribal customary adoption is the permanent plan, been identified by the Indian child's tribe as the prospective adoptive parent.
c. ☐ Cooperated with an adoptive home study.
d. ☐ Signed an adoptive placement agreement.
e. ☐ Requested de facto parent status.
f. ☐ Been designated by the juvenile court or the licensed adoption agency as the adoptive parent.
g. ☐ Discussed a postadoption contact agreement with the social worker, child's attorney, child's Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA) volunteer, adoption agency, or court.
h. ☐ Worked to overcome any impediments that have been identified by the California Department of Social Services or the licensed adoption agency.
i. ☐ Attended any of the classes required of a prospective adoptive parent.
j. ☐ Taken other steps toward adopting the child (explain): _____

_____
_____
_____
_____
_____
_____
_____
_____
_____
_____

If you need more space, attach a sheet of paper and write "JV-321, Item 8—Steps Toward Adoption" at the top. Number of pages attached: _____

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the information in items 1 through 8 is true and correct, which means if I lie on this form, I am committing a crime.

Date:

_____ ▶ _____
Type or print your name Sign your name

_____ ▶ _____
Type or print your name Sign your name

NOTICE

If you are not the child, child's parent, or child's legal guardian, you may have a right to challenge a decision by the juvenile court, but only in very limited circumstances. You may need a court order granting you access to records in the juvenile case file. For more information, please see Information on Requesting Access to Records for Persons With a Limited Right to Appeal (form JV-291-INFO). You can get form JV-291-INFO at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.

JV-325 Objection to Removal

Clerk stamps date here when form is filed.

DRAFT
Not approved by the Judicial Council

If you do not agree with the removal, you can request a court hearing by filling out this form. The following people can object to removal: a current caregiver, the child's attorney, the child (if 10 years of age or older), the child's identified Indian tribe or custodian, and the child's CASA program. Bring this form to the clerk of the court. If you want to keep an address or a phone number confidential, fill out Confidential Information—Prospective Adoptive Parent (form JV-322), and do not write the address or phone number on this form.

If you are a caregiver or the child and you requested the hearing, the clerk will provide notice of the hearing to you and any other participants.

If you are the child's attorney and you requested the hearing, you must provide notice of the hearing to all other participants.

Fill in court name and street address:

Superior Court of California, County of

Fill in child's name and date of birth:

Child's Name:

Date of Birth:

Fill in case number:

Case Number:

1 Information about the caregiver or caregivers:

a. Name: _____

b. Name: _____

c. Address: _____

d. Phone number: _____

2 If you (the person objecting to the removal) are not the caregiver, fill out below.

a. Name: _____

b. I am the ☐ child ☐ child's attorney ☐ child's identified Indian tribe ☐ child's identified Indian custodian ☐ child's CASA program

_____

c. Address: _____

d. Phone number: _____

3 If you are not the child's attorney and you know who the child's attorney is, fill out below.

a. Name of child's attorney: _____

b. Address of child's attorney: _____

c. Phone number of child's attorney: _____

4 ☐ The child is 10 years of age or older. Child's telephone number: _____
☐ Confidential phone number in court file

5 ☐ The child has an identified Indian tribe (specify tribe): _____
Phone number of tribe: _____

6 ☐ The child has a Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA) volunteer.
Phone number of CASA program, if known: _____

7 ☐ The caregiver or caregivers have been designated by the judge as the child's prospective adoptive parent or parents.

Child's name: _____ Case Number:

8 ☐ The caregiver or caregivers may meet the definition of prospective adoptive parent or parents. Request for Prospective Adoptive Parent Designation (form JV-321), will be filed with this objection and request for hearing.

9 The social worker should not remove the child from the caregiver's home because (give reasons):

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

If you need more space, attach a sheet of paper and write "JV-325, Item 9—Reasons to Not Remove Child" at the top. Number of pages attached: _____

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the information on this form is true and correct, which means that if I lie on this form, I am committing a crime.

Date:

_____ ▶ _____

Type or print your name Sign your name

NOTICE

If you are not the child, child's parent, or child's legal guardian, you may have a right to challenge a decision by the juvenile court, but only in very limited circumstances. You may need a court order granting you access to records in the juvenile case file. For more information, please see Information on Requesting Access to Records for Persons With a Limited Right to Appeal (form JV-291-INFO). You can get form JV-291-INFO at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.

What if I am deaf or hard of hearing?

Requests for Accommodations

Assistive listening systems, computer-assisted real-time captioning, or sign language interpreter services are available if you ask at least five days before the proceeding. Contact the clerk's office or go to www.courts.ca.gov/forms for Request for Accommodations by Persons With Disabilities and Response (form MC-410). (Civ. Code, § 54.8.)

JV-569 Proof of Service—Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File

Clerk stamps date here when form is filed.

DRAFT
Not approved by the Judicial Council

Fill in court name and street address:

Superior Court of California, County of

Fill in case number if known.

Case Number:

1 Your name: _____

Relationship to child (if any): _____

Street address: _____

City: _____ State: _____ Zip: _____

Telephone number: _____

Lawyer (if any) (name, address, telephone numbers, and State Bar number): _____

2 ☐ I was not able to provide notice of this petition to the following because I did not know their names or addresses. If this is a request for the case file of a living child, the clerk must serve a copy of the petition. If this is a request for the case file of a deceased child, the custodian of records must serve a copy of the petition.

a. ☐ County counsel or other attorney representing the child welfare agency if petition filed under section 300
b. ☐ District attorney if petition filed under section 601 or 602
c. ☐ Child
d. ☐ Attorney of record for the child
e. ☐ Child's parent
f. ☐ Child's legal guardian
g. ☐ Probation department if petition filed under section 601 or 602
h. ☐ Child welfare agency/custodian of records if petition filed under section 300
i ☐ Child's identified Indian tribe
j. ☐ Child's CASA volunteer

3 If you checked box 2a, 2b, 2g, or 2h, describe the efforts made to locate those addresses and explain why you are unable to locate the addresses:

4 ☐ Copies of Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File (JV-570), Notice of Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File (JV-571), and a blank Objection to Release of Juvenile Case File (JV-572) have been served personally or placed in a sealed envelope with postage paid and deposited in the United States mail addressed to the following:

a. ☐ County counsel or other attorney representing the child welfare agency if petition filed under section 300 (name and address): _____

☐ Date mailed: _____ or ☐ Personally served on (date): _____

Your name: _____

Case Number:

4 b. ☐ District attorney if petition filed under section 601 or 602 (name and address): _____

☐ Date mailed: _____ or ☐ Personally served on (date): _____

c. ☐ Child (name and address): _____

☐ Date mailed: _____ or ☐ Personally served on (date): _____

d. ☐ Attorney of record for the child (name and address): _____

☐ Date mailed: _____ or ☐ Personally served on (date): _____

e. ☐ Child's parent (name and address): _____

☐ Date mailed: _____ or ☐ Personally served on (date): _____

f. ☐ Child's parent (name and address): _____

☐ Date mailed: _____ or ☐ Personally served on (date): _____

g. ☐ Child's legal guardian (name and address): _____

☐ Date mailed: _____ or ☐ Personally served on (date): _____

h. ☐ Probation department if petition filed under section 601 or 602 (name and address): _____

☐ Date mailed: _____ or ☐ Personally served on (date): _____

i. ☐ Child welfare agency/custodian of records if petition filed under section 300 (name and address):

_____

_____

☐ Date mailed: _____ or ☐ Personally served on (date): _____

j. ☐ The Indian child's tribal representative (name and address): _____

_____

_____

☐ Date mailed: _____ or ☐ Personally served on (date): _____

k. ☐ The child's CASA volunteer (name and address): _____

_____

_____

☐ Date mailed: _____ or ☐ Personally served on (date): _____

5 I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the information in this form is true and correct. This means that if I lie on this form, I may be guilty of a crime.

Date:

_____ ▶ _____

Type or print your name Sign your name

JV-570 Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File

Clerk stamps date here when form is filed.

DRAFT
Not approved by the Judicial Council

Fill in court name and street address:

Superior Court of California, County of

Fill in case number, if known:

Case Number:

If you are requesting a court order to obtain access to the juvenile case file of a child who is alive, fill out all items on this form, and file it with the juvenile court. You must also fill out and file Proof of Service—Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File (form JV-569).

If you are a member of the public requesting the juvenile case file of a child who is deceased, you can:

a. Fill out items 1–5 and 7 on this form and file it with the juvenile court. You must then provide a copy of this form to the custodian of records of the county child welfare agency, who will then provide notice of this petition.

Or

b. Do not complete the form, and instead request the juvenile case file from the child welfare agency under Welfare and Institutions Code section 10850.4.

1 Your name: _____

Relationship to child (if any): _____

Street address: _____

City: _____ State: _____ Zip: _____

Telephone number: _____

Lawyer (if any) (name, address, telephone numbers, and State Bar number): _____

_____

_____

2 Name of child: _____

3 Child's date of birth (if known): _____

4 a. ☐ A petition regarding the child in (2) has been filed under
- ☐ Welfare and Institutions Code section 300
- ☐ Welfare and Institutions Code section 601
- ☐ Welfare and Institutions Code section 602 or

b. ☐ I believe the child in (2) died as a result of abuse or neglect. Approximate date of death: _____

5 The records I want are: (Describe in detail. Attach more pages if you need more space. If you are involved in a pending proceeding in an appellate court or you are preparing to participate in such a proceeding, you should describe here the transcripts, reports, and any other evidence considered by the juvenile court at hearings related to the subject of the appeal or writ proceeding. For example, you should describe a report by providing its title (such as "status review report," "jurisdiction/disposition report," or "CASA report") and the date of the hearing when the document was considered.)

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

☐ Continued on Attachment 5.

Your name: _____ Case Number:

6 The reasons for this petition are:

a. ☐ Civil court case pending in (name of county): _____
Case number: _____ Hearing date: _____

b. ☐ Criminal court case pending in (name of county): _____
Case number: _____ Hearing date: _____

c. ☐ Juvenile court case pending in (name of county): _____
Case number: _____ Hearing date: _____

d. ☐ Family law court case pending in (name of county): _____
Case number: _____ Hearing date: _____

e. ☐ Writ or appeal case pending in (name of district): _____
Case number (if available): _____
Hearing dates related to the juvenile court order being challenged or to be challenged on appeal or by writ:

f. ☐ Other (specify): _____
Case number: _____ Hearing date: _____

7 I need the records because (describe in detail; attach more pages if you need more space):

☐ Continued on Attachment 7.

8 I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the information in this form is true and correct. This means that if I lie on this form, I am guilty of a crime.

Date:

_____ ▶ _____
Type or print your name Sign your name

Note: You must provide a copy of this completed form to all interested parties if you know their names and addresses.

JV-571 Notice of Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File

Clerk stamps date here when form is filed.

DRAFT
Not approved by the Judicial Council

RE: Release of Juvenile Case File and Right to File an Objection

You must provide notice to all those listed in item 2 on Proof of Service—Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File (form JV-569).

TO (names):

_____
_____
_____

Fill in court name and street address:

Superior Court of California, County of Court fills in case number when form is filed.

Case Number:

1 Child's name: _____

2 Information relating to the child named in item 1 is being sought by (name): _____
_____
_____

3 The requested information is described in the attached Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File (form JV-570).

4 If you object to the release of these records and information, you must fill out Objection to Release of Juvenile Case File (form JV-572) and return it to the court listed at the address above within 10 days of the date you received this notice.

Date:

_____ ▶ _____
Type or print your name Sign your name

Warning: If you do not object, the court may grant access to the child's case file.

JV-572 Objection to Release of Juvenile Case File

Clerk stamps date here when form is filed.

DRAFT
Not approved by the Judicial Council

Objections to the release of information and records described in the attached Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File (form JV-570) must be filed with the juvenile court.

Fill in court name and street address:

Superior Court of California, County of Court fills in case number when form is filed.

Case Number:

1 Name of child: _____

2 My relationship to the child, if any, is: _____

3 I object to the release of information and records relating to the child named in item 1.

4 I do not want the juvenile court to release the records because (describe in detail, attach additional pages if necessary):

Date:

_____ ▶ _____

Type or print your name Sign your name

Warning: If you do not object, the court may grant access to the child's case file.

JV-573 Order on Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File

Clerk stamps date here when form is filed.

DRAFT
Not approved by the Judicial Council

Fill in court name and street address:

Superior Court of California, County of Court fills in case number when form is filed.

Case Number:

The Court finds and orders:

1. ☐ The child is alive and the request is denied.
   - a. ☐ Petitioner has not shown good cause for the release of the requested records.
   - b. ☐ Petitioner has not met the notice requirements of rule 5.552(c) of the California Rules of Court.
   - c. ☐ Request for records is overbroad or records sought are insufficiently identified.
   - d. ☐ Other:

2. ☐ The child is alive and the court sets a hearing on the request. Applicant has shown good cause for release of the juvenile case file, but the court must balance the interests of the applicant, the child, other parties to the juvenile court proceedings, and the public. Clerk to send notice under rule 5.552 of the California Rules of Court.
   Date of hearing: _____
   Time of hearing: _____
   Location: _____

3. ☐ The child is alive and the court will conduct a review of the juvenile case file and any filed objections.

4. ☐ The child is deceased and the court sets a hearing on the request.
   Date of hearing: _____
   Time of hearing: _____
   Location: _____

5. ☐ The child is deceased and the court will conduct a review of the juvenile case file and any filed objections.

6. ☐ Other:

Date:

_____
Judicial Officer

JV-574

Order After Judicial Review on Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File

Clerk stamps date here when form is filed.

DRAFT
Not approved by the Judicial Council

Fill in court name and street address:

Superior Court of California, County of Court fills in case number when form is filed.

Case Number:

1 Name of petitioner: _____

The court finds and orders:

2 ☐ After a review of the juvenile case file and review of any filed objections ☐ and a noticed hearing, the court denies the request.

Reason(s) for denial:

a. ☐ Access is not in the child's best interests.
b. ☐ The need for access does not outweigh the privacy rights of the child and the policy considerations favoring confidentiality of the juvenile case file.
c. ☐ Petitioner has not shown by a preponderance of the evidence that the records requested are necessary and have substantial relevance to the legitimate need of the petitioner.
d. ☐ There are no responsive records.
e. ☐ Other: _____

3 ☐ After a review of the juvenile case file and review of any filed objections ☐ and a noticed hearing, the court grants the request. The petitioner has shown by a preponderance of the evidence that access to records is necessary and that records have substantial relevance to the legitimate needs of the petitioner. The court has balanced these needs with the child's best interest. The court finds that the need for access outweighs the policy considerations favoring confidentiality of juvenile records.

a. ☐ The following records may be disclosed: ☐ with redactions

_____

b. ☐ The procedure for providing access is:

_____

c. ☐ See attached.

4 ☐ This child is deceased, and the request is granted.

a. ☐ The court has read and considered the following:

_____

4 b. ☐ There is a presumption under Welfare and Institutions Code section 827(a)(2)(B) in favor of the release of the documents unless a statutory reason for confidentiality is shown to exist. The court has balanced only the interests of the child who is the subject of the juvenile case file and the interests of other children who may be named in the file with _____.

c. ☐ The following records may be disclosed: ☐ with redactions

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

d. ☐ The procedure for providing access is:

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

e. Any information that relates to another child or could identify another child, except for information about the deceased, must be redacted.

f. ☐ See attached.

5 ☐ The child is deceased and the request is denied. The court finds by a preponderance of the evidence that access to the juvenile case file or of any portion of it is detrimental to the safety, protection, or physical or emotional well-being of another child who is directly or indirectly connected to the juvenile case that is the subject of the request.

Additional orders:

6 a. ☐ Petitioner may not disseminate the information to anyone who is not specified in Welfare and Institutions Code section 827 or 827.10.

b. ☐ Petitioner may disseminate the disclosed records listed in item 3a only to: _____

_____

☐ as redacted ☐ subject to protective order ☐ additional orders attached

7 ☐ Disclosure subject to protective order (list orders): _____

_____

_____

_____

_____

8 ☐ Other:

_____

_____

9 ☐ See attached.

Date:

_____
Judicial Officer

ATTORNEY OR PARTY WITHOUT ATTORNEY: STATE BAR NO.: NAME: FIRM NAME: STREET ADDRESS: CITY: STATE: ZIP CODE: TELEPHONE NO.: FAX NO.: E-MAIL ADDRESS: ATTORNEY FOR (name):	FOR COURT USE ONLY DRAFT Not approved by the Judicial Council
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA, COUNTY OF STREET ADDRESS: MAILING ADDRESS: CITY AND ZIP CODE: BRANCH NAME:
CHILD'S NAME:
NOTICE OF APPEAL—JUVENILE	CASE NUMBER:

— NOTICE —

- You or your attorney must fill in items 1 and 2 and sign this form at the bottom of the page. If possible, to help process your appeal, fill in items 6–8 on the reverse of this form.
- Rule 8.406 says that to appeal from an order or judgment, you must file a written notice of appeal within 60 days after rendition of the judgment or the making of the order being appealed or, in matters heard by a referee, within 60 days after the order of the referee becomes final.
- You are advised that if you wish to file an appeal of an order for transfer to a tribal court, you (1) may ask the juvenile court to stay (delay the effective date of) the transfer order and (2) must file the appeal before the transfer to tribal jurisdiction is finalized. Read rule 5.483 and the advisory committee comment.
- If you are not the county welfare department, district attorney, child, child's parent, or child's legal guardian, you may have a right to challenge a decision by the juvenile court, but only in very limited circumstances. You may need a court order granting you access to records in the juvenile case file. For more information, please see Information on Requesting Access to Records for Persons With a Limited Right to Appeal (form JV-291-INFO). You can get form JV-291-INFO at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.

1. I appeal from the findings and orders of the court (specify date of order or describe order):

2. This appeal is filed by
   a. Appellant (name):
   b. Address: c. Phone number:
   d. Name, address, and phone number of person to be contacted (if different from appellant):

   e. ☐ Appellant has been granted access to specified records in the juvenile case file, and a copy of the court's order under Welfare and Institutions Code section 827(a)(1)(Q), on Order After Judicial Review on Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File (form JV-574), if available, is attached.

3. ☐ I request that the court appoint an attorney on appeal. I ☐ was ☐ was not represented by an appointed attorney in the superior court.

Date:

TYPE OR PRINT NAME

▶ SIGNATURE OF ☐ APPELLANT ☐ ATTORNEY

4. Items 5–7 on the reverse are ☐ completed ☐ not completed.

Form Approved for Optional Use
Judicial Council of California
JV-800 [Rev. September 1, 2020]

Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.400, 8.401, 8.405, 8.406
Welfare and Institutions Code, §§ 395, 800
www.courts.ca.gov

CHILD'S NAME:	CASE NUMBER:

5. Appellant is the
   a. ☐ child.
   b. ☐ mother.
   c. ☐ father.
   d. ☐ legal guardian.
   e. ☐ de facto parent.
   f. ☐ county welfare department.
   g. ☐ district attorney.
   h. ☐ child's tribe.
   i. ☐ other (state relationship to child or interest in the case):

6. This notice of appeal pertains to the following child or children (specify number of children included):
   a. Name of child:
      Child's date of birth:
   b. Name of child:
      Child's date of birth:
   c. Name of child:
      Child's date of birth:
   d. Name of child:
      Child's date of birth:
   ☐ Continued in Attachment 6.

7. The order appealed from was made under Welfare and Institutions Code (check all that apply):
   a. ☐ Section 305.5 (transfer to tribal court)
      ☐ Granting transfer to tribal court ☐ Denying transfer to tribal court
      Dates of hearing (specify):
   b. ☐ Section 360 (declaration of dependency) ☐ Removal of custody from parent or guardian ☐ Other orders
      ☐ with review of section 300 jurisdictional findings
      Dates of hearing (specify):
   c. ☐ Section 366.26 (selection and implementation of permanent plan)
      ☐ Termination of parental rights ☐ Appointment of guardian ☐ Planned permanent living arrangement
      Dates of hearing (specify):
   d. ☐ Section 366.28 (order designating a specific placement after termination of parental rights in which a petition for extraordinary writ review that substantively addressed the specific issues to be challenged was timely filed and summarily denied or otherwise not decided on the merits)
      Dates of hearing (specify):
   e. ☐ Section 388 (request to change court order)
      Dates of hearing (specify):
   f. ☐ Other appealable orders relating to dependency (specify):
      Dates of hearing (specify):
   g. ☐ Section 725 (declaration of wardship and other orders)
      ☐ with review of section 601 jurisdictional findings
      ☐ with review of section 602 jurisdictional findings
      Dates of hearing (specify):
   h. ☐ Other appealable orders relating to wardship (specify):
      Dates of hearing (specify):
   i. ☐ Other (specify):

ATTORNEY OR PARTY WITHOUT ATTORNEY: STATE BAR NO.:	FOR COURT USE ONLY
NAME: FIRM NAME: STREET ADDRESS: CITY: STATE: ZIP CODE: TELEPHONE NO.: FAX NO.: E-MAIL ADDRESS: ATTORNEY FOR (name):	DRAFT Not approved by the Judicial Council
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA, COUNTY OF STREET ADDRESS: MAILING ADDRESS: CITY AND ZIP CODE: BRANCH NAME:
CASE NAME:
NOTICE OF INTENT TO FILE WRIT PETITION AND REQUEST FOR RECORD TO REVIEW ORDER SETTING A HEARING UNDER WELFARE AND INSTITUTIONS CODE SECTION 366.26 (California Rules of Court, Rule 8.450)	CASE NUMBER:

NOTICE

The juvenile court has decided it will make a permanent plan for this child that may result in the termination of your parental rights and adoption of the child. If you want a court of appeal to review the juvenile court's decision, you must first tell the juvenile court by filing a Notice of Intent. You may use this form as your Notice of Intent. In most cases, you have only 7 days from the juvenile court's decision to file a Notice of Intent. Please see page 2 for your specific deadline for filing this form.

If you are not the county welfare department, child, child's parent, or child's legal guardian, you may have a right to challenge a decision by the juvenile court, but only in very limited circumstances. You may need a court order granting you access to records in the juvenile case file. For more information, please see Information on Requesting Access to Records for Persons With a Limited Right to Appeal (form JV-291-INFO). You can get form JV-291-INFO at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.

1. Petitioner's name:
2. Petitioner's address:
3. Petitioner's phone number:
4. Petitioner is
   a. ☐ parent (name):
   b. ☐ legal guardian.
   c. ☐ county welfare department.
   d. ☐ child.
   e. ☐ other (state relationship to child or interest in the case):
5. Child's name: Child's date of birth:
6. a. On (date): the juvenile court made an order setting a hearing under Welfare and Institutions Code section 366.26. Petitioner intends to file a writ petition to challenge the findings and orders made by the court on that date and requests that the clerk assemble the record.
   b. List all known dates of the hearing that resulted in the order:
7. The hearing under Welfare and Institutions Code section 366.26 is set for (date, if known):
8. ☐ Petitioner has been granted access to specified records in the juvenile case file, and a copy of the court's order under Welfare and Institutions Code section 827(a)(1)(Q), on form Order After Judicial Review on Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File (form JV-574), if available, is attached.

Date:

TYPE OR PRINT NAME

▶ SIGNATURE OF ☐ PETITIONER ☐ ATTORNEY

The Notice of Intent to File Writ Petition must be signed by the person who intends to file the writ petition or by the attorney of record.

PLEASE READ THE BACK OF THIS FORM FOR IMPORTANT INFORMATION AND DEADLINES

Form Approved for Optional Use
Judicial Council of California
JV-820 [Rev. September 1, 2020]

NOTICE OF INTENT TO FILE WRIT PETITION AND REQUEST FOR RECORD TO REVIEW ORDER SETTING A HEARING UNDER WELFARE AND INSTITUTIONS CODE SECTION 366.26
(California Rules of Court, Rule 8.450)

Welfare and Institutions Code, § 366.26;
Cal. Rules of Court, rule 8.450
www.courts.ca.gov

APPELLATE CASE TITLE:	APPELLATE CASE NUMBER:

WHAT WILL HAPPEN AT THE HEARING TO MAKE A PERMANENT PLAN?

- The court may order the termination of parental rights and adoption of the child.
- The court may order a legal guardianship for the child.
- The court may order a permanent plan of placement of the child with a fit and willing relative.
- The court may order another planned permanent living arrangement if the child is 16 years old or older.
- The court may order a permanent plan of placement of the child in a foster home.

The above options are listed in the normal order of preference, because the main goal is to give the child a stable and permanent living situation.

SEE WELF. & INST. CODE, § 366.26 FOR MORE INFORMATION

HOW DO I CHALLENGE THE COURT'S DECISION TO SET A HEARING TO MAKE A PERMANENT PLAN?

- File this Notice of Intent to File Writ Petition and Request for Record in the juvenile court within the time specified below in the next box. This will let the court know you intend to file a writ petition, and the court will prepare the record.
- You will be notified after the record is filed in the Court of Appeal, and you will get copies of the record. You have 10 days after the record is filed in the Court of Appeal to file and serve your writ petition.
- You may use the optional Judicial Council form Petition for Extraordinary Writ (form JV-825) to complete your writ petition, or, if you have an attorney, your attorney can write the writ petition for you.
- After you file a writ petition in the Court of Appeal, you must send copies of the petition to all of the parties in the case, to the child's CASA volunteer, to the child's present caregiver, and to any de facto parent who has standing to participate in the juvenile court proceedings. With your writ petition, you must file a Proof of Service confirming you have sent a copy of the petition to these people.

SEE WELF. & INST. CODE, § 366.26(l); CAL. RULES OF COURT, RULES 8.450–8.452

WHEN DO I HAVE TO FILE MY NOTICE OF INTENT TO FILE WRIT PETITION AND REQUEST FOR RECORD?

- If you were present when the court set the hearing to make a permanent plan, you must file the Notice of Intent within 7 days from the date the court set the hearing.
- If you were not present in court but were given notice by mail of the court's decision to set a hearing to make a permanent plan and you live in California, you must file the Notice of Intent within 12 days from the date the clerk mailed the notification.
- If you were not present in court but were given notice by mail of the court's decision to set a hearing to make a permanent plan and you live in a state other than California, you must file the Notice of Intent within 17 days from the date the clerk mailed the notification.
- If you were not present in court but were given notice by mail of the court's decision to set a hearing to make a permanent plan and you live outside the United States, you must file the Notice of Intent within 27 days from the date the clerk mailed the notification.
- If you are a party in a custodial institution you must give the Notice of Intent to custodial officials for mailing within the time specified in this box.

SEE CAL. RULES OF COURT, RULES 8.450, 5.540(c)

- If the order setting the hearing was made by a referee not acting as a temporary judge, you have an additional 10 days to file the Notice of Intent.

SEE WELF. & INST. CODE, §§ 248–252; CAL. RULES OF COURT, RULES 5.538, 5.540

WHO MUST SIGN THE NOTICE OF INTENT?

- The person who intends to file the writ petition, or
- The attorney of record for the person who intends to file the writ petition

ATTORNEY OR PARTY WITHOUT ATTORNEY: STATE BAR NO.:	FOR COURT USE ONLY
NAME: FIRM NAME: STREET ADDRESS: CITY: STATE: ZIP CODE: TELEPHONE NO.: FAX NO.: E-MAIL ADDRESS: ATTORNEY FOR (name):	DRAFT Not approved by the Judicial Council
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA, COUNTY OF STREET ADDRESS: MAILING ADDRESS: CITY AND ZIP CODE: BRANCH NAME:
CASE NAME:
NOTICE OF INTENT TO FILE WRIT PETITION AND REQUEST FOR RECORD TO REVIEW ORDER DESIGNATING OR DENYING SPECIFIC PLACEMENT OF A DEPENDENT CHILD AFTER TERMINATION OF PARENTAL RIGHTS (California Rules of Court, Rule 8.454)	CASE NUMBER:

NOTICE

The juvenile court has ordered or denied a specific placement for this child. If you want an appeals court to review the juvenile court's decision, you must first tell the juvenile court by filing a Notice of Intent. You may use this form as your Notice of Intent. In most cases, you have only 7 days from the court's placement decision to file a Notice of Intent. Please see page 2 for your specific deadline for filing this form.

If you are not the county welfare department, child, child's parent, or child's legal guardian, you may have a right to challenge a decision by the juvenile court, but only in very limited circumstances. You may need a court order granting you access to records in the juvenile case file. For more information, please see Information on Requesting Access to Records for Persons With a Limited Right to Appeal (form JV-291-INFO). You can get form JV-291-INFO at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.

1. Petitioner's name:
2. Petitioner's address:
3. Petitioner's phone number:
4. Petitioner is
   a. ☐ child's caretaker (specify dates in your care):
   b. ☐ child.
   c. ☐ county welfare department.
   d. ☐ legal guardian.
   e. ☐ other (state relationship to child or interest in the case):
5. Child's name: Child's date of birth:
6. a. On (date): the juvenile court terminated parental rights under Welfare and Institutions Code section 366.26.
   b. On (date): the court made a specific placement order or denied a specific placement request that the dependent child is to reside in, be retained in, or be removed from a specific placement. Petitioner intends to file a writ petition to challenge the specific placement order or the denial of a specific placement request made by the court on that date and requests that the clerk assemble the record.
7. ☐ Petitioner has been granted access to specified records in the juvenile case file, and a copy of the court's order under Welfare and Institutions Code section 827(a)(1)(Q), on Order After Judicial Review on Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File (form JV-574), if available, is attached.

PLEASE READ THE BACK OF THIS FORM FOR IMPORTANT INFORMATION AND DEADLINES

Form Approved for Optional Use
Judicial Council of California
JV-822 [Rev. September 1, 2020]

Welfare and Institutions Code, § 366.28; Cal. Rules of Court, rule 8.454;
www.courts.ca.gov

APPELLATE CASE TITLE:	APPELLATE CASE NUMBER:

Date:

(TYPE OR PRINT NAME)

(SIGNATURE OF ☐ PETITIONER ☐ ATTORNEY)

The Notice of Intent to File Writ Petition must be signed by the person intending to file the writ petition or, by the attorney of record. See below for more information.

HOW DO I CHALLENGE THE COURT'S PLACEMENT DECISION AFTER TERMINATION OF PARENTAL RIGHTS?

- File this Notice of Intent to File Writ Petition and Request for Record in the juvenile court within the time listed below in the next box. This will let the court know you intend to file a writ petition, and the court will prepare the record.
- You will be notified after the record is filed in the Court of Appeal, and you will get a copy of the record. You have 10 days after the record is filed in the Court of Appeal to file and serve your writ petition.
- You may use the optional Judicial Council form JV-825 to complete your writ petition, or, if you have an attorney, your attorney can write the writ petition for you.
- After you file a writ petition in the Court of Appeal you must send a copy of the petition to all of the parties in the case, to the child's CASA volunteer, to the child's present caregiver, and to any de facto parent who has standing to participate in the juvenile court proceedings.

SEE CAL. RULES OF COURT, RULES 8.454–8.456

WHEN DO I HAVE TO FILE MY NOTICE OF INTENT TO FILE WRIT PETITION AND REQUEST FOR RECORD?

- If you were present when the court granted or denied the specific placement, you must file the Notice of Intent within 7 days from the date the court granted or denied the specific placement.
- If you were not present in court but were given notice by mail of the court's decision to grant or deny the specific placement, you must file the Notice of Intent within 12 days from the date the clerk mailed the notification.
- If the order granting or denying the specific placement was made by a referee not acting as a temporary judge, you must file the Notice of Intent within 17 days from the date the court set the hearing.

WHO MUST SIGN THE NOTICE OF INTENT?

- The person who intends to file the writ petition; or
- The attorney of record for the person who intends to file the writ petition

W20-02

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV–325, JV-569, JV-570, JV-571, JV-572, JV-573, JV-574, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
1.	Advokids by Janet G. Sherwood Deputy Director	NI	The following comments to the proposed rule are submitted by Advokids, a nonprofit organization that advocates for the rights of children in foster care, including the right to safety, security, stability, and timely permanency decisions. These responses to the specific questions posed by the proposal, as well as all other comments, were prepared by a certified child welfare law specialist with over 45 years of experience in the field. She was also a certified appellate law specialist handling dependency appeals until 2015 when she closed her private practice to work full-time with Advokids. Does the Proposal Adequately Address the Stated Purpose? No. Putting the limitations on access to the record in appellate matters in Rule 8.401, without also amending the appellate rules and the rules applicable to statutory writs, will create confusion and delays because of the apparent inconsistencies between those rules and rule 8.401.	The committees appreciate this feedback on the proposal. The committees considered extensive amendments to appellate rules to implement the requirements of section 827(a)(6), as reflected in the proposal that circulated for public comment in spring 2019. This approach however resulted in an increasingly complex system of rules that, in the committees' view, was impractical and unwieldy. The committees concluded that, in attempting to provide detailed procedures and information for litigants and courts, and to account for various situations that could arise, the proposal's scope and complexity expanded beyond what was necessary to implement the legislation, which was narrow in scope and aimed at a situation that arises relatively infrequently. Accordingly, the committees determined that the best way to move forward would be a more focused rules proposal to add the juvenile court petition process to the appellate rule on access to records in a juvenile case. The "apparent inconsistencies" are a result of the statute that requires individuals who are not described in section 827(a)(1)(A)-(P) to petition the juvenile court for access to records. One goal of this proposal is to highlight that requirement and advise litigants of it early in the proceedings.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			For example, section 366.28 prescribes the process for prospective adoptive parents to seek appellate court review of a juvenile court's removal decision. The statute itself contemplates that parties to the removal proceedings will be parties to the statutory writ proceedings. (See, Wayne F. v. Superior Court (2006) 145 Cal.App.4th 1331 [prospective adoptive parents, while not parties to the underlying dependency proceedings unless they are also de facto parents, were entitled to "fully participate" in 366.26(n) hearings concerning proposed removal from their home].) The implementing Rule of Court, rule 8.454 requires the clerk to prepare the record and to send it to "counsel of record and any unrepresented party and unrepresented custodian of the dependent child." There is nothing in the rule that requires anyone who is entitled to be served with a copy of the record under the rule to have first filed a	The committees agree that the commenter raises legitimate concerns. However, the scope of this project is to implement section 827(a)(6). Section 827 governs access to the juvenile case file and the Legislature has clarified in section 827(a)(6) that the petition process for access to confidential records applies to appellate court proceedings. A prospective adoptive parent is not listed in section 827(a)(1)(A)-(P), and therefore must obtain a court order for access to records in the juvenile case file. The committees understand that prospective adoptive parents could be considered "parties" in the appellate court under rule 8.454, but this does not change the fundamental statutory mandate that individuals who are not described in section 827(a)(1)(A)-(P) must petition the juvenile court for access to records.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			section 827 petition. (Rule 8.454(i)(2).) The use of the word "parties" in the rule clearly refers to the persons who participated in the juvenile court removal proceedings, not just the parties to the underlying juvenile court case. Stealth amendment of the appellate rules, without reference to the rule that amends the rules being consulted, is unfair to litigants, especially those who are not already familiar with the appellate rules in dependency cases. The proposal also does not adequately address the stated purpose because there are no time limits on how long a juvenile court may take to act on a section 827 petition nor is there any remedy available when the juvenile court wrongfully denies a section 827 petition or fails to act at all, thereby effectively preventing the appeal or writ from being considered. For example, the Los Angeles Superior Court has a practice of refusing to file notices of appeal or notices of intent to file a writ petition from de facto parents as well as persons who are not the parent, the child, or the agency unless that person also files a section 827 petition at the same time the Notice of Appeal is filed. Many of those section 827 petitions then languish for months before they are acted upon. It is also not unheard of for those petitions to be sent for a ruling to the very bench officer whose order is being appealed, even though the	The committees agree that delay is a significant concern. Although section 827(a)(2)(E)-(F) provides a timeline for a juvenile court's decision on a section 827 petition in the case of a deceased child, the statute is silent regarding a timeline for the court's decision in other circumstances. The committees considered including time limits on the petition process, but juvenile courts are already struggling to meet the demands of processing these petitions. The committees concluded that, without additional resources for the juvenile courts, imposing deadlines is simply not feasible. In addition, adding deadlines would be a substantive change to the proposal that, under rule 10.22, would require circulation for public comment again before including the change.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			procedure specified by section 827 requires the presiding judge to make that determination. In the meantime, resolution of issues important to the child's stability, permanency, or well-being are being unnecessarily delayed or thwarted by the court's failure to make a timely decision on the section 827 petition. The absence of time limits on when the juvenile court must act on the section 827 petition must be addressed. The time for filing a valid Notice of Intent is very short. Even if a section 827 petition is filed before the notice of intent, it is likely that it will not have been acted upon before the notice of intent must be filed to preserve the right to file a writ petition. No record will be prepared within the time limits set forth in the rules because the court has not yet acted on the pending section 827 petition. The statutory writ proceedings under sections 366.26(l) and 366.28 were adopted because the Legislature wanted the issues raised by those writ petitions to be re- solved swiftly, usually in no more than in 120 days from the date of the order. If there are no time limits on when the juvenile court must act on a prerequisite section 827 petition and no remedy when such petitions are wrongfully denied, then the purpose of the writ procedures will be completely thwarted by the failure of a juvenile court to make a prompt decision on the section 827 petition.	See response above.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			Imposition of the section 827 process as a prerequisite for preparation of the appellate record builds unconscionable delays into the process of getting issues concerning the safety or stability of a child before an appellate court. For example, while the rule provides for the clerk to serve the petition if the petitioner does not know the identity or address of any of the parties, many clerks' offices routinely refuse to comply with this provision and refuse to file the petition at all because there is no proof of prior service. If a person seeking to file such a petition asks the clerk to supply name and address information so that the petitioner may accomplish the required service, clerks' offices often refuse to supply that information on the ground that it is "confidential."	As mentioned above, section 827 requires that certain persons file a petition for access to records in the juvenile case file. The committees cannot recommend, and the Judicial Council cannot adopt, rules that are inconsistent with statute. (Cal. Const., art. VI, section 6.) The committees acknowledge the concerns raised and agree that there will be difficulties in many instances, but the issues are based in section 827 provisions regarding the confidentiality of juvenile case files.
			An additional problem with the proposal is that it does not address the situation where one of the affected persons is a respondent in the appellate court, rather than the appellant or writ petitioner. For example, if the county agency appeals an order granting de facto parent status or files a writ petition when the juvenile court rules against the agency's attempt to remove a child from an adoptive placement, the de facto parent or prospective adoptive parent should have the right to respond to the agency's claims. It is probable that these individuals will not even be served with the opening brief or writ petition if that person has not already filed a	The committees acknowledge that several rules appear to have been written without consideration of persons who must petition for access to records in the juvenile case file. In this example, the de facto parent or prospective adoptive parent clearly has the right to respond to the agency's claims. Section 827(a)(6) recognizes this. The committees do not agree that it is "probable" that these persons would not be served with the opening brief or writ petition, but the rule is not entirely clear in this situation.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			section 827 because rule 8.401(b)(1) does not permit service of "filed documents" on persons who are not "parties" or attorneys for "parties." Suggested alternative. The proposed procedures provide too many ways in which appellate review to which aggrieved relatives, caregivers, de facto parents, or other interested persons would be otherwise entitled can and will be impeded or prevented by these amendments. A possible and more efficient solution would be to add an item to the JV-180, JV-285, JV-321 and JV-325 forms that requests an order granting access to the juvenile court records relevant to that proceeding pursuant to section 827(a)((1)(Q). The form order for each of these petitions could also be amended include an item for the court to rule on the section 827 request. These additions would streamline the process of giving prior notice of the request for access to interested parties, address the extent of discovery, etc. available to the petitioner in that proceeding, make the relevant documents available for any appeal or statutory writ proceeding, and obviate most of the due process problems presented by the present proposal. Should the definition of "records in the juvenile case file" in rule 8.401(b) more closely track the definition of "juvenile case file" in rule 5.552(a) or Welfare and Institutions Code section 827(e)?	The committees appreciate this suggestion. However, including such rules would be a substantive change to the proposal that, under rule 10.22, would require circulation for public comment. The committees will keep the suggestion for consideration in a future cycle.

W20-02

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV–325, JV-569, JV-570, JV-571, JV-572, JV-573, JV-574, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			No. The definitions of "juvenile case file" in the rule and the statute are broader than the documents that may properly be included in an appellate record or record on a statutory writ petition. For example, records in possession of the social worker or probation officer that were never filed with the juvenile court or offered or entered into evidence in a contested juvenile court proceeding would not be a proper part of the appellate record. Does the proposed information sheet, form JV-291-INFO, provide the information necessary for an individual to understand the right to appeal and the process for requesting access to records in the juvenile case file? No. The list of people who might have the right to seek review, includes this language: You might have a right to appeal or file a writ petition if, for example, you are: The child's relative, and the child was removed from your home, or you requested that the child be placed in your home or that your home be assessed for possible placement, and the court denied your request for placement or the placing agency never assessed your home;	The committees agree with this comment and have modified the definition to include records from the juvenile case file that would be in the court record and thus part of the appellate record. The committees agree that the language should be amended to clarify that a court order is required for there to be a right to appeal. The change has been made.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			The italicized language is misleading. An agency's failure to assess or place, in the absence of judicial review by the juvenile court, would not give rise to the right to appellate review. The first full paragraph in column two states that the petitioner's request can include documents in the possession of the social worker or the probation officer. This is misleading because, as noted above, these documents would not be in the record of the juvenile court proceedings at issue and, therefore, would not be properly part of the appellate record. The reference to this form should not be added to the JV-285 or the JV-290 forms. Including the JV-291-INFO reference on those forms implies that relatives and caregivers may have appellate rights. This is almost never the case for those who have not sought or achieved some kind of party or quasi-party status through other means, such as a 388 petition or a de facto parent re- quest. Should other information be included? Yes. The information sheet should warn people not to wait to file their 827 petition until after the court has ruled on their section 388 petition, de facto parent request, or prospective adoptive	While a petitioner could request information in the social worker's or probation officer's file unrelated to an appeal, the committees agree that this language should be removed because the focus of the form is on accessing the case file for purposes of appeal, which, as the commenter correctly points out, would not include documents in the social worker's or probation officer's case file. The committees elected to include the notice on these forms because the individuals who use these forms may eventually have a right to appeal or seek writ relief. The committees agree however that most relatives and caregivers will not. The language of the notice and form JV-291-INFO clarifies that these individuals will have a right to appeal or file a writ petition in only very limited circumstances. The committees elected not to include a warning that appellate review may be delayed or denied because of delay in the section 827 petition process. The committees understand that there are no typical time periods for decisions on section

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			parent status request and that any appellate review may be unduly delayed or denied because of the necessity of obtaining an 827 order granting access to the juvenile court file before they may have access to the appellate record. Should rule 5.552 require that the parent and county counsel receive notice if a petition for access is filed by an adult who is a former or current dependent and is seeking access to their case file for the purpose of education, employment, immigration, and/or military enlistment? No. Rule 5.552 does not require that a parent's attorney of record receive notice when a petition for access is filed. Should the rule require such notice? Yes. But there should be an exception in cases where parental rights have been terminated for both parents.	827 petitions, as each court is different in how these petitions are handled. Such a warning could also deter someone from filing the petition. The committees have elected to continue to require notice to the parent and county counsel in these situations because their input on confidential information in the case file is essential. The committees elected not to change the notice requirements of rule 5.552. The committee anticipates that a parent's or guardian's attorney will be notified if the parent or guardian cannot be located.
2.	Appellate Defenders, Inc. By Linda Fabian Staff Attorney San Diego, California	NI	1. The Proposed JV-570 Process Causes Undue Delay. The proposed JV-570 procedure for producing a record for the appellant who is not the child, or	The committees appreciate these comments. The committees acknowledge the concerns regarding delay caused by the petition process and

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			the child's parent or guardian will likely result in significant delays in the appellate process. We find a majority of the appellants in these cases in the Fourth Appellate District are relatives or de facto parents challenging placement decisions (removal, denial of placement). Almost all of these individuals do not have counsel representing them in the juvenile court. They will likely find the JV-570 process difficult to navigate and may be unable to comply with the deadlines for completing and submitting the petition for filing. All dependency appeals in two of our three Divisions (San Diego, Orange and Imperial Counties) are subject to fast-track rules. (Cal. Rules of Court, rule 8.416(a)(B)(I).) The courts endeavor to decide the appeal in these cases within 250 days. The JV-570 process creates significant delay in preparing the appellate record. The JV-570 process will delay preparation of the appellate record for several months at a minimum. The court must offer notice to the parties and an opportunity to object to the release of the record. (§ 827 (3)(B).) Anybody objecting to the request may do so within 15 days. The petitioning party has another 10 days within which to reply to the objection. The juvenile court must set the matter for hearing no later than 60 days from the date the petition is	that it is a challenging process for self-represented litigants. The purpose of the notice on a number of forms and the new information sheet is to raise awareness of the process and provide guidance for navigating it. Ideally, litigants will petition for access to records during the proceedings in the juvenile court rather than waiting until an order is challenged on appeal. The committees acknowledge that delay in preparing the appellate record often results from the petition process, but the process is required by the statute.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			served. The court then has another 30 days after the hearing within which to render its decision. (§ 827 (2)(E).) The proposed rules do not assign a deadline for the superior court clerk's preparation of the appellate record. As a result, the process to obtain an appellate record order can take at least four months, likely longer. (See Appendix, time lines for two cases that went through this process). A colleague who works in the Second Appellate District (where a procedure very similar to the proposal as been in effect for a few years) shared that in some cases it took eight months for an order to issue on the JV-570 petition to begin preparation of the appellate record. As noted, most of these appeals are from adverse placement decisions. Meaningful appellate review of placement decisions require prompt review because the juvenile dependency case continues to progress. The child's circumstances change and they develop attachments to new caretakers. Appellate review of a placement decision that occurred a year ago robs the court of the ability to correct a mistake. "Meaningful redress for past mistakes may not be possible, but we cannot unwind the clock." (In re R.T. (2015) 232 Cal.App.4th 1284, 1308 [recognizing the court is likely unable to correct the placement mistake made two and one-half years prior, due to the intervening change in the	The committees acknowledge this difficulty for litigants. The committees appreciate this feedback and acknowledge that time is of the essence in juvenile dependency matters.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			child's circumstances].) Unless an effort is made in the juvenile court to expedite these appellate related JV-570 petitions, appellants will suffer a true case of "justice delayed is justice denied." We understand the need to protect the interests of the children in maintaining the confidentiality of their case. But the proposed process treats these appellants the same as a stranger to the case, where the expectation of confidentiality is substantially greater. These relatives and former caretakers are likely very familiar with the circumstances that required intervention, the child's circumstances pre- and/or post-juvenile court intervention. The proposal should seek to protect only information that is actually confidential. If the appellant has been present at the case hearings, the juvenile court has implicitly granted them access to those proceedings under section 827. 2. If Appellate Counsel is Appointed to Represent the Appellant, the Juvenile Court Should Have the Option of Ordering Counsel Be Provided a Full Record With a Protective Order. The concerns outlined above with respect to an adequate record and delay could be resolved by providing a full copy of the record to appellate counsel for the third-party who has been	The statute requires that all parties who are not the parent, guardian or child, or otherwise listed in section 827(a)(1)(A)-(P), must follow the petition process. The committees recognize that these individuals are often relatives and former caretakers who may be very familiar with the circumstances of the case. However, the Judicial Council is not authorized to adopt rules that are inconsistent with statute. It is not clear that such a procedure would be consistent with the language of the statute.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			appointed by the Court of Appeal. The Juvenile Court can issue a protective order prohibiting counsel from turning over any portion of the record to the client not authorized by an 827 order. The JV-570 petition could include this option for appellate counsel to complete. 3. It is Unlikely the JV-570 Process Will Produce an Adequate Record. As noted the majority of these appellants do not have representation in the trial court. Completing the JV-570 petition process will be daunting for the lay person. While they are petitioning for access to the juvenile court record, they are also designating the record on appeal. Unlike the civil litigant, they cannot review the court's file to determine which documents they will need for their appeal. They are being asked to designate a record without access to the record. Forcing this process on pro-per appellants will result in preparation of an inadequate record to present their claim. These two published cases, Isabella G. (2016) 246 Cal.App.4th 708, and In re R.T., supra, 232 Cal.App.4th 1284, demonstrate a relatively full record is essential to effectively prosecuting relative placement claims in these cases. The Isabella G. court cited evidence the minor missed her grandmother, was happy to be with her,	The committees acknowledge this concern and the difficulty an individual would have in trying to designate the record/request access to records in the juvenile case file without knowing what those records are. The JV-570 form asks the petitioner to describe the records (rather than provide titles, for example), but the committees recognize that this is not easily done and that it has resulted in an inadequate record being prepared. The committees thank the commenter for providing these examples.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			requested more contact with her, and the caregiver thought the minor should be placed with Grandmother, as relevant to show prejudice from the court's failure to apply the relative placement criteria. (In re Isabella G., supra, 246 Cal.App.4th at p.724.) We believe the proposed JV-570 form is too general to assist the lay person in this endeavor. The form serves as the appellant's only means of designating the appellate record. It makes sense to devote a portion of the form to this purpose. A section of the form could be reserved for appellants and request very specific information that assists them with designating the record on appeal. At a minimum, the JV-570 petition should be modified to ask the petitioner to list the juvenile court hearing dates at which the court allowed them to be present. Not only will this approach assist the appellant, it will likely prove helpful to the juvenile court in eliciting more specificity. It will help insure more uniformity in record preparation. The information we propose be included in this new "appeal" section of the JV-570 form is found on the last page of the Appendix. Appendix Delay in Utilizing the 827 Petition Process: Two Case Examples	The committees appreciate the specific suggestions for improving the JV-570 form. The committees believe that including the items listed in the appendix to this comment on the JV-570 form would encourage petitioners to check all the boxes listed and the petition would therefore lack the specificity required under rule 5.552(b)(1) and encourage requests for access to records that the petitioner does not know exist. This would create an undue burden for the juvenile court reviewing the petition. The committee has however elected to amend item 5 of form JV-570 to provide more guidance to the petitioner by giving instructions to include the type of report by name and date. The committees appreciate receiving these two case examples.

W20-02

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV–325, JV-569, JV-570, JV-571, JV-572, JV-573, JV-574, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			1. D073770: the Court of Appeal ordered the non-party appellant to obtain an 827 order from the Juvenile Court which sets forth the record to which she can have access. This appellant is an attorney who was able to navigate this process much better than a lay person. The 827 process took more than three months: – Court of Appeal's order to seek 827 order issued November 29th 2018; – 827 petition filed in Juvenile Court December 3, 2018; – 827 order rendered by the Juvenile Court February 1, 2019; – Court of Appeal ordered limited record prepared February 27, 2019; – Limited record filed in the Court of Appeal March 11, 2019.	No further response required.
			2. D073296: This fast-track case took 10 months to decide, 6 months to order the limited record: Mother – appellant: NOA filed 12/28/17 – appointed counsel 1/9/18 Maternal great aunt & 388 NOA filed 12/28/17 – appointed counsel 2/16/18 Minors W. & J (RB) Counsel appointed on court's own motion – 4/13/18 (apptd. 4/18/18) Minors M & Je (RB) appointed counsel – 1/25/18 de facto father (RB, retained counsel) de facto mother (RB, retained counsel) Record filed 1/19/18	No further response required.

W20-02

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV–325, JV-569, JV-570, JV-571, JV-572, JV-573, JV-574, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			Augment by mother (denied) 2/2/18 De facto 827 motion 3/29/18 Oppo to 827 motion by mother & aunt 4/2/18 Mother & aunt file AOB 4/4/18 County counsel do not oppo release 4/5/18 (since aunt already has record) Oppo to release by minors M & J 5/25/18 Court orders limited record 6/6/18 – attorneys ordered not to provide the record to the aunt or de facto De facto father files augment 6/8/18 Mother & aunt oppose 6/14/18 Court orders augment considered w/appeal 6/19/18 RB by de facto father filed 7/27/18 County RB filed after 17B notice 7/31/18 De facto father requests judicial notice 8/1/18 – post-appeal info re: resolution of 1 issue – ordered to be considered w/appeal 8/16/18 minors' letter brief of W & J 8/23/18 Court's request for further briefing 8/30/18 – statutory interp. for relative placement issue ARB filed by mother 9/4/18 ARB filed by aunt 9/4/18 Mother's, aunt's, minors W & J's, agency's, de facto father's – supplemental briefs filed 9/14/18 minors M & J filed supplemental brief 9/17/18 case fully briefed 9/17/18 case submitted 10/23/18 opinion filed 10/23/18 remittitur issued 1/2/19

 Positions: A = Agree; AM = Agree if modified; N = Do not agree; NI = Not indicated

W20-02

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV–325, JV-569, JV-570, JV-571, JV-572, JV-573, JV-574, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			INFORMATION TO ADD TO JV-570 For use by appellants who are requesting access to the Juvenile case file as described in Rules 5.552 and 8.401(b)). The records I want are: (Check all that apply.) o All reports, documents and orders the judge expressly stated were considered or were admitted as evidence in making the challenged order. (List, if known.) _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ o The reporter's transcript from each hearing Petitioner attended. The dates are: _____ _____ _____ _____ o All reports and attachments prepared by the county agency and/or the CASA containing information about the placement history of the child/children. o All reports and attachments prepared by the county agency and/or the CASA containing information about Petitioner's visitation and/or request for visitation with the child/children.	The committees thank the commenter for the specific suggestions for form JV-570. Please response above.

W20-02

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV–325, JV-569, JV-570, JV-571, JV-572, JV-573, JV-574, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			o All reports and attachments prepared by the county agency and/or the CASA containing information about interviews or conversations with Petitioner. o All reports and attachments prepared by the county agency and/or the CASA containing information about interviews or conversations with any parties or collateral contacts discussing Petitioner's request for placement and/or visitation. o Other: (Describe in detail any records that are not covered above.) _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _____
3.	California Appellate Project Los Angeles By Stephanie G. Miller Staff Attorney	AM	Reconsider placing burdens for designation of the record, and service of JV-570 Request, on the third party appellant (i.e., a person who is not the parent, child, or guardian) now found in Local Rules Court of Appeal Second District Rule 8 and the proposed changes to Judicial Council Form JV-570.	The committees note the commenter's agreement with the proposal if modified.

 Positions: A = Agree; AM = Agree if modified; N = Do not agree; NI = Not indicated

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			Suggest: Shift burden for both tasks to the judicial officer who heard the dependency case. Direct the juvenile court clerk to file the timely third party appeal and refer it with the JV-570 form to the judicial officer for completion and return to the juvenile court appellate desk within 14 days after the filing of the notice of appeal. CAP/LA's experience with the implementation of Local Rule 8 is that most third party appellants are not represented by counsel in the juvenile court and are laypersons with a limited ability to identify the necessary record for presentation and consideration of the appeal, and with limited means and knowledge to serve notice of the JV-570. It is also CAP/LA's experience that the judicial officer reviewing the JV-570 petition completed by the third party appellant often is not knowledgeable about the necessary content of an appellate record, and his/her designation of the appellate record for the third party appeal is inadequate. The Proposal partially tracks the process in Local Rule 8. But, the local rule, although an improvement, has not resulted in the timely filing of an adequate record for a third party appeal. One example of the persisting substantial delay in deciding the appeal of a third party appellant is In re O.R. et al [B290446; unpub. opn. fld.	Shifting the responsibility for designating the record and serving form JV-570 would be a major departure from the standard practice of parties designating the record. The committees appreciate the feedback and suggestions for revising procedures. The suggested changes exceed the scope of the proposal and, under rule 10.22, would need to circulate for public comment. The committees will retain the suggestions for future consideration.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			11/26/19]. In that case, maternal aunt's notice of appeal from the denial of her Section 388 petition was filed in February 2018, but not decided until approximately 21 months later. Securing an adequate record for presentation and consideration of the appeal delayed decision. In order to obtain an adequate record, appellate counsel turned to the reviewing court and filed a petition for writ of mandate. (R.F. v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County [B296683; rem. to sup. ct. w/directions 4/26/19].) Requiring the judicial officer to timely designate the proposed record for a third party appeal, serve the parties with the proposed designation, consider any objection, and finally designate the appellate record would facilitate the preparation of the record for the third party appeal, now delayed, in part, by the third party's inability to adequately do so on his or her own. Secondly, with the third party notice of appeal in hand identifying the order that is the subject of the appeal, the judicial officer is best able to identify the necessary record, guided by the existing statewide rule defining the normal appellate record for an appeal by a parent, guardian, child or social services agency, the limited scope of the third party appeal, and the goal to protect the child's confidentiality. Those guidelines should produce an adequate appellate record at the outset.	See response above.

W20-02

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV–325, JV-569, JV-570, JV-571, JV-572, JV-573, JV-574, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			To date, the appellate record in most third party appeals is not timely filed or adequate. Although the Proposal contemplates that a second JV-570 Request filed in the juvenile court may be necessary in order for a third party appellant to reply to another party's brief, it should also anticipate the likely need to complete the record before briefing begins. Thus far, there is no direction in this area found in the proposed rules implementing Section 827, subdivision (a)(6). That absence of direction led to the filing in the Court of Appeal of the petition for writ of mandate in R.F. v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County, supra. Second Comment Received The Proposal to implement Welfare and Institutions Code section 827, subdivision (a)(6) is similar to existing Local Rules Court of Appeal Second District Rule 8 applicable to a notice of appeal filed by a person who is not the parent, child, or guardian in the dependency case. (Hereafter, third party appeal.) Although now in use for several years, Local Rule 8 has yet to achieve the timely identification, preparation, and filing of the appellate record in a third party appeal. Many third party appeals are not perfected and reach a decision on the merits.	The committees note the commenter's concerns regarding the adequacy of the appellate record that is produced as a result of the petition process. The committees appreciate these additional comments providing further explanation, and for bringing these issues to the committees' attention. As noted above, the suggestions for improving the section 827 petition process are beyond the scope of the present proposal and would need to circulate for public comment. The committees will retain these suggestions for future consideration. See response above.

 Positions: A = Agree; AM = Agree if modified; N = Do not agree; NI = Not indicated

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			In the Second District, the majority of third party appellants are unrepresented lay persons for whom the challenge to complete and serve the JV-570 request for access to the juvenile court file is a daunting one, often not completed, resulting in default and the dismissal of the appeal. (See Local Rule 8.) Secondly, if the JV-570 request is filed, preparation of the appellate record is further delayed by allowance for objection by the parties to the third party's access to the record identified in the JV-570, and by the tremendous press of other juvenile court cases. Third, the record approved after judicial review by the juvenile court for distribution to the third party appellant in his or her appeal is rarely adequate for presentation and consideration of the appellate issues. Consideration should be given to including in the Proposal a mechanism for seeking completion of the inadequate record filed in the Court of Appeal, prior to briefing. Filing a second JV-570 in the juvenile court in the quest for an additional record will undoubtedly result in further significant delay.	The committees appreciate this concern. To address this concern the committees created a preamble to item 5 of JV-570 giving instructions when the petition relates to an appeal or writ. The preamble tells petitioners to include in their request "the transcripts, reports, and any other evidence considered by the juvenile court at hearings related to the subject of the appeal or writ proceeding." In addition, item 6d requires petitioners to provide the hearing dates of the juvenile court order being challenged. The committees understand there may still be instances where a second JV-570 will need to be filed. See response above.

W20-02

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV–325, JV-569, JV-570, JV-571, JV-572, JV-573, JV-574, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			Consideration should also be given to shifting the burden for completion and service of the JV-570 from the third party appellant to the judicial officer who presided over the dependency case; imposing reasonable, mandatory time frames for designation of the proposed contents of the juvenile court record for access by the third party appellant and circulation among the parent, guardian, child and social services agency, submission of comments and objections thereto, and finalization of the content of the record designated for the third party appeal. The content of the third party notice of appeal, the judicial officer's familiarity with the case, statewide rules defining the "normal" record in a dependency appeal, and the statutory protection of the confidentiality of the child are ready guidelines to inform the juvenile court's timely, noticed, designation of the juvenile court record accessible to the third party appellant.
4.	California Lawyers Association By Leah Spero, Chair Committee on Appellate Courts and Saul Bercovitch Director of Governmental Affairs	AM	The Committee on Appellate Courts supports this proposal. In response to the Request for Specific Comments, the Committee provides the following: Should the definition of "records in the juvenile case file" in rule 8.401(b) more closely track the definition of "juvenile case file" in rule 5.552(a) or Welfare and Institutions Code section 827(e)?	The committees note the commenter's support for the proposal and appreciate the responses to the requests for specific comments.

 Positions: A = Agree; AM = Agree if modified; N = Do not agree; NI = Not indicated

W20-02

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV–325, JV-569, JV-570, JV-571, JV-572, JV-573, JV-574, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			The Committee believes the definition of "records in the juvenile case file" in rule 8.401(b) should more closely track the definition of that term as provided in section 827(e), rather than the definition as provided in rule 5.552(a). Many of the items contemplated by rule 5.552(a) are never presented to the juvenile court itself (such as "[d]ocuments made available to . . . social workers"). Those items therefore could not properly be presented in connection with the appellate review process, and permitting parties to access such items would only serve to increase the risk of public disclosure or provide access to otherwise irrelevant material.	The committees agree that the definition should not include the items mentioned in rule 5.552. The rule has been amended to reflect this.
			Relatedly, the Committee is concerned that the definition in the proposed amendment to rule 8.401(b) is ambiguous. As presently drafted, "records in the juvenile case file" would only encompass "a document, paper, . . . or other thing filed in the juvenile court." It is therefore susceptible to an interpretation that a successful petitioner could access only those materials formally "filed" with the juvenile court. However, Welfare & Institutions Code section 827(e) contemplates access to all things "filed in that case or made available to. . . and thereafter retained" by the court. Section 827(a)(6) similarly seems to contemplate access to all "records in a juvenile case file"— regardless of	The committees agree and have modified the definition to include lodged materials.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			whether they were formally filed, or merely lodged or retained. That is, the statute contemplates access to lodgings or other documents which were reviewed and retained by the court, and which might therefore be made part of the record on appeal, but which were never officially docketed or "filed" with the court. The Committee therefore recommends that the proposed rule be modified to address this ambiguity. Does the proposed information sheet, form JV-291-INFO, provide the information necessary for an individual to understand the right to appeal and the process for requesting access to records in the juvenile case file? Should other information be included? The Committee believes that JV-291-INFO provides the necessary information regarding appeals by persons who are not children, parents, or legal guardians. For additional clarity, the information sheet could also describe the presumptions applicable to children, parents, or legal guardians. However, the information sheet is relatively clear as drafted, and information for children, parents, and legal guardians is available from other sources. The Committee therefore does not believe this additional guidance is affirmatively necessary.	The committees note this suggestion and agree with the commenter that it could be helpful. However, the information sheet already contains a lot of information. The committees concluded that it would be better not to add non-essential content.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			Should rule 5.552 require that the parent and county counsel receive notice if a petition for access is filed by an adult who is a former or current dependent and is seeking access to their case file for the purpose of education, employment, immigration, and/or military enlistment? The Committee does not believe that Rule 5.552 should further specify circumstances under which a parent or county counsel must receive notice. Rule 5.552(c)(1) already specifies that parents and county counsel are generally entitled to receive notice whenever a petition for access has been filed. Moreover, while public policy supports notifying a parent or county counsel of documents filed in connection with minor children, public policy does not seem to support notifying parents of their adult children's requests. Rather, it would seem to favor the adult petitioner's right to privacy. Rule 5.552 does not require that a parent's attorney of record receive notice when a petition for access is filed. Should the rule require such notice? The Committee believes that Rule 5.552 should specify that notice must be given to attorneys of record whenever petitions for access are filed. Juvenile proceedings generally require that attorneys be notified of any filing relevant to	The committees agree that the notice requirements in rule 5.552 should not be changed. The committees have elected to require notice to the parent and county counsel in these situations because their input on confidential information in the case file is essential. The committees elected not to change the notice requirements of rule 5.552. The committee anticipates that a parent's or guardian's attorneys will be notified if the parent or guardian cannot be located.

W20-02

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV–325, JV-569, JV-570, JV-571, JV-572, JV-573, JV-574, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			their client. (See Rule 5.502(27).) The Committee sees no reason to depart from this general rule.
5.	California Lawyers Association Executive Committee of the Family Law Section (FLEXCOM) by Justin M. O'Connell FLEXCOM Legislation Chair and Saul Bercovitch Director of Governmental Affairs	A	[No specific comment provided.]	The committees note the commenter's agreement with the proposal.
6.	Joint Rules Subcommittee (JRS) of the Trial Court Presiding Judges Advisory Committee (TCPJAC) and the Court Executives Advisory Committee (CEAC)	AM	The JRS notes that the proposal is required to conform to a change of law. The JRS also notes the following impact to court operations: • Results in additional training, which requires the commitment of staff time and court resources. • Increases court staff workload. • JV-569 – Proof of Service-Petition to Access to a Juvenile Case File o The duplicated item #4 should be renumbered to #5. The existing #5 should be renumbered to #6. • JV-574 – Order After Judicial Review on Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File o In section 2d, it is recommended that the sentence be updated to read, "There are no records that can be released in response to the	The committees note the commenter's agreement with the proposal if modified. The committees appreciate this feedback on the impact to court operations and the commenter's responses to specific questions presented in the invitation to comment. Item 4 continues onto page 2 of the form. Repeating the item number at the top of the next page is a form convention. The committees agree that this item should be clarified.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			petitioner's request." This may make it easier for individuals to understand the reason for the denied request. Does the proposed information sheet, form JV-291-INFO, provide the information necessary for an individual to understand the right to appeal and the process for requesting access to records in the juvenile case file? o Yes, the proposed form provides the necessary information to individuals. The proposed information sheet provides sufficient information; however, it could be formatted differently to make it easier for individuals to comprehend. Section #2 is a block of information. It may be more beneficial to provide questions and answers similar to the JV-060-INFO.	Reformatting the information sheet to a question-and-answer format is beyond the scope of changes that can be made at this time. The committees will retain this suggestion for consideration in a future rules cycle.
			• Would the proposal provide a cost savings? o The proposal would not provide a cost savings. The approved form, JV-291-INFO, would require additional printing and court time to disseminate to individuals.	Noted. No further response required.
			• What would the implementation requirements be for courts? o Communication would be needed to judicial officers and staff. Procedures may require revisions and updates would be needed to the case management system.	Noted. No further response required.

W20-02

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV–325, JV-569, JV-570, JV-571, JV-572, JV-573, JV-574, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			• Would three months from Judicial Council approval of this proposal until its effective date provide sufficient time for implementation? o Yes, three months would be sufficient time to implement.	Noted. No further response required.
7.	Orange County Bar Association by Scott B. Garner, President Newport Beach, California	A	Does the proposal appropriately address the stated purpose? Yes. Should the definintion of "records in the juvenile case file" in rule 8.401(b) more closely track the definition of "juvenile case file" in rule 5.552(a) or Welfare and Institutions Code section 827(e)? The definition of "juvenile case file" in rule 5.552(a) is preferable to the statutory definition. Notably, it clearly states that the rule of confidentiality extends to transcripts of juvenile court proceedings, a point left ambiguous by section 827(e). Does the proposed information sheet, form JV-291-INFO, provide the information necessary for an individual to understand the right to appeal and the process for requesting access to records in the juvenile case file? Should other information be included?	The committees note the commenter's agreement with the proposal and appreciate the responses to specific questions. The committees have modified the definition in rule 8.401 to include lodged materials. Noted. No further response required.

 Positions: A = Agree; AM = Agree if modified; N = Do not agree; NI = Not indicated

W20-02

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV–325, JV-569, JV-570, JV-571, JV-572, JV-573, JV-574, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			The information provided by the form in clear, easy to understand and complete. Should rule 5.552 require that the parent and county counsel receive notice if a petition for access if filed by an adult who is a former or current dependent and is seeking access to their case file for the purpose of education, employment, immigration, and/or military history? With respect to records actually in the court file, section 827 would provide the person with access without notice to their own records but for the fact that they have reached the age of majority and in the case of non-minor dependents, they nevertheless retain access under section 362.5. It makes little sense to require notice now that the person is an adult in light of the fact that they are the one whose confidential interest is at stake. However, as a pratical matter, especially when the petition for access seeks records covered under Penal Code section 11164 et seq that did not result in a court filing, county counsel may be involved in reviewing the records sought and notice may expedite that process. Rule 5.552 does not require that a parent's attorney of record receive notice when a petition for access is filed. Should the rule require such notice?	The committees elected not to change the notice requirements of rule 5.552. The committees have elected to require notice to the parent and county counsel in these situations because their input on confidential information in the case file is essential.

 Positions: A = Agree; AM = Agree if modified; N = Do not agree; NI = Not indicated

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			The statute requires notice on all "interested parties." The attorney for a party is not a party. Currently, the rule, along with Form JV-569 require service only on three types of attorneys—County Counsel in a dependency case, the District Attorney in a delinquency or truancy case, and the minor's attorney, as they are either the petitioner in the proceedings or the attorney representing the interests of the child. Expanding notice to require service on parent's counsel goes beyond the call of the statute. However, it is not uncommon in dependency proceedings for parents to absent themselves. In that situation, parent's counsel do their best to protect their clients' rights and interests. In such a situation, those interests can only be protected by service on the attorney.	The committees elected not to change the notice requirements of rule 5.552. The committee anticipates that a parent's or guardian's attorneys will be notified if the parent or guardian cannot be located.
8.	San Diego County Bar Association by Helen Irza, Chair Appellate Practice Section	AM	The Appellate Practice Section of the San Diego County Bar Association appreciates the opportunity to review and comment on the proposed amendments to the California Rules of Court that govern access to records in juvenile cases. After canvassing our membership and forming a subcommittee to discuss the proposed changes, we respectfully submit the following comments. Specific Comments:	The committees note the commenter's agreement with the proposal if modified.

W20-02

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV–325, JV-569, JV-570, JV-571, JV-572, JV-573, JV-574, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			The Invitation to Comment requests comments on five specific topics. Our section's input is provided below. 1. Does the proposal adequately address the stated purpose? The Executive Summary of the Invitation to Comment states that the purpose of the proposed rule and form changes is to implement the recent Judicial Council-sponsored legislation that amends the statute that governs access to records in juvenile cases. Our understanding is that the changes are intended to help expedite the review process and to provide notice about the requirements for accessing confidential records to individuals who seek review. Our section supports the proposed changes to the rules and the proposed new forms. Below we offer specific feedback and a few suggestions to increase awareness and make the forms easier for laypersons to understand.	The committees note the commenter's support for the proposed rule and form changes and appreciate the additional comments and suggestions.
			Rule amendments: Rule 5.552 Our section strongly supports the proposed replacement of the terms "disclosure" and "disclosed" with "access to" and "released." We agree that the proposed changes will further the purpose of the new legislation by clarifying the scope and limits of a petitioner's access to confidential juvenile court records.	Noted. No further response required.

 Positions: A = Agree; AM = Agree if modified; N = Do not agree; NI = Not indicated

W20-02

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV–325, JV-569, JV-570, JV-571, JV-572, JV-573, JV-574, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			New and revised forms: Notice on JV forms
			Our section supports the addition of the proposed notice on the forms specified in the Invitation to Comment, namely JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV-325, JV-800, JV-820 and JV-822, and we agree that the proposed change will help foster awareness that petitioners and appellants must file a petition in order to access confidential records in a juvenile case file.	Noted. No further response required.
			We propose, however, that the notice should also be included on these additional forms: Request To Change Court Order (form JV-180); Court Order on Form JV-180 (form JV-183); and Order After Hearing On Form JV-180 (form JV-184).	Modifying additional forms exceeds the scope of the present proposal, but the Family and Juvenile Law Advisory Committee will retain this suggestion for future consideration.
			As noted in the background section of the Invitation to Comment, one purpose of the proposed changes is to provide notice about the petition process to litigants who are authorized to participate in juvenile proceedings and who either have a right to seek review of certain orders or to respond to an appeal of such orders. This group of litigants includes individuals who file a petition under Welfare and Institutions Code, section 388, to change, modify, or set aside a juvenile court order. The form created for filing such a petition under section 388 is form JV-180.	The committees appreciate this discussion of the benefit of adding the notice to these three additional forms.

 Positions: A = Agree; AM = Agree if modified; N = Do not agree; NI = Not indicated

W20-02

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV–325, JV-569, JV-570, JV-571, JV-572, JV-573, JV-574, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			Forms JV-183 and JV-184 are typically used by the court for orders served on the appellant after the Request to Change Court Order has been denied. It is our understanding that most appeals occur after a denial, For this reason, including the notice on these forms in addition to the JV-180 would further the purpose of informing appellants about the need to request a record to prepare for an appeal.	No further response required.
			Our section submits that adding the proposed notice to forms JV-180, JV-183 and JV-184 would expedite the process of creating an appellate record that includes confidential documents for those individuals who subsequently need to access them for an appeal. We believe this will assist in preventing delays in creating the record in juvenile dependency appeals which, under rule 8.416(e), must be determined within 250 days after the notice of appeal is filed.	No further response required.
			New and revised forms: Revisions to notice of appeal and notice of intent to file writ petition forms
			Our section supports the proposed revisions to the notice of appeal and notice of intent to file writ petition forms that will allow litigants who have been granted access to confidential records by the juvenile court to attach the authorizing	The committees appreciate this feedback.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			order to these forms. The proposal, in our view, furthers the stated goal of implementing the new legislation and preventing delay in cases governed by rule 8.416(e). We anticipate that the ability to provide notice of an existing order in this simple and straightforward manner to the court clerks who prepare appellate records will reduce delays in the preparation of the appellate record. 2. Should the definition of "records in the juvenile case file" in rule 8.401(b) more closely track the definition of "juvenile case file" in rule 5.552(a) or Welfare and Institutions Code section 827, subd. (e)? After reviewing both rules, in our view, the definition of "records in the juvenile case file" should more closely track rule 5.552(a). We suggest that rule 5.552(a) is more appropriate because it includes documents that are typically used in both juvenile delinquency and dependency appeals. Section 827, subdivision (e), defines a "juvenile case file" to mean documents filed by or used by the probation officer in making a probation officer's report. (§ 827, subd. (e).) By contrast, rule 5.552(a) defines a "juvenile case file" to include all documents filed in a juvenile court case, including reports by probation officers, social workers of child welfare services	The committees agree and have modified the definition to include lodged materials.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			programs and CASA volunteers, transcripts, and documents submitted as evidence. (Rule 5.552(a).) Notably, probation officer reports are typical in delinquency cases, but are only rarely prepared in dependency cases, which most often rely on social worker reports. Also, juvenile case files frequently include other confidential documents (e.g., Marsden hearing transcripts) in addition to the probation and social worker reports. For these reasons, we believe the definition in rule 5.552(a) is the better one to track as it will make it clear to individuals who request access to confidential records that all confidential documents, including those typically used in dependency appeals, are subject to the new legislation. 3. Does the proposed information sheet, form JV-291-INFO, provide the information necessary for an individual to understand the right to appeal and the process for requesting access to records in the juvenile case file? Should other information be included? In our view, the proposed information sheet provides the information that is necessary for an individual to understand the process for requesting access to confidential records with one caveat. We suggest that it would be helpful to tell petitioners that the typical processing	The committees elected not to include a warning that the section 827 petition process can delayed or denied based on the venue. The committees do not believe that there are typical time periods for decisions on section 827 petitions, as each venue is different in how these petitions are handled, and

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			time for a petition may be weeks or months. The provision of this information would increase awareness of the need to file petitions at the very beginning of the appellate process, and it would be especially helpful for unrepresented parties who do not have an attorney to advise them that they must make a timely request for access. 4. Should rule 5.552 require that the parent and county counsel receive notice if a petition for access is filed by an adult who is a former or current dependent and is seeking access to their case file for the purpose of education, employment, immigration and/or military enlistment? In our view, rule 5.552 should require notice to the parent and county counsel for the purpose of allowing those parties to advocate for redactions to the requested records. In dependency cases, it is important for parents and county counsel to be notified about a request for access even if the case is final. Juvenile dependency case files often include confidential information about the parent and parties other than the subject dependent, such as psychological evaluations and social security numbers. In the typical appellate record from a dependency case, such documents are sealed and labeled "confidential." They are not	such a warning could have the potential of deterring someone from filing the petition. The committees elected not to change the notice requirements of rule 5.552. The committees have elected to require notice to the parent and county counsel in these situations because their input on confidential information in the case file is essential.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			provided to counsel for the dependent minor on appeal. After an appellate case has closed, the former or current dependent (including non-minor dependents) should still be prohibited from accessing this type of private and sensitive information. Requiring notification to the parent and county counsel that a petition for access has been filed would provide an opportunity for affected parties to notify the juvenile court of the need to redact confidential information that should remain protected. Our section is aware that the judge who reviews a petition to access confidential records has the ability restrict access to a redacted copy. However, it is the parent and county counsel who are familiar with the case file and what needs to be protected. A rule that requires notice of a request for access will allow the parent and county counsel to assist the court with locating information that should be redacted or otherwise protected from disclosure. Such a rule would accordingly assist with the protection of the parties' private information and also save judicial resources. 5. Rule 5.552 does not require that a parent's attorney of record receive notice when a petition for access if filed. Should the rule require such notice?

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			It is the position of our section that the rule should require notice to a parent's attorney of record when a petition for access is filed. The current rule provides that a parent must be notified. However, it is often difficult to locate parents who may have moved or become homeless. Requiring notification to parent's counsel would enhance the likelihood that such parents will be located and provided with an opportunity to advocate for redaction to the requested files. In addition, for those parents whose whereabouts are known, the attorney of record may nevertheless be the person who is most informed about the existence of confidential information that needs to be protected.	The committees elected not to change the notice requirements of rule 5.552. The committee anticipates that a parent's or guardian's attorneys will be notified if the parent or guardian cannot be located.
9.	Superior Court of California, County of Los Angeles	AM	See attached recommended changes to proposed forms. Does the proposal adequately address the stated purpose? No. Consider these circumstances: A non-party petitioner previously requested access to the juvenile records by filing a JV570. Court granted access to records with redactions. If the petitioner later files an appeal or writ, are they required to file a new JV570 outlining the records/documents needed for the appeal or writ or do they have access to the prior records	The committees note the commenter's support for the proposal if modified and have made several of the suggested modifications to the forms. The non-party petitioner in this example would not have to file a new JV-570 form. The amendment to section 827 provides that the person would be entitled to the same access to records in the appellate court as was granted in the superior court.

W20-02

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV–325, JV-569, JV-570, JV-571, JV-572, JV-573, JV-574, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			requested as previously redacted? This is currently not clear. Records requested should only be related to hearing or petition appealing.
			Rules should clearly reflect that whenever there is an appeal or writ filed by a non-party participant that a JV570 be required at the time of the filing of the appeal or writ.	The non-party participant may have already filed the form JV-570 petition during juvenile court proceedings. Based on feedback that filing a form JV-570 should not be a prerequisite for filing a notice of appeal or petition for writ, the committees decline to make this change.
			Updates to JV569 and 570 need to be made for further clarification to non-party appellants/petitions.	The committees thank the commenter for providing specific suggestions for these forms.
			• Should the definition of "records in the juvenile case file" in rule 8.401(b) more closely track the definition of "juvenile case file" in rule 5.552(a) or Welfare and Institutions Code section 827(e)?
			Juvenile Case File in rule 5.552 (a).	The committees have modified the definition to include lodged materials.
			• Does the proposed information sheet, form JV-291-INFO, provide the information necessary for an individual to understand the right to appeal and the process for requesting access to records in the juvenile case file?
			Yes. This is very helpful.	Noted. No further response required.
			Should other information be included?

 Positions: A = Agree; AM = Agree if modified; N = Do not agree; NI = Not indicated

W20-02

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV–325, JV-569, JV-570, JV-571, JV-572, JV-573, JV-574, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			Yes. Notice requirement for party to give notice to "interested parties." How is this possible when non-party appellants do not have access to case information, party names or mailing addresses? Must the Court be responsible for giving notice on all non-party petitions? These petitioners are not represented. They do not have access to party names, types and addresses. (See recommendations for changes to form JV569 and 570) Court will have to fill out form JV569. Forms should be fillable. • Should rule 5.552 require that the parent and county counsel receive notice if a petition for access is filed by an adult who is a former or current dependent and is seeking access to their case file for the purpose of education, employment, immigration, and/or military enlistment? No. If parent's rights have been terminated they should not receive notice. If youth is 18 years old or older, no notice to parents should be required unless court orders notice to child/adult. • Rule 5.552 does not require that a parent's attorney of record receive notice when a petition	Rule 5.552(c)(3) requires the clerk to provide service if the petitioner does not know the identify or address of any of the parties required to receive notice. The forms will be fillable. The committees elected not to change the notice requirements of rule 5.552. The committees have elected to require notice to the parent and county counsel in these situations because their input on confidential information in the case file is essential. The committees agree that the rule should clarify that notice is not required if parental rights have been terminated. The suggested change has been made.

W20-02

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV–325, JV-569, JV-570, JV-571, JV-572, JV-573, JV-574, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			for access is filed. Should the rule require such notice? Yes, for children under 18 years. The advisory committees also seek comments from courts on the following cost and implementation matters: • Would the proposal provide cost savings? If so, please quantify. No. Non-party appeals or writs require a lot of additional resources to review, notice and process the appeals/writs. Redactions of the record are required for both the Clerk's and Reporter's record on appeal. Costly to order reporter's transcripts, original after review. Order to redact must require the court reporter to file a new original transcript with redacted information. • What would the implementation requirements be for courts—for example, training staff (please identify position and expected hours of training), revising processes and procedures (please describe), changing docket codes in case management systems, or modifying case management systems?	The committees elected not to change the notice requirements of rule 5.552. The committee anticipates that a parent's or guardian's attorneys will be notified if the parent or guardian cannot be located. The committees acknowledge the additional court resources required for these appeals and writs, and appreciate this insight. The committees appreciate this information on the implementation requirements.

W20-02

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV–325, JV-569, JV-570, JV-571, JV-572, JV-573, JV-574, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			Training on the process, redaction software and training, new forms would require the addition of event codes in CMS. • Would three months from Judicial Council approval of this proposal until its effective date provide sufficient time for implementation? Los Angeles already has implemented a similar process. Besides the new forms, the required noticing of the petition and the time consuming redactions of records, the changes could be implemented within 3 months. Proposed changes to the forms must be completed prior to implementation.	Noted. No further response required.
10.	Superior Court of California, County of Orange Family Law and Juvenile Court	NI	Comments □ JV-569 – Proof of Service-Petition to Access to a Juvenile Case File □ The duplicated item #4 should be renumbered to #5. The existing #5 should be renumbered to #6. □ JV – 571 - Notice of Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File □ It is recommended to revise the top portion “TO: (names)” to “TO (names of parties being served)” □ JV-574 – Order After Judicial Review on Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File	The committees appreciate the comments and responses to the requests for specific comments. See response to JRS. Because notice under rule 5.552 is required for a CASA volunteer who is not considered a party, the committees have elected not to make this change. See response to JRS.

 Positions: A = Agree; AM = Agree if modified; N = Do not agree; NI = Not indicated

W20-02

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV–325, JV-569, JV-570, JV-571, JV-572, JV-573, JV-574, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			□ In section 2d, it is recommended that the sentence be updated to read, "There are no records that can be released in response to the petitioner's request." This may make it easier for individuals to understand the reason for the denied request. Request for Specific Comments □ Does the proposed information sheet, form JV-291-INFO, provide the information necessary for an individual to understand the right to appeal and the process for requesting access to records in the juvenile case file? □ Yes, the proposed form provides the necessary information to individuals. □ Does the proposed information sheet, form JV-291-INFO, provide the information necessary for an individual to understand the right to appeal and the process for requesting access to records in the juvenile case file? □ The proposed information sheet provides sufficient information; however, it could be formatted differently to make it easier for individuals to comprehend. Section #2 is a block of information. It may be more beneficial to provide questions and answers similar to the JV-060-INFO. □ Would the proposal provide a cost savings?	Noted. See response to JRS. See response to JRS.

 Positions: A = Agree; AM = Agree if modified; N = Do not agree; NI = Not indicated

W20-02

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV–325, JV-569, JV-570, JV-571, JV-572, JV-573, JV-574, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			□ The proposal would not provide a cost savings. The approved form, JV-291-INFO, would require additional printing and court time to disseminate to individuals. □ What would the implementation requirements be for courts? □ Communication would be needed to judicial officers and staff. Procedures may require revisions and updates would be needed to the case management system. □ Would three months from Judicial Council approval of this proposal until its effective date provide sufficient time for implementation? □ Yes, three months would be sufficient time to implement.	See response to JRS. See response to JRS.
11.	Superior Court of California, County of San Diego by Mike Roddy Executive Officer	AM	• Does the proposal adequately address the stated purpose? Yes. • Should the definition of "records in the juvenile case file" in rule 8.401(b) more closely track the definition of "juvenile case file" in rule 5.552(a) or Welfare and Institutions Code section 827(e)? No. • Does the proposed information sheet, form JV-291-INFO, provide the information necessary for an individual to understand the right to appeal and the process for requesting access to	The committees note the commenter's support for the proposal if modified. The committees have modified the definition to include lodged materials.

 Positions: A = Agree; AM = Agree if modified; N = Do not agree; NI = Not indicated

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			records in the juvenile case file? Should other information be included? Please see suggested revisions below. • Should rule 5.552 require that the parent and county counsel receive notice if a petition for access is filed by an adult who is a former or current dependent and is seeking access to their case file for the purpose of education, employment, immigration, and/or military enlistment? No. An "adult who is a former or current dependent" need not file a petition for access in the first place (see WIC § 827(a)(1)(C)) unless he or she seeks to disseminate the juvenile case file, or any portion thereof, to a person or agency not authorized to receive documents under WIC § 827 (see § 827(a)(4)). Assuming the adult former or current dependent is filing a petition solely for the purpose of further dissemination, there is no underlying policy reason to protect the confidentiality of the parent(s), the county child welfare agency, or the county probation department. As noted in the proposal, the confidentiality provided by WIC § 827 "is intended to protect the privacy rights of the child who is the subject of the juvenile court proceedings," (Invitation to Comment W20-02,	Noted. The committees elected not to change the notice requirements of rule 5.552. The committees have elected to require notice to the parent and county counsel in these situations because their input on confidential information in the case file is essential.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			p. 2), not the privacy rights of other adults involved in the child's case. (See also WIC § 300.2 ["the provisions of this chapter ensuring the confidentiality of proceedings and records are intended to protect the privacy rights of the child"].) On the other hand, if the juvenile court file contains information identifying other former or current dependents (e.g., the petitioner's sibling(s)), they or their counsel should receive notice. • Rule 5.552 does not require that a parent's attorney of record receive notice when a petition for access is filed. Should the rule require such notice? San Diego has a local rule that requires notice to the parent's attorney if there is an open dependency case. • Would the proposal provide cost savings? Probably, to the extent the workload of court clerks is reduced by the proposed procedures for providing the record on appeal to nonparty appellants and the new item 3 proposed for form JV-569. • What would the implementation requirements be for courts—for example, training	The committees elected not to change the notice requirements of rule 5.552. The committees anticipate that in some venues parent's and guardian's attorneys will still be noticed, as is the case in San Diego. Noted. No further response required.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			staff (please identify position and expected hours of training), revising processes and procedures (please describe), changing docket codes in case management systems, or modifying case management systems? Training of clerks (and their supervisors) who process appeals and writ petitions and clerks who process WIC § 827 petitions. Revision of local rules, local forms, local protocols and procedures. Possible need to collaborate with Fourth District, Division One, Court of Appeal to ensure efficiency and compliance with new rules. • Would three months from Judicial Council approval of this proposal until its effective date provide sufficient time for implementation? Three months probably is insufficient for larger counties who process a large number of appeals/writ petitions and WIC § 827 petitions. Revision of our local rules is a long process that only happens once each year, so that might not happen within three months. General comments This is an issue we have already been addressing here in San Diego. It will be helpful to have more clarity in the rules and forms.	The committees appreciate this information regarding implementation requirements for the court. The committees acknowledge that three months may not be enough time to have local rules and procedures fully in place, but are proceeding with the September 1, 2020, effective date because the statute has been in effect since January 2019. The committees appreciate this feedback.

W20-02

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV–325, JV-569, JV-570, JV-571, JV-572, JV-573, JV-574, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			Overall, this proposal makes more sense than the one circulated last spring. Change to names of forms: "Access" is more accurate than "disclosure" but this change will require us to update our local policy document, local rules, and web site with the new names of the forms. CRC 8.401(b)(2) Access to records in the juvenile case file, including any such records made part of the record on appeal or the record on a writ petition, is governed by Welfare and Institutions Code section 827. Persons who are not described in subdivision (a)(1)(A)-(P) ~~and have petitioned the juvenile court under subdivision (a)(1)(Q)~~ may not inspect ~~and~~ or receive copies of ~~copy only those~~ records from ~~in~~ the juvenile case file unless ~~to which~~ that person ~~and have~~ has petitioned the juvenile court under subdivision (a)(1)(Q) and was granted access by order of the juvenile court. JV-291-INFO, paragraph 1 Under very limited circumstances, a person who is not the child, parent, or legal guardian in a dependency or ~~delinquency~~ juvenile justice case has the right to seek review of decisions made by the juvenile court by filing an appeal or writ	The committees acknowledge the effort required to implement this change. The committees agree and have made these edits to the rule. The committees agree and have made these changes to the form.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			petition in the Court of Appeal. Such a~~n individual~~ person, however, is typically not entitled to access records from the juvenile court case file that will be considered by the Court of Appeal ~~on appeal from the juvenile court case file for purposes of an appeal or writ proceeding~~ unless the person gets approval from the juvenile court. The purpose of this information sheet is to inform those ~~individuals~~ persons who are not the child, parent, or legal guardian, and who may have the right to seek appellate review, of the requirement to file a Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File (form JV-570) to have access to certain records in the juvenile case file during an appeal or writ. JV-291-INFO, item 2 Comment: In certain cases, a non-party appellant or petitioner might already be authorized to access certain documents in the juvenile case file before they file a notice of appeal or notice of intent to file a writ petition, e.g., where the trial court granted the non-party access under WIC § 827 during the proceedings below which are being challenged. Perhaps the first sentence in this item can be revised to read: "If the juvenile court has not already authorized you to access records in the juvenile case file, to ~~To~~ have access to such records ~~in the juvenile~~	The committees agree and have made these changes.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			~~case file~~ for an appeal or writ proceeding, you must request access from the juvenile court." Suggested addition to first paragraph: You will need to serve a copy of this form on all interested parties to the case, if you know their names and addresses, including the child, parents, social worker, and probation officer. (See Notice of Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File (form JV-571). Query: In the second paragraph, should "request" be replaced with "petition" to be consistent with the proposed change in the title of the JV-570? Suggested revision to third paragraph (unless the original of the JV-574 order is desired): When you file a notice of appeal or a notice of intent to file a writ petition, you should attach a copy of the court's order on the JV-574, if you have one. Doing so will alert the clerk that you are authorized to access records in the case file and will ensure that a record will be prepared for you. JV-321, item 8i.	The committees agree with calling the reader's attention to this mandatory form and have made changes to this paragraph. The committees agree with replacing several instances of "request" with "petition" to be consistent. The committees agree and have made this change. The correction has been made.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			Attended any of the classes required of a prospective adoptive parent. JV-569, item 3 Comment: Is there a reason to limit that to attorneys? In San Diego, we publish those addresses in our local policy on the court web site and expect even unrepresented litigants to serve those agencies. JV-570, item 5 If you are ~~an individual~~ involved in a pending proceeding in an appellate court or you are preparing to participate in such a proceeding, you should describe here ~~in this Petition for Access~~ the transcripts, reports, and any other evidence considered by the juvenile court at hearings related to the subject of the appeal or writ proceeding. For example, you should describe a report by providing its title (such as, "status review report," "jurisdiction/disposition report," or "CASA report") and the date of the hearing when the document was considered.) JV-570, item 6d Insert blank line after "(name of district): _____" JV-572, item 3	The committees agree that this item should not be limited to only attorneys and have modified the language. The committees have made these edits. The correction has been made. The correction has been made.

W20-02

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 5.552 and 8.401; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV–325, JV-569, JV-570, JV-571, JV-572, JV-573, JV-574, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			I object to the release of information and records relating to the child named in item 1. JV-573 and JV-574, left footer Delete "828" from statutes cited. JV-574, item 2c Change for consistency with language in CRC 5.552(d)(6): Petitioner has not shown by a preponderance of the evidence that the records requested are necessary and have ~~a~~ substantial relevance to the legitimate need of the petitioner. JV-574, item 3 Move checkbox after "noticed" to after "objections": After a review of the juvenile case file and review of any filed objections ☐ and a noticed ~~☐~~ hearing, the court grants the request. JV-800, item 2e (unless the original of the JV-574 order is desired) Appellant has been granted access to specified records in the juvenile case file, and a copy of	This correction has been made on both forms. The edit has been made. The committees have made this correction. The committees have made this correction.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			the court's order under Welfare and Institutions Code section 827(a)(1)(Q), on Order After Judicial Review on Petition for Access to Juvenile Case File (form JV-574) if available, is attached. JV-800, item 7 Insert colon after "(check all that apply)." JV-800, item 7a Query: Should a check box be added for "Denying transfer to tribal court"? JV-820, page 2, last box section, WHO MUST SIGN THE NOTICE OF INTENT? ~~Must be signed by the~~ The person who intends to file the writ petition, or ~~By the~~ The attorney of record for the person who intends to file the writ petition JV-822, item 7 (unless the original of the JV-574 order is desired) Petitioner has been granted access to specified records in the juvenile case file, and a copy of the court's order under Welfare and Institutions Code section 827(a)(1)(Q), on Order After Judicial Review on Petition for Access to	This correction has been made. The suggested change has been made. The committees agree and have made this change. The committees have made this change.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	DRAFT Committees Response
			Juvenile Case File (form JV-574) if available, is attached. JV-822, page 2, second boxed section The Notice of Intent to File Writ Petition must be signed by the person intending to file the writ petition or~~,~~ by the attorney of record for that person. See below for more information. JV-822, page 2, last box section, WHO MUST SIGN THE NOTICE OF INTENT? ~~Must be signed:~~ ~~By the~~ The person who intends to file the writ petition, or ~~By the~~ The attorney of record for the person who intends to file the writ petition	The committees have made this change. The committees agree and have made these changes.

SPR19-06

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.400, 8.401, 8.405, 8.407–8.410, 8.412, 8.416, 8.450, 8.452, 8.454, and 8.456; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV-325, JV-570, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
1.	Advokids By Janet G. Sherwood, J.D., CWLS Deputy Director		The following comments to the proposed rule are submitted by Advokids, a nonprofit organization that advocates for the rights of children in foster care, including the right to safety, security, stability, and timely permanency decisions. These responses to the specific questions posed by the proposal and as well as all other comments were prepared by a certified child welfare law specialist with over 40 years of experience in the field. She was also a certified appellate law specialist until she closed her private practice in 2016 to work full-time with Advokids. Does the proposal adequately address the stated purpose? No. It needlessly creates a barrier to timely appeals by appearing to require juvenile court approval of a Welfare and Institutions Code section 8271 petition before either the appeal can be filed or the record prepared. It is not entirely clear from the proposal when the 827 petition must be filed. It can be read to say that the only documents that may be included in the record are those for which the juvenile court granted an 827 petition during the juvenile court proceedings resulting in the order being appealed and that the petition must have been granted before the appeal or notice of intent can be filed. (See, e,g., JV-291-INFO ["When you file a notice of appeal or a notice of intent to file a writ petition, you will need to attach the juvenile court's order indicating the records to which it granted you access."] The proposal also does not adequately address the stated purpose because there are no time limits on how much time a juvenile court can take to act on a section 827 petition nor is there any remedy available when the juvenile court wrongfully denies a section 827 petition, thereby effectively preventing the appeal or writ from being considered. For example, the Los Angeles Superior Court has a practice of refusing to file notices of appeal or notices of intent to file a writ petition from de facto parents as well as persons who are not the parent, the child, or the agency unless that person also files a section 827 petition. Those section 827 petitions then languish for months and months before they are acted upon. It is also not unheard of for those petitions to be sent for a ruling to the judge whose order is being appealed, even though the procedure

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response

SPR19-06

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.400, 8.401, 8.405, 8.407–8.410, 8.412, 8.416, 8.450, 8.452, 8.454, and 8.456; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV-325, JV-570, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			specified by section 827 requires the presiding judge to make that determination. In the meantime, resolution of issues important to the child's stability, permanency, or well-being are being unnecessarily delayed or not decided at all. If the proposal requires a ruling on the section 827 petition before a notice of appeal or notice or intent can be filed, then the absence of time limits on when the juvenile court must act on the section 827 petition must be addressed. The time limits for filing a Notice of Intent are very short. Even if a section 827 petition is filed before the notice of intent, it will not have been acted upon before the notice of intent must be filed to preserve the right to file a writ petition after the record is prepared and no record will be prepared because the court has not yet acted on the pending section 827 petition. The statutory writ proceedings under sections 366.26(l) and 366.28 were adopted because the Legislature wanted the issues raised by these writ petitions to be resolved swiftly, usually in no more than in 120 days from the date of the order. If there are no time limits on when the juvenile court must act on a prerequisite section 827

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			petition and no remedy when such petitions are wrongfully denied, then the purpose of the writ procedures can be completely thwarted by the failure of a juvenile court to make a prompt decision on the section 827 petition. Should other rules apply to preparing, sending, and using a limited record? Yes. There are a number of proceedings in juvenile court for which a formal section 827 petition is not considered or granted for access to the pleadings or other documents during that proceeding but from which a writ petition or appeal may appropriately be taken by a party to that proceeding who is not also a party to the entire juvenile court case. The most prominent examples are 388 petitions filed by relatives or other interested persons for modification of an existing juvenile court order, de facto parent requests that are denied, and writ petitions filed under section 366.28 after the court has made a prospective adoptive parent determination under section 366.26, subdivision (n) or otherwise granted or denied a change in adoptive placement. In those cases, if the appellate review is sought by someone who is not otherwise a party to the entire section 300 proceeding, the appropriate record would include the documents before the court for that specific proceeding and reporter's transcripts, if any, of those proceedings. Generally speaking, if the juvenile court grants access to social worker reports or other documents during those proceedings, it does not do so by employing the formal 827 process. It makes a ruling authorizing access in response to a discovery request or similar motion in the course of the proceeding, usually because due process requires that the information be made available to ensure a fair opportunity to be heard and to defend against any adverse information in those reports. (See, e.g., In re Matthew P. (1999) 71 Cal.App.4th 841, 850-851 [denial of due process to decide section 388 petition without permitting cross-examination of social worker regarding information in the social worker's report adverse to the de facto parents].) Aside from the due process problems that arise when an appellant or writ petitioner is barred from having access to the same documents as the other parties to the appeal or writ proceeding, the notion that the documents employed in the proceedings from which appellate review is sought are confidential from the persons who either filed or had access to those very same documents when they participated in the juvenile court proceeding is illogical and ridiculous. The notion that a person who was present at and participated in a hearing must file a section 827 hearing to obtain a reporter's transcript of that same hearing is likewise ridiculous. Adding the completely unnecessary step of requiring a section 827 petition before the person who filed the documents in the trial court or participated in the hearing can see documents or a reporter's transcript of that hearing in the appellate record would be a huge waste of resources for both the juvenile courts and the courts of appeal. A better way to address this issue would be to consider any access afforded the petitioner during the proceedings by the juvenile court to be the equivalent of a section 827(a)(1)(Q) order even though no separate section 827 petition was filed and granted.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response

SPR19-06

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.400, 8.401, 8.405, 8.407–8.410, 8.412, 8.416, 8.450, 8.452, 8.454, and 8.456; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV-325, JV-570, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			People who petition the juvenile court under section 388 or section 366.26(n) or who were denied de facto parent status are all granted limited standing, by statute or rule of court, to participate in specified juvenile court proceedings covered by the rule or statute. It would be quite reasonable to recognize those people as "parties" to those specified proceedings. (See. e.g., Wayne F. v. Superior Court (2006) 145 Cal.App.4th 1331, [prospective adoptive parents, while not parties to the underlying dependency proceedings unless they are also de facto parents, were entitled to "fully participate" in 366.26(n) hearings concerning proposed removal from their home].) Under the exceptions listed in new section 827(a)(6), their attorneys should be given access to the documents submitted to the juvenile court and the transcripts of those proceedings under section 827(a)(1)(E) (attorneys for parties) without having to waste a lot of time and resources, including the court's resources, seeking a section 827 order. It would make more sense to modify the appellate rules concerning preparation of the record to specify that something other than the "normal record" is to be prepared when the appeal or notice of intent is filed

SPR19-06

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.400, 8.401, 8.405, 8.407–8.410, 8.412, 8.416, 8.450, 8.452, 8.454, and 8.456; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV-325, JV-570, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			by persons who requested de facto parent status or who were parties to a 388 petition or a section 366.26(n) prospective adoptive parent proceeding or adoptive placement decision, but who are not parties to the entire juvenile court proceeding. In those cases, the rules should specify that only the documents filed in connection with the proceedings resulting in the order being challenged, any other documents to which access was granted by the court, and the reporter's transcripts of those proceedings should be included in the appellate record. Any questions about documents other than those listed should be resolved by the courts of appeal in the context of a motion to augment the record, not by the juvenile court in the context of a section 827 petition. Does the proposed notice on the JV forms adequately alert individuals of the requirement to request access to records in the juvenile case file by filing a petition under section 827(a)(1)(Q)? No. It is confusing and incomplete. The information is incomplete because it excludes de facto parents, who are parties to the juvenile court proceedings and, as such,

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			are entitled to appeal a juvenile court decision that adversely affects their interests. It is interesting to note that 8.409(c)(1) and the proposed amendment to rule 8.409 (f)(2)(A) specify that the record on appeal must be sent to any Indian tribe that has intervened (making the tribe a party) but does not mention de facto parents. Should the notice be included on forms that may not typically relate to an appeal, such as Relative Information (form JV-285) and Caregiver Information Form (form JV-290)? No. The notice is confusing and inaccurate to the extent it excludes de facto parents from the list of people who will have the right to file an appeal or a writ petition. Although they are required by law to do so, most counties do not actually send either of these forms to relatives or caregivers. In addition, those forms are designed for the purpose of providing a vehicle for relatives and caregivers to provide information about the child to the court without having to make a court appearance. Including the proposed language might be read as suggesting that relatives and caregivers who

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			file the forms have appellate rights that they do not actually have. Does the proposed information sheet, form JV-291-INFO, provide the information necessary for an individual to understand the right to appeal and the process for requesting access to records in the juvenile case file? Should other information be included? Should other scenarios be listed in item 1 to describe when someone not entitled to access the juvenile case file would have a right to appeal? No. The second to the last paragraph states that the person seeking review "will need to attach the juvenile court's order indicating the records to which the court has granted you access." This suggests that the person must have the order in hand before the notice of appeal or notice of intent may be filed. As noted above, if a granted section 827 petition is a prerequisite to filing the notice of appeal or a notice of intent, many people will be deprived of any review at all. Because there are no time limits on how long the juvenile court has to act on a section 827 petition, the section 827 petition may still be undecided when the time limits

SPR19-06

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.400, 8.401, 8.405, 8.407–8.410, 8.412, 8.416, 8.450, 8.452, 8.454, and 8.456; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV-325, JV-570, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			for filing a notice of intent (7 days) or a notice of appeal (60 days) have run. Attempting to list all possible scenarios is fraught with peril. The first example--a relative who requested placement but the placing agency did not assess their home for placement before a hearing to terminate parental right—may be read to suggest that these people may file an appeal even though there is no juvenile court order denying them placement. The fourth—the child's sibling who requested visitation or an exception to adoption—is at best questionable. Siblings who are juvenile court dependents have the right to notice of and the right to be present and represented by counsel at each other's hearings. (Welf. & Inst. Code §349.) This arguably makes them parties to each other's cases. If a sibling has participated in a hearing which results in a request for appellate review, that sibling's appellate counsel should have the same access to the appellate record as all other appellate counsel. Thank you for your consideration of these comments.

SPR19-06

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.400, 8.401, 8.405, 8.407–8.410, 8.412, 8.416, 8.450, 8.452, 8.454, and 8.456; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV-325, JV-570, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
2.	Appellate Defender's, Inc. by Elaine Alexander Executive Director San Diego		Summary of Provisions. The proposed rules create a new method of preparing the appellate record when the appellant is an individual who is not entitled to access the juvenile court record under the provisions section 827. (Rule 8.405.) The proposal refers to these individuals as the "designated person." (Rule 8.400(b)(1).) The proposal envisions the creation of two appellate records: a limited record for the designated person and a regular, full record for the court, the petitioning agency, the parents and minor(s). (Rules 8.400(b)(2); 8.407(f).) The limited record is to be paginated separately from the full record. (Rule 8.409(b)(2).) The proposal provides that counsel for the designated person may receive only the limited record. (Rule 8.409(f)(3)(A) & (B).) The limited record contains only the material to which the designated person has been granted access by the juvenile court pursuant to a section 827 petition for disclosure they must file. (Rule 8.400(b)(2).) The proposal includes a revision to the 827 petition, form JV-570. Several other forms are proposed to notify the designated person of the need to file a petition for access to the file pursuant to section 827. (Pages 48-63 of the Invitation to Comment package.) If the other parties to the appeal cite to material that is not in the limited record, the proposal allows the designated person to file another 827 petition to request the juvenile court give them access to this additional material. (Rule 8.412 (a)(5).) They may also request an extension from the COA. (Ibid.) Provisions almost identical to those described above are proposed for the statutory writ records. (Rules 8.450-8.456.) Our analysis. 1. The Limited Record Raises Due Process Concerns. We have a fundamental concerns about appellate issues being raised and considered from two different records, which essentially infringes on an appellant's right to appeal.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			– The designated person working from the limited record is at a distinct disadvantage. They are unable to discern and cite to favorable evidence supporting their position in the case record that is omitted from the limited record. – The court (and other parties) will rely on the entire case record to determine 388 issues (most relative placement issues are raised in 388 petitions). (See In re Justice P. (2004) 123 Cal.App.4th 181, 189, [court can rely on entire case record when determining whether a section 388 petition makes a prima facie showing].) – The proposed instruction sheet given to the designated person explaining the need to obtain the 827 order instructs them to request a very limited record from the juvenile court. The form, "Right to Appeal for a Nonparty– Requirement to Request Access to Juvenile Record" (JV-291-INFO, found at page 48 of the packet), states: "You should indicate (on the 827 application) you are requesting the record and transcripts relating to the dates of the hearing related to the issue you are appealing, and that you are requesting transcripts as well." Omitted from this narrow request are matters that are relevant and not necessarily confidential: social worker interviews with the nonparty and references in the reports to them; visitation between the nonparty and the minor(s); any assessments of the nonparty regarding placement or visitation; statements the minor makes about the designated person; descriptions of the minor's visits with the designated person. This information is relevant to a request for placement per the statutory factors the court must consider (section 361.3) and as demonstrated by the case Isabella G. (2016) 246 Cal.App.4th 708, 724 [evidence the minor missed her grandmother, was happy to be with her, requested more contact with her, the caregiver thought the minor should be placed with Grandmother, was relevant to show prejudice from the court's failure to apply the relative placement criteria). This information is also relevant to requests for visitation. If the designated person was present at any other hearings (besides the hearing from which the appeal is taken), those proceedings are arguably not confidential as to this individual. The ability of the designated person to obtain this more extensive information through a juvenile court 827 order would begin to address the due process concerns. In item 4, below, we are proposing modifications to the 827 application for records designed to illicit this relevant information. 2. Counsel for the Designated Person Should Have a Full Record. The due process concerns outlined above could be alleviated by providing a full copy of the record to counsel for the designated party. The designated person's access to the record can be circumscribed by the 827 order; counsel will not turn over any portion of the record to the client not authorized by the 827 order.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response

SPR19-06

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.400, 8.401, 8.405, 8.407–8.410, 8.412, 8.416, 8.450, 8.452, 8.454, and 8.456; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV-325, JV-570, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			It is highly unlikely counsel for the designated person will cite to material that isn't relevant to the issue raised. And it is very likely this material will be cited by either the respondent or the court. The designated person is allowed to apply to see material cited in other parties' briefs through another section 827 petition per Rule 8.412(a)(5). Providing the full record to appellate counsel for the designated person eliminates the need for the second (or third) 827 petition, and eliminates a big source of delay in these fast track cases. Rule 8.401 (b) (2) would presumably address the case of a pro per designated persons, and instruct them to obtain a section 827 order from the juvenile court. We propose Rule 8.401(b) read as follows (new provisions italicized) 8.401 (a) . . . . (b) Access to filed documents (1) Except as limited in (2) or as provided in (2) (3) (4), the record on appeal and documents filed by the parties in proceedings under this chapter

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			may be inspected only by the reviewing court and appellate project personnel, the parties including their attorneys, the appellate attorneys for the designated persons, although not the designated persons themselves, except as provided in (b), and other persons the court may designate. 3. Separately Paginated Records: Separately paginating the limited record will prove cumbersome, as the court and other parties will be working from two different records. The respondent's brief will certainly cite to material beyond the limited record. The designated person is able to request access to cited material outside the limited record through another 827 petition. This process will create additional delay. Two or more 827 petitions have to be processed in juvenile court to facilitate the direct appeal. The designated person will be citing to two different records in the reply brief. Would a sort of Marsden type approach work better? The respondent has to notify the court that its briefing referred to matters beyond the limited record. This then provides cause for an 827 order to be issued granting the designated person access? We think the better approach is to provide the designated person a redacted record. Everyone will be working from the same page citations. 4. Delay Concerns There are multiple ways in which the proposed process creates delay: – The initial 827 process. (See Appendix, time lines for two cases that went through this process); – The subsequent 827 process to obtain material cited in other parties'briefs. Example: If a parent or minor is a co-appellant with the designated person, the entire appeal can be delayed: the record won't be filed until the initial 827 process is completed. If the co-appellant parent cites to material not in the limited record, the designated person can request it via another 27 petition. (Rule 8.412(a)(5).) And with yet another 827 petition if the respondent's brief cites to additional material not in the limited record. 5. More Specificity in the application for an 827 order. We believe the proposed form, JV-570 (found at p. 58 of the packet) is too general and not very helpful to the lay person. A check-the-box format will likely prove helpful to the juvenile court in eliciting more specificity from the applicant. A proposed attachment to form JV-570 is found in the Appendix. 6. Clarify the JV-291 Information Form: The form presently suggests that obtaining the 827 order is a condition of being able to file an NOA. It states: "When you file the notice of appeal . . . you will need to attach the court's order indicating which records the court has granted you access." Our concern is the 60-day appeal period will expire before the 827 order is obtained. At a minimum, the information form should indicate the NOA must be filed before 60-day appeal period expires and it can be filed before the 827 order is issued.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			Appendix Delay in Utilizing the 827 Petition Process: Two Case Examples 1. D073770: the Court of Appeal ordered the non-party appellant to obtain an 827 order from the Juvenile Court which sets forth the record to which she can have access. This appellant is an attorney who was able to navigate this process much better than a lay person. The 827 process took more than three months: – Court of Appeal's order to seek 827 order issued November 29th 2018; – 827 petition filed in Juvenile Court December 3, 2018; – 827 order rendered by the Juvenile Court February 1, 2019; – Court of Appeal ordered limited record prepared February 27, 2019; – Limited record filed in the Court of Appeal March 11, 2019. 2. D073296: This fast-track case took 10 months to decide, 6 months to order the limited record:

SPR19-06

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.400, 8.401, 8.405, 8.407–8.410, 8.412, 8.416, 8.450, 8.452, 8.454, and 8.456; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV-325, JV-570, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			Mother – appellant: NOA filed 12/28/17 – appointed counsel 1/9/18 Maternal great aunt & 388 NOA filed 12/28/17 – appointed counsel 2/16/18 Minors W. & J (RB) Counsel appointed on court's own motion – 4/13/18 (apptd. 4/18/18) Minors M & Je (RB) appointed counsel – 1/25/18 de facto father (RB, retained counsel) de facto mother (RB, retained counsel) Record filed 1/19/18 Augment by mother (denied) 2/2/18 De facto 827 motion 3/29/18 Oppo to 827 motion by mother & aunt 4/2/18 Mother & aunt file AOB 4/4/18 County counsel do not oppo release 4/5/18 (since aunt already has record) Oppo to release by minors M & J 5/25/18 Court orders limited record 6/6/18 – attorneys ordered not to provide the record to the aunt or de facto De facto father files augment 6/8/18 Mother & aunt oppose 6/14/18 Court orders augment considered w/appeal 6/19/18 RB by de facto father filed 7/27/18

SPR19-06

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.400, 8.401, 8.405, 8.407–8.410, 8.412, 8.416, 8.450, 8.452, 8.454, and 8.456; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV-325, JV-570, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			County RB filed after 17B notice 7/31/18 De facto father requests judicial notice 8/1/18 – post-appeal info re: resolution of 1 issue – ordered to be considered w/appeal 8/16/18 minors' letter brief of W & J 8/23/18 Court's request for further briefing 8/30/18 – statutory interp. for relative placement issue ARB filed by mother 9/4/18 ARB filed by aunt 9/4/18 Mother's, aunt's, minors W & J's, agency's, de facto father's – supplemental briefs filed 9/14/18 minors M& J filed supplemental brief 9/17/18 case fully briefed 9/17/18 case submitted 10/23/18 opinion filed 10/23/18 remittitur issued 1/2/19 ATTACHMENT TO JV-570 For use by appellants who are designated persons with access to a limited record as described in Rule 8.400(b). The records I want are: (Check all that apply.)

SPR19-06

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.400, 8.401, 8.405, 8.407–8.410, 8.412, 8.416, 8.450, 8.452, 8.454, and 8.456; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV-325, JV-570, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			o All reports, documents and orders the judge expressly stated were considered or were admitted as evidence in making the challenged order. (List, if known.) _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ o The reporter's transcript from each hearing Petitioner attended. The dates are: _____ _____ _____ _____ o All reports and attachments prepared by the county agency and/or the CASA containing information about the placement history of the child/children. o All reports and attachments prepared by the county agency and/or the CASA containing information about Petitioner's visitation and/or request for visitation with the child/children. o All reports and attachments prepared by the county agency and/or the CASA containing information about interviews or conversations with Petitioner.

SPR19-06

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.400, 8.401, 8.405, 8.407–8.410, 8.412, 8.416, 8.450, 8.452, 8.454, and 8.456; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV-325, JV-570, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			o All reports and attachments prepared by the county agency and/or the CASA containing information about interviews or conversations with any parties or collateral contacts discussing Petitioner's request for placement and/or visitation. o Other: (Describe in detail any records that are not covered above.) _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _____
3.	Executive Committee of the Family Law Section of the California Lawyers Association (FLEXCOM) By Saul Bercovitch Director of Governmental Affairs	A	No specific comment.
4.	First District Appellate Project by Jonathan Soglin Executive Director Oakland	NI	The notice of appeal (NOA) form (JV-800) and notice of intent forms (JV-820 and JV-822) are frequently used forms serving parties in a variety of delinquency and dependency proceedings. Usually (e.g. for most delinquency and many dependency appeals) the form is used when there is no need for a limited-record. We are concerned that the some aspects of the modifications increase the complexity of the forms in a way that will create confusion without the anticipated benefits. For these reasons, we suggest a change that might strike a balance between helpful information for the clerk and reducing potential confusion. On one hand, we suggest retaining the proposed new boxes requiring the filing party to state whether they are "not the department, child, parent, or legal guardian," and whether they were granted access to specified records. This will be useful to the clerk and it is information the filing party should have at hand. On the other hand, we recommend omitting the line asking the filing party to identify whether the appeal or writ involves "a respondent who is not the department, child, parent, or legal guardian" (item 4 on the NOA and item 8 or 9 on the notices of intent). It is no simple matter to determine

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response

SPR19-06

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.400, 8.401, 8.405, 8.407–8.410, 8.412, 8.416, 8.450, 8.452, 8.454, and 8.456; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV-325, JV-570, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			who is a "respondent" in a dependency appeal or writ. These proceedings frequently involve a multitude of interested persons whose interests can align or be opposed in patterns that are not easy to predict, even for the filing party. This is particularly difficult for the many pro per parties who file NOAs and notices of intent, but it also problematic in a counseled case. For these reasons, the inclusion of the item asking the filing party to predict who might be a respondent seems unlikely to assist the superior court appellate clerks in determining who must receive a limited record and, worse, it could add confusion for parties and counsel. Accordingly, we recommend omitting from the forms item 4 on form JV-800, item 9 on JV-820, and item 8 on JV-822.
5.	Stephanie Miller	NI	Thank you for this opportunity to comment. The Committees' Proposal seeks "to balance the policy considerations favoring confidentiality of juvenile case files against designated persons' need for access to these record to effectuate their right to participate in appellate proceedings in these cases." (Invitation to Comment, p. 3 [IC].) The Committees recognize that

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			"these individuals were already privy to the record in the juvenile court proceedings . . ." (Ibid.) This is an important point. To some extent, the nonrelated caretaker of the child who seeks de facto parent status is "privy" to the dependency case as a result of the child's placement in the caretaker's home. In many instances, the caretaker is the monitor for parental visits, thus a relationship between the caretaker and the parent is established. To a greater extent, a close relative of the child who seeks relative placement or petitions for modification of the juvenile court orders may be intimately aware of the circumstances requiring juvenile court intervention as a result of the relative's preexisting relationship with the child and/or the child's parents. The social worker's assessment of a relative for the child's placement may result in disclosure of confidential information in the course of an interview to determine whether the relative was aware of the circumstances requiring juvenile court intervention, but had failed to protect the child. (Welf. & Inst. Code, § 361.3, subd. (a)(7)(D).) Thus, the child's and/or the parent's expectation of confidentiality in the dependency case may be affected and reduced by the reality

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			of family relationships preceding juvenile court intervention (grandparents, aunts and uncles, siblings, etc.) or by the substitute caregiver relationships created as a result of that intervention (foster parent or de facto parent/child). The Proposal should seek to protect only information which is actually confidential, i.e., information that has not previously been disclosed to the designated person, in- or outside of the courtroom. Not addressed in the Proposal is the potential obstacle to confidentiality presented by the request of a designated person who is a party in the appeal or writ proceeding to be served with a party's brief. Currently, the court rules do not require service on a "designated person." (Cal. Rules of Ct., rule 8.412(e).) But, the proposed Rule 8.412(a)(4) contemplates that the designated party will be served with the brief filed by a party. Although the parties are required to refer to the parent, guardian, and child by their initials if necessary to protect their privacy, the contents of the briefs filed by the party who is not a designated person will likely reveal more of the juvenile court record than the juvenile court previously allowed the designated person to access. (Cal. Rules of Ct., rule 8.401(a).) Thus, service alone of the party's brief on the designated person could result in the disclosure of confidential information. One method of addressing the access of persons other than the parent, child, or guardian to the confidential juvenile court record is to limit the access of those persons (hereafter, designated persons) to the courtroom in the first instance, with the following exceptions: (1) a relative who has filed a petition for modification of orders; (2) a caregiver who has filed an application for de facto parent status. Those filings are appropriate actions necessary to confer the petitioner or applicant with the status of a party in the dependency case. (See In re Joseph G. (2000) 83 Cal.App.4th 712, 725.) Upon the first appearance of the petitioner or applicant, the judicial officer can then direct him or her to complete and deliver to the courtroom clerk then and there the JV-570 form. The 388 petitioner or de facto parent applicant, or the courtroom clerk should then and there complete the JV-570 form to designate the date of the first appearance,

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			and the record of those proceedings, as the approved record in the event of an appeal. As indicated in the Proposal, the juvenile court clerk should thus begin the creation of a separate file for the designated person. The separate file can also include the minute order for each hearing at which the designated person/party is present. Thereafter, at each appearance made by the designated person who has acquired party status, the judicial officer can direct him or her to complete a new JV-570 form. The additional JV-570 form and the minutes should be added to the separate file created for the designated person. In this manner, the record accessible to the designated person can be "marked" as it is made. Also, any objections to disclosure of that portion of the juvenile court record to the designated person can be entertained each time a designated person appears in court. If and when the designated person files a notice of appeal, the portions of the confidential juvenile court record will be readily identifiable by the previously completed JV-570 forms and the minutes orders. In this manner, the separate file created for the designated person can timely identify the record to which that individual

SPR19-06

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.400, 8.401, 8.405, 8.407–8.410, 8.412, 8.416, 8.450, 8.452, 8.454, and 8.456; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV-325, JV-570, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			was previously given access by the juvenile court, and after notice to the other party. In order to address the parties' right to confidentiality and the right of designated persons to appellate review, several years ago the Second District adopted Local Rule 8. (Local Rules Court of Appeal Second District Rule 8 [Filing of an appeal in a dependency matter by a person who is not the parent, child or guardian].) It is the experience of the California Appellate/Los Angeles that while the local rule has served to protect the right of the parties to confidentiality, it has not served the right of a designated person to review. Pursuant to Local Rule 8, the designated person is required to complete and file a JV-570 form and file it with the notice of appeal, or within 10 days after receipt of the juvenile court clerk's request for that form. The delay in the preparation of the appellate record for the designated person occurs between the filing of the JV-570 form, with the notice of appeal, and the judicial officer's designation of the portions of the confidential record which will comprise the appellate record for the designated person. The record designation process takes many months. I hope that my comments are useful to the Committees. I appreciate their work.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
6.	Office of the County Counsel County of Los Angeles by Alyssa Skolnick Principal Deputy County Counsel Monterey Park	AM	1. I believe the intent is that when the appeal/writ proceeding involves a designated person (as defined under the proposed court rules), the designated person (or his/her attorney of record) will receive a limited record, while everyone else who is entitled to access the records will receive both (1) limited record; (2) normal/complete record. However, the fact the normal/complete record (in addition to limited record) will be provided to all parties entitled to access needs to be clarified. (See California Rule of Court, rule 8.409, et seq.) 2. The proposed changes to the California Rules of Court do not address whether the non-designated persons (those who are entitled to the normal/complete record) should serve the designated persons with their briefs (redacted or un-redacted), which will almost certainly include significant

SPR19-06

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.400, 8.401, 8.405, 8.407–8.410, 8.412, 8.416, 8.450, 8.452, 8.454, and 8.456; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV-325, JV-570, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			information that the designated person is not entitled to access. This has been a significant issue historically. If the appellant/respondent/petitioner etc. is a "designated person," which briefs are they entitled to access and be served with? This is a significant concern because once the designated person is served with an un-redacted brief, they have all the information in the record that they were not previously privy to. We have historically struggled with this and the Court of Appeal has not been consistent with respect to whether it wants our office to serve redacted or un-redacted briefs on those who were not entitled to access under WIC 827 and are being referred to as "designated persons" in the proposed rules. The California Rules of Court need to directly address which briefs (Writ Petition, Appellant's Opening Brief, Respondent's Brief/Answer/Reply Brief etc.) the designated person is entitled to because unless the designated party was given access to the entire case file, the briefs from the other parties will always contain information that the designated person has not been granted access to.

SPR19-06

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.400, 8.401, 8.405, 8.407–8.410, 8.412, 8.416, 8.450, 8.452, 8.454, and 8.456; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV-325, JV-570, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			The only hint of this issue in the proposed rules is proposed amended California Rule of Court, rule 8.412(a)(5), which states, "If an appeal involves a designated person, and the brief of a party who is not a designated person refers to juvenile case records that are not in the limited record, the designated person may petition the juvenile court for access to those records and may petition the juvenile court for access to those records …" Does this assume that the designated person is to be served with un-redacted briefs that necessarily included case history and records that the designated person was not previously granted access to? It is our office's practice to only serve the party who is not entitled to access the records (referred to as "designated person in the proposed rules) with heavily redacted briefs that omit all the information they are not privy to unless otherwise ordered by the Court of Appeal. 3. Proposed amendments to California Rules of Court, rules 8.405 and 8.450(e(1) state that if the appellant/party seeking writ review is aware that a party to the appeal is an individual not authorized to access the juvenile case file without petition pursuant to WIC 827(A)(1)(Q), the appellant/party seeking writ review must indicate this on the notice of appeal. However, the (a) proposed amended Notice of Appeal (JV-800) and (b) Notice of Intent to File a Writ Petition (JV-820) do not include a section for this information or notice of the requirement – they only include a box indicating that the appellant/person seeking writ review is not a child, legal guardian or parent – it does not include a box to indicate a different party is not authorized to access the case file. 4. The California Rules of Court should clarify that the designated person's attorney of record is not entitled to any documents/records that the designated party is not entitled to. This has come up with respect to California Rule of Court, rule 8.452 and 8.456 Petitions/Answers. 5. The admonishment language from the proposed JV-291-Info form that has been added (proposed) to various other forms states "In the vast majority of cases, only the child, parent, or guardian have the right to appeal a juvenile court ruling." This is inaccurate in that it does not include CPS as a party having a right to appeal. It also does not reference writ proceedings.

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
7.	Orange County Bar Association By Deirdre Kelly President Newport Beach	A	No specific comment.
8.	Superior Court of Los Angeles County	AM	Proposed Modifications Rule 8.405 (b)(1)(B), Rule 8.450 (h)(1) and h(2), and Rule 8.454 (h)(1) and (h)(2) The requirement to immediately notify each court reporter by telephone should be updated by either eliminating the telephone requirement or changing it to an email requirement. Change: "immediately notify each court reporter by telephone" to: "immediately notify each court reporter." Request for Specific Comments Does the proposal adequately address the stated purpose? Yes, the proposal adequately addresses the stated purpose. What is the most effective way to communicate that people should request access to records in the juvenile case file

SPR19-06

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.400, 8.401, 8.405, 8.407–8.410, 8.412, 8.416, 8.450, 8.452, 8.454, and 8.456; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV-325, JV-570, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			before the commencement of appellate court proceedings? The most effective communication is by written notice. What is the best way to alert the clerk that the appeal or writ proceeding involves a limited record, particularly when the limited record is required for a party who is not the appellant or the petitioner? The most effective way to alert the clerk is by written notification. Should other rules apply to preparing, sending, and using a limited record? No, other rules should not apply. Should the rules further address the situation of a designated person responding to a brief or memorandum by a party who is using the normal record and referring to matters in documents to which the designated person has not been granted access? Yes, the rules should address this. Does the proposed notice on the JV forms adequately alert individuals of the requirement to request access to records in the juvenile case file by filing a petition under section 827(a)(1)(Q)? Should the notice be included on forms that may not

SPR19-06

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.400, 8.401, 8.405, 8.407–8.410, 8.412, 8.416, 8.450, 8.452, 8.454, and 8.456; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV-325, JV-570, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			typically relate to an appeal, such as Relative Information (form JV-285) and Caregiver Information Form (form JV-290)? Yes, the proposed notice adequately alerts individuals of the requirement and should be included on the other forms. Does the proposed information sheet, form JV-291-INFO, provide the information necessary for an individual to understand the right to appeal and the process for requesting access to records in the juvenile case file? Should other information be included? Should other scenarios be listed in item 1 to describe when someone not entitled to access the juvenile case file would have a right to appeal? Yes, the proposed information sheet provides the information necessary. Would the proposal provide cost savings? If so, please quantify. No. What would the implementation requirements be for courts—for example, training staff (please identify position and expected hours of training), revising processes and procedures (please describe), changing docket codes in case

SPR19-06

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.400, 8.401, 8.405, 8.407–8.410, 8.412, 8.416, 8.450, 8.452, 8.454, and 8.456; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV-325, JV-570, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			management systems, or modifying case management systems? Implementation requirements include training, procedure updates, and changes to event codes in the Case Management System. Would three months from Judicial Council approval of this proposal until its effective date provide sufficient time for implementation? Yes, three months would be sufficient.
9.	Superior Court of San Diego County by Mike Roddy Executive Officer	AM	"Designated person" is defined in rule 8.400(b), but it is still confusing in the context of some of the other rules. For example, rule 8.401(b)(1) allows access by a person designated by the Court of Appeal, but then in subdivision (b)(2) "designated person" is a person designated by the juvenile court, not the Court of Appeal. Preparation of both a full record and a limited record seems like double work. However, this is probably the most efficient way. CRC 8.409(b)(2): "must be designated as a limited clerk's transcript and a limited reporter's transcript."

SPR19-06

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.400, 8.401, 8.405, 8.407–8.410, 8.412, 8.416, 8.450, 8.452, 8.454, and 8.456; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV-325, JV-570, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			Proposed revisions to Form JV-291-INFO: 1) Add "or probation officer" in item 2 to the list of those who must be served. 2) Add "legal" before guardian throughout. 3) It should be stated clearly that there is a deadline to seek review by writ or appeal and that deadline is not extended to seek access to records. (The JV-570 process can take a long time and I foresee people missing the appeal deadline while they wait for a resolution to their JV-570.) Proposed revisions to Form JV-570: 1) The proposed change in item 5 is confusing and unnecessary. Why call out just one type of request when there are so many reasons a person could file a JV-570? 2) The proposed change in item 6 is good. Proposed revisions to Forms JV-800, 820, 822: "department" is unclear. It is believed to mean county welfare department and our court recommends it be spelled out. Change "County Welfare Agency" to "county

SPR19-06

Appellate Procedure, Juvenile Law: Access to Juvenile Case Files in Appellate Court Proceedings (Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.400, 8.401, 8.405, 8.407–8.410, 8.412, 8.416, 8.450, 8.452, 8.454, and 8.456; approve form JV-291-INFO; revise forms JV-285, JV-290, JV-295, JV-321, JV-325, JV-570, JV-800, JV-820, and JV-822)

All comments are verbatim unless indicated by an asterisk (*).

	Commenter	Position	Comment	Committee Response
			welfare department" on the JV-820 for consistency with the other two forms. Proposed revision to Form JV-800, item 7: Change Attachment 5 to Attachment 7 to match the new item number. Proposed revision to Form JV-822, page 2: 1) 1st box: See ~~the back of this form~~ below for more information. (Or delete sentence completely.) 2) 3rd box, 1st 2 bullet points: Change "specified placement" to "specific placement." 3) 4th box, 3rd bullet point: change CRC citation to 8.454(e)(3).

Item number: 03

RUPRO ACTION REQUEST FORM

RUPRO action requested: Submit to JC (without circulating for comment)

RUPRO Meeting: April 9, 2019

Title of proposal (include amend/revise/adopt/approve + form/rule numbers):
Appellate Procedure: Technical Revisions to Forms to Use Gender-Neutral Language
Revise forms APP-004, APP-014, APP-016-GC/FW-016-GC, APP-104, APP-109-INFO, APP-150-INFO, CR-135, CR-143, and JV-810

Committee or other entity submitting the proposal:
Appellate Advisory Committee

Staff contact (name, phone and e-mail): Christy Simons, 415-865-7694, christy.simons@jud.ca.gov

Identify project(s) on the committee's annual agenda that is the basis for this item:
Approved by RUPRO: 10/28/2019
Project description from annual agenda: Review forms within the committee's purview to identify gender terms or questions. Propose revisions to those forms to replace gender terms with neutral terms or eliminate the questions. Project requested by RUPRO. Subcommittee: Rules.

If requesting July 1 or out of cycle, explain:

Additional Information: (To facilitate RUPRO's review of your proposal, please include any relevant information not contained in the attached summary.)

JUDICIAL COUNCIL OF CALIFORNIA

455 Golden Gate Avenue · San Francisco, California 94102-3688
www.courts.ca.gov

REPORT TO THE JUDICIAL COUNCIL

Item No.:
For business meeting on May 14–15, 2020

Title
Appellate Procedure: Technical Revisions to Forms to Use Gender-Neutral Language

Rules, Forms, Standards, or Statutes Affected
Revise forms APP-004, APP-014, APP-016-GC/FW-016-GC, APP-104, APP-109-INFO, APP-150-INFO, CR-135, CR-143, and JV-810

Recommended by
Appellate Advisory Committee
Hon. Louis R. Mauro, Chair

Agenda Item Type
Action Required

Effective Date
January 1, 2021

Date of Report
April 1, 2020

Contact
Christy Simons, 415-865-7694
christy.simons@jud.ca.gov

Executive Summary

As requested by the Rules Committee, the Appellate Advisory Committee reviewed the Judicial Council forms within its purview to identify any containing gender identity questions or gender terms. The committee identified several forms containing gender terms and recommends that they be revised to use gender-neutral language. The committee also recommends correcting the numbering and lettering of items on one of these forms to be consistent with standard formatting.

Recommendation

The Appellate Advisory Committee recommends that the Judicial Council, effective January 1, 2021, revise:

1. Civil Case Information Statement (form APP-004), the box at the top of page 4, to replace "a party to the appeal may not perform the mailing or delivery himself or herself" with "the mailing or delivery must be performed by someone who is not a party to the appeal," and Parts 1 and 2, to correct the numbering and lettering of items to be consistent with standard formatting;

2. Appellant's Proposed Settled Statement (form APP-014), item 3a, to replace "his or her" with "the party's," and item 5a, to replace "he or she" with "the judge";

3. Order on Court Fee Waiver (form APP-016-GC/FW-016-GC), item 6b(2), to replace "he or she" with "the (proposed) ward or conservatee";

4. Proposed Statement on Appeal (form APP-104), item 7d, to replace "what that witness said in his or her testimony" with "the witness's testimony";

5. What Is Proof of Service? (form APP-109-INFO), item 4, to replace "he or she" with "the party";

6. Information on Writ Proceedings in Misdemeanor, Infraction, and Limited Civil Cases (form APP-150-INFO), item 6, to replace "he or she" with "the person" and item 18c, to replace "he or she" with "the petitioner";

7. Proposed Statement on Appeal (form CR-135), item 7e, to replace "what that witness said in his or her testimony" with "the witness's testimony";

8. Proposed Statement on Appeal (form CR-143), item 6e, to replace "what that witness said in his or her testimony" with "the witness's testimony"; and

9. Recommendation for Appointment of Appellate Attorney for Child (form JV-810) to replace "his or her" with "the child's" in items 3b, 3c(2), and 3d, and "he or she" with "the child" in item 3c.

The revised forms are attached at pages 4–55.

Relevant Previous Council Action

Although the Judicial Council has acted on these forms previously, this proposal recommends minor language updates unrelated to any prior action.

Analysis/Rationale

The Judicial Council's Rules Committee, through its chair, Justice Harry E. Hull, Jr., asked all advisory committees it oversees to identify forms within the committees' purview that have gender identity questions or terms, and to indicate on each committee's annual agenda whether the committee proposed to revise forms to address gender (1) as revisions are needed in the future due to legislative or other changes, or (2) as a set of form revisions solely to address the gender question or term. The Appellate Advisory Committee proposes the latter. Though not required by legislation, the form revisions are consistent with California's Gender Recognition Act of 2017 (Act) (SB 179).

Policy implications

The revisions are noncontroversial and technical in nature. Any policy implications derive from the Act, which contains findings and declarations regarding the fundamentally personal nature of gender identification and the need for options on state-issued identification documents to ensure that gender is accurately reflected.

Comments

This proposal did not circulate for public comment because the updates to language on the forms are technical revisions and therefore within the Judicial Council's purview to adopt without circulation. (See Cal. Rules of Court, rule 10.22(d)(2).)

Alternatives considered

The committee considered making these modifications as each form is revised as part of a separate proposal.[1] However, there is no way to know when or if revisions to the forms will take place for other reasons. Therefore, the committee recommends that the forms be revised now to replace all outdated language in a timely manner.

Fiscal and Operational Impacts

The committee expects operational impacts to be minor. The proposed revisions may result in reproduction costs if courts provide hard copies of any of these forms. Because the proposed changes are technical corrections, case management systems are unlikely to require updating for implementation.

Attachments

1. Forms APP-004, APP-014, APP-016-GC/FW-016-GC, APP-104, APP-109-INFO, APP-150-INFO, CR-135, CR-143, and JV-810, at pages 4–55

[1] This alternative is being followed in one instance. One of the forms the committee identified, Information on Appeal Procedures for Limited Civil Cases (form APP-101-INFO), is part of a spring proposal: Appellate Procedure: Use of an Appendix in Limited Civil Appeals. In addition to substantive changes regarding the use of an appendix, the committee is proposing that a reference to "he or she" be replaced with "the appellant" in item 24(c) of that form. If approved, that revised form would take effect January 1, 2021.

COURT OF APPEAL, _____ APPELLATE DISTRICT, DIVISION _____	COURT OF APPEAL CASE NUMBER (if known):
ATTORNEY OR PARTY WITHOUT ATTORNEY: STATE BAR NUMBER: NAME: FIRM NAME: STREET ADDRESS: CITY: STATE: ZIP CODE: TELEPHONE NO.: FAX NO.: E-MAIL ADDRESS: ATTORNEY FOR (name):	FOR COURT USE ONLY DRAFT 03-10-2020 Not approved by the Judicial Council
APPELLANT: RESPONDENT:
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA, COUNTY OF STREET ADDRESS: MAILING ADDRESS: CITY AND ZIP CODE: BRANCH NAME:
JUDGES (all who participated in case):	SUPERIOR COURT CASE NUMBER:

CIVIL CASE INFORMATION STATEMENT

NOTE TO APPELLANT: You must file this form with the clerk of the Court of Appeal within 15 days after the clerk mails you the notification of the filing of the notice of appeal required under rule 8.100(e)(1). You must attach to this form a copy of the judgment or order being appealed that shows the date it was entered (see Cal. Rules of Court, rule 8.104 for definition of "entered"). A copy of this form must also be served on the other party or parties to this appeal. (CAUTION: An appeal in a limited civil case (Code Civ. Proc., § 85) may be taken ONLY to the appellate division of the superior court (Code Civ. Proc., § 904.2) or to the superior court (Code Civ. Proc., § 116.710 [small claims cases]).

PART I – APPEAL INFORMATION

1. APPEALABILITY
   a. Appeal is from:
      - ☐ judgment after jury trial.
      - ☐ judgment after court trial.
      - ☐ default judgment.
      - ☐ judgment after an order granting a summary judgment motion.
      - ☐ judgment of dismissal under Code Civ. Proc., § 581d, 583.250, 583.360, or 583.430.
      - ☐ judgment of dismissal after an order sustaining a demurrer.
      - ☐ an order after judgment under Code Civ. Proc., § 904.1(a)(2).
      - ☐ an order or judgment under Code Civ. Proc., § 904.1(a)(3)–(13).
      - ☐ Other (describe and specify code section that authorizes this appeal):

   b. Does the judgment appealed from dispose of all causes of action, including all cross-actions between the parties?
      ☐ Yes ☐ No (If no, please explain why the judgment is appealable):
2. TIMELINESS OF APPEAL (Provide all applicable dates.)
   a. Date of entry of judgment or order appealed from:
   b. Date that notice of entry of judgment or a copy of the judgment was served by the clerk or by a party under California Rules of Court, rule 8.104:
   c. Was a motion for new trial, for judgment notwithstanding the verdict, for reconsideration, or to vacate the judgment made and denied?
      ☐ Yes ☐ No (If yes, please specify the type of motion):
      Date notice of intention to move for new trial (if any) filed:
      Date motion filed: Date motion denied: Date denial served:
   d. Date notice of ☐ appeal or ☐ cross-appeal filed:
3. BANKRUPTCY OR OTHER STAY
   Is there a related bankruptcy case or a court-ordered stay that affects this appeal? ☐ Yes ☐ No
   (If yes, please attach a copy of the bankruptcy petition [without attachments] and any stay order.)

APPELLATE CASE TITLE:	APPELLATE COURT CASE NUMBER:

4. APPELLATE CASE HISTORY (Provide additional information, if necessary, on attachment 4.) Is there now, or has there previously been, any appeal, writ, or other proceeding related to this case pending in any California appellate court?
☐ Yes ☐ No (If yes, insert name of appellate court):

Appellate court case no.: Title of case:

Name of trial court: Trial court case no.:

5. SERVICE REQUIREMENTS

Is service of documents in this matter, including a notice of appeal, petition, or brief, required on the Attorney General or other nonparty public officer or agency under California Rules of Court, rule 8.29 or a statute?
☐ Yes ☐ No (If yes, please indicate the rule or statute that applies)

☐ Rule 8.29 (e.g., constitutional challenge; state or county party)
☐ Bus. & Prof. Code, §16750.2 (Antitrust)
☐ Bus. & Prof. Code, § 17209 (Unfair Competition Act)
☐ Bus. & Prof. Code, § 17536.5 (False advertising)
☐ Civ. Code, § 51.1 (Unruh, Ralph, or Bane Civil Rights Acts; antiboycott cause of action; sexual harassment in business or professional relations; civil rights action by district attorney)
☐ Civ. Code, § 55.2 (Disabled access to public conveyances, accommodations, and housing)
☐ Code Civ. Proc., § 1355 (Escheat)
☐ Gov. Code, § 946.6(d) (Actions against public entities)
☐ Gov. Code, § 4461 (Disabled access to public buildings)
☐ Gov. Code, § 12656(a) (False Claims Act)
☐ Health & Saf. Code, § 19954.5 (Accessible seating and accommodations)
☐ Health & Saf. Code, § 19959.5 (Disabled access to privately funded public accommodations)
☐ Pub. Resources Code, § 21167.7 (CEQA)
☐ Other (specify statute):

NOTE: The rule and statutory provisions listed above require service of a copy of a party's notice of appeal, petition, or brief on the Attorney General or other public officer or agency. Other statutes requiring service on the Attorney General or other public officers or agencies may also apply.

PART II – NATURE OF ACTION

1. Nature of action (check all that apply):

a. ☐ Conservatorship
b. ☐ Contract
c. ☐ Eminent domain
d. ☐ Equitable action (1) ☐ Declaratory relief (2) ☐ Other (describe):
e. ☐ Family law
f. ☐ Guardianship
g. ☐ Probate
h. ☐ Real property rights (1) ☐ Title of real property (2) ☐ Other (describe):
i. ☐ Tort
   (1) ☐ Medical malpractice (2) ☐ Product liability
   (3) ☐ Other personal injury (4) ☐ Personal property
   (5) ☐ Other tort (describe):
j. ☐ Trust proceedings
k. ☐ Writ proceedings in superior court
   (1) ☐ Mandate (Code Civ. Proc., § 1085) (2) ☐ Administrative mandate (Code Civ. Proc., § 1094.5)
   (3) ☐ Prohibition (Code Civ. Proc., § 1102) (4) ☐ Other (describe):
l. ☐ Other action (describe):

2. ☐ This appeal is entitled to calendar preference/priority on appeal (cite authority):

APPELLATE CASE TITLE:	APPELLATE COURT CASE NUMBER:

PART III – PARTY AND ATTORNEY INFORMATION

In the spaces below or on a separate page or pages, list all the parties and all their attorneys of record who will participate in the appeal. For each party, provide all of the information requested on the left side of the page. On the right side of the page, if a party is self-represented please check the appropriate box and provide the party's mailing address, telephone number, fax number, and e-mail address. If a party is represented by an attorney, on the right side of the page, check the appropriate box and provide all of the requested information about that party's attorney.

☐ Responses to Part III are attached instead of below

Name of Party: Appellate court designation: ☐ Appellant ☐ Respondent Trial court designation: ☐ Plaintiff ☐ Defendant ☐ Other (specify):	☐ Represented by attorney ☐ Self-represented Name of attorney: State Bar no: Firm name: Mailing address: Telephone no.: Fax no: Email address:
Name of Party: Appellate court designation: ☐ Appellant ☐ Respondent Trial court designation: ☐ Plaintiff ☐ Defendant ☐ Other (specify):	☐ Represented by attorney ☐ Self-represented Name of attorney: State Bar no: Firm name: Mailing address: Telephone no.: Fax no: Email address:
Name of Party: Appellate court designation: ☐ Appellant ☐ Respondent Trial court designation: ☐ Plaintiff ☐ Defendant ☐ Other (specify):	☐ Represented by attorney ☐ Self-represented Name of attorney: State Bar no: Firm name: Mailing address: Telephone no.: Fax no: Email address:
Name of Party: Appellate court designation: ☐ Appellant ☐ Respondent Trial court designation: ☐ Plaintiff ☐ Defendant ☐ Other (specify):	☐ Represented by attorney ☐ Self-represented Name of attorney: State Bar no: Firm name: Mailing address: Telephone no.: Fax no: Email address:

☐ Additional pages attached

Date:

This statement is prepared and submitted by: ▶ ______________________________

(SIGNATURE OF ATTORNEY OR SELF-REPRESENTED PARTY)

APPELLATE CASE TITLE:	APPELLATE COURT CASE NUMBER:

NOTICE TO PARTIES: A copy of this form must be served on the other party or parties to this appeal. If served by mail or personal delivery, THE MAILING OR DELIVERY MUST BE PERFORMED BY SOMEONE WHO IS NOT A PARTY TO THE APPEAL. Electronic service is authorized only if ordered by the court or if the party served has agreed to accept electronic service. A person who is at least 18 years old must complete the information below and serve all pages of this document. When all pages of this document have been completed and a copy served, the original may then be filed with the court.

PROOF OF SERVICE

☐ Mail ☐ Personal Service ☐ Electronic Service

1. At the time of service I was at least 18 years of age.
2. My residence or business address is (specify):

3. I mailed, personally delivered, or electronically served a copy of the Civil Case Information Statement (Appellate) as follows (complete a, b, or c):
   a. ☐ Mail. I am a resident of or employed in the county where the mailing occurred and am not a party to this legal action.
      (1) I enclosed a copy in an envelope and
         (a) ☐ deposited the sealed envelope with the United States Postal Service, with the postage fully prepaid.
         (b) ☐ placed the envelope for collection and mailing on the date and at the place shown in items below, following our ordinary business practices. I am readily familiar with this business's practice for collecting and processing correspondence for mailing. On the same day that correspondence is placed for collection and mailing, it is deposited in the ordinary course of business with the United States Postal Service, in a sealed envelope with postage fully prepaid.
      (2) The envelope was addressed and mailed as follows:
         (a) Name of person served:
         (b) Address on envelope:
         (c) Date of mailing:
         (d) Place of mailing (city and state):
   b. ☐ Personal delivery. I am not a party to this legal action. I personally delivered a copy as follows:
      (1) Name of person served:
      (2) Address where delivered:
      (3) Date delivered:
      (4) Time delivered:
   c. ☐ Electronic service. My electronic service address is (specify):
      I electronically served a copy as follows:
      (1) Name of person served:
      (2) Electronic service address of person served:
      (3) On (date):

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

Date:

(TYPE OR PRINT NAME)

▶ (SIGNATURE OF DECLARANT)

ATTORNEY OR PARTY WITHOUT ATTORNEY	STATE BAR NUMBER:	FOR COURT USE ONLY
NAME:
FIRM NAME:		DRAFT
STREET ADDRESS:
CITY:	STATE: ZIP CODE:	03-10-2020
TELEPHONE NO.:	FAX NO.:
E-MAIL ADDRESS:		Not approved by the Judicial Council
ATTORNEY FOR (name):
SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA, COUNTY OF
STREET ADDRESS:
MAILING ADDRESS:
CITY AND ZIP CODE: BRANCH NAME:
PLAINTIFF/PETITIONER:
DEFENDANT/RESPONDENT:
OTHER PARENT/PARTY:		SUPERIOR COURT CASE NUMBER:
APPELLANT'S PROPOSED SETTLED STATEMENT (UNLIMITED CIVIL CASE)
Re: Appeal filed on (date):		COURT OF APPEAL CASE NUMBER (if known):

Notice: Please read Information Sheet for Proposed Settled Statement (form APP-014-INFO) before completing this form. You must file this form in the superior court, not in the Court of Appeal.

1. PRELIMINARY INFORMATION
   a. I am appealing (check one): ☐ an order filed on ☐ a judgment entered on (date):
   b. On (date): , I filed a notice of appeal. A copy of the judgment or order I am appealing is attached.
   c. On (date): , (check the one that applies):
      (1) ☐ I filed a notice designating the record on appeal, choosing to use a settled statement.
      (2) ☐ The court sent me ☐ I was served with an order granting my request to use a settled statement.
   d. ☐ On (date): , the court ordered me to modify or correct my proposed settled statement.

2. REASONS FOR YOUR APPEAL
   (Check all that apply and describe the error or errors you believe were made that are the reasons for this appeal.)
   a. ☐ No substantial evidence. There was no substantial evidence that supported the judgment or order that I am appealing.
   (Explain why you think the judgment or order was not supported by substantial evidence.)

☐ Attachment 2a

   b. ☐ Errors. The following error or errors about either the law or court procedure affected the outcome of the case
   (Describe each error.)

☐ Attachment 2b

PLAINTIFF/PETITIONER: DEFENDANT/RESPONDENT: OTHER PARENT/PARTY:	SUPERIOR COURT CASE NUMBER: COURT OF APPEAL CASE NUMBER (if known):

3. SUMMARY OF THE PARTIES' TESTIMONY AND OTHER EVIDENCE

a. Did any of the parties testify at the trial or hearing? ☐ No ☐ Yes

(Specify the name of the party who testified and the date on which the party testified. Then write a complete and accurate summary of what each party said that is relevant to the reasons you gave in item 2 for this appeal (for example, what the party said in response to questions asked by the party's own attorney, the other party (or the attorney), and/or the court). Include only what was actually said; do not comment or give your opinion about what was said.)

(1) Name of party: testified on (date): .

Summary:

☐ Attachment 3a(1)

(a) Did a party (or attorney) make an objection to this party's testimony? ☐ No ☐ Yes (Specify in item 3b.)

(b) During this party's testimony, were any exhibits (documents, records, or other materials) relevant to the appeal presented that the judge allowed to be used as evidence to support or disprove this party's testimony? ☐ No ☐ Yes (Specify in item 3c.)

(c) During this party's testimony, were any exhibits (documents, records, or other materials) relevant to the appeal presented that the judge did not allow to be used as evidence to support or disprove this party's testimony? ☐ No ☐ Yes (Specify in item 3d.)

PLAINTIFF/PETITIONER: DEFENDANT/RESPONDENT: OTHER PARENT/PARTY:	SUPERIOR COURT CASE NUMBER: COURT OF APPEAL CASE NUMBER (if known):

3. a. (2) Name of party: testified on (date): .

Summary:

☐ Attachment 3a(2)

(a) Did a party (or attorney) make an objection to this party's testimony? ☐ No ☐ Yes (Specify in item 3b.)

(b) During this party's testimony, were any exhibits (documents, records, or other materials) relevant to the appeal presented that the judge allowed to be used as evidence to support or disprove this party's testimony? ☐ No ☐ Yes (Specify in item 3c.)

(c) During this party's testimony, were any exhibits (documents, records, or other materials) relevant to the appeal presented that the judge did not allow to be used as evidence to support or disprove this party's testimony? ☐ No ☐ Yes (Specify in item 3d.)

(3) Was there testimony from other parties? ☐ No ☐ Yes

(If you answered yes, fill out and attach to this form Other Party and Nonparty Witness Testimony and Evidence Attachment (form APP-014A).)

PLAINTIFF/PETITIONER: DEFENDANT/RESPONDENT: OTHER PARENT/PARTY:	SUPERIOR COURT CASE NUMBER: COURT OF APPEAL CASE NUMBER (if known):

3. b. Objections to a party's testimony relevant to the appeal
(Indicate which party's testimony was objected to and specify the objection. Also indicate whether the court "sustained the objection" (prevented the party from saying something) or "overruled the objection" (allowed the party to make a statement) and include any explanation given by the court.)

☐ Attachment 3b

c. Exhibits (documents, records, or other materials) relevant to the appeal allowed to be used as evidence to support or disprove a party's testimony. (Write a complete and accurate summary of the exhibits presented by each party. Include any objections and the court's ruling on those objections. Do not comment or give your opinion about the exhibits.)

☐ Attachment 3c

d. Exhibits (documents, records, or materials) relevant to the appeal not allowed to be used as evidence to support or disprove a party's testimony. (Write a complete and accurate summary of the exhibits. Include any objections and the court's ruling on those objections. Do not comment or give your opinion about the items.)

☐ Attachment 3d

PLAINTIFF/PETITIONER: DEFENDANT/RESPONDENT: OTHER PARENT/PARTY:	SUPERIOR COURT CASE NUMBER: COURT OF APPEAL CASE NUMBER (if known):

4. SUMMARY OF NONPARTY WITNESS TESTIMONY AND OTHER EVIDENCE

Was there testimony from another party or nonparty witnesses that is relevant to the reasons for the appeal?

☐ No (skip to Item 5) ☐ Yes (Fill out and attach to this form Other Party and Nonparty Witness Testimony and Evidence Attachment (form APP-014A).)

5. TRIAL COURT'S FINDINGS

a. Did the judge make findings at the hearing or trial in the case? ☐ No ☐ Yes (Complete item 5b.)
(A judge makes a "finding" when the judge decides that something is a fact, is true, or is relevant.)

b. What are the findings that the judge made that are relevant to the reasons for the appeal?

☐ Attachment 5

6. SUMMARY OF MOTIONS

a. Are any of your reasons for appeal based on your disagreement with the court's ruling on a motion or motions?
☐ Yes (Fill out b.) ☐ No (Skip to item 7.)

b. Describe the motion. (State which party made the motion. Then, write a complete and accurate summary of what was said (any testimony and arguments) and what the court decided (whether the court granted or denied the motion).)

☐ Attachment 6

7. SUMMARY OF JURY INSTRUCTIONS

a. Are any of your reasons for appeal based on your disagreement with the court's ruling on a jury instruction or instructions?
☐ Yes (Fill out b.) ☐ No (Skip to item 8.)

b. Identify the jury instruction and the party that requested it. (Summarize what the parties said (arguments or objections) and what the court decided (whether the court gave the instruction to the jury, refused to give the instruction to the jury, or modified it before giving it to the jury). Describe any modifications the court made to the instruction.)

☐ Attachment 7

8. ORDER OR JUDGMENT YOU ARE APPEALING

Attach a copy of the order or judgment you are appealing.

Date:

(TYPE OR PRINT NAME) (SIGNATURE OF PARTY OR ATTORNEY)

APP-016-GC/FW-016-GC

Order on Court Fee Waiver (Court of Appeal or Supreme Court) (Ward or Conservatee)

Clerk stamps date here when form is filed.

DRAFT

03-10-2020

Not approved by the Judicial Council

Fill in court name and street address:

Court of Appeal or Supreme Court Case Number:

1 (Proposed) guardian or conservator who asked the court to waive court fees for (proposed) ward or conservatee:

Name: _____

Street or mailing address: _____

City: _____ State: ____ Zip: _____

Telephone: _____

2 Lawyer, if person in 1 has one:

Name: _____ State Bar No: _____

Firm or Affiliation: _____

Street or mailing address: _____

City: _____ State: ____ Zip: _____

Email: _____ Telephone: _____

3 (Proposed) ward or conservatee:

Name: _____

Street or mailing address: _____

City: _____ State: ____ Zip: _____

Telephone: _____

4 Ward's or Conservatee's Lawyer, if any: Name: _____

Firm or Affiliation: _____ State Bar No.: _____

Address: _____ Telephone: _____

City: _____ State: _____ Zip: _____ Email: _____

5 On (date): _____, you filed a Request to Waive Court Fees (form FW-001-GC).

6 The court reviewed your request and makes the following order:

a. ☐ The court grants your request and waives the (proposed) ward's or conservatee's court fees and costs listed below. You do not have to pay fees for the following:

- Filing notice of appeal, petition for writ, or petition for review

☐ Other (specify):

_____

_____

b. ☐ The court denies your request for the following reasons:

(1) ☐ Your request is incomplete. You have 10 days from the date this notice was sent to:

- Pay the (proposed) ward's or conservatee's fees and costs, or
- File a new revised request that includes the items listed below (specify incomplete items):

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

Warning! If you miss the deadline for paying the (proposed) ward's or conservatee's fees and costs or providing the additional items required by the court and you are the appellant, your appeal may be dismissed.

6 b. (2) ☐ The information you provided on the request shows that the (proposed) ward or conservatee is not eligible for the fee waiver you requested for the following reasons (specify):

You have 10 days from the date this notice was sent to:
- Pay the (proposed) ward's or conservatee's fees and costs, or
- File more information that shows that the (proposed) ward or conservatee is eligible for a fee waiver.

(3) ☐ The court finds there is substantial question regarding the (proposed) ward's or conservatee's eligibility (describe issue(s) regarding eligibility):

You have 10 days from the date this notice was sent to:
- Pay the (proposed) ward's or conservatee's fees and costs, or
- File the following additional documents to support your request:

c. ☐ The court needs more information. You must go to court on the date below.

Hearing Date → Date: _____ Time: _____ Dept.: _____

Name and address of court if different from page 1:

☐ Bring the following proof to support your request, if it is reasonably available:

Warning! If item 6 c. is checked and you do not go to court on the hearing date, the court will deny your request to waive court fees for the (proposed) ward or conservatee and you will have 10 days to pay those fees. If you are the appellant and you do not pay the filing fees, your appeal may be dismissed.

Date: _____

_____

Signature of (check one): ☐ Judicial Officer ☐ Clerk, Deputy

APP-104 Proposed Statement on Appeal (Limited Civil Case)

Clerk stamps date here when form is filed.

DRAFT

03-10-2020

Not approved by the Judicial Council

Instructions

- This form is only for preparing a proposed statement on appeal in a limited civil case.
- Before you fill out this form, read Information on Appeal Procedures for Limited Civil Cases (form APP-101-INFO) to know your rights and responsibilities. You can get form APP-101-INFO at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.
- This form can be attached to your Appellant's Notice Designating Record on Appeal (Limited Civil Case) (form APP-103). If it is not attached to that notice, this form must be filed no later than 20 days after you file that notice. If you have chosen to prepare a statement on appeal and do not file this form on time, the court may dismiss your appeal.
- Fill out this form and make a copy of the completed form for your records and for each of the other parties.
- Serve a copy of the completed form on each of the other parties and keep proof of this service. You can get information about how to serve court papers and proof of service from What Is Proof of Service? (form APP-109-INFO) and on the California Courts Online Self-Help Center at www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp-serving.htm.
- Take or mail the original completed form and proof of service on the other parties to the clerk's office for the same court that issued the judgment or order you are appealing. It is a good idea to take or mail an extra copy to the clerk and ask the clerk to stamp it to show that the original has been filed.

You fill in the name and street address of the court that issued the judgment or order you are appealing:

Superior Court of California, County of

You fill in the number and name of the trial court case in which you are appealing the judgment or order:

Trial Court Case Number:

Trial Court Case Name:

You fill in the appellate division case number (if you know it):

Appellate Division Case Number:

1 Your Information

a. Name of Appellant (the party who is filing this appeal):

Name: _____

b. Appellant's contact information (skip this if the appellant has a lawyer for this appeal):

Street address: _____ (Street) _____ (City) _____ (State) _____ (Zip)

Mailing address (if different): _____ (Street) _____ (City) _____ (State) _____ (Zip)

Phone: _____ Email: _____

c. Appellant's lawyer (skip this if the appellant does not have a lawyer for this appeal):

Name: _____ State Bar number: _____

Street address: _____ (Street) _____ (City) _____ (State) _____ (Zip)

Mailing address (if different): _____ (Street) _____ (City) _____ (State) _____ (Zip)

Phone: _____ Email: _____

Fax: _____

Information About Your Appeal

(2) On (fill in the date): _____, I/my client filed a notice of appeal in the trial court case identified in the box on page 1 of this form.

(3) On (fill in the date): _____, I/my client filed a notice designating the record on appeal, electing to use a statement on appeal.

Proposed Statement

(4) Reasons for Your Appeal

Remember, in an appeal, the appellate division can only review a case for whether certain kinds of legal errors were made (read form APP-101-INFO to learn about these legal errors):

- There was not "substantial evidence" supporting the judgment, order, or other decision you are appealing.
- A "prejudicial error" was made during the trial court proceedings.

The appellate division:

- Cannot retry your case or take new evidence.
- Cannot consider whether witnesses were telling the truth or lying.
- Cannot consider whether there was more or stronger evidence supporting your position than there was supporting the trial court's decision.

(Check all that apply and describe the legal error or errors you believe were made that are the reason for this appeal.)

a. ☐ There was not substantial evidence that supported the judgment, order, or other decision that I/my client indicated in the notice of appeal is being appealed in this case. (Explain why you think the judgment, order, or other decision was not supported by substantial evidence): _____

b. ☐ The following error or errors about either the law or court procedure was/were made that caused substantial harm to me/my client. (Describe each error and how you were/your client was harmed by that error.)

(1) Describe the error: _____

Describe how you were/your client was harmed by the error: _____

4 b. (2) Describe the error: _____

Describe how you were/your client was harmed by the error: _____

(3) Describe the error: _____

Describe how you were/your client was harmed by the error: _____

☐ Check here if you need more space to describe these or other errors and attach a separate page or pages describing the errors. At the top of each page, write "APP-104, item 4."

5 The Dispute

a. In the trial court, I/my client was the (check one):

☐ Plaintiff (the party who filed the complaint in the case).

☐ Defendant (the party against whom the complaint was filed).

b. The plaintiff's complaint in this case was about (briefly describe what was claimed in the complaint filed with the trial court): _____

c. The defendant's response to this complaint was (briefly describe how the defendant responded to the complaint filed with the trial court): _____

☐ Check here if you need more space to describe the dispute and attach a separate page or pages describing it. At the top of each page, write "APP-104, Item 5."

6 Summary of Any Motions and the Court's Order on the Motion

a. Were any motions (requests for the trial court to issue an order) made in this case that are relevant to the reasons you gave in 4 for this appeal?

☐ Yes (fill out b) ☐ No (skip to 7)

b. In the spaces below, describe any motions (requests for orders) that were made in the trial court that are relevant to the reasons you gave in 4 for this appeal. Write a complete and accurate summary of what was said at any hearings on these motions and indicate how the trial court ruled on these motions.

(1) Describe the first motion: _____

The motion was filed by the ☐ plaintiff ☐ defendant.

There ☐ was ☐ was not a hearing on this motion.

If there was a hearing on this motion, write a complete and accurate summary of what was said at this hearing: _____

The trial court ☐ granted this motion ☐ did not grant this motion.

☐ Other (describe any other action the trial court took concerning this motion): _____

☐ Check here if you need more space to describe this motion and attach a separate page or pages describing this motion. At the top of each page, write "APP-104, Item 6b(1)."

(2) Describe the second motion: _____

The motion was filed by the ☐ plaintiff ☐ defendant.

There ☐ was ☐ was not a hearing on this motion.

If there was a hearing on this motion, write a complete and accurate summary of what was said at this hearing: _____

The trial court ☐ granted this motion. ☐ did not grant this motion.

6 b. (2) ☐ Other (describe any other action the trial court took concerning this motion): _____

☐ Check here if you need more space to describe this motion and attach a separate page or pages describing this motion. At the top of each page, write "APP-104, item 6b(2)."

(3) ☐ Check here if any other motions were filed that are relevant to the reasons you gave in 4 for this appeal and attach a separate page describing each motion, identifying who made the motion and whether there was a hearing on the motion, summarizing what was said at the hearing on the motion, and indicating whether the trial court granted or denied the motion. At the top of each page, write "APP-104, item 6b(3)."

7 Summary of Testimony and Other Evidence

a. Was there a trial in your case?

☐ No (skip items b, c, d, and e and go to item 8)

☐ Yes (check (1) or (2) and complete items b, c, d, and e)

(1) ☐ Jury trial

(2) ☐ Trial by judge only

b. Did you/your client testify at the trial?

☐ No

☐ Yes (Write a complete and accurate summary of the testimony you/your client gave that is relevant to the reasons you gave in 4 for this appeal. Include only what you actually said; do not comment or give your opinion about what was said. Please indicate whether any objections were made concerning your/your client's testimony or any exhibits you/your client asked to present and whether these objections were sustained.): _____

☐ Check here if you need more space to summarize your/your client's testimony and attach a separate page or pages summarizing this testimony. At the top of each page, write "APP-104, Item 7b."

c. Were there any other witnesses at the trial whose testimony is relevant to the reasons you gave in 4 for this appeal?

☐ No

☐ Yes (complete items (1), (2), and (3)):

(1) The witness's name is (fill in the witness's name): _____

(2) The witness testified on behalf of the (check one): ☐ plaintiff ☐ defendant.

7 c. (3) This witness testified that (Write a complete and accurate summary of the witness's testimony that is relevant to the reasons you gave in 4 for this appeal. Include only what the witness actually said; do not comment on or give your opinion about what the witness said. Please indicate whether any objections were made concerning this witness's testimony or any exhibits this witness asked to present and whether these objections were sustained.): _____

☐ Check here if you need more space to summarize this witness's testimony and attach a separate page or pages summarizing this testimony. At the top of each page, write "APP-104, Item 7c."

d. ☐ Check here if any other witnesses gave testimony at the trial that is relevant to the reasons you gave in 4 for this appeal. Attach a separate page or pages identifying each witness and who the witness testified for, summarizing the witness's testimony that is relevant to the reasons you gave in 4 for this appeal, and indicating whether any objections were made concerning this witness's testimony or any exhibits the witness asked to present and whether these objections were sustained. At the top of each page, write "APP-104, Item 7d."

e. Summarize the evidence, other than testimony, that was given during the trial that is relevant to the reasons you gave in 4 for this appeal. (Write a complete and accurate summary of the evidence given by both you and the respondent. Include only the evidence given; do not comment on or give your opinion about this evidence.):

☐ Check here if you need more space to describe the evidence and attach a separate page or pages describing the evidence. At the top of each page, write "APP-104, Item 7e."

8 The Trial Court's Findings

Did the trial court make findings in the case?

☐ No

☐ Yes (describe the findings made by the trial court): _____

☐ Check here if you need more space to describe the trial court's findings and attach a separate page or pages describing these findings. At the top of each page, write "APP-104, Item 8."

9 The Trial Court's Final Judgment

The trial court issued the following final judgment in this case (check all that apply and fill in any required information):

a. I/My client was required to:

☐ pay the other party damages of (fill in the amount of the damages): $ _____

☐ do the following (describe what you were ordered to do): _____

_____

_____

_____

b. The other party was required to:

☐ pay me/my client damages of (fill in the amount of the damages): $ _____

☐ do the following (describe what the other party was ordered to do): _____

_____

_____

c. ☐ Other (describe): _____

_____

_____

☐ Check here if you need more space to describe the trial court's judgment or order and attach a separate page or pages describing this judgment or order. At the top of each page, write "APP-104, Item 9."

Date: _____

_____ ▶ _____

Type or print your name Signature of appellant or attorney

APP-109-INFO What Is Proof of Service?

GENERAL INFORMATION

What does this information sheet cover?

This information sheet tells you how to fill out Proof of Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109*)* or Proof of Electronic Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109E). This information sheet is not part of the proof of service and does not need to be copied, served, or filed.

1 What is "serving" a document?

"Serving" a document on a person means having the document delivered to that person. The general requirements for serving documents are set out in California Code of Civil Procedure sections 1010.6–1013a (you can get a copy of these laws at any county law library or online at www.leginfo.ca.gov.calaw.html). There are three main ways to serve documents: (1) by mail, (2) by personal delivery, or (3) by electronic service.

When a document is served by mail, it must be put in a sealed envelope or package that is addressed to the person who is being served and that has the postage fully prepaid. The envelope then has to be deposited with the U.S. Postal Service by leaving it at a U.S. Postal Service office or mail drop or at an office or business mail drop where the person serving the document knows the mail is picked up every day and deposited with the U.S. Postal Service.

When a document is personally delivered to a party who is represented by an attorney, the document must either be given directly to the attorney representing that party or the document can be placed in an envelope or package addressed to the attorney and left with the receptionist at the attorney's office or with a person who is in charge of the attorney's office. When a document is personally served on a party who is not represented by an attorney, the document must either be given directly to the party or the document can be given to someone who is at least 18 years old at the party's residence between the hours of eight in the morning and six in the evening.

You may be able to serve a document electronically if the person being served has agreed to accept electronic service or if the court has ordered the person to accept electronic service. The requirements for electronic service are set out in California Code of Civil Procedure section 1010.6.

When a document is electronically served, it must be served either by electronic transmission or by electronic notification. "Electronic transmission" means sending the document to the person's electronic service address, an email address the person has given the court and the other parties to the case for this purpose. "Electronic notification" means sending a notice to the person with the exact name of the document and a hyperlink—a link to a web address—at which the document may be viewed and downloaded.

2 What documents have to be served?

Rule 8.817 of the California Rules of Court requires that before you file any document with the court in a case in the appellate division of the superior court, you must serve one copy of the document on each of the other parties in the case and on anyone else when required by law (statute or rule of court). Other rules require that certain documents in cases in the appellate division be served, including the notice of appeal and the notice designating the record on appeal in appeals in limited civil cases and briefs in all appeals. (For more information about appeals in general and about these documents, read Information on Appeal Procedures for Limited Civil Cases (form APP-101-INFO), Information on Appeal Procedures for Misdemeanors (form CR-131-INFO), and Information on Appeal Procedures for Infractions (form CR-141-INFO).)

3 Who can serve a document?

State law (the Code of Civil Procedure) says that a document in a court case can only be served by a person who is over 18 years old. Service by mail or by personal delivery must be by someone who is not a party in the case; electronic service may be performed directly by a party.

If you are a party in a case and wish to serve documents by mail or by personal delivery, you must have someone else who is over 18 and who is not a party in your case serve any documents in your case for you. You will need to give the person who is serving the document for you (the server) the names and addresses of all the people who need to be served with that document. You will also need to give the server one copy of each document that needs to be served for each person who is being served.

If you are serving documents electronically, you can do so yourself or have another person over 18 do it for you. The person doing the serving (the server) will need the names and electronic service addresses of everyone who must be served, as well as the document to be served in a form that allows it to be electronically transmitted or made available by hyperlink.

4 What is proof of service?

A "proof of service" shows the court that a document was served as required by the law. Rule 8.817 also requires a party who is filing a document with the court in a case in the appellate division to attach a proof of service to the document the party wants to file. You can use Proof of Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109) or Proof of Electronic Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109E) to give the court this proof of service in any case in the appellate division of the superior court. The server should follow the instructions below for completing the Proof of Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109) or Proof of Electronic Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109E). If another person is serving the documents for you–as is required if the document will be served by mail or personal delivery–tell the server to give you the original form when it is filled out and signed. You will need to attach the original proof of service to the document you want to file.

If you are electronically filing the document, the proof of service may also be filed electronically. However, the original signed proof of service must be kept by the party filing the document and produced upon request.

INFORMATION FOR THE SERVER

5 Who fills out the Proof of Service or Proof of Electronic Service?

If you are the server (the person who serves a document for a party in a court case), you must prepare and sign the proof of service. If you served the document by mail or personal delivery, you can use Proof of Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109) to prepare this proof of service in any case in the appellate division. If you served the document electronically, you can use Proof of Electronic Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109E) to prepare the proof of service.

6 How do I fill out the Proof of Service?

These instructions are for Proof of Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109), if you are serving the document by mail or personal delivery. If you are serving the document electronically, please see 7 below, for instructions on how to fill out Proof of Electronic Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109E).

You can fill out most of the information on Proof of Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109) by copying the information from the document you are serving before you serve that document. However, you should not sign and date the form until after you have finished serving the document. By signing form APP-109, you are swearing, under penalty of perjury, that the information that you put in the form is true and correct.

When you fill out the Proof of Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109), you should print neatly or use a typewriter. If you have Internet access, you can fill out the form online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms (use the "fillable" version of the form).

Filling in the top section of form APP-109:

First box, right side of form: Leave this box blank for the court's use.

Second box, right side of form: Fill in the name of the county in which the case is filed and the street address of the court. You can copy this information from the first page of the document that you are serving. If the document you are serving is another Judicial Council form, this information will be in the second box on the right-hand side of the form.

Third box, right side of form: Fill in the trial court case name and number. You can copy this information from the first page of the document that you are serving. If the document you are serving is another Judicial Council form, this information will be in the third box on the right-hand side of the form.

Fourth box, right side of form: Fill in the appellate division case number, if you know it. If this number is available, it will be on the first page of the document that you are serving. If the document you are serving is another Judicial Council form, this number will be in the fourth box on the right-hand side of the form.

Filling in items 1–5:

Items 1 and 2: You are stating, under penalty of perjury, that you are over the age of 18 and that you are not a party in this court case.

Item 3: Check one of the boxes and provide your home or business address. This information is important because, if you serve the document by mail, you must live or work in the county from which the document was mailed.

Item 4: Check or fill in the name of the document that you are serving. If the document you are serving is another Judicial Council form, the name of the document is located on both the top and the bottom of the first page of the form. If the document you are serving is not a Judicial Council form, the name of the document should be on the top of the first page of the document.

a. Check box 4a if you are serving the document by mail. BEFORE YOU SEAL AND MAIL THE ENVELOPE WITH THE DOCUMENT YOU ARE SERVING, fill in the following parts of the form.

   (1) You are stating, under penalty of perjury, that you are putting one copy of the document you identified in item 4 in an envelope addressed to each person listed in 4a(2), sealing the envelope, and putting first-class postage on the envelope.

   (2) Fill in the name and address of each person to whom you are mailing the document. You can copy this information from the list of people to be served or the envelopes provided by the party for whom you are serving the document. If you need more space to list names and addresses, check the box under item 4a(2) and attach a page listing them. At the top of the page, write "APP-109, Item 4a."

   (3) Fill in the date you are mailing the document and the city and state from which you are mailing it. REMEMBER: You must live or work in the county from which the document is mailed.

      (a) Check box 4a(3)(a) if you are personally depositing the document with the U.S. Postal Service, such as at a U.S. Post Office or U.S. Postal Service mailbox.

      (b) Check box 4a(3)(b) if you are putting the document in the mail at your place of business.

   Once you have finished filling out these parts of the form, make one copy of Proof of Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109) with this information filled in for each person you are serving by mail. Put this copy of Proof of Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109) in the envelope with the document you are serving. Seal the envelope and mail it as you have indicated on the Proof of Service.

b. Check box 4b. If you personally delivered the documents. Remember, when a document is personally delivered to a party who is represented by an attorney, the document must either be given directly to the party's attorney or the document can be placed in an envelope or package addressed to the attorney and left with the receptionist at the attorney's office or with a person who is in charge of the attorney's office. When a document is personally served on a party who is not represented by an attorney, the document must either be given directly to the party or the document can be given to someone who is at least 18 years old at the party's residence between the hours of eight in the morning and six in the evening.

   For each person to whom you personally delivered the document, fill in:

   (a) The person's name.

   (b) The address at which you delivered the document to this person.

   (c) The date on which you delivered the document to this person.

   (d) The time at which you delivered the document.

   If you need space to list more names, addresses, and delivery dates and times, check the box under 4b. and attach a page listing this information. At the top of the page, write "APP-109, Item 4b."

Item 5: At the bottom of the form, type or print your name, sign the form, and fill in the date that you signed the form. By signing this form, you are stating under penalty of perjury that all the information you filled in on Proof of Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109) is true and correct.

After you have finished serving the document and filled in, signed, and dated Proof of Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109), give the original completed form to the party for whom you served the document.

7 How do I fill out the Proof of Electronic Service?

You can fill out most of the information on Proof of Electronic Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109E) by copying the information from the document you are serving before you serve that document. However, you should not sign and date the form until after you have finished serving the document. By signing form APP-109E you are swearing under penalty of perjury that the information you have put in the form is true and correct.

You can fill out the Proof of Electronic Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109E) online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms (use the "fillable" version of the form), or you can print it out and fill it in, printing neatly or using a typewriter.

Filling in the top section of form APP-109E:

First box, right side of form: Leave this box blank for the court's use.

Second box, right side of form: Fill in the name of the county in which the case is filed and the street address of the court. You can copy this information from the first page of the document that you are serving. If the document you are serving is another Judicial Council form, this information will be in the second box on the right-hand side of that form.

Third box, right side of form: Fill in the trial court case number and name. You can copy this information from the first page of the document that you are serving. If the document you are serving is another Judicial Council form, this information will be in the third box on the right-hand side of that form.

Fourth box, right side of form: Fill in the appellate division case number, if you know it. If this number is available, it will be on the first page of the document that you are serving. If the document you are serving is another Judicial Council form, this information will be in the fourth box on the right-hand side of that form.

Filling in items 1–5:

Item 1: You are stating, under penalty of perjury, that you are over the age of 18.

Item 2:
a. Check one of the boxes and provide your home or business address.

b. Fill in your electronic service address. This is the address at which you have agreed to accept electronic service, usually an email address.

Item 3: Check or fill in the name of the document that you are serving. If the document you are serving is another Judicial Council form, the name of the document is located on both the top and the bottom of the first page of the form. If the document you are serving is not a Judicial Council form, the name of the document should be on the top of the first page of the document.

Item 4: Fill in the name of each person served, and the name or names of the parties represented, if the person served is an attorney. For each person served, fill in that person's electronic service address and the date you served the person. If you need more space to list additional persons served, check the box under item 4 b. and attach a page listing them, with their electronic service addresses and the date each person was served. At the top of the page, write "APP-109E, Item 4."

When you have filled in the information in items 1–4, create an electronic copy of the Proof of Electronic Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109E) with this information filled in. Transmit the filled-in form with the document you are serving to each person served.

Item (5): At the bottom of the form, type or print your name, sign the form, and fill in the date that you signed the form. By signing this form, you are stating under penalty of perjury that all the information you filled in on the Proof of Electronic Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109E) is true and correct. If you are not the party for whom the documents are served, give the original completed Proof of Electronic Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109E) to the party for whom you served the document.

If you are electronically filing the document that is served, the proof of service may also be filed electronically. However, the original signed proof of service must be kept by the party filing it and produced upon request.

APP-150-INFO Information on Writ Proceedings in Misdemeanor, Infraction, and Limited Civil Cases

GENERAL INFORMATION

1 What does this information sheet cover?

This information sheet tells you about writ proceedings—proceedings in which a person is asking for a writ of mandate, prohibition, or review—in misdemeanor, infraction, and limited civil cases, and in certain small claims cases. Please read this information sheet before you fill out Petition for Writ (Misdemeanor, Infraction, or Limited Civil Case) (form APP-151). This information sheet does not cover everything you may need to know about writ proceedings. It is only meant to give you a general idea of the writ process. To learn more, you should read rules 8.930–8.936 of the California Rules of Court, which set out the procedures for writ proceedings in the appellate division. You can get these rules at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/rules.

This information sheet does NOT provide information about appeals or proceedings for writs of supersedeas or habeas corpus, or for writs in certain small claims cases.

- For information about appeals, please see the box on the right side of this page.
- For information about writs of habeas corpus, please see rules 4.550–4.552 of the California Rules of Court and Petition for Writ of Habeas Corpus (form MC-275).
- For information about writs of supersedeas, please see rule 8.824 of the California Rules of Court. This information sheet applies to writs relating to postjudgment enforcement actions of the small claims division. For information about writs relating to other actions by the small claims division, see rules 8.930–8.936 of the California Rules of Court and Petition for Writ (Small Claims) (form SC-300).
- For information about writs relating to actions of the superior court on small claims appeals, see rules 8.485–8.493 of the California Rules of Court.

You can get these rules and forms at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/rules for the rules or www.courts.ca.gov/forms for the forms.

2 What is a writ?

A writ is an order from a higher court telling a lower court to do something the law says the lower court must do or not to do something the law says the lower court does not have the power to do. In writ proceedings in the appellate division, the lower court is the superior court that took the action or issued the order being challenged.

For information about appeal procedures, see:

- Information on Appeal Procedures for Misdemeanors (form CR-131-INFO);
- Information on Appeal Procedures for Infractions (form CR-141-INFO); and
- Information on Appeal Procedures for Limited Civil Cases (form APP-101-INFO).

You can get these forms at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.

In this information sheet, we call the lower court the "trial court."

3 Are there different kinds of writs?

Yes. There are three main kinds of writs:

- Writs of mandate (sometimes called "mandamus"), which are orders telling the trial court to do something.
- Writs of prohibition, which are orders telling the trial court not to do something.
- Writs of review (sometimes called "certiorari"), which are orders telling the trial court that the appellate division will review certain kinds of actions already taken by the trial court.

There are laws (statutes) that you should read concerning each type of writ: see California Code of Civil Procedure sections 1084–1097 about writs of mandate, sections 1102–1105 about writs of prohibition, and sections 1067–1077 about writs of review. You can get copies of these statutes at any county law library or online at leginfo.legislature.ca.gov/faces/codes.xhtml.

4 Is a writ proceeding the same as an appeal?

No. In an appeal, the appellate division must consider the parties' arguments and decide whether the trial court made the legal error claimed by the appealing party and whether the trial court's decision should be overturned based on that error (this is called a "decision on the merits"). In a writ proceeding, the appellate division is not required to make a decision on the merits; even if the trial court made a legal error, the appellate division can decide not to consider that error now, but to wait and consider the error as part of any appeal from the final judgment. Most requests for writs are denied without a decision on the merits (this is called a "summary denial"). Because of this, appeals are the ordinary way that decisions made by a trial court are reviewed and writ proceedings are often called proceedings for "extraordinary" relief.

Appeals and writ proceedings are also used to review different kinds of decisions by the trial court. Appeals can be used only to review a trial court's final judgment and a few kinds of orders. Most rulings made by a trial court before it issues its final judgment cannot be appealed right away; they can only be appealed after the trial court case is over, as part of an appeal of the final judgment. Unlike appeals, writ proceedings can be used to ask for review of certain kinds of important rulings made by a trial court before it issues its final judgment.

5 Is a writ proceeding a new trial?

No. A writ proceeding is NOT a new trial. The appellate division will not consider new evidence, such as the testimony of new witnesses. Instead, if it does not summarily deny the request for a writ, the appellate division reviews a record of what happened in the trial court and the trial court's ruling to see if the trial court made the legal error claimed by the person asking for the writ. When it conducts its review, the appellate division presumes that the trial court's ruling is correct; the person who requests the writ must show the appellate division that the trial court made the legal error the person is claiming.

6 Can a writ be used to address any errors made by a trial court?

No.

Writs can only address certain legal errors. Writs can only address the following types of legal errors made by a trial court:

- The trial court has a legal duty to act but:
  - Refuses to act;
  - Has not done what the law says it must do; or
  - Has acted in a way the law says it does not have the power to act.
- The trial court has performed or says it is going to perform a judicial function (like deciding a person's rights under law in a particular case) in a way that the court does not have the legal power to do.

There must be no other adequate remedy. The trial court's error must also be something that can be fixed only with a writ. The person asking for the writ must show the appellate division that there is no adequate way to address the trial court's error other than with the writ (this is called having "no adequate remedy at law"). As mentioned above, appeals are the ordinary way that trial court decisions are reviewed. If the trial court's ruling can be appealed, the appellate division will generally consider an appeal to be good enough (an "adequate remedy") unless the person asking for the writ can show the appellate division that the person will be harmed in a way that cannot be fixed by the appeal if the appellate division does not issue the writ (this is called "irreparable" injury or harm).

Statutory writs: There are laws (statutes) that provide that certain kinds of rulings can or must be challenged using a writ proceeding. These are called "statutory writs." Here is a list of some of the most common rulings that a statute says can or must be challenged using a writ:

- A ruling on a motion to disqualify a judge (see California Code of Civil Procedure section 170.3(d))
- Denial of a motion for summary judgment (see California Code of Civil Procedure section 437c(m)(l))
- A ruling on a motion for summary adjudication of issues (see California Code of Civil Procedure section 437c(m)(l))

- Denial of a stay in an unlawful detainer matter (see California Code of Civil Procedure section 1176)
- An order disqualifying the prosecuting attorney (see California Penal Code section 1424)

You can get copies of these statutes at any county law library or online at leginfo.legislature.ca.gov/faces /codes.xhtml. You will need to check whether there is a statute providing that the specific ruling you want to challenge can or must be reviewed using a writ proceeding. (Note that just because there is a statute requiring or allowing you to ask for a writ to challenge a ruling does not mean that the court must grant your request; the appellate division can still deny a request for a statutory writ.)

Common law writs: Even if there is not a statute specifically providing for a writ proceeding to challenge a particular ruling, most trial court rulings other than the final judgment can potentially be challenged using a writ proceeding if the trial court made the type of legal error described above and the petitioner has no other adequate remedy at law. These writs are called "common law" writs.

7 Can the appellate division consider a request for a writ in any case?

No. Different courts have the power (called "jurisdiction") to consider requests for writs in different types of cases. The appellate division can only consider requests for writs in limited civil, misdemeanor, and infraction cases, and certain small claims cases. A limited civil case is a civil case in which the amount claimed is $25,000 or less (see California Code of Civil Procedure sections 85 and 88). Misdemeanor cases are cases in which a person has been charged with or convicted of a crime for which the punishment can include jail time of up to one year but not time in state prison (see California Penal Code sections 17 and 19.2). (If the person was also charged with or convicted of a felony in the same case, it is considered a felony case, not a misdemeanor case.) Infraction cases are cases in which a person has been charged with or convicted of a crime for which the punishment can be a fine, traffic school, or some form of community service but cannot include any time in jail or prison (see California Penal Code sections 17 and 19.8). Examples of infractions include traffic tickets or citations for violations of some city or county ordinances. (If a person was also charged with or convicted of a misdemeanor in the same case, it is considered a misdemeanor case, not an infraction case.) You can get copies of these statutes at any county law library or online at leginfo.legislature.ca.gov/faces /codes.xhtml. The appellate division can consider requests for writs in small claims actions relating to postjudgment enforcement orders.

The appellate division does NOT have jurisdiction to consider requests for writs in either unlimited civil cases (civil cases in which the amount claimed is more than $25,000) or felony cases (cases in which a person has been charged with or convicted of a crime for which the punishment can include time in state prison). Requests for writs in these cases can be made in the Court of Appeal. The appellate division also does NOT have jurisdiction to consider requests for writs of habeas corpus; requests for these writs can be made in the superior court.

Requests for writs relating to actions of the small claims division other than postjudgment enforcement orders are considered by a single judge in the appellate division. (See form SC-300-INFO.) Requests for writs relating to superior court actions in small claims cases on appeal may be made to the Court of Appeal.

8 Who are the parties in a writ proceeding?

If you are asking for the writ, you are called the PETITIONER. You should read "Information for the Petitioner," beginning on page 4.

The court the petitioner is asking to be ordered to do or not to do something is called the RESPONDENT. In appellate division writ proceedings, the trial court is the respondent.

Any other party in the trial court case who would be affected by a ruling regarding the request for a writ is a REAL PARTY IN INTEREST. If you are a real party in interest, you should read "Information for a Real Party in Interest," beginning on page 10.

9 Do I need a lawyer to represent me in a writ proceeding?

You do not have to have a lawyer; you are allowed to represent yourself in a writ proceeding in the appellate division. But writ proceedings can be very complicated and you will have to follow the same rules that lawyers have to follow. If you have any questions about the writ procedures, you should talk to a lawyer. In limited civil cases and infraction cases, you must hire a lawyer at your own expense if you want one (the court cannot provide one). You can get information about finding a lawyer on the California Courts Online Self-Help Center at www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp-lowcosthelp.htm.

INFORMATION FOR THE PETITIONER

This part of the information sheet is written for the petitioner—the party asking for the writ. It explains some of the rules and procedures relating to asking for a writ. The information may also be helpful to a real party in interest. There is more information for a real party in interest starting on page 10 of this information sheet.

10 Who can ask for a writ?

Only a party in the trial court proceeding—the plaintiff or defendant in a civil case or the defendant or prosecuting agency in a misdemeanor or infraction case—can ask for a writ challenging a ruling on a motion to disqualify a judge (see California Code of Civil Procedure section 170.3(d)). Parties are also usually the only ones that ask for writs challenging other kinds of trial court rulings. However, in most cases, a person who was not a party does have the legal right to ask for a writ if that person has a "beneficial interest" in the trial court's ruling. A "beneficial interest" means that the person has a specific right or interest affected by the ruling that goes beyond the general rights or interests the public may have in the ruling.

11 How do I ask for a writ?

To ask for a writ you must serve and file a petition for a writ (see below for an explanation of how to "serve and file" a petition). A petition is a formal request that the appellate division issue a writ. A petition for a writ explains to the appellate division what happened in the trial court, what legal error you (the petitioner) believe the trial court made, why you have no other adequate remedy at law, and what order you are requesting the appellate division to make.

12 How do I prepare a writ petition?

If you are represented by a lawyer, your lawyer will prepare your petition for a writ. If you are not represented by a lawyer, you must use Petition for Writ (Misdemeanor, Infraction, or Limited Civil Case) (form APP-151) to prepare your petition. You can get form APP-151 at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms. This form asks you to fill in the information that needs to be in a writ petition.

a. Description of your interest in the trial court's ruling

Your petition needs to tell the appellate division why you have a right to ask for a writ in the case. As discussed above, usually only a person who was a party in the trial court case—the plaintiff or defendant in a civil case or the defendant or prosecuting agency in a misdemeanor or infraction case—asks for a writ challenging a ruling in that case. If you were a party in the trial court case, say that in your petition. If you were not a party, you will need to describe what "beneficial interest" you have in the trial court's ruling. A "beneficial interest" means that you have a specific right or interest affected by the ruling that goes beyond the general rights or interests the public may have in the ruling. To show the appellate division that you have a beneficial interest in the ruling you want to challenge, you must describe how the ruling will affect you in a direct and negative way.

b. Description of the legal error you believe the trial court made

Your petition will need to tell the appellate division what legal error you believe the trial court made. Not every mistake a trial court might make can be addressed by a writ. You must show that the trial court made one of the following types of legal errors:

- The trial court has a legal duty to act but:
  - Refuses to act;
  - Has not done what the law says it must do; or

  - Has acted in a way the law says it does not have the power to act.

- The trial court has performed or says it is going to perform a judicial function (like deciding a person's rights under law in a particular case) in a way that the court does not have the legal power to do.

To show the appellate division that the trial court made one of these legal errors, you will need to:

- Show that the trial court has the legal duty or the power to act or not act in a particular way. You will need to tell the appellate division what legal authority—what constitutional provision, statute, rule, or published court decision—establishes the trial court's legal duty or power to act or not act in that way.
- Show the appellate division that the trial court has not acted in the way that this legal authority says the court is required to act. You will need to tell the appellate division exactly where in the record of what happened in the trial court it shows that the trial court did not act in the way it was required to.

c. Description of why you need the writ

One of the most important parts of your petition is explaining to the appellate division why you need the writ you have requested. Remember, the appellate division does not have to grant your petition just because the trial court made an error. You must convince the appellate division that it is important for it to issue the writ.

Your petition needs to show that a writ is the only way to fix the trial court's error. To convince the court you need the writ, you will need to show the appellate division that you have no way to fix the trial court's error other than through a writ (this is called having "no adequate remedy at law").

This will be hard if the trial court's ruling can be appealed. If the ruling you are challenging can be appealed, either immediately or as part of an appeal of the final judgment in your case, the appellate division will generally consider this appeal to be a good enough way to fix the trial court's ruling (an "adequate remedy"). To be able to explain to the appellate division why you do not have an adequate remedy at law, you will need to find out if the ruling you want to challenge can be appealed, either immediately or as part of an appeal of the final judgment.

Here are some trial court rulings that can be appealed. There are laws (statutes) that say that certain kinds of trial court rulings ("orders") can be appealed immediately. In limited civil cases, California Code of Civil Procedure section 904.2 lists orders that can be appealed immediately, including orders:

- Changing or refusing to change the place of trial (venue)
- Granting a motion to quash service of summons
- Granting a motion to stay or dismiss the action on the ground of inconvenient forum
- Granting a new trial
- Denying a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict
- Granting or dissolving an injunction or refusing to grant or dissolve an injunction
- Appointing a receiver
- Made after final judgment in the case

In misdemeanor and infraction cases, orders made after the final judgment that affect the substantial rights of the defendant can be appealed immediately (California Penal Code section 1466).

In misdemeanor cases, orders granting or denying a motion to suppress evidence can also be appealed immediately (California Penal Code section 1538.5(j)).

You can get copies of these statutes at any county law library or online at leginfo.legislature.ca.gov/faces /codes.xhtml. You should also check to see if there are published court decisions that indicate whether you can or must use an appeal or a writ petition to challenge the type of ruling you want to challenge in your case.

If the ruling can be appealed, you will need to show that an appeal will not fix the trial court's error. If the trial court ruling you want to challenge can be appealed, you will need to show the appellate division why that appeal is not good enough to fix the trial court's error. To do that, you will need to show the appellate division how you will be harmed by the trial court's error in a way that cannot be fixed by the appeal if the appellate division does not issue the writ (this is called "irreparable" injury or harm). For example, because of the time it takes for an appeal, the harm you want to prevent may happen before an appeal can be finished.

d. Description of the order you want the appellate division to make Your petition needs to describe what you are asking the appellate division to order the trial court to do or not do. Writ petitions usually ask that the trial court be ordered to cancel ("vacate") its ruling, issue a new ruling, or not take any steps to enforce its ruling.

If you want the appellate division to order the trial court not to do anything more until the appellate division decides whether to grant the writ you are requesting, you must ask for a "stay." If you want a stay, you should first ask the trial court for a stay. You should tell the appellate division whether you asked the trial court for a stay. If you did not ask the trial court for a stay, you should tell the appellate division why you did not do this.

If you ask the appellate division for a stay, make sure you also fill out the "Stay requested" box on the first page of the Petition for Writ (Misdemeanor, Infraction, or Limited Civil Case) (form APP-151).

e. Verifying the petition

Petitions for writs must be "verified." This means that either the petitioner or the petitioner's attorney must declare under penalty of perjury that the facts stated in the petition are true and correct, must sign the petition, and must indicate the date that the petition was signed. On the last page of the Petition for Writ (Misdemeanor, Infraction, or Limited Civil Case) (form APP-151), there is a place for you to verify your petition.

13 Is there anything else that I need to serve and file with my petition?

Yes. Along with the petition, you must serve and file a record of what happened in the trial court (see below for an explanation of how to serve and file the petition). Since the appellate division judges were not there in the trial court, a record of what happened must be sent to the appellate division for its review. The materials that make up this record are called "supporting documents."

What needs to be in the supporting documents. The supporting documents must include:

- A record of what was said in the trial court about the ruling that you are challenging (this is called the "oral proceedings") and
- Copies of certain important documents from the trial court.

Read below for more information about these two parts of the supporting documents.

Record of the oral proceedings. There are several ways a record of what was said in the trial court may be provided to the appellate division:

- A transcript—A transcript is a written record (often called the "verbatim" record) of the oral proceedings in the trial court. If a court reporter was in the trial court and made a record of the oral proceedings, you can have the court reporter prepare a transcript of those oral proceedings, called a "reporter's transcript," for the appellate division. If a reporter was not there, but the oral proceedings were officially recorded on approved electronic recording equipment, you can have a transcript prepared for the appellate division from the official electronic recording of these proceedings. You (the petitioner) must pay for preparing a transcript, unless the court orders otherwise.
- A copy of an electronic recording—If the oral proceedings were officially recorded on approved electronic recording equipment, the court has a local rule for the appellate division permitting this recording to be used as the record of the oral proceedings, and all the parties agree ("stipulate"), a copy of the official electronic recording itself can be used as the record of the oral proceedings instead of a transcript. You (the petitioner) must pay for preparing a copy of the official electronic recording, unless the court orders otherwise.
- A summary—If a transcript or official electronic recording of what was said in the trial court is not available, your petition must include a declaration (a statement signed by the petitioner under penalty of perjury) either:
  - Explaining why the transcript or official electronic recording is not available and providing a fair summary of the proceedings, including the petitioner's arguments and any statement by the court supporting its ruling; or

- Stating that the transcript or electronic recording has been ordered, the date it was ordered, and the date it is expected to be filed.

Copies of documents from the trial court. Copies of the following documents from the trial court must also be included in the supporting documents:

- The trial court ruling being challenged in the petition
- All documents and exhibits submitted to the trial court supporting and opposing the petitioner's position
- Any other documents or portions of documents submitted to the trial court that are necessary for a complete understanding of the case and of the ruling being challenged

What if I cannot get copies of the documents from the trial court because of an emergency? Rule 8.931 of the California Rules of Court provides that in extraordinary circumstances the petition may be filed without copies of the documents from the trial court. If the petition is filed without these documents, you must explain in your petition the urgency and the circumstances making the documents available.

Format of the supporting documents. Supporting documents must be put in the format required by rule 8.931 of the California Rules of Court. Among other things, there must be a tab for each document and an index listing the documents that are included. You should carefully read rule 8.931. You can get a copy of rule 8.931 at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/rules.

(14) Is there a deadline to ask for a writ?

Yes. For statutory writs, the statute usually sets the deadline for serving and filing the petition. Here is a list of the deadlines for filing petitions for some of the most common statutory writs (you can get copies of these statutes at any county law library or online at leginfo.legislature.ca.gov/faces/codes.xhtml).

Statutory Writ	Filing Deadline
Writ challenging a ruling on a motion to disqualify a judge (see California Code of Civil Procedure section 170.3(d))	10 days after notice to the parties of the decision
Writ challenging the denial of a motion for summary judgment (see California Code of Civil Procedure section 437c(m)(l))	20 days after service of written notice of entry of the order
Writ challenging a ruling on a motion for summary adjudication of issues (see California Code of Civil Procedure section 437c(m)(l))	20 days after service of written notice of entry of the order

For common law writs or statutory writs where the statute does not set a deadline, you should file the petition as soon as possible and not later than 30 days after the court makes the ruling that you are challenging in the petition. While there is no absolute deadline for filing these petitions, writ petitions are usually used when it is urgent that the trial court's error be fixed. Remember, the court is not required to grant your petition even if the trial court made an error. If you delay in filing your petition, it may make the appellate division think that it is not really urgent that the trial court's error be fixed and the appellate division may deny your petition. If there are extraordinary circumstances that delayed the filing of your petition, you should explain these circumstances to the appellate division in your petition.

(15) How do I "serve" my petition?

Rule 8.931(d) requires that the petition and one set of supporting documents be served on any named real party in interest and that just the petition be served on the respondent trial court. "Serving" a petition on a party means that you must:

- Have somebody over 18 years old mail, deliver, or electronically send ("serve") the petition to the real party in interest and the respondent court in the way required by law. If the petition is mailed or personally delivered, it must be by someone who is not a party to the case—so not you.

- Make a record that the petition has been served. This record is called a "proof of service." Proof of Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109) or Proof of Electronic Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109E) can be used to make this record. The proof of service must show who served the petition, who was served with the petition, how the petition was served (by mail, in person, or electronically), and the date the petition was served.

You can get more information about how to serve court documents and proof of service from What Is Proof of Service? (form APP-109-INFO) and on the California Courts Online Self-Help Center at www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp-serving.htm.

16 How do I file my petition?

To file a petition for a writ in the appellate division, you must bring or mail the original petition, including the supporting documents, and the proof of service to the clerk for the appellate division of the superior court that made the ruling you are challenging. If the superior court has more than one courthouse location, you should call the clerk at the courthouse where the ruling you are challenging was made to ask where to file your petition.

You should make a copy of all the documents you are planning to file for your own records before you file them with the court. It is a good idea to bring or mail an extra copy of the petition to the clerk when you file your original and ask the clerk to stamp this copy to show that the original has been filed.

17 Do I have to pay to file a petition?

There is no fee to file a petition for a writ in a misdemeanor or infraction case, but there is a fee to file a petition for a writ in a limited civil case. You should ask the clerk for the appellate division where you are filing the petition what this fee is. If you cannot afford to pay this filing fee, you can ask the court to waive this fee. To do this, you must fill out a Request to Waive Court Fees (form FW-001). You can get form FW-001 at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms. You can file this application either before you file your petition or with your petition. The court will review this application and decide whether to waive the filing fee.

18 What happens after I file my petition?

Within 10 days after you serve and file your petition, the respondent or any real party in interest can serve and file preliminary opposition to the petition. Within 10 days after an opposition is filed, you may serve and file a reply to that opposition.

The appellate division does not have to wait for an opposition or reply before it can act on a petition for a writ, however. Without waiting, the appellate division can:

a. Issue a stay

b. Summarily deny the petition

c. Issue an alternative writ or order to show cause

d. Notify the parties that it is considering issuing a preemptory writ in the first instance

e. Issue a peremptory writ in the first instance if such relief was expressly requested in the petition.

Read below for more information about these options.

a. Stay of trial court proceedings

A stay is an order from the appellate division telling the trial court not to do anything more until the appellate division decides whether to grant your petition. A stay puts the trial court proceedings on temporary hold.

b. Summary denial

A "summary denial" means that the appellate division denies the petition without deciding whether the trial court made the legal error claimed by the petitioner or whether the writ requested by the petitioner should be issued based on that error. Remember, even if the trial court made a legal error, the appellate division can decide not to consider that error now but to wait and consider the error as part of any appeal from the final judgment. No reasons need to be given for a summary denial. Most petitions for writs are denied in this way.

c. Alternative writ or order to show cause

An "alternative writ" is an order telling the trial court either to do what the petitioner has requested in the petition (or some modified form of what the petitioner requested) or to show the appellate division why the trial court should not be ordered to do what the petitioner requested. An "order to show cause" is similar; it is an order telling the trial court to show the appellate division why the trial court should not be ordered to do what the petitioner requested in the petition (or some modified form of what the petitioner requested). The appellate division will issue an alternative writ or an order to show cause only if the petitioner has shown that the petitioner has no adequate remedy at law and the appellate division has decided that the petitioner may have shown that the trial court made a legal error that needs to be fixed.

If the appellate division issues an alternative writ and the trial court does what the petitioner requested (or a modified form of what the petitioner requested as ordered by the appellate division), then no further action by the appellate division is needed and the appellate division may dismiss the petition.

If the trial court does not comply with an alternative writ, however, or if the appellate division issues an order to show cause, then the respondent court or a real party in interest can file a response to the appellate division's order (called a "return") that explains why the trial court should not be ordered to do what the petitioner requested. The return must be served and filed within the time specified by the appellate division or, if no time is specified, within 30 days from the date the alternative writ or order to show cause was issued. The petitioner will then have an opportunity to serve and file a reply within 15 days after the return is filed. The appellate division may set the matter for oral argument. When all the papers have been served and filed (or the time to serve and file them has passed) and oral argument is completed, the appellate division will decide the case.

d. Peremptory writ in the first instance

A "peremptory writ in the first instance" is an order telling the trial court to do what the petitioner has requested (or some modified form of what the petitioner requested) that is issued without the appellate division first issuing an alternative writ or order to show cause. It is very rare for the appellate division to issue a peremptory writ in the first instance, and it will not do so unless the respondent and real parties in interest have received notice that the court might do so, either through the petitioner expressly asking for such relief in the petition, or by the court first notifying the parties and giving the respondent court and any real party in interest a chance to file an opposition.

The respondent court or a real party in interest can file a response to the appellate division's notice (called an "opposition") that explains why the trial court should not be ordered to do what the petitioner has requested. The opposition must be served and filed within the time specified by the appellate division or, if no time is specified, within 30 days from the date the notice was issued. The petitioner will then have a chance to serve and file a reply within 15 days after the opposition is filed. The appellate division may then set the matter for oral argument. When all the papers have been served and filed (or the time to serve and file them has passed) and oral argument is completed, the appellate division will decide the case.

19 What should I do if the court denies my petition?

If the court denies your petition, it may be helpful to talk to a lawyer. In a limited civil or infraction case, you must hire a lawyer at your own expense if you want one (the court cannot provide one). You can get information about finding an attorney on the California Courts Online Self-Help Center at www.courts.ca.gov /selfhelp-lowcosthelp.htm.

INFORMATION FOR A REAL PARTY IN INTEREST

This part of the information sheet is written for a real party in interest—a party from the trial court case other than the petitioner who will be affected by a ruling on a petition for a writ. It explains some of the rules and procedures relating to responding to a petition for a writ. The information may also be helpful to the petitioner.

(20) I have received a copy of a petition for a writ in a case in which I am a party. Do I need to do anything?

You do not have to do anything. The California Rules of Court give you the right to file a preliminary opposition to a petition for a writ within 10 days after the petition is served and filed, but you are not required to do this. The appellate division can take certain actions without waiting for any opposition, including:

- Summarily denying the petition;
- Issuing an alternative writ or order to show cause;
- Notifying the parties that it is considering issuing a peremptory writ in the first instance; or
- Issuing a peremptory writ in the first instance if such relief was expressly requested in the petition.

Read the response to question (18) for more information about these options.

Most petitions for writs are summarily denied, often within a few days after they are filed. If you have not already received something from the appellate division saying what action it is taking on the petition, it is a good idea to call the appellate division to see if the petition has been denied before you decide whether and how to respond.

This would be a good time to talk to a lawyer. You do not have to have a lawyer; you are allowed to represent yourself in a writ proceeding in the appellate division. But writ proceedings can be very complicated and you will have to follow the same rules that lawyers have to follow. If you have any questions about writ proceedings or about whether and how you should respond to a writ petition, you should talk to a lawyer. In a limited civil case or infraction case, you must hire a lawyer at your own expense if you want one (the court cannot provide one). You can get information about finding an attorney on the California Courts Online Self-Help Center at www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp-lowcosthelp.htm.

If the petition has not already been summarily denied, you may, but are not required to, serve and file a preliminary opposition to the petition within 10 days after the petition was served and filed. In general, it is a good idea to consider filing a preliminary opposition if the petition misstates the facts or if you think the petition shows that the trial court made a legal error that may need to be fixed. However, the appellate division will seldom grant a writ without first issuing an alternative writ, an order to show cause, or a notice that it is considering issuing a peremptory writ. In all these circumstances, you will get notice from the court and have a chance to file a response. Note that the appellate division may issue a peremptory writ without notice if the petitioner expressly asked the court, in the petition, to issue a peremptory writ in the first instance. If the petitioner did that, you may want to consider whether to file a preliminary opposition, to explain why you believe the small claims court made no legal error and why the petitioner is not entitled to a writ.

If you decide to file a preliminary opposition, you must serve that preliminary opposition on all the other parties to the writ proceeding. "Serving and filing" an opposition means that you must:

- Have somebody over 18 years old mail, deliver, or electronically send ("serve") the preliminary opposition to the other parties in the way required by law. If the preliminary opposition is mailed or personally delivered, it must be by someone who is not a party to the case—so not you.
- Make a record that the preliminary opposition has been served. This record is called a "proof of service." Proof of Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109) or Proof of Electronic Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109E) can be used to make this record. The proof of service must show who served the preliminary opposition, who was served with the preliminary opposition, how the preliminary opposition was served (by mail, in person, or electronically), and the date the preliminary opposition was served.
- File the original preliminary opposition and the proof of service with the appellate division. You should make a copy of the preliminary opposition for your own records before you file it with the court. It is a good idea to bring or mail an extra copy of the preliminary opposition to the clerk when you file your original and ask the clerk to stamp this copy to show that the original has been filed.

You can get more information about how to serve court documents and proof of service from What Is Proof of Service? (form APP-109-INFO) and on the California

Courts Online Self-Help Center at www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp-serving.htm.

(21) I have received a copy of an alternative writ or an order to show cause issued by the appellate division. Do I need to do anything?

Yes. Unless the trial court has already done what the alternative writ told it to do, you should serve and file a response called a "return."

As explained above, the appellate division will issue an alternative writ or an order to show cause if the appellate division has decided that the petitioner may have shown that the trial court made a legal error that needs to be fixed. An "alternative writ" is an order telling the trial court either to do what the petitioner has requested in the petition (or some modified form of what the petitioner requested) or to show the appellate division why the trial court should not be ordered to do what the petitioner requested. An "order to show cause" is similar; it is an order telling the trial court to show the appellate division why the trial court should not be ordered to do what the petitioner requested in the petition (or some modified form of what the petitioner requested).

If the appellate division issues an alternative writ and the trial court does what the petitioner requested (or a modified form of what the petitioner requested as ordered by the appellate division), then no further action by the appellate division is needed and the appellate division may dismiss the petition. If the trial court does not comply with an alternative writ, however, or if the appellate division issues an order to show cause, then the respondent court or the real party in interest may serve and file a response to the appellate division's order, called a "return."

A return is your argument to the appellate division about why the trial court should not be ordered to do what the petitioner has requested. If you are represented by a lawyer in the writ proceeding, your lawyer will prepare your return. If you are not represented by a lawyer, you will need to prepare your own return. A return is usually a legal response called an "answer." An answer is used to admit or deny the facts alleged in the petition, to add to or correct the facts, and to explain any legal defenses to the legal arguments made by the petitioner. You should read California Code of Civil Procedure sections 430.10–430.80 for more information about answers. You can get copies of these statutes at any county law library or online at leginfo.legislature.ca.gov/faces/codes.xhtml. A return can also include additional supporting documents not already filed by the petitioner.

If you do not file a return when the appellate division issues an alternative writ or order to show cause, it does not mean that the appellate division is required to issue the writ requested by the petitioner. However, the appellate division will treat the facts stated by the petitioner in the petition as true, which makes it more likely the appellate division will issue the requested writ.

Unless the appellate division sets a different filing deadline in its alternative writ or order to show cause, you must serve and file your return within 30 days after the appellate division issues the alternative writ or order to show cause. The return must be served on all the other parties to the writ proceeding. "Serving and filing" the return means that you must:

- Have somebody over 18 years old mail, deliver, or electronically send ("serve") the return to the other parties in the way required by law. If the return is mailed or personally delivered, it must be by someone who is not a party to the case—so not you.
- Make a record that the return has been served. This record is called a "proof of service." Proof of Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109) or Proof of Electronic Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109E) can be used to make this record. The proof of service must show who served the return, who was served with the return, how the return was served (by mail, in person, or electronically), and the date the return was served.
- File the original return and the proof of service with the appellate division. You should make a copy of the return you are planning to file for your own records before you file it with the court. It is a good idea to bring or mail an extra copy of the return to the clerk when you file your original and ask the clerk to stamp this copy to show that the original has been filed.

You can get more information about how to serve court documents and proof of service from What Is Proof of Service? (form APP-109-INFO) and on the California

Courts Online Self-Help Center at www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp-serving.htm.

22 I have received a copy of a notice from the appellate division indicating it is considering issuing a peremptory writ in the first instance. Do I need to do anything?

Yes. You should serve and file a response called an "opposition."

As explained in the answer to question 18, a "peremptory writ in the first instance" is an order telling the trial court to do what the petitioner has requested (or some form of what the petitioner requested as ordered by the appellate division) that is issued without the appellate division first issuing an alternative writ or order to show cause. The appellate division will not issue a peremptory writ in the first instance without first giving the parties notice and a chance to file an opposition. However, when the appellate division issues such a notice, it means that the appellate division is strongly considering granting the writ requested by the petitioner.

An opposition is your argument to the appellate division about why the trial court should not be ordered to do what the petitioner has requested. If you are represented by a lawyer in the writ proceeding, your lawyer will prepare your opposition. If you are not represented by a lawyer, you will need to prepare your own opposition. Like a return discussed above, an opposition is usually a legal response called an "answer." An answer is used to admit or deny the facts alleged in the petition, to add to or correct the facts, and to explain any legal defenses to the legal arguments made by the petitioner. You should read California Code of Civil Procedure sections 430.10–430.80 for more information about answers. You can get copies of these statutes at any county law library or online at leginfo.legislature.ca.gov/faces/codes.xhtml.

Unless the appellate division sets a different deadline in its notice that it is considering issuing a peremptory writ, you must serve and file your opposition within 30 days after the appellate division issues the notice. The opposition must be served on all the other parties to the writ proceeding. "Serving and filing" the opposition means that you must:

- Have somebody over 18 years old mail, deliver, or electronically send ("serve") the opposition to the other parties in the way required by law. If the opposition is mailed or personally delivered, it must be by someone who is not a party to the case—so not you.
- Make a record that the opposition has been served. This record is called a "proof of service." Proof of Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109) or Proof of Electronic Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109E) can be used to make this record. The proof of service must show who served the opposition, who was served with the opposition, how the opposition was served (by mail, in person, or electronically), and the date the opposition was served.
- File the original opposition and the proof of service with the appellate division. You should make a copy of the opposition you are planning to file for your own records before you file it with the court. It is a good idea to bring or mail an extra copy of the opposition to the clerk when you file your original, and ask the clerk to stamp this copy to show that the original has been filed.

You can get more information about how to serve court documents and proof of service from What Is Proof of Service? (form APP-109-INFO) and on the California Courts Online Self-Help Center at www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp-serving.htm.

23 What happens after I serve and file my return or opposition?

After you file a return or opposition, the petitioner has 15 days to serve and file a reply. The appellate division may also set the matter for oral argument. When all the papers have been filed (or the time to file them has passed) and oral argument is completed, the appellate division will decide the case.

CR-135 Proposed Statement on Appeal (Misdemeanor)

Clerk stamps date here when form is filed.

DRAFT

03-10-2020

Not approved by the Judicial Council

Instructions

- This form is only for preparing a proposed statement on appeal in an misdemeanor case.
- Before you fill out this form, read Information on Appeal Procedures for Misdemeanors (form CR-131-INFO) to know your rights and responsibilities. You can get form CR-131-INFO at any courthouse or county law library or online at *www.courts.ca.gov/form*s.
- This form can be attached to your Notice Regarding Record on Appeal (Misdemeanor) (form CR-134). If it is not attached to that notice, this form must be filed no later than 20 days after you file that notice. If you have chosen to prepare a statement on appeal and do not file this form on time, the court may dismiss your appeal.
- Fill out this form and make a copy of the completed form for your records and for each of the other parties.
- Serve a copy of the completed form on each of the other parties and keep proof of this service. You can get information about how to serve court papers and proof of service from What Is Proof of Service? (form APP-109-INFO) and on the California Courts Online Self-Help Center at www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp-serving.htm.
- Take or mail the completed form and proof of service on each of the other parties to the clerk's office for the same court that issued the judgment or order you are appealing. It is a good idea to take or mail an extra copy to the clerk and ask the clerk to stamp it to show that the original has been filed.

You fill in the name and street address of the court that issued the judgment or order you are appealing:

Superior Court of California, County of

You fill in the number and name of the trial court case in which you are appealing the judgment or order:

Trial Court Case Number:

Trial Court Case Name:
The People of the State of California
v. _____

You fill in the appellate division case number (if you know it):

Appellate Division Case Number:

1 Your Information

a. Appellant (the party who is filing this appeal):

Name: _____

Street address: _____ Street _____ City _____ State _____ Zip

Mailing address (if different): _____ Street _____ City _____ State _____ Zip

Phone: _____ Email: _____

b. Appellant's lawyer (skip this if the appellant is filling out this form):

The lawyer filling out this form (check (1) or (2)):

(1) ☐ was the appellant's lawyer in the trial court. (2) ☐ is the appellant's lawyer for this appeal.

Name: _____ State Bar number: _____

Street address: _____ Street _____ City _____ State _____ Zip

Mailing address (if different): _____ Street _____ City _____ State _____ Zip

Phone: _____ Email: _____

Fax: _____

Information About Your Appeal

(2) On (fill in the date): _____, I/my client filed a notice of appeal in the trial court case identified in the box on page 1 of this form.

(3) On (fill in the date): _____, I/my client filed a Notice Regarding Record on Appeal, choosing to use a statement on appeal as the record of what was said in this case.

Proposed Statement

(4) Reasons for Your Appeal

Remember, in an appeal, the appellate division can only review a case for whether certain kinds of legal errors were made in the trial court proceedings (read form CR-131-INFO to learn about these legal errors):

- There was not "substantial evidence" supporting the judgment, order, or other decision you are appealing.
- A "prejudicial error" was made during the trial court proceedings.

The appellate division:

- Cannot retry your case or take new evidence.
- Cannot consider whether witnesses were telling the truth or lying.
- Cannot consider whether there was more or stronger evidence supporting your position than there was supporting the trial court's decision.

(Check all that apply and describe in detail the legal error or errors you believe were made that are the reason for this appeal.)

a. ☐ There was not substantial evidence that supported the judgment, order, or other decision that I/my client indicated in the notice of appeal that is being appealed in this case. (Explain why you think the judgment, order, or other decision was not supported by substantial evidence.): _____

b. ☐ The following error or errors about either the law or court procedure was/were made that caused substantial harm to me/my client. (Describe each error and how you were/your client was harmed by that error.)

(1) Describe the error: _____

Describe how this error harmed you/your client: _____

4 b. (2) Describe the error: _____

Describe how this error harmed you/your client: _____

(3) Describe the error: _____

Describe how this error harmed you/your client: _____

☐ Check here if you need more space to describe these or other errors and attach a separate page or pages describing the errors. At the top of each page, write "CR-135, item 4."

5 The Charges Against Me/My Client

a. The charges against me/my client were (list all of the charges indicated on the citation or complaint filed with the court by the prosecutor): _____

b. I/My client (check (1), (2), or (3))

(1) ☐ pleaded not guilty to all of the charges.

(2) ☐ pleaded guilty to only the following charges: _____

(3) ☐ pleaded guilty to all of these charges.

6 Summary of Any Motions and the Court's Order on the Motion

a. Were any motions (requests for the trial court to issue an order) made in this case that are relevant to the reasons you gave in 4 for this appeal?

☐ Yes (fill out b) ☐ No (skip to item 7)

b. In the spaces below, describe any motions (requests for orders) that were made in the trial court that are relevant to the reasons you gave in 4 for this appeal. Write a complete and accurate summary of what was said at any hearings on these motions and indicate how the trial court ruled on these motions:

(1) Describe the first motion: _____

The motion was filed by the ☐ prosecutor ☐ defendant.

There ☐ was ☐ was not a hearing on this motion.

If there was a hearing on this motion, write a complete and accurate summary of what was said at this hearing: _____

The trial court ☐ granted this motion ☐ did not grant this motion.

☐ Other (describe any other action the trial court took concerning this motion): _____

☐ Check here if you need more space to describe this motion and attach a separate page or pages describing it. At the top of each page, write "CR-135, Item 6b(1)."

(2) Describe the second motion: _____

The motion was filed by the ☐ prosecutor ☐ defendant.

There ☐ was ☐ was not a hearing on this motion.

If there was a hearing on this motion, write a complete and accurate summary of what was said at this hearing: _____

The trial court ☐ granted this motion ☐ did not grant this motion.

☐ Other (describe any other action the trial court took concerning this motion): _____

☐ Check here if you need more space to describe this motion and attach a separate page or pages describing this motion. At the top of each page, write "CR-135, item 6b(2)."

6 b. (3) ☐ Check here if any other motions were filed that are relevant to the reasons you gave in 4 for this appeal, and attach a separate page or pages describing each motion, identifying who made the motion and whether there was a hearing on the motion, summarizing what was said at the hearing on the motion, and indicating whether the trial court granted or denied the motion. At the top of each page, write CR-135, item 6b(3)."

7 Summary of Testimony and Other Evidence

a. Was there a trial in your case?

☐ No (skip items b, c, d, e, and f, and go to item 8)

☐ Yes (complete items b, c, d, e, and f)

(1) ☐ Jury trial

(2) ☐ Trial by judge only

b. Did you/your client testify at the trial?

☐ No

☐ Yes (Write a complete and accurate summary of the testimony you/your client gave that is relevant to the reasons you gave in 4 for this appeal. Include only what you actually said; do not comment on or give your opinion about what you said. Please indicate whether any objections were made concerning your/your client's testimony or any exhibits you/your client asked to present and whether these objections were sustained.): _____

_____

_____

_____

_____

☐ Check here if you need more space to summarize your/your client's testimony and attach a separate page or pages summarizing this testimony. At the top of each page, write "CR-135, Item 7b."

c. Did an officer from the police department, sheriff's office, or other government agency that charged you/your client testify at the trial? (Check one):

☐ No

☐ Yes (complete (1) and (2)):

(1) The name of the officer who testified is (fill in the officer's name): _____

(2) This officer testified that (Write a complete and accurate summary of the officer's testimony that is relevant to the reasons you gave in 4 for this appeal. Include only what the officer actually said; do not comment on or give your opinion about what the officer said. Please indicate whether any objections were made concerning the officer's testimony or any exhibits the officer asked to present and whether these objections were sustained.): _____

_____

_____

_____

☐ Check here if you need more space to summarize the officer's testimony and attach a separate page or pages summarizing this testimony. At the top of each page, write "CR-135, Item 7c."

(7) d. ☐ Were there any other witnesses at the trial whose testimony is relevant to the reasons you gave in (4) for this appeal?

☐ No

☐ Yes (fill out (1)–(4)):

(1) The witness's name is (fill in the witness's name): _____

(2) The witness ☐ was ☐ was not an officer from the police department, sheriff's office, or other government agency that charged me/my client.

(3) The witness testified on behalf of ☐ me/my client ☐ the prosecution.

(4) This witness testified that (Write a complete and accurate summary of the witness's testimony that is relevant to the reasons you gave in (4) for this appeal. Include only what the witness actually said; do not comment on or give your opinion about what the witness said. Please indicate whether any objections were made concerning the witness's testimony or any exhibits the witness asked to present and whether these objections were sustained.): _____

☐ Check here if you need more space to summarize this witness's testimony and attach a separate page or pages summarizing this testimony. At the top of each page, write "CR-135, Item 7d."

e. ☐ Check here if any other witnesses gave testimony at the trial that is relevant to the reasons you gave in (4) for this appeal. Attach a separate page or pages identifying each witness, whether the witness testified on your/your client's behalf or the prosecution's behalf, summarizing the witness's testimony that is relevant to the reasons you gave in (4) for this appeal, and indicating whether any objections were made concerning the witness's testimony or any exhibits the witness asked to present and whether these objections were sustained. At the top of each page, write "CR-135, item 7e."

f. Summarize the evidence, other than the testimony, that was given during the trial that is relevant to the reasons you gave in (3) for this appeal (Write a complete and accurate summary of the evidence given by both you and the respondent. Include only the evidence; do not comment or give your opinion about this evidence.):

☐ Check here if you need more space to summarize the evidence and attach a separate page or pages summarizing this evidence. At the top of each page, write "CR-135, Item 7f."

8 The Trial Court's Findings

a. ☐ I/My client was found guilty of the following offenses (list all of the offenses for which you were/your client was found guilty): _____

b. ☐ I/My client was found not guilty of the following offenses (list all of the offenses for which you were/your client was found not guilty): _____

9 The Sentence

The trial court imposed the following fine or other punishment on me/my client (check all that apply and fill in any required information):

a. ☐ Jail time (fill in the amount of time you are/your client is required to spend in jail):

b. ☐ A fine (including penalty and other assessments) (fill in the amount of the fine): $ _____

c. ☐ Restitution (fill in the amount of the restitution): $ _____

d. ☐ Probation (fill in the amount of time you are/your client is required to be on probation):

e. ☐ Other punishment (describe any other punishment that the trial court imposed in this case):

REMINDER: You must serve and file this form no later than 20 days after you file your notice regarding the oral proceedings. If you do not file this form on time, the court may dismiss your appeal.

Date: _____

_____ ▶ _____

Type or print name Signature of appellant or attorney

CR-143 Proposed Statement on Appeal (Infraction)

Clerk stamps date here when form is filed.

DRAFT

03-10-2020

Not approved by the Judicial Council

Instructions

- This form is only for preparing a statement on appeal in an infraction case, such as a case about a traffic ticket.
- Before you fill out this form, read Information on Appeal Procedures for Infractions (form CR-141-INFO) to know your rights and responsibilities. You can get form CR-141-INFO at any courthouse or county law library or online at *www.courts.ca.gov/form*s.
- This form can be filed at the same time as your notice of appeal. If it is not filed with your notice of appeal, this form must be filed no later than 20 days after you file your notice of appeal. If you have chosen to use a statement on appeal and do not file this form on time, the court may dismiss your appeal.
- Fill out this form and make a copy of the completed form for your records and for each of the other parties.
- You must serve a copy of the completed form on each of the other parties in the case and keep proof of this service. You can get information about how to serve court papers and proof of service from What Is Proof of Service? (form APP-109-INFO) and on the California Courts Online Self-Help Center at www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp-serving.htm.
- Take or mail the completed form and proof of service on each of the other parties to the clerk's office for the same trial court that issued the judgment or order you are appealing. It is a good idea to take or mail an extra copy to the clerk and ask the clerk to stamp it to show that the original has been filed.

You fill in the name and street address of the court that issued the judgment or order you are appealing:

Superior Court of California, County of

You fill in the number and name of the trial court case in which you are appealing the judgment or order:

Trial Court Case Number:

Trial Court Case Name:
The People of the State of California v. _____

You fill in the appellate division case number (if you know it):

Appellate Division Case Number:

1 Your Information

a. Appellant (the party who is filing this appeal):

Name: _____

Street address: _____ (Street) _____ (City) _____ (State) _____ (Zip)

Mailing address (if different): _____ (Street) _____ (City) _____ (State) _____ (Zip)

Phone: _____ Email: _____

b. Appellant's lawyer (skip this if the appellant is filling out this form):

The lawyer filling out this form (check (1) or (2)):

(1) ☐ was the appellant's lawyer in the trial court. (2) ☐ is the appellant's lawyer for this appeal.

Name: _____ State Bar number: _____

Street address: _____ (Street) _____ (City) _____ (State) _____ (Zip)

Mailing address (if different): _____ (Street) _____ (City) _____ (State) _____ (Zip)

Phone: _____ Email: _____

Fax: _____

Information About Your Appeal

(2) On (fill in the date): _____, I/my client filed a Notice of Appeal and Record on Appeal (Infraction), choosing to use a statement on appeal as the record of what was said in this case.

Proposed Statement

(3) Reasons for Your Appeal

Remember, in an appeal, the appellate division can only review a case for whether certain kinds of legal errors were made in the trial court proceedings (read form CR-141-INFO to learn about these legal errors):

- There was not "substantial evidence" supporting the judgment, order, or other decision you are appealing.
- A "prejudicial error" was made during the trial court proceedings.

The appellate division:

- Cannot retry your case or take new evidence.
- Cannot consider whether witnesses were telling the truth or lying.
- Cannot consider whether there was more or stronger evidence supporting your position than there was supporting the trial court's decision.

(Check all that apply and describe the legal error or errors you believe were made that are the reason for this appeal.)

a. ☐ There was not substantial evidence that supported the judgment, order, or other decision that I/my client indicated in the notice of appeal is being appealed in this case. (Explain why you think the judgment, order, or other decision was not supported by substantial evidence): _____

b. ☐ The following error or errors about either the law or court procedure was/were made that caused substantial harm to me/my client. (Describe each error and how you were/your client was harmed by that error.)

(1) Describe the error: _____

Describe how this error harmed you/your client: _____

(2) Describe the error: _____

Describe how this error harmed you/your client: _____

3 b. (3) Describe the error: _____

_____

_____

_____

Describe how this error harmed you/your client: _____

_____

_____

_____

☐ Check here if you need more space to describe these or other errors and attach a separate page or pages describing the errors. At the top of each page, write "CR-143, item 3."

4 The Charges Against Me/My Client

a. If the charges against you/your client are based on a citation (ticket) you received, provide the citation number (fill in the citation number from your ticket): _____

b. The charges against me/my client were (list all of the charges indicated on the citation or complaint filed by the prosecutor with the court): _____

_____

_____

c. I/My client (check (1), (2), or (3))

(1) ☐ pleaded not guilty to all of the charges.

(2) ☐ pleaded guilty to only the following charges: _____

_____

(3) ☐ pleaded guilty to all of the charges.

5 Summary of Any Motions and the Court's Order on the Motion

a. Were any motions (requests for the trial court to issue an order) made in this case that are relevant to the reasons you gave in 3 for this appeal?

☐ Yes (fill out b) ☐ No (skip to item 6)

b. In the spaces below, describe any motions (requests for orders) that were made in the trial court that are relevant to the reasons you gave in 3 for this appeal. Write a complete and accurate summary of what was said at any hearings on these motions and indicate how the trial court ruled on these motions:

(1) ☐ I/My client made the following requests (motions) in the trial court (check all that apply):

(a) ☐ To submit a photograph or photographs as evidence (describe the photographs):

_____

_____

There ☐ was ☐ was not a hearing on this motion.

5 b. (1) (a) If there was a hearing on this motion, write a complete and accurate summary of what was said at this hearing: _____

The court ☐ did ☐ did not accept the photographs.

☐ Check here if you need more space to describe the motion and attach a separate page or pages describing it. At the top of each page write "CR-143, item 5b(1)(a)."

(b) ☐ To submit a map or maps as evidence (describe the maps): _____

There ☐ was ☐ was not a hearing on this motion.

If there was a hearing on this motion, write a complete and accurate summary of what was said at this hearing: _____

The court ☐ did ☐ did not accept the maps.

☐ Check here if you need more space to describe the motion and attach a separate page or pages describing it. At the top of each page write "CR-143, item 5b(1)(b)."

(c) ☐ To submit other material as evidence (describe what you asked to submit as evidence):

There ☐ was ☐ was not a hearing on this motion.

If there was a hearing on this motion, write a complete and accurate summary of what was said at this hearing: _____

The court ☐ did ☐ did not accept this material.

☐ Check here if you need more space to describe the motion and attach a separate page or pages describing it. At the top of each page write "CR-143, item 5b(1)(c)."

(d) ☐ Other (describe any other request you made in the trial court and whether the court granted or denied this request): _____

☐ Check here if you need more space to describe the motion and attach a separate page or pages describing it. At the top of each page write "CR-143, item 5b(1)(d)."

5 b.(2) ☐ The prosecutor made the following request (motion) in the trial court (describe any request the prosecutor made in the trial court and whether the court granted or denied this request):

_____

_____

_____

There ☐ was ☐ was not a hearing on this motion.

If there was a hearing on this motion, write a complete and accurate summary of what was said at this hearing: _____

_____

_____

The court ☐ did ☐ did not grant this motion.

☐ Other (describe any other action the trial court took on this motion): _____

_____

_____

☐ Check here if you need more space to describe the motion and attach a separate page or pages describing it. At the top of each page write "CR-143, item 5b(2)."

(3) ☐ Check here if other motions were filed that are relevant to the reasons you gave in 3 for this appeal, and attach a separate page or pages describing these other motions, identifying who made them and whether there was a hearing on the motion, summarizing what was said at the hearing on the motion, and indicating whether the trial court granted or denied the motion. At the top of each page, write CR-143, item 5b(3).

6 Summary of Testimony and Other Evidence

a. Was there a trial in your case?

No ☐ (skip items b, c, d, e, and f, and go to item 7)

Yes ☐ (complete items b, c, d, e, and f)

b. Did you/your client testify at the trial?

☐ No

☐ Yes (Write a complete and accurate summary of the testimony you/your client gave that is relevant to the reasons you gave in 3 for this appeal. Include only what you actually said; do not comment on or give your opinion about what you said. Please indicate whether any objections were made concerning your/your client's testimony or any exhibits you/your client asked to present and whether these objections were sustained.): _____

_____

_____

_____

_____

☐ Check here if you need more space to summarize your/your client's testimony and attach a separate page or pages summarizing this testimony. At the top of each page, write "CR-143, Item 6b."

6 c. Did an officer from the police department, sheriff's office, or other government agency that charged you/your client testify at the trial? (Check one):

☐ No

☐ Yes (complete (1) and (2)):

(1) The name of the officer who testified is (fill in the officer's name): _____

(2) This officer testified that (Write a complete and accurate summary of the officer's testimony that is relevant to the reasons you gave in 3 for this appeal. Include only what the officer actually said; do not comment on or give your opinion about what the officer said. Please indicate whether any objections were made concerning the officer's testimony or any exhibits the officer asked to present and whether these objections were sustained.): _____

☐ Check here if you need more space to summarize the officer's testimony and attach a separate page or pages summarizing this testimony. At the top of each page, write "CR-143, Item 6c."

d. ☐ Were there any other witnesses at the trial?

☐ No

☐ Yes (fill out (1)–(4)):

(1) The witness's name is (fill in the witness's name):

_____

(2) The witness ☐ was ☐ was not an officer from the government agency that charged me/my client.

(3) The witness testified on behalf of ☐ me/my client ☐ the prosecution.

(4) This witness testified that (Write a complete and accurate summary of the witness's testimony that is relevant to the reasons you gave in 3 for this appeal. Include only what the witness actually said; do not comment on or give your opinion about what the witness said. Please indicate whether any objections were made concerning the witness's testimony or any exhibits the witness asked to present and whether these objections were sustained.): _____

e. ☐ Check here if other witnesses gave testimony at the trial that is relevant to the reasons you gave in 3 for this appeal. Attach a separate page or pages identifying each other witness that testified at your trial, stating whether that witness testified on your/your client's behalf or the prosecution's behalf, summarizing the witness's testimony that is relevant to the reasons you gave in 3 for this appeal, and indicating whether any objections were made concerning the witness's testimony or any exhibits the witness asked to present and whether these objections were sustained. At the top of each page, write "CR-143, item 6e."

6 f. Summarize the evidence, other than the testimony, that was given during the trial that is relevant to the reasons you gave in 3 for this appeal (Write a complete and accurate summary of the evidence given by both you and the respondent. Include only the evidence; do not comment or give your opinion about this evidence.):

_____

_____

_____

_____

☐ Check here if you need more space to summarize the evidence and attach a separate page or pages summarizing this evidence. At the top of each page, write "CR-143, Item 6f."

7 The Trial Court's Findings

a. I/My client was found guilty of the following offenses (list all of the offenses for which you were/your client was found guilty): _____

_____

_____

b. I/My client was found not guilty of the following offenses (list all of the offenses for which you were/your client was found not guilty): _____

_____

_____

c. The following charges were dismissed after proof of correction was shown to the judge (list all of the charges that were dismissed): _____

_____

_____

8 The Sentence

The trial court imposed the following fine or other punishment on me/my client (check all that apply and fill in any required information):

a. ☐ A fine of (fill in the amount of the fine): $ _____

b. ☐ Traffic school

c. ☐ Community service (fill in the number of hours): _____

d. ☐ Other punishment (describe any other punishment that the court imposed in this case):

_____

_____

_____

REMINDER: You must serve and file this form no later than 20 days after you file your notice of appeal. If you do not file this form on time, the court may dismiss your appeal.

Date: _____

_____ ▶ _____

Type or print name Signature of appellant or attorney

COURT OF APPEAL APPELLATE DISTRICT, DIVISION	COURT OF APPEAL CASE NUMBER:
ATTORNEY OR PARTY WITHOUT ATTORNEY: STATE BAR NO: NAME: FIRM NAME: STREET ADDRESS: CITY: STATE: ZIP CODE: TELEPHONE NO.: FAX NO.: EMAIL ADDRESS: ATTORNEY FOR (name):	SUPERIOR COURT CASE NUMBER: FOR COURT USE ONLY
APPELLANT: RESPONDENT:	DRAFT 03-10-20 Not approved by the Judicial Council
RECOMMENDATION FOR APPOINTMENT OF APPELLATE ATTORNEY FOR CHILD (California Rules of Court, Rule 5.661)

INSTRUCTIONS—READ CAREFULLY

- Read the entire form before completing any items.
- This form must be clearly handprinted in ink or typed.
- Complete all applicable items in the proper spaces. If you need additional space, add an extra page and check the "Additional pages attached" box on page 2.
- If you are filing this form in the Court of Appeal, file the original and 4 copies.
- If you are filing this form in the California Supreme Court, file the original and 10 copies.
- A copy must be served on the local district appellate project.
- Notify the clerk of the court in writing if you change your address after filing your form.

Individual Courts of Appeal or the Supreme Court may require documents other than or in addition to this form. Contact the clerk of the reviewing court for local requirements.

Form Approved for Optional Use
Judicial Council of California
JV-810 [Rev. January 1, 2021]

Welfare and Institutions Code, § 395(b)(1)
Cal. Rules of Court, rule 5.661
www.courts.ca.gov

APPELLATE CASE TITLE:	COURT OF APPEAL CASE NUMBER:

1. Trial counsel, court-appointed guardian ad litem for the child under rule 5.662, or the child in the above-captioned case:
   a. Name:
   b. I am the ☐ trial counsel ☐ guardian ad litem ☐ child.
   c. Address:
   d. Telephone number:
2. I recommend that an appellate attorney be appointed for the child in this case.
3. The child's best interests cannot be protected without the appointment of counsel on appeal for the following reasons (check all that apply):
   a. ☐ An actual or potential conflict exists between the interests of the child and the interests of any respondent.
   b. ☐ The child did not have an attorney serving as the child's guardian ad litem in the trial court.
   c. ☐ The child is of a sufficient age or development such that the child is able to understand the nature of the proceedings, and
      (1) ☐ the child expresses a desire to participate in the appeal; or
      (2) ☐ the child's wishes differ from the child's trial counsel's position.
   d. ☐ The child took a legal position in the trial court adverse to that of one of the child's siblings, and an issue has been raised in an appellant's opening brief regarding the siblings' adverse positions.
   e. ☐ The appeal involves a legal issue regarding a determination of parentage, the child's inheritance rights, educational rights, privileges identified in division 8 of the Evidence Code, consent to treatment, or tribal membership.
   f. ☐ Postjudgment evidence completely undermines the legal underpinnings of the juvenile court's judgment under review, and all parties recognize this and express a willingness to stipulate to reversal of the juvenile court's judgment.
   g. ☐ The child's trial counsel or guardian ad litem, after reviewing the appellate briefs, believes that the legal arguments contained in the respondents' briefs do not adequately represent or protect the best interests of the child.
   h. ☐ The existence of any other factors relevant to the child's best interests (specify):
4. State the facts that support your recommendation:

☐ Additional pages attached

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct, except for matters that are stated on my information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe them to be true.

Date:

(TYPE OR PRINT NAME)

▶ (SIGNATURE OF APPLICANT)

APPELLATE CASE TITLE:	COURT OF APPEAL CASE NUMBER:

PROOF OF SERVICE

I served a copy of the foregoing Recommendation for Appointment of Appellate Attorney for Child on the following by personally delivering a copy to the person served, OR by delivering a copy to a competent adult at the usual place of residence or business of the person served and thereafter mailing a copy by first-class mail to the person served at the place where the copy was delivered, OR by placing a copy in a sealed envelope and depositing the envelope directly in the United States mail with postage prepaid or at my place of business for same-day collection and mailing with the United States mail, following our ordinary business practices with which I am readily familiar:

1. District appellate project
   a. Name and address:

   b. Date of service:
   c. Method of service:

2. Other
   a. Name and address:

   b. Date of service:
   c. Method of service:

Item number: 04

RUPRO ACTION REQUEST FORM

RUPRO action requested: Circulate for comment (January 1 cycle)

RUPRO Meeting: April 8 or 9, 2020

Title of proposal (include amend/revise/adopt/approve + form/rule numbers):
Court Records: Retention of Reporters' Transcripts in Criminal Appeals
Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rule 10.1028

Committee or other entity submitting the proposal:
Appellate Advisory Committee

Staff contact (name, phone and e-mail): Christy Simons, 415-865-7694, christy.simons@jud.ca.gov

Identify project(s) on the committee's annual agenda that is the basis for this item:
Approved by RUPRO: 10/28/2019
Project description from annual agenda: Consider amending rule 10.1028 to extend the time for keeping reporters' transcripts in criminal appeals. The rule currently requires that the original reporter's transcript be kept for 20 years, but this is not long enough to account for longer sentences and lengthy appellate processes. Also consider whether to require a digital copy. Source of the project: Supreme Court attorney and former Clerk/Executive Officer of a District Court of Appeal. Subcommittee: Rules.

If requesting July 1 or out of cycle, explain:

Additional Information: (To facilitate RUPRO's review of your proposal, please include any relevant information not contained in the attached summary.)

JUDICIAL COUNCIL OF CALIFORNIA

455 Golden Gate Avenue . San Francisco, California 94102-3688
www.courts.ca.gov/policyadmin-invitationstocomment.htm

INVITATION TO COMMENT

SPR20-01

Title
Court Records: Retention of Reporters' Transcripts in Criminal Appeals

Action Requested
Review and submit comments by June 9, 2020

Proposed Rules, Forms, Standards, or Statutes
Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rule 10.1028

Proposed Effective Date
January 1, 2021

Proposed by
Appellate Advisory Committee
Hon. Louis R. Mauro, Chair

Contact
Christy Simons, Attorney
415-865-7694
christy.simons@jud.ca.gov

Executive Summary and Origin

To conform to a recent statutory change and to better align the length of time reporters' transcripts must be kept with the length of time they may be needed, the Appellate Advisory Committee proposes amending the rule regarding preservation and destruction of Court of Appeal records. Code of Civil Procedure section 271, subdivision (a), no longer requires that an original reporter's transcript be in paper format. Thus, a provision in rule 10.1028 permitting the court to keep an electronic copy in lieu of an original paper reporter's transcript should be revised. This proposal would also extend the time the court must keep the original or an electronic copy of the reporter's transcript in felony appeals to 100 years. The rule's current requirement to keep the reporter's transcript for 20 years in any case affirming a criminal conviction does not account for longer sentences or changes in felony sentencing laws. This proposal originated with suggestions from a clerk/executive officer of a Court of Appeal and an attorney at the Supreme Court.

The Proposal

Statutory change

Rule 10.1028 governs the preservation and destruction of Court of Appeal records. Prior to 2018, the rule required the court to keep an original reporter's transcript, which, under the version of Code of Civil Procedure section 271[1] in effect at the time, had to be on paper.[2] Effective January 1, 2018, rule 10.1028, subdivision (d), was amended to allow the Court of Appeal to keep an electronic copy of the reporter's transcript in lieu of keeping the original. An advisory committee comment was added to explain that, "[a]lthough subdivision (a) allows the Court of Appeal to maintain its records in any format that satisfies the otherwise applicable standards for maintenance of court records, including electronic formats, the original of a reporter's transcript is required to be on paper under Code of Civil Procedure section 271(a). Subdivision (d) therefore specifies that an electronic copy may be kept, to clarify that the paper original need not be kept by the court."

Legislation repealing and replacing section 271 took effect January 1, 2018. Among other changes, new section 271 requires that the reporter's transcript be delivered in electronic form unless any of the specified exceptions apply, and provides that an electronic transcript is deemed to be an original for all purposes unless a paper transcript is delivered under any of the exceptions. In light of the new statutory language, rule 10.1028 should be revised to reflect that an original reporter's transcript must be in electronic format unless an exception applies. If an exception applies and the original transcript is on paper, the court may continue to keep either the paper original or a true and correct electronic copy.

Time to keep reporters' transcripts

Rule 10.1028(d) governs the time the Court of Appeal is required to keep records. Under subdivision (c), the court must permanently keep the court's minutes and a register of appeals and original proceedings. Under subdivision (d), all other records, with one exception, may be destroyed 10 years after the decision becomes final. The exception is for original reporters' transcripts in cases affirming a criminal conviction; these must be kept for 20 years after the decision becomes final. This retention time has not changed since the adoption of the initial version of the rule in 1975. (See former rule 55, adopted effective July 1, 1975; renumbered as rule 70 effective January 1, 2005; and renumbered as rule 10.1028 effective January 1, 2007.)

This 20-year retention period is insufficient. Sentences for the most serious felony convictions often exceed 20 years, as does the actual time served under these sentences. Certain writ proceedings may be filed at any time during service of a prison sentence. In addition, changes in felony sentencing laws, such as Proposition 47,[3] which reduced penalties for certain offenses and allows for resentencing, warrant keeping reporters' transcripts in cases affirming felony convictions longer than 20 years so defendants can access opportunities for resentencing or other relief. This is not a theoretical problem. The committee has been advised that the California Department of Justice, which has a longer retention schedule, is frequently contacted by litigants for copies of reporters' transcripts in cases in which a criminal conviction was affirmed more than 20 years ago.

[1] All further statutory references are to the Code of Civil Procedure.
[2] Section 271 authorized courts and parties to receive, on request, copies of reporters' transcripts in "computer-readable form."
[3] Voters passed Prop. 47, "The Safe Neighborhoods and Schools Act," on November 14, 2014; it went into effect the next day.

Accordingly, the committee proposes adding a provision to rule 10.1028(d) to extend the time for keeping the reporter's transcript in felony cases. New paragraph (d)(3) would state: "In a felony case in which the court affirms a judgment of conviction, the clerk/executive officer must keep the original reporter's transcript or, if the original is in paper, either the original or a true and correct electronic copy, for 100 years after the decision becomes final."

This proposal is required both to conform the rule to statute and to address an identified concern. It would improve access to justice by ensuring that the original reporter's transcript is actually available when needed.

Alternatives Considered

The committee considered taking no action, but rejected this option because portions of the rule are based on a former version of the relevant statute and are inadequate in light of longer sentences and criminal justice reforms.

The committee also considered whether to extend the time for keeping the reporter's transcript only in cases involving a sentence of life or life without the possibility of parole. The committee rejected this option because it is too narrow and would not include many cases in which a reporter's transcript might be needed long after the conviction is affirmed.

The committee also considered extending the time to 50 years rather than 100. The committee declined this option because 50 years might not be long enough in all cases.

In addition, the committee considered a graduated retention schedule, such as the retention schedule adopted by the California Department of Justice, in which documents are retained for different time periods depending on the type of document or the circumstances. Moreover, the committee considered other possible amendments, including whether any reporters' transcripts should be retained permanently and whether the rule should provide that the reporter's transcript must be kept for a certain number of years (such as 10) following the death of the defendant. The committee rejected these options in favor of a rule that is simple and straightforward for the courts to implement, but welcomes comments on these and other options.

Fiscal and Operational Impacts

This proposal would require the Courts of Appeal to change their record retention policies and procedures with respect to reporters' transcripts in the identified cases. Education and training of staff would also be required. Despite the implementation requirements, the committee believes that the benefit of the proposal—making certain reporters' transcripts available to defendants for a more realistic amount of time within which they may be needed, and thereby improving access to justice—outweighs its potential cost to the courts.

Request for Specific Comments

In addition to comments on the proposal as a whole, the advisory committee is interested in comments on the following:

- Does the proposal appropriately address the stated purpose?
- Should reporters' transcripts in any type of case be retained permanently?
- Should any other provisions regarding retention of an original reporter's transcript be considered?

The advisory committee also seeks comments from courts on the following cost and implementation matters:

- Would the proposal provide cost savings? If so, please quantify.
- What would the implementation requirements be for courts—for example, training staff (please identify position and expected hours of training), revising processes and procedures (please describe), changing docket codes in case management systems, or modifying case management systems?
- Would 3 months from Judicial Council approval of this proposal until its effective date provide sufficient time for implementation?
- How well would this proposal work in courts of different sizes?

Attachments and Links

1. Cal. Rules of Court, rule 10.1028, at pages 5–6

Rule 10.1028 of the California Rules of Court would be amended, effective January 1, 2021, to read:

Title 10. Judicial Administration Rules

Division 5. Appellate Court Administration

Chapter 1. Rules Relating to the Supreme Court and Courts of Appeal

Rule 10.1028. Preservation and destruction of Court of Appeal records

(a) Form or forms in which records may be preserved

(1) Court of Appeal records may be created, maintained, and preserved in any form or forms of communication or representation, including paper or optical, electronic, magnetic, micrographic, or photographic media or other technology, if the form or forms of representation or communication satisfy the standards or guidelines for the creation, maintenance, reproduction, and preservation of court records established under rule 10.854.

(2) If records are preserved in a medium other than paper, the following provisions of Government Code section 68150 apply: subdivisions (c)–(l), excluding subdivision (i)(1).

(b) Methods for signing, subscribing, or verifying documents

Any notice, order, ruling, decision, opinion, memorandum, certificate of service, or similar document issued by an appellate court or by a judicial officer of an appellate court may be signed, subscribed, or verified using a computer or other technology in accordance with procedures, standards, and guidelines established by the Judicial Council. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, all notices, orders, rulings, decisions, opinions, memoranda, certificates of service, or similar documents that are signed, subscribed, or verified by computer or other technological means under this subdivision shall have the same validity, and the same legal force and effect, as paper documents signed, subscribed, or verified by an appellate court or a judicial officer of the court.

(c) Permanent records

The clerk/executive officer of the Court of Appeal must permanently keep the court's minutes and a register of appeals and original proceedings.

(d) Time to keep other records

(1) Except as provided in (2) and (3), the clerk/executive officer may destroy all other records in a case 10 years after the decision becomes final, as ordered by the administrative presiding justice or, in a court with only one division, by the presiding justice.

(2) Except as provided in (3), in a criminal case in which the court affirms a judgment of conviction, the clerk/executive officer must keep the original reporter's transcript or, if the original is in paper, either the original or a true and correct electronic copy of the transcript, for 20 years after the decision becomes final.

(3) In a felony case in which the court affirms a judgment of conviction, the clerk/executive officer must keep the original reporter's transcript or, if the original is in paper, either the original or a true and correct electronic copy, for 100 years after the decision becomes final.

Advisory Committee Comment

Subdivision (d). Subdivision (d) permits the Court of Appeal to keep an electronic copy of the reporter's transcript in lieu of keeping the original if the original transcript is in paper. Although subdivision (a) allows the Court of Appeal to maintain its records in any format that satisfies the otherwise applicable standards for maintenance of court records, including electronic formats, ~~the original of a reporter's transcript is required to be on paper under Code of Civil Procedure section 271(a).~~ Code of Civil Procedure section 271 provides that an original reporter's transcript must be in electronic form unless a specified exception allows for an original paper transcript. Subdivision (d) therefore specifies that an electronic copy may be kept if the original transcript is in paper, to clarify that the paper original need not be kept by the court.

Item number: 05

RUPRO ACTION REQUEST FORM

RUPRO action requested: Circulate for comment (January 1 cycle)

RUPRO Meeting: April 9, 2020

Title of proposal (include amend/revise/adopt/approve + form/rule numbers):
Appellate Procedure: Use of an Appendix in Limited Civil Appeals
Adopt Cal. Rules of Court, rule 8.845; amend rules 8.830, 8.840, 8.843 and 8.882; approve form APP-111; revise forms APP-101-INFO and APP-103

Committee or other entity submitting the proposal:
Appellate Advisory Committee

Staff contact (name, phone and e-mail): Christy Simons, 415-865-7694, christy.simons@jud.ca.gov

Identify project(s) on the committee's annual agenda that is the basis for this item:
Approved by RUPRO: 10/28/2019
Project description from annual agenda: Consider amending the rules governing the record on appeal in limited civil cases to allow an appendix as a record of the written documents from the trial court proceedings as an alternative to a clerk's transcript. Source of the project: committee member. Subcommittee: Appellate Division.

If requesting July 1 or out of cycle, explain:

Additional Information: (To facilitate RUPRO's review of your proposal, please include any relevant information not contained in the attached summary.)

JUDICIAL COUNCIL OF CALIFORNIA

455 Golden Gate Avenue . San Francisco, California 94102-3688
www.courts.ca.gov/policyadmin-invitationstocomment.htm

INVITATION TO COMMENT

SPR20-02

Title
Appellate Procedure: Use of an Appendix in Limited Civil Cases

Proposed Rules, Forms, Standards, or Statutes
Adopt Cal. Rules of Court, rule 8.845; amend rules 8.830, 8.840, 8.843, and 8.882; approve form APP-111; revise forms APP-101-INFO and APP-103

Proposed by
Appellate Advisory Committee
Hon. Louis R. Mauro, Chair

Action Requested
Review and submit comments by June 9, 2020

Proposed Effective Date
January 1, 2021

Contact
Christy Simons, Attorney
415-865-7694
christy.simons@jud.ca.gov

Executive Summary and Origin

The Appellate Advisory Committee proposes adopting a new rule and amending four current rules to allow litigants in limited civil appeals to use an appendix in lieu of a clerk's transcript as the record of documents filed in the trial court. The California Rules of Court contain a rule for use of an appendix in the Court of Appeal but do not include such a rule for civil appeals in the appellate division. The proposed rule is based on the existing rule and closely follows its structure and content. To assist litigants in using an appendix, the committee also proposes approving a new form and revising an information sheet and a form for designating the record in limited civil cases. This proposal originated with a suggestion from a judge of the superior court who serves on the appellate division and is a current committee member.

Background

Rule 8.124

Rule 8.124 establishes a procedure for using an appendix in lieu of a clerk's transcript. The appellant may elect to use an appendix when designating the record on appeal. If the appellant does not elect to use an appendix, the respondent may do so but only if the appellant has not been granted a fee waiver for the cost of a clerk's transcript. The parties may prepare separate appendixes or may stipulate to a joint appendix. (Cal. Rules of Court, rule 8.124(a).)

Rule 8.124 specifies the contents of an appendix, including items that must be included, items that may be included, and items that must not be included. Much of the content is specified by cross-references to other rules. (See rule 8.124(b).) The rule also sets forth a procedure for including in an appendix a copy of a document or exhibit in the possession of another party and returning documents or exhibits that were sent non-electronically when the remittitur issues. (See rule 8.124(c).)

In addition, the rule includes provisions regarding the form of an appendix, service and filing, the cost of an appendix, and sanctions for an inaccurate or noncomplying appendix. (See rule 8.124(d)–(g).) There are several detailed advisory committee comments explaining and clarifying various subdivisions of the rule.

Appellate division rules

In 2008, the appellate rules for limited civil cases were expanded and renumbered as part of a large project to comprehensively review and update the rules for appellate division proceedings.[1] One of the goals of the project was to make the rules for limited civil appeals as consistent as practicable with the rules for unlimited civil appeals, both in organization and content. As the starting point and guide for the appellate division rules project, the committee used the recently amended and reorganized rules for the Court of Appeal and the Supreme Court. Another goal was to fill in gaps in the appellate division rules, but there is no indication that a rule for use of appendixes in the appellate division was considered as a part of that project, or at any other time.

The Proposal

New rule 8.845

The proposed new rule would allow litigants in appeals of limited civil cases to elect to use an appendix in lieu of a clerk's transcript as the record of documents in the trial court. This option is available to litigants in unlimited civil appeals; the proposal would fill a gap by providing the same option in the appellate division. A principal benefit of electing to use an appendix is saving the cost of paying the court to prepare and copy the clerk's transcript. Thus, the proposal would promote access to justice by providing a way for litigants to reduce the cost of appeals in cases involving $25,000 or less. It would also benefit the superior courts by reducing staff time in preparing the record.

The new rule is modeled on current rule 8.124, the rule for appendixes in unlimited civil appeals. Where that rule contains cross-references to other rules of court for unlimited civil appeals, the new rule cross-references the parallel rules for limited civil appeals, thus maintaining the same structure as the existing rule and consistency between the rules for the Court of Appeal and the appellate division.

[1] See Judicial Council of Cal., Appellate Advisory Committee report, Appellate Procedure: Rules and Forms for the Superior Court Appellate Divisions (Dec. 21, 2007, date of report) (Feb. 22, 2008, date of council meeting) (Judicial Council of Cal. binder, Feb. 22, 2008, tab 7).

The only provision in the current rule that is not retained in the proposed new one is subdivision (b)(3)(C) of rule 8.124, which states that an appendix must not contain the record of an administrative proceeding and that any such administrative record must be transmitted to the reviewing court as specified in a separate rule (rule 8.123). The appellate division rules do not contain a rule regarding administrative records, and thus there is no rule for such a provision to cross-reference. The committee is interested in comments on whether the rules for limited civil appeals should include a rule regarding administrative records and whether the new rule on appendixes should address administrative records.

Amend rules 8.830, 8.840, 8.843, and 8.882

To implement the option of using an appendix in limited civil appeals and to maintain consistency with the rules for unlimited civil appeals, the committee proposes amending four existing rules. Rule 8.830 would be amended to add an appendix under rule 8.845 as a form of the record of written documents that must be included in the record on appeal. Rule 8.840, which governs completion and filing of the record, would be amended to add clarifying language and a provision on when the record is complete if the parties are using an appendix and a record of the oral proceedings. Rule 8.843, which governs transmitting exhibits, would be amended to add an appendix as a form of the record of written documents. Finally, provisions would be added to rule 8.882 regarding the time to file an appellant's opening brief if there is an election under rule 8.845 to use an appendix; the proposed language is similar to existing language in rule 8.212(a)(1)(A).

New form APP-111

The committee proposes a new optional form—Respondent's Notice Electing to Use an Appendix (Limited Civil Case) (form APP-111)—for respondents electing to use an appendix. The form's content is based on the existing form for respondents in unlimited civil appeals, Respondent's Notice Electing to Use an Appendix (Unlimited Civil Case) (form APP-011).

The election procedure for use of an appendix differs from all other appellate rules governing designation of the record on appeal. Under the other rules, the appellant designates, or the parties stipulate, to the form of the record. By contrast, under subdivision (a) of rule 8.124 (and subdivision (a) of proposed new rule 8.845), either party may elect to have the appeal proceed by way of an appendix. Unless the superior court orders otherwise, the respondent may serve and file a timely notice electing to use an appendix if the appellant does not have a waiver of the fee for a clerk's transcript. New form APP-111 would provide instructions and information for respondents to assist them in making this election.

Revise forms APP-101-INFO and APP-103

The committee proposes revisions to Information on Appeal Procedures (Limited Civil Case) (form APP-101-INFO), to include information on an appendix as another form of the record of the documents in the trial court. These proposed revisions are based on the parallel information sheet for litigants in unlimited civil appeals, Information on Appeal Procedures (Unlimited Civil Case) (form APP-001-INFO).

The proposed changes to Appellant's Notice Designating Record on Appeal (Limited Civil Case) (form APP-103) add the option of choosing an appendix as the form of the documents filed in the trial court.

Alternatives Considered

The committee considered not proposing a rule for the use of an appendix in limited civil cases, but decided to move forward with the proposal because there is no apparent reason for not allowing litigants this option. Litigants could save money in the record preparation process, and courts could save time if litigants opt to prepare appendixes rather than request clerks' transcripts.

The committee also considered the complexity of the current rule on use of an appendix in unlimited civil cases and examined whether a parallel rule for limited civil cases should contain all of the same provisions. With the exception of provisions for an administrative record, the committee concluded that all provisions in the current rule should be retained in the new one because the procedures would be similar and the same information and requirements would be helpful in the context of limited civil appeals. As noted above, the committee seeks comments on whether the new rule should include provisions regarding administrative records.

In addition, the committee considered additional revisions to the forms in both unlimited civil and limited civil appeals to provide more information regarding a respondent's option to elect to use an appendix as the record of the documents in the trial court. The committee decided against more revisions to the forms because this option is rarely used, and the committee has received no feedback that the current process for electing to use an appendix in unlimited civil appeals is confusing or otherwise not working well.

Fiscal and Operational Impacts

The committee anticipates no significant fiscal or operational impacts from this proposal. Implementation requirements, such as training for court staff and any changes to case management systems, are expected to be minor. The committee believes that the benefits of the proposal, including savings of money for litigants and time for the courts, outweigh the implementation cost.

Request for Specific Comments

In addition to comments on the proposal as a whole, the advisory committee is interested in comments on the following:

- Does the proposal appropriately address the stated purpose?
- Should the proposed new rule specify that an appendix should not contain the record of an administrative proceeding (see current rule 8.124(b)(3)(C))? If so, should the rules for limited civil appeals include a rule on the record of administrative proceedings, similar to rule 8.123 for unlimited civil appeals?
- Should any provisions in the proposed new and amended rules or forms be changed or eliminated to better reflect appellate division practice and procedure?

The advisory committee also seeks comments from courts on the following cost and implementation matters:

- Would the proposal provide cost savings? If so, please quantify.
- What would the implementation requirements be for courts—for example, training staff (please identify position and expected hours of training), revising processes and procedures (please describe), changing docket codes in case management systems, or modifying case management systems?
- Would 3 months from Judicial Council approval of this proposal until its effective date provide sufficient time for implementation?
- How well would this proposal work in courts of different sizes?

Attachments and Links

1. Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.830, 8.840, 8.843, 8.845, and 8.882, at pages 6–14
2. Forms APP-101-INFO, APP-103, and APP-111, at pages 15–38

Rule 8.845 of the California Rules of Court would be adopted, and rules 8.830, 8.840, 8.843, and 8.882 would be amended, effective January 1, 2021, to read:

Rule 8.830. Record on appeal

(a) Normal record

Except as otherwise provided in this chapter, the record on an appeal to the appellate division in a civil case must contain the following, which constitute the normal record on appeal:

(1) A record of the written documents from the trial court proceedings in the form of one of the following:

(A) A clerk's transcript under rule 8.832;

(B) An appendix under rule 8.845;

~~(B)~~(C) If the court has a local rule for the appellate division electing to use this form of the record, the original trial court file under rule 8.833; or

~~(C)~~(D) An agreed statement under rule 8.836.

(2) * * *

(b) * * *

Advisory Committee Comment

Subdivision (a). The options of using the original trial court file instead of a clerk's transcript under (1)~~(B)~~(C) or an electronic recording itself, rather than a transcript, under (2)(B) are available only if the court has local rules for the appellate division authorizing these options.

Rule 8.840. Completion and filing of the record

(a) When the record is complete

(1) If the appellant elected under rule 8.831 or 8.834(b) to proceed without a record of the oral proceedings in the trial court and the parties are not proceeding by appendix under rule 8.845, the record is complete:

(A) If a clerk's transcript will be used, when the clerk's transcript is certified under rule 8.832(d);

(B) If the original trial court file will be used instead of the clerk's transcript, when that original file is ready for transmission as provided under rule 8.833(b); or

(C) If an agreed statement will be used instead of the clerk's transcript, when the appellant files the agreed statement under rule 8.836(b).

(2) If the parties are not proceeding by appendix under rule 8.845 and the appellant elected under rule 8.831 to proceed with a record of the oral proceedings in the trial court, the record is complete when the clerk's transcript or other record of the documents from the trial court is complete as provided in (1) and:

(A) If the appellant elected to use a reporter's transcript, when the certified reporter's transcript is delivered to the court under rule 8.834(d);

(B) If the appellant elected to use a transcript prepared from an official electronic recording, when the transcript has been prepared under rule 8.835;

(C) If the parties stipulated to the use of an official electronic recording of the proceedings, when the electronic recording has been prepared under rule 8.835; or

(D) If the appellant elected to use a statement on appeal, when the statement on appeal has been certified by the trial court or a transcript or an official electronic recording has been prepared under rule 8.827(d)(6).

(3) If the parties are proceeding by appendix under rule 8.845 and the appellant elected under rule 8.831 to proceed with a record of the oral proceedings in the trial court, the record is complete when the record of the oral proceedings is complete as provided in (2)(A), (B), (C), or (D).

(b) * * *

Rule 8.843. Transmitting exhibits

(a) Notice of designation

(1) If a party wants the appellate division to consider any original exhibits that were admitted in evidence, refused, or lodged but that were not copied in the clerk's transcript under rule 8.832 or the appendix under rule 8.845 or included in the original file under rule 8.833, within 10 days after the last respondent's brief is filed or could be filed under rule 8.882 the party must serve and file a notice in the trial court designating such exhibits.

(2) Within 10 days after a notice under (1) is served, any other party wanting the appellate division to consider additional exhibits must serve and file a notice in the trial court designating such exhibits.

(3) A party filing a notice under (1) or (2) must serve a copy on the appellate division.

(b)–(e) * * *

Rule 8.845. Appendixes

(a) Notice of election

(1) Unless the superior court orders otherwise on a motion served and filed within 10 days after the notice of election is served, this rule governs if:

(A) The appellant elects to use an appendix under this rule in the notice designating the record on appeal under rule 8.831; or

(B) The respondent serves and files a notice in the superior court electing to use an appendix under this rule within 10 days after the notice of appeal is filed, and no waiver of the fee for a clerk's transcript is granted to the appellant.

(2) When a party files a notice electing to use an appendix under this rule, the superior court clerk must promptly send a copy of the register of actions, if any, to the attorney of record for each party and to any unrepresented party.

(3) The parties may prepare separate appendixes or they may stipulate to a joint appendix.

(b) Contents of appendix

(1) A joint appendix or an appellant's appendix must contain:

(A) All items required by rule 8.832(a)(1), showing the dates required by rule 8.832(a)(2);

(B) Any item listed in rule 8.832(a)(3) that is necessary for proper consideration of the issues, including, for an appellant's appendix, any item that the appellant should reasonably assume the respondent will rely on;

(C) The notice of election; and

(D) For a joint appendix, the stipulation designating its contents.

(2) An appendix may incorporate by reference all or part of the record on appeal in another case pending in the reviewing court or in a prior appeal in the same case.

(A) The other appeal must be identified by its case name and number. If only part of a record is being incorporated by reference, that part must be identified by citation to the volume and page numbers of the record where it appears and either the title of the document or documents or the date of the oral proceedings to be incorporated. The parts of any record incorporated by reference must be identified both in the body of the appendix and in a separate section at the end of the index.

(B) If the appendix incorporates by reference any such record, the cover of the appendix must prominently display the notice "Record in case number:____ incorporated by reference," identifying the number of the case from which the record is incorporated.

(C) On request of the reviewing court or any party, the designating party must provide a copy of the materials incorporated by reference to the court or another party or lend them for copying as provided in (c).

(3) An appendix must not:

(A) Contain documents or portions of documents filed in superior court that are unnecessary for proper consideration of the issues.

(B) Contain transcripts of oral proceedings that may be designated under rule 8.834.

(C) Incorporate any document by reference except as provided in (2).

(4) All exhibits admitted in evidence, refused, or lodged are deemed part of the record, whether or not the appendix contains copies of them.

(5) A respondent's appendix may contain any document that could have been included in the appellant's appendix or a joint appendix.

(6) An appellant's reply appendix may contain any document that could have been included in the respondent's appendix.

(c) Document or exhibit held by other party

If a party preparing an appendix wants it to contain a copy of a document or an exhibit in the possession of another party:

(1) The party must first ask the party possessing the document or exhibit to provide a copy or lend it for copying. All parties should reasonably cooperate with such requests.

(2) If the request under (1) is unsuccessful, the party may serve and file in the reviewing court a notice identifying the document or specifying the exhibit's trial court designation and requesting the party possessing the document or exhibit to deliver it to the requesting party or, if the possessing party prefers, to the reviewing court. The possessing party must comply with the request within 10 days after the notice was served.

(3) If the party possessing the document or exhibit sends it to the requesting party non-electronically, that party must copy and return it to the possessing party within 10 days after receiving it.

(4) If the party possessing the document or exhibit sends it to the reviewing court, that party must:

(A) Accompany the document or exhibit with a copy of the notice served by the requesting party; and

(B) Immediately notify the requesting party that it has sent the document or exhibit to the reviewing court.

(5) On request, the reviewing court may return a document or an exhibit to the party that sent it non-electronically. When the remittitur issues, the reviewing court must return all documents or exhibits to the party that sent them, if they were sent non-electronically.

(d) Form of appendix

(1) An appendix must comply with the requirements of rule 8.838 for a clerk's transcript.

(2) In addition to the information required on the cover of a brief by rule 8.883(c)(8), the cover of an appendix must prominently display the title "Joint Appendix" or "Appellant's Appendix" or "Respondent's Appendix" or "Appellant's Reply Appendix."

(3) An appendix must not be bound with or transmitted electronically with a brief as one document.

(e) Service and filing

(1) A party preparing an appendix must:

(A) Serve the appendix on each party, unless otherwise agreed by the parties or ordered by the reviewing court; and

(B) File the appendix in the reviewing court.

(2) A joint appendix or an appellant's appendix must be served and filed with the appellant's opening brief.

(3) A respondent's appendix, if any, must be served and filed with the respondent's brief.

(4) An appellant's reply appendix, if any, must be served and filed with the appellant's reply brief.

(f) Cost of appendix

(1) Each party must pay for its own appendix.

(2) The cost of a joint appendix must be paid:

(A) By the appellant;

(B) If there is more than one appellant, by the appellants equally; or

(C) As the parties may agree.

(g) Inaccurate or noncomplying appendix

Filing an appendix constitutes a representation that the appendix consists of accurate copies of documents in the superior court file. The reviewing court may impose monetary or other sanctions for filing an appendix that contains inaccurate copies or otherwise violates this rule.

Advisory Committee Comment

Subdivision (a). Under this provision, either party may elect to have the appeal proceed by way of an appendix. If the appellant's fees for a clerk's transcript are not waived and the respondent timely elects to use an appendix, that election will govern unless the superior court orders otherwise. This election procedure differs from all other appellate rules governing designation of a record on appeal. In those rules, the appellant's designation, or the stipulation of the parties, determines the type of record on appeal. Before making this election, respondents should check whether the appellant has been granted a fee waiver that is still in effect. If the trial court has granted the appellant a fee waiver for the clerk's transcript, or grants such a waiver after the notice of appeal is filed, the respondent cannot elect to proceed by way of an appendix.

Subdivision (a)(2) is intended to assist appellate counsel in preparing an appendix by providing counsel with the list of pleadings and other filings found in the register of actions or "docket sheet" in those counties that maintain such registers. (See Gov. Code, § 69845.) The provision is derived from rule 10-1 of the United States Circuit Rules (9th Cir.).

Subdivision (b). Under subdivision (b)(1)(A), a joint appendix or an appellant's appendix must contain any register of actions that the clerk sent to the parties under subdivision (a)(2). This provision is intended to assist the reviewing court in determining the accuracy of the appendix. The provision is derived from rule 30-1.3(a)(ii) of the United States Circuit Rules (9th Cir.).

In support of or opposition to pleadings or motions, the parties may have filed a number of lengthy documents in the proceedings in superior court, including, for example, declarations, memorandums, trial briefs, documentary exhibits (e.g., insurance policies, contracts, deeds), and photocopies of judicial opinions or other publications. Subdivision (b)(3)(A) prohibits the inclusion of such documents in an appendix when they are not necessary for proper consideration of the issues raised in the appeal. Even if a document is otherwise includable in an appendix, the rule prohibits the inclusion of any substantial portion of the document that is not necessary for proper consideration of the issues raised in the appeal. The prohibition is intended to simplify and therefore expedite the preparation of the appendix, to reduce its cost to the parties, and to relieve the courts of the burden of reviewing a record containing redundant, irrelevant, or immaterial documents. The provision is adapted from rule 30-1.4 of the United States Circuit Rules (9th Cir.).

Subdivision (b)(3)(B) prohibits the inclusion in an appendix of transcripts of oral proceedings that may be made part of a reporter's transcript. (Compare rule 8.834(c)(4) [the reporter must not copy into the reporter's transcript any document includable in the clerk's transcript under rule

8.832].) The prohibition is intended to prevent a party filing an appendix from evading the requirements and safeguards imposed by rule 8.834 on the process of designating and preparing a reporter's transcript. In addition, if an appellant were to include in its appendix a transcript of less than all the proceedings, the respondent would not learn of any need to designate additional proceedings (under rule 8.834(a)(3)) until the appellant had served its appendix with its brief, when it would be too late to designate them. Note also that a party may file a certified transcript of designated proceedings instead of a deposit for the reporter's fee (Cal. Rules of Court, rule 8.834(b)(2)(D).

Subdivision (d). In current practice, served copies of filed documents often bear no clerk's date stamp and are not conformed by the parties serving them. Consistent with this practice, subdivision (d) does not require such documents to be conformed. The provision thereby relieves the parties of the burden of obtaining conformed copies at the cost of considerable time and expense, and expedites the preparation of the appendix and the processing of the appeal. It is to be noted, however, that under subdivision (b)(1)(A) each document necessary to determine the timeliness of the appeal must show the date required under rule 8.822 or 8.823. Note also that subdivision (g) of rule 8.845 provides that a party filing an appendix represents under penalty of sanctions that its copies of documents are accurate.

Subdivision (e). Subdivision (e)(2) requires a joint appendix to be filed with the appellant's opening brief. The provision is intended to improve the briefing process by enabling the appellant's opening brief to include citations to the record. To provide for the case in which a respondent concludes in light of the appellant's opening brief that the joint appendix should have included additional documents, subdivision (b)(5) permits such a respondent to present in an appendix filed with its respondent's brief (see subd. (e)(3)) any document that could have been included in the joint appendix.

Under subdivision (e)(2)–(4), an appendix is required to be filed "with" the associated brief. This provision is intended to clarify that an extension of a briefing period ipso facto extends the filing period of an appendix associated with the brief.

Subdivision (g). Under subdivision (g), sanctions do not depend on the degree of culpability of the filing party—i.e., on whether the party's conduct was willful or negligent—but on the nature of the inaccuracies and the importance of the documents they affect.

Rule 8.882. Briefs by parties and amici curiae

(a) Briefs by parties

(1) The appellant must serve and file an appellant's opening brief within:

(A) 30 days after the record–or the reporter's transcript, after a rule 8.845 election in a civil case–is filed in the appellate division; or

(B) 60 days after the filing of a rule 8.845 election in a civil case, if the appeal proceeds without a reporter's transcript.

(2)–(5) * * *

(b)–(e) * * *

APP-101-INFO Information on Appeal Procedures for Limited Civil Cases

GENERAL INFORMATION

1 What does this information sheet cover?

This information sheet tells you about appeals in limited civil cases. These are civil cases in which the amount of money claimed is $25,000 or less.

If you are the party who is appealing (asking for the trial court's decision to be reviewed), you are called the APPELLANT, and you should read Information for the Appellant, starting on page 2. If you received notice that another party in your case is appealing, you are called the RESPONDENT and you should read Information for the Respondent, starting on page 11.

This information sheet does not cover everything you may need to know about appeals in limited civil cases. It is meant only to give you a general idea of the appeal process. To learn more, you should read rules 8.800–8.843 and 8.880–8.891 of the California Rules of Court, which set out the procedures for limited civil appeals. You can get these rules at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/rules.

2 What is an appeal?

An appeal is a request to a higher court to review a decision made by a judge or jury in a lower court. In a limited civil case, the court hearing the appeal is the appellate division of the superior court and the lower court—called the "trial court" in this information sheet—is the superior court.

It is important to understand that an appeal is NOT a new trial. The appellate division will not consider new evidence, such as the testimony of new witnesses or new exhibits. The appellate division's job is to review a record of what happened in the trial court and the trial court's decision to see if certain kinds of legal errors were made:

For information about appeal procedures in other kinds of cases, see:

- Information on Appeal Procedures for Unlimited Civil Cases (form APP-001)
- Information on Appeal Procedures for Infractions (form CR-141-INFO)
- Information on Appeal Procedures for Misdemeanors (form CR-131-INFO)

You can get these forms at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.

- Prejudicial error: The appellant (the party who is appealing) may ask the appellate division to determine if an error was made about either the law or court procedures in the case that caused substantial harm to the appellant (this is called "prejudicial error").

  Prejudicial error can include things like errors made by the judge about the law, errors or misconduct by the lawyers, incorrect instructions given to the jury, and misconduct by the jury that harmed the appellant. When it conducts its review, the appellate division presumes that the judgment, order, or other decision being appealed is correct. It is the responsibility of the appellant to show the appellate division that an error was made and that the error was harmful.

- No substantial evidence: The appellant may also ask the appellate division to determine if there was substantial evidence supporting the judgment, order, or other decision being appealed. When it conducts its review, the appellate division only looks to see if there was evidence that reasonably supports the decision. The appellate division generally will not reconsider the jury's or trial court's conclusion about which side had more or stronger evidence or whether witnesses were telling the truth or lying.

The appellate division generally will not overturn the judgment, order, or other decision being appealed unless the record clearly shows that one of these legal errors was made.

3 Do I need a lawyer to represent me in an appeal?

You do not have to have a lawyer; if you are an individual (rather than a corporation, for example), you are allowed to represent yourself in an appeal in a limited civil case. But appeals can be complicated and you will have to follow the same rules that lawyers have to follow. If you have any questions about the appeal procedures, you should talk to a lawyer.

If you decide not to use a lawyer, you must put your address, telephone number, fax number (if available), and e-mail address (if available) on the first page of every document you file with the court and let the court know if this contact information changes so that the court can contact you if needed.

4 Where can I find a lawyer to help me with my appeal?

You have to hire your own attorney if you want one. You can get information about finding an attorney on the California Courts Online Self-Help Center at www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp-lowcosthelp.htm in the Getting Started section.

INFORMATION FOR THE APPELLANT

This part of the information sheet is written for the appellant—the party who is appealing the trial court's decision. It explains some of the rules and procedures relating to appealing a decision in a limited civil case. The information may also be helpful to the respondent. Additional information for respondents can be found starting on page 11 of this information sheet.

5 Who can appeal?

Only a party in the trial court case can appeal a decision in that case. You may not appeal on behalf of a friend, a spouse, a child, or another relative unless you are a legally appointed representative of that person (such as the person's guardian or conservator).

6 Can I appeal any decision the trial court made?

No. Generally, you can only appeal the final judgment—the decision at the end that decides the whole case. Other rulings made by the trial court before the final judgment generally cannot be separately appealed but can be reviewed only later as part of an appeal of the final judgment. There are a few exceptions to this general rule. Code of Civil Procedure section 904.2 lists a few types of orders in a limited civil case that can be appealed right away. These include orders that:

- Change or refuse to change the place of trial (venue)
- Grant a motion to quash service of summons or grant a motion to stay or dismiss the action on the ground of inconvenient forum
- Grant a new trial or deny a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict
- Discharge or refuse to discharge an attachment or grant a right to attach
- Grant or dissolve an injunction or refuse to grant or dissolve an injunction
- Appoint a receiver
- Are made after final judgment in the case

(You can get a copy of Code of Civil Procedure section 904.2 at http://leginfo.legislature.ca.gov/faces /codes.xhtml.)

7 How do I start my appeal?

First, you must serve and file a notice of appeal. The notice of appeal tells the other party or parties in the case and the trial court that you are appealing the trial court's decision. You may use Notice of Appeal/Cross-Appeal (Limited Civil Case) (form APP-102) to prepare a notice of appeal in a limited civil case. You can get form APP-102 at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.

8 How do I "serve and file" the notice of appeal?

"Serve and file" means that you must:

- Have somebody over 18 years old mail, deliver, or electronically send ("serve") the notice of appeal to the other party or parties in the way required by law. If the notice of appeal is mailed or personally delivered, it must be by someone who is not a party to the case—so not you.

- Make a record that the notice of appeal has been served. This record is called a "proof of service." Proof of Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109) or Proof of Electronic Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109E) can be used to make this record. The proof of service must show who served the notice of appeal, who was served with the notice of appeal, how the notice of appeal was served (by mail, in person, or electronically), and the date the notice of appeal was served.
- Bring or mail the original notice of appeal and the proof of service to the trial court that issued the judgment, order, or other decision you are appealing. You should make a copy of the notice of appeal you are planning to file for your own records before you file it with the court. It is a good idea to bring or mail an extra copy of the notice of appeal to the clerk when you file your original and ask the clerk to stamp this copy to show that the original has been filed.

You can get more information about how to serve court papers and proof of service from What Is Proof of Service? (form APP-109-INFO) and on the California Courts Online Self-Help Center at www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp-serving.htm.

9 Is there a deadline to file my notice of appeal?

Yes. In a limited civil case, except in the very limited circumstances listed in rule 8.823, you must file your notice of appeal within 30 days after the trial court clerk or a party serves either a document called a "Notice of Entry" of the trial court judgment or a file-stamped copy of the judgment or within 90 days after entry of the judgment, whichever is earlier.

This deadline for filing the notice of appeal cannot be extended. If your notice of appeal is late, the appellate division will not be able to consider your appeal.

10 Do I have to pay to file an appeal?

Yes. Unless the court waives this fee, you must pay a fee for filing your notice of appeal. You can ask the clerk of the court where you are filing the notice of appeal what the fee is or look up the fee for an appeal in a limited civil case in the current Statewide Civil Fee Schedule linked at www.courts.ca.gov/7646.htm (note that the "Appeal and Writ Related Fees" section is near the end of this schedule and that there are different fees for limited civil cases depending on the amount demanded in the case). If you cannot afford to pay the fee, you can ask the court to waive it. To do this, you must fill out and file a Request to Waive Court Fees (form FW-001). You can get form FW-001 at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms. You can file this application either before you file your notice of appeal or with your notice of appeal. The court will review this application to determine if you are eligible for a fee waiver.

11 If I file a notice of appeal, do I still have to do what the trial court ordered me to do?

Filing a notice of appeal does NOT automatically postpone most judgments or orders, such as those requiring you to pay another party money or to deliver property to another party (see Code of Civil Procedure sections 917.1–917.9 and 1176; you can get a copy of these laws at www.leginfo.legislature.ca.gov/faces /codes.xhtml). These kinds of judgments or orders will be postponed, or "stayed," only if you request a stay and the court grants your request. In most cases, other than unlawful detainer cases in which the trial court's judgment gives a party possession of the property, if the trial court denies your request for a stay, you can apply to the appellate division for a stay. If you do not get a stay and you do not do what the trial court ordered you to do, court proceedings to collect the money or otherwise enforce the judgment or order may be started against you.

12 What do I need to do after I file my notice of appeal?

You must ask the clerk of the trial court to prepare and send the official record of what happened in the trial court in your case to the appellate division.

Since the appellate division judges were not there to see what happened in the trial court, an official record of what happened must be prepared and sent to the appellate division for its review. You can use Appellant's Notice Designating Record on Appeal (Limited Civil Case) (form APP-103) to ask the trial court to prepare this record. You can get form APP-103 at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.

You must serve and file this notice designating the record on appeal within 10 days after you file your notice of appeal. "Serving and filing" this notice means that you must:

- Have somebody over 18 years old mail, deliver, or electronically send ("serve") the notice to the other party or parties in the way required by law. If the notice is mailed or personally delivered, it must be by someone who is not a party to the case—so not you.
- Make a record that the notice has been served. This record is called a "proof of service." Proof of Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109) or Proof of Electronic Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109E) can be used to make this record. The proof of service must show who served the notice, who was served with the notice, how the notice was served (by mail, in person, or electronically), and the date the notice was served.
- Bring or mail the original notice and the proof of service to the trial court that issued the judgment, order, or other decision you are appealing. You should make a copy of the notice you are planning to file for your own records before you file it with the court. It is a good idea to bring or mail an extra copy of the notice to the clerk when you file your original and ask the clerk to stamp this copy to show that the original has been filed.

You can get more information about how to serve court papers and proof of service from What Is Proof of Service? (form APP-109-INFO) and on the California Courts Online Self-Help Center at www.courts.ca.gov /selfhelp-serving.htm.

13 What is the official record of the trial court proceedings?

There are three parts of the official record:

- A record of what was said in the trial court (this is called the "oral proceedings")
- A record of the documents filed in the trial court (other than exhibits)
- Exhibits that were admitted in evidence, refused, or lodged (temporarily placed with the court) in the trial court

Read below for more information about these parts of the record.

a. Record of what was said in the trial court (the "oral proceedings")

The first part of the official record of the trial court proceedings is a record of what was said in the trial court (this is called a record of the "oral proceedings"). You do not have to send the appellate division a record of the oral proceedings. But if you want to raise any issue in your appeal that would require the appellate division to consider what was said in the trial court, the appellate division will need a record of those oral proceedings. For example, if you are claiming that there was not evidence supporting the judgment, order, or other decision you are appealing, the appellate division will need a record of the oral proceedings.

You are responsible for deciding how the record of the oral proceedings will be provided and, depending on what option you select and your circumstances, you may also be responsible for paying for preparing this record or for preparing an initial draft of the record. If you do not take care of these responsibilities, a record of the oral proceedings in the trial court will not be prepared and sent to the appellate division. If the appellate division does not receive this record, it will not be able to review any issues that are based on what was said in the trial court and it may dismiss your appeal.

In a limited civil case, you can use Appellant's Notice Designating Record on Appeal (Limited Civil Case) (form APP-103) to tell the court whether you want a record of the oral proceedings and, if so, the form of the record that you want to use. You can get form APP-103 at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.

There are four ways in which a record of the oral proceedings can be prepared for the appellate division:

- If you or the other party arranged to have a court reporter there during the trial court proceedings, the reporter can prepare a record, called a "reporter's transcript."

- If the proceedings were officially electronically recorded, the trial court can have a transcript prepared from that recording or, if the court has a local rule permitting this and you and the other party agree ("stipulate") to this, you can use the official electronic recording itself instead of a transcript.
- You can use an agreed statement.
- You can use a statement on appeal.

Read below for more information about these options.

(1) Reporter's transcript

Description: A reporter's transcript is a written record (sometimes called a "verbatim" record) of the oral proceedings in the trial court prepared by a court reporter. Rule 8.834 of the California Rules of Court establishes the requirements relating to reporter's transcripts.

When available: If a court reporter was there in the trial court and made a record of the oral proceedings, you can choose ("elect") to have the court reporter prepare a reporter's transcript for the appellate division. In most limited civil cases, however, a court reporter will not have been there unless you or another party in your case made specific arrangements to have a court reporter there. Check with the court to see if a court reporter made a record of the oral proceedings in your case before choosing this option.

Contents: If you elect to use a reporter's transcript, you must identify by date (this is called "designating") what proceedings you want included in the reporter's transcript. You can use the same form you used to tell the court you wanted to use a reporter's transcript—Appellant's Notice Designating Record on Appeal (Limited Civil Case) (form APP-103)—to do this.
If you elect to use a reporter's transcript, the respondent also has the right to designate additional proceedings to be included in the reporter's transcript. If you elect to proceed without a reporter's transcript, however, the respondent may not designate a reporter's transcript without first getting an order from the appellate division.

Cost: The appellant is responsible for paying for preparing a reporter's transcript. The trial court clerk or the court reporter will notify you of the cost of preparing an original and one copy of the reporter's transcript. You must deposit payment for this cost (and a fee for the trial court) or one of the substitutes allowed by rule 8.834 with the trial court clerk within 10 days after this notice is sent. (See rule 8.834 for more information about this deposit and the permissible substitutes, such as a waiver of this deposit signed by the court reporter.)

Unlike the fee for filing the notice of appeal and the costs for preparing a clerk's transcript, the court cannot waive the fee for preparing a reporter's transcript. A special fund, called the Transcript Reimbursement Fund, may be able to help pay for the transcript. You can get information about this fund at www.courtreportersboard.ca.gov/consumers/index.shtml#rtf. If you are unable to pay the cost of a reporter's transcript, a record of the oral proceedings can be prepared in other ways, by using an agreed statement or a statement on appeal, which are described below.

Completion and delivery: After the cost of preparing the reporter's transcript or a permissible substitute has been deposited, the court reporter will prepare the transcript and submit it to the trial court clerk. When the record is complete, the trial court clerk will submit the original transcript to the appellate division and send you a copy of the transcript. If the respondent has purchased it, a copy of the reporter's transcript will also be mailed to the respondent.

(2) Official electronic recording or transcript

When available: In some limited civil cases, the trial court proceedings were officially recorded on approved electronic recording equipment. If your case was officially recorded, you can choose ("elect") to have a transcript prepared from the recording. Check with the trial court to see if the oral proceedings in your case were officially electronically recorded before you choose this option. If the court has a local rule permitting this and all the parties agree ("stipulate"), a copy of an official electronic recording itself can be used as the record, instead of preparing a transcript. If you choose this option, you must attach a copy of this agreement ("stipulation") to your notice designating the record on appeal.

Contents: If you elect to use a transcript of an official electronic recording, you must identify by date (this is called "designating") what proceedings you want included in the transcript. You can use the same form you used to tell the court you wanted to use a transcript of an official electronic recording —Appellant's Notice Designating Record on Appeal (Limited Civil Case) (form APP-103)—to do this.

Cost: The appellant is responsible for paying the court for the cost of either (a) preparing a transcript or (b) making a copy of the official electronic recording.

(a) If you elect to use a transcript of an official electronic recording, you will need to deposit the estimated cost of preparing the transcript with the trial court clerk and pay the trial court a $50 fee. There are two ways to determine the estimated cost of the transcript:

- You can use the amounts listed in rule 8.130(b)(1)(B) for each full or half day of court proceedings to estimate the cost of making a transcript of the proceeding you have designated in your notice designating the record on appeal. Deposit this estimated amount and the $50 fee with the trial court clerk when you file your notice designating the record on appeal.
- You can ask the trial court clerk for an estimate of the cost of preparing a transcript of the proceedings you have designated in you notice designating the record on appeal. You must deposit this amount and the $50 fee with the trial court within 10 days of receiving the estimate from the clerk.

(b) If the court has a local rule permitting the use of a copy of the electronic recording itself, rather than a transcript, and you have attached your agreement with the other parties to do this ("stipulation") to the notice designating the record on appeal that you filed with the court, the trial court clerk will provide you with an estimate of the costs for this copy of the recording. You must pay this amount to the trial court.

If you cannot afford to pay the cost of preparing the transcript, the $50 fee, or the fee for the copy of the official electronic recording, you can ask the court to waive these costs. To do this, you must fill out and file a Request to Waive Court Fees (form FW-001). You can get form FW-001 at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms. The court will review this application to determine if you are eligible for a fee waiver.

Completion and delivery: After the estimated cost of the transcript or official electronic recording has been paid or waived, the clerk will have the transcript or copy of the recording prepared. When the transcript is completed or the copy of the official electronic recording is prepared and the rest of the record is complete, the clerk will send it to the appellate division.

(3) Agreed statement

Description: An agreed statement is a written summary of the trial court proceedings agreed to by all the parties. (See rule 8.836 of the California Rules of Court.)

When available: If the trial court proceedings were not recorded either by a court reporter or by official electronic recording equipment or if you do not want to use one of these options, you can choose ("elect") to use an agreed statement as the record of the oral proceedings (please note that it may take more of your time to prepare an agreed statement than to use either a reporter's transcript or official electronic recording, if they are available).

Contents: An agreed statement must explain what the trial court case was about, describe why the appellate division is the right court to consider an appeal in this case (why the appellate division has "jurisdiction"), and describe the rulings of the trial court relating to the points to be raised on appeal.

The statement should include only those facts that you and the other parties think are needed to decide the appeal.

Preparation: If you elect to use this option, you must file the agreed statement with your notice designating the record on appeal or, if you and the other parties need more time to work on the statement, you can file a written agreement with the other parties (called a "stipulation") stating that you are trying to agree on a statement. If you file this stipulation, within the next 30 days you must either file the agreed statement or tell the court that you and the other parties were unable to agree on a statement and file a new notice designating the record.

(4) Statement on appeal

Description: A statement on appeal is a summary of the trial court proceedings that is approved by the trial court judge who conducted those proceedings (the term "judge" includes commissioners and temporary judges).

When available: If the trial court proceedings were not recorded either by a court reporter or by official electronic recording equipment or if you do not want to use one of these options, you can choose ("elect") to use a statement on appeal as the record of the oral proceedings (please note that it may take more of your time to prepare a statement on appeal than to use either a reporter's transcript or official electronic recording, if they are available).

Contents: A statement on appeal must include:

- A statement of the points you (the appellant) are raising on appeal;
- A summary of the trial court's rulings and judgment; and
- A summary of the testimony of each witness and other evidence that is relevant to the issues you are raising on appeal.

(See rule 8.837 of the California Rules of Court for more information about what must be included in a statement on appeal and the procedures for preparing a statement. You can get a copy of this rule at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/rules.)

Preparing a proposed statement: If you elect to use a statement on appeal, you must prepare a proposed statement. If you are not represented by a lawyer, you must use Proposed Statement on Appeal (Limited Civil Case) (form APP-104) to prepare your proposed statement. You can get form APP-104 at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.

Serving and filing a proposed statement: You must serve and file the proposed statement with the trial court within 20 days after you file your notice designating the record. "Serve and file" means that you must:

- Have somebody over 18 years old mail, deliver, or electronically send ("serve") the proposed statement to the respondent in the way required by law. If the proposed statement is mailed or personally delivered, it must be by someone who is not a party to the case—so not you.
- Make a record that the proposed statement has been served. This record is called a "proof of service." Proof of Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109) or Proof of Electronic Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109E) can be used to make this record. The proof of service must show who served the proposed statement, who was served with the proposed statement, how the proposed statement was served (by mail, in person, or electronically), and the date the proposed statement was served.
- File the original proposed statement and the proof of service with the trial court. You should make a copy of the proposed statement you are planning to file for your own records before you file it with the court. It is a good idea to bring or mail an extra copy of the proposed statement to the clerk when you file your original and ask the clerk to stamp this copy to show that the original has been filed.

You can get more information about how to serve court papers and proof of service from What Is Proof of Service? (form APP-109-INFO) and on the California Courts Online Self-Help Center at www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp-serving.htm.

Review and modifications: The respondent has 10 days from the date you serve your proposed statement to serve and file proposed changes (called "amendments") to this statement. The trial court judge then reviews both your proposed statement and any proposed amendments filed by the respondent. The trial judge will either make or order you (the appellant) to make any corrections or modifications to the statement that are needed to make sure that the statement provides an accurate summary of the testimony and other evidence relevant to the issues you indicated you are raising on appeal.

Completion and certification: If the judge makes any corrections or modifications to the proposed statement, the corrected or modified statement will be sent to you and the respondent for your review. If the judge orders you to make any corrections or modifications to the proposed statement, you must serve and file the corrected or modified statement within the time ordered by the judge. If you or the respondent disagree with anything in the modified or corrected statement, you have 10 days from the date the modified or corrected statement is sent to you to serve and file objections to the statement. The judge then reviews any objections, makes or orders you to make any additional corrections to the statement, and certifies the statement as an accurate summary of the testimony and other evidence relevant to the issues you indicated you are raising on appeal.

Sending statement to the appellate division: Once the trial court judge certifies the statement on appeal, the trial court clerk will send the statement to the appellate division along with any record of the documents filed in the trial court.

b. Record of the documents filed in the trial court

The second part of the official record of the trial court proceedings is a record of the documents that were filed in the trial court. There are three ways in which a record of the documents filed in the trial court can be prepared for the appellate division:

- A clerk's transcript or an appendix
- The original trial court file or
- An agreed statement

Read below for more information about these options.

(1) Clerk's transcript or appendix

Description: A clerk's transcript is a record of the documents filed in the trial court prepared by the clerk of the trial court. An appendix is a record of these documents prepared by a party. (See rule 8.845 of the California Rules of Court.)

Contents: Certain documents, such as the notice of appeal and the trial court judgment or order being appealed, must be included in the clerk's transcript or appendix. These documents are listed in rule 8.832(a) and rule 8.845(b) of the California Rules of Court and in Appellant's Notice Designating Record on Appeal (Limited Civil Case) (form APP-103).

Clerk's transcript: If you want any documents other than those listed in rule 8.832(a) to be included in the clerk's transcript, you must tell the trial court in your notice designating the record on appeal. You can use form APP-103 to do this. You will need to identify each document you want included in the clerk's transcript by its title and filing date or, if you do not know the filing date, the date the document was signed.

If you—the appellant—request a clerk's transcript, the respondent also has the right to ask the clerk to include additional documents in the clerk's transcript. If this happens, you will be served with a notice saying what other documents the respondent wants included in the clerk's transcript.

Cost: The appellant is responsible for paying for preparing a clerk's transcript. The trial court clerk will send you a bill for the cost of preparing an original and one copy of the clerk's transcript. You must do one of the following things within 10 days after the clerk sends this bill or the appellate division may dismiss your appeal:

- Pay the bill.
- Ask the court to waive the cost because you cannot afford to pay. To do this, you must fill out and file a Request to Waive Court Fees (form FW-001). You can get form FW-001 at any courthouse or county law library or online at www. courts.ca.gov /forms. The court will review this application to determine if you are eligible for a fee waiver.
- Give the court a copy of a court order showing that your fees in this case have already been waived by the court.

Completion and delivery: After the cost of preparing the clerk's transcript has been paid or waived, the trial court clerk will compile the requested documents into a transcript format and, when the record on appeal is complete, will forward the original clerk's transcript to the appellate division for filing. The trial court clerk will send you a copy of the transcript. If the respondent bought a copy, the clerk will also send a copy of the transcript to the respondent.

Appendix: If you choose to prepare an appendix of the documents filed in the superior court, rather than designating a clerk's transcript, that appendix must include all of the documents and be prepared in the form required by rule 8.845 of the California Rules of Court. The parties may prepare separate appendixes or stipulate (agree) to a joint appendix. If separate appendixes are prepared, each party must pay for its own appendix. If a joint appendix is prepared, the parties can agree on how the cost of preparing the appendix will be paid or the appellant will pay the cost.

The party preparing the appendix must serve the appendix on each other party (unless the parties have agreed or the appellate division has ordered otherwise) and file the appendix in the appellate division. The appellant's appendix or a joint appendix must be served and filed with the appellant's opening brief. See (15) for information about the brief.

(2) Trial court file

When available: If the court has a local rule allowing this, the clerk can send the appellate division the original trial court file instead of a clerk's transcript (see rule 8.833 of the California Rules of Court).

Cost: As with a clerk's transcript, the appellant is responsible for paying for preparing the trial court file. The trial court clerk will send you a bill for this preparation cost. You must do one of the following things within 10 days after the clerk sends this bill or the appellate division may dismiss your appeal:

- Pay the bill.
- Ask the court to waive the cost because you cannot afford to pay. To do this, you must fill out and file a Request to Waive Court Fees (form FW-001). You can get form FW-001 at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov /forms. The court will review this application to determine if you are eligible for a fee waiver.
- Give the court a copy of a court order showing that your fees in this case have already been waived by the court.

Completion and delivery: After the cost of preparing the trial court file has been paid or waived and the record on appeal is complete, the trial court clerk will send the file and a list of the documents in the file to the appellate division. The trial court clerk will also send a copy of the list of documents to the appellant and respondent so that you can put your own files of documents from the trial court in the correct order.

(3) Agreed statement

When available: If you and the respondent have already agreed to use an agreed statement as the record of the oral proceedings (see a(3) above) and agree to this, you can use an agreed statement instead of a clerk's transcript. To do this, you must attach to your agreed statement all of the documents that are required to be included in a clerk's transcript.

c. Exhibits

The third part of the official record of the trial court proceeding is the exhibits, such as photographs, documents, or other items that were admitted in evidence, refused, or lodged (temporarily placed with the court) in the trial court. Exhibits are considered part of the record on appeal, but the clerk will not include any exhibits in the clerk's transcript unless you ask that they be included in your notice designating the record on appeal. Appellant's Notice Designating Record on Appeal (Limited Civil Case) (form APP-103), includes a space for you to make this request. You also can ask the trial court to send original exhibits to the appellate division at the time briefs are filed (see rule 8.843 for more information about this procedure and see below for information about briefs).

Sometimes, the trial court returns an exhibit to a party at the end of the trial. If the trial court returned an exhibit to you or another party and you or the other party ask for that exhibit to be included in the clerk's transcript or sent to the appellate division, the party who has the exhibit must deliver that exhibit to the trial court clerk as soon as possible.

14 What happens after the official record has been prepared?

As soon as the record on appeal is complete, the clerk of the trial court will send it to the appellate division. When the appellate division receives the record, it will send you a notice telling you when you must file your brief in the appellate division.

15 What is a brief?

Description: A "brief" is a party's written description of the facts in the case, the law that applies, and the party's argument about the issues being appealed. If you are represented by a lawyer in your appeal, your lawyer will prepare your brief. If you are not represented by a lawyer, you will have to prepare your brief yourself. You should read rules 8.882–8.884 of the California Rules of Court, which set out the requirements for preparing, serving, and filing briefs in limited civil appeals, including requirements for the format and length of these briefs. You can get copies of these rules at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/rules.

Contents: If you are the appellant, your brief, called an "appellant's opening brief," must clearly explain what you believe are the legal errors made in the trial court. Your brief must refer to the exact places in the clerk's transcript and the reporter's transcript (or the other forms of the record you are using) that support your argument. Remember that an appeal is not a new trial. The appellate division will not consider new evidence, such as the testimony of new witnesses or new exhibits, so do not include any new evidence in your brief.

Serving and filing: You must serve and file your brief in the appellate division by the deadline the court set in the notice it sent you, which is usually 30 days after the record is filed in the appellate division or 60 days from the date the appellant chooses to proceed with no reporter's transcript under rule 8.845. "Serve and file" means that you must:

- Have somebody over 18 years old mail, deliver, or electronically send ("serve") the brief to the other parties in the way required by law. If the brief is mailed or personally delivered, it must be by someone who is not a party to the case—so not you.
- Make a record that the brief has been served. This record is called a "proof of service." Proof of Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109) or Proof of Electronic Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109E) can be used to make this record. The proof of service must show who served the brief, who was served with the brief, how the brief was served (by mail, in person, or electronically), and the date the brief was served.

- File the original brief and the proof of service with the appellate division. You should make a copy of the brief you are planning to file for your own records before you file it with the court. It is a good idea to bring or mail an extra copy of the brief to the clerk when you file your original and ask the clerk to stamp this copy to show that the original has been filed.
- Note: If a party chooses to prepare an appendix of the documents filed in the trial court instead of designating a clerk's transcript, the appellant's appendix or a joint appendix must be served and filed with the appellant's opening brief.

You can get more information about how to serve court papers and proof of service from What Is Proof of Service? (form APP-109-INFO) and on the California Courts Online Self-Help Center at www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp-serving.htm.

You and the other parties can agree (stipulate) to extend the time for filing this brief by up to 30 days (see rule 8.882(b) for requirements for these agreements). You can also ask the court to extend the time for filing this brief if you can show good cause for an extension (see rule 8.811(b) for a list of the factors the court will consider in deciding whether there is good cause for an extension). You can use Application for Extension of Time to File Brief (Limited Civil Case) (form APP-106) to ask the court for an extension.

If you do not file your brief by the deadline set by the appellate division, the court may dismiss your appeal.

16 What happens after I file my brief?

Within 30 days after you serve and file your brief, the respondent may, but is not required to, respond by serving and filing a respondent's brief. If the respondent does not file a brief, the appellant does not automatically win the appeal. The court will decide the appeal on the record, the appellant's brief, and any oral argument by the appellant.

If the respondent files a brief, within 20 days after the respondent's brief was filed, you may, but are not required to, file another brief replying to the respondent's brief. This is called a "reply brief."

17 What happens after all the briefs have been filed?

Once all the briefs have been filed or the time to file them has passed, the appellate division will notify you of the date for oral argument in your case.

18 What is "oral argument"?

"Oral argument" is the parties' chance to explain their arguments to the appellate division judges in person. You do not have to participate in oral argument if you do not want to; you can notify the appellate division that you want to "waive" oral argument. If all parties waive oral argument, the judges will decide your appeal based on the briefs and the record that were submitted. But if one party waives oral argument and another party or parties does not, the appellate division will hold oral argument with the party or parties who did not waive it.

If you do choose to participate in oral argument, you will have up to 10 minutes for your argument unless the appellate division orders otherwise. Remember that the judges will have already read the briefs, so you do not need to read your brief to the judges. It is more helpful to tell the judges what you think is most important in your appeal or ask the judges if they have any questions you could answer.

19 What happens after oral argument?

After oral argument is held (or the date it was scheduled passes if all the parties waive oral argument), the judges of the appellate division will make a decision about your appeal. The appellate division has 90 days after the date scheduled for oral argument to decide the appeal. The clerk of the court will mail you a notice of the appellate division's decision.

20 What should I do if I want to give up my appeal?

If you decide you do not want to continue with your appeal, you must file a written document with the appellate division notifying it that you are giving up (this is called "abandoning") your appeal. You can use Abandonment of Appeal (Limited Civil Case) (form APP-107) to file this notice in a limited civil case. You can get form APP-107 at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.

INFORMATION FOR THE RESPONDENT

This section of this information sheet is written for the respondent—the party responding to an appeal filed by another party. It explains some of the rules and procedures relating to responding to an appeal in a limited civil case. The information may also be helpful to the appellant.

21 I have received a notice of appeal from another party. Do I need to do anything?

You do not have to do anything. The notice of appeal simply tells you that another party is appealing the trial court's decision. However, this would be a good time to get advice from a lawyer, if you want it. You do not have to have a lawyer; if you are an individual (not a corporation, for example), you are allowed to represent yourself in an appeal in a limited civil case. But appeals can be complicated and you will have to follow the same rules that lawyers have to follow.

If you have any questions about the appeal procedures, you should talk to a lawyer. You must hire your own lawyer if you want one. You can get information about finding a lawyer on the California Courts Online Self-Help Center at www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp-lowcosthelp.htm.

22 If the other party appealed, can I appeal too?

Yes. Even if another party has already appealed, you may still appeal the same judgment or order. This is called a "cross-appeal." To cross-appeal, you must serve and file a notice of appeal. You can use Notice of Appeal/Cross-Appeal (Limited Civil Case) (form APP-102) to file this notice in a limited civil case. Please read the information for appellants about filing a notice of appeal, starting on page 2 of this information sheet, if you are considering filing a cross-appeal.

23 Is there a deadline to file a cross-appeal?

Yes. You must serve and file your notice of appeal within either the regular time for filing a notice of appeal (generally 30 days after mailing or service of Notice of Entry of the judgment or a file-stamped copy of the judgment) or within 10 days after the clerk of the trial court mails notice of the first appeal, whichever is later.

24 I have received a notice designating the record on appeal from another party. Do I need to do anything?

You do not have to do anything. A notice designating the record on appeal lets you know what kind of official record the appellant has asked to be sent to the appellate division. Depending on the kind of record chosen by the appellant, however, you may have the option to:

- Add to what is included in the record
- Participate in preparing the record or
- Ask for a copy of the record

Look at the appellant's notice designating the record on appeal to see what kind of record the appellant has chosen and read about that form of the record in the response to question 13 above. Then read below for what your options are when the appellant has chosen that form of the record.

(a) Reporter's transcript

If the appellant is using a reporter's transcript, you have the option of asking for additional proceedings to be included in the reporter's transcript. To do this, within 10 days after the appellant files its notice designating the record on appeal, you must serve and file a notice designating additional proceedings to be included in the reporter's transcript.

Whether or not you ask for additional proceedings to be included in the reporter's transcript, you must generally pay a fee if you want a copy of the reporter's transcript. The trial court clerk or reporter will send you a notice indicating the cost of preparing a copy of the reporter's transcript. If you want a copy of the reporter's transcript, you must deposit this amount (and a fee for the trial court) or one of the substitutes allowed by rule 8.834 with the trial court clerk within 10 days after this notice is sent. (See rule 8.834 for more information about this deposit and the permissible substitutes, such as a waiver of this deposit signed by the court reporter.)

Unlike the fee for preparing a clerk's transcript, the court cannot waive the fee for preparing a reporter's transcript. A special fund, called the Transcript Reimbursement Fund, may be able to help pay for the transcript. You can get information about this fund at w*ww.courtreportersboard.ca.gov/consumers /index.shtml#trf.* The reporter will not prepare a copy of the reporter's transcript for you unless you deposit the cost of the transcript, or one of the permissible substitutes, or your application for payment by the Transcript Reimbursement Fund is approved.

If the appellant elects not to use a reporter's transcript, you may not designate a reporter's transcript without first getting an order from the appellate division.

(b) Agreed statement

If you and the appellant agree to prepare an agreed statement (a summary of the trial court proceedings that is agreed to by the parties), you and the appellant will need to reach an agreement on that statement within 30 days after the appellant files its notice designating the record.

(c) Statement on appeal

If the appellant elects to use a statement on appeal (a summary of the trial court proceedings that is approved by the trial court), the appellant will send you a proposed statement to review. You will have 10 days from the date the appellant sent you this proposed statement to serve and file suggested changes (called "amendments") that you think are needed to make sure that the statement provides an accurate summary of the testimony and other evidence relevant to the issues the appellant indicated the appellant is raising on appeal. "Serve and file" means that you must:

- Have somebody over 18 years old mail, deliver, or electronically send ("serve") the proposed amendments to the appellant in the way required by law. If the proposed amendments are mailed or personally delivered, it must be by someone who is not a party to the case—so not you.
- Make a record that the proposed amendments have been served. This record is called a "proof of service." Proof of Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109) or Proof of Electronic Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109E) can be used to make this record. The proof of service must show who served the proposed amendments, who was served with the proposed amendments, how the proposed amendments were served (by mail, in person, or electronically), and the date the proposed amendments were served.
- File the original proposed amendments and the proof of service with the trial court. You should make a copy of the proposed amendments you are planning to file for your own records before you file them with the court. It is a good idea to bring or mail an extra copy of the proposed amendments to the clerk when you file your original and ask the clerk to stamp this copy to show that the original has been filed.

You can get more information about how to serve court papers and proof of service from What Is Proof of Service? (form APP-109-INFO) and on the California Courts Online Self-Help Center at www.courts.ca.gov /selfhelp-serving.htm.

(d) Clerk's transcript or appendix

Clerk's transcript: If the appellant is using a clerk's transcript, you have the option of asking the clerk to include additional documents in the clerk's transcript.

To do this, within 10 days after the appellant serves its notice designating the record on appeal, you must serve and file a notice designating additional documents to be included in the clerk's transcript. You may use Respondent's Notice Designating Record on Appeal (Limited Civil Case) (form APP-110) for this purpose.

Whether or not you ask for additional documents to be included in the clerk's transcript, you must pay a fee if you want a copy of the clerk's transcript. The trial court clerk will send you a notice indicating the cost for a copy of the clerk's transcript. If you want a copy, you must deposit this amount with the court within 10 days after the clerk's notice was sent.

If you cannot afford to pay this cost, you can ask the court to waive it. To do this, you must fill out and file a Request to Waive Court Fees (form FW-001). You can get form FW-001 at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms. The court will review this application and determine if you are eligible for a fee waiver. The clerk will not prepare a copy of the clerk's transcript for you unless you deposit payment for the cost or obtain a fee waiver.

Appendix: If the appellant is using an appendix, and you and the appellant have not agreed to a joint appendix, you may prepare a separate respondent's appendix. See pages 8-9 for more information about preparing an appendix.

25 What happens after the official record has been prepared?

As soon as the record on appeal is complete, the clerk of the trial court will send it to the appellate division. When the appellate division receives this record, it will send you a notice telling you when you must file your brief in the appellate division.

A brief is a party's written description of the facts in the case, the law that applies, and the party's argument about the issues being appealed. If you are represented by a lawyer, your lawyer will prepare your brief. If you are not represented by a lawyer in your appeal, you will have to prepare your brief yourself. You should read rules 8.882–8.884 of the California Rules of Court, which set out the requirements for preparing, serving, and filing briefs in limited civil appeals, including requirements for the format and length of these briefs. You can get these rules at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/rules.htm.

The appellant serves and files the first brief, called an "appellant's opening brief." You may, but are not required to, respond by serving and filing a respondent's brief within 30 days after the appellant's opening brief is filed. "Serve and file" means that you must:

- Have somebody over 18 years old mail, deliver, or electronically send ("serve") the brief to the other parties in the way required by law. If the brief is mailed or personally delivered, it must be by someone who is not a party to the case—so not you.
- Make a record that the brief has been served. This record is called a "proof of service." Proof of Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109) or Proof of Electronic Service (Appellate Division) (form APP-109E) can be used to make this record. The proof of service must show who served the brief, who was served with the brief, how the brief was served (by mail, in person, or electronically), and the date the brief was served.
- File the original brief and the proof of service with the appellate division. You should make a copy of the brief you are planning to file for your own records before you file it with the court. It is a good idea to bring or mail an extra copy of the brief to the clerk when you file your original and ask the clerk to stamp this copy to show that the original has been filed. You can get more information about how to serve court papers and proof of service from What Is Proof of Service? (form APP-109-INFO) and on the California Courts Online Self-Help Center at www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp-serving.htm.

You and the other parties can agree (stipulate) to extend the time for filing this brief by up to 30 days (see rule 8.882(b) for requirements for these agreements). You can also ask the court to extend the time for filing this brief if you can show good cause for an extension (see rule 8.811(b) for a list of the factors the court will consider in deciding whether there is good cause for an extension). You can use Application for Extension of Time to File Brief (Limited Civil Case) (form APP-106) to ask the court for an extension.

If you do not file a respondent's brief, the appellant does not automatically win the appeal. The court will decide the appeal on the record, the appellant's brief, and any oral argument by the appellant. Remember that an appeal is not a new trial. The appellate division will not consider new evidence, such as the testimony of new witnesses or new exhibits, so do not include any new evidence in your brief.

If you file a respondent's brief, the appellant then has an opportunity to serve and file another brief within 20 days replying to your brief.

26 What happens after all the briefs have been filed?

Once all the briefs have been filed or the time to file them has passed, the court will notify you of the date for oral argument in your case.

"Oral argument" is the parties' chance to explain their arguments to appellate division judges in person. You do not have to participate in oral argument if you do not want to; you can notify the appellate division that you want to "waive" oral argument. If all parties waive oral argument, the judges will decide the appeal based on the briefs and the record that were submitted. But if one party waives oral argument and another party or parties does not, the appellate division will hold oral argument with the party or parties who did not waive it.

If you do choose to participate in oral argument, you will have up to 10 minutes for your argument unless the appellate division orders otherwise. Remember that the judges will have already read the briefs, so you do not need to read your brief to the judges. It is more helpful to tell the judges what you think is most important in the appeal or ask the judges if they have any questions you could answer.

After oral argument is held (or the scheduled date passes if all parties waive argument), the judges of the appellate division will make a decision about the appeal. The appellate division has 90 days after oral argument to decide the appeal. The clerk of the court will mail you a notice of the appellate division's decision.

APP-103 Appellant's Notice Designating Record on Appeal (Limited Civil Case)

Clerk stamps date here when form is filed.

DRAFT

01-24-20

Not approved by the Judicial Council

Instructions

- This form is only for choosing ("designating") the record on appeal in a limited civil case.
- Before you fill out this form, read Information on Appeal Procedures for Limited Civil Cases (form APP-101-INFO) to know your rights and responsibilities. You can get form APP-101-INFO at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.
- This form can be attached to your notice of appeal. If it is not attached to your notice of appeal, you must serve and file this form within 10 days after you file your notice of appeal. If you do not file this form on time, the court may dismiss your appeal.
- Fill out this form and make a copy of the completed form for your records and for each of the other parties.
- Serve a copy of the completed form on each of the other parties and keep proof of this service. You can get information about how to serve court papers and proof of service on the California Courts Online Self-Help Center site at www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp-serving.htm.
- Take or mail the original completed form and proof of service on the other parties to the clerk's office for the same court that issued the judgment or order you are appealing. It is a good idea to take or mail an extra copy to the clerk and ask the clerk to stamp it to show that the original has been filed.

You fill in the name and street address of the court that issued the judgment or order you are appealing:

Superior Court of California, County of

You fill in the number and name of the trial court case in which you are appealing the judgment or order:

Trial Court Case Number:

Trial Court Case Name:

You fill in the appellate division case number (if you know it):

Appellate Division Case Number:

1 Your Information

a. Name of Appellant (the party who is filing this appeal):

Name: _____

b. Appellant's contact information (skip this if the appellant has a lawyer for this appeal):

Street address: _____ (Street) _____ (City) _____ (State) _____ (Zip)

Mailing address (if different): _____ (Street) _____ (City) _____ (State) _____ (Zip)

Phone: _____ E-mail: _____

c. Appellant's lawyer (skip this if the appellant does not have a lawyer for this appeal):

Name: _____ State Bar number: _____

Street address: _____ (Street) _____ (City) _____ (State) _____ (Zip)

Mailing address (if different): _____ (Street) _____ (City) _____ (State) _____ (Zip)

Phone: _____ E-mail: _____

Fax: _____

Trial Court Case Name: _____ Trial Court Case Number:

Information About Your Appeal

(2) On (fill in the date): _____ I/my client filed a notice of appeal in the trial court case identified in the box on page 1 of this form.

Record of Oral Proceedings in the Trial Court

You do not have to provide the appellate division with a record of what was said in the trial court (this is called a record of the "oral proceedings"). But if you want to raise any issue in your appeal that would require the appellate division to consider what was said in the trial court, you will need to provide the appellate division with a record of those oral proceedings. For example, if you are claiming that there was not evidence supporting the judgment, order, or other decision you are appealing, you will need to provide a record of the oral proceedings.

(3) I elect (choose)/My client elects to proceed (check a or b):

a. ☐ WITHOUT a record of the oral proceedings in the trial court (skip item (4); go to item (5)). I understand that if I elect to proceed without providing a record of the oral proceedings, the appellate division will not be able to review any issues I might want to raise about what was said in the trial court during those proceedings or any claim that there was not evidence to support the judgment, order, or decision I am appealing.
(Write initials here): _____

b. ☐ WITH a record of the oral proceedings in the trial court (complete item (4) below). I understand that if I elect (choose) to proceed WITH a record of the oral proceedings in the trial court, I have to choose the record I want to use and take the actions described below to make sure this record is provided to the appellate division. I understand that if I do not take the actions described below and the appellate division does not receive this record, I am not likely to succeed in my appeal. (Write initials here): _____

(4) I want to use the following record of what was said in the trial court proceedings in my case (check and complete only one of the following below—a, b, c, d, or e):

a. ☐ Reporter's Transcript. This option is available only if there was a court reporter in the trial court who made a record of what was said in court. Check with the trial court to see if there was a court reporter in your case before choosing this option. Complete (1) and (2).

(1) Designation of proceedings to be included in reporter's transcript. I request that the following proceedings in the trial court be included in the reporter's transcript. (You must identify each proceeding you want included by its date, the department in which it took place, a description of the proceedings [for example, the examination of jurors, motions before trial, the taking of testimony, or the giving of jury instructions], the name of the court reporter who recorded the proceedings, and whether a certified transcript of the designated proceeding was previously prepared.)

Date	Department	Description	Reporter's Name	Prev. prepared?
(a)				☐ Yes ☐ No
(b)				☐ Yes ☐ No
(c)				☐ Yes ☐ No
(d)				☐ Yes ☐ No
(e)				☐ Yes ☐ No
(f)				☐ Yes ☐ No
(g)				☐ Yes ☐ No

☐ Check here if you need to list other proceedings and attach a separate page or pages listing those proceedings. At the top of each page, write "APP-103, item 4a."

4 a. (continued)

(2) The proceedings designated in (1) ☐ include ☐ do not include all of the testimony in the trial court. If the designated proceedings DO NOT include all of the testimony, state the points that you intend to raise on appeal. (Rule 8.834(a)(2) provides that your appeal will be limited to these points unless, on a motion, the appellate division permits otherwise.)

_____

_____

_____

☐ Check here if you need more space to list other points and attach a separate page or pages listing those points. At the top of each page, write "APP-103, item 4a(2)."

(3) ☐ Certified transcripts. I have attached to this Appellant's Notice Designating Record on Appeal an original certified transcript of all the proceedings I have designated in (1). The transcript complies with the format requirements in rule 8.144 of the California Rules of Court. Under rule 8.834, no payment is due for this transcript (skip the rest of 4 and go to 5).

(4) Payment for reporter's transcript.

(a) ☐ I will pay for the reporter's transcript I have designated in (1). Within 10 days of getting the reporter's estimate of the cost of the transcript, I will:

☐ Deposit an amount equal to the estimated cost of the transcript with the trial court, and a fee of $50 for the superior court to hold this deposit in trust. I understand that if I do not comply with this requirement, my appeal may be dismissed.

☐ File with the trial court a copy of the written waiver of deposit signed by the reporter. I understand that if I do not comply with this, my appeal may be dismissed.

(b) ☐ I am unable to afford the cost of the reporter's transcript I have designated in (1) and am therefore applying to the Transcript Reimbursement Fund to pay for this transcipt. Within 10 days of receipt of the court reporter's estimate of the costs for this transcript, I will file with the trial court a copy of my application to the Court Reporters Board for payment or reimbusement from the Transcript Reimbursement Fund.

(5) Format of reporter's transcript. I request that the reporter provide my copy of the transcript in:

(a) ☐ Paper format only.

(b) ☐ Electronic format only.

(c) ☐ Both paper and electronic format.

OR

b. ☐ Transcript From Official Electronic Recording. This option is available only if an official electronic recording was made of what was said in the trial court. Check with the trial court to see if an official electronic recording was made in your case before choosing this option. Identify each proceeding you want included by its date, the department in which it took place, a description of the proceedings, and if you know it, the name of the electronic recording monitor who recorded the proceedings:

Date	Department	Description	Electronic Monitor's Name
(a)
(b)
(c)

☐ Check here if you need more space to describe any proceeding or to list more proceedings and attach a separate page describing or listing those proceedings. At the top of each page, write "APP-103, item 4b."

4 b. (continued)

Check and complete (1) or (2).

(1) ☐ I will pay the trial court clerk for this transcript myself. I understand that if I do not pay for the transcript, my appeal may be dismissed.

(a) ☐ With this notice designating the record on appeal, I have deposited with the trial court clerk the approximate cost of transcribing the proceedings I designated above, calculated as provided in rule 8.130(b)(1)(B).

(b) ☐ Within 10 days of receipt of the clerks estimate of the cost of the transcript, I will deposit that amount with the trial court clerk.

(2) ☐ I am asking that the transcript be provided at no cost to me because I cannot afford to pay this cost. I have attached (check (a) or (b) and attach the appropriate document):

(a) ☐ An order granting a waiver of the cost under rules 3.50–3.58 and 8.818(d).

(b) ☐ An application for a waiver of court fees and costs under rules 3.50–3.58 and 8.818(d). (Use Request to Waive Court Fees (form FW-001). The court will review this form to decide if you are eligible for a fee waiver.)

OR

c. ☐ Copy of Official Electronic Recording. This option is available only if an official electronic recording was made of what was said in the trial court, the court has a local rule for the appellate division permitting the use of the official electronic recording itself as the record of the proceedings, and all of the parties have agreed (stipulated) that they want to use the recording itself as the record of what was said in the case. Check with the trial court to see if an official electronic recording was made in your case before choosing this option. You must attach a copy of your agreement (stipulation) with the other parties to this notice. Check and complete (1) or (2).

(1) ☐ I will pay the trial court clerk for this copy of the recording myself when I receive the clerk's estimate of the cost of this copy. I understand that if I do not pay for this copy of the recording, it will not be prepared and provided to the appellate division.

(2) ☐ I am asking that a copy of the recording be provided at no cost to me because I cannot afford to pay this cost. I have submitted the following document with this notice designating the record (check (a) or (b) and submit the appropriate document):

(a) ☐ An order granting a waiver of the cost under rules 3.50–3.58 and 8.818(d).

(b) ☐ An application for a waiver of court fees and costs under rules 3.50–3.58 and 8.818(d). (Use Request to Waive Court Fees (form FW-001). The court will review this form to decide if you are eligible for a fee waiver.)

OR

d. ☐ Agreed Statement. An agreed statement is a summary of the trial court proceedings agreed to by the parties. See form APP-101-INFO for information about preparing an agreed statement. Check (1) or (2).

(1) ☐ I have attached an agreed statement to this notice.

(2) ☐ All the parties have agreed in writing (stipulated) to try to agree on a statement (you must attach a copy of this agreement (stipulation) to this notice). I understand that, within 30 days after I file this notice, I must file either the agreed statement or a notice indicating the parties were unable to agree on a statement and a new notice designating the record on appeal, and if I do not, the court may dismiss my appeal.

4 (continued)

OR

e. ☐ Statement on Appeal. A statement on appeal is a summary of the trial court proceedings approved by the trial court. See form APP-101-INFO for information about preparing a proposed statement. Check (1) or (2).

(1) ☐ I have attached my proposed statement on appeal to this notice. (If you are not represented by a lawyer in this appeal, you must use Proposed Statement on Appeal (Limited Civil Case) (form APP-104) to prepare and file this proposed statement. You can get a copy of form APP-104 at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.htm.)

(2) ☐ I have NOT attached my proposed statement on appeal to this notice. I understand that I must serve and file this proposed statement in the trial court within 20 days of the date I file this notice and that if I do not file the proposed statement on time, the court may dismiss my appeal.

Record of the Documents Filed in the Trial Court

5 I elect (choose)/My client elects to use the following record of the documents filed in the trial court (check a, b, or c and fill in any required information):

a. ☐ Clerk's Transcript. (Fill out (1)–(4).) Note that, if the appellate division has adopted a local rule permitting this, the clerk may prepare and send the original court file to the appellate division instead of a clerk's transcript.

(1) Required documents. The clerk will automatically include the following items in the clerk's transcript, but you must provide the date each document was filed or, if that is not available, the date the document was signed.

Document Title and Description	Date of Filing
(a) Notice of appeal
(b) Notice designating record on appeal (this document)
(c) Judgment or order appealed from
(d) Notice of entry of judgment (if any)
(e) Notice of intention to move for new trial or motion to vacate the judgment, for judgment notwithstanding the verdict, or for reconsideration of an appealed order (if any)
(f) Ruling on any item included under (e)
(g) Register of actions or docket

5 a. (continued)

(2) Additional documents. If you want any documents in addition to the required documents listed in (1) above to be included in the clerk's transcript, you must identify those documents here.

☐ I request that the clerk include in the transcript the following documents that were filed in the trial court. (Identify each document you want included by its title and provide the date it was filed or, if that is not available, the date the document was signed.)

Document Title and Description	Date of Filing
(a)
(b)
(c)
(d)
(e)

☐ Check here if you need to list other documents and attach a separate page or pages listing those documents. At the top of each page, write "APP-103, item 5a(2)."

(3) Exhibits.

☐ I request that the clerk include in the transcript the following exhibits that were admitted in evidence, refused, or lodged in the trial court. (For each exhibit, give the exhibit number (such as Plaintiff's #1 or Defendant's A) and a brief description of the exhibit, and indicate whether or not the court admitted the exhibit into evidence. If the trial court has returned a designated exhibit to a party, the party who has that exhibit must deliver it to the trial court clerk as soon as possible.)

Exhibit Number	Description	Admitted Into Evidence
		☐ Yes ☐ No
		☐ Yes ☐ No
		☐ Yes ☐ No
		☐ Yes ☐ No
		☐ Yes ☐ No

☐ Check here if you need to list other exhibits and attach a separate page or pages listing those exhibits. At the top of each page, write "APP-103, item 5a(3)."

5 a. (continued)

(4) Payment for clerk's transcript. (Check a or b.)

(a) ☐ I will pay the trial court clerk for this transcript myself when I receive the clerk's estimate of the costs of the transcript. I understand that if I do not pay for the transcript, it will not be prepared and provided to the appellate division.

(b) ☐ I am asking that the clerk's transcript be provided at no cost to me because I cannot afford to pay this cost. I have submitted the following document with this notice designating the record (check (i) or (ii) and submit the checked document):

(i) ☐ An order granting a waiver of the cost under rules 3.50–3.58 and 8.818(d).

(ii) ☐ An application for a waiver of court fees and costs under rules 3.50–3.58 and 8.818(d). (Use Request to Waive Court Fees (form FW-001). The court will review this form to decide if you are eligible for a fee waiver.)

OR

b. ☐ An appendix under rule 8.845.

OR

c. ☐ Agreed statement. (This option is only available if you have chosen to use an agreed statement as the record of the oral proceedings under item 4 above and you attach to your agreed statement copies of all the documents that are required to be included in the clerk's transcript. These documents are listed in 5a(1) above and in rule 8.832 of the California Rules of Court.)

Date: _____

_____ ▶ _____

Type or print your name Signature of appellant or attorney

APP-111

Respondent's Notice Electing to Use an Appendix (Limited Civil Case)

Clerk stamps date here when form is filed.

DRAFT

01-28-2020

Not approved by the Judicial Council

Instructions

- This form is only for choosing ("electing") to use an appendix as the record of the documents filed in the trial court on appeal in a limited civil case.
- Before you fill out this form, read Information on Appeal Procedures for Limited Civil Cases (form APP-101-INFO) to know your rights and responsibilities. You can get form APP-101-INFO at any courthouse or county law library or online at www.courts.ca.gov/forms.
- You must serve and file this form no later than 10 days after the notice of appeal is filed.
- Fill out this form and make a copy of the completed form for your records and for each of the other parties.
- Serve a copy of the completed form on each of the other parties and keep proof of this service. You can get information about how to serve court papers and proof of service from What Is Proof of Service? (form APP-109-INFO) or on the California Courts Online Self-Help Center at www.courts.ca.gov/selfhelp-serving.htm.
- Take or mail the original completed form and proof of service on the other parties to the clerk's office for the same court that issued the judgment or order that is being appealed. It is a good idea to take or mail an extra copy to the clerk and ask the clerk to stamp it to show that the original has been filed.

You fill in the name and street address of the court that issued the judgment or order you are appealing:

Superior Court of California, County of

You fill in the number and name of the trial court case in which you are appealing the judgment or order:

Trial Court Case Number:

Trial Court Case Name:

You fill in the appellate division case number (if you know it):

Appellate Division Case Number:

1 Your Information

a. Name of respondent (the party who is responding to an appeal filed by another party):

Name: _____

b. Respondent's contact information (skip this if the respondent has a lawyer for this appeal):

Street address: _____ (Street) _____ (City) _____ (State) _____ (Zip)

Mailing address (if different): _____ (Street) _____ (City) _____ (State) _____ (Zip)

Phone: _____ E-mail: _____

c. Respondent's lawyer (skip this if the respondent does not have a lawyer for this appeal):

Name: _____ State Bar number: _____

Street address: _____ (Street) _____ (City) _____ (State) _____ (Zip)

Mailing address (if different): _____ (Street) _____ (City) _____ (State) _____ (Zip)

Phone: _____ E-mail: _____

Fax: _____

Trial Court Case Name: _____

Trial Court Case Number:

Information About the Appeal

2 On (fill in the date): _____ another party filed a notice of appeal in the trial court case identified in the box on page 1 of this form.

3 On (fill in the date): _____ the appellant filed an appellant's notice designating the record on appeal.

Record of the Documents Filed in the Trial Court

4 The appellant has not been granted a waiver of the fees for a clerk's transcript. I elect under rule 8.845(a) to use an appendix instead of a clerk's transcript under rule 8.832 as the record of the documents filed in the trial court.

Date: _____

_____
Type or print your name

_____
Signature of respondent or attorney

JUDICIAL COUNCIL OF CALIFORNIA

455 Golden Gate Avenue . San Francisco, California 94102-3688
www.courts.ca.gov/policyadmin-invitationstocomment.htm

INVITATION TO COMMENT

SPR20-32

Title
Appellate Procedure: Emergency Orders to Toll and Extend Time

Proposed Rules, Forms, Standards, or Statutes
Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rule 8.66

Proposed by
Hon. Marsha G. Slough, Chair, Executive and Planning Committee
Hon. David M. Rubin, Chair, Judicial Branch Budget Committee and Litigation Management Committee
Hon. Kyle S. Brodie, Chair, Judicial Council Technology Committee
Hon. Marla O. Anderson, Chair, Legislation Committee
Hon. Harry E. Hull, Jr., Chair, Rules Committee

Action Requested
Review and submit comments by June 9, 2020

Proposed Effective Date
Rule is effective April 4, 2020, and is circulating for comment post-amendment

Contact
Christy Simons, 415-865-7694
christy.simons@jud.ca.gov

Executive Summary and Origin

To assist the appellate courts in continuing to operate during the COVID-19 pandemic, the Judicial Council recently amended rule 8.66 of the California Rules of Court, the appellate rule governing extensions of time because of a public emergency, to provide for tolling in addition to extending time. The amendments also allow the Chair of the Judicial Council to order tolling or extensions of time for up to 30 days rather than 14 days, and clarify and simplify various provisions of the rule.

The rule was amended prior to circulation because of the courts' urgent need for these changes to take effect immediately. The chairs of the Judicial Council's six internal committees are now circulating the rule and seeking comments following amendment of the rule. The internal committee chairs will recommend further amendments, based on the comments, if appropriate.

The Proposal

The COVID-19 pandemic is having unprecedented impacts on courts throughout the state, including the appellate courts. Since the middle of March 2020, under former rule 8.66 and as authorized by the Chair of the Judicial Council, all six Courts of Appeal and the Supreme Court have issued orders extending for 30 days the time periods specified in the appellate rules. In implementing these orders, however, the courts became aware of shortcomings in the rule. In particular, the orders authorized by the former rule provided for extensions of time, but not for tolling. Tolling stops or suspends the running of time; when the tolling period ends, the time starts running again. By contrast, extending time adds days to the end of a time period. Tolling gives courts flexibility and can be easier to apply.

In addition to adding tolling, the amendments to subdivision (a) added a "public health crisis" as a type of public emergency that could necessitate an order under the rule, lengthened the time in (a)(1) that the Chair may order tolling or an extension from 14 days to 30 days to be consistent with the amount of time in (a)(2) that the Chair may authorize a court to toll or extend time, and simplified language in (a)(1) and (a)(2).

The amendments to subdivision (b) added language regarding tolling, required in (b)(1) that the length of any tolling or extension ordered by the Chair under (a)(1) must be specified in the order, and made minor wording changes in (b)(1) and (b)(2).

The amendments to subdivision (c) updated the language from extending the orders under the rule to renewing the orders, and added provisions that the Chair may renew an order with or without a request, an order may be renewed prior to its expiration, and orders under both (a)(1) and (a)(2) may be renewed for up to 30 days per renewal. In addition, the former rule appeared to authorize only one extension of an order. The amendments clarified that an order may be renewed more than once, "for additional periods not to exceed 30 days per renewal." As in subdivision (a), the amendments removed the distinction between the length of time the Chair may extend an order (14 days) and the length of time the Chair may authorize the court to extend time (30 days), to provide for renewal for up to 30 days for both types.

Finally, the amendments added two new advisory committee comments regarding tolling. The first explains the concept of tolling and provides a case citation. The second clarifies that the tolling and extension of time authorized under this rule apply to all rules of court that govern finality in the Supreme Court and the Courts of Appeal.

Alternatives Considered

The internal committee chairs considered taking no action, but rejected this alternative in light of the public emergency confronting the courts and litigants.

The internal committee chairs also considered listing the specific rules governing finality in the second new advisory committee comment, rather than referring to them collectively. The committee rejected this option because a list could be, or could become, incomplete. In addition, rule numbers may change, and updating cross-references can be cumbersome.

Fiscal and Operational Impacts

It is anticipated that the proposal will facilitate appellate court operations by expanding the types of relief that can be ordered, clarifying that additional periods of relief, if necessary, are authorized, and making other changes to improve the working of the rule. Operational impacts will include the time to inform judicial officers and court staff regarding the amendments, and could include changes to case management systems. It is unclear what fiscal impact the proposal may have on the appellate courts.

Attachments and Links

1. Cal. Rules of Court, rule 8.66, at pages 4–5

Title 8. Appellate Rules

Division 1. Rules Relating to the Supreme Court and Courts of Appeal

Chapter 1. General Provisions

Article 4. Applications and Motions; Extending and Shortening Time

Rule 8.66. ~~Extending~~ Tolling or extending time because of public emergency

(a) Emergency tolling or extensions of time

If made necessary by the occurrence or danger of an earthquake, fire, public health crisis, or other public emergency, or by the destruction of or danger to a building housing a reviewing court, the Chair of the Judicial Council, notwithstanding any other rule in this title, may:

(1) ~~Extend~~ Toll for up to 30 days or extend by no more than ~~14 additional~~ 30 days ~~the time to do any act required or permitted under~~ any time periods specified by these rules; or

(2) Authorize specified courts to toll for up to 30 days or extend by no more than 30 ~~additional~~ days ~~the time to do any act required or permitted under~~ any time periods specified by these rules.

(b) Applicability of order

(1) An order under (a)(1) must specify the length of the tolling or extension and whether ~~it~~ the order applies throughout the state, only to specified courts, or only to courts or attorneys in specified geographic areas, or applies in some other manner.

(2) An order ~~of the Chair of the Judicial Council~~ under (a)(2) must specify the length of the authorized tolling or extension.

(c) ~~Additional extensions~~Renewed orders

If made necessary by the nature or extent of the public emergency, with or without a request, the Chair of the Judicial Council may ~~extend or~~ renew an order issued under ~~(a)~~ this rule prior to its expiration. An order may be renewed for ~~an~~ additional periods ~~of:~~ not to exceed 30 days per renewal.

~~(1) No more than 14 days for an order under (a)(1); or~~

~~(2) No more than 30 days for an order under (a)(2).~~

Advisory Committee Comment

The Chief Justice of California is the Chair of the Judicial Council (see rule 10.2).

Any tolling ordered under this rule is excluded from the time period specified by the rules. (See Woods v. Young (1991) 53 Cal.3d 315, 326, fn. 3 ["Tolling may be analogized to a clock that is stopped and then restarted. Whatever period of time that remained when the clock is stopped is available when the clock is restarted, that is, when the tolling period has ended."].)

The tolling and extension of time authorized under this rule include and apply to all rules of court that govern finality in both the Supreme Court and the Courts of Appeal.

Item number: 06

RUPRO ACTION REQUEST FORM

RUPRO action requested: Circulate for comment (January 1 cycle)

RUPRO Meeting: April 9, 2020

Title of proposal (include amend/revise/adopt/approve + form/rule numbers):
Appellate Procedure: Consent to Electronic Service

Committee or other entity submitting the proposal:
Appellate Advisory Committee

Staff contact (name, phone and e-mail): Eric Long, 415-865-7691, eric.long@jud.ca.gov

Identify project(s) on the committee's annual agenda that is the basis for this item:
Approved by RUPRO: October 28, 2019
Project description from annual agenda: Amend rules 8.72, 8.74, and 8.78 to conform to section 1010.6 of the Code of Civil Procedure, which was recently amended and provides that the act of electronic filing does not constitute consent to electronic service. Subcommittee: Rules.

If requesting July 1 or out of cycle, explain:

Additional Information: (To facilitate RUPRO's review of your proposal, please include any relevant information not contained in the attached summary.)

JUDICIAL COUNCIL OF CALIFORNIA

455 Golden Gate Avenue • San Francisco, California 94102-3688
www.courts.ca.gov/policyadmin-invitationstocomment.htm

INVITATION TO COMMENT

SPR20-03

Title
Appellate Procedure: Consent to Electronic Service

Proposed Rules, Forms, Standards, or Statutes
Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rule 8.25, 8.72, and 8.78; revise form APP-009-INFO

Proposed by
Appellate Advisory Committee
Hon. Louis R. Mauro, Chair

Action Requested
Review and submit comments by June 9, 2020

Proposed Effective Date
January 1, 2021

Contact
Eric Long, Attorney, 415-865-7691
eric.long@jud.ca.gov

Executive Summary and Origin

The Appellate Advisory Committee proposes amending rules and revising a form to clarify the appellate procedures for electronic service. The proposal would amend rules 8.25, 8.72, and 8.78 of the California Rules of Court and revise form APP-009-INFO. The purpose of the proposed amendments and revisions is to clarify the procedures for electronic service in the Supreme Court and the Courts of Appeal. The proposal originated from the committee's awareness of a change in the law regarding consent to electronic service.

Background

Effective January 1, 2018, the Legislature amended Code of Civil Procedure section 1010.6 to require all persons to provide express consent to electronic service in each specific action in the trial courts. The trial court and appellate court rules had allowed the act of electronically filing alone to evidence consent to receive electronic service, but the 2018 amendments to section 1010.6 eliminated this option for trial courts. As amended, subdivision (a)(2)(A)(ii) states:

> For cases filed on or after January 1, 2019, if a document may be served by mail, express mail, overnight delivery, or facsimile transmission, electronic service of the document is not authorized unless a party or other person has expressly consented to receive electronic service in that specific action or the court has ordered electronic service on a represented party or other represented person under subdivision (c) or (d). Express consent to electronic service may be accomplished either by (I) serving a notice on all the parties and filing the notice > with the court, or (II) manifesting affirmative consent through electronic means with the court or the court's electronic filing service provider, and concurrently providing the party's electronic address with that consent for the purpose of receiving electronic service. The act of electronic filing shall not be construed as express consent.

(Code Civ. Proc., § 1010.6(a)(2)(A)(ii).) Subdivision (e) directs the Judicial Council to "adopt uniform rules for electronic filing and service of documents in the trial courts of the state, which shall include statewide policies on vendor contracts, privacy, and access to public records, and rules relating to the integrity of electronic service." (§ 1010.6(e) (emphasis added).) There are no provisions in section 1010.6 that expressly speak to appellate court proceedings or to the adoption of rules for electronic service in the appellate courts.

Electronic filing and electronic service in the appellate courts and the trial courts are in different stages of implementation. The Judicial Council first adopted rules for e-filing and e-service in the appellate courts in 2010 as a pilot project in the Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District, and then in 2012 for all appellate courts. Last year, the Appellate Advisory Committee proposed instituting mandatory e-filing with statewide formatting requirements (subject to certain exceptions), effective January 1, 2020, which the council approved. Consistent with mandatory e-filing in the appellate courts, the appellate rules treat electronic filing as agreement to receive e-service unless a party opts out of e-service. (Cal. Rules of Court, rule 8.78(a)(2)(B).) E-filing in the trial courts, on the other hand, was authorized in 2012, when the Legislature enacted Assembly Bill 2073 (Stats. 2012, ch. 320). A pilot project on mandatory e-filing in the Superior Court of Orange County from 2013 was a success,[1] and as of 2019, 29 of the 58 trial courts provide e-filing and e-service to the public.[2] Although the trial courts are making commendable progress in implementing e-filing, it nevertheless remains true that while the appellate courts uniformly rely on e-filing and service, only half of the trial courts have standardized the practice.

The Proposal

It appears that the 2018 amendment to Code of Civil Procedure section 1010.6 only applies to the trial courts, and not to the appellate courts. Because section 1010.6 and its legislative history are silent about e-service in the appellate courts, the procedures in the Supreme Court and the Courts of Appeal do not need to change. The committee therefore proposes amending rules 8.25, 8.72, and 8.78 and revising form APP-009-INFO to reflect that express consent to electronic service is not required from every party in each specific appellate proceeding.

---

[1] See Judicial Council of Cal., Report on the Superior Court of Orange County's Mandatory E-Filing Pilot Project (Sept. 30, 2014), www.courts.ca.gov/documents/lr-SC-of-Orange-e-file-pilot-proj.pdf.

[2] See Judicial Council of Cal., Report to the Legislature: State Trial Court Electronic Filing and Document Service Accessibility Compliance (Dec. 23, 2019), https://jcc.legistar.com/View.ashx?M=F&ID=7977274&GUID=AE037AC0-DC91-496B-83D9-CDCDE8D0674A.

This proposal would clarify that the appellate rules authorize electronic service if a party registers with the court's electronic filing service provider and provides an electronic service address, unless the party opts out.

Proposed rule 8.25 would not change, except to remove references to methods of service permitted by the Code of Civil Procedure. APP-009-INFO form would be revised in the same way. The deletions are intended to eliminate ambiguity about whether section 1010.6 applies more broadly in the appellate courts, and to acknowledge that e-service is a permissible method of service in the appellate courts. New language would be added to the form to note that section 1010.6(a)(2)(A)(ii) addresses electronic service in the trial courts, and rule 8.78 addresses electronic service in the Courts of Appeal.

Proposed rule 8.78(a)(2)(B) would be clarified to reflect existing appellate practice. Although the rule has long provided that the act of electronically filing any document with the court is deemed to show a party's agreement to electronic service, the appellate practice has been to rely on a party's registration with the court's electronic filing service provider (EFSP) and concurrent provision of an email address—prerequisites to electronically filing any document with the court—as a basis for showing agreement to electronic service. This proposed change maintains the status quo with respect to electronic filing and electronic service in the Supreme Court and the Courts of Appeal and more accurately reflects how parties authorize electronic service in these courts.

Proposed rule 8.78(g) would exempt courts from the electronic service rules applicable to parties, reflecting that courts send notifications and transmit documents rather than serving documents on parties. No changes are proposed with respect to electronic service on courts.

New advisory committee comments to rules 8.25 and 8.78 acknowledge the difference in procedures for electronic service in the trial courts and the appellate courts by noting that the type of consent required in the trial courts by section 1010.6 is not required of parties in the Supreme Court and the Courts of Appeal.

Proposed rule 8.72, which presently requires electronic filers to furnish an email address at which they agree to accept service, would be amended to acknowledge that furnishing an email address does not necessarily mean a party has authorized e-service because a party may opt out of e-service under rule 8.78(a)(2)(B).

Alternatives Considered

The committee considered proposing rules that would implement section 1010.6's express consent requirements in the appellate courts. The committee concluded that such a significant change in procedure was not supported for at least three reasons. First, there could be significant costs associated with directing the court's EFSPs to develop an opt-in option at case initiation. Second, case filings might be delayed due to unexpected service requirements where the parties have been relying on e-service in the appellate courts for several years. Third, the Legislature did not address the appellate courts when it amended section 1010.6. The committee was not independently aware of any compelling reasons to adopt the trial court's practices at this time, so the committee proposes clarifying and maintaining existing appellate procedures for electronic service.

The committee also considered leaving the appellate rules and form unchanged at this time. Considering the trial court's e-service procedures, however, the committee was concerned that preexisting references to the Code of Civil Procedure in the appellate rules and form could cause confusion for practitioners and litigants. The committee also recognized that the appellate rules did not fully reflect current practice and wanted the rules to be clearer about when electronic service is permissible in the Supreme Court and the Courts of Appeal.

Fiscal and Operational Impacts

Implementation of this proposal should not have significant fiscal or operational impacts. This proposal is intended to create efficiencies and to assist parties and courts in understanding the existing appellate procedures. Unlike the alternative considered, which could burden the courts and litigants with additional service and filing requirements, no costs of implementation are anticipated other than informing courts and litigants of the new rule amendments and form revisions.

Request for Specific Comments

In addition to comments on the proposal as a whole, the advisory committee is interested in comments on the following:

- Does the proposal appropriately address the stated purpose?

The advisory committee also seeks comments from courts on the following cost and implementation matters:

- Would the proposal provide cost savings? If so, please quantify.
- What would the implementation requirements be for courts—for example, training staff (please identify position and expected hours of training), revising processes and procedures (please describe), changing docket codes in case management systems, or modifying case management systems?
- Would three months from Judicial Council approval of this proposal until its effective date provide sufficient time for implementation?
- How well would this proposal work in courts of different sizes?

Attachments and Links

1. Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.25, 8.77, and 8.78, at pages 6–8
2. Form APP-009-INFO, at pages 9–11

3. Link A: Code Civ. Proc., § 1010.6, https://leginfo.legislature.ca.gov/faces/codes_displaySection.xhtml?sectionNum=1010.6.&lawCode=CCP

Rules 8.25, 8.72, and 8.78 of the California Rules of Court would be amended, effective January 1, 2021, to read:

Rule 8.25. Service, filing, and filing fees

(a) Service

(1) Before filing any document, a party must serve~~, by any method permitted by the Code of Civil Procedure,~~ one copy of the document on the attorney for each party separately represented, on each unrepresented party, and on any other person or entity when required by statute or rule.

(2) The party must attach to the document presented for filing a proof of service showing service on each person or entity required to be served under (1). The proof must name each party represented by each attorney served.

(b)–(c) * * *

Advisory Committee Comment

Subdivision (a). ~~Subdivision (a)(1) requires service "by any method permitted by the Code of Civil Procedure." The reference is to the several permissible methods of service provided in~~ Code of Civil Procedure sections 1010.6– ~~1020~~ 1013a describe generally permissible methods of service. Information Sheet for Proof of Service (Court of Appeal) (form APP-009-INFO) provides additional information about how to serve documents and how to provide proof of service. Note that in the Supreme Court and the Courts of Appeal, registration with the court's electronic filing servicer provider is deemed to show agreement to accept service electronically at the email address provided, unless a party affirmatively opts out of electronic service under rule 8.78(a)(2)(B). This procedure differs from the procedure for electronic service in the trial courts (including the appellate division of the superior court). See rules 2.250–2.261.

* * *

Rule 8.72. Responsibilities of court and electronic filer

(a) * * *

(b) Responsibilities of electronic filer

Each electronic filer must:

(1) Take all reasonable steps to ensure that the filing does not contain computer code, including viruses, that might be harmful to the court's electronic filing system and to other users of that system;

(2) Furnish one or more electronic service addresses, in the manner specified by the court, at which the electronic filer agrees to accept ~~service~~ receipt and filing confirmations under rule 8.77 and, if applicable, at which the electronic filer agrees to receive electronic service; and

(3) Immediately provide the court and all parties with any change to the electronic filer's electronic service address.

Rule 8.78. Electronic service

(a) Authorization for electronic service; exceptions

(1) A document may be electronically served under these rules:

(A) If electronic service is provided for by law or court order; or

(B) If the recipient agrees to accept electronic services as provided by these rules and the document is otherwise authorized to be served by mail, express mail, overnight delivery, or fax transmission.

(2) A party indicates that the party agrees to accept electronic service by:

(A) Serving a notice on all parties that the party accepts electronic service and filing the notice with the court. The notice must include the electronic service address at which the party agrees to accept service; or

(B) ~~Electronically filing any document with the court~~ Registering with the court's electronic filing service provider and providing the party's electronic service address. ~~The act of electronic filing shall be~~ Registration with the court's electronic filing service provider is deemed to show that the party agrees to accept service at the electronic service address that the party has ~~furnished to the court under rule 8.72(b)(2)~~ provided, unless the party serves a notice on all parties and files the notice with the court that the party does not accept electronic service and chooses instead to be served paper copies at an address specified in the notice.

(3) A document may be electronically served on a nonparty if the nonparty consents to electronic service or electronic service is otherwise provided for by law or court order. All provisions of this rule that apply or relate to a party also apply to any nonparty who has agreed to or is otherwise required by law or court order to accept electronic service or to electronically serve documents.

(b)–(f) * * *

(g) Electronic ~~service~~ delivery by court and electronic service ~~or~~ on court

(1) The court may ~~electronically serve~~ deliver any notice, order, opinion, or other document issued by the court ~~in the same manner that parties may serve documents~~ by electronic ~~service~~ means.

(2) * * *

Advisory Committee Comment

In the Supreme Court and the Courts of Appeal, registration with the court's electronic filing servicer provider is deemed to show agreement to accept service electronically at the email address provided, unless a party affirmatively opts out of electronic service under rule 8.78(a)(2)(B). This procedure differs from the procedure for electronic service in the trial courts (including the appellate division of the superior court). See rules 2.250–2.261.

INFORMATION SHEET FOR PROOF OF SERVICE
(COURT OF APPEAL)

GENERAL INFORMATION ABOUT SERVICE AND PROOF OF SERVICE

This information sheet provides instructions for completing Proof of Service (Court of Appeal) (form APP-009) or Proof of Electronic Service (Court of Appeal) (form APP-009E). This information sheet is not part of the proof of service and does not need to be copied, served, or filed.

Rule 8.25 of the California Rules of Court provides that before filing any document in court in a case in the Court of Appeal, a party must serve, one copy of the document on the attorney for each party separately represented, on each unrepresented party, and on any other person or entity when required by statute or rule. Other rules specifically require that certain documents be served, including the notice of appeal and notice designating the record on appeal in civil appeals and briefs in both civil and criminal appeals.

To "serve" a document on a person means to have that document delivered to the person. The general requirements concerning service are set out in Code of Civil Procedure sections 1010.6–1013a. Section 1010.6(a)(2)(ii) addresses electronic service in the trial courts. Rule 8.78 of the California Rules of Court addresses electronic service in the Courts of Appeal. There are three main ways to serve documents: (1) by mail, (2) by personal delivery, or (3) by electronic service. Regardless of what method of service is used, the Code of Civil Procedure provides that a document in a court case can only be served by a person who is over 18 years of age. Service by mail or personal delivery must be by someone who is not a party in the case; electronic service may be performed directly by a party. Electronic service may be by (1) electronic transmission, transmitting a document to the electronic service address of a person; or by (2) electronic notification, sending a message to the electronic service address specifying the exact name of the document served and providing a hyperlink at which the served document may be viewed and downloaded.

If you are a party to the case and wish to serve documents by mail or personal delivery, you must therefore have someone else who is over 18 and who is not a party to the case serve any documents in your case. You will need to give the person doing the serving (the server) the names and addresses of all those who must be served. You will also need to give the server one copy of each document that needs to be served for each person or entity that is being served.

If you are serving documents electronically, you can do this yourself or have another person over 18 do it for you. The person doing the serving (the server) will need the names and electronic service addresses of all those who must be served, and the document to be served in a form that allows it to be electronically transmitted or made available by hyperlink.

Rule 8.25 also requires the party filing a document in the court to attach to the document presented for filing a proof of service showing the required service. Proof of Service (Court of Appeal) (form APP-009) or Proof of Electronic Service (Court of Appeal) (form APP-009E) may be used to provide this required proof of service in any proceeding in the Court of Appeal. The server should follow the instructions below for completing the Proof of Service (Court of Appeal) (form APP-009) or Proof of Electronic Service (Court of Appeal) (form APP-009E). If another person is serving the documents for you—as is required if the document will be served by mail or personal delivery—tell the server to give you the original form when it is completed. You will need to attach this original proof of service to the document you are filing.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR THE SERVER (THE PERSON WHO IS SERVING THE DOCUMENTS) IF SERVING BY MAIL OR PERSONAL DELIVERY

If you are serving a document for a party in a court case, it is your responsibility to prepare the proof of service. You can use Proof of Service (Court of Appeal) (form APP-009) to prepare this proof of service in any case in the Court of Appeal. The proof of service should be printed or typed. If you have internet access, a fillable version of form APP-009 is available at www.courts.ca.gov/forms. You can fill out most of the form before you serve the document, but you should sign and date the form only after you have finished serving the document.

Complete the top section of Proof of Service (Court of Appeal) (form APP-009) as follows:

1. First box, left side: Check whether the document is being served by mail or by personal delivery.
2. Third box, left side: Print the name of the case in which the document is being filed, the Court of Appeal case number, and the superior court case number. Use the same case name and numbers as are on the top of the document that you are serving.
3. Box, top of form, right side: Leave this box blank for the court's use.

Complete items 1–3 as follows:

1. You are stating that you are over the age of 18 and that you are not a party to this action.
2. Check one of the boxes and provide your home or business address.

Form Approved for Optional Use
Judicial Council of California
APP-009-INFO [Rev. January 1, 2021]

3. Fill in the name of the document that you are serving.

   a. If you are serving the document by mail, check the box in item 3a and BEFORE YOU SEAL AND MAIL THE ENVELOPE, fill in the following information:

      (1) Check the box in item 3a(1)(a) if you will personally deposit the document with the U.S. Postal Service such as at a U.S. Postal Service Office or U.S. Postal Service mailbox. Check the box in item 3a(1)(b) if you will put the document in the mail at your place of business.

      (2) Provide the date the documents are being mailed.

      (3) Provide the name and address of each person to whom you are mailing the document. If you need more space to list additional names and addresses, check the box after item (3)(c) and attach a page listing them. At the top of the page, write "APP-009, Item 3a."

      (4) You are stating that you live or work in the county in which the document is being mailed. Provide the city and state from which the document is being mailed.

      Once you have finished filling out these parts of the form, make one copy of Proof of Service (Court of Appeal) (form APP-009) with this information filled in for each person you are serving by mail and put this copy in the envelope with the document you are serving. Seal the envelope and mail the document as you have indicated on the proof of service.

   b. If you personally delivered the document, check the box in item 3b. For a party represented by an attorney, delivery needs to be made by giving the document directly to the party's attorney or by leaving the document in an envelope or package clearly labeled to identify the attorney being served with a receptionist at the attorney's office or an individual in charge of the office. For a party who is not represented by an attorney, delivery needs to be made by giving the document directly to the party or by leaving the document at the party's residence with some person not less than 18 years of age between the hours of eight in the morning and six in the evening. Under item 3b, for each person to whom you delivered the document, you need to provide:

      (1) The name of the person;

      (2) The address at which you delivered the document;

      (3) The date on which you delivered the document; and

      (4) The time at which you delivered the document.

      If you need more space to list additional names, addresses, and delivery dates and times, check the box under item 3b and attach a page listing this information. At the top of the page, write "APP-009, Item 3b."

At the bottom of the form, print your name, sign the form, and fill in the date on which you signed the form. By signing, you are stating under penalty of perjury that all the information you have provided on Proof of Service (Court of Appeal) is true and correct.

Give the original completed Proof of Service to the party for whom you served the document.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR THE SERVER (THE PERSON WHO IS SERVING THE DOCUMENTS) IF SERVING ELECTRONICALLY

If you are serving a document for a party in a court case, it is your responsibility to prepare the proof of service. If you are serving a document electronically, you can use Proof of Electronic Service (Court of Appeal) (form APP-009E) to prepare this proof of service in any case in the Court of Appeal. The proof of service should be printed or typed. A fillable version of form APP-009E is available at www.courts.ca.gov/forms. You can fill out most of the form before you serve the document, but you should sign and date the form only after you have finished serving the document.

Complete the top section of Proof of Electronic Service (Court of Appeal) (form APP-009E) as follows:

1. Third box, left side: Print the name of the case in which the document is being filed, the Court of Appeal case number, and the superior court case number. Use the same case name and numbers as are on the top of the document that you are serving.
2. Box, top of form, right side: Leave this box blank for the court's use.

Complete items 1–4 as follows:

1. You are stating that you are over the age of 18.
2. a. Check one of the boxes and provide your home or business address.

   b. Provide your electronic service address. This is the address at which you have agreed to accept electronic service.

Continued on the reverse

3. Fill in the names of the documents that you are serving.

4. Fill in the information for the person to whom you are sending the document. If you are serving more than one person, check the box after item 4c and attach a page listing the persons served, with the electronic service address and date and time of service for each person served. At the top of the page, write "APP-009E, Item 4."

   a. Provide the name of the person being served. If the person being served is an attorney, also fill in the name or names of the parties represented.

   b. Provide the electronic service address of the person to whom you are sending the document.

   c. Provide the date on which you transmitted the document.

   After you have filled in the information in items 1–4, create an electronic copy of the Proof of Electronic Service (Court of Appeal) (form APP-009E). Transmit the filled-in form with the document you are serving to each person served.

   At the bottom of the form, print your name, sign the form, and fill in the date on which you signed the form. By signing, you are stating under penalty of perjury that all the information you have provided on Proof of Electronic Service (Court of Appeal) is true and correct.

   If you are not the party for whom the documents are served, give the original completed Proof of Service to the party for whom you served the document.

Item number: 07

RUPRO ACTION REQUEST FORM

RUPRO action requested: Circulate for comment (January 1 cycle)

RUPRO Meeting: April 9, 2020

Title of proposal (include amend/revise/adopt/approve + form/rule numbers):
Appellate Procedure: Date and Time of Filing for Electronically Submitted Documents; amend rule 8.77

Committee or other entity submitting the proposal:
Appellate Advisory Committee

Staff contact (name, phone and e-mail): Eric Long, 415-865-7691, eric.long@jud.ca.gov

Identify project(s) on the committee's annual agenda that is the basis for this item:
Approved by RUPRO: October 28, 2019
Project description from annual agenda: Amend rule 8.77 to clarify that an e-filed document received by the court before midnight that meets the filing requirements is deemed to have been filed that day. This project addresses an ambiguity in the rule that has resulted in inconsistent treatment of e-filed documents that are received after business hours. Source of the project: California Lawyers Association. Subcommittee: Rules.

If requesting July 1 or out of cycle, explain:

Additional Information: (To facilitate RUPRO's review of your proposal, please include any relevant information not contained in the attached summary.)
On March 5, 2020, the Appellate Advisory Committee approved the Invitation to Comment and proposed amendments to rule 8.77. However, the chair and staff subsequently realized that there was an ambiguity in the proposed new language regarding the date and time of filing. To clarify the rule and better achieve the goal of this proposal, the chair and staff recommend the version of the rule that is included in these materials. In this version, rule 8.77(a) contains a new paragraph (2), "Filing," the result of separating former paragraph (2), "Confirmation of filing," into two distinct paragraphs to clarify the rule's language. In the version approved by the committee, paragraph (2) contained both concepts, was repetitive, and allowed for possible misinterpretation. On behalf of the committee, the chair requests that RUPRO approve for circulation this modified version of the proposed rule amendments; no changes were made to the Invitation to Comment document.

JUDICIAL COUNCIL OF CALIFORNIA

455 Golden Gate Avenue • San Francisco, California 94102-3688
www.courts.ca.gov/policyadmin-invitationstocomment.htm

INVITATION TO COMMENT

SPR20-04

Title
Appellate Procedure: Date and Time of Filing for Electronically Submitted Documents

Proposed Rules, Forms, Standards, or Statutes
Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rule 8.77

Proposed by
Appellate Advisory Committee
Hon. Louis R. Mauro, Chair

Action Requested
Review and submit comments by June 9, 2020

Proposed Effective Date
January 1, 2021

Contact
Eric Long, Attorney
415-865-7691
eric.long@jud.ca.gov

Executive Summary and Origin

The Appellate Advisory Committee proposes amending the rule regarding confirmation of receipt and filing of electronically submitted documents to clarify the date and time of filing. Among other things, rule 8.77 of the California Rules of Court currently addresses the receipt date of submissions received after the close of business but is silent as to when a received document is deemed filed. The committee proposes amending rule 8.77 to state that an electronic document that complies with filing requirements is deemed filed on the date and time it was received by the court. This proposal is based on a suggestion from the California Lawyers Association, Committee on Appellate Courts, Litigation Section.

Background

Electronic filing allows for submission of documents at any time, even after a clerk's office is closed. Regardless of the date and time a document is submitted and received, however, the clerk's office needs time to confirm that the document complies with filing requirements. Such review by the clerk's office must be prompt, but it is not instantaneous for an electronically submitted document. Moreover, when a document is submitted after court business hours, the document will not be reviewed by the clerk's office before the next business day.

Under rule 8.77(a)(1), an electronically submitted document is initially "received" by the court, and a confirmation of receipt is generated. Rule 8.77(c) instructs that if a document is received after 11:59 p.m., it is considered received on the next court day.[1] Once a court clerk confirms that the document complies with filing requirements, a confirmation of "filing" indicating the date and time of filing is generated under rule 8.77(a)(2). However, rule 8.77 does not specify when the document is deemed filed.[2]

It has been reported that appellate courts are determining the date and time of filing in different ways. Some courts deem compliant documents filed on the day they were received, but other courts deem them filed on the day the clerk approves the document for filing.

A practitioner reported electronically submitting a writ petition for filing in an appellate district on Day 1 at 5:30 p.m. A court clerk reviewed the materials on Day 2 and determined that the filing requirements had been satisfied. The clerk filed the document on Day 2 even though it was received by the court on Day 1. If the litigant's writ petition had been due on Day 1, it would have been untimely.

The Proposal

This proposal would clarify that the date and time of filing is the date and time a compliant document is received by the court.

The committee also proposes revising the title of rule 8.77 to reflect electronic submission and to encompass date and time of filing.

The proposal would alleviate concerns of litigants and practitioners that their timely, compliant submissions may be deemed untimely. The proposal is of particular importance when an appellate due date is jurisdictional (e.g., a statutory writ). A uniform time-of-filing provision will assist with the consistent handling of electronically submitted documents and would be consistent with California Rules of Court, rule 1.20, which states: "Unless otherwise provided, a document is deemed filed on the date it is received by the court clerk."

Alternatives Considered

The committee considered no action but determined that the experience of litigants and practitioners warrants action.

---

[1] "A document that is received electronically by the court after 11:59 p.m. is deemed to have been received on the next court day." (Cal. Rules of Court, rule 8.77(c).)

[2] Some California appellate courts also address this topic by local rule. The local rules for the Courts of Appeal, First and Fifth Appellate Districts, state: "Filing documents electronically does not alter any filing deadlines. In order to be timely filed on the day they are due, all electronic transmissions of documents must be completed (i.e., received completely by the Clerk of the Court) prior to midnight." (Ct. App., First Dist. and Fifth Dist., Local Rules, rules 12(f) and 8(g), respectively, Electronic Filing.) Additionally, the Third Appellate District provides: "Electronic filing does not alter any filing deadlines. An electronic filing not completely received by the court by 11:59 p.m. will be deemed to have been received on the next court day." (Ct. App., Third Dist., Local Rules, rule 5(j), Electronic Filing.) The local rules for the Second, Fourth, and Sixth Districts do not address the topic.

A submission from an electronic filer reaches the court through an electronic filing service provider (EFSP). Although the court generally receives a submission almost instantaneously, the committee recognizes the possibility that transmission delays can occur. For example, an electronic filer might submit a document before midnight, but the court might not receive the document until after midnight because of a transmission delay between the EFSP and the court. Given such a possibility, the committee considered two alternatives to using the date and time of receipt as the date and time of filing: (1) using the date and time of submission to the EFSP as the date and time of filing, or (2) imposing an after-hours deadline (such as 11:45 p.m.) for submission of documents to an EFSP to make it more likely that a court will receive a submission before midnight. The committee seeks comments on these alternatives.

Fiscal and Operational Impacts

The committee anticipates no significant fiscal or operational impacts and no costs of implementation other than informing courts and litigants of the new rule amendments.

Request for Specific Comments

In addition to comments on the proposal as a whole, the advisory committee is interested in comments on the following:

- Does the proposal appropriately address the stated purpose?
- The proposed rule uses the court's receipt date and time as the date and time of filing because transmission from the electronic filing service provider to the court is generally instantaneous. Would it be more appropriate, however, to use the date and time of submission to the EFSP as the date and time of filing? Or would another alternative prove more workable? If an alternative is appropriate, describe the alternative and explain why it would be preferable to the instant proposal.
- Can you document one or more transmission delays between (1) the date and time of submission to an EFSP, and (2) the date and time of receipt by a court? If so, would an after-hours submission deadline adequately address such a transmission delay, and if so, what should the deadline be?

The advisory committee also seeks comments from courts on the following cost and implementation matters:

- Would the proposal provide cost savings? If so, please quantify.
- What would the implementation requirements be for courts—for example, training staff (please identify position and expected hours of training), revising processes and procedures (please describe), changing docket codes in case management systems, or modifying case management systems?
- Would three months from Judicial Council approval of this proposal until its effective date provide sufficient time for implementation?
- How well would this proposal work in courts of different sizes?

Attachments and Links

1. Cal. Rules of Court, rule 8.77, at p. 5

Rule 8.77 of the California Rules of Court would be amended, effective January 1, 2021, to read:

Rule 8.77. Actions by court on receipt of ~~electronic filing~~ electronically submitted document; date and time of filing

(a) Confirmation of receipt and filing of document

(1) Confirmation of receipt

When the court receives an electronically submitted document, the court must arrange to promptly send the electronic filer confirmation of the court's receipt of the document, indicating the date and time of receipt by the court. ~~A document is considered received at the date and time the confirmation of receipt is created.~~

(2) Filing

If the electronically submitted document received by the court complies with filing requirements, the document is deemed filed on the date and time it was received by the court as stated in the confirmation of receipt.

~~(2)~~ (3) Confirmation of filing

~~If the document received by the court under (1) complies with filing requirements,~~ When the court files an electronically submitted document, the court must arrange to promptly send the electronic filer confirmation that the document has been filed. The filing confirmation must indicate the date and time of filing as specified in the confirmation of receipt, and ~~is proof that the document was filed on the date and at the time specified. The filing confirmation~~ must also specify:

(A) Any transaction number associated with the filing; and

(B) The titles of the documents as filed by the court.

~~(3)~~ (4) ~~(4)~~ (5) * * *

(b)–(e) * * *

Item number: 08

RUPRO ACTION REQUEST FORM

RUPRO action requested: Circulate for comment (January 1 cycle)

RUPRO Meeting: April 9, 2020

Title of proposal (include amend/revise/adopt/approve + form/rule numbers):
Appellate Procedure: Method of Notice to Court Reporter; Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.405, 8.450, and 8.454

Committee or other entity submitting the proposal:
Appellate Advisory Committee

Staff contact (name, phone and e-mail): Sarah Abbott, 415-865-7687, Sarah.Abbott@jud.ca.gov

Identify project(s) on the committee's annual agenda that is the basis for this item:
Approved by RUPRO: October 28, 2019
Project description from annual agenda: Consider amending rules 8.405, 8.450, and 8.454 to remove or modify the requirement that the clerk notify the court reporter "by telephone and in writing" to prepare a transcript. This language may be outdated or inconsistent with other rules requiring notification by the clerk. Source of the project: Director of Juvenile Operations, Los Angeles Superior Court. Subcommittee: Rules.

If requesting July 1 or out of cycle, explain:

Additional Information: (To facilitate RUPRO's review of your proposal, please include any relevant information not contained in the attached summary.)

JUDICIAL COUNCIL OF CALIFORNIA

455 Golden Gate Avenue . San Francisco, California 94102-3688
www.courts.ca.gov/policyadmin-invitationstocomment.htm

INVITATION TO COMMENT

SPR20-05

Title
Appellate Procedure: Method of Notice to Court Reporter

Proposed Rules, Forms, Standards, or Statutes
Amend Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.405, 8.450, and 8.454

Proposed by
Appellate Advisory Committee
Hon. Louis R. Mauro, Chair

Action Requested
Review and submit comments by June 9, 2020

Proposed Effective Date
January 1, 2021

Contact
Sarah Abbott, 415-865-7687
Sarah.abbott@jud.ca.gov

Executive Summary and Origin

The Appellate Advisory Committee proposes amending three appellate rules of court for juvenile appeals and writs to update the language regarding the notice the clerk must give to the court reporter to prepare the reporter's transcript. The requirement that the notice must be "by telephone and in writing" is not found in other appellate rules governing notice to court reporters and the change would provide clerks with more flexibility in how they provide notice. This proposal is based on a suggestion received from the director of juvenile operations at a superior court.

Background

Rules 8.400 through 8.474 of the appellate rules govern juvenile appeals and writs. Rule 8.405(b)(1) currently requires that when a notice of appeal is filed in a juvenile case, the superior court clerk "must immediately . . . [n]otify the reporter by telephone and in writing to prepare a reporter's transcript and deliver it to the clerk within 20 days after the notice of appeal is filed." (Italics added.) Rules 8.450 and 8.454 address the filing of a notice of intent to file a writ petition to review orders under Welfare and Institutions Code sections 366.26 and 366.28, respectively.[1] Subdivision (h)(1) of each of these rules requires the following:

[1] Welfare and Institutions Code section 366.26 governs hearings terminating parental rights or establishing guardianship of children adjudged dependent children of court, and section 366.28 governs the appeal of decisions involving placement or removal orders following the termination of parental rights.

> When the notice of intent is filed, the superior court clerk must:
> [¶] (1) Immediately notify each court reporter by telephone and in writing to prepare a reporter's transcript of the oral proceedings at each session of the hearing that resulted in the order under review and deliver the transcript to the clerk within 12 calendar days after the notice of intent is filed.

(Italics added.) No other appellate rule requires a court clerk to notify a court reporter "by telephone and in writing" to prepare a transcript. Some appellate rules do require that the reviewing court clerk "make a reasonable effort to notify the clerk of the respondent court by telephone or e-mail" of an urgent situation such as an appellate decision to grant a writ or issue an order staying or prohibiting a proceeding to occur in the lower court within a short time frame.[2] Other appellate rules require the clerk to notify the parties "by telephone or another expeditious method" of events that would seem to require immediate attention, such as shortening the time for oral argument.[3] However, none of these rules requires immediate telephonic and written notification for court reporters.

Instead, the rules addressing the notice that the court clerk must give to court reporters in other types of appeals use more general language, and generally require court clerks to "promptly" send notice of an appeal to court reporters, without specifying the method of notification.[4]

---

[2] See, e.g., rules 8.452(h)(3) (requiring appellate court clerk to make "reasonable effort to notify the clerk of the respondent court by telephone or e-mail" if a writ under Welfare and Institutions Code section 366.26 staying or prohibiting a proceeding to occur within seven days or requiring action within seven days is granted); 8.456(h)(3) (same for writ or order under juvenile writ under Welfare and Institutions Code section 366.28); 8.489(b)(1) (same for writ or order in Supreme Court and Court of Appeal); 8.975(b)(1) (same for small claims writ in appellate division).

[3] See, e.g., rules 8.256(b) (requiring appellate clerk to "immediately notify the parties by telephone or other expeditious method" if notice period for oral argument in court of appeal is shortened); 8.392(b)(5) (same if court of appeal requires an answer to a request for certificate of appealability to review superior court decision denying relief on successive habeas corpus petition in death penalty-related proceeding); 8.524(c) (same if notice period for oral argument in Supreme Court is shortened); 8.702(g) (same if notice period for oral argument in CEQA appeals is shortened); 8.716 (same if notice period for oral argument in appeal of decision to compel arbitration is shortened); 8.885(c)(1) (same if notice period for oral argument in misdemeanor appeal is shortened); 8.889(b)(2) (same if court decides to require answer to request for rehearing in misdemeanor appeal); 8.929(c)(1) (same if notice period for oral argument in infraction appeal is shortened).

[4] See, e.g., rules 8.130(d)(2) (in civil appeals, "clerk must promptly send the reporter notice of the designation [of the reporter's transcript] and of the deposit or substitute and notice to prepare the transcript, showing the date the notice was sent to the reporter" when the clerk receives specified items); 8.304(c)(1) (in criminal appeals, "[w]hen a notice of appeal is filed, the superior court clerk must promptly send a notification of the filing . . . to each court reporter, and to any primary reporter or reporting supervisor"); 8.834(b)(4) (in limited civil appeals to the appellate division of the superior court, "clerk must promptly notify the reporter to prepare the transcript when the court receives" the deposit or substitute for the cost); 8.864(a)(1) (in misdemeanor appeals, "[i]f the appellant elects to use a reporter's transcript, the clerk must promptly send a copy of appellant's notice making this election and the notice of appeal to each court reporter"); 8.915(a)(1) (same for infraction appeals).

The Proposal

The committee proposes removing the requirement that court clerks notify court reporters "by telephone and in writing" from rules 8.405, 8.450, and 8.454 governing juvenile appeals and writs. The committee believes that, because the requirement for immediate telephonic and written notice is an anomaly among the appellate rules, it is advisable to amend these rules to more closely align them with other appellate rules by removing the phrase "by telephone and in writing" from each of them. This change would also provide clerks with more flexibility in how they provide notice, while retaining the requirement that the notice be immediate.

Alternatives Considered

Because the requirement that court clerks notify court reporters "by telephone and in writing" does not directly conflict with another rule, the committee considered not recommending any amendment to these rules, but decided that the proposed amendments would be beneficial.

The committee also considered whether the existing requirement in each of these rules that notification to the court reporter be "immediate" should be modified to instead require "prompt" (or some other temporal descriptor) notification. However, the committee does not recommend this additional modification because, by statute, juvenile appeals have priority over most other appeals.[5] The committee determined that this priority justifies the requirement for "immediate" rather than "prompt" notice to the reporter in the rules under consideration.

Fiscal and Operational Impacts

The proposal removes the requirement that the court clerk immediately notify court reporters "by telephone and in writing" to prepare a reporters transcript in juvenile appeals and writs. This will likely result in minimal or no implementation costs, and should result in a slight decrease in workload for the clerk providing the notice.

[5] See Welf. & Inst. Code, §§ 800(a) (delinquency), 395(a)(1) (dependency); Code Civ. Proc., § 45 (appeals from orders freeing a minor from parent's custody/control).

Request for Specific Comments

In addition to comments on the proposal as a whole, the advisory committee is interested in comments on the following:

- Does the proposal appropriately address the stated purpose?

The advisory committee also seeks comments from courts on the following cost and implementation matters:

- Would the proposal provide cost savings? If so, please quantify.
- What would the implementation requirements be for courts—for example, training staff (please identify position and expected hours of training), revising processes and procedures (please describe), changing docket codes in case management systems, or modifying case management systems?
- Would three months from Judicial Council approval of this proposal until its effective date provide sufficient time for implementation?
- How well would this proposal work in courts of different sizes?

Attachments and Links

1. Cal. Rules of Court, rules 8.405, 8.450, and 8.454, at pages 5–6

Rules 8.405, 8.450, and 8.454 of the California Rules of Court would be amended, effective January 1, 2021, to read:

Title 8. Appellate Rules

Division 1. Rules Relating to the Supreme Court and Courts of Appeal

Chapter 5. Juvenile Appeals and Writs

Article 2. Appeals

Rule 8.405. Filing the appeal

(a) * * *

(b) Superior court clerk's duties

(1) When a notice of appeal is filed, the superior court clerk must immediately:

(A) Send a notification of the filing to:

(i) Each party other than the appellant, including the child if the child is 10 years of age or older;

(ii) The attorney of record for each party;

(iii) Any person currently awarded by the juvenile court the status of the child's de facto parent;

(iv) Any Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA) volunteer;

(v) If the court knows or has reason to know that an Indian child is involved, the Indian custodian, if any, and tribe of the child or the Bureau of Indian Affairs, as required under Welfare and Institutions Code section 224.2; and

(vi) The reviewing court clerk; and

(B) Notify the reporter ~~by telephone and in writing~~ to prepare a reporter's transcript and deliver it to the clerk within 20 days after the notice of appeal is filed.

(2)–(6) * * *

Article 3. Writs

Rule 8.450. Notice of intent to file writ petition to review order setting hearing under Welfare and Institutions Code section 366.26

(a)–(g) * * *

(h) Preparing the record

When the notice of intent is filed, the superior court clerk must:

(1) Immediately notify each court reporter ~~by telephone and in writing~~ to prepare a reporter's transcript of the oral proceedings at each session of the hearing that resulted in the order under review and deliver the transcript to the clerk within 12 calendar days after the notice of intent is filed; and

(2) Within 20 days after the notice of intent is filed, prepare a clerk's transcript that includes the notice of intent, proof of service, and all items listed in rule 8.407(a).

(i)–(j) * * *

Rule 8.454. Notice of intent to file writ petition under Welfare and Institutions Code section 366.28 to review order designating specific placement of a dependent child after termination of parental rights

(a)–(g) * * *

(h) Preparing the record

When the notice of intent is filed, the superior court clerk must:

(1) Immediately notify each court reporter ~~by telephone and in writing~~ to prepare a reporter's transcript of the oral proceedings at each session of the hearing that resulted in the order under review and to deliver the transcript to the clerk within 12 calendar days after the notice of intent is filed; and

(2) Within 20 days after the notice of intent is filed, prepare a clerk's transcript that includes the notice of intent, proof of service, and all items listed in rule 8.407(a).

(i)–(j) * * *

Item number: 09

RUPRO ACTION REQUEST FORM

RUPRO action requested: Recommend JC approval (has circulated for comment)

RUPRO Meeting: April 9, 2020

Title of proposal (include amend/revise/adopt/approve + form/rule numbers):
Jury Instructions: Civil Jury Instructions (Release 37); Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions (CACI)

Committee or other entity submitting the proposal:
Advisory Committee on Civil Jury Instructions

Staff contact (name, phone and e-mail): Eric Long, 415-865-7691, eric.long@jud.ca.gov

Identify project(s) on the committee's annual agenda that is the basis for this item:
Approved by RUPRO: October 28, 2019
Project description from annual agenda: Maintenance—Case Law; Maintenance—Legislation; New Instructions and Expansion into New Areas; Maintenance—Comments from Users; Maintenance—Sources and Authority;

If requesting July 1 or out of cycle, explain:
California Rules of Court, rules 2.1050(d) and 10.58(a), require the advisory committee to update, amend, and add topics to CACI on a regular basis and to submit its recommendations to the council for approval. Jury instructions are currently revised twice a year, and more often if necessary. Release 37 is the midyear supplement to CACI for 2020. Release 36 was approved by the Judicial Council in November 2019, and Release 35, a special out-of-cycle release in response to Government Code section 12923, effective January 1, 2019, was approved by the Judicial Council in July 2019.

Additional Information: (To facilitate RUPRO's review of your proposal, please include any relevant information not contained in the attached summary.)
In addition to recommending to the council approval of 41 instructions, 12 verdict forms, and one addition to the CACI User Guide, the advisory committee also requests that the Rules Committee give final approval to 169 revised CACI instructions under the provisions of the guidelines adopted on December 19, 2006, titled Jury Instructions Corrections and Technical and Minor Substantive Changes.

JUDICIAL COUNCIL OF CALIFORNIA

455 Golden Gate Avenue • San Francisco, California 94102-3688

www.courts.ca.gov

REPORT TO THE JUDICIAL COUNCIL

Item No.: 20-128
For business meeting on May 15, 2020

Title
Jury Instructions: Civil Jury Instructions (Release 37)

Rules, Forms, Standards, or Statutes Affected
Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions (CACI)

Recommended by
Advisory Committee on Civil Jury Instructions
Hon. Martin J. Tangeman, Chair

Agenda Item Type
Action Required

Effective Date
May 15, 2020

Date of Report
March 30, 2020

Contact
Eric Long, 415-865-7691
eric.long@jud.ca.gov

Executive Summary

The Advisory Committee on Civil Jury Instructions recommends approving for publication the new and revised civil jury instructions prepared by the committee. These revisions bring the instructions up to date with developments in the law over the previous six months. On Judicial Council approval, the instructions will be published in the official midyear supplement to the 2020 edition of the Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions (CACI).

Recommendation

The Advisory Committee on Civil Jury Instructions recommends that the Judicial Council, effective May 15, 2020, approve for publication the following civil jury instructions prepared by the committee:

1. Revisions to 46 instructions and verdict forms: CACI Nos. 113, 420, 440, 1100, VF-1100, 1102, VF-1201, 1305, VF-2506A, VF-2506B, VF-2506C, VF-2507A, VF-2507B, VF-2507C, VF-2508, 2511, 2521C, 2522C, 2540, 2545, 2560, 2561, 2705, VF-3012, 3020, 3050, 3053, VF-3501, 3704, 3903C, 3903D, 3904A, 4106, 4300, 4301, 4303, 4304, 4305, 4306, 4307, 4308, 4309, 4325, 4575, VF-4602, and 4603;

2. The addition of 7 new instructions: CACI Nos. 118, 1812, 1813, 1814, 3906, 4920, and 4921; and

3. A revision to the User Guide.

A table of contents and the proposed new and revised civil jury instructions are attached at pages 8–202.

Relevant Previous Council Action

At its meeting on July 16, 2003, the Judicial Council adopted what is now rule 10.58 of the California Rules of Court, which established the advisory committee and its charge.[1] At this meeting, the council approved the CACI instructions under what is now rule 2.1050 of the California Rules of Court. Since that time, the committee has complied with both rules by regularly proposing to the council additions and changes to CACI to ensure that the instructions remain clear, accurate, current, and complete.

This is release 37 of CACI. The council approved release 36 at its November 2019 meeting.

Analysis/Rationale

A total of 41 instructions, 12 verdict forms, and one revision to the User Guide are presented in this release. The Judicial Council's Rules Committee has also approved changes to 169 additional instructions under a delegation of authority from the council to the Rules Committee.[2]

The instructions were revised and added based on comments or suggestions from justices, judges, and attorneys; proposals by staff and committee members; and recent developments in the law. Below is a summary of the more significant additions and changes recommended to the council.

[1] Rule 10.58(a) states: "The committee regularly reviews case law and statutes affecting jury instructions and makes recommendations to the Judicial Council for updating, amending, and adding topics to the council's civil jury instructions."

[2] At its October 20, 2006 meeting, the Judicial Council delegated to the Rules Committee (formerly called the Rules and Projects Committee or RUPRO) the final authority to approve nonsubstantive technical changes and corrections and minor substantive changes to jury instructions unlikely to create controversy. The council also gave the Rules Committee the authority to delegate to the jury instructions advisory committees the authority to review and approve nonsubstantive grammatical and typographical corrections and other similar changes to the jury instructions, which the Rules Committee has done.

Under the implementing guidelines that the Rules Committee approved on December 14, 2006, which were submitted to the council on February 15, 2007, the Rules Committee has the final authority to approve (among other things) additional cases and statutes cited in the Sources and Authority and additions or changes to the Directions for Use.

New instructions

CACI No. 118, Personal Pronouns. The California Department of Fair Employment and Housing requested that all CACI instructions be revised to permit users to select nonbinary pronouns for persons who identify as neither male nor female. CACI instructions had included many male/female pronoun options.[3] The committee has expanded these bracketed options to include "nonbinary pronoun" in each bracketed personal pronoun set. No. 118 is a new pretrial instruction addressing the use of personal pronouns.

CACI Nos. 1812–1814. New instructions on the Computer Data Access and Fraud Act. The Computer Data Access and Fraud Act, Penal Code section 502, authorizes a civil action for certain violations. The committee anticipates that litigation arising from these violations will increase as Californians rely on computers and online services to conduct more of their day-to-day activities. The committee therefore proposes three new instructions in the Right of Privacy series: No. 1812, Comprehensive Computer Data and Access Fraud Act—Essential Factual Elements; No. 1813, Definition of "Access"; and No. 1814, Damages for Investigating Violations of Comprehensive Computer Data and Access Fraud Act.

CACI No. 3906, Lost Earnings and Lost Earning Capacity—Jurors Not to Consider Race, Ethnicity, or Gender (Economic Damage). The Legislature in Senate Bill 41 (Stats. 2019, ch. 136), effective January 1, 2020, added section 3361 to the Civil Code. That section provides, "Estimations, measures, or calculations of past, present, or future damages for lost earnings or impaired earning capacity resulting from personal injury or wrongful death shall not be reduced based on race, ethnicity, or gender." (Civ. Code, § 3361.) The committee agreed that the new provision warranted a new instruction advising jurors not to take race, ethnicity, or gender in to account when determining a reasonable amount of lost earnings or lost earning capacity. Cross-references to the new instruction were added to the Directions for Use of two other instructions in the Damages series: No. 3903C, Past and Future Lost Earnings (Economic Damage), and No. 3903D, Lost Earning Capacity (Economic Damage).

CACI Nos. 4920 and 4921. New instructions on Wrongful Foreclosure. The committee began thinking about instructions in this area a few years ago after two court of appeal decisions in Majd v. Bank of America, N.A.[4] and Miles v. Deutsche Bank National Trust Co.[5] Based on these cases and more recent authority, the committee proposes adding two instructions to the Real

[3] E.g., "he/she," "his/her," "him/her."

[4] (2015) 243 Cal.App.4th 1293.

[5] (2015) 236 Cal.App.4th 394.

Property Law series addressing (1) the essential factual elements of a wrongful foreclosure claim and (2) when tender of payment is excused.

Revised instructions

CACI No. 440, Unreasonable Force by Law Enforcement Officer in Arrest or Other Seizure—Essential Factual Elements. Assembly Bill 392 (Stats. 2019, ch. 170), effective January 1, 2020, amended Penal Code section 835a, which is the basis for this negligence instruction. The statutory amendments principally relate to the use of deadly force by a peace officer, so the Directions for Use now note that the instruction may require modifications for cases involving the use of deadly force by a peace officer. Commenters encouraged the committee to make further revisions to No. 440 or to draft new instructions based on the new provisions of section 835a; the committee will continue to monitor developments in this area and consider revisions to this instruction (or new instructions) in future release cycles.

CACI No. 1102, Definition of "Dangerous Condition." Based on public comments received during the last release cycle concerning No. 1125, Conditions on Adjacent Property, the committee determined that the instructions in Dangerous Condition of Public Property series would be clearer if the Directions for Use for No. 1102 cross-referenced the most recent addition to the series of instructions.

CACI Nos. 2521C and 2522C; VF-2506A, VF-2606B, VF-2506C, VF-2607A, VF-2507B, and VF-2507C (Fair Employment and Housing Act series—harassment). The revisions to these instructions follow from the committee's work in release 35.[6] In that prior release, the committee first revised several work environment harassment instructions in the Fair Employment and Housing Act series based on Government Code section 12923, effective January 1, 2019. (See Sen. Bill 1300; Stats. 2018, ch. 955.)

The CACI instructions had used the terms "hostile or abusive" to express a workplace environment infected with harassing conduct. However, Government Code section 12923(a) says, "[t]he Legislature hereby declares that harassment creates a hostile, offensive, oppressive, or intimidating work environment." Section 12923(b) states, "A single incident of harassing conduct is sufficient to create a triable issue regarding the existence of a hostile work environment if the harassing conduct has … created an intimidating, hostile, or offensive working environment." To give effect to these provisions, the committee agreed to add "intimidating, offensive, and oppressive" to the adjectives "hostile or abusive," and to remove "unwanted" because if conduct is harassing it is, by definition, unwanted. The committee also changed the title of these instructions to "Work Environment Harassment"—a minor change that removed "Hostile" as a modifier.

[6] The council approved release 35 in July 2019. (See Judicial Council of Cal., Rep. (June 19, 2019), available at https://jcc.legistar.com/View.ashx?M=F&ID=7510624&GUID=72448D53-2E72-446A-A970-0FFF29D770A3.

In this release, the committee has made those same changes to other work environment harassment instructions in the series that it did not revise in release 35, and has also concluded that section 12923(b) supports the elimination of the concept "widespread" from the instructions and verdict forms for sexual favoritism claims.

CACI No. 2561, Religious Creed Discrimination—Reasonable Accommodation—Affirmative Defense—Undue Hardship. This instruction had used a cross-reference to No. 2545, Disability Discrimination—Affirmative Defense—Undue Hardship. The Directions for Use advised users to modify the disability discrimination instruction by replacing "disability" with "religious observance." The committee took this approach based on the view that the law is the same for both disability and religious creed discrimination.[7] Public comments in the last release cycle noted, however, that while the undue hardship factors are the same in both contexts, Government Code section 12940(l)(1) also requires employers to "explore any available reasonable alternative means of accommodating the religious belief or observance" short of an undue hardship. To give effect to the statutory language in subdivision (l), the committee has now drafted a separate undue hardship instruction for religious creed discrimination that is derived from No. 2545.

CACI No. 3904A, Present Cash Value. In Lewis v. Ukran,[8] the court held that the party seeking a reduction of future damages to present cash value bears the burden of presenting expert evidence of an appropriate calculation, including the appropriate discount rate, to enable the fact finder to make a rational determination. The committee revised the instruction to reflect this requirement. The instruction includes two alternative paragraphs depending on the circumstances. The first alternative is for when a party seeks a reduction and bears the burden of establishing it with expert evidence. The second alternative is for when the parties stipulate to a present cash value adjustment without expert evidence.

CACI Nos. 4300, 4301, 4303, 4304, 4305, 4306, 4307, 4308, 4309, and 4325 (Unlawful Detainer series). The Tenant Protection Act of 2019 (Assem. Bill 1482; Stats. 2019, ch. 597), effective January 1, 2020, added notice and "just cause" requirements to certain residential real property tenancies. The recentness of the legislation and its breadth is such that the committee has not yet proposed any substantive revisions to the instructions in the Unlawful Detainer series. Instead, the committee's revisions in this release note the existence of the act in the Directions for Use and/or Sources and Authority, and they advise users of the possible need to modify the instructions in light of the new legislation, if necessary.

[7] Gov. Code, § 12940(l)(1); see Gov. Code, § 12926(u).

[8] (2019) 36 Cal.App.5th 886, 896.

CACI No. 4603, Whistleblower Protection—Essential Factual Elements. The committee added a whistleblower's actual disclosure of information to element 2, which was inadvertently omitted from the instruction. (Lab. Code, § 1102.5(b).) The committee also added a note to the Directions for Use for claims under Labor Code section 1102.5(c) based on Nejadian v. County of Los Angeles.[9] The Court of Appeal in Nejadian held that the plaintiff must show that the activity the plaintiff refused to participate in would result in a violation of or noncompliance with a statute, rule, or regulation, which is a legal determination that the court is required to make.

User Guide: Personal pronouns. In the last release, the committee took a first step to further the goals of the Gender Recognition Act (Sen. Bill 179; Stats. 2019, ch. 853), which declares that it is the policy of the State of California that intersex, transgender, and nonbinary people are entitled to full legal recognition and equal treatment under the law. The committee added in release 36 a note to the User Guide advising that the pronoun options in CACI (e.g., "he/she") were not intended to be limiting. In this release, the committee has added "nonbinary pronoun" to the bracketed personal pronoun options found throughout CACI, and the User Guide now acknowledges the expanded options and the need to use correct personal pronouns or an individual's name.

Policy implications

Jury instructions express the law; there are no policy implications.

Comments

The proposed additions and revisions to CACI circulated for comment from January 19 through March 2, 2020. Comments were received from 12 different commenters. Some submitted comments on multiple instructions, and some commented on only a single instruction.

No single instruction generated a large number of comments.

The committee evaluated all comments and revised some of the instructions in light of the comments received. A chart summarizing the comments received on all instructions and the committee's responses is attached at pages 203–245.

Alternatives considered

Rules 2.1050(d) and 10.58(a) of the California Rules of Court require the committee to update, revise, and add topics to CACI on a regular basis and to submit its recommendations to the council for approval. There are no alternative actions for the committee to consider.

[9] (2019) 40 Cal.App.5th 703, 719.

Fiscal and Operational Impacts

No implementation costs are associated with this proposal. To the contrary, under the publication agreement, the official publisher, LexisNexis, will publish the 2020 edition of CACI and pay royalties to the Judicial Council. Other licensing agreements with other publishers provide additional royalties.

The official publisher will also make the revised content available free of charge to all judicial officers in both print and HotDocs document assembly software. With respect to commercial publishers, the Judicial Council will register the copyright of this work and continue to license its publication of the instructions under provisions that govern accuracy, completeness, attribution, copyright, fees and royalties, and other publication matters. To continue to make the instructions freely available for use and reproduction by parties, attorneys, and the public, the Judicial Council provides a broad public license for their noncommercial use and reproduction.

Attachments

1. Jury instructions, at pages 8–202
2. Chart of comments, at pages 203–245

TABLE OF CONTENTS
Release 37: May 2020

113. Bias

Each one of us has biases about or certain perceptions or stereotypes of other people. We may be aware of some of our biases, though we may not share them with others. We may not be fully aware of some of our other biases.

Our biases often affect how we act, favorably or unfavorably, toward someone. Bias can affect our thoughts, how we remember, what we see and hear, whom we believe or disbelieve, and how we make important decisions.

As jurors you are being asked to make very important decisions in this case. You must not let bias, prejudice, or public opinion influence your decision. You must not be biased in favor of or against ~~any~~ parties~~y~~ or witnesses because of ~~his or her~~their disability, gender, gender identity, gender expression, race, religion, ethnicity, sexual orientation, age, national origin, [or] socioeconomic status[, or [*insert any other impermissible form of bias]].

Your verdict must be based solely on the evidence presented. You must carefully evaluate the evidence and resist any urge to reach a verdict that is influenced by bias for or against any party or witness.

New June 2010; Revised December 2012, May 2020

Sources and Authority

- Conduct Exhibiting Bias Prohibited. Standard 10.20(a)(2) of the California Standards of Judicial Administration.
- Judge Must Perform Duties Without Bias. Canon 3(b)(5) of the California Code of Judicial Ethics.

Secondary Sources

Witkin, California Procedure (5th ed. 2008) Trial, § 132

1 California Trial Guide, Unit 10, Voir Dire Examination, §§ 10.03[1], 10.21[2], 10.50, 10.80, 10.100 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 6, Jury Selection, § 6.21

118. Personal Pronouns

One of the [parties/witnesses/attorneys/*specify other participant in the case] in this case uses the personal pronouns [specify the person's pronouns]. You may hear the judge and attorneys refer to [name of person] using the pronouns: [specify the person's pronouns].

New May 2020

Directions for Use

It is the policy of the State of California that intersex, transgender, and nonbinary people are entitled to full legal recognition and equal treatment under the law. In accordance with this policy, attorneys and courts should take affirmative steps to ensure that they are using correct personal pronouns. To further this policy, these instructions have been expanded to include "nonbinary pronoun" wherever appropriate. Although the advisory committee acknowledges a trend for the singular use of "they," "their," and "them," the committee also recognizes these pronouns have plural denotations with the potential to confuse jurors. For clarity in the jury instructions, the committee recommends using an individual's name rather than a personal nonbinary pronoun (such as "they") if the pronoun could result in confusion.

The court should consult with the attorneys in the case before reading this instruction to the jury. The court should also consult with the individual whose pronouns are being discussed to ensure the court acts in a way that protects the individual's dignity and privacy.

Sources and Authority

- Gender Recognition Act. Stats. 2019, ch. 853 (SB 179).
- "Sex" Defined. Gov. Code, § 12926(r)(2).
- "Gender Expression" Defined. Cal. Code Regs., tit. 2, § 11030(a).
- "Gender Identity" Defined. Cal. Code Regs., tit. 2, § 11030(b).

Secondary Sources

420. Negligence per se: Rebuttal of the Presumption of Negligence — (Violation Excused)

A violation of a law is excused if [name of plaintiff/name of defendant] proves that one of the following is true:

(a) The violation was reasonable because of [name of plaintiff/defendant]'s [specify type of "incapacity"]; [or]

(b) Despite using reasonable care, [name of plaintiff/name of defendant] was not able to obey the law; [or]

(c) [Name of plaintiff/name of defendant] faced an emergency that was not caused by [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] own misconduct; [or]

(d) Obeying the law would have involved a greater risk of harm to [name of plaintiff/defendant] or to others; [or]

(e) [Other reason excusing or justifying noncompliance.]

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

The burden of proof shifts from the party asserting a negligence per se claim to the party claiming an excuse for violating a law. (Baker-Smith v. Skolnick (2019) 37 Cal.App.5th 340, 347 [249 Cal.Rptr.3d 514].) ~~Subparagraph~~ Factor (b), regarding an attempt to comply with the applicable statute or regulation, should not be given ~~where~~ if the evidence does not show such an attempt. (Atkins v. Bisigier (1971) 16 Cal.App.3d 414, 423 [94 Cal.Rptr. 49].) ~~Subparagraph~~ Factor (b) should be used only in special cases because it relies on the concept of due care to avoid a charge of negligence per se. (Casey v. Russell (1982) 138 Cal.App.3d 379, 385 [188 Cal.Rptr. 18].)

Sources and Authority

- Rebuttal of Presumption of Negligence per se. Evidence Code section 669(b)(1).
- ~~The language of section 669(b)(1) appears to be based on the following Supreme Court holding:~~ "In our opinion the correct test is whether the person who has violated a statute has sustained the burden of showing that he did what might reasonably be expected of a person of ordinary prudence, acting under similar circumstances, who desired to comply with the law." (Alarid v. Vanier (1958) 50 Cal.2d 617, 624 [327 P.2d 897].)
- "[T]he presumption of negligence codified in Evidence Code section 669, subdivision (a), may be rebutted by proof that '[t]he person violating the statute, ordinance, or regulation did what might reasonably be expected of a person of ordinary prudence, acting under similar circumstances, who desired to comply with the law.' " (Taulbee v. EJ Distribution Corp. (2019) 35 Cal.App.5th 590, 597 [247 Cal.Rptr.3d 538, 544].)

- "An excuse instruction is improper unless special circumstances exist." (Baker-Smith, supra, 37 Cal.App.5th at p. 345.)
-

"The Restatement Second of Torts illustrates the types of situations which may justify or excuse a violation of the statute: [¶] '(a) [T]he violation is reasonable because of the actor's incapacity [e.g., a small child runs into the street without looking, in violation of statute requiring pedestrians to look both ways before crossing]; [¶]
'(b) [H]e neither knows nor should know of the occasion for compliance;
[¶] '(c) [H]e is unable after reasonable diligence or care to comply [e.g., a statute provides that railroads must keep fences clear of snow. A heavy blizzard covers the fences with snow and, acting promptly and reasonably, the railroad company is unable to remove all the snow for 3 days. Someone crosses the fence on the snow mound and is injured. The violation of the statute is excused];
[¶] '(d) [H]e is confronted by an emergency not due to his own misconduct [e.g., swerving into left lane to avoid child suddenly darting into the road];
[¶] '(e) [C]ompliance would involve a greater risk of harm to the actor or to others.'
Thus, in emergencies or because of some unusual circumstances, it may be difficult or impossible to comply with the statute, and the violation may be excused." (Casey, supra, 138 Cal.App.3d at p. 384, internal citations omitted.)~~In Casey v. Russell (1982) 138 Cal.App.3d 379 [188 Cal.Rptr. 18], the court held that an instruction that tracked the language of section 669(b)(1) was erroneous because it "[did] not adequately convey that there must be some special circumstances which justify violating the statute." (Id. at p. 385.) The court's opinion cited section 288A of the Restatement Second of Torts for a list of the types of emergencies or unusual circumstances that may justify or excuse a violation of the statute:~~

~~(a) The violation is reasonable because of the actor's incapacity;~~

~~(b) He neither knows nor should know of the occasion for compliance;~~

~~(c) He is unable after reasonable diligence or care to comply;~~

~~(d) He is confronted by an emergency not due to his own misconduct;~~

~~(e) Compliance would involve a greater risk of harm to the actor or to others.~~

- ~~According to the Restatement comment, this list of circumstances is not meant to be exclusive~~.

- "To determine whether excuse could be a defense in a negligence per se case, California law weighs the benefits and burdens of accident precautions." (Baker-Smith, supra, 37 Cal.App.5th at p. 345.)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~871~~1002–~~896~~1028

California Tort Guide (Cont.Ed.Bar 3d ed.) §§ 1.28-1.31

1 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 3, Proof of Negligence, § 3.13 (Matthew Bender)

33 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 380, Negligence (Matthew Bender)

16 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 165, Negligence, § 165.81 (Matthew Bender)

440. Unreasonable Force by Law Enforcement Officer in Arrest or Other Seizure—Essential Factual Elements

A law enforcement officer may use reasonable force to [arrest/detain] a person when the officer has reasonable cause to believe that that person has committed or is committing a crime. However, the officer may use only that degree of force necessary to accomplish the [arrest/detention].

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] used unreasonable force in [arresting/detaining] [him/her/nonbinary pronoun]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] used force in [arresting/detaining] [name of plaintiff];

2. That the amount of force used by [name of defendant] was unreasonable;

3. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

4. That [name of defendant]'s use of unreasonable force was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

In deciding whether [*name of defendant] used unreasonable force, you must consider ~~all of~~ the totality of the circumstances of the [arrest/detention] and determine what force a reasonable [insert type of ~~peace~~ officer] in [name of defendant]'s position would have used under the same or similar circumstances. "Totality of the circumstances" means all facts known to the officer at the time, including the conduct of [name of defendant] and [name of plaintiff] leading up to the use of force. Among the factors to be considered are the following:

(a) Whether [name of plaintiff] reasonably appeared to pose an immediate threat to the safety of [name of defendant] or others;

(b) The seriousness of the crime at issue; [and]

(c) Whether [name of plaintiff] was actively resisting [arrest/detention] or attempting to avoid [arrest/detention] by flight[; and/.]

[(d) [*Name of defendant]'s tactical conduct and decisions before using ~~[deadly]~~ force on [name of plaintiff].]

New June 2016; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

Use this instruction if the plaintiff makes a negligence claim under state law arising from the force used in effecting an arrest or detention. Such a claim is often combined with a claimed civil rights violation under 42 United States Code section 1983 (See CACI No. 3020, Excessive Use of Force—Unreasonable Arrest or Other Seizure—Essential Factual Elements.) It might also be combined with a claim for battery. See CACI No. 1305, Battery by Peace Officer. For additional authorities on excessive force by a law enforcement officer, see the Sources and Authority to these two CACI instructions.

For cases involving the use of deadly force by a peace officer, Penal Code section 835a may require modifications to the instruction.

Factors (a), (b), and (c) are often referred to as the "Graham factors." (See Graham v. Connor (1989) 490 U.S. 386, 396 [109 S.Ct. 1865, 104 L.Ed.2d 443].) The Graham factors are to be applied under California negligence law. (Hernandez v. City of Pomona (2009) 46 Cal.4th 501, 514 [94 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1, 207 P.3d 506].) They are not exclusive (see Glenn v. Wash. County (9th Cir. 2011) 661 F.3d 460, 467–468.); additional factors may be added if appropriate to the facts of the case. If negligence, civil rights, and battery claims are all involved, the instructions can be combined so as to give the Graham factors only once. A sentence may be added to advise the jury that the factors apply to all three claims.

Give optional factor (d) if the officer's conduct leading up to the need to use force is at issue. Liability can arise if the earlier tactical conduct and decisions show, as part of the totality of circumstances, that the ultimate use of force was unreasonable. In this respect, California negligence law differs from the federal standard under the Fourth Amendment. (Hayes v. County of San Diego (2014) 57 Cal. 4th 622, 639 [160 Cal.Rptr.3d 684, 305 P.3d 252].)

Sources and Authority

- Legislative Findings re Use of Force by Law Enforcement. Penal Code section 835a(a).
- Use of Objectively Reasonable Force to Arrest. ~~California~~ Penal Code section 835a(b).
- When Peace Officer Need Not Retreat. Penal Code section 835a(d).
- Definitions. Penal Code section 835a(e).

- "Consistent with these principles and the factors the high court has identified, the federal court in this case did not instruct the jury to conduct some abstract or nebulous balancing of competing interests. Instead, as noted above, it instructed the jury to determine the reasonableness of the officers' actions in light of 'the totality of the circumstances at the time,' including 'the severity of the crime at issue, whether the plaintiff posed a reasonable threat to the safety of the officer or others, and whether the plaintiff was actively resisting detention or attempting to escape.' The same consideration of the totality of the circumstances is required in determining reasonableness under California negligence law. Moreover, California's civil jury instructions specifically direct the jury, in determining whether police officers used unreasonable force for purposes of tort liability, to consider the same factors that the high court has identified and that the federal court's instructions in this case set forth. (Judicial Council of Cal. Civ. Jury Instns. (2008) CACI No. 1305.) Thus, plaintiffs err in arguing that the federal and state standards of reasonableness differ in that the former involves a fact finder's balancing of competing interests." (Hernandez, supra, 46 Cal.4th at p. 514, internal citation omitted.)

- "Determining whether the force used to effect a particular seizure is 'reasonable' under the Fourth Amendment requires a careful balancing of ' "the nature and quality of the intrusion on the individual's Fourth Amendment interests" ' against the countervailing governmental interests at stake. Our Fourth Amendment jurisprudence has long recognized that the right to make an arrest or investigatory stop necessarily carries with it the right to use some degree of physical coercion or threat thereof to effect it. Because '[t]he test of reasonableness under the Fourth Amendment is not capable of precise definition or mechanical application,' however, its proper application requires careful attention to the facts and circumstances of each particular case, including the severity of the crime at issue, whether the suspect poses an immediate threat to the safety of the officers or others, and whether he is actively resisting arrest or attempting to evade arrest by flight." (Graham, supra, 490 U.S. at p. 396, internal citations omitted.)

- "The most important of these [Graham factors, above] is whether the suspect posed an immediate threat to the officers or others, as measured objectively under the circumstances." (Mendoza v. City of West Covina (2012) 206 Cal.App.4th 702, 712 [141 Cal.Rptr.3d 553].)

- "Plaintiff must prove unreasonable force as an element of the tort." (Edson v. City of Anaheim (1998) 63 Cal.App.4th 1269, 1272 [74 Cal.Rptr.2d 614].)

- " ' "The 'reasonableness' of a particular use of force must be judged from the perspective of a reasonable officer on the scene, rather than with the 20/20 vision of hindsight. … [T]he question is whether the officers' actions are 'objectively reasonable' in light of the facts and circumstances confronting them, without regard to their underlying intent or motivation. …" ' In calculating whether the amount of force was excessive, a trier of fact must recognize that peace officers are often forced to make split-second judgments, in tense circumstances, concerning the amount of force required." (Brown v. Ransweiler (2009) 171 Cal.App.4th 516, 527–528 [89 Cal.Rptr.3d 801], internal citations omitted.)

- " '[A]s long as an officer's conduct falls within the range of conduct that is reasonable under the circumstances, there is no requirement that he or she choose the "most reasonable" action or the conduct that is the least likely to cause harm and at the same time the most likely to result in the successful apprehension of a violent suspect, in order to avoid liability for negligence.' " (Hayes, supra, 57 Cal.4th at p. 632.)

- ~~"A police officer's use of deadly force is reasonable if ' " 'the officer has probable cause to believe that the suspect poses a significant threat of death or serious physical injury to the officer or others.' …" …' " (Brown, supra, 171 Cal.App.4th at p. 528.)~~

- ~~"Law enforcement personnel's tactical conduct and decisions preceding the use of deadly force are relevant considerations under California law in determining whether the use of deadly force gives rise to negligence liability. Such liability can arise, for example, if the tactical conduct and decisions show, as part of the totality of circumstances, that the use of deadly force was unreasonable." (Hayes, supra, 57 Cal.4th at p. 639.)~~

- "The California Supreme Court did not address whether decisions before non-deadly force can be actionable negligence, but addressed this issue only in the context of 'deadly force.' " (Mulligan v. Nichols (9th Cir. 2016) 835 F.3d 983, 991, fn. 7.)

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, § 496~~424~~

3 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 41, Assault and Battery, § 41.24 seq. (Matthew Bender)

6 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 58, Assault and Battery, § 58.22 (Matthew Bender)

1100. Dangerous Condition on Public Property—Essential Factual Elements (Gov. Code, § 835)

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was harmed by a dangerous condition of [name of defendant]'s property. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] owned [or controlled] the property;

2. That the property was in a dangerous condition at the time of the ~~incident~~injury;

3. That the dangerous condition created a reasonably foreseeable risk of the kind of injury that occurred;

4. [That negligent or wrongful conduct of [name of defendant]'s employee acting within the scope of ~~his or her~~ employment created the dangerous condition;]

   [or]

   [That [name of defendant] had notice of the dangerous condition for a long enough time to have protected against it;]

5. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

6. That the dangerous condition was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

New September 2003; Revised October 2008, June 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

For element 4, choose either or both options depending on whether liability is alleged under Government Code section 835(a), 835(b), or both.

See also CACI No. 1102, Definition of "Dangerous Condition," and CACI No. 1103, Notice.

Sources and Authority

- Liability of Public Entity for Dangerous Condition of Property. Government Code section 835.
- Actual Notice. Government Code section 835.2(a).
- Constructive Notice. Government Code section 835.2(b).
- Definitions. Government Code section 830.

- ""The Government Claims Act (§ 810 et seq.; the Act) 'is a comprehensive statutory scheme that sets forth the liabilities and immunities of public entities and public employees for torts.' Section 835 … prescribes the conditions under which a public entity may be held liable for injuries caused by a dangerous condition of public property. Section 835 provides that a public entity may be held liable for such injuries 'if the plaintiff establishes that the property was in a dangerous condition at the time of the injury, that the injury was proximately caused by the dangerous condition, [and] that the dangerous condition created a reasonably foreseeable risk of the kind of injury which was incurred.' In addition, the plaintiff must establish that either: (a) '[a] negligent or wrongful act or omission of an employee of the public entity within the scope of his employment created the dangerous condition,' or (b) '[t]he public entity had . . . notice of the dangerous condition . . . a sufficient time prior to the injury to have taken measures to protect against the dangerous condition.' " (Cordova v. City of Los Angeles (2015) 61 Cal.4th 1099, 1104 [190 Cal.Rptr.3d 850, 353 P.3d 773], internal citations omitted.)

- "[A] public entity may be liable for a dangerous condition of public property even when the immediate cause of a plaintiff's injury is a third party's negligent or illegal act (such as a motorist's negligent driving), if some physical characteristic of the property exposes its users to increased danger from third party negligence or criminality. Public entity liability lies under section 835 when some feature of the property increased or intensified the danger to users from third party conduct." (Castro v. City of Thousand Oaks (2015) 239 Cal.App.4th 1451, 1457−1458 [192 Cal.Rptr.3d 376], internal citation omitted.)

- "Subdivisions (a) and (b) of section 835 obviously address two different types of cases. However, what distinguishes the two types of cases is not simply whether the public entity has notice of the dangerous condition. Instead, what distinguishes the two cases in practice is who created the dangerous condition. Because an entity must act through its employees, virtually all suits brought on account of dangerous conditions created by the entity will be brought under subdivision (a). In contrast, subdivision (b) can also support suits based on dangerous conditions not created by the entity or its employees." (Brown v. Poway Unified School Dist. (1993) 4 Cal.4th 820, 836 [15 Cal.Rptr.2d 679, 843 P.2d 624].)

- "[T]he res ipsa loquitur presumption does not satisfy the requirements for holding a public entity liable under section 835, subdivision (a). Res ipsa loquitur requires the plaintiff to show only (1) that the accident was of a kind which ordinarily does not occur in the absence of negligence, (2) that the instrumentality of harm was within the defendant's exclusive control, and (3) that the plaintiff did not voluntarily contribute to his or her own injuries. Subdivision (a), in contrast, requires the plaintiff to show that an employee of the public entity 'created' the dangerous condition; in view of the legislative history … ,the term 'created' must be defined as the sort of involvement by an employee that would justify a presumption of notice on the entity's part." (Brown, supra, 4 Cal.4th at p. 836.)

- "Focusing on the language in Pritchard, supra, 178 Cal. App. 2d at page 256, stating that where the public entity 'has itself created the dangerous condition it is per se culpable,' plaintiff argues that the negligence that section 835, subdivision (a), refers to is not common law negligence, but something that exists whenever the public entity creates the dangerous condition of property. We disagree. If the Legislature had wanted to impose liability whenever a public entity created a dangerous condition, it would merely have required plaintiff to establish that an act or omission of an employee of the public entity within the scope of his employment created the dangerous condition. Instead, section 835, subdivision (a), requires the plaintiff to establish that a 'negligent or wrongful act or omission of an employee of the public entity within the scope of his employment created the dangerous condition.' (Italics added.) Plaintiff's interpretation would transform the highly meaningful words 'negligent or wrongful' into meaningless surplusage, contrary to the rule of statutory interpretation that courts should avoid a construction that makes any word surplusage." (Metcalf v. County of San Joaquin (2008) 42 Cal.4th 1121, 1135 [72 Cal.Rptr.3d 382, 176 P.2d 654], original italics, internal citation omitted.)

- "In order to recover under Government Code section 835, it is not necessary for plaintiff to prove a negligent act and notice; either negligence or notice will suffice." (Curtis v. State of California (1982) 128 Cal.App.3d 668, 693 [180 Cal.Rptr. 843], original italics.)

- "A public entity may not be held liable under section 835 for a dangerous condition of property that it does not own or control." (Goddard v. Department of Fish & Wildlife (2015) 243 Cal.App.4th 350, 359 [196 Cal.Rptr.3d 625].)

- "For liability to be imposed on a public entity for a dangerous condition of property, the entity must be in a position to protect against or warn of the hazard. Therefore, the crucial element is not ownership, but rather control." (Mamola v. State of California ex rel. Dept. of Transportation (1979) 94 Cal.App.3d 781, 788 [156 Cal.Rptr. 614], internal citation omitted.)

- "Liability for injury caused by a dangerous condition of property has been imposed when an unreasonable risk of harm is created by a combination of defect in the property and acts of third parties. However, courts have consistently refused to characterize harmful third party conduct as a dangerous condition-absent some concurrent contributing defect in the property itself." (Hayes v. State of California (1974) 11 Cal.3d 469, 472 [113 Cal.Rptr. 599, 521 P.2d 855], internal citations omitted.)

- "[P]laintiffs in this case must show that a dangerous condition of property--that is, a condition that creates a substantial risk of injury to the public--proximately caused the fatal injuries their decedents suffered as a result of the collision with [third party]'s car. But nothing in the statute requires plaintiffs to show that the allegedly dangerous condition also caused the third party conduct that precipitated the accident." (Cordova, supra, 61 Cal. 4th at p. 1106.)

- "The existence of a dangerous condition is ordinarily a question of fact but 'can be decided as a matter of law if reasonable minds can come to only one conclusion.' " (Cerna v. City of Oakland (2008) 161 Cal.App.4th 1340, 1347 [75 Cal.Rptr.3d 168].)

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10~~11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~249~~301–~~285~~341

Friedman et al., California Practice Guide: Landlord-Tenant, Ch. 6-C, Immunity From Liability, ¶ 6:91 et seq. (The Rutter Group)

Hanning et al., California Practice Guide: Personal Injury, Ch. 2(III)-D, Liability For "Dangerous Conditions" Of Public Property, ¶ 2:2785 et seq. (The Rutter Group)

2 California Government Tort Liability Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar 4th ed.) §§ 12.9–12.55

5 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 61, Particular Liabilities and Immunities of Public Entities and Public Employees, § 61.01 (Matthew Bender)

40 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 464, Public Entities and Officers: California Government Claims Act, § 464.81 (Matthew Bender)

19A California Points and Authorities, Ch. 196*, Public Entities*, § 196.11 (Matthew Bender)

1102. Definition of "Dangerous Condition" (Gov. Code, § 830(a))

A "dangerous condition" is a condition of public property that creates a substantial risk of injury to members of the general public when the property [or adjacent property] is used with reasonable care and in a reasonably foreseeable manner. A condition that creates only a minor risk of injury is not a dangerous condition. [Whether the property is in a dangerous condition is to be determined without regard to whether [name of plaintiff]/ [or] [name of third party] exercised or failed to exercise reasonable care in [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] use of the property.]

New September 2003; Revised June 2010, May 2020

Directions for Use

Give this instruction if a plaintiff claims that a condition of public property creates a substantial risk of injury to the plaintiff as a user of public or adjacent property when the property was used with reasonable care and in a reasonably foreseeable manner. (Gov. Code, § 830(a).) For claims involving conditions on the adjacent property that are alleged to have contributed to making the public property dangerous, give CACI No. 1125, Conditions on Adjacent Property.

Give the last sentence if comparative fault is at issue. It clarifies that comparative fault does not negate the possible existence of a dangerous condition. (See Fredette v. City of Long Beach (1986) 187 Cal.App.3d 122, 131 [231 Cal.Rptr. 598].)

Sources and Authority

- "Dangerous Condition" Defined. Government Code section 830(a).
- No Liability for Minor Risk. Government Code section 830.2.
- "The Act defines a' "[d]angerous condition" 'as 'a condition of property that creates a substantial (as distinguished from a minor, trivial or insignificant) risk of injury when such property or adjacent property is used with due care in a manner in which it is reasonably foreseeable that it will be used.' Public property is in a dangerous condition within the meaning of section 835 if it 'is physically damaged, deteriorated, or defective in such a way as to foreseeably endanger those using the property itself.' " (Cordova v. City of L.A. (2015) 61 Cal.4th 1099, 1105 [190 Cal.Rptr.3d 850, 353 P.3d 773], internal citations omitted.)
- "A public entity is not, without more, liable under section 835 for the harmful conduct of third parties on its property. But if a condition of public property 'creates a substantial risk of injury even when the property is used with due care', a public entity 'gains no immunity from liability simply because, in a particular case, the dangerous condition of its property combines with a third party's negligent conduct to inflict injury.' " (Cordova, supra, 61 Cal.4th at p. 1105, internal citations omitted.)
- "In general, '[whether] a given set of facts and circumstances creates a dangerous condition is usually a question of fact and may only be resolved as a question of law if reasonable minds can come to but one conclusion.' " (Peterson v. San Francisco Community College Dist. (1984) 36 Cal.3d 799, 810 [205 Cal.Rptr. 842, 685 P.2d 1193], internal citation omitted.)

- "An initial and essential element of recovery for premises liability under the governing statutes is proof a dangerous condition existed. The law imposes no duty on a landowner—including a public entity—to repair trivial defects, or 'to maintain [its property] in an absolutely perfect condition.' " (Stathoulis v. City of Montebello (2008) 164 Cal.App.4th 559, 566 [78 Cal.Rptr.3d 910], internal citations omitted.)

- "The status of a condition as 'dangerous' for purposes of the statutory definition does not depend on whether the plaintiff or other persons were actually exercising due care but on whether the condition of the property posed a substantial risk of injury to persons who were exercising due care." (Cole v. Town of Los Gatos (2012) 205 Cal.App.4th 749, 768 [140 Cal.Rptr.3d 722], original italics.)

- "[T]he fact the particular plaintiff may not have used due care is relevant only to his [or her] comparative fault and not to the issue of the presence of a dangerous condition." (Castro v. City of Thousand Oaks (2015) 239 Cal.App.4th 1451, 1459 [192 Cal.Rptr.3d 376].)

- "The negligence of a plaintiff-user of public property ... is a defense which may be asserted by a public entity; it has no bearing upon the determination of a 'dangerous condition' in the first instance. … If, however, it can be shown that the property is safe when used with due care and that a risk of harm is created only when foreseeable users fail to exercise due care, then such property is not 'dangerous' within the meaning of section 830, subdivision (a)." (Fredette, supra, 187 Cal.App.3d at p. 131, internal citation omitted.)

- "Even though it is foreseeable that persons may use public property without due care, a public entity may not be held liable for failing to take precautions to protect such persons." (Fredette, supra, 187 Cal.App.3d at p. 132, internal citation omitted.)

- "With respect to public streets, courts have observed 'any property can be dangerous if used in a sufficiently improper manner. For this reason, a public entity is only required to provide roads that are safe for reasonably foreseeable careful use. [Citation.] "If [] it can be shown that the property is safe when used with due care and that a risk of harm is created only when foreseeable users fail to exercise due care, then such property is not 'dangerous' within the meaning of section 830, subdivision (a)." [Citation.]' " (Sun v. City of Oakland (2008) 166 Cal.App.4th 1177, 1183 [83 Cal.Rptr.3d 372], internal citations omitted.)

- "A public entity is not charged with anticipating that a person will use the property in a criminal way, here, driving with a 'willful or wanton disregard for safety of persons or property ....' " (Fuller v. Department of Transportation (2019) 38 Cal.App.5th 1034, 1042 [251 Cal.Rptr.3d 549].)

- "[A] prior dangerous condition may require street lighting or other means to lessen the danger but the absence of street lighting is itself not a dangerous condition." (Mixon v. Pacific Gas & Electric Co. (2012) 207 Cal.App.4th 124, 133 [142 Cal.Rptr.3d 633].)

- "Although public entities may be held liable for injuries occurring to reasonably foreseeable users of the property, even when the property is used for a purpose for which it is not designed or which is illegal, liability may ensue only if the property creates a substantial risk of injury when it is used with due care. Whether a condition creates a substantial risk of harm depends on how the general public would use the property exercising due care, including children who are held to a lower standard of care. (§ 830.) The standard is an objective one; a plaintiff's particular condition ... , does not alter the standard." (Schonfeldt v. State of California (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 1462, 1466 [72 Cal.Rptr.2d 464], internal citations omitted.)

- "A public entity may be liable for a dangerous condition of public property even where the immediate cause of a plaintiff's injury is a third party's negligence if some physical characteristic of the property exposes its users to increased danger from third party negligence. 'But it is insufficient to show only harmful third party conduct, like the conduct of a motorist. " '[T]hird party conduct, by itself, unrelated to the condition of the property, does not constitute a "dangerous condition" for which a public entity may be held liable.' " … There must be a defect in the physical condition of the property and that defect must have some causal relationship to the third party conduct that injures the plaintiff. …' " (Salas v. Department of Transportation (2011) 198 Cal.App.4th 1058, 1069–1070 [129 Cal.Rptr.3d 690], internal citation omitted.)

- "Nothing in the provisions of section 835, however, specifically precludes a finding that a public entity may be under a duty, given special circumstances, to protect against harmful criminal conduct on its property." (Peterson, supra, 36 Cal.3d at pp. 810–811, internal citations omitted.)

- "Two points applicable to this case are ... well established: first, that the location of public property, by virtue of which users are subjected to hazards on adjacent property, may constitute a 'dangerous condition' under sections 830 and 835; second, that a physical condition of the public property that increases the risk of injury from third party conduct may be a 'dangerous condition' under the statutes." (Bonanno v. Central Contra Costa Transit Authority (2003) 30 Cal.4th 139, 154 [132 Cal.Rptr.2d 341, 65 P.3d 807].)

- "[T]he absence of other similar accidents is 'relevant to the determination of whether a condition is dangerous.' But the city cites no authority for the proposition that the absence of other similar accidents is dispositive of whether a condition is dangerous, or that it compels a finding of nondangerousness absent other evidence." (Lane v. City of Sacramento (2010) 183 Cal.App.4th 1337, 1346 [107 Cal.Rptr.3d 730], original italics, internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10~~11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, § ~~269~~321

2 California Government Tort Liability Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar 4th ed.) § 12.15

5 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 61, Particular Liabilities and Immunities of Public Entities and Public Employees, § 61.01[2][a] (Matthew Bender)

40 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 464, Public Entities and Officers: California

Government Claims Act, § 464.81 (Matthew Bender)

19A California Points and Authorities, Ch. 196, Public Entities, § 196.11 (Matthew Bender)

VF-1100. Dangerous Condition of Public Property

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Did [name of defendant] own [or control] the property?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Was the property in a dangerous condition at the time of the ~~incident~~injury?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 2 is yes, then answer question 3. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

3. Did the dangerous condition create a reasonably foreseeable risk that this kind of ~~incident~~ injury would occur?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 3 is yes, then answer question 4. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

4. [Did the negligent or wrongful conduct of [name of defendant]'s employee acting within the scope of ~~his or her~~ employment create the dangerous condition?]

   [or]

   [Did [name of defendant] have notice of the dangerous condition for a long enough time for [name of defendant] to have protected against it?]
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 4 is yes, then answer question 5. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

5. Was the dangerous condition a substantial factor in causing harm to [name of plaintiff]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 5 is yes, then answer question 6. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

6. What are [name of plaintiff]'s damages?

[a. Past economic loss

[lost earnings	$ _____]
[lost profits	$ _____]
[medical expenses	$ _____]
[other past economic loss	$ _____]

Total Past Economic Damages: $ _____]

[b. Future economic loss

[lost earnings	$ _____]
[lost profits	$ _____]
[medical expenses	$ _____]
[other future economic loss	$ _____]

Total Future Economic Damages: $ _____]

[c. Past noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]

$ _____]

[d. Future noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]

$ _____]

TOTAL $ _____

Signed: _____
Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

After [this verdict form has/all verdict forms have] been signed, notify the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant] that you are ready to present your verdict in the courtroom.

New September 2003; Revised April 2007, December 2010, December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 1100, Dangerous Condition on Public Property—Essential Factual Elements.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 6. The breakdown is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

VF-1201. Strict Products Liability—Design Defect—Affirmative Defense—Misuse or Modification

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Did [name of defendant] [manufacture/distribute/sell] the [product]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Was the [product] [misused/ [or] modified] after it left [name of defendant]'s possession in a way that was so highly extraordinary that it was not reasonably foreseeable to [him/her/nonbinary pronoun/it]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 2 is yes, then answer question 3. If you answered no, skip question 3 and answer question 4.

3. Was the [misuse/ [or] modification] the sole cause of [name of plaintiff]'s harm?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 3 is no, then answer question 4. If you answered yes, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

[4. Is the [product] one about which an ordinary consumer can form reasonable minimum safety expectations?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 4 is yes, answer question 5. If your answer is no, skip question 5 and answer question 6.]

[5. Did the [product] fail to perform as safely as an ordinary consumer would have expected when used or misused in an intended or reasonably foreseeable way?
____ Yes ____ No

Regardless of your answer to question 5, answer question 6.]

[6. Did the ~~risk of the [product]'s design outweigh the~~ benefits of the [product]'s design outweigh the risks of the design?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to ~~either~~ question 5 ~~or question 6~~ is yes or your answer to question 6 is no, answer question 7. If you answered no to ~~both~~ question~~s~~ 5 and yes to question 6, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.]

7. Was the [product]'s design a substantial factor in causing harm to [name of plaintiff]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 7 is yes, then answer question 8. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

8. What are [name of plaintiff]'s damages?

[a. Past economic loss
[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other past economic loss $ _____]
Total Past Economic Damages: $ _____]

[b. Future economic loss
[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other future economic loss $ _____]
Total Future Economic Damages: $ _____]

[c. Past noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]
$ _____]

[d. Future noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]
$ _____]

TOTAL $ _____

Signed: _____
Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

After [this verdict form has/all verdict forms have] been signed, notify the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant] that you are ready to present your verdict in the courtroom.

New September 2003; Revised October 2004, April 2007, April 2009, December 2010, June 2011, December 2011, December 2014, December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 1203, Strict Liability—Design Defect—Consumer Expectation Test—Essential Factual Elements, CACI No. 1204, Strict Liability—Design Defect—Risk-Benefit Test—Essential Factual Elements—Shifting Burden of Proof, and CACI No. 1245, Affirmative Defense—Product Misuse or Modification. If the comparative fault or negligence of the plaintiff or of third persons is at issue, questions 6 through 9 of CACI No. VF-1200, Strict Products Liability—Manufacturing Defect—Comparative Fault at Issue, may be added at the end.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

This verdict form can be used in a case in which the jury will decide design defect under both the consumer expectation and the risk-benefit tests. If only the risk-benefit test is at issue, omit questions 4 and 5. If only the consumer expectation test is at issue, omit question 6. Modify the transitional language following questions 5 and 6 if only one test is at issue in the case. Include question 4 if the court has decided to give to the jury the preliminary question as to whether the consumer expectation test can be applied to the product at issue in the case. (See Saller v. Crown Cork & Seal Co., Inc. (2010) 187 Cal.App.4th 1220, 1233–1234 [115 Cal.Rptr.3d 151].) An additional question may be needed if the defendant claims that the plaintiff's injuries were caused by some product other than the defendant's.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 8. The breakdown is optional depending on the circumstances.

If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

1305. Battery by Peace Officer—Essential Factual Elements

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] harmed [him/her/nonbinary pronoun] by using unreasonable force to [arrest [him/her/nonbinary pronoun]/prevent [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] escape/overcome [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] resistance/[insert other applicable action]]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] intentionally touched [name of plaintiff] [or caused [name of plaintiff] to be touched];

2. That [name of defendant] used unreasonable force to [arrest/prevent the escape of/overcome the resistance of/insert other applicable action] [name of plaintiff];

3. That [name of plaintiff] did not consent to the use of that force;

4. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

5. That [name of defendant]'s use of unreasonable force was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

[A/An] [insert type of peace officer] may use reasonable force to arrest or detain a person when the officer ~~he or she~~ has reasonable cause to believe that that person has committed a crime. Even if the ~~[insert type of peace officer]~~ officer is mistaken, a person being arrested or detained has a duty not to use force to resist the ~~[insert type of peace officer]~~ officer unless the [insert type of peace officer] is using unreasonable force.

In deciding whether [name of defendant] used unreasonable force, you must determine the amount of force that would have appeared reasonable to [a/an] [insert type of peace officer] in [name of defendant]'s position under the same or similar circumstances. You should consider, among other factors, the following:

(a) The seriousness of the crime at issue;

(b) Whether [name of plaintiff] reasonably appeared to pose an immediate threat to the safety of [name of defendant] or others; and

(c) Whether [name of plaintiff] was actively resisting arrest or attempting to evade arrest.

[[A/An] [insert type of peace officer] who makes or attempts to make an arrest is not required to retreat or cease from ~~his or her~~ the officer's efforts because the person being arrested resists or threatens to ~~of the resistance or threatened~~ resist~~ance of the person being arrested~~.]

New September 2003; Revised December 2012, May 2020

Directions for Use

For additional authorities on excessive force, see the Sources and Authority for CACI No. 440, Unreasonable Force by Law Enforcement in Arrest or Other Seizure–Essential Factual Elements, and CACI No. 3020, Excessive Use of Force—Unreasonable Arrest or Other Seizure—Essential Factual Elements.

For cases involving the use of deadly force by a peace officer, Penal Code section 835a may require modifications to the instruction.

Sources and Authority

- Use of Objectively Reasonable Force to Arrest. ~~California~~ Penal Code section 835a.
- Duty to Submit to Arrest. ~~California~~ Penal Code section 834a.
- "Plaintiff must prove unreasonable force as an element of the tort." (Edson v. City of Anaheim (1998) 63 Cal.App.4th 1269, 1272 [74 Cal.Rptr.2d 614].)
- " ' "The 'reasonableness' of a particular use of force must be judged from the perspective of a reasonable officer on the scene, rather than with the 20/20 vision of hindsight. … [T]he question is whether the officers' actions are 'objectively reasonable' in light of the facts and circumstances confronting them, without regard to their underlying intent or motivation. …" ' In calculating whether the amount of force was excessive, a trier of fact must recognize that peace officers are often forced to make split-second judgments, in tense circumstances, concerning the amount of force required." (Brown v. Ransweiler (2009) 171 Cal.App.4th 516, 527–528 [89 Cal.Rptr.3d 801], internal citations omitted.)
- "A police officer's use of deadly force is reasonable if ' " 'the officer has probable cause to believe that the suspect poses a significant threat of death or serious physical injury to the officer or others.' …" …' " (Brown, supra, 171 Cal.App.4th at p. 528.)
- "[T]here is no right to use force, reasonable or otherwise, to resist an unlawful detention ... ." (Evans v. City of Bakersfield (1994) 22 Cal.App.4th 321, 333 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 406].)
- "[E]xecution of an unlawful arrest or detention does not give license to an individual to strike or assault the officer unless excessive force is used or threatened; excessive force in that event triggers the individual's right of self-defense." (Evans, supra, 22 Cal.App.4th at p. 331, internal citation omitted.)
- "Consistent with these principles and the factors the high court has identified, the federal court in this case did not instruct the jury to conduct some abstract or nebulous balancing of competing interests. Instead, as noted above, it instructed the jury to determine the reasonableness of the officers' actions in light of 'the totality of the circumstances at the time,' including 'the severity of the crime at issue, whether the plaintiff posed a reasonable threat to the safety of the officer or others, and whether the plaintiff was actively resisting detention or attempting to escape.' The same consideration of the totality of the circumstances is required in determining reasonableness under California negligence law. Moreover, California's civil jury instructions specifically direct the jury, in determining whether police officers used unreasonable force for purposes of tort liability, to consider the same factors that the high court has identified and that the federal court's instructions in this case set forth. (Judicial Council of Cal. Civ. Jury Instns. (2008) CACI No. 1305.) Thus, plaintiffs err in arguing that the federal and state standards of reasonableness differ in that the former involves a fact finder's balancing of competing interests." (Hernandez v. City of Pomona (2009) 46 Cal.4th 501, 514 [94 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1, 207 P.3d 506], internal citation omitted.)

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10~~11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, § ~~424~~496

3 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 41, Assault and Battery, § 41.24 (Matthew Bender)

6 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 58, Assault and Battery, §§ 58.22, 58.61, 58.92 (Matthew Bender)

2 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 21, Assault and Battery, § 21.20 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

1 California Civil Practice: Torts § 12:22 (Thomson Reuters)

1812. Comprehensive Computer Data and Access Fraud Act—Essential Factual Elements (Pen. Code, § 502)

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] has violated the Comprehensive Computer Data and Access Fraud Act. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] is the [owner/lessee] of the [specify computer, computer system, computer network, computer program, and/or data];

2. That [name of defendant] knowingly [specify one or more prohibited acts from Pen. Code, § 502(c), e.g., accessed [name of plaintiff]'s data on a computer, computer system, or computer network];

[3. That [name of defendant]'s [specify conduct from Pen. Code, § 502(c), e.g., use of the computer services] was without [name of plaintiff]'s permission;]

[4.] That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

[5.] That [name of defendant]'s conduct was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

New May 2020

Directions for Use

Give this instruction for a claim under the Comprehensive Computer Data Access and Fraud Act (CDAFA). CDAFA makes civil remedies available to any person who suffers damage or loss by reason of the commission of certain computer-related offenses. (Pen. Code, § 502(c), (e)(1).)

For element 1, the court may need to define the technology (e.g., "computer network," "computer program or software," "computer system," or "data") or other statutory term depending on the facts and circumstances of the particular case. (See Pen. Code, § 502(b) [defining various terms].) For a definition of "access," see CACI No. 1813, Definition of "Access."

Some of the prohibited acts for element 2 may also require that the defendant do something specific with the access or that the defendant have a specific purpose. For example, if the defendant allegedly deleted or used plaintiff's computer data, it must have been done without permission and either to (a) devise or execute any scheme or artifice to defraud, deceive, or extort, or (b) wrongfully control or obtain money, property, or data. (See Pen. Code, § 502(c)(1).) Modify the instruction to include these elements where required.

Include element 3 regarding lack of permission depending on the violation(s) alleged. Lack of permission is a required element for violations of subdivisions (c)(1)–(7) and (c)(9)–(13), but not for violations of subdivisions (c)(8) and (c)(14). Modify element 3 accordingly. Delete element 3 for violations of the latter subdivisions.

If plaintiff's claim involves a "government computer system" or a "public safety infrastructure computer system" and there is a factual dispute about the type of computer system involved, this instruction should be modified to add that issue as an element. (See Pen. Code, § 502(c)(10), (11), (12), (13), and (14).)

Sources and Authority

- Comprehensive Computer Data Access and Fraud Act. Penal Code section 502.

- "Penal Code section 502, subdivision (e)(1) permits a civil action to recover expenses related to investigating the unauthorized computer access." (Verio Healthcare, Inc. v. Superior Court (2016) 3 Cal.App.5th 1315, 1319–1321 [208 Cal.Rptr.3d 436].)

- "Four of the section 502, subdivision (c) offenses include access as an element. The provision under which [defendant] was charged does not. When different words are used in adjoining subdivisions of a statute that were enacted at the same time, that fact raises a compelling inference that a different meaning was intended. The Legislature's requirement of unpermitted access in some section 502 offenses and its failure to require that element in other parts of the same statute raise a strong inference that the subdivisions that do not require unpermitted access were intended to apply to persons who gain lawful access to a computer but then abuse that access." (People v. Childs (2013) 220 Cal.App.4th 1079, 1102 [164 Cal.Rptr.3d 287], internal citations omitted.)

- "[The CDAFA] does not require unauthorized access. It merely requires knowing access. What makes that access unlawful is that the person 'without permission takes, copies, or makes use of' data on the computer. A plain reading of the statute demonstrates that its focus is on unauthorized taking or use of information." (United States v. Christensen (9th Cir. 2015) 828 F.3d 763, 789, original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- "Because [defendant] had implied authorization to access [plaintiff]'s computers, it did not, at first, violate the [CDAFA]. But when [plaintiff] sent the cease and desist letter, [defendant], as it conceded, knew that it no longer had permission to access [plaintiff]'s computers at all. [Defendant], therefore, knowingly accessed and without permission took, copied, and made use of [plaintiff]'s data." (Facebook, Inc. v. Power Ventures, Inc. (9th Cir. 2016) 844 F.3d 1058, 1069.)

- "[T]aking data using a method prohibited by the applicable terms of use, when the taking itself generally is permitted, does not violate the CDAFA." (Oracle USA, Inc. v. Rimini Street, Inc. (9th Cir. 2018) 879 F.3d 948, 962, reversed in part on other grounds by Rimini Street, Inc. v. Oracle USA, Inc. (2019) – U.S. –, 139 S.Ct. 873, 881 [203 L.Ed.2d 180], original italics.)

Secondary Sources

1813. Definition of "Access" (Pen. Code, § 502(b)(1))

The term "access" means to gain entry to, instruct, cause input to, cause output from, cause data processing with, or communicate with the logical, arithmetical, or memory function resources of a computer, computer system, or computer network.

A person can access a computer, computer system, or computer network in different ways. For example, access can be accomplished by sitting down at a computer and using the mouse and keyboard, or by using a wireless network or some other method or tool to gain remote entry.

New May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction should be read with CACI No. 1812, Comprehensive Computer Data and Access Fraud Act—Essential Factual Elements, for claims that require that the defendant "access" a computer, computer system, or computer network. (See Pen. Code, § 502 (c)(1), (2), (4), (7), and (11).)

Sources and Authority

- "Access" Defined. Penal Code section 502(b)(1).

- "Underscoring that 'accessing' a computer's 'logical, arithmetical, or memory function' is different from the ordinary, everyday use of a computer to which people are accustomed when they speak of 'using' a computer, another subdivision criminalizes 'us[ing] or caus[ing] to be used computer services' without permission. Principles of statutory interpretation obligate us to give different meanings to the words 'use' and 'access' in order to avoid rendering either word redundant." (Chrisman v. City of Los Angeles (2007) 155 Cal.App.4th 29, 34 [65 Cal.Rptr.3d 701], internal citation and footnote omitted.)

- "Public access computer terminals are increasingly common in the offices of many governmental bodies and agencies, from courthouses to tax assessors. We believe subdivision (c)(7) was designed to criminalize unauthorized access to the software and data in such systems, even where none of the other illegal activities listed in subdivision (c) have occurred." (People v. Lawton (1996) 48 Cal.App.4th Supp. 11, 15 [56 Cal.Rptr.2d 521].)

Secondary Sources

1814. Damages for Investigating Violations of Comprehensive Computer Data and Access Fraud Act (Pen. Code, § 502(e)(1))

To recover damages for money spent to investigate or verify whether [name of plaintiff]'s computer system, computer network, computer program, or data [was or was not/were or were not] altered, damaged, or deleted by [name of defendant]'s access, [name of plaintiff] must prove the amount of money reasonably and necessarily spent to conduct such an investigation.

New May 2020

Directions for Use

Give this instruction for violations of the Comprehensive Computer Data and Access Fraud Act in which there is evidence that the plaintiff spent money to investigate or verify the defendant's wrongful conduct. (See Pen. Code, § 502; CACI No. 1812, Comprehensive Computer Data and Access Fraud Act—Essential Factual Elements.) In some cases, it may be appropriate to tailor the instruction to specify the technology or data at issue (e.g., the name of a computer program or the plaintiff's data files).

For other damages instructions, see the Damages series, CACI Nos. 3900 et seq.

Punitive or exemplary damages are available for willful violations. (Pen. Code, § 502(e)(4).) For instructions on punitive damages, see CACI Nos. 3940–3949.

Sources and Authority

- Compensatory Damages. Penal Code section 502(e)(1).

Secondary Sources

2511. Adverse Action Made by Decision Maker Without Animus (Cat's Paw)

In this case, the decision to [discharge/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff] was made by [name of decision maker]. Even if [name of decision maker] did not hold any [discriminatory/retaliatory] intent [or was unaware of [name of plaintiff]'s conduct on which the claim of retaliation is based], [name of defendant] may still be liable for [discrimination/retaliation] if [name of decision maker] followed a recommendation from or relied on facts provided by a supervisor who had [discriminatory/retaliatory] intent.

To succeed, [name of plaintiff] must prove~~s~~ both of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff]'s [specify protected activity or attribute] was a substantial motivating reason for [name of supervisor]'s [specify acts of supervisor on which decision maker relied]; and

2. That [name of supervisor]'s [specify acts on which decision maker relied] was a substantial motivating reason for [name of decision maker]'s decision to [discharge/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff].

New December 2012; Revised June 2013, May 2020

Directions for Use

Give this instruction if the "cat's paw" rule is a factor in the case. Under the cat's paw rule, the person who actually took the adverse employment action against the employee was not acting out of any improper animus. The decision maker, however, acted on information provided by a supervisor who was acting out of discriminatory or retaliatory animus with the objective of causing the adverse employment action. The decision maker is referred to as the "cat's paw" of the person with the animus. (See Reeves v. Safeway Stores, Inc. (2004) 121 Cal.App.4th 95, 100 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 717].)

The purpose of this instruction is to make it clear to the jury that they are not to evaluate the motives or knowledge of the decision maker, but rather to decide whether the acts of the supervisor with animus actually caused the adverse action. Give the optional language in the second sentence of the first paragraph in a retaliation case in which the decision maker was not aware of the plaintiff's conduct that allegedly led to the retaliation (defense of ignorance). (See Reeves, supra, 121 Cal.App.4th at pp. 106–108.)

Element 1 requires that the protected activity or attribute be a substantial motivating reason for the retaliatory acts. Element 2 requires that the supervisor's improper motive be a substantial motivating reason for the decision maker's action. (See Harris v. City of Santa Monica (2013) 56 Cal.4th 203, 232 [152 Cal.Rptr.3d 392, 294 P.3d 49]; see also CACI No. 2507, "Substantial Motivating Reason" Explained.)

In both elements 1 and 2, all of the supervisor's specific acts need not be listed in all cases. Depending on the facts, doing so may be too cumbersome and impractical. If the specific acts are listed, the list should include all acts on which plaintiff claims the decision maker relied, not just the acts admitted to have been relied on by the decision maker.

Sources and Authority

- "This case presents the question whether an employer may be liable for retaliatory discharge when the supervisor who initiates disciplinary proceedings acts with retaliatory animus, but the cause for discipline is separately investigated and the ultimate decision to discharge the plaintiff is made by a manager with no knowledge that the worker has engaged in protected activities. We hold that so long as the supervisor's retaliatory motive was an actuating … cause of the dismissal, the employer may be liable for retaliatory discharge. Here the evidence raised triable issues as to the existence and effect of retaliatory motive on the part of the supervisor, and as to whether the manager and the intermediate investigator acted as tools or 'cat's paws' for the supervisor, that is, instrumentalities by which his retaliatory animus was carried into effect to plaintiff's injury." (Reeves, supra, 121 Cal.App.4th at p. 100.)

- "We do not suggest that discrimination must be alone sufficient to bring about an employment decision in order to constitute a substantial motivating factor. But it is important to recognize that discrimination can be serious, consequential, and even by itself determinative of an employment decision without also being a "'but for'" cause." (Harris, supra, 56 Cal.4th at p. 229.)

- "Requiring the plaintiff to show that discrimination was a substantial motivating factor, rather than simply a motivating factor, more effectively ensures that liability will not be imposed based on evidence of mere thoughts or passing statements unrelated to the disputed employment decision. At the same time, … proof that discrimination was a substantial factor in an employment decision triggers the deterrent purpose of the FEHA and thus exposes the employer to liability, even if other factors would have led the employer to make the same decision at the time." (Harris, supra, 56 Cal.4th at p. 232, original italics.)

- "This concept—which for convenience we will call the 'defense of ignorance'—poses few analytical challenges so long as the 'employer' is conceived as a single entity receiving and responding to stimuli as a unitary, indivisible organism. But this is often an inaccurate picture in a world where a majority of workers are employed by large economic enterprises with layered and compartmentalized management structures. In such enterprises, decisions significantly affecting personnel are rarely if ever the responsibility of a single actor. As a result, unexamined assertions about the knowledge, ignorance, or motives of 'the employer' may be fraught with ambiguities, untested assumptions, and begged questions." (Reeves, supra, 121 Cal.App.4th at p. 108.)

- "Certainly a defendant does not conclusively negate the element of causation by showing only that some responsible actors, but not all, were ignorant of the occasion for retaliation." (Reeves, supra, 121 Cal.App.4th at p. 108.)

- "Here a rational fact finder could conclude that an incident of minor and excusable disregard for a supervisor's stated preferences was amplified into a 'solid case' of 'workplace violence,' and that this metamorphosis was brought about in necessary part by a supervisor's desire to rid himself of a worker who created trouble by complaining of matters the supervisor preferred to ignore. Since those complaints were protected activities under FEHA, a finder of fact must be permitted to decide whether these inferences should in fact be drawn." (Reeves, supra, 121 Cal.App.4th at p. 121.)

- "Our emphasis on the conduct of supervisors is not inadvertent. An employer can generally be held liable for the discriminatory or retaliatory actions of supervisors. The outcome is less clear where the only actor possessing the requisite animus is a nonsupervisory coworker." (Reeves, supra, 121 Cal.App.4th at p. 109 fn. 9, original italics, internal citation omitted.)

Secondary Sources

8 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10~~11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Constitutional Law, §§ ~~921~~1025, ~~940~~1026, 1052, 1053

Chin et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 7-A, Title VII And The California Fair Employment And Housing Act, ¶ 7:806.5 (The Rutter Group)

2 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 41, Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws, § 41.131 (Matthew Bender)

11 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 115, Civil Rights: Employment Discrimination, § 115.37[3][a] (Matthew Bender)

2521C. Work Environment Harassment—~~Widespread~~ Sexual Favoritism—Essential Factual Elements—Employer or Entity Defendant (Gov. Code, §§ 12923, 12940(j))

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was subjected to harassment based on ~~widespread~~ sexual favoritism at [name of defendant] and that this harassment created a work environment that was hostile, intimidating, offensive, oppressive, or abusive. "Sexual favoritism" means that another employee has received preferential treatment with regard to promotion, work hours, assignments, or other significant employment benefits or opportunities because of a sexual relationship with an individual representative of the employer who was in a position to grant those preferences.

To establish this claim, [*name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] was [an employee of/a person providing services under a contract with/an unpaid intern with/a volunteer with] [name of defendant];

2. That there was sexual favoritism in the work environment;

3. ~~That the sexual favoritism was widespread;~~

~~4.~~ That the sexual favoritism was severe or pervasive;

4~~5~~. That a reasonable [describe member of protected group, e.g., woman] in [name of plaintiff]'s circumstances would have considered the work environment to be hostile, intimidating, offensive, oppressive, or abusive because of the ~~widespread~~ sexual favoritism;

5~~6~~. That [name of plaintiff] considered the work environment to be hostile, intimidating, offensive, oppressive, or abusive because of the ~~widespread~~ sexual favoritism;

6~~7~~. [Select applicable basis of defendant's liability:]

[That a supervisor [engaged in the conduct/created the ~~widespread~~ sexual favoritism];]

[*or]

[That [*name of defendant] [or [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] supervisors or agents] knew or should have known of the ~~widespread~~ sexual favoritism and failed to take immediate and appropriate corrective action;]

7~~8~~. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

8~~9~~. That the conduct was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

Derived from former CACI No. 2521 December 2007; Revised December 2015, May 2018, July 2019.

May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction is for use in a hostile work environment case involving ~~widespread~~ sexual favoritism when the defendant is an employer or other entity covered by the FEHA. For an individual defendant, such as the alleged harasser or plaintiff's coworker, see CACI No. 2522C, Work Environment Harassment—~~Widespread~~ Sexual Favoritism—Essential Factual Elements—Individual Defendant. For a case in which the plaintiff is the target of harassment based on a protected status such as gender, race, or sexual orientation, see CACI No. 2521A, Work Environment Harassment—Conduct Directed at Plaintiff—Essential Factual Elements—Employer or Entity Defendant. For an instruction for use if the plaintiff is not the target of the harassment, see CACI No. 2521B, Work Environment Harassment—Conduct Directed at Others—Essential Factual Elements—Employer or Entity Defendant. Also read CACI No. 2523, "Harassing Conduct" Explained, and CACI No. 2524, "Severe or Pervasive" Explained.

In element ~~7~~ 6, select the applicable basis of employer liability: (a) strict liability for a supervisor's harassing conduct, or (b) the employer's ratification of the conduct. For a definition of "supervisor," see CACI No. 2525, Harassment—"Supervisor" Defined. If there are both employer and individual supervisor defendants (see CACI No. 2522C, Work Environment Harassment—~~Widespread~~ Sexual Favoritism—Essential Factual Elements—Individual Defendant) and both are found liable, they are both jointly and severally liable for any damages. Comparative fault and Proposition 51 do not apply to the employer's strict liability for supervisor harassment. (State Dep't of Health Servs. v. Superior Court (2003) 31 Cal.4th 1026, 1041–1042 [6 Cal.Rptr.3d 441, 79 P.3d 556]; see Bihun v. AT&T Information Systems, Inc. (1993) 13 Cal.App.4th 976, 1000 [16 Cal.Rptr.2d 787], disapproved on other grounds in Lakin v. Watkins Associated Industries (1993) 6 Cal.4th 644, 664 [25 Cal.Rptr.2d 109, 863 P.2d 179]; see also Rashtian v. BRAC-BH, Inc. (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1847, 1851 [12 Cal.Rptr.2d 411] [Proposition 51 cannot be applied to those who are without fault and only have vicarious liability by virtue of some statutory fiat].)

See also the Sources and Authority to CACI No. 2521A, Work Environment Harassment—Conduct Directed at Plaintiff—Essential Factual Elements—Employer or Entity Defendant.

Sources and Authority

- Declaration of Legislative Intent With Regard to Application of the Laws About Harassment. Government Code section 12923.
- Harassment Prohibited Under Fair Employment and Housing Act. Government Code section 12940(j)(1).
- "Employer" Defined for Harassment. Government Code section 12940(j)(4)(A).
- Person Providing Services Under Contract. Government Code section 12940(j)(5).
- Harassment Because of Sex. Government Code section 12940(j)(4)(C).

- Aiding and Abetting Fair Employment and Housing Act Violations. Government Code section 12940(i).

- Perception and Association. Government Code section 12926(o).

- "The elements [of a prima facie claim of hostile-environment sexual harassment] are: (1) plaintiff belongs to a protected group; (2) plaintiff was subject to unwelcome sexual harassment; (3) the harassment complained of was based on sex; (4) the harassment complained of was sufficiently pervasive so as to alter the conditions of employment and create an abusive working environment; and (5) respondeat superior." (Fisher v. San Pedro Peninsula Hospital (1989) 214 Cal.App.3d 590, 608 [262 Cal.Rptr. 842], footnote omitted.)

- "[T]he adjudicator's inquiry should center, dominantly, on whether the discriminatory conduct has unreasonably interfered with the plaintiff's work performance. To show such interference, 'the plaintiff need not prove that his or her tangible productivity has declined as a result of the harassment.' It suffices to prove that a reasonable person subjected to the discriminatory conduct would find, as the plaintiff did, that the harassment so altered working conditions as to 'make it more difficult to do the job.' " (Harris v. Forklift Sys. (1993) 510 U.S. 17, 25 [114 S.Ct. 367, 126 L.Ed.2d 295], conc. opn. of Ginsburg, J; see Gov. Code, § 12923(a) endorsing this language as reflective of California law.)

- "Following the guidance of the EEOC, and also employing standards adopted in our prior cases, we believe that an employee may establish an actionable claim of sexual harassment under the FEHA by demonstrating that widespread sexual favoritism was severe or pervasive enough to alter his or her working conditions and create a hostile work environment." (Miller v. Dept. of Corrections (2005) 36 Cal.4th 446, 466 [30 Cal.Rptr.3d 797, 115 P.3d 77], internal citations omitted.)

- "[S]exual favoritism by a manager may be actionable when it leads employees to believe that 'they [can] obtain favorable treatment from [the manager] if they became romantically involved with him', the affair is conducted in a manner 'so indiscreet as to create a hostile work environment,' or the manager has engaged in 'other pervasive conduct … which created a hostile work environment.' " (Miller, supra, 36 Cal.4th at p. 465, internal citations omitted.)

- "[A] romantic relationship between a supervisor and an employee does not, without more, give rise to a sexual discrimination or sexual harassment claim either under the FEHA or the public policy of the state." (Proksel v. Gattis (1996) 41 Cal.App.4th 1626, 1631 [49 Cal.Rptr.2d 322].)

- "The FEHA imposes two standards of employer liability for sexual harassment, depending on whether the person engaging in the harassment is the victim's supervisor or a nonsupervisory coemployee. The employer is liable for harassment by a nonsupervisory employee only if the employer (a) knew or should have known of the harassing conduct and (b) failed to take immediate and appropriate corrective action. This is a negligence standard. Because the FEHA imposes this negligence standard only for harassment 'by an employee other than an agent or supervisor', by implication the FEHA makes the employer strictly liable for harassment by a supervisor." (State Dep't of Health Servs., supra, 31 Cal.4th at pp. 1040–1041, original italics.)

- "The applicable language of the FEHA does not suggest that an employer's liability for sexual harassment by a supervisor is constrained by principles of agency law. Had the Legislature so intended, it would have used language in the FEHA imposing the negligence standard of liability on acts of harassment by an employee 'other than an agent,' 'not acting as the employer's agent,' or 'not acting within the scope of an agency for the employer.' By providing instead in section 12940, subdivision (j)(1), that the negligence standard applies to acts of harassment 'by an employee other than an agent or supervisor' (italics added), the Legislature has indicated that all acts of harassment by a supervisor are to be exempted from the negligence standard, whether or not the supervisor was then acting as the employer's agent, and that agency principles come into play only when the harasser is not a supervisor. (State Dept. of Health Services, supra, 31 Cal.4th at p. 1041, original italics.)

- "[I]n order for the employer to avoid strict liability for the supervisor's actions under the FEHA, the harassment must result from a completely private relationship unconnected with the employment. Otherwise, the employer is strictly liable for the supervisor's actions regardless of whether the supervisor was acting as the employer's agent." (Myers v. Trendwest Resorts, Inc. (2007) 148 Cal.App.4th 1403, 1421 [56 Cal.Rptr.3d 501].)

- "In order to be actionable, it must be shown that respondents knew, or should have known, of the alleged harassment and failed to take appropriate action." (McCoy v. Pacific Maritime Assn. (2013) 216 Cal.App.4th 283, 294 [156 Cal.Rptr.3d 851].)

- "If an employee other than an agent or supervisor commits the harassment, and the employer takes immediate and appropriate corrective action when it becomes or reasonably should become aware of the conduct—for example, when the victim or someone else informs the employer—there simply is no 'unlawful employment practice' that the FEHA governs." (Carrisales v. Dept. of Corrections (1999) 21 Cal.4th 1132, 1136 [90 Cal.Rptr.2d 804, 988 P.2d 1083], called into doubt on other grounds by statute.)

Secondary Sources

4 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Agency and Employment, §§ 363, 370

Chin et al., Cal. Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 10-B, Sexual Harassment, ¶¶ 10:40, 10:110–10:260 (The Rutter Group)

1 Wrongful Employment Termination Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) Discrimination Claims, §§ 2.68, 2.75, Sexual and Other Harassment, §§ 3.1, 3.14, 3.17, 3.21, 3.36, 3.45

2 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 41, Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws, §§ 41.80[1][a], 41.81[1][b] (Matthew Bender)

3 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 43, Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws, § 43.01[10][g][i] (Matthew Bender)

11 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 115, Civil Rights: Employment Discrimination, § 115.36 (Matthew Bender)

California Civil Practice: Employment Litigation § 2:56 (Thomson Reuters)

2522C. Work Environment Harassment—~~Widespread~~ Sexual Favoritism—Essential Factual Elements—Individual Defendant (Gov. Code, §§ 12923, 12940(j))

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was subjected to harassment based on ~~widespread~~ sexual favoritism at [name of employer] and that this harassment created a work environment that was hostile, intimidating, offensive, oppressive, or abusive. "Sexual favoritism" means that another employee has received preferential treatment with regard to promotion, work hours, assignments, or other significant employment benefits or opportunities because of a sexual relationship with an individual representative of the employer who was in a position to grant these preferences.

To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] was [an employee of/a person providing services under a contract with/an unpaid intern with/a volunteer with] [name of employer];

2. That there was sexual favoritism in the work environment;

3. ~~That the sexual favoritism was widespread;~~

~~4.~~ That the sexual favoritism was severe or pervasive;

4~~5~~. That a reasonable [describe member of protected group, e.g., woman] in [name of plaintiff]'s circumstances would have considered the work environment to be hostile, intimidating, offensive, oppressive, or abusive because of the ~~widespread~~ sexual favoritism;

5~~6~~. That [name of plaintiff] considered the work environment to be hostile, intimidating, offensive, oppressive, or abusive because of the ~~widespread~~ sexual favoritism;

6~~7~~. That [name of defendant] [participated in/assisted/ [or] encouraged] the sexual favoritism;

7~~8~~. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

8~~9~~. That the conduct was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

Derived from former CACI No. 2522 December 2007; Revised December 2015, May 2018, July 2019, May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction is for use in a hostile work environment case involving ~~widespread~~ sexual favoritism when the defendant is an individual such as the alleged harasser or plaintiff's coworker. For an employer defendant, see CACI No. 2521C, Work Environment Harassment—~~Widespread~~ Sexual Favoritism—

Essential Factual Elements—Employer or Entity Defendant. For a case in which the plaintiff is the target of harassment based on a protected status such as gender, race, or sexual orientation, see CACI No. 2522A, Work Environment Harassment—Conduct Directed at Plaintiff—Essential Factual Elements—Individual Defendant. For an instruction for use if the plaintiff is not the target of the harassment, see CACI No. 2522B, Work Environment Harassment—Conduct Directed at Others—Essential Factual Elements—Individual Defendant. Also read CACI No. 2523, "Harassing Conduct" Explained, and CACI No. 2524, "Severe or Pervasive" Explained.

If there are both employer and individual supervisor defendants (see CACI No. 2521C, Work Environment Harassment—~~Widespread~~ Sexual Favoritism—Essential Factual Elements—Employer or Entity Defendant) and both are found liable, they are both jointly and severally liable for any damages. Comparative fault and Proposition 51 do not apply to the employer's strict liability for supervisor harassment. (State Dep't of Health Servs. v. Superior Court (2003) 31 Cal.4th 1026, 1041–1042 [6 Cal.Rptr.3d 441, 79 P.3d 556]; see Bihun v. AT&T Information Systems, Inc. (1993) 13 Cal.App.4th 976, 1000 [16 Cal.Rptr.2d 787], disapproved on other grounds in Lakin v. Watkins Associated Industries (1993) 6 Cal.4th 644, 664 [25 Cal.Rptr.2d 109, 863 P.2d 179]; see also Rashtian v. BRAC-BH, Inc. (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1847, 1851 [12 Cal.Rptr.2d 411] [Proposition 51 cannot be applied to those who are without fault and only have vicarious liability by virtue of some statutory fiat].)

See also the Sources and Authority to CACI No. 2521A, Work Environment Harassment—Conduct Directed at Plaintiff—Essential Factual Elements—Employer or Entity Defendant.

Sources and Authority

- Declaration of Legislative Intent With Regard to Application of the Laws About Harassment. Government Code section 12923.
- Harassment Prohibited Under Fair Employment and Housing Act. Government Code section 12940(j)(1).
- Personal Liability for Harassment. Government Code section 12940(j)(3).
- "Employer" Defined for Harassment. Government Code section 12940(j)(4)(A).
- Harassment Because of Sex. Government Code section 12940(j)(4)(C).
- Person Providing Services Under Contract. Government Code section 12940(j)(5).
- Aiding and Abetting Fair Employment and Housing Act Violations. Government Code section 12940(i).
- Perception and Association. Government Code section 12926(o).
- "The elements [of a prima facie claim of hostile-environment sexual harassment] are: (1) plaintiff belongs to a protected group; (2) plaintiff was subject to unwelcome sexual harassment; (3) the harassment complained of was based on sex; (4) the harassment complained of was sufficiently pervasive so as to alter the conditions of employment and create an abusive working environment; and (5) respondeat superior." (Fisher v. San Pedro Peninsula Hospital (1989) 214 Cal.App.3d 590, 608 [262 Cal.Rptr. 842], footnote omitted.)

- "[T]he adjudicator's inquiry should center, dominantly, on whether the discriminatory conduct has unreasonably interfered with the plaintiff's work performance. To show such interference, 'the plaintiff need not prove that his or her tangible productivity has declined as a result of the harassment.' It suffices to prove that a reasonable person subjected to the discriminatory conduct would find, as the plaintiff did, that the harassment so altered working conditions as to 'make it more difficult to do the job.' " (Harris v. Forklift Sys. (1993) 510 U.S. 17, 25 [114 S.Ct. 367, 126 L.Ed.2d 295], conc. opn. of Ginsburg, J.; see Gov. Code, § 12923(a) endorsing this language as reflective of California law.)

- "Following the guidance of the EEOC, and also employing standards adopted in our prior cases, we believe that an employee may establish an actionable claim of sexual harassment under the FEHA by demonstrating that widespread sexual favoritism was severe or pervasive enough to alter his or her working conditions and create a hostile work environment." (Miller v. Dept. of Corrections (2005) 36 Cal.4th 446, 466 [30 Cal.Rptr.3d 797, 115 P.3d 77], internal citations omitted.)

- "[S]exual favoritism by a manager may be actionable when it leads employees to believe that 'they [can] obtain favorable treatment from [the manager] if they became romantically involved with him', the affair is conducted in a manner 'so indiscreet as to create a hostile work environment,' or the manager has engaged in 'other pervasive conduct … which created a hostile work environment.' " (Miller, supra, 36 Cal.4th at p. 465, internal citations omitted.)

- "[A] romantic relationship between a supervisor and an employee does not, without more, give rise to a sexual discrimination or sexual harassment claim either under the FEHA or the public policy of the state." (Proksel v. Gattis (1996) 41 Cal.App.4th 1626, 1631 [49 Cal.Rptr.2d 322].)
- "[W]e conclude a nonharassing supervisor, who fails to take action to prevent sexual harassment, is not personally liable for sexual harassment under the Fair Employment and Housing Act (FEHA)." (Fiol v. Doellstedt (1996) 50 Cal.App.4th 1318, 1322 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 308].)

- "A supervisor who, without more, fails to take action to prevent sexual harassment of an employee is not personally liable as an aider and abettor of the harasser, an aider and abettor of the employer or an agent of the employer." (Fiol, supra, 50 Cal.App.4th at p. 1331.)

Secondary Sources

~~4~~ 3 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Agency and Employment, §§ 363, 370

Chin et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 10-B, Sexual Harassment, ¶¶ 10:40, 10:110–10:260 (The Rutter Group)

1 Wrongful Employment Termination Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) Discrimination Claims, §§ 2.68, 2.75, Sexual and Other Harassment, §§ 3.1, 3.14, 3.17, 3.36–3.45

2 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 41, Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws, §§ 41.80[1][a], 41.81[1][b] (Matthew Bender)

3 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 43, Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws, § 43.01[10][g][i] (Matthew Bender)

11 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 115, Civil Rights: Employment Discrimination, § 115.36[5] (Matthew Bender)

California Civil Practice: Employment Litigation §§ 2:56, 2:56.50 (Thomson Reuters)

2540. Disability Discrimination—Disparate Treatment—Essential Factual Elements

---

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] wrongfully discriminated against [him/her/nonbinary pronoun] based on [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] [history of [a]] [select term to describe basis of limitations, e.g., physical condition]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] was [an employer/[other covered entity]];

2. That [name of plaintiff] [was an employee of [name of defendant]/applied to [name of defendant] for a job/[describe other covered relationship to defendant]];

3. That [name of defendant] knew that [name of plaintiff] had [a history of having] [a] [e.g., physical condition] [that limited [insert major life activity]];

4. That [name of plaintiff] was able to perform the essential job duties of [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] [current position/the position for which [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] applied, either with or without reasonable accommodation for [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] [e.g., condition]~~] [with reasonable accommodation for [his/her] [e.g., physical condition]]~~;

5. [That [name of defendant] [discharged/refused to hire/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff];]

   [or]

   [That [*name of defendant] subjected [name of plaintiff] to an adverse employment action;]

   [or]

   [That [*name of plaintiff] was constructively discharged;]

6. That [name of plaintiff]'s [history of [a]] [e.g., physical condition] was a substantial motivating reason for [name of defendant]'s [decision to [discharge/refuse to hire/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff]/conduct];

7. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

8. That [name of defendant]'s conduct was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

[*Name of plaintiff] does not need to prove that [name of defendant] held any ill will or animosity toward [him/her/nonbinary pronoun] personally because [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was [perceived to be] disabled. [On the other hand, if you find that [name of defendant] did hold ill will or animosity toward [name of plaintiff] because [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was [perceived to be] disabled, you may consider this fact, along with all the other evidence, in determining whether [name of plaintiff]'s [history of [a]] [e.g., physical condition] was a substantial motivating reason for [name of defendant]'s [decision to [discharge/refuse to hire/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff]/conduct].]

New September 2003; Revised June 2006, December 2007, April 2009, December 2009, June 2010, June 2012, June 2013, December 2014, December 2016, May 2019, May 2020

Directions for Use

Select a term to use throughout to describe the source of the plaintiff's limitations. It may be a statutory term such as "physical disability," "mental disability," or "medical condition." (See Gov. Code, § 12940(a).) Or it may be a general term such as "condition," "disease," or "disorder." Or it may be a specific health condition such as "diabetes."

In the introductory paragraph and in elements 3 and 6, select the bracketed language on "history" of disability if the claim of discrimination is based on a history of disability rather than a current actual disability.

For element 1, the court may need to instruct the jury on the statutory definition of "employer" under the FEHA. Other covered entities under the FEHA include labor organizations, employment agencies, and apprenticeship training programs. (See Gov. Code, § 12940(a)–(d).)

This instruction is for use by both an employee and a job applicant. Select the appropriate options in elements 2, ~~4,~~ 5, and 6 depending on the plaintiff's status.

Modify elements 3 and 6 if the plaintiff was not actually disabled or had a history of disability, but alleges discrimination because ~~he or she~~ the plaintiff was perceived to be disabled. (See Gov. Code, § 12926(o); see also Gov. Code, § 12926(j)(4), (m)(4) [mental and physical disability include being regarded or treated as disabled by the employer].) This can be done with language in element 3 that the employer "treated [name of plaintiff] as if [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] ..." and with language in element 6 "That [name of employer]'s belief that … ."

If the plaintiff alleges discrimination on the basis of ~~his or her~~ the plaintiff's association with someone who was or was perceived to be disabled, give CACI No. 2547, Disability-Based Associational Discrimination—Essential Factual Elements. (See Rope v. Auto-Chlor System of Washington, Inc. (2013) 220 Cal.App.4th 635, 655−660 [163 Cal.Rptr.3d 392] [claim for "disability based associational discrimination" adequately pled].)

If medical-condition discrimination as defined by statute (see Gov. Code, § 12926(i)) is alleged, omit "that limited [insert major life activity]" in element 3. (Compare Gov. Code, § 12926(i) with Gov. Code, § 12926(j), (m) [no requirement that medical condition limit major life activity].)

Regarding element 4, it is now settled that the ability to perform the essential duties of the job, with or without reasonable accommodation, is an element of the plaintiff's burden of proof. (See Green v. State of California (2007) 42 Cal.4th 254, 257–258 [64 Cal.Rptr.3d 390, 165 P.3d 118].)

Read the first option for element 5 if there is no dispute as to whether the employer's acts constituted an adverse employment action. Read the second option and also give CACI No. 2509, "Adverse Employment Action" Explained, if whether there was an adverse employment action is a question of fact for the jury. If constructive discharge is alleged, give the third option for element 5 and also give CACI No. 2510, "Constructive Discharge" Explained. Select "conduct" in element 6 if either the second or third option is included for element 5.

Element 6 requires that the disability be a substantial motivating reason for the adverse action. (See Harris v. City of Santa Monica (2013) 56 Cal.4th 203, 232 [152 Cal.Rptr.3d 392, 294 P.3d 49]; see also CACI No. 2507, "Substantial Motivating Reason" Explained.)

Give the optional sentence in the last paragraph if there is evidence that the defendant harbored personal animus against the plaintiff because of the plaintiff's ~~his or her~~ disability.

If the existence of a qualifying disability is disputed, additional instructions defining "physical disability," "mental disability," and "medical condition" may be required. (See Gov. Code, § 12926(i), (j), (m).)

Sources and Authority

- Disability Discrimination Prohibited Under Fair Employment and Housing Act. Government Code section 12940(a).
- Inability to Perform Essential Job Duties. Government Code section 12940(a)(1).
- "Medical Condition" Defined. Government Code section 12926(i).
- "Mental Disability" Defined. Government Code section 12926(j).
- "Physical Disability" Defined. Government Code section 12926(m).
- Perception of Disability and Association With Disabled Person Protected. Government Code section 12926(o).
- "Substantial" Limitation Not Required. Government Code section 12926.1(c).
- "[T]he plaintiff initially has the burden to establish a prima facie case of discrimination. The plaintiff can meet this burden by presenting evidence that demonstrates, even circumstantially or by inference, that he or she (1) suffered from a disability, or was regarded as suffering from a disability; (2) could perform the essential duties of the job with or without reasonable accommodations, and (3) was subjected to an adverse employment action because of the disability or perceived disability. To establish a prima facie case, a plaintiff must show ' " ' "actions taken by the employer from which one can infer, if such actions remain unexplained, that it is more likely than not that such actions were based on a [prohibited] discriminatory criterion … ." ' " …' The prima facie burden is light; the evidence necessary to sustain the burden is minimal. As noted above, while the elements of a plaintiff's prima facie case can vary considerably, generally an employee need only offer sufficient circumstantial evidence to give rise to a reasonable inference of discrimination." (Sandell v. Taylor-Listug, Inc. (2010) 188 Cal.App.4th 297, 310 [115 Cal.Rptr.3d 453], original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- "The distinction between cases involving direct evidence of the employer's motive for the adverse employment action and cases where there is only circumstantial evidence of the employer's discriminatory motive is critical to the outcome of this appeal. There is a vast body of case law that addresses proving discriminatory intent in cases where there was no direct evidence that the adverse employment action taken by the employer was motivated by race, religion, national origin, age or sex. In such cases, proof of discriminatory motive is governed by the three-stage burden-shifting test established by the United States Supreme Court in McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green [(1973) 411 U.S. 792 [93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668]." (Wallace v. County of Stanislaus (2016) 245 Cal.App.4th 109, 123 [199 Cal.Rptr.3d 462], original italics, footnote and internal citations omitted.)

- "The three-stage framework and the many principles adopted to guide its application do not apply in discrimination cases where, like here, the plaintiff presents direct evidence of the employer's motivation for the adverse employment action. In many types of discrimination cases, courts state that direct evidence of intentional discrimination is rare, but disability discrimination cases often involve direct evidence of the role of the employee's actual or perceived disability in the employer's decision to implement an adverse employment action. Instead of litigating the employer's reasons for the action, the parties' disputes in disability cases focus on whether the employee was able to perform essential job functions, whether there were reasonable accommodations that would have allowed the employee to perform those functions, and whether a reasonable accommodation would have imposed an undue hardship on the employer. To summarize, courts and practitioners should not automatically apply principles related to the McDonnell Douglas test to disability discrimination cases. Rather, they should examine the critical threshold issue and determine whether there is direct evidence that the motive for the employer's conduct was related to the employee's physical or mental condition." (Wallace, supra, 245 Cal.App.4th at p. 123, original italics, footnote and internal citations omitted; cf. Moore v. Regents of University of California (2016) 248 Cal.App.4th 216, 234 fn. 3 [206 Cal.Rptr.3d 841] [case did not present so-called "typical" disability discrimination case, as described in Wallace, in that the parties disputed the employer's reasons for terminating plaintiff's employment].)

- "If the employee meets this [prima facie] burden, it is then incumbent on the employer to show that it had a legitimate, nondiscriminatory reason for its employment decision. When this showing is made, the burden shifts back to the employee to produce substantial evidence that employer's given reason was either 'untrue or pretextual,' or that the employer acted with discriminatory animus, in order to raise an inference of discrimination." (Furtado v. State Personnel Bd. (2013) 212 Cal.App.4th 729, 744 [151 Cal.Rptr.3d 292], internal citations omitted.)

- "Although the same statutory language that prohibits disability discrimination also prohibits discrimination based on race, age, sex, and other factors, we conclude that disability discrimination claims are fundamentally different from the discrimination claims based on the other factors listed in section 12940, subdivision (a). These differences arise because (1) additional statutory provisions apply to disability discrimination claims, (2) the Legislature made separate findings and declarations about protections given to disabled persons, and (3) discrimination cases involving race, religion, national origin, age and sex, often involve pretexts for the adverse employment action—an issue about motivation that appears less frequently in disability discrimination cases." (Wallace, supra, 245 Cal.App.4th at p. 122.)

- "[Defendant] argues that, because [it] hired plaintiffs as recruit officers, they must show they were able to perform the essential functions of a police recruit in order to be qualified individuals entitled to protection under FEHA. [Defendant] argues that plaintiffs cannot satisfy their burden of proof under FEHA because they failed to show that they could perform those essential functions. [¶] Plaintiffs do not directly respond to [defendant]'s argument. Instead, they contend that the relevant question is whether they could perform the essential functions of the positions to which they sought reassignment. Plaintiffs' argument improperly conflates the legal standards for their claim under section 12940, subdivision (a), for discrimination, and their claim under section 12940, subdivision (m), for failure to make reasonable accommodation, including reassignment. In connection with a discrimination claim under section 12940, subdivision (a), the court considers whether a plaintiff could perform the essential functions of the job held—or for job applicants, the job desired—with or without reasonable accommodation." (Atkins v. City of Los Angeles (2017) 8 Cal.App.5th 696, 716–717 [214 Cal.Rptr.3d 113].)

- "Summary adjudication of the section 12940(a) claim … turns on … whether [plaintiff] could perform the essential functions of the relevant job with or without accommodation. [Plaintiff] does not dispute that she was unable to perform the essential functions of her former position as a clothes fitter with or without accommodation. Under federal law, however, when an employee seeks accommodation by being reassigned to a vacant position in the company, the employee satisfies the 'qualified individual with a disability' requirement by showing he or she can perform the essential functions of the vacant position with or without accommodation. The position must exist and be vacant, and the employer need not promote the disabled employee. We apply the same rule here. To prevail on summary adjudication of the section 12940(a) claim, [defendant] must show there is no triable issue of fact about [plaintiff]'s ability, with or without accommodation, to perform the essential functions of an available vacant position that would not be a promotion." (Nadaf-Rahrov v. The Neiman Marcus Group, Inc. (2008) 166 Cal.App.4th 952, 965 [83 Cal.Rptr.3d 190], original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- "To establish a prima facie case of mental disability discrimination under FEHA, a plaintiff must show the following elements: (1) She suffers from a mental disability; (2) she is otherwise qualified to do the job with or without reasonable accommodation; and (3) she was subjected to an adverse employment action because of the disability." (Higgins-Williams v. Sutter Medical Foundation (2015) 237 Cal.App.4th 78, 84 [187 Cal.Rptr.3d 745].)

- "At most, [plaintiff] alleges only that he anticipated becoming disabled for some time after the organ donation. This is insufficient. [Plaintiff] cannot pursue a cause of action for discrimination under FEHA on the basis of his 'actual' physical disability in the absence of factual allegations that he was in fact, physically disabled." (Rope, supra, 220 Cal.App.4th at p. 659.)

- "[Defendant] asserts the statute's 'regarded as' protection is limited to persons who are denied or who lose jobs based on an employer's reliance on the 'myths, fears or stereotypes' frequently associated with disabilities. … However, the statutory language does not expressly restrict FEHA's protections to the narrow class to whom [defendant] would limit its coverage. To impose such a restriction would exclude from protection a large group of individuals, like [plaintiff], with more mundane long-term medical conditions, the significance of which is exacerbated by an employer's failure to reasonably accommodate. Both the policy and language of the statute offer protection to a person who is not actually disabled, but is wrongly perceived to be. The statute's plain language leads to the conclusion that the 'regarded as' definition casts a broader net and protects any individual 'regarded' or 'treated' by an employer 'as having, or having had, any physical condition that makes achievement of a major life activity difficult' or may do so in the future. We agree most individuals who sue exclusively under this definitional prong likely are and will continue to be victims of an employer's 'mistaken' perception, based on an unfounded fear or stereotypical assumption. Nevertheless, FEHA's protection is nowhere expressly premised on such a factual showing, and we decline the invitation to import such a requirement." (Gelfo v. Lockheed Martin Corp. (2006) 140 Cal.App.4th 34, 53 [43 Cal.Rptr.3d 874], original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- "[T]he purpose of the 'regarded-as' prong is to protect individuals rejected from a job because of the 'myths, fears and stereotypes' associated with disabilities. In other words, to find a perceived disability, the perception must stem from a false idea about the existence of or the limiting effect of a disability." (Diffey v. Riverside County Sheriff's Dept. (2000) 84 Cal.App.4th 1031, 1037 [101 Cal.Rptr.2d 353], internal citation omitted.)

- "We say on this record that [defendant] took action against [plaintiff] based on concerns or fear about his possible future disability. The relevant FEHA definition of an individual regarded as disabled applies only to those who suffer certain specified physical disabilities or those who have a condition with 'no present disabling effect' but which 'may become a physical disability … .' According to the pleadings, [defendant] fired [plaintiff] to avoid accommodating him because of his association with his physically disabled sister. That is not a basis for liability under the 'regarded as' disabled standard." (Rope, supra, 220 Cal.App.4th at p. 659, internal citations omitted.)

- " '[A]n employer "knows an employee has a disability when the employee tells the employer about his condition, or when the employer otherwise becomes aware of the condition, such as through a third party or by observation. The employer need only know the underlying facts, not the legal significance of those facts." ' " (Soria v. Univision Radio Los Angeles, Inc. (2016) 5 Cal.App.5th 570, 592 [210 Cal.Rptr.3d 59].)

- " 'An adverse employment decision cannot be made "because of" a disability, when the disability is not known to the employer. Thus, in order to prove [a discrimination] claim, a plaintiff must prove the employer had knowledge of the employee's disability when the adverse employment decision was made. … While knowledge of the disability can be inferred from the circumstances, knowledge will only be imputed to the employer when the fact of disability is the only reasonable interpretation of the known facts. "Vague or conclusory statements revealing an unspecified incapacity are not sufficient to put an employer on notice of its obligations … ." … ' " (Scotch v. Art Institute of California (2009) 173 Cal.App.4th 986, 1008 [93 Cal.Rptr.3d 338].)

- "[W]e interpret FEHA as authorizing an employer to distinguish between disability-caused misconduct and the disability itself in the narrow context of threats or violence against coworkers. If employers are not permitted to make this distinction, they are caught on the horns of a dilemma. They may not discriminate against an employee based on a disability but, at the same time, must provide all employees with a safe work environment free from threats and violence." (Wills v. Superior Court (2011) 195 Cal.App.4th 143, 166 [125 Cal.Rptr.3d 1], internal citations omitted.)

- "Requiring the plaintiff to show that discrimination was a substantial motivating factor, rather than simply a motivating factor, more effectively ensures that liability will not be imposed based on evidence of mere thoughts or passing statements unrelated to the disputed employment decision. At the same time, … proof that discrimination was a substantial factor in an employment decision triggers the deterrent purpose of the FEHA and thus exposes the employer to liability, even if other factors would have led the employer to make the same decision at the time." (Harris, supra, 56 Cal.4th at p. 232, original italics.)

- "We do not suggest that discrimination must be alone sufficient to bring about an employment decision in order to constitute a substantial motivating factor. But it is important to recognize that discrimination can be serious, consequential, and even by itself determinative of an employment decision without also being a "'but for'" cause." (Harris, supra, 56 Cal.4th at p. 229.)

- "We note that the court in Harris discussed the employer's motivation and the link between the employer's consideration of the plaintiff's physical condition and the adverse employment action without using the terms "'animus,'" "'animosity,'" or "'ill will.'" The absence of a discussion of these terms necessarily implies an employer can violate section 12940, subdivision (a) by taking an adverse employment action against an employee "because of" the employee's physical disability even if the employer harbored no animosity or ill will against the employee or the class of persons with that disability." (Wallace, supra, 245 Cal.App.4th at p. 128.)

- Based on Harris, we conclude that an employer has treated an employee differently 'because of' a disability when the disability is a substantial motivating reason for the employer's decision to subject the [employee] to an adverse employment action. This conclusion resolves how the jury should have been instructed on [defendant]'s motivation or intent in connection with the disability discrimination claim." (Wallace, supra, 245 Cal.App.4th at p. 128.)

- "We conclude that where, as here, an employee is found to be able to safely perform the essential duties of the job, a plaintiff alleging disability discrimination can establish the requisite employer intent to discriminate by proving (1) the employer knew that plaintiff had a physical condition that limited a major life activity, or perceived him to have such a condition, and (2) the plaintiff's actual or perceived physical condition was a substantial motivating reason for the defendant's decision to subject the plaintiff to an adverse employment action. … [T]his conclusion is based on (1) the interpretation of section 12940's term 'because of' adopted in Harris; (2) our discussion of the meaning of the statutory phrase 'to discriminate against'; and (3) the guidance provided by the current versions of CACI Nos. 2540 and 2507. [¶] Therefore, the jury instruction that [plaintiff] was required to prove that [defendant] 'regarded or treated [him] as having a disability in order to discriminate' was erroneous." (Wallace, supra, 245 Cal.App.4th at p. 129.)

- "The word 'animus' is ambiguous because it can be interpreted narrowly to mean 'ill will' or 'animosity' or can be interpreted broadly to mean 'intention.' In this case, it appears [defendant] uses 'animus' to mean something more than the intent described by the substantial-motivating-reason test adopted in Harris." (Wallace, supra, 245 Cal.App.4th at p. 130, fn. 14, internal citation omitted.)

- " '[W]eight may qualify as a protected "handicap" or "disability" within the meaning of the FEHA if medical evidence demonstrates that it results from a physiological condition affecting one or more of the basic bodily systems and limits a major life activity.'… '[A]n individual who asserts a violation of the FEHA on the basis of his or her weight must adduce evidence of a physiological, systemic basis for the condition.' " (Cornell v. Berkeley Tennis Club (2017) 18 Cal.App.5th 908, 928 [227 Cal.Rptr.3d 286].)

- "Being unable to work during pregnancy is a disability for the purposes of section 12940." (Sanchez v. Swissport, Inc. (2013) 213 Cal.App.4th 1331, 1340 [153 Cal.Rptr.3d 367].)

Secondary Sources

8 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Constitutional Law, §§ 1045–1049

Chin et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 9-C, California Fair Employment And Housing Act (FEHA), ¶¶ 9:2160–9:2241 (The Rutter Group)

1 Wrongful Employment Termination Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) Discrimination Claims, §§ 2.78–2.80

2 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 41, Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws, § 41.32[2][c] (Matthew Bender)

11 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 115, Civil Rights: Employment Discrimination, §§ 115.14, 115.23, 115.34, 115.77[3][a] (Matthew Bender)

California Civil Practice: Employment Litigation § 2:46 (Thomson Reuters)

2545. Disability Discrimination—Affirmative Defense—Undue Hardship

[Name of defendant] claims that accommodating [name of plaintiff]'s disability would create an undue hardship to the operation of [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] business. To succeed on this defense, [name of defendant] must prove that [an] accommodation[s] would create an undue hardship because it would be significantly difficult or expensive, ~~. In deciding whether an accommodation would create an undue hardship, you may consider the following factors:~~in light of the following factors:

a. The nature and cost of the accommodation;

b. [Name of defendant]'s ability to pay for the accommodation;

c. The type of operations conducted at the facility;

d. The impact on the operations of the facility;

e. The number of [name of defendant]'s employees and the relationship of the employees' duties to one another;

f. The number, type, and location of [name of defendant]'s facilities; and

g. The administrative and financial relationship of the facilities to one another.

New September 2003; Revised November 2019, May 2020

Directions for Use

The issue of whether undue hardship is a true affirmative defense or whether the defendant only has the burden of coming forward with the evidence of hardship as a way of negating the element of plaintiff's case concerning the reasonableness of an accommodation appears to be unclear. (See Atkins v. City of Los Angeles (2017) 8 Cal.App.5th 696, 733 [214 Cal.Rptr.3d 113].)

For an instruction in the religious creed context, see CACI No. 2561, Religious Creed Discrimination—Reasonable Accommodation—Affirmative Defense—Undue Hardship.

Sources and Authority

- Employer Duty to Provide Reasonable Accommodation. Government Code section 12940(m).
- "Undue Hardship" Defined. Government Code section 12926(u).
- " 'Undue hardship' means 'an action requiring significant difficulty or expense, when considered in light of the following factors: [¶] (1) The nature and cost of the accommodation needed. [¶] (2) The overall financial resources of the facilities involved in the provision of the reasonable accommodations, the number of persons employed at the facility, and the effect on expenses and resources or the impact otherwise of these accommodations upon the operation of the facility. [¶] (3) The overall financial resources of the covered entity, the overall size of the business of a covered entity with respect to the number of employees, and the number, type, and location of its facilities. [¶] (4) The type of operations, including the composition, structure, and functions of the workforce of the entity. [¶] (5) The geographic separateness or administrative or fiscal relationship of the facility or facilities.' (§ 12926, subd. (u).) ' "Whether a particular accommodation will impose an undue hardship for a particular employer is determined on a case by case basis" ' and 'is a multi-faceted, fact-intensive inquiry.' " (Atkins, supra, ~~v. City of Los Angeles~~ (2017) 8 Cal.App.5th ~~696,~~ at p. 733 ~~[214 Cal.Rptr.3d 113]~~.)

- "[U]nder California law and the instructions provided to the jury, an employer must do more than simply assert that it had economic reasons to reject a plaintiff's proposed reassignment to demonstrate undue hardship. An employer must show why and how asserted economic reasons would affect its ability to provide a particular accommodation." (Atkins, supra, 8 Cal.App.5th at p. 734, original italics, internal citation omitted.)

Secondary Sources

Chin et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 9-C, California Fair Employment And Housing Act (FEHA), ¶¶ 9:2250, 9:2345, 9:2366, 9:2367 (The Rutter Group)

1 Wrongful Employment Termination Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) Discrimination Claims, § 2.80

2 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 41, Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws, § 41.51[4][b] (Matthew Bender)

11 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 115, Civil Rights: Employment Discrimination, §§ 115.35, 115.54, 115.100 (Matthew Bender)

2560. Religious Creed Discrimination—Failure to Accommodate—Essential Factual Elements (Gov. Code, § 12940(l))

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] wrongfully discriminated against [him/her/nonbinary pronoun] by failing to reasonably accommodate [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] religious [belief/observance]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] was [an employer/[other covered entity]];

2. That [name of plaintiff] [was an employee of [name of defendant]/applied to [name of defendant] for a job/[other covered relationship to defendant]];

3. That [name of plaintiff] has a sincerely held religious belief that [describe religious belief, observance, or practice];

4. That [name of plaintiff]'s religious [belief/observance] conflicted with a job requirement;

5. That [name of defendant] knew of the conflict between [name of plaintiff]'s religious [belief/observance] and the job requirement;

6. [That [name of defendant] did not [explore available reasonable alternatives of accommodating [name of plaintiff], including excusing [name of plaintiff] from duties that conflict with [name of plaintiff]'s religious [belief/observance] or permitting those duties to be performed at another time or by another person, or otherwise reasonably accommodate] [name of plaintiff]'s religious [belief/observance];]

   [or]

   [That [*name of defendant] [terminated/refused to hire] [name of plaintiff] in order to avoid having to accommodate [name of plaintiff]'s religious [belief/observance];]

7. That [name of plaintiff]'s failure to comply with the conflicting job requirement was a substantial motivating reason for

   [[*name of defendant]'s decision to [discharge/refuse to hire/[specify other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff];]

   [or]

   [[*name of defendant]'s subjecting [him/her/nonbinary pronoun] to an adverse employment action;]

   [or]

[[his/her/nonbinary pronoun] constructive discharge;]

8. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

9. That [name of defendant]'s failure to reasonably accommodate [name of plaintiff]'s religious [belief/observance] was a substantial factor in causing [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] harm.

A reasonable accommodation is one that eliminates the conflict between the religious practice and the job requirement.

If more than one accommodation is reasonable, an employer satisfies its obligation to make a reasonable accommodation if it selects one of those accommodations in good faith.

New September 2003; Revised June 2012, December 2012, June 2013, November 2019, May 2020

Directions for Use

If element 1 is given, the court may need to instruct the jury on the statutory definition of "employer" under the FEHA. Other covered entities under the FEHA include labor organizations, employment agencies, and apprenticeship training programs. (See Gov. Code, § 12940(a)–(d).)

Regulations provide that refusing to hire an applicant or terminating an employee in order to avoid the need to accommodate a religious practice constitutes religious creed discrimination. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 2, § 11062.) Give the second option for element 6 if the plaintiff claims that the employer terminated or refused to hire the plaintiff to avoid a need for accommodation.

Element 7 requires that the plaintiff's failure to comply with the conflicting job requirement be a substantial motivating reason for the employer's adverse action. (See Harris v. City of Santa Monica (2013) 56 Cal.4th 203, 232 [152 Cal.Rptr.3d 392, 294 P.3d 49]; see also CACI No. 2507, "Substantial Motivating Reason" Explained.) Read the first option if there is no dispute as to whether the employer's acts constituted an adverse employment action. Read the second option and also give CACI No. 2509, "Adverse Employment Action" Explained, if whether there was an adverse employment action is a question of fact for the jury. If constructive discharge is alleged, give the third option for element 7 and also give CACI No. 2510, "Constructive Discharge" Explained.

Federal courts construing Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 have held that the threat of an adverse employment action is a violation if the employee acquiesces to the threat and foregoes religious observance. (See, e.g., EEOC v. Townley Engineering & Mfg. Co. (9th Cir. 1988) 859 F.2d 610, 614 fn. 5.) While no case has been found that construes the FEHA similarly, element 7 may be modified if the court agrees that this rule applies. In the first option, replace "decision to" with "threat to." Or in the second option, "subjecting [name of plaintiff] to" may be replaced with "threatening [name of plaintiff] with."

Sources and Authority

- Religious Accommodation Required Under Fair Employment and Housing Act. Government Code section 12940(l).
- Scope of Religious Protection. Government Code section 12926(q).
- Scope of Religious Protection. Cal. Code Regs., tit. 2, § 11060(b).
- Reasonable Accommodation and Undue Hardship. Cal. Code Regs., tit. 2, § 11062.
- "In evaluating an argument the employer failed to accommodate an employee's religious beliefs, the employee must establish a prima facie case that he or she had a bona fide religious belief, of which the employer was aware, that conflicts with an employment requirement ... . Once the employee establishes a prima facie case, then the employer must establish it initiated good faith efforts to accommodate or no accommodation was possible without producing undue hardship." (Soldinger v. Northwest Airlines, Inc. (1996) 51 Cal.App.4th 345, 370 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 747], internal citation omitted.)
- "Any reasonable accommodation is sufficient to meet an employer's obligations. However, the employer need not adopt the most reasonable accommodation nor must the employer accept the remedy preferred by the employee. The reasonableness of the employer's efforts to accommodate is determined on a case by case basis ... . '[O]nce it is determined that the employer has offered a reasonable accommodation, the employer need not show that each of the employee's proposed accommodations would result in undue hardship.' '[W]here the employer has already reasonably accommodated the employee's religious needs, the ... inquiry [ends].' " (Soldinger, supra, 51 Cal.App.4th at p. 370, internal citations omitted.)
- "Requiring the plaintiff to show that discrimination was a substantial motivating factor, rather than simply a motivating factor, more effectively ensures that liability will not be imposed based on evidence of mere thoughts or passing statements unrelated to the disputed employment decision. At the same time, … proof that discrimination was a substantial factor in an employment decision triggers the deterrent purpose of the FEHA and thus exposes the employer to liability, even if other factors would have led the employer to make the same decision at the time." (Harris, supra, 56 Cal.4th at p. 232, original italics.)
- "We do not suggest that discrimination must be alone sufficient to bring about an employment decision in order to constitute a substantial motivating factor. But it is important to recognize that discrimination can be serious, consequential, and even by itself determinative of an employment decision without also being a 'but for' cause." (Harris, supra, 56 Cal.4th at p. 229.)

Secondary Sources

8 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Constitutional Law, §§ 967, 1028, 1052, –1054

Chin et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 7-A, Title VII And The California Fair

Employment And Housing Act, ¶¶ 7:151, 7:215, 7:305, 7:610–7:611, 7:631–7:634, 7:641 (The Rutter Group)

2 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 41, Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws, § 41.52[3] (Matthew Bender)

11 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 115, Civil Rights: Employment Discrimination, §§ 115.22, 115.35[d], 115.91 (Matthew Bender)

California Civil Practice: Employment Litigation §§ 2:71–2:73 (Thomson Reuters)

1 Lindemann and Grossman, Employment Discrimination Law (3d ed. 1996) Religion, pp. 219–224, 226–227; id. (2000 supp.) at pp. 100–101

2561. Religious Creed Discrimination—Reasonable Accommodation—Affirmative Defense—Undue Hardship (Gov. Code, §§ 12940(l)(1), 12926(u))

~~Please see CACI No. 2545, *Disability Discrimination—Affirmative Defense—Undue Hardship.~~

[Name of defendant] claims that accommodating [name of plaintiff]'s [religious belief/religious observance] would create an undue hardship to the operation of [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] business.

To succeed on this defense, [name of defendant] must prove that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] considered reasonable alternative options for accommodating the [religious belief/religious observance], including (1) excusing [name of plaintiff] from duties that conflict with [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] [religious belief/religious observance], (2) permitting those duties to be performed at another time or by another person, or (3) [specify other reasonable accommodation].

If you decide that [name of defendant] considered but did not adopt [a] reasonable accommodation[s], you must then decide if the accommodation[s] would have created an undue hardship because it would be significantly difficult or expensive, in light of the following factors:

a. The nature and cost of the accommodation;

b. [Name of defendant]'s ability to pay for the accommodation;

c. The type of operations conducted at the facility;

d. The impact on the operations of the facility;

e. The number of [name of defendant]'s employees and the relationship of the employees' duties to one another;

f. The number, type, and location of [name of defendant]'s facilities; and

g. The administrative and financial relationship of the facilities to one another.

New September 2003; Revoked December 2012; Restored and Revised June 2013; Revised November 2019, May 2020

Directions for Use

For religious beliefs and observances, the statute requires the employer (or other covered entity) to demonstrate that the employer explored certain means of accommodating the plaintiff, including two specific possibilities: (1) excusing the plaintiff from duties that conflict with the plaintiff's religious belief or observance or (2) permitting those duties to be performed at another time or by another person.

(Gov. Code, § 12940(l)(1).) If there is evidence of another reasonable alternative accommodation, include it as a third means of accommodating the plaintiff.

~~"Undue hardship" for purposes of religious creed discrimination is defined in the same way that it is defined for disability discrimination. (Gov. Code, §§ 12940(l)(1); see Gov. Code, § 12926(u).) CACI No. 2545, Disability Discrimination—Affirmative Defense—Undue Hardship, may be given in religious accommodation cases also. Replace "disability" with "religious observance" in the first sentence of CACI No. 2545.~~

Sources and Authority

- Religious Accommodation Required Under Fair Employment and Housing Act. Government Code section 12940(l)(1).

- "Undue Hardship" Defined. Government Code section 12926(u).

- "If the employee proves a prima facie case and the employer fails to initiate an accommodation for the religious practices, the burden is then on the employer to prove it will incur an undue hardship if it accommodates that belief. '[T]he extent of undue hardship on the employer's business is at issue only where the employer claims that it is unable to offer any reasonable accommodation without such hardship.' ..." (Soldinger v. Northwest Airlines, Inc. (1996) 51 Cal.App.4th 345, 371 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 747], internal citations omitted.)

- "It would be anomalous to conclude that by 'reasonable accommodation' Congress meant that an employer must deny the shift and job preference of some employees, as well as deprive them of their contractual rights, in order to accommodate or prefer the religious needs of others, and we conclude that Title VII does not require an employer to go that far ... ¶¶. [¶¶] Alternatively, the Court of Appeals suggested that [the employer] could have replaced [plaintiff] on his Saturday shift with other employees through the payment of premium wages ... . To require [the employer] to bear more than a de minimus cost ... is an undue hardship. Like abandonment of the seniority system, to require [the employer] to bear additional costs when no such costs are incurred to give other employees the days off that they want would involve unequal treatment of employees on the basis of their religion." (TWA v. Hardison (1977) 432 U.S. 63, 81, 84 [97 S.Ct. 2264, 53 L.Ed.2d 113], footnote omitted.)

Secondary Sources

8 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Constitutional Law, §§ 1025, 1026

Chin et al., Cal. Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 7-A, Title VII And The California Fair Employment and Housing Act, ¶¶ 7:151, 7:215, 7:305, 7:610, 7:631, 7:640−7:641 (The Rutter Group)

2 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 41, Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws, § 41.52[4] (Matthew Bender)

11 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 115, Civil Rights: Employment Discrimination, §§ 115.35[2][a]–[c], 115.54, 115.91 (Matthew Bender)

California Civil Practice: Employment Litigation §§ 2:71–2:73 (Thomson Reuters)

1 Lindemann and Grossman, Employment Discrimination Law (3d ed.) Religion, pp. 227–234 (2000 supp.) at pp. 100–105

VF-2506A. ~~Hostile~~ Work Environment Harassment—Conduct Directed at Plaintiff—Employer or Entity Defendant (Gov. Code, §§ 12923, 12940(j))

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Was [name of plaintiff] [an employee of/a person providing services under a contract with] [name of defendant]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Was [name of plaintiff] subjected to ~~unwanted~~ harassing conduct because [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was [protected status, e.g., a woman]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 2 is yes, then answer question 3. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

3. Was the harassment severe or pervasive?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 3 is yes, then answer question 4. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

4. Would a reasonable [e.g., woman] in [name of plaintiff]'s circumstances have considered the work environment to be hostile, intimidating, offensive, oppressive, or abusive?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 4 is yes, then answer question 5. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

5. Did [name of plaintiff] consider the work environment to be hostile, intimidating, offensive, oppressive, or abusive?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 5 is yes, then answer question 6. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

6. Did [name of defendant] [or [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] supervisors or agents] know or should [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it/they] have known of the harassing conduct?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 6 is yes, then answer question 7. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

7. Did [name of defendant] [or [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] supervisors or agents] fail to take immediate and appropriate corrective action?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 7 is yes, then answer question 8. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

8. Was the harassing conduct a substantial factor in causing harm to [name of plaintiff]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 8 is yes, then answer question 9. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

9. What are [name of plaintiff]'s damages?

[a. Past economic loss
[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other past economic loss $ _____]
Total Past Economic Damages: $ _____]

[b. Future economic loss
[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other future economic loss $ _____]
Total Future Economic Damages: $ _____]

[c. Past noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]
$ _____]

[d. Future noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]

$ _____]

TOTAL $ _____

Signed: _____
Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

After [this verdict form has/all verdict forms have] been signed, notify the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant] that you are ready to present your verdict in the courtroom.

Derived from former CACI No. VF-2506 December 2007; Revised December 2010, June 2013, December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 2521A, ~~Hostile~~ Work Environment Harassment—Conduct Directed at Plaintiff—Essential Factual Elements—Employer or Entity Defendant.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

Relationships other than employer/employee can be substituted in question 1, as in element 1 of CACI No. 2521A. Depending on the facts of the case, other factual scenarios for employer liability can be substituted in questions 6 and 7, as in element 6 of the instruction.

Modify question 2 if the plaintiff was not actually a member of the protected class, but alleges harassment because ~~he or she~~ the plaintiff was perceived to be a member, or associated with someone who was or was perceived to be a member, of the protected class. (See Gov. Code, § 12926(o).)

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 9 and do not have to categorize "economic" and "noneconomic" damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

VF-2506B. ~~Hostile~~ Work Environment Harassment—Conduct Directed at Others—Employer or Entity Defendant (Gov. Code, §§ 12923, 12940(j))

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Was [name of plaintiff] [an employee of/a person providing services under a contract with] [name of defendant]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Did [name of plaintiff] personally witness harassing conduct that took place in [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] immediate work environment?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 2 is yes, then answer question 3. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

3. Was the harassment severe or pervasive?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 3 is yes, then answer question 4. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

4. Would a reasonable [describe member of protected group, e.g., woman] in [name of plaintiff]'s circumstances have considered the work environment to be hostile, intimidating, offensive, oppressive, or abusive?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 4 is yes, then answer question 5. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

5. Did [name of plaintiff] consider the work environment to be hostile, intimidating, offensive, oppressive, or abusive toward [e.g., women]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 5 is yes, then answer question 6. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

6. Did [name of defendant] [or [his/her/*nonbinary pronoun/*its] supervisors or agents] know or should [he/she/*nonbinary pronoun/*it/they] have known of the harassing conduct?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 6 is yes, then answer question 7. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

7. Did [name of defendant] [or [his/her/*nonbinary pronoun/*its] supervisors or agents] fail to take immediate and appropriate corrective action?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 7 is yes, then answer question 8. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

8. Was the harassing conduct a substantial factor in causing harm to [name of plaintiff]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 8 is yes, then answer question 9. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

9. What are [name of plaintiff]'s damages?

[a. Past economic loss
[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other past economic loss $ _____]
Total Past Economic Damages: $ _____]

[b. Future economic loss
[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other future economic loss $ _____]
Total Future Economic Damages: $ _____]

[c. Past noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]
$ _____]

[d. Future noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]

$ _____]

TOTAL $ _____

Signed: _____
Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

After [this verdict form has/all verdict forms have] been signed, notify the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant] that you are ready to present your verdict in the courtroom.

Derived from former CACI No. VF-2506 December 2007; Revised December 2010, June 2013, December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 2521B, Work Environment Harassment—Conduct Directed at Others—Essential Factual Elements—Employer or Entity Defendant.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

Relationships other than employer/employee can be substituted in question 1, as in element 1 of CACI No. 2521B. Depending on the facts of the case, other factual scenarios for employer liability can be substituted in questions 6 and 7, as in element 6 of the instruction.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 9 and do not have to categorize "economic" and "noneconomic" damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

VF-2506C. ~~Hostile~~ Work Environment Harassment—~~Widespread~~ Sexual Favoritism--Employer or Entity Defendant (Gov. Code, §§ 12923, 12940(j))

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Was [name of plaintiff] [an employee of/a person providing services under a contract with] [name of defendant]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Was there sexual favoritism in the work environment?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 2 is yes, then answer question 3. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

3. Was the sexual favoritism ~~widespread, and also~~ severe or pervasive?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 3 is yes, then answer question 4. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

4. Would a reasonable [describe member of protected group, e.g., woman] in [name of plaintiff]'s circumstances have considered the work environment to be hostile, intimidating, offensive, oppressive, or abusive?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 4 is yes, then answer question 5. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

5. Did [name of plaintiff] consider the work environment to be hostile, intimidating, offensive, oppressive, or abusive because of the sexual favoritism?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 5 is yes, then answer question 6. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

6. Did [name of defendant] [or [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] supervisors or agents] know or should [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it/they] have known of the sexual favoritism?

____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 6 is yes, then answer question 7. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

7. Did [name of defendant] [or [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] supervisors or agents] fail to take immediate and appropriate corrective action?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 7 is yes, then answer question 8. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

8. Was the sexual favoritism a substantial factor in causing harm to [name of plaintiff]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 8 is yes, then answer question 9. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

9. What are [name of plaintiff]'s damages?

[a. Past economic loss
[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other past economic loss $ _____]
Total Past Economic Damages: $ _____]

[b. Future economic loss
[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other future economic loss $ _____]
Total Future Economic Damages: $ _____]

[c. Past noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]
$ _____]

[d. Future noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]

$ _____]

TOTAL $ _____

Signed: _____
Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

After [this verdict form has/all verdict forms have] been signed, notify the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant] that you are ready to present your verdict in the courtroom.

Derived from former CACI No. VF-2506 December 2007; Revised December 2010, December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 2521C, ~~Hostile~~ Work Environment Harassment—~~Widespread~~ Sexual Favoritism--Essential Factual Elements—Employer or Entity Defendant.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

Relationships other than employer/employee can be substituted in question 1, as in element 1 of CACI No. 2521C. Depending on the facts of the case, other factual scenarios for employer liability can be substituted in questions 6 and 7, as in element 6~~5~~ of the instruction.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 9 and do not have to categorize "economic" and "noneconomic" damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

VF-2507A. ~~Hostile~~ Work Environment Harassment—Conduct Directed at Plaintiff—Individual Defendant (Gov. Code, §§ 12923, 12940(j))

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Was [name of plaintiff] [an employee of/a person providing services under a contract with] [name of employer]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Was [name of plaintiff] subjected to ~~unwanted~~ harassing conduct because [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was [protected status, e.g., a woman]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 2 is yes, then answer question 3. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

3. Was the harassment severe or pervasive?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 3 is yes, then answer question 4. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

4. Would a reasonable [e.g., woman] in [name of plaintiff]'s circumstances have considered the work environment to be hostile, intimidating, offensive, oppressive, or abusive?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 4 is yes, then answer question 5. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

5. Did [name of plaintiff] consider the work environment to be hostile, intimidating, offensive, oppressive, or abusive?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 5 is yes, then answer question 6. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

6. Did [name of defendant] [participate in/assist/ [or] encourage] the harassing conduct?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 6 is yes, then answer question 7. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

7. Was the harassing conduct a substantial factor in causing harm to [name of plaintiff]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 7 is yes, then answer question 8. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

8. What are [name of plaintiff]'s damages?

[a. Past economic loss
[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other past economic loss $ _____]
Total Past Economic Damages: $ _____]

[b. Future economic loss
[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other future economic loss $ _____]
Total Future Economic Damages: $ _____]

[c. Past noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]
$ _____]

[d. Future noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]
$ _____]

TOTAL $ _____

Signed: _____
Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

After [this verdict form has/all verdict forms have] been signed, notify the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant] that you are ready to present your verdict in the courtroom.

Derived from former CACI No. VF-2507 December 2007; Revised December 2010, June 2013, December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 2522A, ~~Hostile~~ Work Environment Harassment—Conduct Directed at Plaintiff—Essential Factual Elements—Individual Defendant.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

Relationships other than employer/employee can be substituted in question 1, as in element 1 of CACI No. 2522A.

Modify question 2 if the plaintiff was not actually a member of the protected class, but alleges harassment because ~~he or she~~ the plaintiff was perceived to be a member, or associated with someone who was or was perceived to be a member, of the protected class. (See Gov. Code, § 12926(o).)

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 8 and do not have to categorize "economic" and "noneconomic" damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

VF-2507B. ~~Hostile~~ Work Environment Harassment—Conduct Directed at Others—Individual Defendant (Gov. Code, §§ 12923, 12940(j))

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Was [name of plaintiff] [an employee of/a person providing services under a contract with] [name of employer]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Did [name of plaintiff] personally witness harassing conduct that took place in [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] immediate work environment?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 2 is yes, then answer question 3. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

3. Was the harassment severe or pervasive?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 3 is yes, then answer question 4. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

4. Would a reasonable [describe member of protected group, e.g., woman] in [name of plaintiff]'s circumstances have considered the work environment to be hostile, intimidating, offensive, oppressive, or abusive?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 4 is yes, then answer question 5. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

5. Did [name of plaintiff] consider the work environment to be hostile, intimidating, offensive, oppressive, or abusive toward [e.g., women]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 5 is yes, then answer question 6. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

6. Did [name of defendant] [participate in/assist/ [or] encourage] the harassing conduct?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 6 is yes, then answer question 7. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

7. Was the harassing conduct a substantial factor in causing harm to [name of plaintiff]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 7 is yes, then answer question 8. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

8. What are [name of plaintiff]'s damages?

[a. Past economic loss
[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other past economic loss $ _____]
Total Past Economic Damages: $ _____]

[b. Future economic loss
[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other future economic loss $ _____]
Total Future Economic Damages: $ _____]

[c. Past noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]
$ _____]

[d. Future noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]
$ _____]

TOTAL $ _____

Signed: _____

Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

After [this verdict form has/all verdict forms have] been signed, notify the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant] that you are ready to present your verdict in the courtroom.

Derived from former CACI No. VF-2507 December 2007; Revised December 2010, June 2013, December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 2522B, ~~Hostile~~ Work Environment Harassment—Conduct Directed at Others—Essential Factual Elements—Individual Defendant.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

Relationships other than employer/employee can be substituted in question 1, as in element 1 of CACI No. 2521C, ~~Hostile~~ Work Environment Harassment—~~Widespread~~ Sexual Favoritism—Essential Factual Elements—Employer or Entity Defendant.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 8 and do not have to categorize "economic" and "noneconomic" damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

VF-2507C. ~~Hostile~~ Work Environment Harassment—~~Widespread~~ Sexual Favoritism—Individual Defendant (Gov. Code, §§ 12923, 12940(j))

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Was [name of plaintiff] [an employee of/a person providing services under a contract with] [name of employer]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Was there sexual favoritism in the work environment?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 2 is yes, then answer question 3. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

3. Was the sexual favoritism ~~widespread, and also~~ severe or pervasive?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 3 is yes, then answer question 4. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

4. Would a reasonable [describe member of protected group, e.g., woman] in [name of plaintiff]'s circumstances have considered the work environment to be hostile, intimidating, offensive, oppressive, or abusive?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 4 is yes, then answer question 5. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

5. Did [name of plaintiff] consider the work environment to be hostile, intimidating, offensive, oppressive, or abusive because of the sexual favoritism?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 5 is yes, then answer question 6. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

6. Did [name of defendant] [participate in/assist/ [or] encourage] the sexual favoritism?

____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 6 is yes, then answer question 7. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

7. Was the sexual favoritism a substantial factor in causing harm to [*name of plaintiff]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 7 is yes, then answer question 8. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

8. What are [*name of plaintiff]'s damages?

[a. Past economic loss
[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other past economic loss $ _____]
Total Past Economic Damages: $ _____]

[b. Future economic loss
[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other future economic loss $ _____]
Total Future Economic Damages: $ _____]

[c. Past noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]
$ _____]

[d. Future noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]
$ _____]

TOTAL $ _____

Signed: _____
Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

After [this verdict form has/all verdict forms have] been signed, notify the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant] that you are ready to present your verdict in the courtroom.

Derived from former CACI No. VF-2507 December 2007; Revised December 2010, December 2014, December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 2522C, ~~Hostile~~ Work Environment Harassment—~~Widespread~~ Sexual Favoritism—Essential Factual Elements—Individual Defendant.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

Relationships other than employer/employee can be substituted in question 1, as in element 1 in CACI No. 2521C. Depending on the facts of the case, other factual scenarios for employer liability can be substituted in questions 6 and 7, as in element 6 of the instruction.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 8 and do not have to categorize "economic" and "noneconomic" damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional; depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

VF-2508. Disability Discrimination—Disparate Treatment

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Was [name of defendant] [an employer/[other covered entity]]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Was [name of plaintiff] [an employee of [name of defendant]/an applicant to [name of defendant] for a job/[other covered relationship to defendant]]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 2 is yes, then answer question 3. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

3. Did [name of defendant] [know that [name of plaintiff] had/treat [name of plaintiff] as if [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] had] [a history of having] [a] [select term to describe basis of limitations, e.g., physical condition] [that limited [insert major life activity]]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 3 is yes, then answer question 4. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

4. Was [name of plaintiff] able to perform the position's essential job duties ~~[with reasonable accommodation] for [his/her] [e.g., physical condition]~~without an accommodation?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 4 is yes, then ~~answer~~ skip question 5 and answer question 6. If you answered no, then ~~stop here,~~ answer ~~no further~~ question 5~~s, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form~~.

5. Was [name of plaintiff] able to perform the position's essential job duties with reasonable accommodation for [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] [e.g., condition]?
   Yes No

   If your answer to question 5 is yes, then answer question 6. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

6. Did [name of defendant] [discharge/refuse to hire/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 6~~5~~ is yes, then answer question 7~~6~~. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

7~~6~~. Was [name of plaintiff]'s [perceived] [history of [a]] [e.g., physical condition] a substantial motivating reason for [name of defendant]'s decision to [discharge/refuse to hire/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 7~~6~~ is yes, then answer question 8~~7~~. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

8~~7~~. Was [name of defendant]'s [decision/conduct] a substantial factor in causing harm to [name of plaintiff]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 8~~7~~ is yes, then answer question 9~~8~~. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

9~~8~~. What are [name of plaintiff]'s damages?

[a. Past economic loss
[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other past economic loss $ _____]
Total Past Economic Damages: $ _____]

[b. Future economic loss
[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other future economic loss $ _____]
Total Future Economic Damages: $ _____]

[c. Past noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]

$ _____]

[d. Future noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]

$ _____]

TOTAL $ _____

Signed: _____
Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

After [this verdict form has/all verdict forms have] been signed, notify the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant] that you are ready to present your verdict in the courtroom.

New September 2003; Revised April 2007, December 2007, December 2009, June 2010, December 2010, June 2013, December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 2540, Disability Discrimination—Disparate Treatment—Essential Factual Elements.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

Select a term to use throughout to describe the source of the plaintiff's limitations. It may be a statutory term such as "physical disability," "mental disability," or "medical condition." (See Gov. Code, § 12940(a).) Or it may be a general term such as "condition," "disease," or "disorder." Or it may be a specific health condition such as "diabetes."

Relationships other than employer/employee can be substituted in question 1, as in element 1 of CACI No. 2540. Depending on the facts of the case, other factual scenarios can be substituted in questions 3 and 6, as in elements 3 and 7~~6~~ of the instruction.

For question 3, select the claimed basis of discrimination: an actual disability, a history of a disability, a perceived disability, or a perceived history of a disability. For an actual disability, select "know that [name of plaintiff] had." For a perceived disability, select "treat [name of plaintiff] as if [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] had."

If medical-condition discrimination as defined by statute (see Gov. Code, § 12926(i)) is alleged, omit "that limited [insert major life activity]" in question 3. (Compare Gov. Code, § 12926(i) with Gov. Code, § 12926(j), (l) [no requirement that medical condition limit major life activity].)

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 9~~8~~ and do not have to categorize "economic" and "noneconomic" damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

2705. Affirmative Defense to Labor Code, Unemployment Insurance Code, and Wage Order Violations—Plaintiff Was Not Defendant's Employee (Lab. Code, § 2750.3)

[*Name of defendant] claims that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] is not liable for [specify violation(s) of the Labor Code, the Unemployment Insurance Code, and/or wage order(s) ~~violations~~, e.g., failure to pay minimum wage] because [name of plaintiff] was not [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] employee, but rather an independent contractor. To establish this defense, [name of defendant] must prove all of the following:

a. That [*name of plaintiff] is ~~[~~under the terms of the contract and in fact~~]~~ free from the control and direction of [name of defendant] in connection with the performance of the work that [name of plaintiff] was hired to do;

b. That [*name of plaintiff] performs work for [name of defendant] that is outside the usual course of [name of defendant]'s business; and

c. That [*name of plaintiff] is customarily engaged in an independently established trade, occupation, or business of the same nature as that involved in the work performed for [name of defendant].

New November 2018; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction may be needed if there is a dispute as to whether the defendant was the plaintiff's employer for purposes of a claim covered by the Labor Code, the Unemployment Insurance Code, or a California wage order. ~~The wage orders, which are constitutionally-authorized, quasi-legislative regulations that have the force of law, impose obligations relating to the minimum wages, maximum hours, and a limited number of very basic working conditions (such as minimally required meal and rest breaks) of California employees.~~ (Lab. Code, § 2750.3; s~~S~~ee Dynamex Operations West, Inc. v. Superior Court (2018) 4 Cal.5th 903, 913–914, & fn. 3 [232 Cal.Rptr.3d 1, 416 P.3d 1].) The defendant has the burden to prove independent contractor status. (Lab. Code, § 2750.3; Dynamex~~Id.~~, supra, 4 Cal.5th at p. 916.) This instruction may not be appropriate if the defendant claims independent contractor status based on one of the exceptions listed in Labor Code section 2750.3(b)–(h). For an instruction on employment status under the Borello test, see CACI No. 3704, Existence of "Employee" Status Disputed.

~~Under the wage orders, "to employ" has three alternative definitions. It means: (a) to exercise control over the wages, hours or working conditions, or (b) to suffer or permit to work, or (c) to engage, thereby creating a common law employment relationship. (Martinez v. Combs (2010) 49 Cal.4th 35, 64 [109 Cal.Rptr.3d 514, 231 P.3d 259].) In Dynamex, the Supreme Court found no need to address definition (a) on exercising control. It acknowledged that definition (c), the common law test, could be used, but held that the controlling test was definition (b), "to suffer or permit to work." It then defined this test, known as the ABC test, as involving the three factors of the instruction. (Dynamex Operations W., supra, 4~~

~~Cal.5th at pp. 916–917.)~~

The rule on employment status has been that if there are disputed facts, it's for the jury to decide whether one is an employee or an independent contractor. (Espejo v. The Copley Press, Inc. (2017) 13 Cal.App.5th 329, 342 [221 Cal.Rptr.3d 1].) However, on undisputed facts, the court may decide that the relationship is employment as a matter of law. (Dynamex ~~Operations W.~~, supra, 4 Cal.5th at p. 963.) The court may address the three factors in any order when making this determination, and if the defendant's undisputed facts fail to prove any one of them, the inquiry ends; the plaintiff is an employee as a matter of law and the question does not reach the jury.

If, however, there is no failure of proof as to any of the three factors without resolution of disputed facts, the determination of whether the plaintiff was defendant's employee should be resolved by the jury using this instruction. If the court concludes based on undisputed facts that the defendant has proved one or more of the three factors, that factor (or factors) should be removed from the jury's consideration and the jury should only consider whether the employer has proven those factors that cannot be determined without further factfinding.

~~Include the bracketed language in element 1 if there is a contract between the parties covering the work at issue.~~

Sources and Authority

- Worker Status: Employees and Independent Contractors. Labor Code section 2750.3.

- "The ABC test presumptively considers all workers to be employees, and permits workers to be classified as independent contractors only if the hiring business demonstrates that the worker in question satisfies each of three conditions: (a) that the worker is free from the control and direction of the hirer in connection with the performance of the work, both under the contract for the performance of the work and in fact; and (b) that the worker performs work that is outside the usual course of the hiring entity's business; and (c) that the worker is customarily engaged in an independently established trade, occupation, or business of the same nature as that involved in the work performed." (Dynamex ~~Operations W.~~, supra, 4 Cal.5th at pp. 955–956.)

- ~~"[W]e conclude that there is no need in this case to determine whether the exercise control over wages, hours or working conditions definition is intended to apply outside the joint employer context, because we conclude that the suffer or permit to work standard properly applies to the question whether a worker should be considered an employee or, instead, an independent contractor, and that under the suffer or permit to work standard, the trial court class certification order at issue here should be upheld. (Dynamex Operations W., supra, 4 Cal.5th at p. 943.)~~

- "A business that hires any individual to provide services to it can always be said to knowingly 'suffer or permit' such an individual to work for the business. A literal application of the suffer or permit to work standard, therefore, would bring within its reach even those individuals hired by a business--including unquestionably independent plumbers, electricians, architects, sole practitioner attorneys, and the like--who provide only occasional services unrelated to a company's primary line of business and who have traditionally been viewed as working in their own independent business." (Dynamex ~~Operations W.~~, supra, 4 Cal.5th at pp. 948–949.)

- "A multifactor standard--like the economic reality standard or the Borello standard--that calls for consideration of all potentially relevant factual distinctions in different employment arrangements on a case-by-case, totality-of-the-circumstances basis has its advantages. A number of state courts, administrative agencies and academic commentators have observed, however, that such a wide-ranging and flexible test for evaluating whether a worker should be considered an employee or an independent contractor has significant disadvantages, particularly when applied in the wage and hour context." (Dynamex ~~Operations W.~~, supra, 4 Cal.5th at p. 954.)

- "Thus, on the one hand, when a retail store hires an outside plumber to repair a leak in a bathroom on its premises or hires an outside electrician to install a new electrical line, the services of the plumber or electrician are not part of the store's usual course of business and the store would not reasonably be seen as having suffered or permitted the plumber or electrician to provide services to it as an employee. On the other hand, when a clothing manufacturing company hires work-at-home seamstresses to make dresses from cloth and patterns supplied by the company that will thereafter be sold by the company, or when a bakery hires cake decorators to work on a regular basis on its custom-designed cakes, the workers are part of the hiring entity's usual business operation and the hiring business can reasonably be viewed as having suffered or permitted the workers to provide services as employees. In the latter settings, the workers' role within the hiring entity's usual business operations is more like that of an employee than that of an independent contractor." (Dynamex ~~Operations W.~~, supra, 4 Cal.5th at pp. 959–960, internal citations omitted.)

- "A company that labels as independent contractors a class of workers who are not engaged in an independently established business in order to enable the company to obtain the economic advantages that flow from avoiding the financial obligations that a wage order imposes on employers unquestionably violates the fundamental purposes of the wage order. The fact that a company has not prohibited or prevented a worker from engaging in such a business is not sufficient to establish that the worker has independently made the decision to go into business for himself or herself." (Dynamex ~~Operations W.~~, supra, 4 Cal.5th at p. 962.)

- "The trial court's determination of employee or independent contractor status is one of fact if it depends upon the resolution of disputed evidence or inferences and, as such, must be affirmed on appeal if supported by substantial evidence. The question is one of law only if the evidence is undisputed. 'The label placed by the parties on their relationship is not dispositive, and subterfuges are not countenanced.' " (Espejo, supra, 13 Cal.App.5th at pp. 342–343.)

- "It bears emphasis that in order to establish that a worker is an independent contractor under the ABC standard, the hiring entity is required to establish the existence of each of the three parts of the ABC standard. Furthermore, inasmuch as a hiring entity's failure to satisfy any one of the three parts itself establishes that the worker should be treated as an employee for purposes of the wage order, a court is free to consider the separate parts of the ABC standard in whatever order it chooses. Because in many cases it may be easier and clearer for a court to determine whether or not part B or part C of the ABC standard has been satisfied than for the court to resolve questions regarding the nature or degree of a worker's freedom from the hiring entity's control for purposes of part A of the standard, the significant advantages of the ABC standard--in terms of increased clarity and consistency--will often be best served by first considering one or both of the latter two parts of the standard in resolving the employee or independent contractor question." (Dynamex ~~Operations W.~~, supra, 4 Cal.5th at p. 963, italics added.)

- "An entity that controls the business enterprise may be an employer even if it did not 'directly hire, fire or supervise' the employees. Multiple entities may be employers where they 'control different aspects of the employment relationship.' 'This occurs, for example, when one entity (such as a temporary employment agency) hires and pays a worker, and another entity supervises the work.' 'Supervision of the work, in the specific sense of exercising control over how services are performed, is properly viewed as one of the "working conditions" … .' " (Castaneda v. Ensign Group, Inc. (2014) 229 Cal.App.4th 1015, 1019 [177 Cal.Rptr.3d 581].)

- ~~"[T]he Supreme Court's policy reasons for selecting the 'ABC' test are uniquely relevant to the issue of allegedly misclassified independent contractors. In the joint employment context, the alleged employee is already considered an employee of the primary employer; the issue is whether the employee is also an employee of the alleged secondary employer. Therefore, the primary employer is presumably paying taxes and the employee is afforded legal protections due to being an employee of the primary employer. As a result, the policy purpose for presuming the worker to be an employee and requiring the secondary employer to disprove the worker's status as an employee is unnecessary in that taxes are being paid and the worker has employment protections. [¶] In conclusion, the 'ABC' test set forth in Dynamex is directed toward the issue of whether employees were misclassified as independent contractors. Placing the burden on the alleged employer to prove that the worker is not an employee is meant to serve policy goals that are not relevant in the joint employment context. Therefore, it does not appear that the Supreme Court intended for the 'ABC' test to be applied in joint employment cases." (Curry v. Equilon Enterprises, LLC (2018) 23 Cal.App.5th 289, 314 [233 Cal.Rptr.3d 295], internal citation omitted.)~~

  ~~" 'Dynamex did not purport to replace the Borello standard in every instance where a worker must be classified as either an independent contractor or an employee for purposes of enforcing California's labor protections.' To the contrary, the Supreme Court recognized that different standards could apply to different statutory claims: '[B]ecause the Borello standard itself emphasizes the primacy of statutory purpose in resolving the employee or independent contractor question, when different statutory schemes have been enacted for different purposes, it is possible under Borello that a worker may properly be considered an employee with reference to one statute but not another.' " (Garcia v. Border Transportation Group, LLC (2018) 28 Cal.App.5th 558, 570 [239 Cal.Rptr.3d 360], internal citations omitted.)~~

- ~~"Key for our purposes, Dynamex makes clear that the question in part C is not whether [defendant] prohibited or prevented [plaintiff] from engaging in an independently established business. Instead, the inquiry is whether [plaintiff] fits the common conception of an independent contractor—'an individual who independently has made the decision to go into business for himself or herself' and 'generally takes the usual steps to establish and promote his or her independent business—for example, through incorporation, licensure, advertisements, routine offerings to provide services of the independent business to the public or to a number of potential~~

~~customers, and the like.' " (Garcia, supra, 28 Cal.App.5th at p. 573, original italics, internal citation omitted.)~~

Secondary Sources

Chin, et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 11-B, ~~Compensation —~~Coverage and Exemptions—In General, ¶ 11:115 et seq. (The Rutter Group)

Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 250, Employment Law: Wage and Hour Disputes, § 250.13 (Matthew Bender)

21 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 1, Overview of Wage and Hour Laws, § 1.04 (Matthew Bender)

3020. Excessive Use of Force—Unreasonable Arrest or Other Seizure—Essential Factual Elements (42 U.S.C. § 1983)

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] used excessive force in [arresting/detaining] [him/her/nonbinary pronoun]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] used force in [arresting/detaining] [name of plaintiff];

2. That the force used by [name of defendant] was excessive;

3. That [name of defendant] was acting or purporting to act in the performance of [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] official duties;

4. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

5. That [name of defendant]'s use of excessive force was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

Force is not excessive if it is reasonably necessary under the circumstances. In deciding whether force is reasonably necessary or excessive, you should determine, based on all of the facts and circumstances, what force a reasonable law enforcement officer on the scene would have used under the same or similar circumstances. You should consider the following:

(a) Whether [name of plaintiff] reasonably appeared to pose an immediate threat to the safety of [name of defendant] or others;

(b) The seriousness of the crime at issue; [and]

(c) Whether [name of plaintiff] was actively [resisting [arrest/detention]/ [or] attempting to avoid [arrest/detention] by flight][./; and]

(d) [specify other factors particular to the case].

New September 2003; Revised June 2012; Renumbered from CACI No. 3001 December 2012; Revised June 2015, June 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

The "official duties" referred to in element 3 must be duties created by a state, county, or municipal law, ordinance, or regulation. This aspect of color of law most likely will not be an issue for the jury, so it has been omitted to shorten the wording of element 3.

The three factors (a), (b), and (c) listed are often referred to as the "Graham factors." (See Graham v. Connor (1989) 490 U.S. 386, 396 [109 S.Ct. 1865, 104 L.Ed.2d 443].) The Graham factors are not exclusive. (See Glenn v. Wash. County (9th Cir. 2011) 661 F.3d 460, 467–468.) Additional factors may be added if appropriate to the facts of the case.

Claims of excessive force against law enforcement officers in the course of making an arrest, investigatory stop, or other seizure are analyzed under the Fourth Amendment's "objective reasonableness" standard. (Graham, supra, 490 U.S. at pp. 388, 395 fn.10.) Claims of excessive force brought by pretrial detainees are governed by the Fourteenth Amendment's Due Process Clause and are also analyzed under an objective reasonableness standard. (Kingsley v. Hendrickson (2015) -- U.S. --, 135 S.Ct. 2466, 2473 [192 L.Ed.2d 416].) Modify the instruction for use in a case brought by a pretrial detainee involving the use of excessive force after arrest, but before conviction.~~Additional considerations and verdict form questions will be needed if there is a question of fact as to whether the defendant law enforcement officer had time for reflective decision-making before applying force. If the officers' conduct required a reaction to fast-paced circumstances presenting competing public safety obligations, the plaintiff must prove intent to harm. (See Green v. County of Riverside (2015) 238 Cal.App.4th 1363, 1372 [190 Cal.Rptr.3d 693].)~~ For an instruction on an excessive force claim brought by a convicted prisoner, see CACI No. 3042, Violation of Prisoner's Federal Civil Rights—Eighth Amendment—Excessive Force (42 U.S.C. § 1983).

The legality or illegality of the use of deadly force under state law is not relevant to the constitutional question. (Cf. People v. McKay (2002) 27 Cal.4th 601, 610 [117 Cal.Rptr.2d 236, 41 P.3d 59] ["[T]he [United States Supreme Court] has repeatedly emphasized that the Fourth Amendment inquiry does not depend on whether the challenged police conduct was authorized by state law"]; see also Pen. Code, § 835a.)

~~No case has yet determined, and therefore it is unclear, whether the defense has either the burden of proof or the burden of producing evidence on reaction to fast-paced circumstances. (See Evid. Code, §§ 500 [party has burden of proof as to each fact the existence or nonexistence of which is essential to the claim for relief or defense asserted], 550 [burden of producing evidence as to particular fact is on party against whom a finding on the fact would be required in absence of further evidence].)~~

For an instruction for use in a negligence claim under California common law based on the same event and facts, see CACI No. 440, Unreasonable Force by Law Enforcement Officer in Arrest or Other Seizure—Essential Factual Elements. For an instruction for use alleging excessive force as a battery, see CACI No. 1305, Battery by ~~Police~~ Peace Officer.

Sources and Authority

- "In addressing an excessive force claim brought under § 1983, analysis begins by identifying the specific constitutional right allegedly infringed by the challenged application of force. In most instances, that will be either the Fourth Amendment's prohibition against unreasonable seizures of the person, or the Eighth Amendment's ban on cruel and unusual punishments, which are the two primary sources of constitutional protection against physically abusive governmental conduct." (Graham, supra, 490 U.S. at p. 395, internal citations and footnote omitted.)

- "Where, as here, the excessive force claim arises in the context of an arrest or investigatory stop of a free citizen, it is most properly characterized as one invoking the protections of the Fourth Amendment, which guarantees citizens the right 'to be secure in their persons ... against unreasonable ... seizures' of the person." (Graham, supra, 490 U.S. at p. 394.)

- "In deciding whether the force deliberately used is, constitutionally speaking, 'excessive,' should courts use an objective standard only, or instead a subjective standard that takes into account a defendant's state of mind? It is with respect to this question that we hold that courts must use an objective standard." (Kingsley v. Hendrickson (2015) -- U.S. --, 135 S.Ct. 2466, 2472–2473 [192 L.Ed.2d 416], original italics.)

- "[A]ll claims that law enforcement officers have used excessive force—deadly or not—in the course of an arrest, investigatory stop, or other 'seizure' of a free citizen should be analyzed under the Fourth Amendment and its 'reasonableness' standard, rather than under a 'substantive due process' approach." (Graham, supra, 490 U.S. at p. 395.)

- " 'The intrusiveness of a seizure by means of deadly force is unmatched.' 'The use of deadly force implicates the highest level of Fourth Amendment interests both because the suspect has a "fundamental interest in his own life" and because such force "frustrates the interest of the individual, and of society, in judicial determination of guilt and punishment." ' " (Vos v. City of Newport Beach (9th Cir. 2018) 892 F.3d 1024, 1031.)

- "The 'reasonableness' of a particular use of force must be judged from the perspective of a reasonable officer on the scene, rather than with the 20/20 vision of hindsight." (Graham, supra, 490 U.S. at p. 396.)

- "Because '[t]he test of reasonableness under the Fourth Amendment is not capable of precise definition or mechanical application,' ... its proper application requires careful attention to the facts and circumstances of each particular case, including the severity of the crime at issue, whether the suspect poses an immediate threat to the safety of the officers or others, and whether he is actively resisting arrest or attempting to evade arrest by flight." (Graham, supra, 490 U.S. at p. 396, internal citation omitted.)

- "The most important of these [factors from Graham, above] is whether the suspect posed an immediate threat to the officers or others, as measured objectively under the circumstances." (Mendoza v. City of West Covina (2012) 206 Cal.App.4th 702, 712 [141 Cal.Rptr.3d 553] .)

- "[The Graham] factors, however, are not exclusive. We 'examine the totality of the circumstances and consider "whatever specific factors may be appropriate in a particular case, whether or not listed in Graham." ' Other relevant factors include the availability of less intrusive alternatives to the force employed, whether proper warnings were given and whether it should have been apparent to officers that the person they used force against was emotionally disturbed." (Glenn, supra, 661 F.3d at p. 467, internal citations omitted.)

- "With respect to the possibility of less intrusive force, officers need not employ the least intrusive means available[,] so long as they act within a range of reasonable conduct." (Estate of Lopez v. Gelhaus (9th Cir. 2017) 871 F.3d 998, 1006.)

- "Although officers are not required to use the least intrusive degree of force available, 'the availability of alternative methods of capturing or subduing a suspect may be a factor to consider[.],' " (Vos, supra, 892 F.3d at p. 1033, internal citation omitted.)

- "Courts 'also consider, under the totality of the circumstances, the quantum of force used to arrest the plaintiff, the availability of alternative methods of capturing or detaining the suspect, and the plaintiff's mental and emotional state.' " (Brooks v. Clark County (9th Cir. 2016) 828 F.3d 910, 920.)

- "Because the reasonableness standard 'nearly always requires a jury to sift through disputed factual contentions, and to draw inferences therefrom, we have held on many occasions that summary judgment or judgment as a matter of law in excessive force cases should be granted sparingly.' " (Torres v. City of Madera (9th Cir. 2011) 648 F.3d 1119, 1125.)

- "Justice Stevens incorrectly declares [the 'objective reasonableness' standard under Graham] to be 'a question of fact best reserved for a jury,' and complains we are 'usurp[ing] the jury's factfinding function.'. At the summary judgment stage, however, once we have determined the relevant set of facts and drawn all inferences in favor of the nonmoving party to the extent supportable by the record, the reasonableness of [defendant]'s actions--or, in Justice Stevens' parlance, '[w]hether [respondent's] actions have risen to a level warranting deadly force,' is a pure question of law." (Scott v. Harris (2007) 550 U.S. 372, 381, fn. 8 [127 S. Ct. 1769; 167 L. Ed. 2d 686], original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- "Because there are no genuine issues of material fact and 'the relevant set of facts' has been determined, the reasonableness of the use of force is 'a pure question of law.' " (Lowry v. City of San Diego (9th Cir. 2017) 858 F.3d 1248, 1256 (en banc).)

- "In assessing the objective reasonableness of a particular use of force, we consider: (1) 'the severity of the intrusion on the individual's Fourth Amendment rights by evaluating the type and amount of force inflicted,' (2) 'the government's interest in the use of force,' and (3) the balance between 'the gravity of the intrusion on the individual' and 'the government's need for that intrusion.' " (Lowry, supra, 858 F.3d at p. 1256.)

- "To be sure, the reasonableness inquiry in the context of excessive force balances 'intrusion[s] on the individual's Fourth Amendment interests' against the government's interests. But in weighing the evidence in favor of the officers, rather than the [plaintiffs], the district court unfairly tipped the reasonableness inquiry in the officers' favor." (Sandoval v. Las Vegas Metro. Police Dep't (9th Cir. 2014) 756 F.3d 1154, 1167, internal citation omitted.)

- "The district court found that [plaintiff] stated a claim for excessive use of force, but that governmental interests in officer safety, investigating a possible crime, and controlling an interaction with a potential domestic abuser outweighed the intrusion upon [plaintiff]'s rights. In reaching this conclusion, the court improperly 'weigh[ed] conflicting evidence with respect to . . . disputed material fact[s].' " (Bonivert v. City of Clarkston (9th Cir. 2018) 883 F.3d 865, 880.)

- "The Fourth Amendment's 'reasonableness' standard is not the same as the standard of 'reasonable care' under tort law, and negligent acts do not incur constitutional liability." (Hayes v. County of San Diego 57 Cal.4th 622, 639 [160 Cal.Rptr.3d 684, 305 P.3d 252].)

- "[S]tate negligence law, which considers the totality of the circumstances surrounding any use of deadly force, is broader than federal Fourth Amendment law, which tends to focus more narrowly on the moment when deadly force is used." (Hayes, supra, 57 Cal.4th at p. 639, internal citations omitted.)

- "We are cognizant of the Supreme Court's command to evaluate an officer's actions 'from the perspective of a reasonable officer on the scene, rather than with the 20/20 vision of hindsight.' We also recognize the reality that 'police officers are often forced to make split-second judgments--in circumstances that are tense, uncertain, and rapidly evolving--about the amount of force that is necessary in a particular situation.' This does not mean, however, that a Fourth Amendment violation will be found only in those rare instances where an officer and his attorney are unable to find a sufficient number of compelling adjectives to describe the victim's conduct. Nor does it mean that we can base our analysis on what officers actually felt or believed during an incident. Rather, we must ask if the officers' conduct is ' "objectively reasonable" in light of the facts and circumstances confronting them' without regard for an officer's subjective intentions." (Bryan v. MacPherson (9th Cir. 2010) 630 F.3d 805, 831, internal citations omitted.)

- "Deadly force is permissible only 'if the suspect threatens the officer with a weapon or there is probable cause to believe that he has committed a crime involving the infliction or threatened infliction of serious physical harm.' " (A. K. H. v. City of Tustin (9th Cir. 2016) 837 F.3d 1005, 1011.)

- "[A]n officer may not use deadly force to apprehend a suspect where the suspect poses no immediate threat to the officer or others. On the other hand, it is not constitutionally unreasonable to prevent escape using deadly force '[w]here the officer has probable cause to believe that the suspect poses a threat of serious physical harm, either to the officer or to others.' " (Wilkinson v. Torres (9th Cir. 2010) 610 F.3d 546, 550, internal citations omitted.)

- "It is clearly established law that shooting a fleeing suspect in the back violates the suspect's Fourth Amendment rights. 'Where the suspect poses no immediate threat to the officer and no threat to others, the harm resulting from failing to apprehend him does not justify the use of deadly force to do so. . . . A police officer may not seize an unarmed, nondangerous suspect by shooting him dead.' " (Foster v. City of Indio (9th Cir. 2018) 908 F.3d 1204, 1211.)

- " '[I]f police officers are justified in firing at a suspect in order to end a severe threat to public safety, the officers need not stop shooting until the threat has ended.' But terminating a threat doesn't necessarily mean terminating the suspect. If the suspect is on the ground and appears wounded, he may no longer pose a threat; a reasonable officer would reassess the situation rather than continue shooting." (Zion v. County~~ty.~~ of Orange (9th Cir. 2017) 874 F.3d 1072, 1076, internal citation omitted.)

- "Resistance, or the reasonable perception of resistance, does not entitle police officers to use any amount of force to restrain a suspect. Rather, police officers who confront actual (or perceived) resistance are only permitted to use an amount of force that is reasonable to overcome that resistance." (Barnard v. Theobald (9th Cir. 2013) 721 F.3d 1069, 1076, internal citations omitted.)

- ~~" In any event, the court correctly instructed the jury on the mental state required in a Fourteenth Amendment excessive use of force case under section 1983 because this case did not involve reflective decisionmaking by the officers, but instead their reaction to fast-paced circumstances presenting competing public safety obligations. Given these circumstances, [plaintiff] was required to prove that the officers acted with a purpose to cause harm to her son." (Green, supra, 238 Cal.App.4th at p. 1372.)~~

- "[T]he fact that the 'suspect was armed with a deadly weapon' does not render the officers' response per se reasonable under the Fourth Amendment. [¶] This is not to say that the Fourth Amendment always requires officers to delay their fire until a suspect turns his weapon on them. If the person is armed—or reasonably suspected of being armed—a furtive movement, harrowing gesture, or serious verbal threat might create an immediate threat." (George v. Morris (9th Cir. 2013) 724 F.3d 1191, 1200, original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- " '[A] simple statement by an officer that he fears for his safety or the safety of others is not enough; there must be objective factors to justify such a concern.' Here, whether objective factors supported [defendant]'s supposed subjective fear is not a question that can be answered as a matter of law based upon the limited evidence in the record, especially given that on summary judgment that evidence must be construed in the light most favorable to [plaintiff], the non-moving party. Rather, whether [defendant]'s claim that he feared a broccoli-based assault is credible and reasonable presents a genuine question of material fact that must be resolved not by a court ruling on a motion for summary judgment but by a jury in its capacity as the trier of fact." (Young v. County of Los Angeles (9th Cir. 2011) 655 F.3d 1156, 1163–1164.)

- "An officer's evil intentions will not make a Fourth Amendment violation out of an objectively reasonable use of force; nor will an officer's good intentions make an objectively unreasonable use of force constitutional." (Fetters v. County of Los Angeles (2016) 243 Cal.App.4th 825, 838 [196 Cal.Rptr.3d 848].)

- "Although Graham does not specifically identify as a relevant factor whether the suspect poses a threat to himself, we assume that the officers could have used some reasonable level of force to try to prevent [decedent] from taking a suicidal act. But we are aware of no published cases holding it reasonable to use a significant amount of force to try to stop someone from attempting suicide. Indeed, it would be odd to permit officers to use force capable of causing serious injury or death in an effort to prevent the possibility that an individual might attempt to harm only himself. We do not rule out that in some circumstances some force might be warranted to prevent suicide, but in cases like this one the 'solution' could be worse than the problem." (Glenn, supra, 661 F.3d at p. 468.)

- "This Court has 'refused to create two tracks of excessive force analysis, one for the mentally ill and one for serious criminals.' The Court has, however, 'found that even when an emotionally disturbed individual is acting out and inviting officers to use deadly force to subdue him, the governmental interest in using such force is diminished by the fact that the officers are confronted . . . with a mentally ill individual.' A reasonable jury could conclude, based upon the information available to [defendant officer] at the time, that there were sufficient indications of mental illness to diminish the governmental interest in using deadly force." (Hughes v. Kisela (9th Cir. 2016) 841 F.3d 1081, 1086.)

- "By contrast, if the officer warned the offender that he would employ force, but the suspect refused to comply, the government has an increased interest in the use of force." (Marquez v. City of Phoenix (9th Cir. 2012) 693 F.3d 1167, 1175, internal citation omitted.)

- "[P]reshooting conduct is included in the totality of circumstances surrounding an officer's use of deadly force, and therefore the officer's duty to act reasonably when using deadly force extends to preshooting conduct. But in a case like this one, where the preshooting conduct did not cause the plaintiff any injury independent of the injury resulting from the shooting, the reasonableness of the officers' preshooting conduct should not be considered in isolation. Rather, it should be considered in relation to the question whether the officers' ultimate use of deadly force was reasonable." (Hayes, supra, 57 Cal.4th at p. 632, internal citation omitted.)

- "A person is seized by the police and thus entitled to challenge the government's action under the Fourth Amendment when the officer by means of physical force or show of authority terminates or restrains his freedom of movement through means intentionally applied." (Nelson v. City of Davis (9th Cir. 2012) 685 F.3d 867, 875.)

- "The Supreme Court has interpreted the phrase 'under "color" of law' to mean 'under "pretense" of law.' A police officer's actions are under pretense of law only if they are 'in some way "related to the performance of his official duties." ' By contrast, an officer who is ' "pursuing his own goals and is not in any way subject to control by [his public employer]," ' does not act under color of law, unless he 'purports or pretends' to do so. Officers who engage in confrontations for personal reasons unrelated to law enforcement, and do not 'purport[] or pretend[]' to be officers, do not act under color of law." (Huffman v. County of Los Angeles (9th Cir. 1998) 147 F.3d 1054, 1058, internal citations omitted.)

- "We hold that, in order to recover damages for allegedly unconstitutional conviction or imprisonment, or for other harm caused by actions whose unlawfulness would render a conviction or sentence invalid, a § 1983 plaintiff must prove that the conviction or sentence has been reversed on direct appeal, expunged by executive order, declared invalid by a state tribunal authorized to make such determination, or called into question by a federal court's issuance of a writ of habeas corpus. A claim for damages bearing that relationship to a conviction or sentence that has not been so invalidated is not cognizable under § 1983. Thus, when a state prisoner seeks damages in a § 1983 suit, the district court must consider whether a judgment in favor of the plaintiff would necessarily imply the invalidity of his conviction or sentence; if it would, the complaint must be dismissed unless the plaintiff can demonstrate that the conviction or sentence has already been invalidated. But if the district court determines that the plaintiff's action, even if successful, will not demonstrate the invalidity of any outstanding criminal judgment against the plaintiff, the action should be allowed to proceed, in the absence of some other bar to the suit." (Heck v. Humphrey (1994) 512 U.S. 477, 486–487 [114 S.Ct. 2364, 129 L.Ed.2d 383], footnotes and internal citation omitted.)

- "Heck requires the reviewing court to answer three questions: (1) Was there an underlying conviction or sentence relating to the section 1983 claim? (2) Would a 'judgment in favor of the plaintiff [in the section 1983 action] "necessarily imply" … the invalidity of the prior conviction or sentence?' (3) 'If so, was the prior conviction or sentence already invalidated or otherwise favorably terminated?' " (Fetters, supra, 243 Cal.App.4th at p. 834.)

- "The Heck inquiry does not require a court to consider whether the section 1983 claim would establish beyond all doubt the invalidity of the criminal outcome; rather, a court need only 'consider whether a judgment in favor of the plaintiff would necessarily imply the invalidity of his conviction or sentence.' " (Fetters, supra, 243 Cal.App.4th at p. 841, original italics.)

- "[A] dismissal under section 1203.4 does not invalidate a conviction for purposes of removing the Heck bar preventing a plaintiff from bringing a civil action." (Baranchik v. Fizulich (2017) 10 Cal.App.5th 1210, 1224 [217 Cal.Rptr.3d 423].)

- "[Plaintiff]'s section 1983 claim is barred to the extent it alleges that [the arresting officer] lacked justification to arrest him or to respond with reasonable force to his resistance. The use of deadly force in this situation, though, requires a separate analysis. 'For example, a defendant might resist a lawful arrest, to which the arresting officers might respond with excessive force to subdue him. The subsequent use of excessive force would not negate the lawfulness of the initial arrest attempt, or negate the unlawfulness of the criminal defendant's attempt to resist it. Though occurring in one continuous chain of events, two isolated factual contexts would exist, the first giving rise to criminal liability on the part of the criminal defendant, and the second giving rise to civil liability on the part of the arresting officer.' " (Yount v. City of Sacramento (2008) 43 Cal.4th 885, 899 [76 Cal.Rptr.3d 787, 183 P.3d 471], original italics.)

- "Plaintiffs contend that the use of force is unlawful because the arrest itself is unlawful. But that is not so. We have expressly held that claims for false arrest and excessive force are analytically distinct." (Sharp v. County~~ty.~~ of Orange (9th Cir. 2017) 871 F.3d 901, 916.)

- "[T]he district court effectively required the jury to presume that the arrest was constitutionally lawful, and so not to consider facts concerning the basis for the arrest. Doing so removed critical factual questions that were within the jury's province to decide. For instance, by taking from the jury the question whether [officer]'s arrest of [plaintiff] for resisting or obstructing a police officer was lawful, the district judge implied simultaneously that [plaintiff] was in fact resisting or failing to obey the police officer's lawful instructions. Presuming such resistance could certainly have influenced the jury's assessment of 'the need for force,' as well as its consideration of the other Graham factors, including 'whether [the suspect] is actively resisting arrest or attempting to evade arrest by flight. By erroneously granting judgment as a matter of law on [plaintiff]'s unlawful arrest claim, the district court impermissibly truncated the jury's consideration of [plaintiff]'s excessive force claim." (Velazquez v. City of Long Beach (9th Cir. 2015) 793 F.3d 1010, 1027, original italics.)

Secondary Sources

~~10~~ 8 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Constitutional Law, §§ ~~888~~981, ~~892 et seq.~~985

Chin et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch.7-G, ~~Employment Discrimination—In General—~~Unruh Civil Rights Act, ¶ 7:1526 et seq. (The Rutter Group)

3 Civil Rights Actions, Ch. 10, Deprivation of Rights Under Color of State Law—Law Enforcement and Prosecution, ¶¶ 10.00–10.03 (Matthew Bender)

11 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 113, Civil Rights: The Post-Civil War Civil Rights Statutes, § 113.14 (Matthew Bender)

3050. Retaliation—Essential Factual Elements (42 U.S.C. § 1983)

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] retaliated against [him/her/nonbinary pronoun] for exercising a constitutional right. [By [specify conduct], [name of plaintiff] was exercising [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] constitutionally protected right of [insert right, e.g., privacy].] To establish retaliation, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. [That [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was engaged in a constitutionally protected activity;]
2. That [name of defendant] [specify alleged retaliatory conduct];
3. That [name of defendant]'s acts were motivated, at least in part, by [name of plaintiff]'s protected activity;
4. That [name of defendant]'s acts would likely have deterred a person of ordinary firmness from engaging in that protected activity; and
5. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed as a result of [name of defendant]'s conduct.

[The law requires that the trial judge, rather than the jury, decide if [name of plaintiff] has proven element 1 above. But before I can do so, you must decide whether [name of plaintiff] has proven the following:

[*List all factual disputes that must be resolved by the jury.]]

New June 2010; Revised December 2010, Renumbered from CACI No. 3016 and Revised December 2012~~,~~; Revised June 2013, May 2020

Directions for Use

Give this instruction along with CACI No. 3000, Violation of Federal Civil Rights—In General—Essential Factual Elements, if the claimed civil rights violation is retaliation for exercising constitutionally protected rights, including exercise of free speech rights as a private citizen. ~~The retaliation should be alleged generally in element 1 of CACI No. 3000.~~For a claim by a public employee who alleges that they suffered an adverse employment action in retaliation for their speech on an issue of public concern, see CACI No. 3053, Retaliation for Exercise of Free Speech Rights—Public Employee—Essential Factual Elements (42 U.S.C. § 1983).

The retaliation should be alleged generally in element 1 of CACI No. 3000. The constitutionally protected activity refers back to the right alleged to have been violated in element 3 of CACI No. 3000. Whether plaintiff was engaged in a constitutionally protected activity will usually have been resolved by the court as a matter of law. If so, include the optional statement in the opening paragraph and omit element 1. If there is a question of fact that the jury must resolve with regard to the constitutionally protected activity, include element 1 and give the last part of the instruction.

There is perhaps some uncertainty with regard to the requirement in element 3 that the retaliatory act may be motivated, in part, by the protected activity. While the element is so stated in Tichinin v. City of Morgan Hill (2009) 177 Cal.App.4th 1049, 1062–1063 [99 Cal.Rptr.3d 661], the court also was of the view that the defendant may avoid liability by proving that, notwithstanding a retaliatory motive, it also had legitimate reasons for its actions and would have taken the same steps for those reasons alone. (Id. at pp. 1086–1087, finding persuasive Greenwich Citizens Comm. v. Counties of Warren & Washington Indus. Dev. Agency (2d Cir. 1996) 77 F.3d 26, 30.) Therefore, the fact that retaliation may have motivated the defendant only in part may not always be sufficient for liability. In the Ninth Circuit, there is authority for both a "but -for" and a "substantial or motivating factor" standard. (Compare Karl v. City of Mountlake Terrace (9th Cir. 2012) 678 F.3d 1062, 1072 [defendant may show that: (1) the adverse employment action was based on protected and unprotected activities; and (2) defendant would have taken the adverse action if the proper reason alone had existed] with Blair v. Bethel Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 2010) 608 F.3d 540, 543 [third element expressed as "there was a substantial causal relationship between the constitutionally protected activity and the adverse action"].)

Sources and Authority

- "Where, as here, the plaintiff claims retaliation for exercising a constitutional right, the majority of federal courts require the plaintiff to prove that (1) he or she was engaged in constitutionally protected activity, (2) the defendant's retaliatory action caused the plaintiff to suffer an injury that would likely deter a person of ordinary firmness from engaging in that protected activity, and (3) the retaliatory action was motivated, at least in part, by the plaintiff's protected activity." (Tichinin, supra, 177 Cal.App.4th at pp. 1062–1063.)

- "[A]ctions that are otherwise proper and lawful may nevertheless be actionable if they are taken in retaliation against a person for exercising his or her constitutional rights." (Tichinin, supra, 177 Cal.App.4th at p. 1084.)

- "To demonstrate retaliation in violation of the First Amendment, [the plaintiff] must ultimately prove first that [defendant] took action that 'would chill or silence a person of ordinary firmness from future First Amendment activities.' " (Skoog v. County of Clackamas (9th Cir. 2006) 469 F.3d 1221, 1231–1232, footnote and citation omitted.)

- "The plaintiff pressing a retaliatory arrest claim must plead and prove the absence of probable cause for the arrest." (Nieves v. Bartlett (2019) — U.S. — [139 S.Ct. 1715, 1724, 204 L.Ed.2d 1].)

- "[A]n individual has a right 'to be free from police action motivated by retaliatory animus but for which there was probable cause.' " (Ford v. City of Yakima (9th Cir. 2013) 706 F.3d 1188, 1193.)

- "Probable cause is not irrelevant to an individual's claim that he was booked and jailed in retaliation for his speech. Probable cause for the initial arrest can be evidence of a police officer's lack of retaliatory animus for subsequently booking and jailing an individual. However, that determination should be left to the trier of fact once a plaintiff has produced evidence that the officer's conduct was motivated by retaliatory animus." (Ford, supra, 706 F.3d at p. 1194 fn.2, internal citation omitted.)

- "[T]he evidence of [plaintiff]'s alleged injuries, if believed, is sufficient to support a finding that the retaliatory action against him would deter a person of ordinary firmness from exercising his or her First Amendment rights. [¶] [Defendant] argues that plaintiff did not suffer any injury—i.e., [defendant]'s action did not chill [plaintiff]'s exercise of his rights—because he continued to litigate against [defendant]. However, that [plaintiff] persevered despite [defendant]'s action is not determinative. To reiterate, in the context of a claim of retaliation, the question is not whether the plaintiff was actually deterred but whether the defendant's actions would have deterred a person of ordinary firmness." (Tichinin, supra, 177 Cal.App.4th at p. 1082.)

- "Intent to inhibit speech, which 'is an element of the [retaliation] claim,' can be demonstrated either through direct or circumstantial evidence." (Mendocino Envtl. Ctr. v. Mendocino County (9th Cir. 1999) 192 F.3d 1283, 1300–1301, internal citation omitted.)

- ~~"To show that retaliation was a substantial or motivating factor behind an adverse employment action, a plaintiff can (1) introduce evidence that the speech and adverse action were proximate in time, such that a jury could infer that the action took place in retaliation for the speech; (2) introduce evidence that the employer expressed opposition to the speech; or (3) introduce evidence that the proffered explanations for the adverse action were false and pretextual." (Anthoine v. N. Cent. Counties Consortium (9th Cir. 2010) 605 F.3d 740, 750.)~~

- "To satisfy the [causation] requirement, the evidence must be sufficient to establish that the officers' desire to chill [plaintiff]'s speech was a but-for cause of their conduct. In other words, would [plaintiff] have been booked and jailed, rather than cited and arrested, but for the officers' desire to punish [him] for his speech?" (Ford, supra, 706 F.3d at p. 1194.)

- "[Defendant] may avoid liability if he shows that a 'final decision maker's independent investigation and termination decision, responding to a biased subordinate's initial report of misconduct, . . . negate[s] any causal link' between his retaliatory motive and the adverse employment action. This is because a final decision maker's wholly independent investigation and decision establish that 'the employee's protected speech was not a but-for cause of the adverse employment action.' " (Karl, supra, 678 F.3d at pp. 1072–1073, internal citation omitted.)

- "While the scope, severity and consequences of [their] actions are belittled by defendants, we have cautioned that 'a government act of retaliation need not be severe . . . [nor] be of a certain kind' to qualify as an adverse action." (Marez v. Bassett (9th Cir. 2010), 595 F.3d 1068, 1075.)

- ~~"We employ a 'sequential five-step series of questions' to determine whether an employer impermissibly retaliated against an employee for protected speech: (1) whether the plaintiff spoke on a matter of public concern; (2) whether the plaintiff spoke as a private citizen or public employee; (3) whether the plaintiff's protected speech was a substantial or motivating factor in the adverse employment action; (4) whether the state had an adequate justification for treating the employee differently from other members of the general public; and (5) whether the state would have taken the adverse employment action even absent the protected speech." (Anthoine, supra, 605 F.3d at p. 748.)~~

Secondary Sources

8 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10~~11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Constitutional Law, §§ ~~820~~894, ~~885A~~895, 978

2 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 40, Overview of Equal Opportunity Laws, § 40.26 (Matthew Bender)

3 Civil Rights Actions, Ch. 17, Discrimination in Federally Assisted Programs, ¶ 17.24B (Matthew Bender)

4 Civil Rights Actions, Ch. 21A, Employment Discrimination Based on Race, Color, Religion, Sex, or National Origin, ¶ 21.22(1)(f) (Matthew Bender)

11 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 115, Civil Rights: Employment Discrimination, § 115.37 (Matthew Bender)

10 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 100, Employer and Employee: Wrongful Termination and Discipline, § 100.42 (Matthew Bender)

3053. Retaliation for Exercise of Free Speech Rights—Public Employee—Essential Factual Elements (42 U.S.C. § 1983)

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] retaliated against [him/her/nonbinary pronoun] because [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] exercised [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] right to speak as a private citizen about a matter of public concern. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. [That [name of plaintiff] was speaking as a private citizen and not as a public employee when [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] [describe speech alleged to be protected by the First Amendment, e.g., criticized the mayor at a city council meeting];]

2. That [name of defendant] [specify retaliatory acts, e.g., terminated plaintiff's employment];

3. That [name of plaintiff]'s [e.g., speech to the city council] was a substantial motivating reason for [name of defendant]'s decision to [e.g., terminate plaintiff's employment];

4. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

5. That [name of defendant]'s conduct was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

If [name of plaintiff] proves all of the above, [name of defendant] is not liable if [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] proves either of the following:

6. That [name of defendant] had an adequate employment-based justification for treating [name of plaintiff] differently from any other member of the general public; or

7. That [name of defendant] would have [specify adverse action, e.g., terminated plaintiff's employment] anyway for other legitimate reasons, even if [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] also retaliated based on [name of plaintiff]'s protected conduct.

In deciding whether [name of plaintiff] was speaking as a public citizen or a public employee (element 1), you should consider whether [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] [e.g., speech] was within [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] job responsibilities. [However, the listing of a given task in an employee's written job description is neither necessary nor sufficient alone to demonstrate that conducting the task is part of the employee's professional duties.]

New November 2017; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction is for use in a claim by ~~a~~ public employees who alleges that ~~he or she~~ they suffered an adverse employment action in retaliation for ~~his or her~~ their private speech on an issue of public concern.

Speech made by public employees in their official capacity is not insulated from employer discipline by the First Amendment but speech made in one's private capacity as a citizen is. (Garcetti v. Ceballos (2006) 547 U.S. 410, 421 [126 S.Ct. 1951, 164 L.Ed.2d 689].) For a claim by a private citizen who alleges retaliation, see CACI No. 3050, Retaliation—Essential Factual Elements (42 U.S.C. § 1983).

Element 1, whether the employee was speaking as a private citizen or as a public employee, and element 6, whether the public employer had an adequate justification for the adverse action, are ultimately determined as a matter of law, but may involve disputed facts. (Eng v. Cooley (9th Cir. 2009) 552 F.3d 1062, 1071.) If there are no disputed facts, these elements should not be given. They may be modified to express the particular factual issues that the jury must resolve.

Give the bracketed optional sentence in the last paragraph if the defendant has placed the plaintiff's formal written job description in evidence. (See Garcetti, supra, 547 U.S. at p. 424.)

Note that there are two causation elements. The protected speech must have caused the employer's adverse action (element 3), and the adverse action must have caused the employee harm (element 5). This second causation element will rarely be disputed in a termination case. For optional language if the employer claims that there was no adverse action, see CACI No. 2505, Retaliation—Essential Factual Elements (under California's Fair Employment and Housing Act). See also CACI No. 2509, "Adverse Employment Action" Explained (under FEHA).

Sources and Authority

- " '[C]itizens do not surrender their First Amendment rights by accepting public employment.' Moreover, '[t]here is considerable value . . . in encouraging, rather than inhibiting, speech by public employees,' because 'government employees are often in the best position to know what ails the agencies for which they work.' At the same time, '[g]overnment employers, like private employers, need a significant degree of control over their employees' words and actions.' Accordingly, government employees may be subject to some restraints on their speech 'that would be unconstitutional if applied to the general public.' " (Moonin v. Tice (9th Cir. 2017) 868 F.3d 853, 860-861, internal citations omitted.)

- "First Amendment retaliation claims are governed by the framework in Eng. See 552 F.3d at 1070-72. [Plaintiff] must show that (1) he spoke on a matter of public concern, (2) he spoke as a private citizen rather than a public employee, and (3) the relevant speech was a substantial or motivating factor in the adverse employment action. Upon that showing, the State must demonstrate that (4) it had an adequate justification for treating [plaintiff] differently from other members of the general public, or (5) it would have taken the adverse employment action even absent the protected speech. '[A]ll the factors are necessary, in the sense that failure to meet any one of them is fatal to the plaintiff's case.' " (Kennedy v. Bremerton Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 2017) 869 F.3d 813, 822, internal citations omitted.)

- "In a First Amendment retaliation case, an adverse employment action is an act that is reasonably likely to deter employees from engaging in constitutionally protected speech." (Greisen v. Hanken (9th Cir. 2019) 925 F.3d 1097, 1113.)

- "Pickering [v. Bd. of Educ. (1968) 391 U.S. 563 [88 S.Ct. 1731, 20 L.Ed.2d 811]] and the cases decided in its wake identify two inquiries to guide interpretation of the constitutional protections accorded to public employee speech. The first requires determining whether the employee spoke as a citizen on a matter of public concern. If the answer is no, the employee has no First Amendment cause of action based on his or her employer's reaction to the speech. If the answer is yes, then the possibility of a First Amendment claim arises. The question becomes whether the relevant government entity had an adequate justification for treating the employee differently from any other member of the general public. This consideration reflects the importance of the relationship between the speaker's expressions and employment. A government entity has broader discretion to restrict speech when it acts in its role as employer, but the restrictions it imposes must be directed at speech that has some potential to affect the entity's operations." (Garcetti, supra, 547 U.S. at p. 418, internal citations omitted.)

- "In the forty years since Pickering, First Amendment retaliation law has evolved dramatically, if sometimes inconsistently. Unraveling Pickering's tangled history reveals a sequential five-step series of questions: (1) whether the plaintiff spoke on a matter of public concern; (2) whether the plaintiff spoke as a private citizen or public employee; (3) whether the plaintiff's protected speech was a substantial or motivating factor in the adverse employment action; (4) whether the state had an adequate justification for treating the employee differently from other members of the general public; and (5) whether the state would have taken the adverse employment action even absent the protected speech. Analysis of these questions, further complicated by restraints on our interlocutory appellate jurisdiction, involves a complex array of factual and legal inquiries requiring detailed explanation." (Eng, supra, 552 F.3d at p. 1070.)

- "Whether speech is on a matter of public concern is a question of law, determined by the court…. The speech need not be entirely about matters of public concern, but it must 'substantially involve' such matters. '[S]peech warrants protection when it "seek[s] to bring to light actual or potential wrongdoing or breach of public trust." ' " (Greisen, supra, 925 F.3d at p. 1109.)

- "[Defendant] may avoid liability if he shows that a 'final decision maker's independent investigation and termination decision, responding to a biased subordinate's initial report of misconduct, . . . negate[s] any causal link' between his retaliatory motive and the adverse employment action. This is because a final decision maker's wholly independent investigation and decision establish that 'the employee's protected speech was not a but-for cause of the adverse employment action.' " (Karl v. City of Mountlake Terrace (9th Cir. 2012) 678 F.3d 1062, 1072–1073, internal citation omitted.)

- "Whether an individual speaks as a public employee is a mixed question of fact and law. 'First, a factual determination must be made as to the "scope and content of a plaintiff's job responsibilities." ' 'Second, the "ultimate constitutional significance" of those facts must be determined as a matter of law.' " (Barone v. City of Springfield (9th Cir. 2018) 902 F.3d 1091, 1099, internal citations omitted.)

- "An employee does not speak as a citizen merely because the employee directs speech towards the public, or speaks in the presence of the public, particularly when an employee's job duties include interacting with the public." (Barone, supra, 902 F.3d at p. 1100.)

- "[T]he parties in this case do not dispute that [plaintiff] wrote his disposition memo pursuant to his employment duties. We thus have no occasion to articulate a comprehensive framework for defining the scope of an employee's duties in cases where there is room for serious debate. We reject, however, the suggestion that employers can restrict employees' rights by creating excessively broad job descriptions. The proper inquiry is a practical one. Formal job descriptions often bear little resemblance to the duties an employee actually is expected to perform, and the listing of a given task in an employee's written job description is neither necessary nor sufficient to demonstrate that conducting the task is within the scope of the employee's professional duties for First Amendment purposes." (Garcetti, supra, 547 U.S. at p. 424.)

- "To show that retaliation was a substantial or motivating factor behind an adverse employment action, a plaintiff can (1) introduce evidence that the speech and adverse action were proximate in time, such that a jury could infer that the action took place in retaliation for the speech; (2) introduce evidence that the employer expressed opposition to the speech; or (3) introduce evidence that the proffered explanations for the adverse action were false and pretextual." (Anthoine v. N. Cent. Counties Consortium (9th Cir. 2010) 605 F.3d 740, 750.)

- "[I]n synthesizing relevant Ninth Circuit precedent since Garcetti, an en banc panel of this Court in Dahlia v. Rodriguez, 735 F.3d 1060, 1074–76 (9th Cir. 2013), announced three guiding principles for undertaking the practical factual inquiry of whether an employee's speech is insulated from employer discipline under the First Amendment. … The guiding principles are: [¶] 1. 'First, particularly in a highly hierarchical employment setting such as law enforcement, whether or not the employee confined his communications to his chain of command is a relevant, if not necessarily dispositive, factor in determining whether he spoke pursuant to his official duties. When a public employee communicates with individuals or entities outside of his chain of command, it is unlikely that he is speaking pursuant to his duties.' [¶] 2. 'Second, the subject matter of the communication is also of course highly relevant to the ultimate determination whether the speech is protected by the First Amendment … When an employee prepares a routine report, pursuant to normal departmental procedure, about a particular incident or occurrence, the employee's preparation of that report is typically within his job duties. . . By contrast, if a public employee raises within the department broad concerns about corruption or systemic abuse, it is unlikely that such complaints can reasonably be classified as being within the job duties of an average public employee, except when the employee's regular job duties involve investigating such conduct.' [¶] 3. 'Third, we conclude that when a public employee speaks in direct contravention to his supervisor's orders, that speech may often fall outside of the speaker's professional duties. Indeed, the fact that an employee is threatened or harassed by his superiors for engaging in a particular type of speech provides strong evidence that the act of speech was not, as a 'practical' matter, within the employee's job duties notwithstanding any suggestions to the contrary in the employee's formal job description.' " (Brandon v. Maricopa County (9th Cir. 2017) 849 F.3d 837, 843–844, internal citations omitted.)

- "Initially, in this case, the burden was properly placed upon respondent to show that his conduct was constitutionally protected, and that this conduct was a 'substantial factor' - or, to put it in other words, that it was a 'motivating factor' in the [defendant]'s decision not to rehire him. Respondent having carried that burden, however, the District Court should have gone on to determine whether the [defendant] had shown by a preponderance of the evidence that it would have reached the same decision as to respondent's re-employment even in the absence of the protected conduct." (Mt. Healthy City Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ. v. Doyle (1977) 429 U.S. 274, 287 [97 S.Ct. 568, 50 L.Ed.2d 471].)

- "Although the Pickering balancing inquiry is ultimately a legal question, like the private citizen inquiry, its resolution often entails underlying factual disputes. Thus we must once again assume any underlying disputes will be resolved in favor of the plaintiff to determine, as a matter of law, whether the state has 'adequate justification' to restrict the employee's speech. If the allegations, viewed in light most favorable to the plaintiff, indicate adequate justification, qualified immunity should be granted." (Eng, supra, 552 F.3d at pp. 1071–1072, internal citations omitted.)

- "Although the Pickering framework is most often applied in the retaliation context, a similar analysis is used when assessing prospective restrictions on government employee speech. Where a 'wholesale deterrent to a broad category of expression' rather than 'a post hoc analysis of one employee's speech and its impact on that employee's public responsibilities' is at issue, the Court weighs the impact of the ban as a whole—both on the employees whose speech may be curtailed and on the public interested in what they might say—against the restricted speech's ' "necessary impact on the actual operation" of the Government,' '[U]nlike an adverse action taken in response to actual speech,' a prospective restriction 'chills potential speech before it happens.' The government therefore must shoulder a heavier burden when it seeks to justify an ex ante speech restriction as opposed to 'an isolated disciplinary action.' " (Moonin, supra, 868 F.3d at p. 861, internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

~~7~~ 8 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Constitutional Law, § 563

8 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Constitutional Law §§ 894, 895

1 Civil Rights Actions, Ch. 2, Governmental Liability and Immunity, ¶ 2.03 (Matthew Bender)

VF-3012. Unreasonable Search or Seizure—Search or Seizure Without a Warrant (42 U.S.C. § 1983)

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Did [name of defendant] [search/seize] [name of plaintiff]'s [person/home/automobile/office/property/[insert other]] without a warrant?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Was [name of defendant] acting or purporting to act in the performance of [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] official duties?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 2 is yes, then answer question 3. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

3. Was [name of defendant]'s [search/seizure] a substantial factor in causing harm to [name of plaintiff]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 3 is yes, then answer question 4. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

4. What are [name of plaintiff]'s damages?

   [a. Past economic loss
   [lost earnings $ _____]
   [lost profits $ _____]
   [medical expenses $ _____]
   [other past economic loss $ _____]
   Total Past Economic Damages: $ _____]

   [b. Future economic loss
   [lost earnings $ _____]
   [lost profits $ _____]
   [medical expenses $ _____]
   [other future economic loss $ _____]
   Total Future Economic Damages: $ _____]

[c. Past noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]

$ _____]

[d. Future noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]

$ _____]

TOTAL $ _____

Signed: _____
Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

After [this verdict form has/all verdict forms have] been signed, notify the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant] that you are ready to present your verdict in the courtroom.

New September 2003; Revised April 2007, December 2010; Renumbered from CACI No. VF-3003 December 2012; Revised December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 3023, Unreasonable Search or Seizure—Search or Seizure Without a Warrant—Essential Factual Elements.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 4 and do not have to categorize "economic" and "noneconomic" damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

VF-3501. Fair Market Value Plus Severance Damages

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. What was the fair market value of the property taken on [date of valuation]?

$_____

Answer question 2.

2. What was the fair market value of the remaining property on [date of valuation]?

$_____

Answer question 3.

3. What ~~will~~ would the fair market value of the remaining property have been on [date of valuation] if ~~be after~~ the [name of public entity]'s proposed project ~~is~~ were completed as planned?

$_____

Signed: _____
Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

After [this verdict form has/all verdict forms have] been signed, notify the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant] that you are ready to present your verdict in the courtroom.

New September 2003; Revised December 2010, December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 3501, "Fair Market Value" Explained, and CACI No. 3511, Permanent Severance Damages.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case. For example, if the public entity's project was completed before the date of valuation, modify question 3 accordingly.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

3704. Existence of "Employee" Status Disputed

[*Name of plaintiff] must prove that [name of agent] was [name of defendant]'s employee.

In deciding whether [*name of agent] was [name of defendant]'s employee, the most important factor is whether [name of defendant] had the right to control how [name of agent] performed the work, rather than just the right to specify the result. One indication of the right to control is that the hirer can discharge the worker [without cause]. It does not matter whether [name of defendant] exercised the right to control.

In deciding whether [*name of defendant] was [name of agent]'s employer, in addition to the right of control, you must consider the full nature of their relationship. You should take into account the following additional factors, which, if true, may show that [name of defendant] was the employer of [name of agent]. No one factor is necessarily decisive. Do not simply count the number of applicable factors and use the larger number to make your decision. It is for you to determine the weight and importance to give to each of these additional factors based on all of the evidence.

(a) [Name of defendant] supplied the equipment, tools, and place of work;

(b) [Name of agent] was paid by the hour rather than by the job;

(c) [Name of defendant] was in business;

(d) The work being done by [name of agent] was part of the regular business of [name of defendant];

(e) [Name of agent] was not engaged in a distinct occupation or business;

(f) The kind of work performed by [name of agent] is usually done under the direction of a supervisor rather than by a specialist working without supervision;

(g) The kind of work performed by [name of agent] does not require specialized or professional skill;

(h) The services performed by [name of agent] were to be performed over a long period of time; [and]

(i) [Name of defendant] and [name of agent] believed that they had an employer-employee relationship[./; and]

(j) [Specify other factor].

New September 2003; Revised December 2010, June 2015, December 2015, November 2018, May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction is based on S. G. Borello & Sons, Inc. v. Department of Industrial Relations (1989) 48 Cal.3d 341, 354–355 [256 Cal.Rptr. 543, 769 P.2d 399] and the Restatement Second of Agency, section 220. It is sometimes referred to as the Borello test or the common law test. (See Dynamex Operations West, Inc. v. Superior Court (2018) 4 Cal.5th 903, 934 [232 Cal.Rprt.3d 1, 416 P.3d 1].) It is intended to address the employer-employee relationship for purposes of assessing vicarious responsibility on the employer for the employee's acts. Most of the factors are less appropriate for analyzing other types of agency relationships, such as franchisor/franchisee. For an instruction more appropriate to these kinds of relationships, see CACI No. 3705, Existence of "Agency" Relationship Disputed.

Secondary factors (a)–(i) come from the Restatement section 220. (See also Ayala v. Antelope Valley Newspapers, Inc. (2014) 59 Cal.4th 522, 532 [173 Cal.Rptr.3d 332, 327 P.3d 165]; Rest.3d Agency, § 7.07, com. f,) They have been phrased so that a yes answer points toward an employment relationship. Omit any that are not relevant. Additional factors have been endorsed by the California Supreme Court and may be included if applicable. (See S. G. Borello & Sons, Inc., supra, 48 Cal.3d at pp. 354–355.) Therefore, an "other" option (j) has been included.

Borello was a workers' compensation case. In Dynamex, supra, the court, in holding that Borello did not control the specific wage order dispute at issue, noted that "it appears more precise to describe Borello as calling for resolution of the employee or independent contractor question by focusing on the intended scope and purposes of the particular statutory provision or provisions at issue." (Dynamex ~~Operations W.~~, supra, 4 Cal.5th at p. 934.) The court also said that "[t]he Borello decision repeatedly emphasizes statutory purpose as the touchstone for deciding whether a particular category of workers should be considered employees rather than independent contractors for purposes of social welfare legislation." (Id. at p. 935.) With respondeat superior, there is no statutory provision or social welfare legislation to be considered. (Cf. Lab. Code, § 2750.3 ~~Garcia v. Border Transportation Group, LLC (2018) 28 Cal.App.5th 558, 571 [239 Cal.Rptr.3d 360] [no reason to apply Dynamex categorically to every working relationship~~[codifying Dynamex for purposes of the provisions of the Labor Code, the Unemployment Insurance Code, and the wage orders of the Industrial Welfare Commission, with limited exceptions for specified occupations].)

Sources and Authority

- Principal-Agent Relationship. Civil Code section 2295.
- Rebuttable Presumption that Contractor Is Employee Rather Than Independent Contractor; Proof of Independent Contractor Status. Labor Code section 2750.5.
- "[S]ubject to certain policy considerations, a hirer … cannot be held vicariously liable for the negligence of his independent contractors." (Blackwell v. Vasilas (2016) 244 Cal.App.4th 160, 168 [197 Cal.Rptr.3d 753].)
- "Whether a common law employer-employee relationship exists turns foremost on the degree of a hirer's right to control how the end result is achieved." (Ayala, supra, 59 Cal.4th at p. 528.)

- "However, the courts have long recognized that the 'control' test, applied rigidly and in isolation, is often of little use in evaluating the infinite variety of service arrangements. While conceding that the right to control work details is the 'most important' or 'most significant' consideration, the authorities also endorse several 'secondary' indicia of the nature of a service relationship." (S. G. Borello & Sons, Inc., supra, 48 Cal.3d at p. 350, internal citations omitted.)

- "While the extent of the hirer's right to control the work is the foremost consideration in assessing whether a common law employer-employee relationship exists, our precedents also recognize a range of secondary indicia drawn from the Second and Third Restatements of Agency that may in a given case evince an employment relationship. Courts may consider '(a) whether the one performing services is engaged in a distinct occupation or business; (b) the kind of occupation, with reference to whether, in the locality, the work is usually done under the direction of the principal or by a specialist without supervision; (c) the skill required in the particular occupation; (d) whether the principal or the worker supplies the instrumentalities, tools, and the place of work for the person doing the work; (e) the length of time for which the services are to be performed; (f) the method of payment, whether by the time or by the job; (g) whether or not the work is a part of the regular business of the principal; and (h) whether or not the parties believe they are creating the relationship of employer-employee.' " (Ayala, supra, 59 Cal.4th at p. 532.)

- " 'Generally, . . . the individual factors cannot be applied mechanically as separate tests; they are intertwined and their weight depends often on particular combinations.' " (S. G. Borello & Sons, Inc., supra, 48 Cal.3d at p. 351, internal citations omitted.)

- "[T]he Restatement guidelines heretofore approved in our state remain a useful reference." (S. G. Borello & Sons, Inc., supra, 48 Cal.3d at p. 354.)

- "We also note the six-factor test developed by other jurisdictions which determine independent contractorship in light of the remedial purposes of the legislation. Besides the 'right to control the work,' the factors include (1) the alleged employee's opportunity for profit or loss depending on his managerial skill; (2) the alleged employee's investment in equipment or materials required for his task, or his employment of helpers; (3) whether the service rendered requires a special skill; (4) the degree of permanence of the working relationship; and (5) whether the service rendered is an integral part of the alleged employer's business. [¶] As can be seen, there are many points of individual similarity between these guidelines and our own traditional Restatement tests. We find that all are logically pertinent to the inherently difficult determination whether a provider of service is an employee or an excluded independent contractor for purposes of workers' compensation law." (S. G. Borello & Sons, Inc., supra, 48 Cal.3d at pp. 354–355, internal cross-reference omitted.)

- "[A]t common law the problem of determining whether a worker should be classified as an employee or an independent contractor initially arose in the tort context--in deciding whether the hirer of the worker should be held vicariously liable for an injury that resulted from the worker's actions. In the vicarious liability context, the hirer's right to supervise and control the details of the worker's actions was reasonably viewed as crucial, because ' "[t]he extent to which the employer had a right to control [the details of the service] activities was . . . highly relevant to the question whether the employer ought to be legally liable for them . . . ." ' For this reason, the question whether the hirer controlled the details of the worker's activities became the primary common law standard for determining whether a worker was considered to be an employee or an independent contractor." (Dynamex ~~Operations W.~~, supra, 4 Cal.5th at p. 927, internal citations omitted.)

- "[A]lthough we have sometimes characterized Borello as embodying the common law test or standard for distinguishing employees and independent contractors, it appears more precise to describe Borello as calling for resolution of the employee or independent contractor question by focusing on the intended scope and purposes of the particular statutory provision or provisions at issue. In other words, Borello calls for application of a statutory purpose standard that considers the control of details and other potentially relevant factors identified in prior California and out-of-state cases in order to determine which classification (employee or independent contractor) best effectuates the underlying legislative intent and objective of the statutory scheme at issue." (Dynamex ~~Operations W.~~, supra, 4 Cal.5th at p. 934, original italics, internal citation omitted.)

- ~~" 'Dynamex did not purport to replace the Borello standard in every instance where a worker must be classified as either an independent contractor or an employee for purposes of enforcing California's labor protections.' To the contrary, the Supreme Court recognized that different standards could apply to different statutory claims: … ." (Garcia, supra, 28 Cal.App.5th at p. 570, internal citation omitted.)~~

- ~~"In the absence of an argument that the statutory purposes underlying those claims compel application of a different standard, we conclude Borello furnishes the proper standard as to non-wage order claims." (Garcia, supra, 28 Cal.App.5th at p. 571.)~~

- "The trial court's determination of employee or independent contractor status is one of fact if it depends upon the resolution of disputed evidence or inferences. ' "Even in cases where the evidence is undisputed or uncontradicted, if two or more different inferences can reasonably be drawn from the evidence this court is without power to substitute its own inferences or deductions for those of the trier of fact … ." ' The question is one of law only if the evidence is undisputed." (Linton v. DeSoto Cab Co., Inc. (2017) 15 Cal.App.5th 1208, 1225 [223 Cal.Rptr.3d 761.)

- The burden of proving the existence of an agency rests on the one affirming its existence. (Burbank v. National Casualty Co. (1941) 43 Cal.App.2d 773, 781 [111 P.2d 740].)

- "The label placed by the parties on their relationship is not dispositive, and subterfuges are not countenanced." (S. G. Borello & Sons, Inc., supra, 48 Cal.3d at p. 349.)

- "[A]lthough the Caregiver Contract signed by Plaintiff stated she was an independent contractor, not an employee, there is evidence of other indicia of employment and Plaintiff averred in her declaration that the Caregiver Contract was presented to her 'on a take it or leave it basis.' 'A party's use of a label to describe a relationship with a worker … will be ignored where the evidence of the parties' actual conduct establishes that a different relationship exists.' " (Duffey v. Tender Heart Home Care Agency, LLC (2019) 31 Cal.App.5th 232, 257–258 [242 Cal.Rptr.3d 460].)

- "It is not essential that the right of control be exercised or that there be actual supervision of the work of the agent. The existence of the right of control and supervision establishes the existence of an agency relationship." (Malloy v. Fong (1951) 37 Cal.2d 356, 370 [232 P.2d 241], internal citations omitted.)

- " '[W]hat matters is whether a hirer has the "legal right to control the activities of the alleged agent" … . That a hirer chooses not to wield power does not prove it lacks power.' " (Duffey, supra, 31 Cal.App.5th at p. 257.)

- "Perhaps the strongest evidence of the right to control is whether the hirer can discharge the worker without cause, because '[t]he power of the principal to terminate the services of the agent gives him the means of controlling the agent's activities.' " (Ayala, supra, 59 Cal.4th at p. 531.)

- "The worker's corresponding right to leave is similarly relevant: ' "An employee may quit, but an independent contractor is legally obligated to complete his contract." ' " (Ayala, supra, 59 Cal.4th at p. 531 fn. 2.)

- "A finding of employment is supported where the workers are 'a regular and integrated portion of [the] business operation.' " (Garcia v. Seacon Logix Inc. (2015) 238 Cal.App.4th 1476, 1487 [190 Cal.Rptr.3d 400].)

- "Where workers are paid weekly or by the hour, rather than by the job, it suggests an employment relationship." (Garcia, supra, 238 Cal.App.4th at p. 1488.)

- "In cases where there is a written contract, to answer that question [the right of control] without full examination of the contract will be virtually impossible. … [¶] … [T]he rights spelled out in a contract may not be conclusive if other evidence demonstrates a practical allocation of rights at odds with the written terms." (Ayala, supra, 59 Cal.4th at p. 535.)

- "[T]he right to exercise complete or authoritative control must be shown, rather than mere suggestion as to detail. A worker is an independent contractor when he or she follows the employer's desires only in the result of the work, and not the means by which it is achieved." (Jackson v. AEG Live, LLC (2015) 233 Cal.App.4th 1156, 1179 [183 Cal.Rptr.3d 394].)

- " '[T]he owner may retain a broad general power of supervision and control as to the results of the work so as to insure satisfactory performance of the independent contract—including the right to inspect [citation], … the right to make suggestions or recommendations as to details of the work [citation], the right to prescribe alterations or deviations in the work [citation]—without changing the relationship from that of owner and independent contractor … .' " (Beaumont-Jacques v. Farmers Group, Inc. (2013) 217 Cal.App.4th 1138, 1143 [159 Cal.Rptr.3d 102], quoting McDonald v. Shell Oil Co. (1955) 44 Cal.2d 785, 790 [285 P.2d 902].)

- "Agency and independent contractorship are not necessarily mutually exclusive legal categories as independent contractor and servant or employee are. In other words, an agent may also be an independent contractor. One who contracts to act on behalf of another and subject to the other's control, except with respect to his physical conduct, is both an agent and an independent contractor." (Jackson, supra, 233 Cal.App.4th at p. 1184, original italics, internal citations omitted].)

- "[W]hen a statute refers to an 'employee' without defining the term, courts have generally applied the common law test of employment to that statute." (Arnold v. Mutual of Omaha Ins. Co. (2011) 202 Cal.App.4th 580, 586 [135 Cal.Rptr.3d 213].)

- "[A] termination at-will clause for both parties may properly be included in an independent contractor agreement, and is not by itself a basis for changing that relationship to one of an employee." (Arnold, supra, 202 Cal.App.4th at p. 589.)

- Restatement Second of Agency, section 220, provides: "
- (1) A servant is a person employed to perform services in the affairs of another and who with respect to the physical conduct in the performance of the services is subject to the other's control or right to control. [¶]
- (2) In determining whether one acting for another is a servant or an independent contractor, the following matters of fact, among others, are considered: [¶]
- (a) the extent of control which, by the agreement, the master may exercise over the details of the work; [¶]
-
- (b) whether or not the one employed is engaged in a distinct occupation or business; [¶]
-
- (c) the kind of occupation, with reference to whether, in the locality, the work is usually done under the direction of the employer or by a specialist without supervision; [¶]
-
- (d) the skill required in the particular occupation; [¶]
-
- (e) whether the employer or the workman supplies the instrumentalities, tools, and the place of work for the person doing the work; [¶]
-
- (f) the length of time for which the person is employed; [¶]
-
- (g) the method of payment, whether by the time or by the job; [¶]
-
- (h) whether or not the work is a part of the regular business of the employer; [¶]
-
- (i) whether or not the parties believe they are creating the relation of master and servant; and [¶]
-
- (j) whether the principal is or is not in business."

Secondary Sources

4 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Agency and Employment, §§ 2–45

1 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 8, Vicarious Liability, § 8.03[2] (Matthew Bender)

2 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 30, Employers' Tort Liability to Third Parties for Conduct of Employees, § 30.04 (Matthew Bender)

21 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 248, Employer's Liability for Employee's Torts, §§ 248.15, 248.22, 248.51 (Matthew Bender)

37 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 427, Principal and Agent, § 427.13 (Matthew Bender)

10 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 100A, Employer and Employee: Respondeat Superior, §§ 100A.25, 100A.34 (Matthew Bender)

1 California Civil Practice: Torts §§ 3:5–3:6 (Thomson Reuters)

3903C. Past and Future Lost Earnings (Economic Damage)

[Insert number, e.g., "3."] [Past] [and] [future] lost earnings.

[To recover damages for past lost earnings, [name of plaintiff] must prove the amount of [insert one or more of the following: income/earnings/salary/wages] that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] has lost to date.]

[To recover damages for future lost earnings, [name of plaintiff] must prove the amount of [insert one or more of the following: income/earnings/salary/wages] [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] will be reasonably certain to lose in the future as a result of the injury.]

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction is not intended for use in employment cases.

Use this instruction along with CACI No. 3906, Lost Earnings and Lost Earning Capacity—Jurors Not to Consider Race, Ethnicity, or Gender (Economic Damages).

Sources and Authority

- "We know of no rule of law that requires that a plaintiff establish the amount of his actual earnings at the time of the injury in order to obtain recovery for loss of wages although, obviously, the amount of such earnings would be helpful to the jury in particular situations." (Rodriguez v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1978) 87 Cal.App.3d 626, 656 [151 Cal.Rptr. 399].)

- " 'To entitle a plaintiff to recover present damages for apprehended future consequences, there must be evidence to show such a degree of probability of their occurring as amounts to a reasonable certainty that they will result from the original injury.' " (Bellman v. San Francisco High School Dist. (1938) 11 Cal.2d 576, 588 [81 P.2d 894], internal citation omitted.)

- " 'Under the prevailing American rule, a tort victim suing for damages for permanent injuries is permitted to base his recovery "on his prospective earnings for the balance of his life expectancy at the time of his injury undiminished by any shortening of that expectancy as a result of the injury." ' " (Fein v. Permanente Medical Group (1985) 38 Cal.3d 137, 153 [211 Cal.Rptr. 368, 695 P.2d 665], internal citations omitted.)

- "Requiring the plaintiff to prove future economic losses are reasonably certain 'ensures that the jury's fixing of damages is not wholly, and thus impermissibly, speculative.' " (Atkins v. City of Los Angeles (2017) 8 Cal.App.5th 696, 738 [214 Cal.Rptr.3d 113].)

- "[T]he majority view is that no deduction is made for the injured party's expected living expenses during the lost years." (Overly v. Ingalls Shipbuilding, Inc. (1999) 74 Cal.App.4th 164, 171 [87 Cal.Rptr.2d 626], internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Torts, §§ 1842, 1843

California Tort Damages (Cont.Ed.Bar) Bodily Injury, §§ 1.39–1.41

4 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 52, Medical Expenses and Economic Loss, §§ 52.10–52.11 (Matthew Bender)

15 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.46 (Matthew Bender)

6 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 64, Damages: Tort, § 64.190 (Matthew Bender)

1 California Civil Practice: Torts, § 5:15 (Thomson Reuters)

3903D. Lost Earning Capacity (Economic Damage)

[Insert number, e.g., "4."] The loss of [name of plaintiff]'s ability to earn money.

To recover damages for the loss of the ability to earn money as a result of the injury, [*name of plaintiff] must prove:

1. That it is reasonably certain that the injury that [name of plaintiff] sustained will cause [him/her/nonbinary pronoun] to earn less money in the future than [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] otherwise could have earned; and

2. The reasonable value of that loss to [him/her/nonbinary pronoun].

In determining the reasonable value of the loss, compare what it is reasonably probable that [*name of plaintiff] could have earned without the injury to what [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] can still earn with the injury. [Consider the career choices that [name of plaintiff] would have had a reasonable probability of achieving.] It is not necessary that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] have a work history.

New September 2003; Revised April 2004, April 2008, May 2017, May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction is not intended for use in employment cases.

Use this instruction along with CACI No. 3906, Lost Earnings and Lost Earning Capacity—Jurors Not to Consider Race, Ethnicity, or Gender (Economic Damages).

If lost profits are asserted as an element of damages, see CACI No. 3903N, Lost Profits (Economic Damage).

If there is a claim for both lost future earnings and lost earning capacity, give also CACI No. 3903C, Past and Future Lost Earnings (Economic Damage). The verdict form should ensure that the same loss is not computed under both standards.

In the last paragraph, include the bracketed sentence if the plaintiff is of sufficient age that reasonable probabilities can be projected about career opportunities.

Sources and Authority

- "Before [lost earning capacity] damages may be awarded, a jury must (1) find the injury that the plaintiff sustained will result in a loss of earning capacity, and (2) assign a value to that loss by comparing what the plaintiff could have earned without the injury to what she can still earn with the injury." (Licudine v. Cedars-Sinai Medical Center (2016) 3 Cal.App.5th 881, 887 [208 Cal.Rptr.3d 170].)

- "Loss of earning power is an element of general damages which can be inferred from the nature of the injury, without proof of actual earnings or income either before or after the injury, and damages in this respect are awarded for the loss of ability thereafter to earn money." (Connolly v. Pre-Mixed Concrete Co. (1957) 49 Cal.2d 483, 489 [319 P.2d 343].)

- "Because these damages turn on the plaintiff's earning capacity, the focus is 'not [on] what the plaintiff would have earned in the future[,] but [on] what she could have earned.' Consequently, proof of the plaintiff's prior earnings, while relevant to demonstrate earning capacity, is not a prerequisite to the award of these damages, nor a cap on the amount of those damages. Indeed, proof that the plaintiff had any prior earnings is not required because the 'vicissitudes of life might call upon [the plaintiff] to make avail of her capacity to work,' even if she had not done so previously." (Licudine, supra, 3 Cal.App.5th at pp. 893−894, internal citations omitted.)

- "Such damages are '. . . awarded for the purpose of compensating the plaintiff for injury suffered, i.e., restoring . . . [her] as nearly as possible to . . . [her] former position, or giving . . . [her] some pecuniary equivalent.' Impairment of the capacity or power to work is an injury separate from the actual loss of earnings." (Hilliard v. A. H. Robins Co. (1983) 148 Cal.App.3d 374, 412 [196 Cal.Rptr. 117], original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- "[T]he jury must fix a plaintiff's future earning capacity based on what it is 'reasonably probable' she could have earned." (Licudine, supra, 3 Cal.App.5th at p. 887.)

- "A plaintiff's earning capacity without her injury is a function of two variables—the career(s) the plaintiff could have pursued and the salaries attendant to such career(s)." (Licudine, supra, 3 Cal.App.5th at p. 894.)

- "How is the jury to assess what career(s) are available to the plaintiff? Is the sky the limit? In other words, can a plaintiff urge the jury to peg her earning capacity to the salary of a world-class athlete, neuroscientist, or best-selling author just by testifying that is what she wanted to do? Or must the jury instead determine a plaintiff's earning capacity by reference to the career choices the plaintiff stood a realistic chance of accomplishing? We conclude some modicum of scrutiny by the trier of fact is warranted, and hold that the jury must look to the earning capacity of the career choices that the plaintiff had a reasonable probability of achieving." (Licudine, supra, 3 Cal.App.5th at p. 894.)

- "Once the jury has determined which career options are reasonably probable for the plaintiff to achieve, how is the jury to value the earning capacity of those careers? Precedent suggests three methods: (1) by the testimony of an expert witness; (2) by the testimony of lay witnesses, including the plaintiff; or (3) by proof of the plaintiff's prior earnings in that same career. As these options suggest, expert testimony is not always required." (Licudine, supra, 3 Cal.App.5th at p. 897.)

- "[E]xpert testimony is not vital to a claim for loss of earning capacity." (Lewis v. Ukran (2019) 36 Cal.App.5th 886, 893 [248 Cal.Rptr.3d 839].)

- "A trier of fact may draw the inference that the plaintiff has suffered a loss of earning capacity from the nature of the injury, but it is not required to draw that inference." (Martinez v. State Dept. of Health Care Services (2017) 19 Cal.App.5th 370, 374 [227 Cal.Rptr.3d 483].)

- " 'Under the prevailing American rule, a tort victim suing for damages for permanent injuries is permitted to base his recovery "on his prospective earnings for the balance of his life expectancy at the time of his injury undiminished by any shortening of that expectancy as a result of the injury." ' " (Fein v. Permanente Medical Group (1985) 38 Cal.3d 137, 153 [211 Cal.Rptr. 368, 695 P.2d 665], internal citations omitted.)

- "[T]he majority view is that no deduction is made for the injured party's expected living expenses during the lost years." (Overly v. Ingalls Shipbuilding, Inc. (1999) 74 Cal.App.4th 164, 175 [87 Cal.Rptr.2d 626], internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Torts, §§ 1666, 1667

California Tort Damages (Cont.Ed.Bar) Bodily Injury, § 1.42

4 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 52, Medical Expenses and Economic Loss, §§ 52.10, 52.11 (Matthew Bender)

15 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.46 (Matthew Bender)

6 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 64, Damages: Tort, §§ 64.140, 64.175 (Matthew Bender)

1 California Civil Practice: Torts, § 5:15 (Thomson Reuters)

3904A. Present Cash Value

[Name of defendant] claims that [name of plaintiff]'s future [economic] damages for [loss of earnings/future medical expenses/lost profits/[insert other economic damages]], if any, should be reduced to present cash value. This is because money received now will, through investment, grow to a larger amount in the future.

[[Name of defendant] must prove, through expert testimony, the present cash value of [name of plaintiff]'s future [economic] damages. It is up to you to decide the present cash value of [name of plaintiff's] future [economic] damages in light of all the evidence presented by the parties.]
~~If you decide that [name of plaintiff]'s harm includes future [economic] damages for [loss of earnings/future medical expenses/lost profits/[insert other economic damages]], then the amount of those future damages must be reduced to their present cash value. This is necessary because money received now will, through investment, grow to a larger amount in the future. [Name of defendant] must prove the amount by which future damages should be reduced to present value.~~

~~To find present cash value, you must determine the amount of money that, if reasonably invested today, will provide [name of plaintiff] with the amount of [his/her/its] future damages.~~

~~[You may consider expert testimony in determining the present cash value of future [economic] damages.] [~~[If you decide that [name of plaintiff]'s harm includes future [economic] damages for [loss of earnings/future medical expenses/lost profits/[insert other economic damages]], then you must reduce the amount of those future damages to their present cash value. You must [use the interest rate of __ percent/ [and] [specify other stipulated information]] as agreed to by the parties in determining the present cash value of future [economic] damages.]

New September 2003; Revised April 2008; Revised and renumbered from former CACI No. 3904 December 2010; Revised June 2013, May 2020

Directions for Use

Give this instruction if future economic damages are sought and there is evidence from which a reduction to present value can be made. Include "economic" if future noneconomic damages are also sought. Future noneconomic damages are not reduced to present cash value because the amount that the jury is to award should already encompass the idea of today's dollars for tomorrow's loss. (See Salgado v. County of L.A. (1998) 19 Cal.4th 629, 646–647 [80 Cal.Rptr.2d 46, 967 P.2d 585]; CACI No. 3905A, Physical Pain, Mental Suffering, and Emotional Distress (Noneconomic Damage).)

The defendant bears the burden of presenting expert evidence of an appropriate present value calculation, including the appropriate discount rate, to enable the fact finder to make a rational determination on the issue. (Lewis v. Ukran (2019) 36 Cal.App.5th 886, 896 [248 Cal.Rptr.3d 839].) ~~Give the next-to-last sentence if there has been expert testimony on reduction to present value.~~ Unless there is a stipulation, expert testimony ~~will usually be~~ is required to accurately establish present values for future economic losses. (Id.) ~~Give the last sentence if there has been a stipulation as to the interest rate to use or any other~~

~~facts related to present cash value.~~

~~It would appear that because reduction to present value benefits the defendant, the defendant bears the burden of proof on the discount rate. (See Wilson v. Gilbert (1972) 25 Cal.App.3d 607, 613–614 [102 Cal.Rptr. 31] [no error to refuse instruction on reduction to present value when defendant presented no evidence].)~~ Give the last bracketed paragraph if there has been a stipulation as to the interest rate to use or any other facts related to present cash value, and omit the second paragraph to account for the parties' stipulation.

The parties may stipulate to use p~~P~~resent-value tables ~~may~~ to assist the jury in making its determination of present cash value. Tables, worksheets, and an instruction on how to use them are provided in CACI No. 3904B, Use of Present-Value Tables.

Sources and Authority

- "The present value of a gross award of future damages is that sum of money prudently invested at the time of judgment which will return, over the period the future damages are incurred, the gross amount of the award. 'The concept of present value recognizes that money received after a given period is worth less than the same amount received today. This is the case in part because money received today can be used to generate additional value in the interim.' The present value of an award of future damages will vary depending on the gross amount of the award, and the timing and amount of the individual payments." (Holt v. Regents of the University of California (1999) 73 Cal.App.4th 871, 878 [86 Cal.Rptr.2d 752], internal citations omitted.)

- "[I]n a contested case, a party (typically a defendant) seeking to reduce an award of future damages to present value bears the burden of proving an appropriate method of doing so, including an appropriate discount rate. A party (typically a plaintiff) who seeks an upward adjustment of a future damages award to account for inflation bears the burden of proving an appropriate method of doing so, including an appropriate inflation rate. This aligns the burdens of proof with the parties' respective economic interests. A trier of fact should not reduce damages to present value, or adjust for inflation, absent such evidence or a stipulation of the parties." (Lewis, supra, 36 Cal.App.5th at p. 889.)

- "[W]e hold a defendant seeking reduction to present value of a sum awarded for future damages has the burden of presenting expert evidence of an appropriate present value calculation, including the appropriate discount rate, to enable the fact finder to make a rational determination on the issue." (Lewis, supra, 36 Cal.App.5th at p. 896.)

- "Exact actuarial computation should result in a lump-sum, present-value award which if prudently invested will provide the beneficiaries with an investment return allowing them to regularly withdraw matching support money so that, by reinvesting the surplus earnings during the earlier years of the expected support period, they may maintain the anticipated future support level throughout the period and, upon the last withdrawal, have depleted both principal and interest." (Canavin v. Pacific Southwest Airlines (1983) 148 Cal.App.3d 512, 521 [196 Cal.Rptr. 82].)

- "[I]t is not a violation of the plaintiff's jury trial right for the court to submit only the issue of the gross amount of future economic damages to the jury, with the timing of periodic payments—and hence their present value—to be set by the court in the exercise of its sound discretion." (Salgado, supra, 19 Cal.4th at p. 649, internal citation omitted.)

- "Neither party introduced any evidence of compounding or discounting factors, including how to calculate an appropriate rate of return throughout the relevant years. Under such circumstances, the 'jury would have been put to sheer speculation in determining ... "the present sum of money which ... will pay to the plaintiff ... the equivalent of his [future economic] loss ... . " ' " (Schiernbeck v. Haight (1992) 7 Cal.App.4th 869, 877 [9 Cal.Rptr.2d 716], internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10~~11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, § ~~1552~~1719

California Tort Damages (Cont.Ed.Bar) Bodily Injury, § 1.96

4 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 52, Medical Expenses and Economic Loss, §§ 52.21–52.22 (Matthew Bender)

15 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 177, Damages, § 177.46 (Matthew Bender)

1 California Civil Practice: Torts § 5:22 (Thomson Reuters)

3906. Lost Earnings and Lost Earning Capacity—Jurors Not to Consider Race, Ethnicity, or Gender (Economic Damage)

In determining a reasonable amount of [name of plaintiff]'s [[lost earnings] [and/or] [lost ability to earn money]], you must not consider race, ethnicity, or gender.

New May 2020

Directions for Use

Give this instruction in cases where the plaintiff seeks damages for lost earnings and/or lost earning capacity from personal injury or wrongful death. Depending on the circumstances, select the type(s) of damages at issue: lost earnings, lost ability to earn money, or both. If this instruction is used, it should follow the applicable instruction(s) in the items of economic damage series (see CACI No. 3903C, Past and Future Lost Earnings (Economic Damage); CACI No. 3903D, Lost Earning Capacity (Economic Damage)).

Sources and Authority

- Estimations, Measures, or Calculations of Past, Present, or Future Damages. Civil Code section 3361.

Secondary Sources

4106. Breach of Fiduciary Duty by Attorney—Essential Factual Elements

---

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] was harmed because [name of defendant] breached an attorney's duty [describe duty, e.g., "not to represent clients with conflicting interests"]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] breached the duty of an attorney [describe duty];

2. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

3. That [name of defendant]'s conduct was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

New September 2003; Revised April 2004; Renumbered from CACI No. 605 December 2007; Revised May 2019, May 2020

Directions for Use

The existence of a fiduciary relationship is a question of law. Whether an attorney has breached that fiduciary duty is a question of fact. (David Welch Co. v. Erskine & Tulley (1988) 203 Cal.App.3d 884, 890 [250 Cal.Rptr. 339], disapproved on other grounds in Lee v. Hanley (2015) 61 Cal.4th 1225, 1239 [191 Cal.Rptr.3d 536, 354 P.3d 334].)

Give CACI No. 430, Causation: Substantial Factor, with this instruction.

~~If the attorney's breach of duty is negligent rather than intentional or fraudulent, the "but for" ("would have happened anyway") causation standard applicable to legal malpractice (see Viner v. Sweet (2003) 30 Cal.4th 1232 [135 Cal.Rptr.2d 629, 70 P.3d 1046]) applies. (Knutson v. Foster (2018) 25 Cal.App.5th 1075, 1093–1094 [236 Cal.Rptr.3d 473].) If so, the optional last sentence of CACI No. 430, Causation: Substantial Factor, should be given: "Conduct is not a substantial factor in causing harm if the same harm would have occurred without that conduct."~~

The causation standard for an attorney's intentional breach of fiduciary duty differs from that for a negligent breach. If the plaintiff alleges an attorney's intentional breach of duty, do not include the optional last sentence of CACI No. 430, Causation: Substantial Factor on "but for" causation. The "but for" causation standard does not apply to an intentional breach of fiduciary duty. If the plaintiff alleges an attorney's negligent breach of duty, the "but for" ("would have happened anyway") causation standard applies. (Knutson v. Foster (2018) 25 Cal.App.5th 1075, 1093–1094 [236 Cal.Rptr.3d 473]; see Viner v. Sweet (2003) 30 Cal.4th 1232 [135 Cal.Rptr.2d 629, 70 P.3d 1046].) If the plaintiff alleges a negligent breach of duty, give the optional last sentence of CACI No. 430: "Conduct is not a substantial factor in causing harm if the same harm would have occurred without that conduct."

If the plaintiff alleges both negligent breach and intentional or fraudulent breach, the jury must be instructed on both causation standards and it should be made clear which causation standard applies to which claim.

If the harm allegedly caused by the defendant's conduct involves the outcome of a legal claim, the jury should be instructed with CACI No. 601, Damages for Negligent Handling of Legal Matter, for the "but for" standard. (See Gutierrez v. Girardi (2011) 194 Cal.App.4th 925, 928, 933–937 [125 Cal.Rptr.3d 210] [discussing circumstances when a client need not show that they objectively would have obtained a better result in the underlying case in the absence of the attorney's breach (the trial-within-a-trial method)].)

Sources and Authority

- " 'The relation between attorney and client is a fiduciary relation of the very highest character.' " (Neel v. Magana, Olney, Levy, Cathcart & Gelfand (1971) 6 Cal.3d 176, 189 [98 Cal.Rptr. 837, 491 P.2d 421].)

- " 'The breach of fiduciary duty can be based upon either negligence or fraud depending on the circumstances. It has been referred to as a species of tort distinct from causes of action for professional negligence [citation] and from fraud [citation].' 'The elements of a cause of action for breach of fiduciary duty are the existence of a fiduciary relationship, breach of fiduciary duty, and damages.' " (Knutson, supra, 25 Cal.App.5th at pp. 1093–1094, internal citation omitted.)

- "Substantial factor causation is the correct causation standard for an intentional breach of fiduciary duty." (Knutson, supra, 25 Cal.App.5th at p. 1094.)

- "The trial court applied the legal malpractice standard of causation to [plaintiff]'s intentional breach of fiduciary duty cause of action. The court cited The Rutter Group's treatise on professional responsibility to equate causation for legal malpractice with causation for all breaches of fiduciary duty: ' "The rules concerning causation, damages, and defenses that apply to lawyer negligence actions … also govern actions for breach of fiduciary duty." ' This statement of the law is correct, however, only as to claims of breach of fiduciary duty arising from negligent conduct." (Knutson, supra, 25 Cal.App.5th at p. 1094, internal citations omitted.)

- "Expert testimony is not required, but is admissible to establish the duty and breach elements of a cause of action for breach of fiduciary duty where the attorney conduct is a matter beyond common knowledge." (Stanley, supra, 35 Cal.App.4th at p. 1087, internal citations omitted.)

- "The scope of an attorney's fiduciary duty may be determined as a matter of law based on the Rules of Professional Conduct which, 'together with statutes and general principles relating to other fiduciary relationships, all help define the duty component of the fiduciary duty which an attorney owes to his [or her] client.' " (Stanley, supra, 35 Cal.App.4th at p. 1087.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Procedure (45th ed. ~~1996~~2008) Attorneys, § ~~118~~ 90

Vapnek et al., California Practice Guide: Professional Responsibility ~~(The Rutter Group)~~ ¶ 6:425 (The Rutter Group)

3 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 32, Liability of Attorneys, § 32.02 (Matthew Bender)

7 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 76, Attorney Professional Liability, § 76.150 (Matthew Bender)

2A California Points and Authorities, Ch. 24A, Attorneys at Law: Malpractice, §§ 24A.27[3][d], 24A.29[3][j] (Matthew Bender)

4300. Introductory Instruction

This is an action for what is called unlawful detainer. [*Name of plaintiff], the [landlord/tenant], claims that [name of defendant] is [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] [tenant/subtenant] under a [lease/rental agreement/sublease] and that [name of defendant] no longer has the right to occupy the property [by subleasing to [name of subtenant]]. [Name of plaintiff] seeks to recover possession of the property from [name of defendant]. [Name of defendant] claims that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] still has the right to occupy the property because [insert defenses at issue].

The property involved in this case is [*describe property: e.g., "an apartment," "a house," "space in a commercial building"] located in [city or area] at [address].

New August 2007

Directions for Use

If the plaintiff is the landlord or owner and the defendant is the tenant, select "landlord" and "tenant," in the first sentence. If the plaintiff is a tenant seeking to recover possession from a subtenant, select "tenant" and "subtenant." (Code Civ. Proc., § 1161(3).)

If the plaintiff is the landlord or owner, select either "lease" or "rental agreement" in the first sentence. Commercial documents are usually called "leases" while residential documents are often called "rental agreements." Select the term that is used on the written document. If the plaintiff is a tenant seeking to recover possession from a subtenant, select "sublease."

If the defendant is a tenant who has subleased the premises to someone else, add the bracketed language in the first paragraph referring to subleasing.

Sources and Authority

- Right to Jury Trial. Code of Civil Procedure section 1171.
- Right of Tenant to Bring Unlawful Detainer Against Subtenant. Code of Civil Procedure section 1161(3).
- Tenant Protection Act of 2019. Civil Code section 1946.2.
- Definition of "Just Cause." Civil Code section 1946.2(b).
- "The remedy of unlawful detainer is designed to provide means by which the timely possession of premises which are wrongfully withheld may be secured to the person entitled thereto." (Knowles v. Robinson (1963) 60 Cal.2d 620, 625 [36 Cal.Rptr. 33, 387 P.2d 833].)

- "Chapter 4 of title 3 of part 3 of the Code of Civil Procedure is commonly known as the Unlawful Detainer Act (hereafter, the Act). The Act is broad in scope and available to both lessors and lessees who have suffered certain wrongs committed by the other. Procedures and proceedings in unlawful detainer were not known at common law and are entirely creatures of statute. As such, they are governed solely by the statutes which created them. Thus, where the Act 'deals with matters of practice, its provisions supersede the rules of practice contained in other portions of the code.' " (Losornio v. Motta (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 110, 113 [78 Cal.Rptr.2d 799], internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

12 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10~~11th ed. ~~2006~~2017) Real Property, § ~~703~~734

2 California Landlord-Tenant Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) §§ 9.5, 9.34–9.36

1 California Eviction Defense Manual (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) §§ 1.4–1.5

7 California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 210, Unlawful Detainer, § 210.01 (Matthew Bender)

Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Landlord-Tenant Litigation, Ch. 5, Unlawful Detainer, 5.02

29 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions, § 333.12 (Matthew Bender)

Miller & Starr California Real Estate 4th, §§ 34:195, 34:200, 34:205 ~~, California Real Estate, Ch. 19, Landlord-Tenant, § 19:214~~ (Thomson Reuters)

4301. Expiration of Fixed-Term Tenancy—Essential Factual Elements

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] [and [name of subtenant], a subtenant of [name of defendant],] no longer [has/have] the right to occupy the property because the [lease/rental agreement/sublease] has ended. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] [owns/leases] the property;

2. That [name of plaintiff] [leased/subleased] the property to [name of defendant] until [insert end date];

3. That [name of plaintiff] did not give [name of defendant] permission to continue occupying the property after the [lease/rental agreement/sublease] ended; and

4. That [name of defendant] [or subtenant [name of subtenant]] is still occupying the property.

New August 2007; Revised June 2011, May 2020

Directions for Use

If the plaintiff is the landlord or owner, select "lease" or "rental agreement" in the first sentence and in element 3 as appropriate, "owns" in element 1, and "leased" in element 2. Commercial documents are usually called "leases" while residential documents are often called "rental agreements." Select the term that is used on the written document.

If the plaintiff is a tenant seeking to recover possession from a subtenant, select "sublease" in the first paragraph and in element 3, "leases" in element 1, and "subleased" in element 2. (Code Civ. Proc., § 1161(3).)

If persons other than the tenant-defendant are occupying the premises, include the bracketed language in the first paragraph and in element 4.

The Tenant Protection Act of 2019 imposes additional requirements for the termination of a rental agreement for certain residential tenancies. (Civ. Code, § 1946.2(a) ["just cause" requirement for termination of certain residential tenancies], (b) ["just cause" defined].) This instruction should be modified accordingly if applicable.

Sources and Authority

- Holding Over After Expiration of Lease Term. Code of Civil Procedure section 1161.
- Conversion to Ordinary Civil Action If Possession Not at Issue. Civil Code section 1952.3(a).

- Tenant Protection Act of 2019. Civil Code section 1946.2.

- " 'In order that such an action may be maintained the conventional relation of landlord and tenant must be shown to exist. In other words, the action is limited to those cases in which the tenant is estopped to deny the landlord's title.' " (Fredericksen v. McCosker (1956) 143 Cal.App.2d 114, 116 [299 P.2d 908], internal citations omitted.)

- "The most important difference between a periodic tenancy and a tenancy for a fixed term—such as six months—is that the latter terminates at the end of such term, without any requirement of notice as in the former. In order to create an estate for a definite period, the duration must be capable of exact computation when it becomes possessory, otherwise no such estate is created." (Camp v. Matich (1948) 87 Cal.App.2d 660, 665–666 [197 P.2d 345], internal citations omitted.)

- "It is well established that it is the duty of the tenant as soon as his tenancy expires by its own limitations, to surrender the possession of the premises and that no notice of termination is necessary, the lease itself terminating the tenancy; and if he continues in possession beyond that period without the permission of the landlord, he is guilty of unlawful detainer, and an action may be commenced against him at once, under the provisions of subdivision 1 of section 1161 of the Code of Civil Procedure, without the service upon him of any notice." (Ryland v. Appelbaum (1924) 70 Cal.App. 268, 270 [233 P. 356], internal citations omitted.)

- "If the tenant gives up possession of the property after the commencement of an unlawful detainer proceeding, the action becomes an ordinary one for damages." (Fish Construction Co. v. Moselle Coach Works, Inc. (1983) 148 Cal.App.3d 654, 658 [196 Cal.Rptr. 174].)

Secondary Sources

12 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2006~~2017) Real Property, §§ ~~664~~691, ~~678~~705, ~~721~~754

1 California Landlord-Tenant Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) § 8.82

1 California Eviction Defense Manual (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) §§ 5.4, 7.8

29 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions, § 333.10 (Matthew Bender)

23 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 236, Unlawful Detainer, § 236.42 (Matthew Bender)

7 California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 210, Unlawful Detainer, §§ 210.21, 210.27 (Matthew Bender)

Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Landlord-Tenant Litigation, Ch. 5, Unlawful Detainer, 5.07

Miller & Starr, California Real Estate 4th ~~(3d ed. 2008) Ch. 19, Landlord-Tenant~~, § 19:43 (Thomson Reuters)

4303. Sufficiency and Service of Notice of Termination for Failure to Pay Rent

[*Name of plaintiff] contends that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] properly gave [name of defendant] three days' notice to pay the rent or vacate the property. To prove that the notice contained the required information and was properly given, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That the notice informed [name of defendant] in writing that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] must pay the amount due within three days or vacate the property;

2. That the notice stated [no more than/a reasonable estimate of] the amount due, and the name, telephone number, and address of the person to whom the amount should be paid, and [*Use if payment was to be made personally:

   the usual days and hours that the person would be available to receive the payment; and]

   [or: Use if payment was to be made into a bank account:

   the number of an account in a bank located within five miles of the rental property into which the payment could be made, and the name and street address of the bank; and]

   [or: Use if an electronic funds transfer procedure had been previously established:

   that payment could be made by electronic funds transfer; and]

3. That the notice was given to [name of defendant] at least three days before [insert date on which action was filed].

[The three-day notice period excludes Saturdays, Sundays, and judicial holidays, but otherwise begins the day after the notice to pay the rent or vacate the property was given to [*name of defendant].]

Notice was properly given if [*select one or more of the following manners of service:]

[the notice was delivered to [*name of defendant] personally[./; or]]

[[*name of defendant] was not at [home or work/the commercial rental property], and the notice was left with a responsible person at [[name of defendant]'s residence or place of work/the commercial property], and a copy was also mailed in an envelope addressed to [name of defendant] at [[his/her/nonbinary pronoun] residence/the commercial property]. In this case, notice is considered given on the date the second notice was [received by [name of defendant]/placed in the mail][./; or]]

[for a residential tenancy:

[*name of defendant]'s place of residence and work could not be discovered, or a responsible person could not be found at either place, and (1) the notice was posted on the property in a place where it would easily be noticed, (2) a copy was given to a person living there if someone could be found, and (3) a copy was also mailed to the address of the rented property in an envelope addressed to [name of defendant]. In this case, notice is considered given on the date the second notice was [received by [name of defendant]/placed in the mail].]

[or for a commercial tenancy:

at the time of attempted service, a responsible person could not be found at the commercial rental property through the exercise of reasonable diligence, and (1) the notice was posted on the property in a place where it would easily be noticed, and (2) a copy was also mailed to the address of the commercial property in an envelope addressed to [*name of defendant]. In this case, notice is considered given on the date the second notice was [received by [name of defendant]/placed in the mail].]

[A notice stating a reasonable estimate of the amount of rent due that is within 20 percent of the amount actually due is reasonable unless [*name of defendant] proves that it was not reasonable. In determining the reasonableness of the estimate, you may consider whether calculating the amount of rent required information primarily within the knowledge of [name of defendant] and whether [name of defendant] accurately furnished that information to [name of plaintiff].]

New August 2007; Revised December 2010; June 2011, December 2011, November 2019, May 2020

Directions for Use

Use the reasonable-estimate option in the first sentence of element 2 and include the final paragraph only in cases involving commercial leases. (Code Civ. Proc., § 1161.1(a); see also Code Civ. Proc., § 1161.1(e) [presumption that if amount found to be due is within 20 percent of amount stated in notice, then estimate was reasonable].)

In element 2, select the applicable manner in which the notice specifies that payment is to be made; directly to the landlord, into a bank account, or by electronic funds transfer. (Code Civ. Proc., § 1161(2).)

Select the manner of service used: personal service, substituted service by leaving the notice at the defendant's home or place of work or at the commercial rental property, or substituted service by posting on the property. (See Code Civ. Proc., § 1162.)

There is a conflict in the case law with respect to when the three-day period begins if substituted service is used. Compare Davidson v. Quinn (1982) 138 Cal.App.3d Supp. 9, 14 [188 Cal.Rptr. 421] [tenant must be given three days to pay, so period does not begin until actual notice is received] with Walters v. Meyers (1990) 226 Cal.App.3d Supp. 15, 19–20 [277 Cal.Rptr. 316] [notice is effective when posted and mailed]. This conflict is accounted for in the second, third, and fourth bracketed options for the manner of service.

Read the paragraph that follows the elements if any of the three days of the notice period fell on a Saturday, Sunday, or judicial holiday. (See Code Civ. Proc., § 1161(2).) Judicial holidays are shown on the judicial branch website, www.courts.ca.gov/holidays.htm.

If a lease specifies a time period for giving notice other than the three-day period, substitute that time period for three days throughout, provided that it is not less than three days.

Defective service may be waived if defendant admits receipt of notice. (See Valov v. Tank (1985) 168 Cal.App.3d 867, 876 [214 Cal.Rptr. 546].) However, if the fact of service is contested, compliance with the statutory requirements must be shown. (Palm Property Investments, LLC v. Yadegar (2011) 194 Cal.App.4th 1419, 1425 [123 Cal.Rptr.3d 816].) Therefore, this instruction does not provide an option for the jury to determine whether or not defective service was waived if there was actual receipt.

If a commercial lease requires service by a particular method, actual receipt by the tenant will not cure the landlord's failure to comply with the service requirements of the lease. (Culver Center Partners East #1, L.P. v. Baja Fresh Westlake Village, Inc. (2010) 185 Cal.App.4th 744, 752 [110 Cal.Rptr.3d 833].) Whether the same rule applies to a residential lease that specifies a method of service has not yet been decided.

The Tenant Protection Act of 2019 and/or ~~L~~local ordinances may impose additional notice requirements for the termination of a rental agreement. (See Civ. Code, § 1946.2(a) ["just cause" requirement for termination of certain residential tenancies], (b) ["just cause" defined].) This instruction should be modified accordingly if applicable.

Sources and Authority

- Conclusive Presumption of Receipt of Rent Sent to Address Provided in Notice. Code of Civil Procedure section 1161(2).
- Commercial Tenancy: Estimate of Rent Due in Notice. Code of Civil Procedure 1161.1.
- Manner of Service of Notice. Code of Civil Procedure section 1162.
- Tenant Protection Act of 2019. Civil Code section 1946.2.
- " '[P]roper service on the lessee of a valid three-day notice to pay rent or quit is an essential prerequisite to a judgment declaring a lessor's right to possession under section 1161, subdivision 2. [Citations.]' [Citation.] 'A lessor must allege and prove proper service of the requisite notice. [Citations.] Absent evidence the requisite notice was properly served pursuant to section 1162, no judgment for possession can be obtained. [Citations.]' " (Borsuk v. Appellate Division of Superior Court (2015) 242 Cal.App.4th 607, 611 [195 Cal.Rptr.3d 581].)

- "A three-day notice must contain 'the amount which is due.' A notice which demands rent in excess of the amount due does not satisfy this requirement. This rule ensures that a landlord will not be entitled to regain possession in an unlawful detainer action unless the tenant has had the opportunity to pay the delinquent rent." (Bevill v. Zoura (1994) 27 Cal.App.4th 694, 697 [32 Cal.Rptr.2d 635], internal citations and footnote omitted.)

- "As compared to service of summons, by which the court acquires personal jurisdiction, service of the three-day notice is merely an element of an unlawful detainer cause of action that must be alleged and proven for the landlord to acquire possession." (Borsuk, supra, 242 Cal.App.4th at pp. 612–613.)

- "[W]e do not agree that a proper notice may not include anything other than technical rent. It is true that subdivision 2 of Code of Civil Procedure section 1161 relates to a default in the payment of rent. However, the subdivision refers to the 'lease or agreement under which the property is held' and requires the notice state 'the amount which is due.' The language is not 'the amount of rent which is due' or 'the rent which is due.' We think the statutory language is sufficiently broad to encompass any sums due under the lease or agreement under which the property is held." (Canal-Randolph Anaheim, Inc. v. Wilkoski (1978) 78 Cal.App.3d 477, 492 [144 Cal.Rptr. 474].)

- "[T]he service and notice provisions in the unlawful detainer statutes and [Code of Civil Procedure] section 1013 are mutually exclusive, and thus, section 1013 does not extend the notice periods that are a prerequisite to filing an unlawful detainer action." (Losornio v. Motta (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 110, 112 [78 Cal.Rptr.2d 799].)

- "Section 1162 does not authorize service of a three-day notice to pay rent or quit by mail delivery alone, certified or otherwise. It provides for service by: personal delivery; leaving a copy with a person of suitable age and discretion at the renter's residence or usual place of business and sending a copy through the mail to the tenant's residence; or posting and delivery of a copy to a person there residing, if one can be found, and sending a copy through the mail. Strict compliance with the statute is required." (Liebovich v. Shahrokhkhany (1997) 56 Cal.App.4th 511, 516 [65 Cal.Rptr.2d 457], original italics, internal citation omitted.)

- "We … hold that service made in accordance with section 1162, subdivision 3, as applied to section 1161, subdivision 2, must be effected in such a manner as will give a tenant the three days of written notice required by the Legislature in which he may cure his default in the payment of rent." (Davidson, supra, 138 Cal.App.3d Supp. at p. 14.)

- "We … hold that service of the three-day notice by posting and mailing is effective on the date the notice is posted and mailed." (Walters, supra, 226 Cal.App.3d Supp. at p. 20.)

- "An unlawful detainer action based on failure to pay rent must be preceded by a three-day notice to the tenant to pay rent or quit the premises. Failure to state the exact amount of rent due in the notice is fatal to the subsequent unlawful detainer action." (Lynch & Freytag v. Cooper (1990) 218 Cal.App.3d 603, 606, fn. 2 [267 Cal.Rptr. 189], internal citations omitted.)

- "[D]efendant admitted in his answer that he 'ultimately received [the relevant] notice' but 'affirmatively allege[d] that he was not properly and legally served' with a valid notice. We find that, under the circumstances of this case, the defendant waived any defect in the challenged service of the notice under section 1162, subdivision 1." (Valov, supra, 168 Cal.App.3d at p. 876.)

- "In the cases discussed … , a finding of proper service turned on a party's acknowledgment or admission the notice in question was in fact received. In the present case, defendant denied, in his answer and at trial, that he had ever received the three-day notice. Because there was no admission of receipt in this case, service by certified mail did not establish or amount to personal delivery. Further, there was no evidence of compliance with any of the three methods of service of a three-day notice to pay rent or quit provided in section 1162. Therefore, the judgment must be reversed." (Liebovich, supra, 56 Cal.App.4th at p. 518.)

- "[Code of Civil Procedure section 1162 specifies] three ways in which service of the three-day notice may be effected on a residential tenant: … . As explained in Liebovich, supra, … , '[w]hen the fact of service is contested, compliance with one of these methods must be shown or the judgment must be reversed.' " (Palm Property Investments, LLC, supra, 194 Cal.App.4th at p. 1425.)

- "In commercial leases the landlord and commercial tenant may lawfully agree to notice procedures that differ from those provided in the statutory provisions governing unlawful detainer." (Culver Center Partners East #1, L.P., supra, 185 Cal.App.4th at p.750.)

- "[E]ven if some policy rationale might support such a waiver/forfeiture [by actual receipt] rule in the residential lease context, there is no basis to apply it in the commercial context where matters of service and waiver are prescribed in the lease itself. Nothing in the parties' lease suggests actual receipt of a notice to quit results in the waiver or forfeiture of [tenant]'s right to service accomplished in the manner prescribed. To the contrary, the lease specifically provides, 'No covenant, term or condition, or breach' of the lease 'shall be deemed waived except if expressly waived in a written instrument executed by the waiving party.' Although [tenant's agent] acted on the notice to quit by attempting to deliver the rent check, neither her fortuitous receipt of the notice nor her actions in response to it constitutes an express waiver of the notice provisions in the lease." (Culver Center Partners East #1, L.P., supra, 185 Cal.App.4th at p. 752, internal citation omitted.)

Secondary Sources

12 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Real Property, §§ 753, 755–758, 760~~745–760~~

1 California Landlord-Tenant Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) §§ 8.26–8.68

1 California Eviction Defense Manual (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) §§ 5.2, 6.10–6.30, Ch. 8

Friedman et al., California Practice Guide: Landlord-Tenant, Ch. 5-G, Eviction Controls, ¶¶ 5:224.3, 5:277.1 et seq. (The Rutter Group)

Friedman et al., California Practice Guide: Landlord-Tenant, Ch. 7-C, Bases For Terminating Tenancy, ¶¶ 7:98.10, 7:327 (The Rutter Group)

7 California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 210, Unlawful Detainer, §§ 210.21, 210.22 (Matthew Bender)

Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Landlord-Tenant Litigation, Ch. 5, Unlawful Detainer, 5.11, 5.12

29 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions, § 333.11 (Matthew Bender)

23 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 236, Unlawful Detainer, §§ 236.13, 236.13A (Matthew Bender)

Miller & Starr, California Real Estate 4th ~~(2015)~~, §§ 34:183-34:187 ~~(Ch. 34, Landlord-Tenant)~~ (Thomson Reuters)

4304. Termination for Violation of Terms of Lease/Agreement—Essential Factual Elements

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] [and [name of subtenant], a subtenant of [name of defendant],] no longer [has/have] the right to occupy the property because [name of defendant] has failed to perform [a] requirement(s) under [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] [lease/rental agreement/sublease]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] [owns/leases] the property;

2. That [name of plaintiff] [rented/subleased] the property to [name of defendant];

3. That under the [lease/rental agreement/sublease], [name of defendant] agreed [insert required condition(s) that were not performed];

4. That [name of defendant] failed to perform [that/those] requirement(s) by [insert description of alleged failure to perform];

5. That [name of plaintiff] properly gave [name of defendant] [and [name of subtenant]] three days' written notice to [either [describe action to correct failure to perform] or] vacate the property; [and]

[6. That [*name of defendant] did not [describe action to correct failure to perform]; and]

7. That [name of defendant] [or subtenant [name of subtenant]] is still occupying the property.

[[*Name of defendant]'s failure to perform the requirement(s) of the [lease/rental agreement/sublease] must not be trivial, but must be a substantial violation of [an] important obligation(s).]

New August 2007; Revised June 2010, December 2010, June 2011, December 2011, May 2020

Directions for Use

Include the bracketed references to a subtenancy in the opening paragraph, in element 5, and in the last element if persons other than the tenant-defendant are in occupancy of the premises.

If the plaintiff is the landlord or owner, select either "lease" or "rental agreement" in the opening paragraph and in element 3, "owns" in element 1, and "rented" in element 2. Commercial documents are usually called "leases" while residential documents are often called "rental agreements." Select the term that is used on the written document.

If the plaintiff is a tenant seeking to recover possession from a subtenant, select "sublease" in the opening paragraph and in element 3, "leases" in element 1, and "subleased" in element 2. (Code Civ. Proc., § 1161(3).)

Defective service may be waived if defendant admits timely receipt of notice. (See Valov v. Tank (1985) 168 Cal.App.3d 867, 876 [214 Cal.Rptr. 546].) However, if the fact of service is contested, compliance with the statutory requirements must be shown. (Palm Property Investments, LLC v. Yadegar (2011) 194 Cal.App.4th 1419, 1425 [123 Cal.Rptr.3d 816].) Therefore, this instruction does not provide an option for the jury to determine whether or not defective service was waived if there was actual receipt.

If a commercial lease requires service by a particular method, actual receipt by the tenant will not cure the landlord's failure to comply with the service requirements of the lease. (Culver Center Partners East #1, L.P. v. Baja Fresh Westlake Village, Inc. (2010) 185 Cal.App.4th 744, 752 [110 Cal.Rptr.3d 833].) Whether the same rule applies to a residential lease that specifies a method of service has not yet been decided.

If the lease specifies a time period for notice other than the three-day period, substitute that time period in element 5.

If the violation of the condition or covenant involves assignment, sublet, or waste, or if the breach cannot be cured, the landlord is entitled to possession on service of a three-day notice to quit; no opportunity to cure by performance is required. (Code Civ. Proc., § 1161(4); Salton Community Services Dist. v. Southard (1967) 256 Cal.App.2d 526, 529 [64 Cal.Rptr. 246].) In such a case, omit the bracketed language in element 5 and also omit element 6. If the violation involves nuisance or illegal activity, give CACI No. 4308, Termination for Nuisance or Unlawful Use—Essential Factual Elements.

Include the last paragraph if the tenant alleges that the violation was trivial. (See Boston LLC v. Juarez (2016) 245 Cal.App.4th 75, 81 [199 Cal.Rptr.3d 452].) It is not settled whether the landlord must prove the violation was substantial or the tenant must prove triviality as an affirmative defense. (See Superior Motels, Inc. v. Rinn Motor Hotels, Inc. (1987) 195 Cal.App.3d 1032, 1051 [241 Cal.Rptr. 487]; Keating v. Preston (1940) 42 Cal.App.2d 110, 118 [108 P.2d 479].)

The Tenant Protection Act of 2019 and/or ~~L~~local or federal law may impose additional requirements for the termination of a rental agreement based on breach of a condition. (See, e.g., Civ. Code, § 1946.2(a) ["just cause" requirement for termination of certain residential tenancies], (b) ["just cause" defined].) This instruction should be modified accordingly if applicable.

See CACI No. 4305, Sufficiency and Service of Notice of Termination for Violation of Terms of Agreement, for an instruction on proper written notice.

See also CACI No. 312, Substantial Performance.

Sources and Authority

- Unlawful Detainer Based on Failure to Perform Conditions. Code of Civil Procedure section 1161(3), (4).

- Tenant Protection Act of 2019. Civil Code section 1946.2.

- Conversion of Unlawful Detainer to Ordinary Civil Action if Possession No Longer at Issue. Civil Code section 1952.3(a).

- "[Code of Civil Procedure section 1161(3)] provides, that where the conditions or covenants of a lease can be performed, a lessee may within three days after the service of the notice perform them, and so save a forfeiture of his lease. By performing, the tenant may defeat the landlord's claim for possession. Where, however, the covenants cannot be performed, the law recognizes that it would be an idle and useless ceremony to demand their performance, and so dispenses with the demand to do so. And this is all that it does dispense with. It does not dispense with the demand for the possession of the premises. It requires that in any event. If the covenants can be performed, the notice is in the alternative, either to perform them or deliver possession. When the covenants are beyond performance an alternative notice would be useless, and demand for possession alone is necessary. Bearing in mind that the object of this statute is to speedily permit a landlord to obtain possession of his premises where the tenant has violated the covenants of the lease, the only reasonable interpretation of the statute is, that before bringing suit he shall take that means which should be most effectual for the purpose of obtaining possession, which is to demand it. If upon demand the tenant surrenders possession, the necessity for any summary proceeding is at an end, and by the demand is accomplished what the law otherwise would accord him under the proceeding." (Schnittger v. Rose (1903) 139 Cal. 656, 662 [73 P. 449].)

- "It is well settled that the notice required under [Code Civ. Proc., § 1161] subdivisions 2 and 3 (where the condition or covenant assertedly violated is capable of being performed) must be framed in the alternative, viz., pay the rent or quit, perform the covenant or quit, and a notice which merely directs the tenant to quit is insufficient to render such tenant guilty of unlawful detainer upon his continued possession." (Hinman v. Wagnon (1959) 172 Cal.App.2d 24, 27 [341 P.2d 749], original italics.)

- "Plaintiff argues, however, that he should be allowed to amend his complaint so as to bring his action under section 1161, subdivision 4. The notice thereunder required need not be framed in the alternative. However, plaintiff has at no time, either by his three days' notice or in any of his pleadings, suggested that defendant had assigned the lease or sublet the property, or had committed waste contrary to the conditions or covenants of the lease, or maintained a nuisance on the premises, or had used the property for an unlawful purpose. Plaintiff had three opportunities to state a cause of action; if he was of the belief that facts existed which brought his case under 1161, subdivision 4, it would have been a simple matter to allege such facts, but this he did not do." (Hinman, supra, 172 Cal.App.2d at p. 29.)

- "The law sensibly recognizes that although every instance of noncompliance with a contract's terms constitutes a breach, not every breach justifies treating the contract as terminated. Following the lead of the Restatements of Contracts, California courts allow termination only if the breach can be classified as 'material,' 'substantial,' or 'total.' " (Superior Motels, Inc., supra, 195 Cal.App.3d at p. 1051, internal citations omitted.)

- " '[A] lease may be terminated only for a substantial breach thereof, and not for a mere technical or trivial violation.' This materiality limitation even extends to leases which contain clauses purporting to dispense with the materiality limitation." (Boston LLC, supra, 245 Cal.App.4th at p. 81, internal citation omitted.)

- " 'Normally the question of whether a breach of an obligation is a material breach … is a question of fact,' however ' "if reasonable minds cannot differ on the issue of materiality, the issue may be resolved as a matter of law." ' " (Boston LLC, supra, 245 Cal.App.4th at p. 87.)

- "As to the substantiality of the violation, the evidence shows that the violation was wilful. Therefore, the court will not measure the extent of the violation." (Hignell v. Gebala (1949) 90 Cal.App.2d 61, 66 [202 P.2d 378].)

- "Where a covenant in a lease has been breached and the breach cannot be cured, a demand for performance is not a condition precedent to an unlawful detainer action." (Salton Community Services Dist., supra, 256 Cal.App.2d at p. 529.)

- "If the tenant gives up possession of the property after the commencement of an unlawful detainer proceeding, the action becomes an ordinary one for damages." (Fish Construction Co. v. Moselle Coach Works, Inc. (1983) 148 Cal.App.3d 654, 658 [196 Cal.Rptr. 174].)

- "Proper service on the lessee of a valid three-day notice to pay rent or quit is an essential prerequisite to a judgment declaring a lessor's right to possession under section 1161, subdivision 2. A lessor must allege and prove proper service of the requisite notice. Absent evidence the requisite notice was properly served pursuant to section 1162, no judgment for possession can be obtained." (Liebovich v. Shahrokhkhany (1997) 56 Cal.App.4th 511, 513 [65 Cal.Rptr.2d 457], internal citations omitted.)

- "Section 1162 does not authorize service of a three-day notice to pay rent or quit by mail delivery alone, certified or otherwise. It provides for service by: personal delivery; leaving a copy with a person of suitable age and discretion at the renter's residence or usual place of business and sending a copy through the mail to the tenant's residence; or posting and delivery of a copy to a person there residing, if one can be found, and sending a copy through the mail. Strict compliance with the statute is required." (Liebovich, supra, 56 Cal.App.4th at p. 516, original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- "In the cases discussed … , a finding of proper service turned on a party's acknowledgment or admission the notice in question was in fact received. In the present case, defendant denied, in his answer and at trial, that he had ever received the three-day notice. Because there was no admission of receipt in this case, service by certified mail did not establish or amount to personal delivery. Further, there was no evidence of compliance with any of the three methods of service of a three-day notice to pay rent or quit provided in [Code of Civil Procedure] section 1162. Therefore, the judgment must be reversed." (Liebovich, supra, 56 Cal.App.4th at p. 518.)

- "[Code of Civil Procedure section 1162 specifies] three ways in which service of the three-day notice may be effected on a residential tenant: … . As explained in Liebovich, supra, … , '[w]hen the fact of service is contested, compliance with one of these methods must be shown or the judgment must be reversed.' " (Palm Property Investments, LLC, supra, 194 Cal.App.4th at p. 1425.)

Secondary Sources

12 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Real Property, §§ 720, 726

1 California Landlord-Tenant Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) §§ 8.50–8.54

1 California Eviction Defense Manual (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) §§ 5.2, 6.38–6.49

Friedman et al., California Practice Guide: Landlord-Tenant, Ch. 12-G, "Section 8" Government-Subsidized Housing—Termination of Section 8 Tenancies, ¶ 12:200 et seq. (The Rutter Group)

Friedman et al., California Practice Guide: Landlord-Tenant, Ch. 7-C, Terminating the Tenancy and Related Remedies—Bases For Terminating Tenancy, ¶ 7:93 et seq. (The Rutter Group)

7 California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 210, Unlawful Detainer, §§ 210.21, 210.23, 210.24 (Matthew Bender)

Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Landlord-Tenant Litigation, Ch. 5, Unlawful Detainer, 5.07

29 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions, § 333.10 (Matthew Bender)

23 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 236, Unlawful Detainer, §§ 236.11, 236.20 (Matthew Bender)

Miller & Starr California Real Estate 4th, ~~Ch. 34, Landlord-Tenant,~~ § 34.182 (Thomson Reuters)

4305. Sufficiency and Service of Notice of Termination for Violation of Terms of Agreement

[*Name of plaintiff] contends that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] properly gave [name of defendant] three days' notice to [either comply with the requirements of the [lease/rental agreement/sublease] or] vacate the property. To prove that the notice contained the required information and was properly given, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That the notice informed [name of defendant] in writing that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] must, within three days, [either comply with the requirements of the [lease/rental agreement/sublease] or] vacate the property;

2. That the notice described how [name of defendant] failed to comply with the requirements of the [lease/rental agreement/sublease] [and how to correct the failure];

3. That the notice was given to [name of defendant] at least three days before [insert date on which action was filed].

[The three-day notice period excludes Saturdays, Sundays, and judicial holidays, but otherwise begins on the day after the notice to correct the failure or vacate the property was given to [*name of defendant].]

Notice was properly given if [*select one or more of the following manners of service:]

[the notice was delivered to [*name of defendant] personally[./; or]]

[[*name of defendant] was not at [home or work/the commercial rental property], and the notice was left with a responsible person at [[name of defendant]'s home or place of work/the commercial property], and a copy was also mailed in an envelope addressed to [name of defendant] at [[his/her/nonbinary pronoun] residence/the commercial property]. In this case, notice is considered given on the date the second notice was [received by [name of defendant]/placed in the mail][./; or]]

[for a residential tenancy:

[*name of defendant]'s place of residence and work could not be discovered, or a responsible person could not be found at either place, and (1) the notice was posted on the property in a place where it would easily be noticed, (2) a copy was given to a person living there if someone could be found, and (3) a copy was also mailed to the address of the rented property in an envelope addressed to [name of defendant]. In this case, notice is considered given on the date the second notice was [received by [name of defendant]/placed in the mail].]

[or for a commercial tenancy:

at the time of attempted service, a responsible person could not be found at the commercial rental property through the exercise of reasonable diligence, and (1) the notice was posted on the property in a place where it would easily be noticed, and (2) a copy was also mailed to the address of the commercial property in an envelope addressed to [*name of defendant]. In this case, notice is considered given on the date the second notice was [received by [name of defendant]/placed in the mail].]

New August 2007; Revised December 2010, June 2011, December 2011, November 2019, May 2020

Directions for Use

If the violation of the condition or covenant involves assignment, subletting, or waste, or if the breach cannot be cured, the landlord is entitled to possession on service of a three-day notice to quit; no opportunity to cure by performance is required. (Code Civ. Proc., § 1161(4); Salton Community Services Dist. v. Southard (1967) 256 Cal.App.2d 526, 529 [64 Cal.Rptr. 246].) In such a case, omit the bracketed language in the first paragraph and in elements 1 and 2. If the violation involves nuisance or illegal activity, give CACI No. 4309, Sufficiency and Service of Notice of Termination for Nuisance or Unlawful Use.

If the plaintiff is the landlord or owner, select either "lease" or "rental agreement" in the optional language in the opening paragraph and in elements 1 and 2. Commercial documents are usually called "leases" while residential documents are often called "rental agreements." Select the term that is used on the written document. If the plaintiff is a tenant seeking to recover possession from a subtenant, select "sublease." (Code Civ. Proc., § 1161(3).)

Select the manner of service used: personal service, substituted service by leaving the notice at the defendant's home or place of work or at the commercial rental property, or substituted service by posting on the property. (See Code Civ. Proc., § 1162.)

There is a conflict in the case law with respect to when the three-day period begins if substituted service is used. Compare Davidson v. Quinn (1982) 138 Cal.App.3d Supp. 9, 14 [188 Cal.Rptr. 421] [tenant must be given three days to pay, so period does not begin until actual notice is received] with Walters v. Meyers (1990) 226 Cal.App.3d Supp. 15, 19–20 [277 Cal.Rptr. 316] [notice is effective when posted and mailed]. This conflict is accounted for in the second, third, and fourth bracketed options for the manner of service.

Read the paragraph that follows the elements if any of the three days of the notice period fell on a Saturday, Sunday, or judicial holiday. (See Code Civ. Proc., § 1161(3).) Judicial holidays are shown on the judicial branch website, www.courts.ca.gov/holidays.htm.

If a lease specifies a time period for giving notice other than the three-day period, substitute that time period for three days throughout the instruction, provided that it is not less than three days.

Defective service may be waived if defendant admits timely receipt of notice. (See Valov v. Tank (1985) 168 Cal.App.3d 867, 876 [214 Cal.Rptr. 546].) However, if the fact of service is contested, compliance with the statutory requirements must be shown. (Palm Property Investments, LLC v. Yadegar (2011) 194 Cal.App.4th 1419, 1425 [123 Cal.Rptr.3d 816].) Therefore, this instruction does not provide an option for the jury to determine whether or not defective service was waived if there was actual receipt.

If a commercial lease requires service by a particular method, actual receipt by the tenant will not cure the landlord's failure to comply with the service requirements of the lease. (Culver Center Partners East #1, L.P. v. Baja Fresh Westlake Village, Inc. (2010) 185 Cal.App.4th 744, 752 [110 Cal.Rptr.3d 833].) Whether the same rule applies to a residential lease that specifies a method of service has not yet been decided.

The Tenant Protection Act of 2019 and/or ~~L~~local ordinances may impose additional notice requirements for the termination of a rental agreement. (See, e.g., Civ. Code, § 1946.2(a) ["just cause" requirement for termination of certain residential tenancies], (b) ["just cause" defined].) This instruction should be modified accordingly if applicable.

Sources and Authority

- Unlawful Detainer Based on Failure to Perform Conditions. Code of Civil Procedure section 1161(3), (4).
- Manner of Service of Notice. Code of Civil Procedure section 1162.
- Tenant Protection Act of 2019. Civil Code section 1946.2.
- "[T]he service and notice provisions in the unlawful detainer statutes and [Code of Civil Procedure] section 1013 are mutually exclusive, and thus, section 1013 does not extend the notice periods that are a prerequisite to filing an unlawful detainer action." (Losornio v. Motta (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 110, 112 [78 Cal.Rptr.2d 799].)
- "Section 1162 does not authorize service of a three-day notice to pay rent or quit by mail delivery alone, certified or otherwise. It provides for service by: personal delivery; leaving a copy with a person of suitable age and discretion at the renter's residence or usual place of business and sending a copy through the mail to the tenant's residence; or posting and delivery of a copy to a person there residing, if one can be found, and sending a copy through the mail. Strict compliance with the statute is required." (Liebovich v. Shahrokhkhany (1997) 56 Cal.App.4th 511, 516 [65 Cal.Rptr.2d 457], original italics, internal citation omitted.)
- "We … hold that service made in accordance with section 1162, subdivision 3, as applied to section 1161, subdivision 2, must be effected in such a manner as will give a tenant the three days of written notice required by the Legislature in which he may cure his default in the payment of rent." (Davidson, supra, 138 Cal.App.3d Supp. at p. 14.)

- "We … hold that service of the three-day notice by posting and mailing is effective on the date the notice is posted and mailed." (Walters, supra, 226 Cal.App.3d Supp. at p. 20.)

- "It is well settled that the notice required under [Code Civ. Proc., § 1161] subdivisions 2 and 3 (where the condition or covenant assertedly violated is capable of being performed) must be framed in the alternative, viz., pay the rent or quit, perform the covenant or quit, and a notice which merely directs the tenant to quit is insufficient to render such tenant guilty of unlawful detainer upon his continued possession." (Hinman v. Wagnon (1959) 172 Cal.App.2d 24, 27 [341 P.2d 749], original italics.)

- "Plaintiff argues, however, that he should be allowed to amend his complaint so as to bring his action under section 1161, subdivision 4. The notice thereunder required need not be framed in the alternative. However, plaintiff has at no time, either by his three days' notice or in any of his pleadings, suggested that defendant had assigned the lease or sublet the property, or had committed waste contrary to the conditions or covenants of the lease, or maintained a nuisance on the premises, or had used the property for an unlawful purpose. Plaintiff had three opportunities to state a cause of action; if he was of the belief that facts existed which brought his case under 1161, subdivision 4, it would have been a simple matter to allege such facts, but this he did not do." (Hinman, supra, 172 Cal.App.2d at p. 29.)

- "Where a covenant in a lease has been breached and the breach cannot be cured, a demand for performance is not a condition precedent to an unlawful detainer action." (Salton Community Services Dist., supra, 256 Cal.App.2d at p. 529.)

- "[D]efendant admitted in his answer that he 'ultimately received [the relevant] notice' but 'affirmatively allege[d] that he was not properly and legally served' with a valid notice. We find that, under the circumstances of this case, the defendant waived any defect in the challenged service of the notice under section 1162, subdivision 1." (Valov, supra, 168 Cal.App.3d at p. 876.)

- "In the cases discussed … , a finding of proper service turned on a party's acknowledgment or admission the notice in question was in fact received. In the present case, defendant denied, in his answer and at trial, that he had ever received the three-day notice. Because there was no admission of receipt in this case, service by certified mail did not establish or amount to personal delivery. Further, there was no evidence of compliance with any of the three methods of service of a three-day notice to pay rent or quit provided in section 1162. Therefore, the judgment must be reversed." (Liebovich, supra, 56 Cal.App.4th at p. 518.)

- "[Code of Civil Procedure section 1162 specifies] three ways in which service of the three-day notice may be effected on a residential tenant: … . As explained in Liebovich, supra, … , '[w]hen the fact of service is contested, compliance with one of these methods must be shown or the judgment must be reversed.' " (Palm Property Investments, LLC, supra, 194 Cal.App.4th at p. 1425.)

- "In commercial leases the landlord and commercial tenant may lawfully agree to notice procedures that differ from those provided in the statutory provisions governing unlawful detainer." (Culver Center Partners East #1, L.P., supra, 185 Cal.App.4th at p.750.)

- "[E]ven if some policy rationale might support such a waiver/forfeiture [by actual receipt] rule in the residential lease context, there is no basis to apply it in the commercial context where matters of service and waiver are prescribed in the lease itself. Nothing in the parties' lease suggests actual receipt of a notice to quit results in the waiver or forfeiture of [tenant]'s right to service accomplished in the manner prescribed. To the contrary, the lease specifically provides, 'No covenant, term or condition, or breach' of the lease 'shall be deemed waived except if expressly waived in a written instrument executed by the waiving party.' Although [tenant's agent] acted on the notice to quit by attempting to deliver the rent check, neither her fortuitous receipt of the notice nor her actions in response to it constitutes an express waiver of the notice provisions in the lease." (Culver Center Partners East #1, L.P., supra, 185 Cal.App.4th at p. 752, internal citation omitted.)

Secondary Sources

12 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Real Property, §§ 753, 759, 760~~745–760~~

1 California Landlord-Tenant Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) §§ 8.26–8.68

1 California Eviction Defense Manual (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) §§ 5.2, 6.10–6.16, 6.25–6.29, 6.38–6.49, Ch. 8

7 California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 210, Unlawful Detainer, §§ 210.21, 210.23, 210.24 (Matthew Bender)

Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Landlord-Tenant Litigation, Ch. 5, Unlawful Detainer, 5.11, 5.12

29 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions, § 333.11 (Matthew Bender)

23 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 236, Unlawful Detainer, §§ 236.11, 236.12 (Matthew Bender)

Miller & Starr, California Real Estate 4th ~~(2015)~~, §§ 34:182, 34:183, 34:187 ~~34:183–34:187 (Ch. 34, Landlord–Tenant)~~ (Thomson Reuters)

4306. Termination of Month-to-Month Tenancy—Essential Factual Elements

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] [and [name of subtenant], a subtenant of [name of defendant],] no longer [has/have] the right to occupy the property because the tenancy has ended. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] [owns/leases] the property;

2. That [name of plaintiff] [rented/subleased] the property to [name of defendant] under a month-to-month [lease/rental agreement/sublease];

3. That [name of plaintiff] gave [name of defendant] proper [30/60] days' written notice that the tenancy was ending; and

4. That [name of defendant] [or subtenant [name of subtenant]] is still occupying the property.

New August 2007; Revised June 2011, December 2011, May 2020

Directions for Use

Include the bracketed references to a subtenancy in the opening paragraph and in element 4 if persons other than the tenant-defendant are in occupancy of the premises.

If the plaintiff is the landlord or owner, select "owns" in element 1 and "rented" and either "lease" or "rental agreement" in element 2. Commercial documents are usually called "leases" while residential documents are often called "rental agreements." Select the term that is used on the written document.

If the plaintiff is a tenant seeking to recover possession from a subtenant, select "leases" in element 1 and "subleased" and "sublease" in element 2. (Code Civ. Proc., § 1161(3).)

In element 3, select the applicable number of days' notice required by statute. Thirty days is sufficient for commercial tenancies, residential tenancies of less than a year's duration, and certain transfers of the ownership interest to a bona fide purchaser. For residential tenancies of a year or more's duration, 60 days' notice is generally required. (Civ. Code, §§ 1946, 1946.1(b)–(d).) The Tenant Protection Act of 2019 may impose additional requirements for the termination of a residential tenancy. (Civ. Code, § 1946.2(a) ["just cause" requirement for termination of certain residential tenancies], (b) ["just cause" defined].) This instruction should be modified accordingly if applicable.

Defective service may be waived if defendant admits timely receipt of notice. (See Valov v. Tank (1985) 168 Cal.App.3d 867, 876 [214 Cal.Rptr. 546].) However, if the fact of service is contested, compliance with the statutory requirements must be shown. (Palm Property Investments, LLC v. Yadegar (2011) 194 Cal.App.4th 1419, 1425 [123 Cal.Rptr.3d 816].) Therefore, this instruction does not provide an option for the jury to determine whether or not defective service was waived if there was actual receipt.

If a commercial lease requires service by a particular method, actual receipt by the tenant will not cure the landlord's failure to comply with the service requirements of the lease. (Culver Center Partners East #1, L.P. v. Baja Fresh Westlake Village, Inc. (2010) 185 Cal.App.4th 744, 752 [110 Cal.Rptr.3d 833].) Whether the same rule applies to a residential lease that specifies a method of service has not yet been decided.

Do not give this instruction to terminate a tenancy if the tenant is receiving federal financial assistance through the Section 8 program. (See Wasatch Property Management v. Degrate (2005) 35 Cal.4th 1111, 1115 [29 Cal.Rptr.3d 262, 112 P.3d 647]; Civ. Code, § 1954.535 (90 days' notice required).) Specific grounds for terminating a federally subsidized low-income housing tenancy are required and must be set forth in the notice. (See, e.g., 24 C.F.R. § 982.310.)

See CACI No. 4307, Sufficiency and Service of Notice of Termination of Month-to-Month Tenancy, for an instruction on proper advanced written notice.

Sources and Authority

- Unlawful Detainer Based on Holdover After Expiration of Term. Code of Civil Procedure section 1161(1).
- Automatic Renewal Absent Notice of Termination on Expiration of Term. Civil Code section 1946.
- Time and Manner of Giving Notice of Termination. Civil Code section 1946.1.
- Presumption That Term Is Based on Period for Which Rent Is Paid. Civil Code section 1944.
- Tenant Protection Act of 2019. Civil Code section 1946.2.
- Conversion of Unlawful Detainer to Ordinary Civil Action if Possession Not at Issue. Civil Code section 1952.3(a).
- " 'In order that such an action may be maintained the conventional relation of landlord and tenant must be shown to exist. In other words, the action is limited to those cases in which the tenant is estopped to deny the landlord's title.' " (Fredericksen v. McCosker (1956) 143 Cal.App.2d 114, 116 [299 P.2d 908], internal citations omitted.)
- "If the tenant gives up possession of the property after the commencement of an unlawful detainer proceeding, the action becomes an ordinary one for damages." (Fish Construction Co. v. Moselle Coach Works, Inc. (1983) 148 Cal.App.3d 654, 658 [196 Cal.Rptr. 174].)

- "The Act provides that as a prerequisite to filing an unlawful detainer action based on a terminated month-to-month tenancy, the landlord must serve the tenant with a 30-day written notice of termination." (Losornio v. Motta (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 110, 113 [78 Cal.Rptr.2d 799], internal citations omitted.)

- "Proper service on the lessee of a valid … notice … is an essential prerequisite to a judgment declaring a lessor's right to possession under section 1161, subdivision 2. A lessor must allege and prove proper service of the requisite notice. Absent evidence the requisite notice was properly served pursuant to section 1162, no judgment for possession can be obtained." (Liebovich v. Shahrokhkhany (1997) 56 Cal.App.4th 511, 513 [65 Cal.Rptr.2d 457], internal citations omitted.)

- "Section 1162 does not authorize service of a … notice … by mail delivery alone, certified or otherwise. It provides for service by: personal delivery; leaving a copy with a person of suitable age and discretion at the renter's residence or usual place of business and sending a copy through the mail to the tenant's residence; or posting and delivery of a copy to a person there residing, if one can be found, and sending a copy through the mail. Strict compliance with the statute is required." (Liebovich, supra, 56 Cal.App.4th at p. 516, original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- "In the cases discussed … , a finding of proper service turned on a party's acknowledgment or admission the notice in question was in fact received. In the present case, defendant denied, in his answer and at trial, that he had ever received the … notice. Because there was no admission of receipt in this case, service by certified mail did not establish or amount to personal delivery. Further, there was no evidence of compliance with any of the three methods of service of a … notice … provided in [Code of Civil Procedure] section 1162. Therefore, the judgment must be reversed." (Liebovich, supra, 56 Cal.App.4th at p. 518.)

- "[Code of Civil Procedure section 1162 specifies] three ways in which service of the … notice may be effected on a residential tenant: … . As explained in Liebovich, supra, … , '[w]hen the fact of service is contested, compliance with one of these methods must be shown or the judgment must be reversed.' " (Palm Property Investments, LLC, supra, 194 Cal.App.4th at p. 1425.)

Secondary Sources

12 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10~~11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Real Property, § ~~680~~707 et seq.

Friedman et al., California Practice Guide: Landlord-Tenant, Ch. 8-B, Unlawful Detainer Complaint, ¶ 8:85 (The Rutter Group)

1 California Landlord-Tenant Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) §§ 8.69–8.80

1 California Eviction Defense Manual (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) §§ 5.3, 7.5, 7.11

7 California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 210, Unlawful Detainer, §§ 210.21, 210.27 (Matthew Bender)

Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Landlord-Tenant Litigation, Ch. 5, Unlawful Detainer, 5.07

29 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions, § 333.10 (Matthew Bender)

23 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 236, Unlawful Detainer, §§ 236.11, 236.40 (Matthew Bender)

Miller & Starr~~,~~ California Real Estate ~~3d~~ 4th, § 34:147 ~~19:188~~ (Thomson Reuters)

4307. Sufficiency and Service of Notice of Termination of Month-to-Month Tenancy

---

[*Name of plaintiff] contends that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] properly gave [name of defendant] written notice that the tenancy was ending. To prove that the notice contained the required information and was properly given, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That the notice informed [name of defendant] in writing that the tenancy would end on a date at least [30/60] days after notice was given to [him/her/nonbinary pronoun/it];

2. That the notice was given to [name of defendant] at least [30/60] days before the date that the tenancy was to end; and

3. That the notice was given to [name of defendant] at least [30/60] days before [insert date on which action was filed];

Notice was properly given if [*select one or more of the following manners of service:]

[the notice was delivered to [*name of defendant] personally[./; or]]

[the notice was sent by certified or registered mail in an envelope addressed to [*name of defendant], in which case notice is considered given on the date the notice was placed in the mail[./; or]]

[[*name of defendant] was not at [home or work/the commercial rental property], and the notice was left with a responsible person at [[name of defendant]'s home or place of work/the commercial property], and a copy was also mailed in an envelope addressed to [name of defendant] at [[his/her/nonbinary pronoun] residence/the commercial property]. In this case, notice is considered given on the date the second notice was placed in the mail[./; or]]

[for a residential tenancy:

[*name of defendant]'s place of residence and work could not be discovered, or a responsible person could not be found at either place, and (1) the notice was posted on the property in a place where it would easily be noticed, (2) a copy was given to a person living there if someone could be found, and (3) a copy was also mailed to the property in an envelope addressed to [name of defendant]. In this case, notice is considered given on the date the second notice was placed in the mail.]

[or for a commercial tenancy:

at the time of attempted service, a responsible person could not be found at the commercial rental property through the exercise of reasonable diligence, and (1) the notice was posted on the property in a place where it would easily be noticed, and (2) a copy was also mailed to the address of the commercial property in an envelope addressed to [name of defendant]. In this case, notice is considered given on the date the second notice was placed in the mail.]

[The [30/60]-day notice period begins on the day after the notice was given to [name of defendant]. If the last day of the notice period falls on a Saturday, Sunday, or holiday, [name of defendant]'s time to vacate the property is extended to include the first day after the Saturday, Sunday, or holiday that is not also a Saturday, Sunday, or holiday.]

New August 2007; Revised December 2010, June 2011, December 2011, May 2020

Directions for Use

Select the applicable number of days' notice required by statute. Thirty days is sufficient for commercial tenancies, residential tenancies of less than a year's duration, and certain transfers of the ownership interest to a bona fide purchaser. For residential tenancies of a year or more's duration, 60 days is generally required. (Civ. Code, §§ 1946, 1946.1(b)–(d).)

If 30 days' notice is sufficient and the lease provided for a notice period other than the statutory 30-day period (but not less than 7), insert that number instead of "30" or "60" throughout the instruction. (Civ. Code, § 1946.)

Select all manners of service used, including personal service, certified or registered mail, substituted service by leaving the notice at the defendant's home or place of work or at the rental property, and substituted service by posting on the property. (See Civ. Code, §§ 1946, 1946.1(f); Code Civ. Proc., § 1162.)

Read the next-to-last paragraph if the last day of the notice period fell on a Saturday, Sunday, or holiday.

Defective service may be waived if defendant admits timely receipt of notice. (See Valov v. Tank (1985) 168 Cal.App.3d 867, 876 [214 Cal.Rptr. 546].) However, if the fact of service is contested, compliance with the statutory requirements must be shown. (Palm Property Investments, LLC v. Yadegar (2011) 194 Cal.App.4th 1419, 1425 [123 Cal.Rptr.3d 816].) Therefore, this instruction does not provide an option for the jury to determine whether or not defective service was waived if there was actual receipt.

If a commercial lease requires service by a particular method, actual receipt by the tenant will not cure the landlord's failure to comply with the service requirements of the lease. (Culver Center Partners East #1, L.P. v. Baja Fresh Westlake Village, Inc. (2010) 185 Cal.App.4th 744, 752 [110 Cal.Rptr.3d 833].) Whether the same rule applies to a residential lease that specifies a method of service has not yet been decided.

The Tenant Protection Act of 2019 and/or ~~L~~local ordinances may impose additional ~~notice~~ requirements for the termination of a rental agreement. (See, e.g., Civ. Code, § 1946.2(a) ["just cause" requirement for termination of certain residential tenancies], (b) ["just cause" defined].) This instruction should be modified accordingly if applicable.

Sources and Authority

- Automatic Renewal of Tenancy at End of Term. Civil Code section 1946.
- Time and Manner of Giving Notice of Termination. Civil Code section 1946.1.
- Tenant Protection Act of 2019. Civil Code section 1946.2.
- Manner of Service of Notice. Code of Civil Procedure section 1162.
- "[T]he service and notice provisions in the unlawful detainer statutes and [Code of Civil Procedure] section 1013 are mutually exclusive, and thus, section 1013 does not extend the notice periods that are a prerequisite to filing an unlawful detainer action." (Losornio v. Motta (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 110, 112 [78 Cal.Rptr.2d 799].)
- "Section 1162 does not authorize service of a … notice … by mail delivery alone, certified or otherwise. It provides for service by: personal delivery; leaving a copy with a person of suitable age and discretion at the renter's residence or usual place of business and sending a copy through the mail to the tenant's residence; or posting and delivery of a copy to a person there residing, if one can be found, and sending a copy through the mail. Strict compliance with the statute is required." (Liebovich v. Shahrokhkhany (1997) 56 Cal.App.4th 511, 516 [65 Cal.Rptr.2d 457], original italics, internal citation omitted.)
- "[D]efendant admitted in his answer that he 'ultimately received [the relevant] notice' but 'affirmatively allege[d] that he was not properly and legally served' with a valid notice. We find that, under the circumstances of this case, the defendant waived any defect in the challenged service of the notice under section 1162, subdivision 1." (Valov, supra, 168 Cal.App.3d at p. 876.)
- "In the cases discussed … , a finding of proper service turned on a party's acknowledgment or admission the notice in question was in fact received. In the present case, defendant denied, in his answer and at trial, that he had ever received the … notice. Because there was no admission of receipt in this case, service by certified mail did not establish or amount to personal delivery. Further, there was no evidence of compliance with any of the three methods of service of a … notice … provided in section 1162. Therefore, the judgment must be reversed." (Liebovich, supra, 56 Cal.App.4th at p. 518.)
- "[Code of Civil Procedure section 1162 specifies] three ways in which service of the … notice may be effected on a residential tenant: … . As explained in Liebovich, supra, … , '[w]hen the fact of service is contested, compliance with one of these methods must be shown or the judgment must be reversed.' " (Palm Property Investments, LLC, supra, 194 Cal.App.4th at p. 1425.)

- "In commercial leases the landlord and commercial tenant may lawfully agree to notice procedures that differ from those provided in the statutory provisions governing unlawful detainer." (Culver Center Partners East #1, L.P., supra, 185 Cal.App.4th at p.750.)

- "[E]ven if some policy rationale might support such a waiver/forfeiture [by actual receipt] rule in the residential lease context, there is no basis to apply it in the commercial context where matters of service and waiver are prescribed in the lease itself. Nothing in the parties' lease suggests actual receipt of a notice to quit results in the waiver or forfeiture of [tenant]'s right to service accomplished in the manner prescribed. To the contrary, the lease specifically provides, 'No covenant, term or condition, or breach' of the lease 'shall be deemed waived except if expressly waived in a written instrument executed by the waiving party.' Although [tenant's agent] acted on the notice to quit by attempting to deliver the rent check, neither her fortuitous receipt of the notice nor her actions in response to it constitutes an express waiver of the notice provisions in the lease." (Culver Center Partners East #1, L.P., supra, 185 Cal.App.4th at p. 752, internal citation omitted.)

Secondary Sources

12 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Real Property, §§ 680, 727

Friedman et al., California Practice Guide: Landlord-Tenant, Ch. 8-B, Unlawful Detainer Complaint, ¶¶ 8:68, 8:69 (The Rutter Group)

Friedman et al., California Practice Guide: Landlord-Tenant, Ch. 7-C, Bases For Terminating Tenancy, ¶¶ 7:119, 7:190 et seq. (The Rutter Group)

1 California Landlord-Tenant Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) §§ 8.69–8.80

1 California Eviction Defense Manual (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) § 5.3, Ch. 7

7 California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 210, Unlawful Detainer, §§ 210.21, 210.27 (Matthew Bender)

Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Landlord-Tenant Litigation, Ch. 5, Unlawful Detainer, 5.11, 5.12

29 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions, § 333.11 (Matthew Bender)

23 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 236, Unlawful Detainer, §§ 236.10–236.12 (Matthew Bender)

Miller & Starr~~,~~ California Real Estate ~~3d~~ 4th, §§ 34:175, 34:181, 34:182 ~~19:188, 19:192~~ (Thomson Reuters)

4308. Termination for Nuisance or Unlawful Use—Essential Factual Elements (Code Civ. Proc., § 1161(4))

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] [and [name of subtenant], a subtenant of [name of defendant],] no longer [has/have] the right to occupy the property because [name of defendant] has [created a nuisance on the property/ [or] used the property for an illegal purpose]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] [owns/leases] the property;

2. That [name of plaintiff] [rented/subleased] the property to [name of defendant];

3. That [name of defendant] [include one or both of the following:] created a nuisance on the property by [*specify conduct constituting nuisance];

   [or] used the property for an illegal purpose by [*specify illegal activity];

4. That [name of plaintiff] properly gave [name of defendant] [and [name of subtenant]] three days' written notice to vacate the property; and

5. That [name of defendant] [or subtenant [name of subtenant]] is still occupying the property.

New December 2010; Revised June 2011, December 2011, May 2020

Directions for Use

Include the bracketed references to a subtenancy in the opening paragraph and in elements 4 and 5 if persons other than the tenant-defendant are in occupancy of the premises.

If the plaintiff is the landlord or owner, select "owns" in element 1, and "rented" in element 2.

If the plaintiff is a tenant seeking to recover possession from a subtenant, include the bracketed language on subtenancy in the opening paragraph and in element 4, "leases" in element 1, and "subleased" in element 2. (Code Civ. Proc., § 1161(3).)

Certain conduct or statutory violations that constitute or create a rebuttable presumption of a nuisance are set forth in Code of Civil Procedure section 1161(4). If applicable, insert the appropriate ground in element 3. (See also Health & Saf. Code, § 17922 [adopting various uniform housing and building codes].)

Defective service may be waived if defendant admits timely receipt of notice. (See Valov v. Tank (1985) 168 Cal.App.3d 867, 876 [214 Cal.Rptr. 546].) However, if the fact of service is contested, compliance with the statutory requirements must be shown. (Palm Property Investments, LLC v. Yadegar (2011) 194 Cal.App.4th 1419, 1425 [123 Cal.Rptr.3d 816].) Therefore, this instruction does not provide an option for the jury to determine whether or not defective service was waived if there was actual receipt.

If a commercial lease requires service by a particular method, actual receipt by the tenant will not cure the landlord's failure to comply with the service requirements of the lease. (Culver Center Partners East #1, L.P. v. Baja Fresh Westlake Village, Inc. (2010) 185 Cal.App.4th 744, 752 [110 Cal.Rptr.3d 833].) Whether the same rule applies to a residential lease that specifies a method of service has not yet been decided.

If the lease specifies a time period for notice other than the three-day period, substitute that time period in element 4.

For nuisance or unlawful use, the landlord is entitled to possession on service of a three-day notice to quit; no opportunity to cure by performance is required. (Code Civ. Proc., § 1161(4).)

The Tenant Protection Act of 2019, l~~L~~ocal law, and/or federal law may impose additional requirements for the termination of a rental agreement based on nuisance or illegal activity. (See Civ. Code, § 1946.2(a) ["just cause" requirement for termination of certain residential tenancies], (b) ["just cause" defined], (b)(1)(C) [nuisance is "just cause"], (b)(1)(I) [unlawful purpose is "just cause"].) This instruction should be modified accordingly if applicable.

See CACI No. 4309, Sufficiency and Service of Notice of Termination for Nuisance or Unlawful Use, for an instruction on proper written notice.

See also CACI No. 312, Substantial Performance.

Sources and Authority

- Unlawful Detainer Based on Tenant Conduct. Code of Civil Procedure section 1161(4).
- Tenant Protection Act of 2019. Civil Code section 1946.2.
- "Nuisance" Defined. Civil Code section 3479.
- "Plaintiff argues, however, that he should be allowed to amend his complaint so as to bring his action under section 1161, subdivision 4. The notice thereunder required need not be framed in the alternative. However, plaintiff has at no time, either by his three days' notice or in any of his pleadings, suggested that defendant had assigned the lease or sublet the property, or had committed waste contrary to the conditions or covenants of the lease, or maintained a nuisance on the premises, or had used the property for an unlawful purpose. Plaintiff had three opportunities to state a cause of action; if he was of the belief that facts existed which brought his case under 1161, subdivision 4, it would have been a simple matter to allege such facts, but this he did not do." (Hinman v. Wagnon (1959) 172 Cal.App.2d 24, 29 [341 P.2d 749].)

- "Proper service on the lessee of a valid three-day notice to pay rent or quit is an essential prerequisite to a judgment declaring a lessor's right to possession under section 1161, subdivision 2. A lessor must allege and prove proper service of the requisite notice. Absent evidence the requisite notice was properly served pursuant to section 1162, no judgment for possession can be obtained." (Liebovich v. Shahrokhkhany (1997) 56 Cal.App.4th 511, 513 [65 Cal.Rptr.2d 457], internal citations omitted.)

- "Section 1162 does not authorize service of a three-day notice to pay rent or quit by mail delivery alone, certified or otherwise. It provides for service by: personal delivery; leaving a copy with a person of suitable age and discretion at the renter's residence or usual place of business and sending a copy through the mail to the tenant's residence; or posting and delivery of a copy to a person there residing, if one can be found, and sending a copy through the mail. Strict compliance with the statute is required." (Liebovich, supra, 56 Cal.App.4th at p. 516, original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- "In the cases discussed … , a finding of proper service turned on a party's acknowledgment or admission the notice in question was in fact received. In the present case, defendant denied, in his answer and at trial, that he had ever received the three-day notice. Because there was no admission of receipt in this case, service by certified mail did not establish or amount to personal delivery. Further, there was no evidence of compliance with any of the three methods of service of a three-day notice to pay rent or quit provided in [Code of Civil Procedure] section 1162. Therefore, the judgment must be reversed." (Liebovich, supra, 56 Cal.App.4th at p. 518.)

- "[Code of Civil Procedure section 1162 specifies] three ways in which service of the three-day notice may be effected on a residential tenant: … . As explained in Liebovich, supra, … , '[w]hen the fact of service is contested, compliance with one of these methods must be shown or the judgment must be reversed.' " (Palm Property Investments, LLC, supra, 194 Cal.App.4th at p. 1425.)

Secondary Sources

12 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2006) Real Property, §§ 674, 726

1 California Landlord-Tenant Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) §§ 8.55, 8.58, 8.59

1 California Eviction Defense Manual (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) §§ 6.46, 6.48, 6.49

Friedman et al., California Practice Guide: Landlord-Tenant, Ch. 7-C, Bases For Terminating Tenancy, ¶ 7:136 et seq. (The Rutter Group)

7 California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 200, Termination of Tenancies, § 200.38 (Matthew Bender)

Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Landlord-Tenant Litigation, Ch. 4, Termination of Tenancy, 4.23

29 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions, § 333.10 (Matthew Bender)

23 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 236, Unlawful Detainer, § 236.11 (Matthew Bender)

Miller & Starr~~,~~ California Real Estate 4th, § 34:181 ~~(3d ed. 2008) Ch. 19, Landlord-Tenant, §§ 19:200–19.205~~ (Thomson Reuters)

4309. Sufficiency and Service of Notice of Termination for Nuisance or Unlawful Use

[*Name of plaintiff] contends that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] properly gave [name of defendant] three days' notice to vacate the property. To prove that the notice contained the required information and was properly given, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That the notice informed [name of defendant] in writing that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] must vacate the property within three days;

2. That the notice described how [name of defendant] [created a nuisance on the property/ [or] used the property for an illegal purpose]; and

3. That the notice was given to [name of defendant] at least three days before [insert date on which action was filed].

Notice was properly given if [*select one or more of the following manners of service:]

[the notice was delivered to [*name of defendant] personally[./; or]]

[[*name of defendant] was not at [home or work/the commercial rental property], and the notice was left with a responsible person at [[name of defendant]'s residence or place of work/the commercial property], and a copy was also mailed in an envelope addressed to [name of defendant] at [[his/her/nonbinary pronoun] residence/the commercial property]. In this case, notice is considered given on the date the second notice was [received by [name of defendant]/placed in the mail][./; or]]

[for a residential tenancy:

[*name of defendant]'s place of residence and work could not be discovered, or a responsible person could not be found at either place, and (1) the notice was posted on the property in a place where it would easily be noticed, (2) a copy was given to a person living there if someone could be found, and (3) a copy was also mailed to the address of the rented property in an envelope addressed to [name of defendant]. In this case, notice is considered given on the date the second notice was [received by [name of defendant]/placed in the mail].]

[or for a commercial tenancy:

at the time of attempted service, a responsible person could not be found at the commercial rental property through the exercise of reasonable diligence, and (1) the notice was posted on the property in a place where it would easily be noticed, and (2) a copy was also mailed to the address of the commercial property in an envelope addressed to [*name of defendant]. In this case, notice is considered given on the date the second notice was [received by [name of defendant]/placed in the mail].]

[The three-day notice period begins on the day after the notice was given to [name of defendant]. If the last day of the notice period falls on a Saturday, Sunday, or holiday, [name of defendant]'s time to correct the failure or to vacate the property is extended to include the first day after the Saturday, Sunday, or holiday that is not also a Saturday, Sunday, or holiday.]

New December 2010; Revised June 2011, December 2011, May 2020

Directions for Use

Select the manner of service used: personal service, substituted service by leaving the notice at the defendant's home or place of work or at the commercial property, or substituted service by posting on the property. (See Code Civ. Proc., § 1162.)

There is a conflict in the case law with respect to when the three-day period begins if substituted service is used. Compare Davidson v. Quinn (1982) 138 Cal.App.3d Supp. 9, 14 [188 Cal.Rptr. 421] [tenant must be given three days to pay, so period does not begin until actual notice is received] with Walters v. Meyers (1990) 226 Cal.App.3d Supp. 15, 19–20 [277 Cal.Rptr. 316] [notice is effective when posted and mailed]. This conflict is accounted for in the second, third, and fourth bracketed options for the manner of service.

Read the next-to-last paragraph if the last day of the notice period fell on a Saturday, Sunday, or holiday.

If a lease specifies a time period for giving notice other than the three-day period, substitute that time period for three days throughout the instruction, provided that it is not less than three days.

Defective service may be waived if defendant admits timely receipt of notice. (See Valov v. Tank (1985) 168 Cal.App.3d 867, 876 [214 Cal.Rptr. 546].) However, if the fact of service is contested, compliance with the statutory requirements must be shown. (Palm Property Investments, LLC v. Yadegar (2011) 194 Cal.App.4th 1419, 1425 [123 Cal.Rptr.3d 816].) Therefore, this instruction does not provide an option for the jury to determine whether or not defective service was waived if there was actual receipt.

If a commercial lease requires service by a particular method, actual receipt by the tenant will not cure the landlord's failure to comply with the service requirements of the lease. (Culver Center Partners East #1, L.P. v. Baja Fresh Westlake Village, Inc. (2010) 185 Cal.App.4th 744, 752 [110 Cal.Rptr.3d 833].) Whether the same rule applies to a residential lease that specifies a method of service has not yet been decided.

The Tenant Protection Act of 2019 and/or ~~L~~local ordinances may impose additional notice requirements for the termination of a rental agreement. (See, e.g., Civ. Code, § 1946.2(a) ["just cause" requirement for termination of certain residential tenancies], (b) ["just cause" defined].) This instruction should be modified accordingly if applicable.

Sources and Authority

- Unlawful Detainer Based on Tenant Conduct. Code of Civil Procedure section 1161(4).
- Manner of Service of Notice. Code of Civil Procedure section 1162.
- Tenant Protection Act of 2019. Civil Code section 1946.2.
- "[T]he service and notice provisions in the unlawful detainer statutes and [Code of Civil Procedure] section 1013 are mutually exclusive, and thus, section 1013 does not extend the notice periods that are a prerequisite to filing an unlawful detainer action." (Losornio v. Motta (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 110, 112 [78 Cal.Rptr.2d 799].)
- "Section 1162 does not authorize service of a three-day notice to pay rent or quit by mail delivery alone, certified or otherwise. It provides for service by: personal delivery; leaving a copy with a person of suitable age and discretion at the renter's residence or usual place of business and sending a copy through the mail to the tenant's residence; or posting and delivery of a copy to a person there residing, if one can be found, and sending a copy through the mail. Strict compliance with the statute is required." (Liebovich v. Shahrokhkhany (1997) 56 Cal.App.4th 511, 516 [65 Cal.Rptr.2d 457], original italics, internal citation omitted.)
- "We … hold that service made in accordance with section 1162, subdivision 3, as applied to section 1161, subdivision 2, must be effected in such a manner as will give a tenant the three days of written notice required by the Legislature in which he may cure his default in the payment of rent." (Davidson, supra, 138 Cal.App.3d Supp. at p. 14.)
- "We … hold that service of the three-day notice by posting and mailing is effective on the date the notice is posted and mailed." (Walters, supra, 226 Cal.App.3d Supp. at p. 20.)
- "Plaintiff argues, however, that he should be allowed to amend his complaint so as to bring his action under section 1161, subdivision 4. The notice thereunder required need not be framed in the alternative. However, plaintiff has at no time, either by his three days' notice or in any of his pleadings, suggested that defendant had assigned the lease or sublet the property, or had committed waste contrary to the conditions or covenants of the lease, or maintained a nuisance on the premises, or had used the property for an unlawful purpose. Plaintiff had three opportunities to state a cause of action; if he was of the belief that facts existed which brought his case under 1161, subdivision 4, it would have been a simple matter to allege such facts, but this he did not do." (Hinman v. Wagnon (1959) 172 Cal.App.2d 24, 29 [341 P.2d 749].)
- "[D]efendant admitted in his answer that he 'ultimately received [the relevant] notice' but 'affirmatively allege[d] that he was not properly and legally served' with a valid notice. We find that, under the circumstances of this case, the defendant waived any defect in the challenged service of the notice under section 1162, subdivision 1." (Valov, supra, 168 Cal.App.3d at p. 876.)

- "In the cases discussed … , a finding of proper service turned on a party's acknowledgment or admission the notice in question was in fact received. In the present case, defendant denied, in his answer and at trial, that he had ever received the … notice. Because there was no admission of receipt in this case, service by certified mail did not establish or amount to personal delivery. Further, there was no evidence of compliance with any of the three methods of service of a … notice … provided in section 1162. Therefore, the judgment must be reversed." (Liebovich, supra, 56 Cal.App.4th at p. 518.)

- "[Code of Civil Procedure section 1162 specifies] three ways in which service of the … notice may be effected on a residential tenant: … . As explained in Liebovich, supra, … , '[w]hen the fact of service is contested, compliance with one of these methods must be shown or the judgment must be reversed.' " (Palm Property Investments, LLC, supra, 194 Cal.App.4th at p. 1425.)

- "In commercial leases the landlord and commercial tenant may lawfully agree to notice procedures that differ from those provided in the statutory provisions governing unlawful detainer." (Culver Center Partners East #1, L.P., supra, 185 Cal.App.4th at p.750.)

- "[E]ven if some policy rationale might support such a waiver/forfeiture [by actual receipt] rule in the residential lease context, there is no basis to apply it in the commercial context where matters of service and waiver are prescribed in the lease itself. Nothing in the parties' lease suggests actual receipt of a notice to quit results in the waiver or forfeiture of [tenant]'s right to service accomplished in the manner prescribed. To the contrary, the lease specifically provides, 'No covenant, term or condition, or breach' of the lease 'shall be deemed waived except if expressly waived in a written instrument executed by the waiving party.' Although [tenant's agent] acted on the notice to quit by attempting to deliver the rent check, neither her fortuitous receipt of the notice nor her actions in response to it constitutes an express waiver of the notice provisions in the lease." (Culver Center Partners East #1, L.P., supra, 185 Cal.App.4th at p. 752, internal citation omitted.)

Secondary Sources

12 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10~~11th ed. ~~2006~~2017) Real Property, §§ 701, 759, 760 ~~674, 726, 727~~

1 California Landlord-Tenant Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) §§ 8.62–8.68

1 California Eviction Defense Manual (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) §§ 6.25–6.29

Friedman et al., California Practice Guide: Landlord-Tenant, Ch. 7-C, Bases For Terminating Tenancy, ¶¶ 7:98.5 et seq., 7:137 et seq. (The Rutter Group)

7 California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 210, Unlawful Detainer, § 210.24 (Matthew Bender)

Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Landlord-Tenant Litigation, Ch. 4, Termination of Tenancy, 4.23

29 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions, § 333.10 (Matthew Bender)

23 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 236, Unlawful Detainer, § 236.11 (Matthew Bender)

Miller & Starr~~,~~ California Real Estate 4th~~(3d ed. 2008) Ch. 19, Landlord-Tenant~~, §§ 34:182, 34:183 ~~19:200–19:205~~ (Thomson Reuters)

4325. Affirmative Defense—Failure to Comply With Rent Control Ordinance/Tenant Protection Act

---

[*Name of defendant] claims that [name of plaintiff] is not entitled to evict [him/her/nonbinary pronoun] because [name of plaintiff] violated [[insert name of local governmental entity]'s rent control law]/[the Tenant Protection Act]. To succeed on this defense, [name of defendant] must prove the following:

[*Insert elements of rent control defense.]

New August 2007; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

Insert the elements of the Tenant Protection Act of 2019 and/or the relevant local rent control law into this instruction.

Sources and Authority

- Tenant Protection Act of 2019. Civil Code section 1946.2.
- "[T]he statutory remedies for recovery of possession and of unpaid rent do not preclude a defense based on municipal rent control legislation enacted pursuant to the police power imposing rent ceilings and limiting the grounds for eviction for the purpose of enforcing those rent ceilings." (Birkenfeld v. Berkeley (1976) 17 Cal.3d 129, 149 [130 Cal.Rptr. 465, 550 P.2d 1001], internal citations and footnote omitted.)
- "Although municipalities have power to enact ordinances creating substantive defenses to eviction, such legislation is invalid to the extent it conflicts with general state law." (Fisher v. City of Berkeley (1984) 37 Cal.3d 644, 697 [209 Cal.Rptr. 682, 693 P.2d 261]~~, affd. (1986) 475 U.S. 260 [106 S.Ct. 1045, 89 L.Ed.2d 206]~~, internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

12 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10~~11th ed. ~~2006~~2017) Real Property, § 618~~594~~

1 California Landlord-Tenant Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) §§ 7.53–7.76

2 California Eviction Defense Manual (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) Ch. 17

7 California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 210, Unlawful Detainer, § 210.64 (Matthew Bender)

Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Landlord-Tenant Litigation, Ch. 5, Unlawful Detainer, 5.21

29 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions, § 333.10 (Matthew Bender)

23 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 236, Unlawful Detainer, § 236.74 (Matthew Bender)

Miller & Starr~~,~~ California Real Estate 4th, §§ 34:204, 34:256 (Thomson ~~West~~Reuters) ~~Ch. 19, Landlord-Tenant, § 19:102~~

4575. Right to Repair Act—Affirmative Defense—Failure to ~~Properly~~ Follow Recommendations or to Maintain ~~Home~~ (Civ. Code, § 945.5(c))

[Name of defendant] claims that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] is not responsible for [name of plaintiff]'s harm because [name of plaintiff] failed to properly maintain the home. To establish this defense, [name of defendant] must prove [all/both] of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] failed to follow [[name of defendant]'s/ [or] a manufacturer's] recommendations/ [or] commonly accepted homeowner maintenance obligations];

[2. That [name of plaintiff] had written notice of [name of defendant]'s recommended maintenance schedules;~~]~~

~~[~~3. That the recommendations and schedules were reasonable at the time they were issued;]

4. That [name of plaintiff]'s harm was caused by [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] failure to follow [[name of defendant]'s/ [or] a manufacturer's] recommendations/ [or] commonly accepted homeowner maintenance obligations].

New November 2019; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction sets forth a builder's affirmative defense to a homeowner's construction defect claim under the Right to Repair Act, asserting that the homeowner failed to follow the builder's or manufacturer's recommendations, or properly maintain the property. The homeowner is responsible for any maintenance failures by any of ~~his or her~~ the homeowner's agents, employees, general contractors, subcontractors, independent contractors, or consultants. (Civ. Code, § 945.5(c).) Include elements 2 and 3 if the defendant contractor is relying on its own recommended maintenance schedule.

Sources and Authority

- Right to Repair Act Affirmative Defense of Homeowner's Failure to Maintain. Civil Code section 945.5(c).

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Torts, §§ 1310 et seq.

10 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 104, Building Contracts, §§ 104.263-104.265 (Matthew Bender)

9 California Legal Forms Transaction Guide, Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements, § 23.20A (Matthew Bender)

12 California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 441, Consumers' Remedies, § 441.70 (Matthew Bender)

Miller & Starr California Real Estate 4th, § 33:4 (Thomson Reuters)

4603. Whistleblower Protection—Essential Factual Elements (Lab. Code, § 1102.5)

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] [discharged/[other adverse employment action]] [him/her/nonbinary pronoun] in retaliation for [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] [disclosure of information of/refusal to participate in] an unlawful act. In order to establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] was [name of plaintiff]'s employer;

2. [That [[name of plaintiff] disclosed]/[[name of defendant] believed that [name of plaintiff] [had disclosed/might disclose] to a [government agency/law enforcement agency/person with authority over [name of plaintiff]/ [or] an employee with authority to investigate, discover, or correct legal [violations/noncompliance]] that [specify information disclosed]];]

   [*or]

   [That [*name of plaintiff] [provided information to/testified before] a public body that was conducting an investigation, hearing, or inquiry;]

   [*or]

   [That [*name of plaintiff] refused to [specify activity in which plaintiff refused to participate];]

3. [That [name of plaintiff] had reasonable cause to believe that the information disclosed [a violation of a [state/federal] statute/[a violation of/noncompliance with] a [local/state/federal] rule or regulation];]

   [*or]

   [That [*name of plaintiff] had reasonable cause to believe that the [information provided to/testimony before] the public body disclosed [a violation of a [state/federal] statute/[a violation of/noncompliance with] a [local/state/federal] rule or regulation];]

   [*or]

   [That [*name of plaintiff]'s participation in [specify activity] would result in [a violation of a [state/federal] statute/[a violation of/noncompliance with] a [local/state/federal] rule or regulation];]

4. That [name of defendant] [discharged/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff];

5. That [name of plaintiff]'s [disclosure of information/refusal to [specify]] was a contributing factor in [name of defendant]'s decision to [discharge/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff];

6. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

7. That [name of defendant]'s conduct was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

[The disclosure of policies that an employee believes to be merely unwise, wasteful, gross misconduct, or the like, is not protected. Instead, [name of plaintiff] must have reasonably believed that [name of defendant]'s policies violated federal, state, or local statutes, rules, or regulations.]

[It is not [name of plaintiff]'s motivation for [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] disclosure, but only the content of that disclosure, that determines whether the disclosure is protected.]

[A disclosure is protected even though disclosing the information may be part of [name of plaintiff]'s job duties.]

New December 2012; Revised June 2013, December 2013; Revoked June 2014; Restored and Revised December 2014; Renumbered from CACI No. 2730 and Revised June 2015; Revised June 2016, November 2019, May 2020

Directions for Use

The whistleblower protection statute of the Labor Code prohibits retaliation against an employee who, or whose family member, discloses information about, or refuses to participate in, an illegal activity. (Lab. Code, § 1102.5(b), (c), (h).) Liability may be predicated on retaliation by "any person acting on behalf of the employer." (Lab. Code, § 1102.5(a)–(d).) Select any of the optional paragraphs as appropriate to the facts of the case. For claims under Labor Code section 1102.5(c), the plaintiff must show that the activity in question actually would result in a violation of or noncompliance with a statute, rule, or regulation, which is a legal determination that the court is required to make. (Nejadian v. County of Los Angeles (2019) 40 Cal.App.5th 703, 719 [253 Cal.Rptr.3d 404].)

Modifications to the instruction may be required if liability is predicated on an agency theory and the agent is also a defendant. Modifications will also be required if the retaliation is against an employee whose family member engaged in the protected activity.

Select the first option for elements 2 and 3 for claims based on actual disclosure of information or a belief that plaintiff disclosed or might disclose information. (Cf. Rope v. Auto-Chlor System of Washington, Inc. (2013) 220 Cal.App.4th 635, 648–649 [163 Cal.Rptr.3d 392] [under prior version of statute, no liability for anticipatory or preemptive retaliation based on fear that plaintiff might file a complaint in the future].) Select the second options for providing information to or testifying before a public body conducting an investigation, hearing, or inquiry. Select the third options for refusal to participate in an unlawful activity, and instruct the jury that the court has made the determination that the specified activity would have been unlawful. ~~In the first option for element 2, choose "might disclose" if the allegation is that the employer believed that the employee might disclose the information in the future. (Cf. Rope v. Auto-Chlor System of Washington, Inc. (2013) 220 Cal.App.4th 635, 648–649 [163 Cal.Rptr.3d 392] [under prior version of statute, no liability for anticipatory or preemptive retaliation based on fear that plaintiff might file a complaint in the future].)~~

It has been held that a report of publicly known facts is not a protected disclosure. (Mize-Kurzman v. Marin Community College Dist. (2012) 202 Cal.App.4th 832, 858 [136 Cal.Rptr.3d 259].) Another court, however, has held that protection is not necessarily limited to the first public employee to report unlawful acts to the employer. (Hager v. County of Los Angeles (2014) 228 Cal.App.4th 1538, 1548−1553 [176 Cal.Rptr.3d 268]; see Lab. Code, § 1102.5(b), (e).)

"Adverse employment action" is viewed the same as it is under the Fair Employment and Housing Act. (Patten v. Grant Joint Union High School Dist. (2005) 134 Cal.App.4th 1378, 1387 [37 Cal.Rptr.3d 113]; see CACI No. 2505, Retaliation—Essential Factual Elements.) Element 4 may be modified to allege constructive discharge or adverse acts that might not be obviously prejudicial. See CACI No. 2509, "Adverse Employment Action" Explained, and CACI No. 2510, "Constructive Discharge" Explained, for instructions that may be adapted for use with this instruction.

The employee must demonstrate by a preponderance of evidence that a protected activity was a contributing factor in the adverse action against the employee. The employer may then attempt to prove by clear and convincing evidence that the action would have been taken anyway for legitimate, independent reasons even if the employee had not engaged in the protected activities. (See Lab. Code, § 1102.6; CACI No. 4604, Affirmative Defense—Same Decision.)

Sources and Authority

- Retaliation Against Whistleblower Prohibited. Labor Code section 1102.5.
- Affirmative Defense: Same Decision. Labor Code section 1102.6.
- "The elements of a section 1102.5(b) retaliation cause of action require that (1) the plaintiff establish a prima facie case of retaliation, (2) the defendant provide a legitimate, nonretaliatory explanation for its acts, and (3) the plaintiff show this explanation is merely a pretext for the retaliation. [¶] We are concerned here with the first element of a section 1102.5(b) retaliation claim, establishing a prima facie case of retaliation. To do that, a plaintiff must show (1) she engaged in a protected activity, (2) her employer subjected her to an adverse employment action, and (3) there is a causal link between the two." (Patten, supra, 134 Cal.App.4th at p. 1384, internal citations omitted.)
- "In order to prove a claim under section 1102.5(b), the plaintiff must establish a prima facie case of retaliation. It is well-established that such a prima facie case includes proof of the plaintiff's employment status." (Bennett v. Rancho California Water Dist. (2019) 35 Cal.App.5th 908, 921 [248 Cal.Rptr.3d 21, 31], internal citations omitted.)
- "In 1984, our Legislature provided 'whistle-blower' protection in section 1102.5, subdivision (b), stating that an employer may not retaliate against an employee for disclosing a violation of state or federal regulation to a governmental or law enforcement agency. This provision reflects the broad public policy interest in encouraging workplace whistle-blowers to report unlawful acts without fearing retaliation. Section 1102.5, subdivision (b), concerns employees who report to public agencies. It does not protect plaintiff, who reported his suspicions directly to his employer.

Nonetheless, it does show the Legislature's interest in encouraging employees to report workplace activity that may violate important public policies that the Legislature has stated. The state's whistle-blower statute includes administrative regulations as a policy source for reporting an employer's wrongful acts and grants employees protection against retaliatory termination. Thus, our Legislature believes that fundamental public policies embodied in regulations are sufficiently important to justify encouraging employees to challenge employers who ignore those policies." (Green v. Ralee Engineering Co. (1998) 19 Cal.4th 66, 76–77 [78 Cal.Rptr.2d 16, 960 P.2d 1046].)

- "[T]he purpose of … section 1102.5(b) 'is to ' "encourag[e] workplace whistle-blowers to report unlawful acts without fearing retaliation." ' " (Diego v. Pilgrim United Church of Christ (2014) 231 Cal.App.4th 913, 923 [180 Cal.Rptr.3d 359].)

- "Once it is determined that the activity would result in a violation or noncompliance with a statute, rule, or regulation, the jury must then determine whether the plaintiff refused to participate in that activity and, if so, whether that refusal was a contributing factor in the defendant's decision to impose an adverse employment action on the plaintiff." (Nejadian, supra, 40 Cal.App.5th at p. 719.)

- "As a general proposition, we conclude the court could properly craft instructions in conformity with law developed in federal cases interpreting the federal whistleblower statute. As the court acknowledged, it was not bound by such federal interpretations. Nevertheless, the court could properly conclude that the jury required guidance as to what did and did not constitute 'disclosing information' or a 'protected disclosure' under the California statutes." (Mize-Kurzman, supra, 202 Cal.App.4th at p. 847.)

- "The court erred in failing to distinguish between the disclosure of policies that plaintiff believed to be unwise, wasteful, gross misconduct or the like, which are subject to the [debatable differences of opinion concerning policy matters] limitation, and the disclosure of policies that plaintiff reasonably believed violated federal or state statutes, rules, or regulations, which are not subject to this limitation, even if these policies were also claimed to be unwise, wasteful or to constitute gross misconduct." (Mize-Kurzman, supra, 202 Cal.App.4th at pp. 852–853.)

- "[I]t is not the motive of the asserted whistleblower, but the nature of the communication that determines whether it is covered." (Mize-Kurzman, supra, 202 Cal.App.4th at p. 852, original italics.)

- "[I]f we interpret section 1102.5 to require an employee to go to a different public agency or directly to a law enforcement agency before he or she can be assured of protection from retaliation, we would be encouraging public employees who suspected wrongdoing to do nothing at all. Under the scenario envisioned by the [defendant], if the employee reports his or her suspicions to the agency, … , he or she will have to suffer any retaliatory conduct with no legal recourse. If the employee reports suspicions to an outside agency or law enforcement personnel, he or she risks subjecting the agency to negative publicity and loss of public support which could ensue without regard to whether the charges prove to be true. At the same time, a serious rift in the employment relationship will have occurred because the employee did not go through official channels within the agency which was prepared to investigate the charges. We see no reason to interpret the statute to create such anomalous results." (Gardenhire v. Housing Authority (2000) 85 Cal.App.4th 236, 243 [101 Cal.Rptr.2d 893].)

- "Labor Code section 1102.5, subdivision (b) protects employee reports of unlawful activity by third parties such as contractors and employees, as well unlawful activity by an employer. In support of our conclusion, we note that an employer may have a financial motive to suppress reports of illegal conduct by employees and contractors that reflect poorly on that employer." (McVeigh v. Recology San Francisco (2013) 213 Cal.App.4th 443, 471 [152 Cal.Rptr.3d 595], internal citation omitted.)

- "We are persuaded that [instructing the jury that reporting publicly known facts is not a protected disclosure] was a proper limitation on what constitutes disclosure protected by California law." (Mize-Kurzman, supra, 202 Cal.App.4th at p. 858.)

- "The report of 'publicly known' information or 'already known' information is distinct from a rule in which only the first employee to report or disclose unlawful conduct is entitled to protection from whistleblower retaliation." (Hager, supra, 228 Cal.App.4th at p. 1552.)

- "Protection only to the first employee to disclose unlawful acts would defeat the legislative purpose of protecting workplace whistleblowers, as employees would not come forward to report unlawful conduct for fear that someone else already had done so. The 'first report' rule would discourage whistleblowing. Thus, the [defendant]'s interpretation is a disincentive to report unlawful conduct. We see no such reason to interpret the statute in a manner that would contradict the purpose of the statute." (Hager, supra, 228 Cal.App.4th at p. 1550.)

- "Matters such as transferring employees, writing up employees, and counseling employees are personnel matters. 'To exalt these exclusively internal personnel disclosures with whistleblower status would create all sorts of mischief. Most damagingly, it would thrust the judiciary into micromanaging employment practices and create a legion of undeserving protected "whistleblowers" arising from the routine workings and communications of the job site. … ' " (Mueller v. County of Los Angeles (2009) 176 Cal.App.4th 809, 822 [98 Cal.Rptr.3d 281].)

- " 'A wrongful termination action is viable where the employee alleges he [or she] was terminated for reporting illegal activity which could cause harm, not only to the interests of the employer but also to the public.' 'An action brought under the whistleblower statute is inherently such an action.' To preclude a whistleblower from revealing improper conduct by the government based on confidentiality would frustrate the legislative intent underlying the whistleblower statutes. For reasons of public policy, actions against a public entity for claims of discharge from or termination of employment grounded on a whistleblower claim are not barred by governmental immunity." (Whitehall v. County of San Bernardino (2017) 17 Cal.App.5th 352, 365 [225 Cal.Rptr.3d 321], internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Agency and Employment, §§ 373, 374

Chin et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 5(~~2~~II)-B, ~~Retaliation Claims:~~ Retaliation Under Other Whistleblower Statutes, ¶ 5:1740 et seq. (The Rutter Group)

4 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 60, Liability for Wrongful Termination and Discipline, § 60.03[2][c] (Matthew Bender)

11 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 249, Employment Law: Termination and Discipline, §§ 249.12, 249.15 (Matthew Bender)

10 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 100, Public Entities and Officers: False Claims Actions, § 100.42 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

VF-4602. Whistleblower Protection—Affirmative Defense of Same Decision (Lab. Code, §§ 1102.5, 1102.6)

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Was [name of defendant] [name of plaintiff]'s employer?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Did [[name of plaintiff] disclose/[name of defendant] believe that [name of plaintiff] [had disclosed/might disclose]] to a [government agency/law enforcement agency/person with authority over [name of plaintiff]/ [or] an employee with authority to investigate, discover, or correct legal [violations/noncompliance]] that [specify information disclosed]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 2 is yes, then answer question 3. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

[3. Did [name of plaintiff] have reasonable cause to believe that the information disclosed [a violation of a [state/federal] statute/[a violation of/noncompliance with] a [local/state/federal] rule or regulation]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 3 is yes, then answer question 4. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.]

4. Did [name of defendant] [discharge/specify other adverse action] [name of plaintiff]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 4 is yes, then answer question 5. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

5. Was [name of plaintiff]'s disclosure of information a contributing factor in [name of defendant]'s decision to [discharge/other adverse action] [him/her/nonbinary pronoun]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 5 is yes, then answer question 6. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

6. Was [*name of defendant]'s conduct a substantial factor in causing harm to [name of plaintiff]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 6 is yes, then answer question 7. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

7. Would [*name of defendant] have [discharged/specify other adverse action] [name of plaintiff] anyway at that time, for legitimate, independent reasons?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 7 is no, then answer question 8. If you answered yes, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

8. What are [*name of plaintiff]'s damages?

[a. Past economic loss
[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other past economic loss $ _____]
Total Past Economic Damages: $ _____]

[b. Future economic loss
[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other future economic loss $ _____]
Total Future Economic Damages: $ _____]

[c. Past noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]
$ _____]

[d. Future noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]
$ _____]

TOTAL $ _____

Signed: _____

Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

After [this verdict form has/all verdict forms have] been signed, notify the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant] that you are ready to present your verdict in the courtroom.

New December 2015; Revised December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 4603, Whistleblower Protection—Essential Factual Elements, and CACI No. 4604, Affirmative Defense—Same Decision.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

Questions 2 and 3 may be replaced with one of the other options for elements 2 and 3 in CACI No. 4603. ~~If the third options are used, replace "disclosure of information" in question 5 with "refusal to (specify).~~" Omit question 3 entirely, however, if the plaintiff allegedly refused to participate in an activity that would result in a violation or noncompliance with a statute, rule, or regulation. (Nejadian v. County of Los Angeles (2019) 40 Cal.App.5th 703, 719 [253 ~~—~~ Cal.Rptr.3d 404 ~~—~~].) ~~If the third options are used,~~ If the plaintiff allegedly refused to participate in an activity that would result in a violation or noncompliance with a statute, rule, or regulation, replace "disclosure of information" in question 5 with "refusal to [~~(~~specify activity employee refused to participate in and what specific statute, rule, or regulation would be violated by that activity].~~)~~."

Questions 4 and 5 may be modified to allege constructive discharge. Questions 2 through 5 of CACI No. VF-2408, Constructive Discharge in Violation of Public Policy—Plaintiff Required to Endure Intolerable Conditions for Improper Purpose That Violates Public Policy, should be adapted and included in such a case.

Question 7 presents the employer's affirmative defense that it would have made the same decision anyway for legitimate reasons even though the jury finds that retaliation for whistleblowing was also a contributing factor for the adverse action. Question 7 must be proved by clear and convincing evidence. (See Lab. Code, § 1102.6.)

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 8 and do not have to categorize "economic" and "noneconomic" damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

4920. Wrongful Foreclosure—Essential Factual Elements

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] wrongly foreclosed on [name of plaintiff]'s [home/specify other real property]. In order to establish a wrongful foreclosure, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [*name of defendant] caused a foreclosure sale of [name of plaintiff]'s [home/specify other real property] under a power of sale in a [mortgage/deed of trust];

2. That this sale was wrongful because [*specify reason(s) supporting illegality, fraud, or willful oppression];

3. That [*name of plaintiff] [tendered all amounts that were due under the loan secured by the [mortgage/deed of trust], but [name of defendant] [refused the tender]/[was excused from tendering all amounts that were due under loan secured by the [mortgage/deed of trust]];

4. [That [*name of plaintiff] was not materially in breach of any other condition and had not failed to perform any other material requirement of the loan agreement that would otherwise justify the foreclosure;]

5. That [*name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

6. That [*name of defendant]'s actions were a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

New May 2020

Directions for Use

Use this instruction for a claim for wrongful foreclosure.

For element 3, use the optional language depending on the circumstances. If plaintiff claims that tender is excused, give CACI No. 4921, Wrongful Foreclosure—Tender Excused.

There is a split in authority as to whether the plaintiff must prove element 4. (Compare Turner v. Seterus, Inc. (2018) 27 Cal.App.5th 516, 525 [238 Cal.Rptr.3d 528] [stating the elements of a wrongful foreclosure claim without element 4] with Majd v. Bank of America, N.A. (2015) 243 Cal.App.4th 1293, 1306-1307 [197 Cal.Rptr.3d 151] [including element 4 as a basic element of a wrongful foreclosure claim].) If the defendant does not claim that the plaintiff is in material breach of some loan condition, however, omit element 4.

Sources and Authority

- Curing Default. Civil Code section 2924c.

- "The elements of the tort of wrongful foreclosure are: ' "(1) the trustee or mortgagee caused an illegal, fraudulent, or willfully oppressive sale of real property pursuant to a power of sale in a mortgage or deed of trust; (2) the party attacking the sale (usually but not always the trustor or mortgagor) was prejudiced or harmed; and (3) in cases where the trustor or mortgagor challenges the sale, the trustor or mortgagor tendered the amount of the secured indebtedness or was excused from tendering" '; and (4) ' "no breach of condition or failure of performance existed on the mortgagor's or trustor's part which would have authorized the foreclosure or exercise of the power of sale." ' " (Majd, supra, 243 Cal.App.4th at pp. 1306-1307 [197 Cal.Rptr.3d 151].)

- " 'The basic elements of a tort cause of action for wrongful foreclosure track the elements of an equitable cause of action to set aside a foreclosure sale. They are: "(1) the trustee or mortgagee caused an illegal, fraudulent, or willfully oppressive sale of real property pursuant to a power of sale in a mortgage or deed of trust; (2) the party attacking the sale (usually but not always the trustor or mortgagor) was prejudiced or harmed; and (3) in cases where the trustor or mortgagor challenges the sale, the trustor or mortgagor tendered the amount of the secured indebtedness or was excused from tendering." ' " (Daniels v. Select Portfolio Servicing, Inc. (2016) 246 Cal.App.4th 1150, 1184–1185 [201 Cal.Rptr.3d 390, 421].)

- "Justifications for setting aside a trustee's sale from the reported cases, which satisfy the first element, include the trustee's or the beneficiary's failure to comply with the statutory procedural requirements for the notice or conduct of the sale. Other grounds include proof that (1) the trustee did not have the power to foreclose; (2) the trustor was not in default, no breach had occurred, or the lender had waived the breach; or (3) the deed of trust was void." (Lona v. Citibank, N.A. (2011) 202 Cal.App.4th 89, 104-105 [134 Cal.Rptr.3d 622], internal citations omitted.)

- "Wrongful foreclosure is a common law tort claim." (Turner, supra, 27 Cal.App.5th at p. 525.)

- "[A] trustee or mortgagee may be liable to the trustor or mortgagor for damages sustained where there has been an illegal, fraudulent or wil[l]fully oppressive sale of property under a power of sale contained in a mortgage or deed of trust. [Citations.] This rule of liability is also applicable in California, we believe, upon the basic principle of tort liability declared in the Civil Code that every person is bound by law not to injure the person or property of another or infringe on any of his rights." (Miles v. Deutsche Bank National Trust Co. (2015) 236 Cal.App.4th 394, 408 [186 Cal.Rptr.3d 625].)

- "To successfully challenge a foreclosure sale based on a procedural irregularity, the plaintiff must show both that there was a failure to comply with the procedural requirements for the foreclosure sale and that the irregularity prejudiced the plaintiff." (Citrus El Dorado, LLC v. Chicago Title Co. (2019) 32 Cal.App.5th 943, 950 [244 Cal.Rptr.3d 372].)

- "[M]ere technical violations of the foreclosure process will not give rise to a tort claim; the foreclosure must have been entirely unauthorized on the facts of the case. This is a sound addition." (Miles, supra, 236 Cal.App.4th at p. 409.)

- " '[O]nly the entity currently entitled to enforce a debt may foreclose on the mortgage or deed of trust securing that debt … .' 'It is no mere "procedural nicety," from a contractual point of view, to insist that only those with authority to foreclose on a borrower be permitted to do so.' " (Sciarratta v. U.S. Bank National Assn. (2016) 247 Cal.App.4th 552, 562 [202 Cal.Rptr.3d 219], internal citation omitted.)

- "[W]here a mortgagee or trustee makes an unauthorized sale under a power of sale he and his principal are liable to the mortgagor for the value of the property at the time of the sale in excess of the mortgages and liens against said property." (Miles, supra, 236 Cal.App.4th at p. 409.)

- "[L]ost equity in the property … is a recoverable item of damages. It is not, however, the only recoverable item of damages. Wrongfully foreclosing on someone's home is likely to cause other sorts of damages, such as moving expenses, lost rental income (which plaintiff claims here), and damage to credit. It may also result in emotional distress (which plaintiff also claims here). As is the case in a wrongful eviction cause of action, ' "The recovery includes all consequential damages occasioned by the wrongful eviction (personal injury, including infliction of emotional distress, and property damage) … and, upon a proper showing … , punitive damages." ' " (Miles, supra, 236 Cal.App.4th at p. 409.)

- "Civil Code section 2924c thus limits the beneficiary's contractual power of sale by giving the trustor a right to cure a default and reinstate the loan within the stated time, even if the beneficiary does not voluntarily agree. ' "The law does not require plaintiff to tender the purchase price to a trustee who has no right to sell the property at all." ' To adequately plead a cause of action for wrongful foreclosure, all plaintiffs had to allege was that they met their statutory obligation by timely tendering the amount required by Civil Code section 2924c to stop the foreclosure sale, but [defendant] refused that tender and thus allowed the foreclosure sale to go forward when [defendant] should have accepted their tender and canceled the sale. Plaintiffs did so. If [defendant] had accepted the tender, which [defendant's employee] stated was sufficient to cure the default, a rescission of the foreclosure sale and reinstatement of the loan was mandatory, and the subsequent sale was without legal basis and void. (Turner, supra, 27 Cal.App.5th at pp. 530–531, original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- " '[A] tender is an offer of performance ....' Subdivision (a)(1) of Civil Code section 2924c provides in pertinent part that '[w]henever all or a portion of the principal sum of any obligation secured by deed of trust ... has ... been declared due by reason of default in payment of interest or of any installment of principal ..., the trustor ... may pay to the beneficiary ... the entire amount due, at the time payment is tendered ... other than the portion of principal as would not then be due had no default occurred, and thereby cure the default theretofore existing, and thereupon, all proceedings theretofore had or instituted shall be dismissed or discontinued and the obligation and deed of trust ... shall be reinstated and shall be and remain in force and effect ....' Here, for purposes of Civil Code section 2924c, [plaintiff] effectively tendered payment of the amount then due when he told [an agent of defendant] that he would like to pay off the entire amount of the default. Actual submission of a payment was not required." (Turner, supra, (2018) 27 Cal.App.5th pp. 531–532.)

- "A tender is an unconditional offer to perform an order to extinguish an obligation." (Crossroads Investors, L.P. v. Federal National Mortgage Association (2017) 13 Cal.App.5th 757, 783 [222 Cal.Rptr.3d 1, 24].)

- "The third element--tender--requires the trustor to make 'an offer to pay the full amount of the debt for which the property was security.' " (Ram v. OneWest Bank, FSB (2015) 234 Cal.App.4th 1, 11 [183 Cal.Rptr.3d 638, 644].)

- " 'A full tender must be made to set aside a foreclosure sale, based on equitable principles.' Courts, however, have not required tender when the lender has not yet foreclosed and has allegedly violated laws related to avoiding the necessity for a foreclosure." (Pfeifer v. Countrywide Home Loans, Inc. (2012) 211 Cal.App.4th 1250, 1280 [150 Cal.Rptr.3d 673], original italics.)

- "Pfeifer[, supra, 211 Cal.App.4th 1250] and the other tender cases are inapplicable here because [plaintiff] has not sued to set aside or prevent a foreclosure sale. In the sixth cause of action, he sought to quiet title to the property, which he cannot do without paying the outstanding indebtedness." (Lueras v. BAC Home Loans Servicing, LP (2013) 221 Cal.App.4th 49, 87 [163 Cal.Rptr.3d 804, 836].)

- "Here, neither the deed of trust nor the governing statutes expressly create a duty on the part of [defendant] to verify that the beneficiary received a valid assignment of the loan or to verify the authority of the person who signed the substitution of trustee. [Plaintiff] has not cited, and we have not discovered, any authority holding a trustee liable for wrongful foreclosure or any other cause of action based on similar purported failures to investigate. To the contrary, the trustee generally 'has no duty to take any action except on the express instructions of the parties or as expressly provided in the deed of trust and the applicable statutes.' " (Citrus El Dorado, LLC, supra, 32 Cal.App.5th at pp. 948–949.)

Secondary Sources

4921. Wrongful Foreclosure—Tender Excused

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was not required to tender all amounts that were due under loan secured by the [mortgage/deed of trust]. Tender is excused if [insert one or more of the following]:

a. The underlying debt was not valid because [*specify reason(s)];

b. [*Name of plaintiff] has a claim for money against [name of defendant] and the claim, if valid, would completely offset the amount due on the loan secured by the [mortgage/deed of trust];

c. It would be unfair to require tender of [*name of plaintiff] because [specify reason(s)];

d. The trust deed is void on its face because [*specify reason(s)];

e. The loan was illegal or made in violation of [the loan agreement/an agreement to modify the loan] because [*specify reason(s)]; or

f. [*Name of plaintiff] was not in default and there is no basis for a foreclosure.

New May 2020

Directions for Use

Give this instruction if the plaintiff alleges that tender is excused in element 3 of CACI No. 4920, Wrongful Foreclosure—Essential Factual Elements.

Sources and Authority

- "Courts have applied equitable exceptions to the tender rule, such as: '(1) where the borrower's action attacks the validity of the underlying debt, tender is not required since it would constitute affirmation of the debt; (2) when the person who seeks to set aside the trustee's sale has a counter-claim or set-off against the beneficiary, the tender and the counter-claim offset each other and if the offset is greater than or equal to the amount due, tender is not required; (3) a tender may not be required if it would be 'inequitable' to impose such a condition on the party challenging the sale; … (4) tender is not required where the trustor's attack is based not on principles of equity but on the basis that the trustee's deed is void on its face (such as where the original trustee had been substituted out before the sale occurred)[;] [(5)] when the loan was made in violation of substantive law, or in breach of the loan agreement or an agreement to modify the loan[;] [and (6)] when the borrower is not in default and there is no basis for the foreclosure … .' " (Turner v. Seterus, Inc. (2018) 27 Cal.App.5th 516, 525–526 [238 Cal.Rptr.3d 528].)

- "Because [plaintiff] alleges a void as distinguished from a voidable assignment, she is excused from having to allege tender as an element of her wrongful foreclosure cause of action." (Sciarratta v. U.S.

Bank National Association (2016) 247 Cal.App.4th 552, 565, fn. 10 [202 Cal.Rptr.3d 219].)

Secondary Sources

Guide for Using Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions

USER GUIDE

USER GUIDE

Ease of understanding by jurors, without sacrificing accuracy, is the primary goal of these Judicial Council instructions. A secondary goal is ease of use by lawyers. This guide provides an introduction to the instructions, explaining conventions and features that will assist in the use of both the print and electronic editions.

Jury Instructions as a Statement of the Law: While jury instructions are not a primary source of the law, they are a statement or compendium of the law, a secondary source. That the instructions are in plain English does not change their status as an accurate statement of the law.

Instructions Approved by Rule of Court: Rule 2.1050 of the California Rules of Court provides: "The California jury instructions approved by the Judicial Council are the official instructions for use in the state of California … The Judicial Council endorses these instructions for use and makes every effort to ensure that they accurately state existing law … Use of the Judicial Council instructions is strongly encouraged."

Absence of Instruction: The fact that there is no CACI instruction on a claim, defense, rule, or other situation does not indicate that no instruction would ever be appropriate.

Using the Instructions

Revision Dates: The original date of approval and all revision dates of each instruction are presented. An instruction is considered as having been revised if there is a nontechnical change to the title, instruction text, or Directions for Use. Additions or changes to the Sources and Authority and Secondary Sources do not generate a new revision date.

Directions for Use: The instructions contain Directions for Use. The directions alert the user to special circumstances involving the instruction and may include references to other instructions that should or should not be used. In some cases the directions include suggestions for modifications or for additional instructions that may be required. Before using any instruction, reference should be made to the Directions for Use.

Sources and Authority: Each instruction sets forth the primary sources that present the basic legal principles that support the instruction. Applicable statutes are listed along with quoted material from cases that pertain to the subject matter of the instruction. Authorities are included to support the text of the instruction, the burden of proof, and matters of law and of fact.

Cases included in the Sources and Authority should be treated as a digest of relevant citations. They are not meant to provide a complete analysis of the legal subject of the instruction. Nor does the inclusion of an excerpt necessarily mean that the committee views it as binding authority. Rather, they provide a starting point for further legal research on the subject. The standard is that the committee believes that the excerpt would be of interest and relevant to CACI users.

Secondary Sources are also provided for treatises and practice guides from a variety of legal publishers.

Instructions for the Common Case: These instructions were drafted for the common type of case and can be used as drafted in most cases. When unique or complex circumstances prevail, users will have to adapt the instructions to the particular case.

Multiple Parties: Because jurors more easily understand instructions that refer to parties by name rather than by legal terms such as "plaintiff" and "defendant," the instructions provide for insertion of names. For simplicity of presentation, the instructions use single party plaintiffs and defendants as examples. If a case involves multiple parties or cross-complaints, the user will usually need to modify the parties in the instructions. Rather than naming a number of parties in each place calling for names, the user may consider putting the names of all applicable parties in the beginning and thereafter identifying them as "plaintiffs," "defendants," "cross-complaints," etc. Different instructions often apply to different parties. The user should only include the parties to whom each instruction applies.

Personal Pronouns: Many CACI instructions include an option to insert the personal pronouns "he/she/nonbinary pronoun," "his/her/nonbinary pronoun," or "him/her/nonbinary pronoun." ~~The committee does not intend these options to be limiting.~~ It is the policy of the State of California that intersex, transgender, and nonbinary people are entitled to full legal recognition and equal treatment under the law. In accordance with this policy, attorneys and courts should take affirmative steps to ensure that they are using ~~litigants'~~ individuals' ~~preferred~~ correct personal pronouns. Although the advisory committee acknowledges a trend for the use of "they," "their," and "them" as singular personal pronouns, the committee also recognizes these same pronouns have plural denotations with the potential to confuse jurors. For clarity in the jury instructions, the committee recommends using an individual's name rather than a personal nonbinary pronoun (such as "they") if the pronoun's use could result in confusion.

Reference to "Harm" in Place of "Damage" or "Injury": In many of the instructions, the word harm is used in place of damage, injury, or other similar words. The drafters of the instructions felt that this word was clearer to jurors.

Substantial Factor: The instructions frequently use the term "substantial factor" to state the element of causation, rather than referring to "cause" and then defining that term in a separate instruction as a "substantial factor." An instruction that defines "substantial factor" is located in the Negligence series. The use of the instruction is not intended to be limited to cases involving negligence.

Listing of Elements and Factors: For ease of understanding, elements of causes of action or affirmative defenses are listed by numbers (e.g., 1, 2, 3) and factors to be considered by jurors in their deliberations are listed by letters (e.g., a, b, c).

Uncontested Elements: Although some elements may be the subject of a stipulation that the element has been proven, the instruction should set forth all of the elements and indicate those that are deemed to have been proven by stipulation of the parties. Omitting uncontested elements may leave the jury with an incomplete understanding of the cause of action and the plaintiff's full burden of proof. It is better to include all the elements and then indicate the parties have agreed that one or more of them has been established and need not be decided by the jury. One possible approach is as follows:

To establish this claim, [plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [plaintiff] and [defendant] entered into a contract (which is not disputed in this case);

2. That [plaintiff] did all, or substantially all, of the significant things that the contract required it to do;

3. That all conditions required for [defendant]'s performance had occurred (which is also not disputed in this case).

Irrelevant Factors: Factors are matters that the jury might consider in determining whether a party's burden of proof on the elements has been met. A list of possible factors may include some that have no relevance to the case and on which no evidence was presented. These irrelevant factors may safely be omitted from the instruction.

Burdens of Proof: The applicable burden of proof is included within each instruction explaining a cause of action or affirmative defense. The drafters felt that placing the burden of proof in that position provided a clearer explanation for the jurors.

Affirmative Defenses: For ease of understanding by users, all instructions explaining affirmative defenses use the term "affirmative defense" in the title.

Titles and Definitions

Titles of Instructions: Titles to instructions are directed to lawyers and sometimes use words and phrases not used in the instructions themselves. Since the title is not a part of the instruction, the titles may be removed before presentation to the jury.

Definitions of Legal Terms: The instructions avoid separate definitions of legal terms whenever possible. Instead, definitions have been incorporated into the language of the instructions. In some instances (e.g., specific statutory definitions) it was not possible to avoid providing a separate definition.

Evidence

Circumstantial Evidence: The words "indirect evidence" have been substituted for the expression "circumstantial evidence." In response to public comment on the subject, however, the drafters added a sentence indicating that indirect evidence is sometimes known as circumstantial evidence.

Preponderance of the Evidence: To simplify the instructions' language, the drafters avoided the phrase preponderance of the evidence and the verb preponderate. The instructions substitute in place of that phrase reference to evidence that is "more likely to be true than not true."

Using Verdict Forms

Verdict Forms are Models: A large selection of special verdict forms accompanies the instructions. Users of the forms must bear in mind that these are models only. Rarely can they be used without modifications to fit the circumstances of a particular case.

Purpose of Verdict Forms: The special verdict forms generally track the elements of the applicable cause of action. Their purpose is to obtain the jury's finding on the elements defined in the instructions. "The special verdict must present the conclusions of fact as established by the evidence, and not the evidence to prove them; and those conclusions of fact must be so presented as that nothing shall remain to the court but to draw from them conclusions of law." (Code Civ. Proc., § 624; see Trujillo v. North County Transit Dist. (1998) 63 Cal.App.4th 280, 285 [73 Cal.Rptr.2d 596].) Modifications made to the instructions in particular cases ordinarily will require corresponding modifications to the special verdict form.

Multiple Parties: The verdict forms have been written to address one plaintiff against one defendant. In nearly all cases involving multiple parties, the issues and the evidence will be such that the jury could reach different results for different parties. The liability of each defendant should always be evaluated individually, and the damages to be awarded to each plaintiff must usually be determined separately. Therefore, separate special verdicts should usually be prepared for each plaintiff with regard to each defendant. In some cases, the facts may be sufficiently simple to include multiple parties in the same verdict form, but if this is done, the transitional language from one question to another must be modified to account for all the different possibilities of yes and no answers for the various parties.

Multiple Causes of Action: The verdict forms are self-contained for a particular cause of action. When multiple causes of action are being submitted to the jury, it may be better to combine the verdict forms and eliminate duplication.

Modifications as Required by Circumstances: The verdict forms must be modified as required by the circumstances. It is necessary to determine whether any lesser or greater specificity is appropriate. The question in special verdict forms for plaintiff's damages provides an illustration. Consistent with the jury instructions, the question asks the jury to determine separately the amounts of past and future economic loss, and of past and future noneconomic loss. These four choices are included in brackets. In some cases it may be unnecessary to distinguish between past and future losses. In others there may be no claim for either economic or noneconomic damages. In some cases the court may wish to eliminate the terms "economic loss" and "noneconomic loss" from both the instructions and the verdict form. Without defining those terms, the court may prefer simply to ask the jury to determine the appropriate amounts for the various components of the losses without categorizing them for the jury as economic or noneconomic. The court can fix liability as joint or several under Civil Code sections 1431 and 1431.2, based on the verdicts. A more itemized breakdown of damages may be appropriate if the court is concerned about the sufficiency of the evidence supporting a particular component of damages. Appropriate special verdicts are preferred when periodic payment schedules may be required by Code of Civil Procedure section 667.7. (Gorman v. Leftwich (1990) 218 Cal.App.3d 141, 148–150 [266 Cal. Rptr. 671].)

May ~~2019~~2020

Hon. Martin J. Tangeman
Chair, Judicial Council Advisory Committee on Civil Jury Instructions

ITC CACI20-01
Civil Jury Instructions - CACI
All comments are paraphrased unless indicated by quotation marks.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
N/A	Joshua Ingram, Rancho Cordova	[Comment received from private citizen that was unrelated to civil jury instructions.]	No response required.
113. Bias	SacLEGAL by Lexi P. Howard, Sacramento	"We agree with the addition of 'gender identity' and 'gender expression' throughout."	No response required.
		"We agree with the changes in places that revise 'him or her' or 'he or she' to either 'their' or 'the homeowner's' or another noun that describes the person. (See also changes to Jury Instructions 1305, 2540, 3053, and 4575)"	Nonsubstantive changes like these are being made throughout CACI.
118. Personal Pronouns	Association of Southern California Defense Counsel by Lisa Perrochet, Burbank	New CACI 118 offers a useful template for counsel and courts to use when addressing questions that may arise concerning pronoun usage. We offer one suggestion, however, which would help trial lawyers—like those who are ASCDC's members—when customizing jury instructions. Instead of instructions and verdict forms that refer to "[him/her/nonbinary pronoun/it]," or "[he/she/nonbinary pronoun]," or "[his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its]," they could instead refer simply to "[pronoun]." The proposed Directions for Use accompanying CACI 118 explains that, throughout CACI, the "instructions have been expanded to include "nonbinary pronoun" to indicate that personal pronoun choices may be made. The suggestion to use party names where to do so would foster clarity is a good one, but the proposal to expand the already cumbersome bracketed selections does not similarly foster clarity. If anything, it makes it somewhat more difficult as a practical matter for those who wish to "search and replace" to substitute the appropriate pronoun. Using "[pronoun]" instead should not cause any confusion, and will streamline the CACI text in a way that makes it easier to read and modify. Moreover, the proposed change would have the salutary effect of avoiding the placement throughout of 'he' before "she" in each option, which is a default convention that some might say is not supported by the rationale underlying the proposed revisions. Although it seems highly unlikely that users would have difficulty selecting the	The committee notes the commenter's support for the substance of instruction 118. With respect to the commenter's suggestion to offer only [pronoun] without any further information, the committee concluded that this option would not assist users in making the appropriate personal pronoun selections, and that eliminating personal pronoun brackets may affect the way pronouns are generated in automated software. The committee appreciates the commenter's concern about the work required to find and replace pronouns in each instruction and verdict form, but the committee is not persuaded that the proposed alternatives would improve the situation. The committee also acknowledges that the sequence of personal pronouns may be anachronistic. However, given the overwhelming support for the change, the committee favors an incremental change to the commenter's alternative.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
		grammatically correct pronoun without prompts, any concerns the Committee might have on that score could be remedied by inserting "[subjective pronoun]," "[objective pronoun]" and "[possessive pronoun]." Also, if the Committee wishes to capture the idea of using party names as an alternative, it could substitute "[pronoun/name]" throughout. The Association does not recommend these alternatives, because "[pronoun]" alone should suffice. But the alternatives would be preferable to the proposal that is out for comment—and indeed would be preferable to the formulations as they appear in CACI as currently framed.	Adding nonbinary pronoun in each bracket is a uniform change throughout CACI's two volumes, which are comprised of over 1,000 instructions. And the committee recognizes that not all CACI users are sophisticated grammarians, so simplifying all brackets to [pronoun] would leave too much room for error.
	Bruce Greenlee	"Excellent"	No response required.
	Legal Aid Association of California (LAAC) by Salena Copeland, Executive Director, Oakland	By recognizing the pronouns of non-binary, transgender, and gender nonconforming people in the court system, the Judicial Council is both abiding by California law (Gender Recognition Act of 2019) and making the choice to ensure equitable access and the removal of discriminatory barriers for all. Our one suggestion is to remove the term "preferred" before "personal pronouns" in accordance with the now-common practice to recognize pronouns as not just a "preference." California here takes an important affirmative step to ensure that attorneys and courts are using the appropriate pronouns. Thank you again for this opportunity to comment, and your efforts to ensure the California court system is an inclusive, accessible place for all.	The committee acknowledges LAAC's support for these changes. See response to SacLEGAL's comment, below, with respect to use of the word preferred.
	SacLEGAL by Lexi P. Howard, Sacramento	"It is not clear to us what problem this suggested revision would resolve, where this would result in the court highlighting for the jury that someone involved in the case has a particular gender, gender identity, or gender expression. If 'they' is the personal pronoun used by the person, we agree that 'they' should be used unless it is confusing, in which case the person's name should be used. While we appreciate the intent of the instruction, given the possibility of confusion, and the disparate treatment that may result depending on a variety of factors, including the geographic area or jury composition, we respectfully suggest	The committee appreciates the concerns raised by the commenter, and has made revisions as suggested to the instruction. The instruction will no longer highlight a person's gender or gender identity. The Directions for Use will advise courts that they should consult with the individual(s) if possible.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
		that such an instruction should be given only in very limited circumstances, where there is a valid reason that can be clearly elucidated that it necessary to raise gender with the jury. The mere fact that an individual is nonbinary, nonconforming, etc. should not generally suffice to require the instruction to be given. We suggest that the Directions to the instruction more clearly indicate to the court the limited circumstances when the instruction should be given. As the California Legislature stated in passing the Gender Recognition Act, 'gender identification is fundamentally personal.' For that reason, we also suggest that, where possible, the court should consult with not only the attorneys in the case but also with the individual(s) whose pronouns are being discussed to ensure the court acts in a way that protects the individual's dignity and privacy. Further to this, we recommend the following changes, which we think would accomplish the goal without drawing undue attention to identifying the details of the person's gender/gender identity/gender expression. Recommended additions are underscored, deletions are in strikethrough: One of the [parties/witnesses/attorneys /specify other participant in the case] in this case uses the personal pronouns of [specify the person's pronouns*] ~~identifies as [gender nonbinary/gender nonconforming/gender fluid]~~. You may hear the judge and attorneys refer to [name of person] using the pronouns [specify the person's ~~preferred~~ pronouns]."

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
		"With regard to the use of the term 'preferred personal pronouns' or 'preferred pronouns', we agree that the use of a person's personal pronouns is very important. However, we are concerned that as used here, the word 'preferred' could result in a misunderstanding about the use of the person's pronouns as something that that person would 'prefer', or even that using the correct personal pronoun is optional. For this reason, we recommend that where the word 'preferred' is used, it be stricken, and replaced with only 'personal pronouns' or 'pronouns'. For similar reasons, where an instruction refers to an individual's gender identity, we suggest any instruction or comment state, for example, that the individual 'is gender nonbinary,' rather than 'identifies as gender nonbinary.' "	The committee has revised the instruction to eliminate use of the word preferred and the concept of gender identity.
118. Personal Pronouns and User Guide	Legal Aid Association of California (LAAC) by Salena Copeland, Executive Director, Oakland	Ensuring an inclusive and accessible civil justice system comes down to the fine procedural details, including civil jury instructions. We would like to commend the Judicial Council for additions and modifications to the civil jury instructions regarding personal pronouns. Specifically, we write in support of the changes to the "Personal Pronouns" section of the "User Guide" to the instructions as well as the addition of section 118, regarding "Personal Pronouns."	The committee acknowledges LAAC's support for these changes.
420. Negligence per se: Rebuttal of the Presumption of Negligence—Violation Excused	American Property Casualty Insurers Association by Denneile Ritter Assistant Vice President, Sacramento	A proposed revision to the Sources and Authority section of this jury instruction is a detailed reference to the Restatement Second of Torts. We respectfully submit that this reference should be moved from Sources and Authority to the Secondary Sources section as a restatement is neither case law nor statute.	CACI treats Restatements as authoritative (as do most courts) and includes them in its Sources and Authority. (See, e.g., CACI Nos. 307, 401, 908, 4408.)
	Association of Southern California	We offer conditional support for the Advisory Committee's proposed revision to CACI 420, 'Negligence per se: Rebuttal of the Presumption of Negligence—Violation Excused.'	The committee notes the commenter's conditional support. See responses

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
	Defense Counsel (ASCDC) by Mark A. Kressel, Horvitz & Levy LLP, Burbank		below to ASCDC's substantive comments.
		The current version of CACI 420 refers to these lettered bases as 'subparagraphs,' but the proposed revision aptly refers to them as 'factors.' The revision further clarifies that it is the party who claims the violation was excused who bears the burden to prove the elements of that defense This is a salutary revision because it guides the parties and the jury on who bears the burden of proof. The current version of CACI 420 lacks that guidance	No response required.
		"The proposed revision also removes the word 'or' from all but the second-to-last factor. Although the current version's use of "or" after every one of the factors reminds jurors that the party need prove only one of the factors to prove that the violation of the law is excused, the proposed revision is more consistent with proper grammatical convention and the structure of many other CACI instructions. Counsel may highlight for the jury the disjunctive nature of the applicable factors during closing argument."	For clarity, the committee has restored the "or" after each factor.
		ASCDC's concern lies with the discussion in the Sources and Authorities regarding factor (b), which provides that a violation of a law is excused if, "[d]espite using reasonable care, [name of plaintiff/name of defendant] was not able to obey the law." Revisions to the proposed fourth bulleted summary of authority along these lines would provide helpful clarification: • Where a party invokes the excuse set forth in factor (b), "[a]An excuse instruction is improper unless special circumstances exist." (Baker-Smith, supra, 37 Cal.App.5th at p. 345.) Our reasoning is as follows. Of the five factors, factor (b) is unique in that it invokes the concept of reasonable care. Under factor (b), once the party who invokes the negligence per se doctrine against an opponent has demonstrated a violation of law, the opponent charged with the presumption of negligence now has the burden to prove it did use reasonable care but was	Although the suggested language may be helpful to understanding the Baker-Smith court's statement concerning factor (b), the format for Sources and Authority are direct quotes. Adding an editorial clarification would not follow that format.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
		nevertheless "not able to obey the law." For this reason, as explained in Baker-Smith v. Skolnick (2019) 37 Cal.App.5th 340, 347, and Casey v. Russell (1982) 138 Cal.App.3d 379, 385, factor (b) should be used only in special cases where there is evidence from which a jury could find that the party requesting the instruction actually attempted to obey the law or use due care. Without the changes suggested here, some courts may be misled to believe that evidence of "special circumstances" (Baker-Smith, supra, 37 Cal.App.5th at p. 345) or "unusual circumstances" (Casey, supra, 138 Cal.App.3d at p. 384) must exist to give this instruction under any circumstances, regardless of which factors are applicable to a particular case. The requirement of special or unusual circumstances discussed in Baker-Smith and Casey was addressed to only factor (b), and does not apply to the other factors. In other words, if a party intends to argue that a violation of law was excused because of the party's capacity (factor (a)), because the party faced an emergency not caused by its own misconduct (factor (c)), or because obeying the law would have involved a greater risk of harm to that party or to others (factor (d)), the instruction is appropriate even if there is no evidence of other "special" or "unusual" circumstances. The proposed further revisions to the Sources & Authorities outlined here would make that clear. [footnote omitted]" The Committee's proposed revisions to Sources and Authority include commentary from Baker-Smith and Casey regarding the burden of proving "special" or "unusual" circumstances without clarifying that this burden applies only with respect to factor (b). The fourth bulleted summary of authority misleadingly states, "An excuse instruction is improper unless special circumstances exist," citing Baker-Smith, supra, 37 Cal.App.5th at p. 345. ASCDC generally supports the Committee's proposed revision to CACI 420 but requests that the Committee revise the proposed new fourth bulleted summary of authority as just discussed to avoid confusion."

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
		The committee's proposed revision omits the "37" for the volume number of the official reporter.	The committee has corrected the citation to include the volume number.
	California Lawyers Association, Litigation Section, Jury Instructions Committee by Reuben A. Ginsberg, Chair, Sacramento	We believe stating "or" after each item in the series is helpful and does not detract from this instruction. It makes it clear to the jury that the list is disjunctive without having to refer back to the introductory sentence or forward to the penultimate item.	For clarity, the committee has restored the "or" after each factor.
		We believe the term "factors" should be reserved for matters for the jury to consider in making a finding, as stated on page 2 of the User Guide. In the Directions for Use, we would refer to (a) through (e) as items, not factors.	The items listed in CACI No. 420 are factors for the jury to consider in determining an excuse. The committee does not view the use here as inconsistent with the User Guide, and does not see a meaningful improvement in identifying them as items, instead of factors, in the Directions for Use.
	Civil Justice Association of California by Jaime Huff, Vice President and Counsel, Public Policy, Sacramento	"The proposed revisions delete 'or' after three rebuttable presumptions of negligence. CJAC recommends restoring each 'or' to emphasize to the jury that the defendant need only prove one of the five excuses." The additional punctuation and second set of brackets proposed to be added around the fourth "[or]" is confusing and should be removed. When listening to the jury instructions, keeping the "or" after each line makes it clear to jurors that each excuse stands on its own, and if proven, is sufficient to rebut the presumption. Each excuse presents a very different legal theory, so the "or" provides a needed break between each.	For clarity, the committee has restored the "or" after each factor.
	Bruce Greenlee	Revise first sentence of the DforU to read: "The party claiming an excuse for a violation of the law has the burden to prove the excuse."	As proposed, the Directions for Use note the shifting burden of proof. The commenter's suggested language addresses only the burden for establishing an excuse. While the suggestion clearly supports CACI No. 420, the committee favors noting both parties' burdens in the Directions for Use.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
		I'm having trouble coming up with any scenario when the plaintiff would be the one asserting excuse. If it's because it could be on comparative fault, I don't think that CACI usually makes this distinction. I would just include [name of defendant]. And then note as above in the DforU that it's "the party claiming."	The committee chose to place the party name options in brackets because, for example, a defendant might assert a cross-claim for negligence per se.
		Baker-Smith notes that CACI No. 418 also does not include a burden of proof. While I don't think that either instruction is terribly deficient without a burden of proof, as both are obvious, if you are going to add it to 420, why not add "[name of plaintiff] must prove" to 418.	This comment concerning CACI No. 418 is beyond the scope of the invitation to comment. The committee will consider this suggestion in a future release cycle.
440. Unreasonable Force by Law Enforcement Officer in Arrest or Other Seizure—Essential Factual Elements	Bruce Greenlee	"I would revise the sentence in the DforU to read: 'For cases involving the use of deadly force, Penal Code section 835a requires a different instruction.' "	Penal Code section 835a applies only to peace officers. (See Pen. Code, §§ 830–831.7.) The Directions for Use, as proposed, states that limitation. CACI No. 440 addresses the use of force by law enforcement officers who may or may not qualify as peace officers under the Penal Code.
		Is such an instruction under consideration for a future release? If not, I suggest that it should be. I don't think that the statutory change from 'reasonable' to 'necessary' can be accomplished by a modification of 440. Suggest 440A and a new 440B.	The committee will continue to monitor developments in this area and will consider revisions and/or new instructions in future release cycles.
	Tony M. Sain, Esq., Partner Manning & Kass, Ellrod, Ramirez, Trester, LLP, Los Angeles	"The proposed 2020 revisions are a step in the right direction. However, some additional revisions are needed to make the instruction consistent with prevailing law."	See responses to each substantive comment, below.
		Add to factor (d): "In evaluating the reasonableness of the [name of defendant officer's] use of force, you may only consider the tactical conduct and decisions that the defendant law enforcement officer(s) made before using force on [name of plaintiff] if you find that the pre-force tactical conduct or pre-force tactical decisions by the defendant law enforcement officer(s) unreasonably provoked or caused [name of plaintiff]	This comment is beyond the scope of the invitation to comment. The committee will consider this suggestion in a future release cycle.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
		to take a specific action that, in turn, the defendant law enforcement officer(s) asserts was one of the reasons the defendant law enforcement officer(s) subsequently used force on [name of plaintiff].]" [Legal authority omitted.]
		Add "only" to last paragraph of the Directions for Use: "Give optional factor (d) only if…"	This comment is beyond the scope of the invitation to comment. The committee will consider this suggestion in a future release cycle.
		Do not delete the case excerpt from Hayes from the Sources and Authority; this guiding instruction for use is still legally applicable and helpful.	The committee has retained citations to Hayes in the Directions for Use and in the Sources and Authority. Contrary to the commenter's suggestion, however, the committee has elected to delete the final quote from Hayes in the Sources and Authority, not because Hayes is no longer applicable, but because the relevance of this excerpt to the instruction is unclear considering recent amendments to Penal Code, § 835a.
		Add to the Sources and Authority: "[A] court should not consider this [pre-shooting conduct] in isolation: it must not "divide plaintiff's cause of action artificially into a series of decisional moments." [citing Hayes at pp. 632, 637-638] This would wrongly allow a plaintiff "to litigate each decision in isolation, when each is part of a continuum of circumstances surrounding a single use of deadly force." [ibid.] Therefore, [for a preshooting tactical negligence claim] when the preshooting conduct did not independently injure the plaintiff, a court should consider the preshooting conduct only to determine whether deadly force was reasonable…. Here, the officers' preshooting conduct and use of deadly force were both objectively reasonable under California negligence law. First, the officers' preshooting conduct was reasonable. The officers did not provoke Vos; they instead set up outside and waited for him….	The Sources and Authority are direct quotes from cases. This suggested addition is not a direct quote from Vos or any of the other cases identified.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
		Second, the officers' use of deadly force was objectively reasonable because Vos threatened them with a deadly weapon. (Vos v. City of Newport Beach (9th Cir. 2018) 892 F.3d 1024, 1028-1034, 1037-1038 [other citations omitted].
	City and County of San Francisco, Office of the City Attorney by Margaret W. Baumgartner, Deputy City Attorney	"Instruction 440 does not accurately reflect the law regarding negligence liability for peace officers for four reasons: (1) it fails to accurately set forth the circumstances when the Legislature has granted law enforcement the privilege to use force; (2) it misapplies the holding in Hayes v. County of San Diego, 57 Cal.4th 622 (2013) to the use of non-deadly force; (3) it misstates an officer's privilege to use reasonable rather than just necessary force; and (4) it prevents a jury from understanding the role of comparative negligence."	See responses to each substantive comment by the Office of the City Attorney, below.
		Instruction 440 should include other circumstances when an officer may use force. Instruction 440's introductory paragraph lists only one of the three circumstances in which the Legislature has granted officers the privilege to use force: to effectuate an arrest or detention. California Penal Code § 835a also grants an officer the authority to use force to overcome resistance or to prevent escape. Although Instruction 440 includes resistance and attempts to escape as factors to consider as part of the reasonableness analysis, the instruction does not state that, as a matter of law, an officer has the right to use reasonable force in those circumstances. Instruction 440 should add those circumstances under which an officer has the legislative authority to use force.	This comment is beyond the scope of the invitation to comment. The committee will consider this suggestion in a future release cycle.
		The Instruction should inform a jury that an officer has no duty to retreat, and should limit reference to pre-force tactical conduct to cases involving the use of deadly force. Instruction 440 compounds the potential for a jury to misunderstand an officer's liability for negligence by: (1) including pre-force tactical conduct as a factor for the jury to consider in all cases, not just deadly force cases; and (2) failing to include Section 835a's statement that an officer has no duty to retreat in the face of threatened or actual resistance. Particularly when read	This comment is beyond the scope of the invitation to comment. The committee will consider these suggestions in future release cycles. The committee notes that factor (d), however, encapsulates the Supreme Court's decision in Hayes, and is an optional bracketed factor; the Directions for Use note this.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
		together, this combination of errors creates a high likelihood that a jury will find liability when it does not exist. First, in Hayes v. County of San Diego, 57 Cal.4th 622 (2013), the California Supreme Court answered only the question of whether pre-force tactical conduct should be considered in deadly force cases. The Supreme Court held that it did. No court has yet applied Hayes to a non-deadly force case alleging negligence. See Mulligan v. Nicols, 835 F.3d 983 n.7 (9th Cir. 2016) (noting that Hayes is limited to use of deadly force). Hayes, on its own terms, applies only to deadly force cases. Yet Instruction 440 specifically applies Hayes to non-deadly force cases. This is also inconsistent with the amendments to Penal Code Section 835a, which create different standards for deadly and non-deadly force. Accordingly, the Committee should revise the instruction to include the words "deadly force" in the instruction. Second, instructing a jury to consider pre-force tactical conduct, without instructing the jury that an officer does not have a duty to retreat, misstates an officer's duty of care. A private citizen may be held liable for continuing to act in a manner that causes foreseeable harm. See Cabral v. Ralphs Grocery Co., 51 Cal.4th 764, 771 (2011) (discussing foreseeability of harm as an element in deciding whether a defendant has a duty of care). But an officer does not have a duty to retreat. Penal Code § 835a. Because an officer has no duty to retreat, an officer may lawfully make tactical decisions that foreseeably will result in using force. Instruction 440 fails to state this fact. By focusing the jury on pre-force tactical conduct as a factor in determining reasonableness, the instruction invites a jury to decide that an officer's "tactical decision" to engage the suspect rather than retreat could be negligent. That is not the law. This concern is not trivial. Negligence claims based on an officer's use of force almost always involve claims that a suspect resisted or tried to escape and that the officer knew his decision to take action would create the need to use force. Instructing the jury to consider pre-force tactical decisions as an element of the analysis, while failing to instruct that an officer lacks a duty to retreat, fails to accurately state the limitations on an officer's duty to avoid foreseeable harm. The instruction should inform the jury that an officer has no duty to retreat, and that an officer cannot be held liable just based on the officer's tactical decision not to retreat.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
		The Instruction should state that an officer may use objectively reasonable force, not just necessary force. Instruction 440 misstates the standard for assessing an officer's negligence liability for using force. It states that an officer may use only "necessary" force instead of objectively reasonable force as set forth in Section 835a. Specifically, Instruction 440 states that an officer "may use that degree of force necessary to accomplish the [arrest/detention]" (emphasis added). But the requirement that an office use only "necessary" force, rather than objectively reasonable force, applies to an officer's use of deadly force only. Section 835a(b) sets forth the general standard for use of force: "any peace officer who has reasonable cause to believe that the person to be arrested has committed a public offense may use objectively reasonable force to effect the arrest, to prevent escape, or to overcome resistance." (Emphasis added.) As amended in 2019, Section 835a now creates an exception to the general standard of objectively reasonable force for use of deadly force only, stating that "notwithstanding subdivision (b), a peace officer is justified in using deadly force only when the officer reasonably believes that such force is necessary" to accomplish certain goals. (Emphasis added.) Moreover, the Legislature stated its intent that "peace officers use deadly force only when necessary in defense of human life." (Emphasis added.) Section 835a thus sets different standards for use of deadly and non-deadly force. The instruction should maintain the different standards set by the Legislature for use of deadly force and non-deadly force.	This comment is beyond the scope of the invitation to comment. The recent amendments to Penal Code section 835a principally concern the use of deadly force, which was added to the Directions for Use. The committee will continue to monitor developments in this area and will consider revisions and/or new instructions in future release cycles. With respect to the general standard for use of force, this instruction has existed since 2016, and has been based on section 835a. The committee will consider whether the Legislature's addition of the modifier objectively to section 835a(b)'s reasonable force provision warrants further revision in the next release cycle.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
		Amending Instruction 440 to instruct the jury to consider pre-force tactical conduct in its reasonableness analysis, yet requiring the jury to decide whether the force was "necessary," allows a jury to decide the officer should have avoided acting altogether. That is not the law. Instruction 440 should therefore reflect the Legislature's grant of authority to use objectively reasonable, not just necessary, force, except in deadly force situations.	This comment is beyond the scope of the invitation to comment. The committee will consider this suggestion in future release cycles.
		The Ninth Circuit's Model Instruction on Use of Force does not use the phrase "necessary force," rather, consistently with Penal Code § 835a, references objectively reasonable force.	The committee is not persuaded that it should look to the Ninth Circuit's model instructions, which do not cover excessive force under state negligence law.
		Instruction 440 should reference negligence. Instruction 440, except for the title, never references negligence or uses the phrase "due care." The lack of this touchstone legal concept in the instruction may cause jury confusion when a jury must also consider corollary negligence instructions, such as comparative fault or alternative causation instructions, both of which use the term "negligence." Absent parallel language, jurors may not understand that the instructions work together to address the same legal source of liability.	This comment is beyond the scope of the invitation to comment. The committee will consider this suggestion in a future release cycle.
1100. Dangerous Condition on Public Property—Essential Factual Elements (Gov. Code, § 835)	American Property Casualty Insurers Association by Denneile Ritter Assistant Vice President, Sacramento	"The revision to this jury instruction, dealing with claims of being harmed by the dangerous conditions on public property, exchanges the word "injury" for the word "incident" in its listing of elements for a successful claim, i.e. "That the property was in a dangerous condition at the time of the incident injury." Using the word "injury" here in the jury instruction unnecessarily (and to the defendant's disadvantage) presupposes that an injury in fact occurred. Keeping the word "incident" avoids that concern."	The statute uses the word "injury." Government Code, § 835. The jury instruction's terminology was changed from incident to injury to reflect the Legislature's word choice.
	California Lawyers Association,	"We agree with the proposed revisions. Although not encompassed in the proposed revisions, we note that the term 'dangerous condition' appears several times in this instruction.	Because the dangerous condition will not always be a jury issue, the Directions for Use cross-reference

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
	Litigation Section, Jury Instructions Committee by Reuben A. Ginsberg, Chair, Sacramento	That term is defined by statute. We believe CACI No. 1102, Definition of "Dangerous Condition,' should always be given with this instruction and would modify the Directions for Use accordingly: '~~See also~~ Give this instruction with CACI No. 1102, Definition of "Dangerous Condition,." ~~and~~ See also CACI No. 1103, Notice.' "	CACI No. 1102 without advising that that instruction must be given with CACI No. 1100.
1102. Definition of "Dangerous Condition" (Gov. Code, § 830(a))	California Lawyers Association, Litigation Section, Jury Instructions Committee, by Reuben A. Ginsberg, Chair, Sacramento	"The first sentence of the Directions for Use essentially repeats the first sentence of the instruction and does not seem helpful. We believe a more helpful direction would be to give this instruction with CACI No. 1100. Accordingly, we would delete the first sentence and replace it with the following: 'Give this instruction if CACI No. 1100, Dangerous Condition on Public Property—Essential Factual Elements, is given.' "	The Directions for Use note that there is this instruction for conditions on public property, and there is CACI No. 1125, for conditions on adjacent property. Because the dangerous condition will not always be a jury issue, the Directions for Use do not instruct to give this instruction if CACI No. 1100 is given.
	Bruce Greenlee	"Good addition to the DforU. BUT get rid of 'where' used as a conditional. First, it's legalese. Second, 'where' designates a place. It's particularly inappropriate here because the instruction involves a physical location (of the dangerous condition), but the use of 'where' has no reference to any location."	"When" has been substituted for "where."
VF-1100. Dangerous Condition of Pubic Property	Civil Justice Association of California by Jaime Huff, Vice President and Counsel, Public Policy, Sacramento	"The proposed revisions replace the word 'incident' with the word 'injury.' CJAC's recommendation is that no change be made to the existing wording. 'Incident' should be retained and 'injury' should be removed: 2. Was the property in a dangerous condition at the time of the incident ~~injury~~? ____ Yes ____ No If your answer to question 2 is yes, then answer question 3. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.	The statute uses the word "injury." Government Code, § 835. Like CACI No. 1100, the verdict form's terminology was changed to reflect the Legislature's word choice. That legislative choice is not one for the committee to try to improve on.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
		3. Did the dangerous condition create a reasonably foreseeable risk that this kind of incident ~~injury~~ would occur? ____ Yes ____ No Whether there was an injury or the extent of a claimed injury is often in dispute. Using the word "injury" presupposes that an injury in fact did occur and gives the plaintiff an unfair advantage. 'Incident' is a neutral term that is fair to both sides and should be restored."
VF-1201. Strict Products Liability—Design Defect—Affirmative Defense—Misuse or Modification	Orange County Bar Association by Scott B. Garner, President	There does not appear to be any case law to justify changing the language in element 6. Further, the instruction regarding how the trier of fact should act in response to answering questions 5 and 6 could be made more clear.	It was observed that the question in CACI No. VF-1201 flips the substantive instruction, see CACI No. 1204 ("the defendant has the burden to 'prove[] that the benefits of the [product's] design outweigh the risks of the design"). Question 6 asked if the risks of the product's design outweigh the benefits of the design. Because a 'no' answer could result in a vague verdict, the committee rephrased the question to correspond to the case law. (See, e.g., Sources and Authority for CACI No. 1204.) To the extent the transitional instruction is complex, the commenter has not suggested any improvement, and the committee has not conceived of a better formulation.
1305. Battery by Police Officer	California Lawyers Association, Litigation Section, Jury Instructions Committee by Reuben A.	We agree with the proposed revisions, but we suggest that a CACI instruction be drafted for cases involving use of deadly force because we believe the modifications needed may be extensive.	The committee will consider revisions and new instructions for cases involving use of deadly force in future release cycles.
		Although not encompassed in the proposed revisions, this instruction states the essential factual elements of the cause of action, so we believe the title should include the words "Essential Factual Elements."	The committee has added the suggested language to the title.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
	Ginsberg, Chair, Sacramento
	Bruce Greenlee	Same point as for 440.	The committee will consider revisions and new instructions for cases involving use of deadly force in future release cycles.
Right of Privacy series, instructions 1811–1814	Bruce Greenlee	"Suggest start numbering with 1830."	The suggestion has been considered and rejected.
1813. Definition of "Access" (Pen. Code, § 502(b)(1))	California Lawyers Association, Litigation Section, Jury Instructions Committee by Reuben A. Ginsberg, Chair, Sacramento	"We suggest the following changes for clarity and consistency with Penal Code section 502, subdivision (b)(1): 'The term "access" means ~~that [name of defendant] did something~~ to [[gain entry to], [instruct], [cause input to], [cause output from], [cause data processing with], [~~and/~~or] [communicate with]] the logical, arithmetical, or memory function resources of a computer, computer system, or computer network."	To improve clarity, the committee has made both suggested deletions.
	Bruce Greenlee	The various options in the first paragraph should be separated by front slashes (/) not each in brackets.	The brackets have been eliminated to more closely track the statute.
		The "[and/or]" needs clarification. If the user selects more than one option and puts "and," then both options must be present in order to constitute access. That's probably not what the statute envisions; any one of the options constitutes access. Unless there is something unusual about this statute, the "and" should be removed and only "or" should be presented. Assuming that multiple options are possible (an "all that apply" multiple choice), then the "or" should be in roman and in brackets "[or]". When only one of options should be selected ("one only" multiple choice), which is probably not the situation here, then the "or" is italicized "[or]".	See response to the comment from the California Lawyers Association, above.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
	Orange County Bar Association by Scott B. Garner, President	At "Directions for Use," third line, it is suggested "the computer" be replaced with the phrase "a computer, computer system, or computer network" in order to be consistent with the language of the Instruction and the Act.	This suggested change has been made to more closely track the statute.
		At "Sources and Authority," it is suggested that the definitions of "computer system" and "computer network" (Penal Code, sections 502(b)(5) and 502(b)(2), respectively), be referenced here, along with "access," as both these terms are incorporated in the Instruction explaining "access" and in the Act's definition of "access."	Those statutory terms are referenced in the Directions for Use in CACI No. 1812, Comprehensive Computer Data and Access Fraud Act—Essential Factual Elements (Pen. Code, § 502), which this instruction cross-references.
1814. Damages for Investigating Violations of Comprehensive Computer Data and Access Fraud Act (Pen. Code, § 502(e)(1)	California Lawyers Association, Litigation Section, Jury Instructions Committee by Reuben A. Ginsburg, Chair, Sacramento	"We agree with the proposed new instruction and the Directions for Use. In the Sources and Authority, we would strike the reference to punitive damages and Penal Code section 502, subdivision (e)(4). This instruction is for compensatory damages, and the statutory provision on punitive damages is not authority for the instruction."	The citation has been relocated to the Directions for Use as authority for the note concerning the availability of punitive damages.
	Bruce Greenlee	"Same issue with '[and/or]'. If 'and' is selected, then all that precede and follow must be present. Most likely, only one need be at issue."	The suggested change has been made to track the statute.
	Orange County Bar Association by Scott B. Garner, President	The Act allows a plaintiff to recover compensatory damages for expenditures reasonably and necessarily incurred to investigate and verify that a system, network, program, or data was or was not altered, damaged or deleted by a defendant's access (emphasis added). At the first line of the Instruction, the word "whether" is used in the sense of finding "whether or not" there was alteration, damage, or deletion. It is believed this distinction may not be appreciated by a jury which might understand the Instruction to be saying only if an investigation found alteration, damage, or deletion could the plaintiff recover associated expenses. Accordingly, it is suggested that the word "whether"	The bracketed choices have been expanded to include the negative, i.e. was or was not/were or were not.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
		be replaced with "that" and the second line of the Instruction include after the bracketed phrase "[was/were]," the additional bracketed phrase "[was not/were not]."
		"In a number of violations set forth in subdivision (c), 'access' is not required. The civil remedies of subdivision (e)(1), including compensatory damages for the expense of an investigation, are available for violations of any provision of subdivision (c). At the third line of the Instruction, reference is made to defendant's 'access.' While the word 'access' is used within subdivision (e)(1), it is believed its use could confuse the jury. Accordingly, it is suggested that here, though understood to be a departure from the language of the Act, defendant's 'conduct' should be referenced so as to have application to all violations of subdivision (c)."	The statutory language of subdivision (e)(1) uses the term access. The committee agrees that not all violations of subdivision (c) involve access, as that term is defined in the statute, but the committee favored hewing to the language of the damages provision in subdivision (e)(1).
		"At 'Directions for Use,' first paragraph, last line, within the parenthetical, examples are given of the technology or data which may be at issue. One example provided is 'the defendant's data files.' It would seem more likely that it would be plaintiff's data files which would be at issue in a case involving allegations of alteration, damage, or deletion and, accordingly, reflected in an instruction."	The Directions for Use have been revised as suggested.
2511. Adverse Action Made by Decision Maker Without Animus (Cat's Paw)	California Lawyers Association, Litigation Section, Jury Instructions Committee by Reuben A. Ginsburg, Chair, Sacramento	We would strike "In this case," at the beginning of the instruction as superfluous and unnecessary.	The prepositional phrase is used here to distinguish the instruction from the instruction on direct disparate treatment, which is likely to be given with the cat's paw instruction.
		The discriminatory actor in Reeves v. Safeway Stores, Inc. (2004) 121 Cal.App.4th 95 was a supervisor, and Reeves stated the cat's paw rule in terms of a discriminatory supervisor (id. at p. 115). But Reid v. Google (2010) 50 Cal.4th 512, 542, later stated the cat's paw rule in terms of a discriminatory "employee," stating that there were circumstances in which "discriminatory remarks by a non-decisionmaking employee can influence a decision by a decisionmaker," and, " 'If [the formal decision maker] acted as the conduit of [an employee's]	The committee believes that the instruction accurately reflects the state of the law. The committee, however, will continue to monitor the developments in this area and consider the suggested revisions in future release cycles.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
		prejudice—his cat's paw—the innocence of [the decision maker] would not spare the company from liability.' " This language and other discussion in Reid and the holding in McGrory v. Applied Signal Tech. (2013) 212 Cal.App.4th 1510, 1536, suggest that the discriminatory actor influencing the decisionmaker need not be a supervisor to support liability, even if in many cases the discriminatory actor is a supervisor. We therefore suggest changing "supervisor" in the instruction to encompass persons other than a supervisor: ". . . if [name of decision maker] followed a recommendation from or relied on facts provided by a supervisor [or other person] who had [discriminatory/retaliatory] intent." "1. That [name of plaintiff]'s [specify protected activity or attribute] was a substantial motivating reason for [name of supervisor or other person]'s [specify acts of supervisor or other person on which decision maker relied]; and "2. That [name of supervisor or other person]'s [specify acts on which decision maker relief] was a substantial motivating reason for [name of decision maker]'s decision to [discharge/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff]."
	Bruce Greenlee	"Good improvement."	No response necessary.
2521C. Work Environment Harassment—Sexual Favoritism—Essential Factual Elements—Employer or Entity Defendant (Gov. Code, §§ 12923, 12940(j))	Civil Justice Association of California by Jaime Huff, Vice President and Counsel, Public Policy, Sacramento	In element #2, "actual" should be added immediately before "sexual favoritism" to make the instruction more clear: 2. That there was actual sexual favoritism in the work environment; Without specifying that the sexual favoritism in question had to have in fact occurred, this instruction is vague and could be prejudicial to the defense.	The committee views the suggested change superfluous. Element 2 requires a plaintiff to establish the existence of sexual favoritism in the work environment.
	Bruce Greenlee	Nothing is cited in the DforU or S&A to explain the removal of "widespread." Since a California Supreme Court case, Miller v. Dept of Corrections (2005) 36 Cal.4th 446, 466 requires that the favoritism be widespread (3rd case excerpt in S&A), one would	Government Code section 12923 was added to the instruction's Sources and Authority in July 2019. The substantive change arising from that

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
		expect either a new Supreme Court case or a statute that makes this change.	recent legislation was not incorporated into the instruction in the prior release. (See also response to Orange County Bar Association, below.)
	Orange County Bar Association by Scott B. Garner, President	The removal of the element of "widespread sexual favoritism" is not supported by case law or the EEOC. Miller v. Dep't of Corrections (in annotations) provides that "following the guidance of the EEOC, and also employing standards adopted in our prior cases, we believe that an employee may establish a claim of sexual harassment under the FEHA by demonstrating that widespread sexual favoritism was severe or pervasive enough to alter his or her working conditions and create a hostile work environment." Miller v. Dep't of Corrections (2005) 36 Cal.4th 446, 466. Removal of the term widespread from the title and instruction as a whole is not in accord with case law and incorrectly removes from juror consideration the concept that widespread sexual favoritism may constitute hostile environment harassment. See EEOC Policy Guidance, N-915.048 at para. C.	Government Code section 12923 provides that "[a] single incident of harassing conduct is sufficient to create a triable issue regarding the existence of a hostile work environment if the harassing conduct has unreasonably interfered with the plaintiff's work performance or created an intimidating, hostile, or offensive working environment."
2522C. Work Environment Harassment—Sexual Favoritism—Essential Factual Elements—Individual Defendant (Gov. Code, §§ 12923, 12940(j))	Civil Justice Association of California by Jaime Huff, Vice President and Counsel, Public Policy, Sacramento	Here also, in element #2, "actual" should be added immediately before "sexual favoritism" for the same reasons stated for 2521C.	See response to CACI No. 2521C, above.
	Bruce Greenlee	[Same comment as 2521C.]	See response to CACI No. 2521C, above.
	Orange County Bar Association by Scott B. Garner, President	[Same comment as 2521C.]	See response to CACI No. 2521C, above.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
2540. Disability Discrimination—Disparate Treatment—Essential Factual Elements	California Lawyers Association, Litigation Section, Jury Instructions Committee by Reuben A. Ginsburg, Chair, Sacramento	We believe the language "either with or without reasonable accommodation for [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] [e.g. condition]" in element 4 should be made optional (i.e. bracketed) because in cases where reasonable accommodation is not at issue this language may confuse the jury.	The committee has determined that the proposed change is preferable to the existing optional bracket for reasonable accommodation. Adding "either with or without" is consistent with case law. (See Green v. California (2007) 42 Cal.4th 254, 262 [64 Cal.Rptr.3d 390, 396, 165 P.3d 118, 123] ["[I]n order to establish that a defendant employer has discriminated on the basis of disability in violation of the FEHA, the plaintiff employee bears the burden of proving he or she was able to do the job, with or without reasonable accommodation."].) The change is also more consistent with how the issue may be considered by a jury. In some cases, the jury will have to decide whether a plaintiff was able to perform essential job duties with the plaintiff's individual capabilities (i.e., without an accommodation) or with a reasonable accommodation.
	Civil Justice Association of California by Jaime Huff, Vice President and Counsel, Public Policy, Sacramento	CJAC recommends deleting history references in four places in this instruction, in the introductory paragraph, in element #3, in element #6, and in the summary paragraph, as shown below: [Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] wrongfully discriminated against [him/her/nonbinary pronoun] based on [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] ~~[history of [a]]~~ [select term to describe basis of limitations, e.g., physical condition]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following: 	This suggestion to delete the optional brackets concerning a claim of discrimination based on an individual's history of disability is beyond the scope of the changes that were circulated for public comment, but the committee notes that both the FEHA and the California Code of Regulations define, respectively, "physical disability" and "disability"

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
		3. That [name of defendant] knew that [name of plaintiff] had ~~[a history of having] [a]]~~ [e.g., physical condition] [that limited [insert major life activity]];  6. That [name of plaintiff]'s ~~[history of [a]]~~ [e.g., physical condition] was a substantial motivating reason for [name of defendant]'s [decision to [discharge/refuse to hire/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff]/conduct];  [Name of plaintiff] does not need to prove that [name of defendant] held any ill will or animosity toward [him/her/nonbinary pronoun] personally because [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was [perceived to be] disabled. [On the other hand, if you find that [name of defendant] did hold ill will or animosity toward [name of plaintiff] because he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was [perceived to be] disabled, you may consider this fact, along with all the other evidence, in determining whether [name of plaintiff]'s ~~[history of [a]]~~ [e.g., physical condition] was a substantial motivating reason for [name of defendant]'s [decision to [discharge/refuse to hire/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff]/conduct].] It is enough to prove that the condition existed, and the defendant knew of the condition. Whether there was a history of the condition is not an essential fact and should not be part of the instruction. It is distracting and unnecessary.	as having a record or history of any specified condition that is known to the employer. Government Code § 12926(m)(3) ["Having a record or history of a disease, disorder, condition, cosmetic disfigurement, anatomical loss, or health impairment described in paragraph (1) or (2), which is known to the employer or other entity covered by this part."]; 2 CCR § 11065(d)(4) [" 'Disability' shall be broadly construed to mean and include any of the following definitions: * * * A 'record or history of disability' includes previously having, or being misclassified as having, a record or history of a mental or physical disability or special education health impairment of which the employer or other covered entity is aware."].
	Bruce Greenlee	"With or without reasonable accommodation" is the way that the cause of action is often expressed, including in Sandell v. Taylor (first case excerpt in the S&A). But it is not necessary to include "without" in the instruction. The default position for 2540 is that a reasonable accommodation will not be needed. If there is none, then it is not necessary to say "without" in the instruction. If there is a need for an accommodation, then "with" needs to be included and 2541 given.	The committee's proposed revision is consistent with case law. (See also response to California Lawyers Association, above.)

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
2545. Disability Discrimination—Affirmative Defense—Undue Hardship	Bruce Greenlee	In the DforU, the cross reference to 2561, delete the statute from the 2561 title. CACI does not include the title statutes in cross references. There are other places where statutes have been added to instruction titles. If this is a conscious change of format, I think that it is a bad one. Simplicity is always better.	For consistency with other instructions, the statutory citation in the Directions for Use's cross-reference, which is part of the title of CACI No. 2561, has been deleted from the Directions for Use.
	Orange County Bar Association by Scott B. Garner, President	Agree with changes generally but propose the following modifications in caps: "[Name of defendant] claims that accommodating [name of plaintiff]'s disability would create an undue hardship to the operation of [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] business. To succeed on this defense, [name of defendant] must prove that [an/THE] accommodation[s] REQUESTED would create an undue hardship because it would be significantly difficult or expensive	The committee has concluded that the suggestion is not supported by law. As noted in the Directions for Use to CACI No. 2541, Disability Discrimination—Reasonable Accommodation—Essential Factual Elements, an employee does not need to specifically request reasonable accommodation. (See Prilliman v. United Air Lines, Inc. (1997) 53 Cal.App.4th 935, 950–951 ["The employee bears the burden of giving the employer notice of the disability. This notice then triggers the employer's burden to take 'positive steps' to accommodate the employee's limitations."], citations omitted.)
		Propose revising the phrasing of the hardship factors such that they track the statute, Government Code 12926(u): "…, in light of the following factors: (1) The nature and cost of the accommodation needed. (2) The overall financial resources of the facilities involved in the provision of the reasonable accommodations, the number of persons employed at the facility, and the effect on expenses and resources or the impact otherwise of these accommodations upon the operation of the facility. (3) The overall financial resources of the covered entity, the overall size of the business of a covered entity with respect to	The comment is beyond the scope of the invitation to comment, but the committee notes that the five factors suggested from Government Code 12926 subdivision (u) are encompassed by factors (a)–(g), which are written in plainer terms for jurors.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
		the number of employees, and the number, type, and location of its facilities. (4) The type of operations, including the composition, structure, and functions of the workforce of the entity. (5) The geographic separateness or administrative or fiscal relationship of the facility or facilities."
		Disagree with adding the reference to Atkins v. City of Los Angeles (2017) 8 Cal.App.5th 696, 733 in the "Directions for Use" section. The Atkins case, as cited, does not include a discussion on whether undue hardship is a true affirmative defense or whether the defendant only has the burden of coming forward with evidence of hardship as a way of negating an element of plaintiff's case concerning the reasonableness of an accommodation.	The court in Atkins stated, "[Defendant] failed to convince the jury that any hardship was sufficient to make an otherwise reasonable accommodation unreasonable." While this quote does not directly state the issue identified in the Directions for Use, it is support for the unresolved state of the law.
		CACI 2541, following established law, states that one of the elements of an accommodation claim is that the accommodation be "reasonable." This indicates that the reasonableness of an accommodation is separate and distinct from whether an accommodation would create an undue hardship.	The committee agrees that the two concepts—reasonable accommodation and undue hardship— are distinct, but notes that, in the context of disability discrimination claims, they are also related. To the extent the commenter is advocating for adding reasonable to CACI No. 2545, the committee does not see value in adding the modifier to the undue hardship instruction.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
2560. Religious Creed Discrimination—Failure to Accommodate—Essential Factual Elements (Gov. Code, § 12940(l))	California Lawyers Association, Litigation Section, Jury Instructions Committee by Reuben A. Ginsburg, Chair, Sacramento	Under Government Code section 12940, subdivision (l)(1), it is the employer's burden to show that it has explored reasonable accommodations, rather than the plaintiff's burden to show the opposite. Accordingly, we would delete element 6.	The committee is unclear about how a plaintiff would establish a failure to accommodate claim without element 6. Subdivision (l)(1) includes an undue hardship exception to liability, which is defendant's burden, but the committee does not read that provision to eliminate element 6 as an element of a claim. (Cf. Scotch v. Art Inst. of California (2009) 173 Cal.App.4th 986, 1009–1010 [stating elements of a failure to accommodate claim in the disability discrimination context].)
	Civil Justice Association of California by Jaime Huff, Vice President and Counsel, Public Policy, Sacramento	In element #6, CJAC recommends deleting "or by another person": 6. [That [name of defendant] did not [explore available reasonable alternatives of accommodating [name of plaintiff], including excusing [name of plaintiff] from duties that conflict with [name of plaintiff]'s religious [belief/observance] or permitting those duties to be performed at another time ~~or by another person~~, or otherwise reasonably accommodate] [name of plaintiff]'s religious [belief/observance];]	The inclusion of the phrase or by another person in the instruction is support by law. Government Code section 12940(l)(1) says, ". . . or permitting those duties to be performed at another time or by another person, . . ."

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
		While there are a variety of reasonable workplace accommodations that may be available for an employee's religious beliefs, it is unnecessary to specify that one of these be the provision of another person. Doing so can create the expectation that the employer should have provided a substitute employee as an accommodation. There is no case law cited in favor of this proposed change that would support the notion that a workplace religious accommodation requires the employer to keep another employee or contractor on standby. The instruction as written is sufficiently broad without the inclusion of "or by another person."
2561. Religious Creed Discrimination—Reasonable Accommodation—Affirmative Defense—Undue Hardship (Gov. Code, §§ 12940(l)(1), 12926(u))	California Lawyers Association, Litigation Section, Jury Instructions Committee by Reuben A. Ginsburg, Chair, Sacramento	Government Code section 12940, subdivision (l)(1) specifies two reasonable accommodations that the employer must consider: (1) excusing the person from the duties that conflict with the person's religious belief or observance and (2) permitting those duties to be performed at by another person at another time. We believe the instruction should state that the defendant must prove that the defendant considered both (1) and (2), and should not state that it is sufficient if the defendant considered (1), (2), or (3): "To succeed on this defense, [name of defendant] must prove that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] considered reasonable alternative options for accommodating the [religious belief/religious observance], including (1) excusing [name of plaintiff] from duties that conflict with [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] religious belief/religious observance]~~,~~ or (2) permitting those duties to be performed at another time or by another person~~, or (3) [specify other reasonable accommodation]~~."	Government Code section 12940, subdivision (l)(1) provides that a defendant must "demonstrate[] that it has explored any available reasonable alternative means of accommodating the religious belief or observance, including [two specific alternative reasonable accommodations]." Removing option (3), the possibility other reasonable accommodations, would not give effect to all the words in the statute, namely the words any and including, which indicates that the statute's list is illustrative, not exclusive.
		We would delete the language, "If there is evidence of another reasonable alternative accommodation, include it as a third means of accommodating the plaintiff." in the Directions for Use for the same reasons.	Same as above.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
	Civil Justice Association of California by Jaime Huff, Vice President and Counsel, Public Policy, Sacramento	CJAC recommends striking the phrase "or by another person" in the second paragraph of the instruction and in Directions for Use: * * * "Again, as noted above with respect to CACI 2560, excusing the employee from duties that conflict with her/his beliefs, allowing the duties to be completed at another time, or specifying another type of reasonable accommodation that is acceptable is sufficient."	See response to Civil Justice Association of California's comment on CACI No. 2560, above.
	Orange County Bar Association by Scott B. Garner, President	Agree with changes generally but propose the following underlined revisions such that the phrasing of the hardship factors track the statute, Government Code 12926 (u): "If you decide that [name of defendant] considered but did not adopt [a] reasonable accommodation[s], you must then decide if the accommodation[s] would have created an undue hardship because it would be significantly difficult or expensive, in light of the following factors: (1) The nature and cost of the accommodation needed. (2) The overall financial resources of the facilities involved in the provision of the reasonable accommodations, the number of persons employed at the facility, and the effect on expenses and resources or the impact otherwise of these accommodations upon the operation of the facility. (3) The overall financial resources of the covered entity, the overall size of the business of a covered entity with respect to the number of employees, and the number, type, and location of its facilities. (4) The type of operations, including the composition, structure, and functions of the workforce of the entity. (5) The geographic separateness or administrative or fiscal relationship of the facility or facilities."	The five factors suggested from Government Code 12926 subdivision (u) are encompassed by factors (a)–(g), which are written in plainer terms for jurors.
VF-2506C. Work Environment Harassment—Sexual Favoritism-	Orange County Bar Association	"The removal of the element of 'widespread sexual favoritism' is not supported by case law or the EEOC. Miller v. Dep't of Corrections (in annotations) provides that 'following the guidance of the EEOC, and also employing standards adopted in	See response to CACI No. 2521C, above.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
-Employer or Entity Defendant (Gov. Code, §§ 12923, 12940(j))	by Scott B. Garner, President	our prior cases, we believe that an employee may establish a claim of sexual harassment under the FEHA by demonstrating that widespread sexual favoritism was severe or pervasive enough to alter his or her working conditions and create a hostile work environment.' Miller v. Dep't of Corrections (2005) 36 Cal.4th 446, 466. Removal of the term widespread from the title and instruction as a whole is not in accord with case law and incorrectly removes from juror consideration the concept that widespread sexual favoritism may constitute hostile environment harassment. See EEOC Policy Guidance, N-915.048 at para. C."
VF-2507B. Work Environment Harassment—Conduct Directed at Others—Individual Defendant (Gov. Code, §§ 12923, 12940(j))	Orange County Bar Association by Scott B. Garner, President	"Leave term 'widespread' in Directions for use in accordance with Miller v. Dep't of Corrections (2005) 36 Cal.4th 446, 466."	See response to CACI No. 2521C, above.
VF-2507C. Work Environment Harassment—Sexual Favoritism—Individual Defendant (Gov. Code, §§ 12923, 12940(j))	Orange County Bar Association by Scott B. Garner, President	"Leave term 'widespread' in title and directions for use in accordance with Miller v. Dep't of Corrections (2005) 36 Cal.4th 446, 466."	See response to CACI No. 2521C, above.
VF-2508. Disability Discrimination—Disparate Treatment	Bruce Greenlee	For the same reason as CACI No. 2540, the proposed changes to VF-2508 are unnecessary.	To clarify VF-2508, the committee favored bifurcating the question concerning a plaintiff's ability to perform essential job functions, instead of with reasonable accommodation bracketed for addition in only certain cases. This formulation avoids asking about a reasonable accommodation if one was not even necessary. Even in cases involving an accommodation, a jury could still find that the plaintiff could perform the work without an accommodation. The proposed change permits the jury to make that determination, rather than only asking about ability to perform with accommodation when an accommodation is at issue.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
2705. Affirmative Defense to Labor Code, Unemployment Insurance Code, and Wage Order Violations—Plaintiff Was Not Defendant's Employee (Lab. Code, § 2750.3)	California Lawyers Association, Litigation Section, Jury Instructions Committee, by Reuben A. Ginsburg, Chair, Sacramento	"We question whether there is a right to jury trial in actions under the Unemployment Insurance Code. If not, we suggest deleting "Unemployment Insurance Code" from the title, instruction, and Directions for Use."	Labor Code section 2750.3 expressly includes claims under the Unemployment Insurance Code. CACI No. 2705's inclusion of the Unemployment Insurance Code is not meant to decide the issue of whether such claims are for a jury.
		"This instruction pertains only to issues relating to independent contractor status and not to any other 'dispute as to whether the defendant was the plaintiff's employer.' Those disputes can arise in other contexts, such as joint employers. We suggest modifying the Directions for Use to clarify this point and to note the statutory presumption of employment status: 'This instruction may be needed if ~~there is a dispute as to whether~~ the defendant claims that the plaintiff is an independent contractor and not the defendant's employee. Under ~~was the plaintiff's employer for purposes of a claim covered by~~ the Labor Code, the Unemployment Insurance Code, ~~or a~~ and the California wage orders, any person providing services or labor for remuneration is presumptively an employee. . . .' "	The committee believes that the Directions for Use fairly states the context for this instruction. The sentence following the suggested changes advises users that, "The defendant has the burden to prove independent contractor status."
		"Because Labor Code section 2750.3 lists numerous exceptions and potential exceptions to the "ABC" test, we believe the Directions for Use should note that the instruction may not	The committee has added a statement to the Directions for Use in line with the commenter's suggestion and a

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
		always be appropriate when the independent contractor issue is raised. We suggest adding the following as a second paragraph: 'This instruction may not be appropriate in cases where the defendant claims independent contractor status based on one of the exceptions listed in Labor Code section 2750.3, subdivisions (b) through (h).' "	cross-reference to the instruction on employment status under the Borello test, CACI No. 3704.
		Although not encompassed in the proposed revisions, we would modify the following language in the Directions for Use for greater clarity: "~~The rule on employment status has been that if there are disputed facts, it's for the jury to decide whether one is an employee or an independent contractor.~~ The trial court's determination of employee or independent contractor status is one of fact if it depends upon the resolution of disputed evidence or inferences . . . . (S.G. Borello & Sons, Inc. v. Department of Industrial Relations (1989) 48 Cal.3d 341, 349 [256 Cal.Rptr. 543, 769 P.2d 399] (Borello); Estrada v. FedEx Ground Package System, Inc. (2007) 154 Cal.App.4th 1, 16-17 [64 Cal.Rptr.3d 327] (Estrada).) The question is one of law only if the evidence is undisputed. (Borello, at p. 341.)" (Espejo v. The Copley Press (2017) 13 Cal.App.5th 329, 342-343 [221 Cal.Rptr.3d 1].) ~~However, on disputed facts, the court may decide that the relationship is employment as a matter of law. (Dynamex, supra, 4 Cal.5th at p. 963.)~~"	The suggestion relates more to CACI No. 3704, the instruction based on the Borello test, which is beyond the scope of the invitation to comment. The committee will continue to monitor developments in this area and consider revisions in future release cycles.
	Orange County Bar Association by Scott B. Garner, President	Generally agree with changes. However, citation in "Sources and Authority" to Curry v. Equilon Enterprises, LLC (2018) 23 Cal.App.5th 289, 314 should remain as review was denied by the CA Supreme Court on July 11, 2018.	As stated in the User Guide, the purpose of the Sources and Authority is to provide a launching point for further legal research. They are not intended to provide a comprehensive analysis. The committee elected to delete Curry v. Equilon Enterprises, LLC from the Sources and Authority, not because it is no longer good law, but because its relevance to the instruction has been diminished by the enactment of Labor Code, § 2750.3.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
		Disagree with the proposed deletion of Garcia v. Border Transportation Group, LLC (2018) 28 Cal.App.5th 558, 570 as this decision has not been reversed and remains good law.	See response to Orange County Bar Association's similar comment, above.
3020. Excessive Use of Force—Unreasonable Arrest or Other Seizure—Essential Factual Elements (42 U.S.C. § 1983)	California Lawyers Association, Litigation Section, Jury Instructions Committee by Reuben A. Ginsburg, Chair, Sacramento	Although not encompassed in the proposed revisions, we believe the language preceding factors (a) through (d) should be written in terms of what the plaintiff has to prove (i.e. excessive force) consistent with the burden of proof stated at the beginning of the instruction and element 2, rather than explain the issue from the perspective of the defendant's position (i.e. when force is not excessive): "Force is not excessive if it is not reasonably necessary under the circumstances."	This comment is beyond the scope of the invitation to comment. The committee will consider these suggestions in a future release cycle.
		In the Sources and Authority, the third and fourth bullet points on page 101 discuss summary judgment, not trial. Those cases provide no authority for this instruction, so we would delete them.	As stated in the User Guide, the purpose of the Sources and Authority is to provide a launching point for further legal research on the subject. The standard for inclusion of case excerpts is that they would be of interest and relevant to CACI users.
	City and County of San Francisco, Office of the City Attorney by Margaret W. Baumgartner, Deputy City Attorney	(1) Instruction 3020 fails to inform the jury that the claim arises under the Fourth Amendment of the Federal Constitution. The instruction never identifies the Fourth Amendment as the source of the plaintiff's claim. If a court gives this instruction and also gives an instruction on, for example, negligence, it will create jury confusion regarding the two different bases of liability. Ensuring clear differentiation on the legal basis of the claim addressed by the instruction will also allow the parties to craft a verdict form that tracks the claims, which may be critical for issues such as attorney fee liability and comparative fault. The instruction should include the federal constitutional basis of liability so as not to create jury confusion when it is given in conjunction with other instructions.	This comment is beyond the scope of the invitation to comment. The committee will consider these suggestions in a future release cycle.
		(2) As with Instruction 440, Instruction 3020 fails to inform the jury of all of the circumstances in which an officer may lawfully	This comment is beyond the scope of the invitation to comment. The use force. Unlike the Ninth Circuit's model jury instruction on use of force liability under 42 U.S.C. §1983, Instruction 3020 does not address all of the reasons an officer may lawfully use force. As set forth above in the comment to Instruction 440, those situations include overcoming resistance, preventing escape, and defense of oneself or others. See 9th Cir. Model Instruction 9.25. Therefore, in addition to the federal constitutional source of liability, the instruction should include all the purposes for which an officer may use force.	committee will consider these suggestions in a future release cycle.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
3050. Retaliation—Essential Factual Elements (42 U.S.C. § 1983)	City and County of San Francisco, Office of the City Attorney by Margaret W. Baumgartner, Deputy City Attorney	Instruction 3050 applies to a claim of retaliation. A claim of retaliation frequently arises when a plaintiff alleges that an officer arrested the plaintiff in retaliation for the plaintiff's exercise of the plaintiff's First Amendment rights. In 2019, the United States Supreme Court held that a lack of probable cause is an essential element to a retaliatory arrest claim. Nieves v. Bartlett, 139 S.Ct. 1715 (2019). We recommend that the Committee include a note to Instruction 3050, stating that if the plaintiff alleges retaliatory arrest, the parties must modify Instruction 3040 to add lack of probable cause as an element of the claim.	This comment is beyond the scope of the invitation to comment. The committee will consider these suggestions in a future release cycle. To alert users to this recent Supreme Court decision, however, the committee has added an excerpt from Nieves v. Bartlett to the Sources and Authority.
VF-3511. Fair Market Value Plus Severance Damages	California Lawyers Association, Litigation Section, Jury Instructions Committee by Reuben A. Ginsburg, Chair, Sacramento	"We support the proposed revisions in concept but believe the verdict form should incorporate the different timing scenarios rather than require modification: '3. What [would have been/will be] the fair market value of the remaining property ~~have been~~ on [date of valuation] if the [name of public entity]'s proposed project [were/is] completed as planned?' "	The committee considered and rejected several alternative ways of framing Question 3. The committee concluded that the proposed version accurately states the law, and that modification of the model verdict form may be necessary on different facts.
		We would delete the proposed new language in the second paragraph of the Directions for Use for the same reasons.	See response to comment, above.
3704. Existence of "Employee" Status Disputed	California Lawyers Association, Litigation	We agree with this proposed new instruction. We would modify the Directions for Use to state that if the plaintiff seeks a penalty the instruction should be modified to require an intentional or reckless violation or willful misconduct.	This comment is beyond the scope of the invitation to comment. The committee will consider the suggestion in a future release cycle.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
	Section, Jury Instructions Committee by Reuben A. Ginsburg, Chair, Sacramento
3904A. Present Cash Value	American Property Casualty Insurers Association by Denneile Ritter Assistant Vice President, Sacramento	This jury instruction deals with the reduction of future economic damages to their present cash value. Proposed new language in the instruction's second paragraph reads "[defendant] must prove, through expert testimony, the present cash value." The specific reference to proof through expert testimony ignores stipulations agreed to by parties to an action in determining present cash values. Stipulations are mentioned later in the jury instruction but as a mandate on what the jury must consider, not what defendants' may use in meeting their burden. Perhaps unintended, this disjunction in the text brings some confusion to the reading of the jury instruction. Although the instruction's Directions for Use provides some explanation, we believe that the jury instruction itself could be improved by removing the phrase "through expert testimony."	The second and third paragraphs are bracketed. If a stipulation exists, the third paragraph should be given.
		We note that the 2019 Court of Appeal case, Lewis v. Ukran, cited as authority for the change in the jury instruction, focused on who bears what burden in reducing future economic damages to present cash values. We respectfully submit that in only a summary fashion does the holding refer to the presentation of expert evidence.	The committee believes that the instruction accurately reflects the state of the law. The committee, however, will continue to monitor the developments in this area and consider revision in future release cycles.
	Association of Southern California Defense Counsel by Steven S. Fleischman, Horvitz &	The proposed changes to the first two paragraphs of CACI No. 3904A appear to be designed to incorporate the holding of Lewis v. Ukran (2019) 36 Cal.App.5th 886, 896 (Lewis). Lewis appears inconsistent with existing law and is likely to generate further litigation because it fails to take into account controlling authority from the California Supreme Court holding that a plaintiff has the burden of proof to prove damages. (Cassim v. Allstate Ins. Co. (2004) 33 Cal.4th 780, 813 (Cassim) ["as in	The committee is not persuaded that Lewis is inconsistent with case law requiring plaintiffs to prove their damages. Lewis holds that defendants have the burden to show how to reduce plaintiff's established future damages to present cash value. The committee will continue to monitor the

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
	Levy LLP, Burbank	any tort case, the plaintiff bears the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence both the existence and the amount of damages proximately caused by the defendant's tortious acts or omissions" (emphasis added)]; accord, Gorman v. Tassajara Development Corp. (2009) 178 Cal.App.4th 44, 83 (Gorman) [" 'The rule is established that the plaintiff has the burden of proving, with reasonable certainty, the damages actually sustained by him as a result of the defendant's wrongful act, and the extent of such damages must be proved as a fact' "].) Indeed, numerous other CACI instructions squarely place the burden of proving damages on the plaintiff. See, e.g., CACI Nos. 3900, 3901, 3903A, 3903B, 3903C, 3903D, 3903E, 3903F, 3903G, 3903K, 3903L, 3903M, 3903N and 3903O. Cases outside California confirm our belief that Lewis will prove to be controversial. In other jurisdictions that follow the same general rule as California—requiring plaintiffs to prove all aspects of their own damages— numerous cases have placed the burden on plaintiffs to prove the present cash value of future damages. [citations omitted] Under the circumstances, ASCDC suggests that the Committee not make the proposed changes to CACI No. 3904A at this time. In the alternative, the Committee should add citations to Cassim and Gorman to the Sources and Authority to provide a more complete presentation of existing California authority. In addition, we suggest that, if the Committee incorporates the part of Lewis that imposes on defendants the burden of presenting evidence on the discount rate for purposes of the jury's present value analysis, the instruction should also reflect plaintiffs' burden of proof under Lewis to present evidence on the inflation rate for purposes of present value calculations. (See Lewis, supra, 36 Cal.App.5th at pp. 895-896.)	developments in this area and consider revisions in future release cycles.
3906. Lost Earnings and Lost Earning Capacity—Jurors	Bruce Greenlee	In the DforU, change the term "in cases where" to "if."	The committee has made this change.
		The word "lost" should precede "ability to earn money."	For clarity, the committee has added lost before "ability to earn money" in both the instruction and the Directions

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
Not to Consider Race, Ethnicity, or Gender (Economic Damage)			for Use, which is consistent with Civil Code section 3361.
4106. Breach of Fiduciary Duty by Attorney—Essential Factual Elements	Association of Southern California Defense Counsel by David P. Pruett, Carroll, Kelly, Trotter, Franzen & McBride, Long Beach	The California Supreme Court has recognized just one standard for the determination of causation in tort actions, whether the actions may address claims of negligent, intentional, or fraudulent conduct. The Directions for Use put undue emphasis on outlier language from a Court of Appeal decision, Knutson v. Foster (2018) 25 Cal.App.5th 1075, that arises out of unique facts and should not be cited for generally applicable propositions – propositions that are inconsistent with Supreme Court authority. Only one appellate decision, Knutson v. Foster, supra, 25 Cal.App.5th 1075, has suggested that a different standard for causation applies to theories of liability asserting intentional or fraudulent conduct as opposed to theories of negligence.	The Supreme Court denied the petition for review on November 27, 2018 (G054247). Knutson is, therefore, authority for the proposition that claims for fraud and intentional breach of fiduciary duty, but not professional negligence, against an attorney are governed by the substantial factor test.
		The Directions for Use now propose to add a citation to the Court of Appeal decision in Stanley v. Richmond (1995) 35 Cal.App.4th 1070, a case that was cited by Knutson, but which says nothing about a different standard of causation to be applied in actions alleging intentional misconduct or breach of fiduciary duty in contrast to negligence. The Directions for Use should not cite to Stanley v. Richmond (1995) 35 Cal.App.4th 1070 as a case supporting the proposition that a different standard of causation is to be applied in actions alleging intentional misconduct or breach of fiduciary duty in contrast to negligence. Stanley does not stand for that proposition. Moreover, that proposition is inconsistent with Supreme Court authority, such that the reference to Knutson v. Foster (2018) 25 CalApp.5th 1075 should be reconsidered, and removed from the Directions for Use.	The committee has deleted the citation to Stanley v. Richmond. See comment and response, below, to the California Lawyers Association.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
	California Lawyers Association, Litigation Section, Jury Instructions Committee by Reuben A. Ginsburg, Chair, Sacramento	We would modify the Directions for Use for greater clarity and to make it clear that CACI No. 430 should be given with this instruction: "Give CACI No. 430, Causation: Substantial Factor, with this instruction. "The existence of a fiduciary relationship. . . . ~~"Substantial factor causation is the causation standard for an intentional breach of fiduciary duty. (Stanley v. Richmond (1995) 35 Cal.App.4th 1070, 1095 [41 Cal.Rptr.2d 768].) Do not include the optional last sentence of CACI No. 430, Causation: Substantial Factor, in a case involving an attorney's intentional or fraudulent breach of duty. If the attorney's breach of duty is negligent, however rather than intentional or fraudulent, the 'but for' ("would have happened anyway") causation standard applicable to legal malpractice (see Viner v. Sweet (2003) 30 Cal.4th 1232 [135 Cal.Rptr.2d 629, 70 P.3d 1046]) applies. (Knutson v. Foster (2018) 25 Cal.App.5th 1075, 1093–1094 [236 Cal.Rptr.3d 473].) If so, the optional last sentence of CACI No. 430, Causation: Substantial Factor, should be given: "Conduct is not a substantial factor in causing harm if the same harm would have occurred without that conduct."~~ "The causation standard for an attorney's intentional breach of fiduciary duty differs from that for a negligent breach. If the plaintiff alleges an attorney's intentional breach of duty, do not include the optional last sentence of CACI No. 430, Causation: Substantial Factor on 'but for' causation. The 'but for' causation standard does not apply to an intentional breach of fiduciary duty. If the plaintiff alleges an attorney's negligent breach of duty, the 'but for' ('would have happened anyway') causation standard applies. (Knutson v. Foster (2018) 25 Cal.App.5th 1075, 1093–1094 [236 Cal.Rptr.3d 473]; see Viner	To improve clarity, the committee has revised the Directions for Use as suggested.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
		v. Sweet (2003) 30 Cal.4th 1232 [135 Cal.Rptr.2d 629, 70 P.3d 1046].) If the plaintiff alleges a negligent breach of duty, give the optional last sentence of CACI No. 430: 'Conduct is not a substantial factor in causing harm if the same harm would have occurred without that conduct.' " "If the plaintiff alleges both negligent breach and intentional or fraudulent breach, the jury must be instructed on both causation standards and it should be made clear which causation standard applies to which claim. "If the harm allegedly caused by the defendant's conduct involves the outcome of a legal claim, the jury should be instructed with CACI No. 601, Damages for Negligent Handling of Legal Matter, for the but for standard. (See Gutierrez v. Girardi (2011) 194 Cal.App.4th 925, 928, 933–937 [125 Cal.Rptr.3d 210] [discussing circumstances when a client need not show that they objectively would have obtained a better result in the underlying case in the absence of the attorney's breach (the trial-within-a-trial method)].)" ~~"If both negligent breach and intentional or fraudulent breach are to be presented to the jury in the alternative, the jury must be instructed on both causation standards and it should be made clear which causation standard applies to which claim."~~
4300. Introductory Instruction	Bruce Greenlee	I'm not sure why this one was posted given only change is to add new statute to S&A.	Noted.
	Richard L. Spix, Lake Forest	Add to Paragraph 1: no longer has the right to occupy the property [by subleasing to [name of subtenant]] because (insert claims at issue). This addition parallels the description of defenses claimed by defendant and without inclusion infers that the plaintiff has nothing to prove.	This comment is beyond the scope of the invitation to comment. The committee will consider the suggestion in a future release cycle, but notes that this is an introductory instruction in the unlawful detainer series.
4301. Expiration of Fixed-Term	Bruce Greenlee	"Revise addition to DforU as follows: For a tenancy of a year or more, the Tenant Protection Act of 2019 requires ;just cause'	Because there are exceptions to and limitations on the applicability of the Tenancy—Essential Factual Elements		before the landlord may terminate the tenancy. (Civ, Code, 1946,2(a); see Civ.Code, 1946.2(b) "just cause" defined.) Therefore, this instruction now may only be used for tenancies of less than a year."	Tenant Protection Act of 2019 and because of its recent enactment, the committee chose to note only the existence of the legislation in the Directions for Use. The committee, however, will continue to monitor the developments in this area and consider revisions in future release cycles.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
		And then draft a new instruction for "just cause" termination; maybe two: one for fault and one for no-fault.	This comment is beyond the scope of the invitation to comment. The committee will consider the suggestion in a future release cycle.
4302. Termination for Failure to Pay Rent—Essential Factual Elements	Bruce Greenlee	"Not sure why you didn't note the Act in the DforU here as you did for 4304 and 4308. I would note that 1946.2(b)(1)(A) makes a default in payment of rent just cause."	This comment is beyond the scope of the invitation to comment. The committee will consider the suggestion in a future release cycle.
4303. Sufficiency and Service of Notice of Termination for Failure to Pay Rent	Bruce Greenlee	The citation in the DforU should be to subsections (a), and (b)(1)(A); and maybe then to (c), (d) and (f) for other possible notices.	Because of the breadth of the Tenant Protection Act of 2019 and its recent enactment, the committee decided in favor of citing the new legislation more broadly, rather than directing users to a list of subdivisions. The committee was concerned that specifying subdivisions might suggest an exhaustive list of the applicable subdivisions for a claim.
	Richard L. Spix, Lake Forest	Re: last paragraph: [A notice stating a reasonable estimate of the amount of rent due that is within 20 percent of the amount actually due is reasonable unless [name of defendant] proves that it was not reasonable. In determining the reasonableness of the estimate, you may consider whether calculating the amount of rent required information primarily within the knowledge of [name of defendant] and whether [name of defendant] accurately furnished that information to [name of plaintiff].]	This comment is beyond the scope of the invitation to comment. The committee will consider the suggestion in a future release cycle.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
		"ARGUMENT: The quoted language is not indented (sic) as applicable only to commercial tenancies. The Judicial Council takes away the factual determination of reasonable estimate by a wholy inappropriate 20% amount. This is a question of fact for the trier of facts. The reasonable estimate available to a commercial landlord only applies where the tenant has the facts needed by an unknowing landlord to calculate the precise amount of rents due. Otherwise, and in a residential setting, the notice to pay rent must state the precise amount of rents due. [citations omitted]."
4304. Termination for Violation of Terms of Lease/Agreement—Essential Factual Elements	Bruce Greenlee	I would note that (b)(1)(B) makes violation of the lease just cause.	The Directions for Use cite to subdivision (b). Because there are exceptions to and limitations on the applicability of the Tenant Protection Act of 2019, the committee chose to note only the existence of the new legislation in the Directions for Use.
4305. Sufficiency and Service of Notice of Termination for Violation of Terms of Agreement	Bruce Greenlee	The citation in the DforU should be to subsections (a) and (b)(1)(B); and maybe then to (c), (d) and (f) for other possible notices.	Because of the breadth of the Tenant Protection Act of 2019 and its recent enactment, the committee decided in favor of citing the new legislation more broadly, rather than directing users to a list of subdivisions. The committee was concerned that specifying subdivisions might suggest an exhaustive list of the applicable subdivisions for a claim.
4306. Termination of Month-to-Month Tenancy—Essential Factual Elements	Bruce Greenlee	"Revise addition to DforU as follows: For a tenancy of a year or more, the Tenant Protection Act of 2019 requires "just cause" before the landlord may termination the tenancy. (Civ, Code, 1946,2(a); see Civ.Code, 1946.2(b) "just cause" defined.) Therefore, this instruction now may only be used for tenancies of less than a year."	Because there are exceptions to and limitations on the applicability of the Tenant Protection Act of 2019 and because of its recent enactment, the committee chose to note only the existence of the new legislation in the Directions for Use.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
4307. Sufficiency and Service of Notice of Termination of Month-to-Month Tenancy	Bruce Greenlee	Revise addition to DforU as follows: For a tenancy of a year or more, the Tenant Protection Act of 2019 requires "just cause" before the landlord may termination the tenancy. (Civ, Code, 1946,2(a); see Civ.Code, 1946.2(b) "just cause" defined.) The grounds for just cause must be stated in the notice of termination. (Civ.Code, 1946,2(a); see also Civ.Code, 1946.2(c), (d), (f).)	Because there are exceptions to and limitations on the applicability of the Tenant Protection Act of 2019, the committee chose to note only the existence of the new legislation in the Directions for Use.
		Then add the just-cause statement as number 4.	See response to comment above.
4308. Termination for Nuisance or Unlawful Use—Essential Factual Elements	Bruce Greenlee	I would note that (b)(1)(C) makes nuisance just cause and (b)(1)(I) makes unlawful purpose just cause.	The committee has added references to these subdivisions in the Directions for Use.
4309. Sufficiency and Service of Notice of Termination for Nuisance or Unlawful Use	Bruce Greenlee	The citation in the DforU should be to subsections (a) and (b)(1)(C), (I); and then maybe to (c), (d) and (f) for other possible notices.	Because of the breadth of the Tenant Protection Act of 2019 and its recent enactment, the committee decided in favor of citing the new legislation more broadly, rather than directing users to a list of subdivisions. The committee was concerned that specifying subdivisions might suggest an exhaustive list of the applicable subdivisions for a claim.
Unlawful Detainer series instructions, 4303–4309.	Richard L. Spix, Lake Forest	The Tenant Protection Act applies to tenancies in California since 1/1/2020. Trial courts are in need of immediate guidance on these important issues for defendants. Rather than an "if applicable" footnote, the proposal should include a full discussion of the landlord's burden of proof in order to prevail. The legislature imposed additional limitations on a landlord's statutory cause of action. They should be implemented forthwith.	Because there are exceptions to and limitations on the applicability of the Tenant Protection Act of 2019, the committee chose to note only the existence of the new legislation in the Directions for Use. The committee will continue to monitor the developments in this area and consider revisions in future release cycles.
4325. Affirmative Defense—Failure to Comply With	Bruce Greenlee	A bit more explanation of how a violation of the Tenant Protection Act might be an affirmative defense would be helpful. I would think that lack of just cause is not an	Because there are exceptions to and limitations on the applicability of the Tenant Protection Act of 2019, the

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
Rent Control Ordinance/Tenant Protection Act		affirmative defense; the landlord would have to prove the existence of just cause. (The landlord has to prove rent default, violation of lease, nuisance, or unlawful use.) So what violation of the Act might be an affirmative defense?	committee chose to note only the existence of the new legislation in the Directions for Use. The committee will continue to monitor the developments in this area and consider revisions in future release cycles.
	Richard L. Spix, Lake Forest	The instruction should be expanded to include the state-wide provisions for guidance of the trial courts.	The committee will continue to monitor the developments in this area and consider revisions in future release cycles.
VF-4602. Whistleblower Protection—Affirmative Defense of Same Decision (Lab. Code, §§1102.5, 1102.6)	Orange County Bar Association by Scott B. Garner, President	"At 'Directions for Use,' third paragraph, third line, new language indicates that Question 3 is to be omitted if the plaintiff allegedly refused to participate in an activity that would result in violation or noncompliance with a statute, rule, or regulation. This is consistent with the authority cited. It is believed, however, that were it appropriate to omit Question 3, some modification to the directions to the jury following Question 2 would be necessary, as would some guidance to counsel as to how to proceed with the balance of the verdict form."	As noted in the Directions for Use, CACI special verdict forms are intended only as models. They may need to be modified, including renumbering the questions and the then updating the transitional instructions. If a question needs to be omitted, users must make the necessary modifications to the transitional instructions. For additional clarity, however, one modification to Question 5 arising from the omission of Question 3 has been explained in the Directions for Use.
4603. Whistleblower Protection—Essential Factual Elements (Lab. Code, § 1102.5)	California Lawyers Association, Litigation Section, Jury Instructions Committee by Reuben A. Ginsburg, Chair, Sacramento	We agree with the proposed revisions to the instruction. We agree with the proposed revisions to the Directions for Use, but would add a reference to CACI No. 2705 after the first paragraph so as to ensure that the jury is instructed on the presumption of employment status if the defendant claims that the plaintiff was an independent contractor: "If the plaintiff's employment status is at issue because the defendant claims the plaintiff was an independent contractor, give CACI No. 2705, Affirmative Defense to Labor Code, Unemployment Insurance Code, and Wage Order Violations—Plaintiff Was Not Defendant's Employee (Lab. Code, § 2750.3)."	This suggested revision to the Directions for Use is beyond the scope of the invitation to comment. The committee will consider this suggestion in a future release cycle.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
4920. Wrongful Foreclosure—Essential Factual Elements	California Lawyers Association, Litigation Section, Jury Instructions Committee by Reuben A. Ginsburg, Chair, Sacramento	Element 1 refers to a foreclosure sale of the plaintiff's "home," but the foreclosed property need not be the plaintiff's home. We would change "home" to "real property."	Most wrongful foreclosure claims involve a plaintiff's home, but to reflect the reality that other real property can be foreclosed on, the committee has added a bracketed choice: [home/specify other real property].
		Two cases include element 4 as an element of the tort with little discussion, while several other cases listing the essential elements do not include element 4. We believe element 4 should be made optional. We believe the Directions for Use should note the discrepancy in the cases and state that the trial court should decide whether to give element 4.	The committee has revised the instruction and Directions for Use to note the split in authority.
		The final sentence in the instruction reiterates two of the six (or five) elements, stating that the plaintiff must prove those two elements. But the plaintiff must prove all six (or five) elements. We believe that emphasizing two of the six (or five) elements would not be helpful and would be confusing to the jury.	To eliminate the redundancy, the committee has deleted the final sentence of the instruction, which did repeat two of the claim's essential elements.
		We would change "see CACI No. 4921" to "give CACI No. 4921" for clarity and consistency with other instructions stating "give" when the intention is that the instruction be given.	For clarity and consistency, the Directions for Use have been revised to reflect that CACI No. 4921 should be given if the plaintiff claims that tender is excused.
User Guide	Association of Southern California Defense Counsel by Lisa Perrochet, Burbank	"The new language in the User Guide aptly reflects the need to keep up with evolving linguistic conventions."	No response required.
All except as noted above	California Lawyers Association, Litigation	Agree (User Guide, 113, 118, 440, VF-1100, VF-1201, 1812, 2521C, 2522C, 2545, VF-2506A, VF-2506B, VF-2506C, VF-2507A, VF-2507B, VF-2507C, VF-2508, 3050, 3053, VF-3012,	No response required.

Instruction(s)	Commenter	Comment	Committee Response
	Section, Jury Instructions Committee by Reuben A. Ginsburg, Chair, Sacramento	3903C, 3903D, 3904A, 3906, 4300, 4301, 4303-4309 & 4325, 4575, VF-4602)
All except as noted above	Orange County Bar Association by Scott B. Garner, President	Agree (User Guide-Personal Pronouns, 113, 118, 420, 440, 1100, 1102, 1199 VF-1100, 1305, 1812, 2511, 2540, 2560, 2599 VF-2506A, 2599 VF-2506B, 2599 VF-2507A, 2599 VF-2508, 3020, 3050, 3053, 3099 VF-3012, 3599 VF-3501, 3704, 3903C, 3903D, 3904A, 3906, 4106, 4300, 4301, 4303, 4304, 4305, 4306, 4307, 4308, 4309, 4325, 4575, 4603, 4920, 4921)	No response required.

Item number: 10

RUPRO ACTION REQUEST FORM

RUPRO action requested: Approve

RUPRO Meeting: April 9, 2020

Title of proposal (include amend/revise/adopt/approve + form/rule numbers):
Civil Jury Instructions: Instructions with Minor or Nonsubstantive Revisions (Release 37)

Committee or other entity submitting the proposal:
Advisory Commitee on Civil Jury Instructions

Staff contact (name, phone and e-mail): Eric Long, Attorney, Legal Services, 415-865-7691 eric.long@jud.ca.gov

Identify project(s) on the committee's annual agenda that is the basis for this item:
Approved by RUPRO: October 28, 2019
Project description from annual agenda: Maintenance—Sources and Authority; Technical Corrections

If requesting July 1 or out of cycle, explain:
California Rules of Court, rules 2.1050(d) and 10.58(a), require the advisory committee to update, amend, and add topics to CACI on a regular basis and to submit its recommendations to the council for approval. The Judicial Council has given the Rules Committee final authority to approve instructions with only changes to the Directions for Use or additions to the Sources and Authority under the provisions of the guidelines adopted on December 19, 2006, titled Jury Instructions Corrections and Technical and Minor Substantive Changes. Pursuant to this delegation of authority, the advisory committee requests that the Rules Committee give final approval to 169 revised CACI instructions for Release 37.

Additional Information: (To facilitate RUPRO's review of your proposal, please include any relevant information not contained in the attached summary.)

JUDICIAL COUNCIL OF CALIFORNIA

455 Golden Gate Avenue • San Francisco, California 94102-3688
Telephone 415-865-4200 • Fax 415-865-4205 • TDD 415-865-4272

MEMORANDUM

Date
April 1, 2020

To Members of the Rules Committee

From
Advisory Committee on Civil Jury Instructions
Hon. Martin J. Tangeman, Chair

Subject
Civil Jury Instructions: Instructions with Minor or Nonsubstantive Revisions (Release 37)

Action Requested
Review and Approve Publication of Instructions

Deadline
April 9, 2020

Contact
Eric Long
415-865-7691 phone eric.long@jud.ca.gov

Executive Summary

The Advisory Committee on Civil Jury Instructions recommends that the Rules Committee approve revisions to the Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions (CACI) to maintain and update those instructions. The 169 instructions in this release, prepared by the advisory committee, contain the types of revisions that the Judicial Council has given the Rules Committee final authority to approve—primarily changes to instructions and Directions for Use text that are nonsubstantive and unlikely to cause controversy and instructions with nonsubstantive additions and changes. Also included within these instructions are grammatical, typographical, and citation corrections for which the Rules Committee has delegated authority to the Advisory Committee on Civil Jury Instructions.

Recommendation

The Advisory Committee on Civil Jury Instructions recommends that the Rules Committee approve for publication revisions to 169 civil jury instructions, prepared by the advisory committee, that contain changes that do not require posting for public comment or Judicial Council approval. These instructions will be published in the 2020 supplement of CACI and posted online on the California Courts website, and on Lexis and Westlaw.

The revised instructions are attached at pages 5–532.

Relevant Previous Council Action

In 2003, the Judicial Council approved civil jury instructions—drafted by the Task Force on Jury Instructions—for initial publication in September 2003. The Advisory Committee on Civil Jury Instructions is charged with maintaining and updating those instructions.[1]

In 2006, the Judicial Council approved the Rules Committee's delegation to the Advisory Committee on Civil Jury Instructions the authority to review and approve nonsubstantive grammatical and typographical corrections to the jury instructions, and authority for the Rules Committee to "review and approve nonsubstantive technical changes and corrections and minor substantive changes unlikely to create controversy to Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions (CACI) and Criminal Jury Instructions (CALCRIM)."[2]

Under the implementing guidelines that the Rules Committee (formerly known as the Rules and Projects Committee or RUPRO) adopted on December 19, 2006, titled Jury Instructions Corrections and Technical and Minor Substantive Changes, the Rules Committee has final approval authority over the following:

(a) Additions of cases and statutes to the Sources and Authority;
(b) Changes to statutory language quoted in Sources and Authority that are required by legislative amendments, provided that the amendment does not affect the text of the instruction itself;[3]
(c) Additions or changes to the Directions for Use;[4]
(d) Changes to instruction text that are nonsubstantive and unlikely to create controversy. A nonsubstantive change is one that does not affect or alter any fundamental legal basis of the instruction;
(e) Changes to instruction text required by subsequent developments (such as new cases or legislative amendments), provided that the change, though substantive, is both necessary and unlikely to create controversy; and
(f) Revocation of instructions for which any fundamental legal basis of the instruction is no longer valid because of statutory amendment or case law.

[1] Cal. Rules of Court, rules 2.1050(d), 10.58(a).

[2] Judicial Council of Cal., Rules and Projects Committee, Jury Instructions: Approve New Procedure for RUPRO Review and Approval of Changes in the Jury Instructions (Sept. 12, 2006), p. 1.

[3] In light of the committee's 2014 decision to remove verbatim quotes of statutes, rules, and regulations from CACI, this category is now mostly moot. It still applies if a statute, rule, or regulation is revoked, or if subdivisions are renumbered.

[4] The committee only presents nonsubstantive changes to the Directions for Use for the Rules Committee's final approval. Substantive changes are posted for public comment and presented to the council for approval.

Analysis/Rationale

Overview of revisions

Of the 169 revised instructions in this release (Release 37) that are presented for final approval by the Rules Committee, 162 have revisions under category (d) above (changes to instruction text that are nonsubstantive and unlikely to create controversy). All 162 involve language changes to update binary personal pronoun language in the text of instructions and/or the Directions for Use (e.g., changing "he or she" to "that person"). These language changes do not affect the legal basis of the instructions. Ten have revisions to the Secondary Sources or the Directions for Use (categories (a) and (c) above); 3 of those 10 also have pronoun language changes as noted above.

Standards for adding case excerpts to Sources and Authority

The standards approved by the advisory committee for adding case excerpts to the Sources and Authority are as follows:

1. CACI Sources and Authority are in the nature of a digest. Entries should be direct quotes from cases. However, all cases that may be relevant to the subject area of an instruction need not be included, particularly if they do not involve a jury matter.
2. Each legal component of the instruction should be supported by authority—either statutory or case law.
3. Authority addressing the burden of proof should be included.
4. Authority addressing the respective roles of judge and jury (questions of law and questions of fact) should be included.
5. Only one case excerpt should be included for each legal point.
6. California Supreme Court authority should always be included, if available.
7. If no Supreme Court authority is available, the most recent California appellate court authority for a point should be included.
8. A U.S. Supreme Court case should be included on any point for which it is the controlling authority.
9. A Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals case may be included if the case construes California law or federal law that is the subject of the CACI instruction.
10. Other cases may be included if deemed particularly useful to the users.
11. The fact that the committee chooses to include a case excerpt in the Sources and Authority does not mean that the committee necessarily believes that the language is binding precedent. The standard is simply whether the language would be useful or of interest to users.

Sources and Authority format cleanup

CACI format requires that case excerpts in the Sources and Authority be of directly quoted material from the case. In some of the series, this format was not uniformly observed initially, and some excerpts are in the form of a legal statement with a citation rather than a direct quotation. Where found in instructions otherwise being revised or updated, these out-of-format excerpts have been converted to direct quotations.

CACI format also orders statutes, rules, and regulations first; then case excerpts; and then any other authorities, such as a Restatement excerpt. Where found in instructions otherwise being revised or updated, excerpts that were out of order have been moved to the proper location.

Secondary Sources and other cleanup

Under the Rules Committee's delegation of authority, the committee has updated citations to treatises and other secondary sources that were out of date and added a nonbinary personal pronoun option to instructions that contain bracketed personal pronoun choices.

Policy implications

Rule 2.1050 of the California Rules of Court requires the committee to regularly update, revise, and add topics to CACI and to submit its recommendations to the council for approval. This proposal fulfills that requirement.

Comments

Because the changes to these instructions do not change the legal effect of the instructions in any way, they were not circulated for public comment.

Alternatives considered

California Rules of Court, rules 2.1050 and 10.58, specifically charge the advisory committee to regularly review case law and statutes; to make recommendations to the Judicial Council for updating, amending, and adding topics to CACI; and to submit its recommendations to the council for approval. The proposed revisions and additions meet this responsibility. There are no alternatives to be considered.

Fiscal and Operational Impacts

There are no implementation costs. To the contrary, under its publication agreement with the Judicial Council, the official publisher, LexisNexis Matthew Bender, will pay royalties to the council. With respect to other commercial publishers, the council will register the copyright in this work and will continue to license its publication of the instructions under provisions that govern accuracy, completeness, attribution, copyright, fees and royalties, and other publication matters. To continue to make the instructions freely available for use and reproduction by parties, attorneys, and the public, the council will provide a broad public license for their noncommercial use and reproduction.

Attachments and Links

1. Jury instructions, at pages 5–532

100. Preliminary Admonitions

You have now been sworn as jurors in this case. I want to impress on you the seriousness and importance of serving on a jury. Trial by jury is a fundamental right in California. The parties have a right to a jury that is selected fairly, that comes to the case without bias, and that will attempt to reach a verdict based on the evidence presented. Before we begin, I need to explain how you must conduct yourselves during the trial.

Do not allow anything that happens outside this courtroom to affect your decision. During the trial do not talk about this case or the people involved in it with anyone, including family and persons living in your household, friends and coworkers, spiritual leaders, advisors, or therapists. You may say you are on a jury and how long the trial may take, but that is all. You must not even talk about the case with the other jurors until after I tell you that it is time for you to decide the case.

This prohibition is not limited to face-to-face conversations. It also extends to all forms of electronic communications. Do not use any electronic device or media, such as a cell phone or smart phone, PDA, computer, the Internet, any Internet service, any text or instant-messaging service, any Internet chat room, blog, or website, including social networking websites or online diaries, to send or receive any information to or from anyone about this case or your experience as a juror until after you have been discharged from your jury duty.

During the trial you must not listen to anyone else talk about the case or the people involved in the case. You must avoid any contact with the parties, the lawyers, the witnesses, and anyone else who may have a connection to the case. If anyone tries to talk to you about this case, tell that person that you cannot discuss it because you are a juror. If ~~he or she~~that person keeps talking to you, simply walk away and report the incident to the court [attendant/bailiff] as soon as you can.

After the trial is over and I have released you from jury duty, you may discuss the case with anyone, but you are not required to do so.

During the trial, do not read, listen to, or watch any news reports about this case. [I have no information that there will be news reports concerning this case.] This prohibition extends to the use of the Internet in any way, including reading any blog about the case or about anyone involved with it. If you receive any information about this case from any source outside of the courtroom, promptly report it to the court [attendant/bailiff]. It is important that all jurors see and hear the same evidence at the same time.

Do not do any research on your own or as a group. Do not use dictionaries, the Internet, or other reference materials. Do not investigate the case or conduct any experiments. Do not contact anyone to assist you, such as a family accountant, doctor, or lawyer. Do not visit or view the scene of any event involved in this case or use any Internet maps or mapping programs or any other program or device to search for or to view any place discussed in the testimony. If you happen to pass by the scene, do not stop or investigate. If you do need to view the scene during the trial, you will be taken there as a group under proper supervision.

[If you violate any of these prohibitions on communications and research, including prohibitions on electronic communications and research, you may be held in contempt of court or face other sanctions. That means that you may have to serve time in jail, pay a fine, or face other punishment for that violation.]

It is important that you keep an open mind throughout this trial. Evidence can only be presented a piece at a time. Do not form or express an opinion about this case while the trial is going on. You must not decide on a verdict until after you have heard all the evidence and have discussed it thoroughly with your fellow jurors in your deliberations.

Do not concern yourselves with the reasons for the rulings I will make during the course of the trial. Do not guess what I may think your verdict should be from anything I might say or do.

When you begin your deliberations, you may discuss the case only in the jury room and only when all the jurors are present.

You must decide what the facts are in this case. Do not let bias, sympathy, prejudice, or public opinion influence your verdict.

At the end of the trial, I will explain the law that you must follow to reach your verdict. You must follow the law as I explain it to you, even if you do not agree with the law.

New September 2003; Revised April 2004, October 2004, February 2005, June 2005, December 2007, December 2009, December 2011, December 2012, May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction should be given at the outset of every case, even as early as when the jury panel enters the courtroom (without the first sentence).

If the jury is allowed to separate, Code of Civil Procedure section 611 requires the judge to admonish the jury that "it is their duty not to converse with, or suffer themselves to be addressed by any other person, on any subject of the trial, and that it is their duty not to form or express an opinion thereon until the case is finally submitted to them."

Sources and Authority

- Constitutional Right to Jury Trial. Article I, section 16 of the California Constitution.
- Instructing the Jury. Code of Civil Procedure section 608.
- Jury as Trier of Fact. Evidence Code section 312.
- Admonishments to Jurors. Code of Civil Procedure section 611.

- Contempt of Court for Juror Misconduct. Code of Civil Procedure section 1209(a)(6).

- Under Code of Civil Procedure section 611, jurors may not "form or express an opinion" prior to deliberations. (See also City of Pleasant Hill v. First Baptist Church of Pleasant Hill (1969) 1 Cal.App.3d 384, 429 [82 Cal.Rptr. 1]. It is misconduct for a juror to prejudge the case. (Deward v. Clough (1966) 245 Cal.App.2d 439, 443–444 [54 Cal.Rptr. 68].)

- Jurors must not undertake independent investigations of the facts in a case. (Kritzer v. Citron (1950) 101 Cal.App.2d 33, 36 [224 P.2d 808]; Walter v. Ayvazian (1933) 134 Cal.App. 360, 365 [25 P.2d 526].)

- Jurors are required to avoid discussions with parties, counsel, or witnesses. (Wright v. Eastlick (1899) 125 Cal. 517, 520–521 [58 P. 87]; Garden Grove School Dist. v. Hendler (1965) 63 Cal.2d 141, 144 [45 Cal.Rptr. 313, 403 P.2d 721].)

- It is misconduct for jurors to engage in experiments that produce new evidence. (Smoketree-Lake Murray, Ltd. v. Mills Concrete Construction Co. (1991) 234 Cal.App.3d 1724, 1746 [286 Cal.Rptr. 435].)

- Unauthorized visits to the scene of matters involved in the case are improper. (Anderson v. Pacific Gas & Electric Co. (1963) 218 Cal.App.2d 276, 280 [32 Cal.Rptr. 328].)

- It is improper for jurors to receive information from the news media about the case. (Province v. Center for Women's Health & Family Birth (1993) 20 Cal.App.4th 1673, 1679 [25 Cal.Rptr.2d 667], disapproved on other grounds in Heller v. Norcal Mutual Ins. Co. (1994) 8 Cal.4th 30, 41 [32 Cal.Rptr.2d 200, 876 P.2d 999]; Hilliard v. A. H. Robins Co. (1983) 148 Cal.App.3d 374, 408 [196 Cal.Rptr. 117].)

- Jurors must avoid bias: " 'The right to unbiased and unprejudiced jurors is an inseparable and inalienable part of the right to trial by jury guaranteed by the Constitution.' " (Weathers v. Kaiser Foundation Hospitals (1971) 5 Cal.3d 98, 110 [95 Cal.Rptr. 516, 485 P.2d 1132], internal citations omitted.) Evidence of racial prejudice and bias on the part of jurors amounts to misconduct and may constitute grounds for ordering a new trial. (Ibid.)

- An instruction to disregard any appearance of bias on the part of the judge is proper and may cure any error in a judge's comments. (Gist v. French (1955) 136 Cal.App.2d 247, 257–259 [288 P.2d 1003], disapproved on other grounds in Deshotel v. Atchinson, Topeka & Santa Fe Ry. Co. (1958) 50 Cal.2d 664, 667 [328 P.2d 449] and West v. City of San Diego (1960) 54 Cal.2d 469, 478 [6 Cal.Rptr. 289, 353 P.2d 929].) "It is well understood by most trial judges that it is of the utmost importance that the trial judge not communicate in any manner to the jury the judge's opinions on the case submitted to the jury, because juries tend to attach inflated importance to any such communication, even when the judge has no intention whatever of influencing a jury's determination." (Dorshkind v. Harry N. Koff Agency, Inc. (1976) 64 Cal.App.3d 302, 307 [134 Cal.Rptr. 344].)

Secondary Sources

27 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 322, Juries and Jury Selection, § 322.50 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 17, Dealing With the Jury, 17.05

California Judges Benchbook: Civil Proceedings—Trial ~~(2d ed.)~~ §§ ~~13~~12.6, ~~14~~13.50, ~~14~~13.51, ~~14~~13.58 (Cal CJER ~~2010~~2019)

103. Multiple Parties

[There are [number] plaintiffs in this trial. You should decide the case of each plaintiff separately as if it were a separate lawsuit. Each plaintiff is entitled to separate consideration of ~~his or her~~that plaintiff's own claim(s).]

[There are [number] defendants in this trial. You should decide the case against each defendant separately as if it were a separate lawsuit. Each defendant is entitled to separate consideration of ~~his or her~~ that defendant's own defenses.]

[Different aspects of this case involve different parties (plaintiffs and defendants). Each instruction will identify the parties to whom it applies. Pay particular attention to the parties named in each instruction.]

[or]

[Unless I tell you otherwise, all instructions apply to each plaintiff and defendant.]

New September 2003; Revised April 2009, May 2020

Directions for Use

The CACI instructions require the use of party names rather than party-status words like "plaintiff" and "defendant." In multiparty cases, it is important to name only the parties in each instruction to whom the instruction applies. For example, an instruction on loss of consortium (see CACI No. 3920) will not apply to all plaintiffs. Instructions on vicarious liability (see CACI No. 3700 et seq.) will not apply to all defendants. Unless all or nearly all of the instructions will apply to all of the parties, give the first option for the last paragraph.

Sources and Authority

- "We realize, of course, that multiple defendants are involved and that each defendant is entitled to instructions on, and separate consideration of, every defense available and applicable to it. The purpose of this rule is to insure that the jury will distinguish and evaluate the separate facts relevant to each defendant." (Campbell v. Southern Pacific Co. (1978) 22 Cal.3d 51, 58 [148 Cal.Rptr. 596, 583 P.2d 121], internal citations omitted.)"

Secondary Sources

4 Witkin, California Procedure (45th ed. ~~1997~~2008) Pleading, § ~~67~~ 78 et seq.

27 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 318, Judgments, § 318.15 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Pretrial Civil Procedure, Ch. 5, Parties, 5.30 et seq.

106. Evidence

You must decide what the facts are in this case only from the evidence you see or hear during the trial. Sworn testimony, documents, or anything else may be admitted into evidence. You may not consider as evidence anything that you see or hear when court is not in session, even something done or said by one of the parties, attorneys, or witnesses.

What the attorneys say during the trial is not evidence. In their opening statements and closing arguments, the attorneys will talk to you about the law and the evidence. What the lawyers say may help you understand the law and the evidence, but their statements and arguments are not evidence.

The attorneys' questions are not evidence. Only the witnesses' answers are evidence. You should not think that something is true just because an attorney's question suggests that it is true. However, the attorneys for both sides can agree that certain facts are true. This agreement is called a "stipulation." No other proof is needed and you must accept those facts as true in this trial.

Each side has the right to object to evidence offered by the other side. If I do not agree with the objection, I will say it is overruled. If I overrule an objection, the witness will answer and you may consider the evidence. If I agree with the objection, I will say it is sustained. If I sustain an objection, you must ignore the question. If the witness did not answer, you must not guess what ~~he or she~~ that witness might have said or why I sustained the objection. If the witness has already answered, you must ignore the answer.

An attorney may make a motion to strike testimony that you have heard. If I grant the motion, you must totally disregard that testimony. You must treat it as though it did not exist.

New September 2003; Revised February 2005, December 2010, December 2012, May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction should be given as an introductory instruction.

Sources and Authority

- "Evidence" Defined. Evidence Code section 140.
- Jury to Decide Questions of Fact. Evidence Code section 312.
- Miscarriage of Justice. Evidence Code section 353.
- A stipulation in proper form is binding on the parties if it is within the authority of the attorney. Properly stipulated facts may not be contradicted. (Palmer v. City of Long Beach (1948) 33 Cal.2d 134, 141–142 [199 P.2d 952].)

- Courts have held that "attempts to suggest matters of an evidentiary nature to a jury other than by the legitimate introduction into evidence is misconduct whether by questions on cross-examination, argument or other means." (Smith v. Covell (1980) 100 Cal.App.3d 947, 960 [161 Cal.Rptr. 377].)

- Courts have stated that "[t]he right to object on appeal to misconduct or improper argument, even when prejudicial, is generally waived in the absence of a proper objection and request the jury be admonished." (Atkins v. Bisigier (1971) 16 Cal.App.3d 414, 427 [94 Cal.Rptr. 49]; Horn v. Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Ry. Co. (1964) 61 Cal.2d 602, 610 [39 Cal.Rptr. 721, 394 P.2d 561].)

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin, California Evidence (~~4th~~ 5th ed. ~~2000~~2012) Presentation at Trial, § 1

7 Witkin, California Procedure (5th ed. 2008) Trial, §§ 281, 282

1A California Trial Guide, Unit 21, Procedures for Determining Admissibility of Evidence, §§ 21.01, 21.03 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 322, Juries and Jury Selection, §§ 322.56–322.57 (Matthew Bender)

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 551, Trial, §§ 551.61, 551.77 (Matthew Bender)

California Judges Benchbook: Civil Proceedings—Trial ~~(2d ed.)~~ §§ ~~3.52~~2.37, 2.38, 34.99, ~~5.40~~5.21, 5.29, 5.39, ~~5.49, 5.69, 12~~11.9, ~~12~~11.35 (Cal CJER ~~2010~~2019)

107. Witnesses

A witness is a person who has knowledge related to this case. You will have to decide whether you believe each witness and how important each witness's testimony is to the case. You may believe all, part, or none of a witness's testimony.

In deciding whether to believe a witness's testimony, you may consider, among other factors, the following:

(a) How well did the witness see, hear, or otherwise sense what ~~he or she~~the witness described in court?

(b) How well did the witness remember and describe what happened?

(c) How did the witness look, act, and speak while testifying?

(d) Did the witness have any reason to say something that was not true? For example, did the witness show any bias or prejudice or have a personal relationship with any of the parties involved in the case or have a personal stake in how this case is decided?

(e) What was the witness's attitude toward this case or about giving testimony?

Sometimes a witness may say something that is not consistent with something else ~~he or she~~ the witness said. Sometimes different witnesses will give different versions of what happened. People often forget things or make mistakes in what they remember. Also, two people may see the same event but remember it differently. You may consider these differences, but do not decide that testimony is untrue just because it differs from other testimony.

However, if you decide that a witness did not tell the truth about something important, you may choose not to believe anything that witness said. On the other hand, if you think the witness did not tell the truth about some things but told the truth about others, you may accept the part you think is true and ignore the rest.

Do not make any decision simply because there were more witnesses on one side than on the other. If you believe it is true, the testimony of a single witness is enough to prove a fact.

New September 2003; Revised April 2004, June 2005, April 2007, December 2012, June 2015, December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction may be given as an introductory instruction or as a concluding instruction after trial. (See CACI No. 5003, Witnesses.)

Sources and Authority

- Role of Jury. Evidence Code section 312.
- Considerations for Evaluating the Credibility of Witnesses. Evidence Code section 780.
- Direct Evidence of Single Witness Sufficient. Evidence Code section 411.
- "It should certainly not be of importance to tell the ordinary man of the world that he should distrust the statements of a witness whom he believes to be a liar." (Wallace v. Pacific Electric Ry. Co. (1930) 105 Cal.App. 664, 671 [288 P. 834].)

Secondary Sources

7 Witkin, California Procedure (5th ed. 2008) Trial, § 281

1A California Trial Guide, Unit 22, Rules Affecting Admissibility of Evidence, § 22.30 (Matthew Bender)

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 551, Trial, § 551.122 (Matthew Bender)

California Judges Benchbook: Civil Proceedings—Trial § 8.72 (Cal CJER 2019)

108. Duty to Abide by Translation Provided in Court

Some testimony will be given in [insert language other than English]. An interpreter will provide a translation for you at the time that the testimony is given. You must rely solely on the translation provided by the interpreter, even if you understand the language spoken by the witness. Do not retranslate any testimony for other jurors. If you believe the court interpreter translated testimony incorrectly, let me know immediately by writing a note and giving it to the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant].

New September 2003; Revised April 2004, June 2011

Sources and Authority

- ~~It is misconduct for a juror to retranslate for other jurors testimony that has been translated by the court-appointed interpreter.~~"Juror [] committed misconduct by failing to rely on the court interpreter's translation, as she promised she would during voir dire. She committed further misconduct by sharing her personal translation with her fellow jurors thus introducing outside evidence into their deliberations." (People v. Cabrera (1991) 230 Cal.App.3d 300, 303–304 [281 Cal.Rptr. 238].)

- "It is well-settled a juror may not conduct an independent investigation into the facts of the case or gather evidence from outside sources and bring it into the jury room. It is also misconduct for a juror to inject his or her own expertise into the jury's deliberation." (People v. Cabrera, supra, 230 Cal.App.3d at p. 303.)

- "If [the juror] believed the court interpreter was translating incorrectly, the proper action would have been to call the matter to the trial court's attention, not take it upon herself to provide her fellow jurors with the 'correct' translation." (People v. Cabrera, supra, 230 Cal.App.3d at p. 304.)

Secondary Sources

7 Witkin, California Procedure (5th ed. 2008) Trial, § 281

1 California Trial Guide, Unit 3, Other Non-Evidentiary Motions, § 3.32 (Matthew Bender)

1A California Trial Guide, Unit 20, Procedural Rules for Presentation of Evidence, § 20.13 (Matthew Bender)

4 California Trial Guide, Unit 91, Jury Deliberations and Rendition of Verdict, §§ 91.10, 91.12 (Matthew Bender)

California Judges Benchbook: Civil Proceedings—Trial ~~(2d ed.)~~ § 8.~~118~~ 119 (Cal CJER ~~2010~~2019)

200. Obligation to Prove—More Likely True Than Not True

~~A party~~The parties must persuade you, by the evidence presented in court, that what ~~he or she is~~ they are required to prove is more likely to be true than not true. This is referred to as "the burden of proof."

After weighing all of the evidence, if you cannot decide that something is more likely to be true than not true, you must conclude that the party did not prove it. You should consider all the evidence, no matter which party produced the evidence.

In criminal trials, the prosecution must prove that the defendant is guilty beyond a reasonable doubt. But in civil trials, such as this one, the party who is required to prove something need prove only that it is more likely to be true than not true.

New September 2003; Revised February 2005, May 2020

Directions for Use

Evidence Code section 502 requires the court to instruct the jury regarding which party bears the burden of proof on each issue and the requisite degree of proof.

For an instruction on clear and convincing evidence, see CACI No. 201, Highly Probable—Clear and Convincing Proof.

Sources and Authority

- Burden of Proof – Preponderance of Evidence. Evidence Code section 115.
- Party With Burden of Proof. Evidence Code section 500.
- Each party is entitled to the benefit of all the evidence, including the evidence produced by an adversary. (Williams v. Barnett (1955) 135 Cal.App.2d 607, 612 [287 P.2d 789]; 7 Witkin, California Procedure (4th ed. 1997) Trial, § 305, p. 352.)
- The general rule in California is that " '[i]ssues of fact in civil cases are determined by a preponderance of testimony.' " (Weiner v. Fleischman (1991) 54 Cal.3d 476, 483 [286 Cal.Rptr. 40, 816 P.2d 892], citation omitted.)
- The preponderance-of-the-evidence standard "simply requires the trier of fact 'to believe that the existence of a fact is more probable than its nonexistence.' " (In re Angelia P. (1981) 28 Cal.3d 908, 918 [171 Cal.Rptr. 637, 623 P.2d 198], citation omitted.)
- "Preponderance of the evidence" " 'means what it says, viz., that the evidence on one side outweighs, preponderates over, is more than, the evidence on the other side, not necessarily in number of witnesses or quantity, but in its effect on those to whom it is addressed.' " (Glage v. Hawes Firearms Co. (1990) 226 Cal.App.3d 314, 325 [276 Cal.Rptr. 430] (quoting People v. Miller (1916) 171 Cal. 649, 652 [154 P. 468] and holding that it was prejudicial misconduct for jurors to refer to the dictionary for definition of the word "preponderance").)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (~~4th~~ 5th ed. ~~2000~~2012) Burden of Proof and Presumptions, § ~~35~~36

Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook (3d ed. 1997) Ch. 45, Burdens of Proof and of Producing Evidence; Presumptions

4 California Trial Guide, Unit 91, Jury Deliberations and Rendition of Verdict, § 91.20 (Matthew Bender)

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 551, Trial, §§ 551.90, 551.92 (Matthew Bender)

218. Statements Made to Physician (Previously Existing Condition)

[*Insert name of health-care provider] has testified that [insert name of patient] made statements to [him/her/nonbinary pronoun] about [name of patient]'s medical history. These statements helped [name of health-care provider] diagnose the patient's condition. You can use these statements to help you examine the basis of [name of health-care provider]'s opinion. You cannot use them for any other purpose.

[However, a statement by [*name of patient] to [name of health-care provider] about [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] current medical condition may be considered as evidence of that medical condition.]

New September 2003; Revised June 2006, May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction does not apply to, and should not be used for, a statement of the patient's then-existing physical sensation, mental feeling, pain, or bodily health. Such statements are admissible as an exception to the hearsay rule under Evidence Code section 1250. This instruction also does not apply to statements of a patient regarding a prior mental or physical state if ~~he or she~~ the patient is unavailable as a witness. (Evid. Code, § 1251.)

This instruction also does not apply to, and should not be used for, statements of a party that are offered into evidence by an opposing party. Such statements are admissible as an exception to the hearsay rule under Evidence Code section 1220. See CACI No. 212, Statements of a Party Opponent.

Sources and Authority

- Statements of Party. Evidence Code section 1220.
- Statements pointing to the cause of a physical condition may be admissible if they are made by a patient to a physician. The statement must be required for proper diagnosis and treatment and is admissible only to show the basis of the physician's medical opinion. (People v. Wilson (1944) 25 Cal.2d 341, 348 [153 P.2d 720]; Johnson v. Aetna Life Insurance Co. (1963) 221 Cal.App.2d 247, 252 [34 Cal.Rptr. 484]; Willoughby v. Zylstra (1935) 5 Cal.App.2d 297, 300–301 [42 P.2d 685].)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (~~4th~~ 5th ed. ~~2000~~2012) Hearsay, § ~~196~~197

2 California Trial Guide, Unit 40, Hearsay, § 40.42 (Matthew Bender)

219. Expert Witness Testimony

During the trial you heard testimony from expert witnesses. The law allows an expert to state opinions about matters in ~~his or her~~the expert's field of expertise even if ~~he or she~~the expert has not witnessed any of the events involved in the trial.

You do not have to accept an expert's opinion. As with any other witness, it is up to you to decide whether you believe the expert's testimony and choose to use it as a basis for your decision. You may believe all, part, or none of an expert's testimony. In deciding whether to believe an expert's testimony, you should consider:

a. The expert's training and experience;

b. The facts the expert relied on; and

c. The reasons for the expert's opinion.

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction should not be given for expert witness testimony on the standard of care in professional malpractice cases if the testimony is uncontradicted. Uncontradicted testimony of an expert witness on the standard of care in a professional malpractice case is conclusive. (Howard v. Owens Corning (1999) 72 Cal.App.4th 621, 632–633 [85 Cal.Rptr.2d 386]; Conservatorship of McKeown (1994) 25 Cal.App.4th 502, 509 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 542]; Lysick v. Walcom (1968) 258 Cal.App.2d 136, 156 [65 Cal.Rptr. 406].) In all other cases, the jury may reject expert testimony, provided that the jury does not act arbitrarily. (McKeown, supra, 25 Cal.App.4th at p. 509.)

Do not use this instruction in eminent domain and inverse condemnation cases. (See Aetna Life and Casualty Co. v. City of Los Angeles (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 865, 877 [216 Cal.Rptr. 831]; CACI No. 3515, Valuation Testimony.)

For an instruction on hypothetical questions, see CACI No. 220, Experts—Questions Containing Assumed Facts. For an instruction on conflicting expert testimony, see CACI No. 221, Conflicting Expert Testimony.

Sources and Authority

- Qualification as Expert. Evidence Code section 720(a).
- " 'A properly qualified expert may offer an opinion relating to a subject that is beyond common experience, if that expert's opinion will assist the trier of fact.' 'However, even when the witness qualifies as an expert, he or she does not possess a carte blanche to express any opinion within the area of expertise. [Citation.] For example, an expert's opinion based on assumptions of fact without evidentiary support [citation], or on speculative or conjectural factors [citation], has no evidentiary value [citation] and may be excluded from evidence. [Citations.] Similarly, when an expert's opinion is purely conclusory because unaccompanied by a reasoned explanation connecting the factual predicates to the ultimate conclusion, that opinion has no evidentiary value because an "expert opinion is worth no more than the reasons upon which it rests." ' 'An expert who gives only a conclusory opinion does not assist the jury to determine what occurred, but instead supplants the jury by declaring what occurred.' " (Property California SCJLW One Corp. v. Leamy (2018) 25 Cal.App.5th 1155, 1163 [236 Cal.Rptr.3d 500], internal citation omitted.)

- "Under Evidence Code section 720, subdivision (a), a person is qualified to testify as an expert if he or she 'has special knowledge, skill, experience, training, or education sufficient to qualify him as an expert on the subject to which his testimony relates.' '[T]he determinative issue in each case must be whether the witness has sufficient skill or experience in the field so that his testimony would be likely to assist the jury in the search for the truth … . [Citation.] Where a witness has disclosed sufficient knowledge, the question of the degree of knowledge goes more to the weight of the evidence than its admissibility. [Citation.]' " (Lattimore v. Dickey (2015) 239 Cal.App.4th 959, 969 [191 Cal.Rptr.3d 766].)

- The "credibility of expert witnesses is a matter for the jury after proper instructions from the court." (Williams v. Volkswagenwerk Aktiengesellschaft (1986) 180 Cal.App.3d 1244, 1265 [226 Cal.Rptr. 306].)

- "[U]nder Evidence Code sections 801, subdivision (b), and 802, the trial court acts as a gatekeeper to exclude expert opinion testimony that is (1) based on matter of a type on which an expert may not reasonably rely, (2) based on reasons unsupported by the material on which the expert relies, or (3) speculative. Other provisions of law, including decisional law, may also provide reasons for excluding expert opinion testimony. [¶] But courts must also be cautious in excluding expert testimony. The trial court's gatekeeping role does not involve choosing between competing expert opinions." (Sargon Enterprises, Inc. v. University of Southern California (2012) 55 Cal.4th 747, 771−772 [149 Cal.Rptr.3d 614, 288 P.3d 1237], footnote omitted.)

- " 'Generally, the opinion of an expert is admissible when it is "[r]elated to a subject that is sufficiently beyond common experience that the opinion of an expert would assist the trier of fact … ." [Citations.] Also, "[t]estimony in the form of an opinion that is otherwise admissible is not objectionable because it embraces the ultimate issue to be decided by the trier of fact." [Citation.] However, " 'Where the jury is just as competent as the expert to consider and weigh the evidence and draw the necessary conclusions, then the need for expert testimony evaporates.' " ' Expert testimony will be excluded ' " 'when it would add nothing at all to the jury's common fund of information, i.e., when 'the subject of inquiry is one of such common knowledge that men of ordinary education could reach a conclusion as intelligently as the witness." ' " ' " (Burton v. Sanner (2012) 207 Cal.App.4th 12, 19 [142 Cal.Rptr.3d 782], internal citations omitted.)

- Under Evidence Code section 801(a), expert witness testimony "must relate to a subject that is sufficiently beyond common experience that the opinion of an expert would assist the trier of fact." (New v. Consolidated Rock Products Co. (1985) 171 Cal.App.3d 681, 692 [217 Cal.Rptr. 522].)

- Expert witnesses are qualified by special knowledge to form opinions on facts that they have not personally witnessed. (Manney v. Housing Authority of The City of Richmond (1947) 79 Cal.App.2d 453, 460 [180 P.2d 69].)

- "Although a jury may not arbitrarily or unreasonably disregard the testimony of an expert, it is not bound by the expert's opinion. Instead, it must give to each opinion the weight which it finds the opinion deserves. So long as it does not do so arbitrarily, a jury may entirely reject the testimony of a plaintiff's expert, even where the defendant does not call any opposing expert and the expert testimony is not contradicted." (Howard, supra, 72 Cal.App.4th at p. 633, citations omitted.)

- "When any expert relates to the jury case-specific out-of-court statements, and treats the content of those statements as true and accurate to support the expert's opinion, the statements are hearsay. It cannot logically be maintained that the statements are not being admitted for their truth." (People v. Sanchez (2016) 63 Cal.4th 665, 686 [204 Cal.Rptr.3d 102, 374 P.3d 320].)

- "Any expert may still rely on hearsay in forming an opinion, and may tell the jury in general terms that he did so. Because the jury must independently evaluate the probative value of an expert's testimony, Evidence Code section 802 properly allows an expert to relate generally the kind and source of the 'matter' upon which his opinion rests. A jury may repose greater confidence in an expert who relies upon well-established scientific principles. It may accord less weight to the views of an expert who relies on a single article from an obscure journal or on a lone experiment whose results cannot be replicated. There is a distinction to be made between allowing an expert to describe the type or source of the matter relied upon as opposed to presenting, as fact, case-specific hearsay that does not otherwise fall under a statutory exception." (People v. Sanchez, supra, 63 Cal.4th at pp. 685–686, original italics.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (5th ed. 2012) Opinion Evidence, §§ 26–44

Jefferson, California Evidence Benchbook (3d ed. 1997) §§ 29.18–29.55

1 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 3, Proof of Negligence, § 3.04 (Matthew Bender)

3A California Trial Guide, Unit 60, Opinion Testimony, § 60.05 (Matthew Bender)

California Products Liability Actions, Ch. 4, The Role of the Expert, § 4.03 (Matthew Bender)

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 551, Trial, §§ 551.70, 551.113 (Matthew Bender)

303. Breach of Contract—Essential Factual Elements

To recover damages from [*name of defendant] for breach of contract, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] and [name of defendant] entered into a contract;

[2. That [*name of plaintiff] did all, or substantially all, of the significant things that the contract required [him/her/nonbinary pronoun/it] to do;]

[or]

[2. That [*name of plaintiff] was excused from having to [specify things that plaintiff did not do, e.g., obtain a guarantor on the contract];]

[3. That [*specify occurrence of all conditions required by the contract for [name of defendant]'s performance, e.g., the property was rezoned for residential use];]

[or]

[3. That [*specify condition(s) that did not occur] [was/were] [waived/excused];]

[4. That [*name of defendant] failed to do something that the contract required [him/her/nonbinary pronoun/it] to do;]

[*or]

[4. That [*name of defendant] did something that the contract prohibited [him/her/nonbinary pronoun/it] from doing;]

5. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

6. That [name of defendant]'s breach of contract was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

New September 2003; Revised April 2004, June 2006, December 2010, June 2011, June 2013, June 2015, December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

Read this instruction in conjunction with CACI No. 300, Breach of Contract—Introduction.

Optional elements 2 and 3 both involve conditions precedent. A "condition precedent" is either an act of a party that must be performed or an uncertain event that must happen before the contractual right accrues or the contractual duty arises. (Stephens & Stephens XII, LLC v. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. (2014) 231 Cal.App.4th 1131, 1147 [180 Cal.Rptr.3d 683].) Element 2 involves the first kind of condition precedent; an act that must be performed by one party before the other is required to perform. Include the second option if the plaintiff alleges that ~~he or she~~ the plaintiff was excused from having to perform some or all of the contractual conditions.

Not every breach of contract by the plaintiff will relieve the defendant of the obligation to perform. The breach must be material; element 2 captures materiality by requiring that the plaintiff have done the significant things that the contract required. Also, the two obligations must be dependent, meaning that the parties specifically bargained that the failure to perform the one relieves the obligation to perform the other. While materiality is generally a question of fact, whether covenants are dependent or independent is a matter of construing the agreement. (Brown v. Grimes (2011) 192 Cal.App.4th 265, 277–279 [120 Cal.Rptr.3d 893].) If there is no extrinsic evidence in aid of construction, the question is one of law for the court. (Verdier v. Verdier (1955) 133 Cal.App.2d 325, 333 [284 P.2d 94].) Therefore, element 2 should not be given unless the court has determined that dependent obligations are involved. If parol evidence is required and a dispute of facts is presented, additional instructions on the disputed facts will be necessary. (See City of Hope National Medical Center v. Genentech, Inc. (2008) 43 Cal.4th 375, 395 [75 Cal.Rptr.3d 333, 181 P.3d 142].)

Element 3 involves the second kind of condition precedent; an uncertain event that must happen before contractual duties are triggered. Include the second option if the plaintiff alleges that the defendant agreed to perform even though a condition did not occur. For reasons that the occurrence of a condition may have been excused, see the Restatement Second of Contracts, section 225, Comment b. See also CACI No. 321, Existence of Condition Precedent Disputed, CACI No. 322, Occurrence of Agreed Condition Precedent, and CACI No. 323, Waiver of Condition Precedent.

Element 6 states the test for causation in a breach of contract action: whether the breach was a substantial factor in causing the damages. (US Ecology, Inc. v. State of California (2005) 129 Cal.App.4th 887, 909 [28 Cal.Rptr.3d 894].) In the context of breach of contract, it has been said that the term "substantial factor" has no precise definition, but is something that is more than a slight, trivial, negligible, or theoretical factor in producing a particular result. (Haley v. Casa Del Rey Homeowners Assn. (2007) 153 Cal.App.4th 863, 871−872 [63 Cal.Rptr.3d 514]; see CACI No. 430, Causation—Substantial Factor, applicable to negligence actions.)

Equitable remedies are also available for breach. "As a general proposition, '[t]he jury trial is a matter of right in a civil action at law, but not in equity. [Citations.]' " (C & K Engineering Contractors v. Amber Steel Co., Inc. (1978) 23 Cal.3d 1, 8 [151 Cal.Rptr. 323, 587 P.2d 1136]; Selby Constructors v. McCarthy (1979) 91 Cal.App.3d 517, 524 [154 Cal.Rptr. 164].) However, juries may render advisory verdicts on these issues. (Raedeke v. Gibraltar Savings & Loan Assn. (1974) 10 Cal.3d 665, 670–671 [111 Cal.Rptr. 693, 517 P.2d 1157].)

Sources and Authority

- Contract Defined. Civil Code section 1549.

- "A contract is a voluntary and lawful agreement, by competent parties, for a good consideration, to do or not to do a specified thing." (Robinson v. Magee (1858) 9 Cal. 81, 83.)

- "To prevail on a cause of action for breach of contract, the plaintiff must prove (1) the contract, (2) the plaintiff's performance of the contract or excuse for nonperformance, (3) the defendant's breach, and (4) the resulting damage to the plaintiff." (Richman v. Hartley (2014) 224 Cal.App.4th 1182, 1186 [169 Cal.Rptr.3d 475].)

- "Implicit in the element of damage is that the defendant's breach caused the plaintiff's damage." (Troyk v. Farmers Group, Inc. (2009) 171 Cal.App.4th 1305, 1352 [90 Cal.Rptr.3d 589], original italics.)

- "It is elementary a plaintiff suing for breach of contract must prove it has performed all conditions on its part or that it was excused from performance. Similarly, where defendant's duty to perform under the contract is conditioned on the happening of some event, the plaintiff must prove the event transpired." (Consolidated World Investments, Inc., v. Lido Preferred Ltd. (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 373, 380 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 524], internal citation omitted.)

- "When a party's failure to perform a contractual obligation constitutes a material breach of the contract, the other party may be discharged from its duty to perform under the contract. Normally the question of whether a breach of an obligation is a material breach, so as to excuse performance by the other party, is a question of fact. Whether a partial breach of a contract is material depends on 'the importance or seriousness thereof and the probability of the injured party getting substantial performance.' 'A material breach of one aspect of a contract generally constitutes a material breach of the whole contract.' " (Brown, supra, 192 Cal.App.4th at pp. 277–278, internal citations omitted.)

- "The obligations of the parties to a contract are either dependent or independent. The parties' obligations are dependent when the performance by one party is a condition precedent to the other party's performance. In that event, one party is excused from its obligation to perform if the other party fails to perform. If the parties' obligations are independent, the breach by one party does not excuse the other party's performance. Instead, the nonbreaching party still must perform and its remedy is to seek damages from the other party based on its breach of the contract." (Colaco v. Cavotec SA (2018) 25 Cal.App.5th 1172, 1182–1183 [236 Cal.Rptr.3d 542], internal citations omitted.)

- "Whether specific contractual obligations are independent or dependent is a matter of contract interpretation based on the contract's plain language and the parties' intent. Dependent covenants or '[c]onditions precedent are not favored in the law [citations], and courts shall not construe a term of the contract so as to establish a condition precedent absent plain and unambiguous contract language to that effect.' " (Colaco, supra, 25 Cal.App.5th at p. 1183, internal citations omitted..)

- "The wrongful, i.e., the unjustified or unexcused, failure to perform a contract is a breach. Where the nonperformance is legally justified, or excused, there may be a failure of consideration, but not a breach." (1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10th ed. 2005) Contracts, § 847, original italics, internal citations omitted.) "Ordinarily, a breach is the result of an intentional act, but negligent performance may also constitute a breach, giving rise to alternative contract and tort actions." (Ibid., original italics.)

- " ' "Where a party's breach by non-performance contributes materially to the non-occurrence of a condition of one of his duties, the non-occurrence is excused." [Citation.]' " (Stephens & Stephens XII, LLC, supra, 231 Cal. App. 4th at p. 1144.)

- " 'Causation of damages in contract cases, as in tort cases, requires that the damages be proximately caused by the defendant's breach, and that their causal occurrence be at least reasonably certain.' A proximate cause of loss or damage is something that is a substantial factor in bringing about that loss or damage." (U.S. Ecology, Inc., supra, 129 Cal.App.4th at p. 909, internal citations omitted.)

- "An essential element of [breach of contract] claims is that a defendant's alleged misconduct was the cause in fact of the plaintiff's damage. [¶] The causation analysis involves two elements. ' "One is cause in fact. An act is a cause in fact if it is a necessary antecedent of an event." [Citation.]' The second element is proximate cause. ' "[P]roximate cause 'is ordinarily concerned, not with the fact of causation, but with the various considerations of policy that limit an actor's responsibility for the consequences of his conduct.' " ' " (Tribeca Companies, LLC v. First American Title Ins. Co. (2015) 239 Cal.App.4th 1088, 1102−1103 [192 Cal.Rptr.3d 354], footnote and internal citation omitted.)

- "Determining whether a defendant's misconduct was the cause in fact of a plaintiff's injury involves essentially the same inquiry in both contract and tort cases." (Tribeca Companies, LLC, supra, 239 Cal.App.4th at p. 1103.)

- "b. Excuse. The non-occurrence of a condition of a duty is said to be 'excused' when the condition need no longer occur in order for performance of the duty to become due. The non-occurrence of a condition may be excused on a variety of grounds. It may be excused by a subsequent promise, even without consideration, to perform the duty in spite of the non-occurrence of the condition. See the treatment of 'waiver' in § 84, and the treatment of discharge in §§ 273–85. It may be excused by acceptance of performance in spite of the non-occurrence of the condition, or by rejection following its non-occurrence accompanied by an inadequate statement of reasons. See §§ 246–48. It may be excused by a repudiation of the conditional duty or by a manifestation of an inability to perform it. See § 255; §§ 250–51. It may be excused by prevention or hindrance of its occurrence through a breach of the duty of good faith and fair dealing (§ 205). See § 239. And it may be excused by impracticability. See § 271. These and other grounds for excuse are dealt with in other chapters of this Restatement. This Chapter deals only with one general ground, excuse to avoid forfeiture. See § 229." (Rest.2d of Contracts, § 225, comment b.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Contracts, § ~~847~~872

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.50 (Matthew Bender)

5 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50*, Contracts*, § 50.10 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

2 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 22, Suing or Defending Action for Breach of Contract, 22.03–22.50

306. Unformalized Agreement

[Name of defendant] contends that the parties did not enter into a contract because they had not signed a final written agreement. To prove that a contract was created, [name of plaintiff] must prove both of the following:

1. That the parties understood and agreed to the terms of the agreement; and

2. That the parties agreed to be bound before a written agreement was completed and signed.

New September 2003; Revised December 2012, May 2020

Directions for Use

Give this instruction if the parties agreed to contract terms with the intention of reducing their agreement to a written and signed contract, but an alleged breach occurred before the written contract was completed and signed. For other situations involving the lack of a final written contract, see CACI No. 304, Oral or Written Contract Terms, and CACI No. 305, Implied-in-Fact Contract.

Do not give this instruction unless the defendant has testified or offered other evidence in support of ~~his or her~~ the contention.

Sources and Authority

- "Where the writing at issue shows 'no more than an intent to further reduce the informal writing to a more formal one' the failure to follow it with a more formal writing does not negate the existence of the prior contract. However, where the writing shows it was not intended to be binding until a formal written contract is executed, there is no contract." (Harris v. Rudin, Richman & Appel (1999) 74 Cal.App.4th 299, 307 [87 Cal.Rptr.2d 822], internal citations omitted.)

- The execution of a formalized written agreement is not necessarily essential to the formation of a contract that is made orally: "[I]f the respective parties orally agreed upon all of the terms and conditions of a proposed written agreement with the mutual intention that the oral agreement should thereupon become binding, the mere fact that a formal written agreement to the same effect has not yet been signed does not alter the binding validity of the oral agreement. [Citation.]" (Banner Entertainment, Inc. v. Superior Court (1998) 62 Cal.App.4th 348, 358 [72 Cal.Rptr.2d 598].)

- If the parties have agreed not to be bound until the agreement is reduced to writing and signed by the parties, then the contract will not be effective until the formal agreement is signed. (Beck v. American Health Group International, Inc. (1989) 211 Cal.App.3d 1555, 1562 [260 Cal.Rptr. 237].)

- "Whether it was the parties' mutual intention that their oral agreement to the terms contained in a proposed written agreement should be binding immediately is to be determined from the surrounding facts and circumstances of a particular case and is a question of fact for the trial court." (Banner Entertainment, Inc., supra, 62 Cal.App.4th at p. 358.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Contracts, §§ 133, 134

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.22 (Matthew Bender)

5 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50, Contracts, § 50.350 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 13, Attacking or Defending Existence of Contract—Absence of Essential Element, 13.07[3]

307. Contract Formation—Offer

Both an offer and an acceptance are required to create a contract. [*Name of defendant] contends that a contract was not created because there was never any offer. To overcome this contention, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] communicated to [name of defendant] that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] was willing to enter into a contract with [name of defendant];

2. That the communication contained specific terms; and

3. That, based on the communication, [name of defendant] could have reasonably concluded that a contract with these terms would result if [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] accepted the offer.

If [*name of plaintiff] did not prove all of the above, then a contract was not created.

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

Do not give this instruction unless the defendant has testified or offered other evidence in support of ~~his or her~~ the contention there was never any offer.

This instruction assumes that the defendant is claiming the plaintiff never made an offer. Change the identities of the parties in the indented paragraphs if, under the facts of the case, the roles of the parties are switched (e.g., if defendant was the alleged offeror). If the existence of an offer is not contested, then this instruction is unnecessary.

Sources and Authority

- Courts have adopted the definition of "offer" found at Restatement Second of Contracts, section 24: "An offer is the manifestation of willingness to enter into a bargain, so made as to justify another person in understanding that his assent to that bargain is invited and will conclude it." (City of Moorpark v. Moorpark Unified School Dist. (1991) 54 Cal.3d 921, 930 [1 Cal.Rptr.2d 896, 819 P.2d 854].)

- Under basic contract law "'[a]n offer must be sufficiently definite, or must call for such definite terms in the acceptance that the performance promised is reasonably certain.'" (Ladas v. California State Automobile Assn. (1993) 19 Cal.App.4th 761, 770 [23 Cal.Rptr.2d 810].)

- "The trier of fact must determine 'whether a reasonable person would necessarily assume ... a willingness to enter into contract.' [Citation.]" (In re First Capital Life Insurance Co. (1995) 34 Cal.App.4th 1283, 1287 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 816].)

- Offers should be contrasted with preliminary negotiations: "Preliminary negotiations or an agreement for future negotiations are not the functional equivalent of a valid, subsisting agreement." (Kruse v. Bank of America (1988) 202 Cal.App.3d 38, 59 [248 Cal.Rptr. 217].)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Contracts, §§ 116, 117, 125–137

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.22 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.210 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 13, Attacking or Defending Existence of Contract—Absence of Essential Element, 13.18–13.24

308. Contract Formation—Revocation of Offer

Both an offer and an acceptance are required to create a contract. [*Name of defendant] contends that the offer was withdrawn before it was accepted. To overcome this contention, [name of plaintiff] must prove one of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] did not withdraw the offer; or

2. That [name of plaintiff] accepted the offer before [name of defendant] withdrew it; or

3. That [name of defendant]'s withdrawal of the offer was never communicated to [name of plaintiff].

If [*name of plaintiff] did not prove any of the above, then a contract was not created.

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

Do not give this instruction unless the defendant has testified or offered other evidence in support of ~~his or her~~ the contention.

This instruction assumes that the defendant is claiming to have revoked ~~his or her~~ the defendant's offer. Change the identities of the parties in the indented paragraphs if, under the facts of the case, the roles of the parties are switched (e.g., if defendant was the alleged offeree).

Sources and Authority

- Revocation Before Acceptance. Civil Code section 1586.
- Methods for Revocation. Civil Code section 1587.
- "It is a well-established principle of contract law that an offer may be revoked by the offeror any time prior to acceptance." (T. M. Cobb Co., Inc. v. Superior Court (1984) 36 Cal.3d 273, 278 [204 Cal.Rptr. 143, 682 P.2d 338].)
- " 'Under familiar contract law, a revocation of an offer must be directed to the offeree.' [Citation.]" (Moffett v. Barclay (1995) 32 Cal.App.4th 980, 983 [38 Cal.Rptr.2d 546].)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Contracts, §§ 159–165

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, §§ 140.22, 140.61 (Matthew Bender)

5 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50, Contracts, § 50.351 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.211 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 13, Attacking or Defending Existence of Contract—Absence of Essential Element, 13.23–13.24

309. Contract Formation—Acceptance

Both an offer and an acceptance are required to create a contract. [*Name of defendant] contends that a contract was not created because the offer was never accepted. To overcome this contention, [name of plaintiff] must prove both of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] agreed to be bound by the terms of the offer. [If [name of defendant] agreed to be bound only on certain conditions, or if [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] introduced a new term into the bargain, then there was no acceptance]; and

2. That [name of defendant] communicated [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] agreement to [name of plaintiff].

If [*name of plaintiff] did not prove both of the above, then a contract was not created.

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

Do not give this instruction unless the defendant has testified or offered other evidence in support of ~~his or her~~ the contention.

This instruction assumes that the defendant is claiming to have not accepted plaintiff's offer. Change the identities of the parties in the indented paragraphs if, under the facts of the case, the roles of the parties are switched (e.g., if defendant was the alleged offeror).

Sources and Authority

- Acceptance. Civil Code section 1585.

- "[T]erms proposed in an offer must be met exactly, precisely and unequivocally for its acceptance to result in the formation of a binding contract; and a qualified acceptance amounts to a new proposal or counteroffer putting an end to the original offer." (Panagotacos v. Bank of America (1998) 60 Cal.App.4th 851, 855–856 [70 Cal.Rptr.2d 595].)

- "[I]t is not necessarily true that any communication other than an unequivocal acceptance is a rejection. Thus, an acceptance is not invalidated by the fact that it is 'grumbling,' or that the offeree makes some simultaneous 'request.' Nevertheless, it must appear that the 'grumble' does not go so far as to make it doubtful that the expression is really one of assent. Similarly, the 'request' must not add additional or different terms from those offered. Otherwise, the 'acceptance' becomes a counteroffer." (Guzman v. Visalia Community Bank (1999) 71 Cal.App.4th 1370, 1376 [84 Cal.Rptr.2d 581].)

- "The interpretation of the purported acceptance or rejection of an offer is a question of fact. Further, based on the general rule that manifested mutual assent rather than actual mental assent is the essential element in the formation of contracts, the test of the true meaning of an acceptance or rejection is not what the party making it thought it meant or intended it to mean. Rather, the test is what a reasonable person in the position of the parties would have thought it meant." (Guzman, supra, 71 Cal.App.4th at pp. 1376–1377.)

- "Acceptance of an offer, which may be manifested by conduct as well as by words, must be expressed or communicated by the offeree to the offeror." (Russell v. Union Oil Co. (1970) 7 Cal.App.3d 110, 114 [86 Cal.Rptr. 424].)

- "The Restatement Second of Contracts, section 60 provides, 'If an offer prescribes the place, time or manner of acceptance its terms in this respect must be complied with in order to create a contract. If an offer merely suggests a permitted place, time or manner of acceptance, another method of acceptance is not precluded.' Comment a to Restatement 2d, section 60 provides, 'a. Interpretation of offer. If the offeror prescribes the only way in which his offer may be accepted, an acceptance in any other way is a counter-offer. But frequently in regard to the details of methods of acceptance, the offeror's language, if fairly interpreted, amounts merely to a statement of a satisfactory method of acceptance, without positive requirement that this method shall be followed.' [¶] Similarly, Restatement 2d, section 30 provides in relevant part, 'Unless otherwise indicated by the language or the circumstances, an offer invites acceptance in any manner and by any medium reasonable in the circumstances.' Comment b to Restatement 2d section 30 states: 'Invited form. Insistence on a particular form of acceptance is unusual. Offers often make no express reference to the form of acceptance; sometimes ambiguous language is used. Language referring to a particular mode of acceptance is often intended and understood as suggestion rather than limitation; the suggested mode is then authorized, but other modes are not precluded. In other cases language which in terms refers to the mode of acceptance is intended and understood as referring to some more important aspect of the transaction, such as the time limit for acceptance.' " (Pacific Corporate Group Holdings, LLC v. Keck (2014) 232 Cal.App.4th 294, 311−312 [181 Cal.Rptr.3d 399], original italics, footnote omitted.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Contracts, §§ 180–192

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.22 (Matthew Bender)

5 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50, Contracts, § 50.352 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.214 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 13, Attacking or Defending Existence of Contract—Absence of Essential Element, 13.25–13.31

310. Contract Formation—Acceptance by Silence

Ordinarily, if a ~~party~~ person does not say or do anything in response to another party's offer, then ~~he or she~~ the person has not accepted the offer. However, if [name of plaintiff] proves that both [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] and [name of defendant] understood silence or inaction to mean that [name of defendant] had accepted [name of plaintiff]'s offer, then there was an acceptance.

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction assumes that the defendant is claiming to have not accepted plaintiff's offer. Change the identities of the parties in the last two sets of brackets if, under the facts of the case, the roles of the parties are switched (e.g., if defendant was the alleged offeror).

This instruction should be read in conjunction with and immediately after CACI No. 309, Contract Formation—Acceptance, if acceptance by silence is an issue.

Sources and Authority

- Consent by Acceptance of Benefits. Civil Code section 1589.
- Because acceptance must be communicated, "[s]ilence in the face of an offer is not an acceptance, unless there is a relationship between the parties or a previous course of dealing pursuant to which silence would be understood as acceptance." (Southern California Acoustics Co., Inc. v. C. V. Holder, Inc. (1969) 71 Cal.2d 719, 722 [79 Cal.Rptr. 319, 456 P.2d 975].)
- Acceptance may also be inferred from inaction where one has a duty to act, and from retention of the offered benefit. (Golden Eagle Insurance Co. v. Foremost Insurance Co. (1993) 20 Cal.App.4th 1372, 1386 [25 Cal.Rptr.2d 242].)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Contracts, §§ 193–197

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.22 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.11 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 13, Attacking or Defending Existence of Contract—Absence of Essential Element, 13.31

311. Contract Formation—Rejection of Offer

[*Name of defendant] contends that the offer to enter into a contract terminated because [name of plaintiff] rejected it. To overcome this contention, [name of plaintiff] must prove both of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] did not reject [name of defendant]'s offer; and

2. That [name of plaintiff] did not make any additions or changes to the terms of [name of defendant]'s offer.

If [*name of plaintiff] did not prove both of the above, then a contract was not created.

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

Do not give this instruction unless the defendant has testified or offered other evidence in support of ~~his or her~~ the contention that the plaintiff rejected the offer.

Note that rejections of a contract offer, or proposed alterations to an offer, are effective only if they are communicated to the other party. (See Beverly Way Associates v. Barham (1990) 226 Cal.App.3d 49, 55 [276 Cal.Rptr. 240].) If it is necessary for the jury to make a finding regarding the issue of communication then this instruction may need to be modified.

This instruction assumes that the defendant is claiming plaintiff rejected defendant's offer. Change the identities of the parties in the indented paragraphs if, under the facts of the case, the roles of the parties are switched (e.g., if defendant was the alleged offeree).

Conceptually, this instruction dovetails with CACI No. 309, Contract Formation—Acceptance. This instruction is designed for the situation where a party has rejected an offer by not accepting it on its terms.

Sources and Authority

- Acceptance. Civil Code section 1585.

- Cases provide that "a qualified acceptance amounts to a new proposal or counter-offer putting an end to the original offer. ... A counter-offer containing a condition different from that in the original offer is a new proposal and, if not accepted by the original offeror, amounts to nothing." (Apablasa v. Merritt and Co. (1959) 176 Cal.App.2d 719, 726 [1 Cal.Rptr. 500], internal citations omitted.) More succinctly: "The rejection of an offer kills the offer." (Stanley v. Robert S. Odell and Co. (1950) 97 Cal.App.2d 521, 534 [218 P.2d 162].)

- "[T]erms proposed in an offer must be met exactly, precisely and unequivocally for its acceptance to result in the formation of a binding contract; and a qualified acceptance amounts to a new proposal or counteroffer putting an end to the original offer." (Panagotacos v. Bank of America (1998) 60 Cal.App.4th 851, 855–856 [70 Cal.Rptr.2d 595].)

- The original offer terminates as soon as the rejection is communicated to the offeror: "It is hornbook law that an unequivocal rejection by an offeree, communicated to the offeror, terminates the offer; even if the offeror does no further act, the offeree cannot later purport to accept the offer and thereby create enforceable contractual rights against the offeror." (Beverly Way Associates, supra, 226 Cal.App.3d at p. 55.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Contracts, § 163

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.22 (Matthew Bender)

5 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50, Contracts, § 50.352 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, §§ 75.212–75.214 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 13, Attacking or Defending Existence of Contract–Absence of Essential Element, 13.23–13.24

312. Substantial Performance

[Name of defendant] contends that [name of plaintiff] did not perform all of the things that [name of plaintiff~~he/she/it~~] was required to do under the contract, and therefore [name of defendant] did not have to perform [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] obligations under the contract. To overcome this contention, [name of plaintiff] must prove both of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] made a good faith effort to comply with the contract; and

2. That [name of defendant] received essentially what the contract called for because [name of plaintiff]'s failures, if any, were so trivial or unimportant that they could have been easily fixed or paid for.

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

Do not give this instruction unless the defendant has testified or offered other evidence in support of ~~his or her~~ the contention that the plaintiff did not perform all of the things required under the contract.

Sources and Authority

- " 'Substantial performance means that there has been no willful departure from the terms of the contract, and no omission of any of its essential parts, and that the contractor has in good faith performed all of its substantive terms. If so, he will not be held to have forfeited his right to a recovery by reason of trivial defects or imperfections in the work performed.' " (Connell v. Higgins (1915) 170 Cal. 541, 556 [150 P. 769], citation omitted.)

- The Supreme Court has cited the following passage from Witkin with approval: "At common law, recovery under a contract for work done was dependent upon a complete performance, although hardship might be avoided by permitting recovery in quantum meruit. The prevailing doctrine today, which finds its application chiefly in building contracts, is that substantial performance is sufficient, and justifies an action on the contract, although the other party is entitled to a reduction in the amount called for by the contract, to compensate for the defects. What constitutes substantial performance is a question of fact, but it is essential that there be no wilful departure from the terms of the contract, and that the defects be such as may be easily remedied or compensated, so that the promisee may get practically what the contract calls for." (Posner v. Grunwald-Marx, Inc. (1961) 56 Cal.2d 169, 186–187 [14 Cal.Rptr. 297, 363 P.2d 313]; see also Kossler v. Palm Springs Developments, Ltd. (1980) 101 Cal.App.3d 88, 101 [161 Cal.Rptr. 423].)

- " 'Whether, in any case, such defects or omissions are substantial, or merely unimportant mistakes that have been or may be corrected, is generally a question of fact.' " (Connell, supra, 170 Cal. at pp. 556–557, internal citation omitted.)

- "The doctrine of substantial performance has been recognized in California since at least 1921, when the California Supreme Court decided the landmark case of Thomas Haverty Co. v. Jones [citation], in which the court stated: 'The general rule on the subject of [contractual] performance is that "Where a person agrees to do a thing for another for a specified sum of money to be paid on full performance, he is not entitled to any part of the sum until he has himself done the thing he agreed to do, unless full performance has been excused, prevented, or delayed by the act of the other party, or by operation of law, or by the act of God or the public enemy." [Citation.] [¶] … [I]t is settled, especially in the case of building contracts, where the owner has taken possession of the building and is enjoying the fruits of the contractor's work in the performance of the contract, that if there has been a substantial performance thereof by the contractor in good faith, where the failure to make full performance can be compensated in damages, to be deducted from the price or allowed as a counterclaim, and the omissions and deviations were not willful or fraudulent, and do not substantially affect the usefulness of the building for the purposes for which it was intended, the contractor may, in an action upon the contract, recover the amount unpaid of his contract price less the amount allowed as damages for the failure in strict performance. [Citations.]' " (Murray's Iron Works, Inc. v. Boyce (2008) 158 Cal.App.4th 1279, 1291–1292 [71 Cal.Rptr.3d 317].)

- "We hold that a provision in the parties' contract making time of the essence does not automatically make [the defendant's] untimely performance a breach of contract because there are triable issues regarding the scope of that provision and whether its enforcement would result in a forfeiture to [the defendant] and a windfall to [the plaintiff]." (Magic Carpet Ride LLC v. Rugger Investment Group, LLC (2019) 41 Cal.App.5th 357, 360 [254 Cal.Rptr.3d 213].)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Contracts, §§ ~~818~~843–~~819~~884

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, § 140.23 (Matthew Bender)

5 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50, Contracts, §§ 50.30, 50.31 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.230 (Matthew Bender)

2 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 22, Suing or Defending Action for Breach of Contract, 22.08[2], 22.16[2], 22.37, 22.69

322. Occurrence of Agreed Condition Precedent

The parties agreed in their contract that [*name of defendant] would not have to [insert duty] unless [insert condition precedent]. [Name of defendant] contends that this condition did not occur and that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] did not have to [insert duty]. To overcome this contention, [name of plaintiff] must prove that [insert condition precedent].

If [*name of plaintiff] does not prove that [insert condition precedent], then [name of defendant] was not required to [insert duty].

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

Do not give this instruction unless the defendant has testified or offered other evidence in support of ~~his or her~~ the contention a condition precedent did not occur.

If both the existence and the occurrence of a condition precedent are contested, use CACI No. 321, Existence of Condition Precedent Disputed.

Sources and Authority

- Conditional Obligation. Civil Code section 1434.
- Condition Precedent. Civil Code section 1436.
- "A conditional obligation is one in which 'the rights or duties of any party thereto depend upon the occurrence of an uncertain event.' '[P]arties may expressly agree that a right or duty is conditional upon the occurrence or nonoccurrence of an act or event.' A condition in a contract may be a condition precedent, concurrent, or subsequent." (JMR Construction Corp. v. Environmental Assessment & Remediation Management, Inc. (2015) 243 Cal.App.4th 571, 593 [198 Cal.Rptr.3d 47].)
- "[A] 'condition precedent' is 'either an act of a party that must be performed or an uncertain event that must happen before the contractual right accrues or the contractual duty arises.' " (Stephens & Stephens XII, LLC v. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. (2014) 231 Cal.App.4th 1131, 1147 [180 Cal.Rptr.3d 683].)
- "Under the law of contracts, parties may expressly agree that a right or duty is conditional upon the occurrence or nonoccurrence of an act or event." (Platt Pacific, Inc. v. Andelson (1993) 6 Cal.4th 307, 313 [24 Cal.Rptr.2d 597, 862 P.2d 158].)
- "The existence of a condition precedent normally depends upon the intent of the parties as determined from the words they have employed in the contract." (Karpinski v. Smitty's Bar, Inc. (2016) 246 Cal.App.4th 456, 464 [201 Cal.Rptr.3d 148].)

-

- " '[G]enerally, a party's failure to perform a condition precedent will preclude an action for breach of contract.' " (Stephens & Stephens XII, LLC, supra, 231 Cal.App.4th at p. 1147.)

- "[W]here defendant's duty to perform under the contract is conditioned on the happening of some event, the plaintiff must prove the event transpired." (Consolidated World Investments, Inc. v. Lido Preferred Ltd. (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 373, 380 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 524].)

- "When a contract establishes the satisfaction of one of the parties as a condition precedent, two tests are recognized: (1) The party is bound to make his decision according to the judicially discerned, objective standard of a reasonable person; (2) the party may make a subjective decision regardless of reasonableness, controlled only by the need for good faith. Which test applies in a given transaction is a matter of actual or judicially inferred intent. Absent an explicit contractual direction or one implied from the subject matter, the law prefers the objective, i.e., reasonable person, test." (Guntert v. City of Stockton (1974) 43 Cal.App.3d 203, 209 [117 Cal.Rptr. 601], internal citations omitted.)

- "[T]he parol evidence rule does not apply to conditions precedent." (Karpinski, supra, 246 Cal.App.4th at p. 464, fn 6.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Contracts, §§ ~~776~~799–~~791~~814

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, §§ 140.44, 140.101 (Matthew Bender)

5 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50, Contracts, §§ 50.20–50.22 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.230 (Matthew Bender)

2 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 22, Suing or Defending Action for Breach of Contract, 22.19, 22.66

324. Anticipatory Breach

A party can breach, or break, a contract before performance is required by clearly and positively indicating, by words or conduct, that ~~he or she~~ the party will not or can not meet the requirements of the contract.

If [name of plaintiff] proves that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] would have been able to fulfill the terms of the contract and that [name of defendant] clearly and positively indicated, by words or conduct, that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] would not or could not meet the contract requirements, then [name of defendant] breached the contract.

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Sources and Authority

- Anticipatory Breach. Civil Code section 1440.

- "Repudiation of a contract, also known as "anticipatory breach," occurs when a party announces an intention not to perform prior to the time due for performance." (Stephens & Stephens XII, LLC v. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. (2014) 231 Cal.App.4th 1131, 1150 [180 Cal.Rptr.3d 683].)

- Courts have defined anticipatory breach as follows: "An anticipatory breach of contract occurs on the part of one of the parties to the instrument when he positively repudiates the contract by acts or statements indicating that he will not or cannot substantially perform essential terms thereof, or by voluntarily transferring to a third person the property rights which are essential to a substantial performance of the previous agreement, or by a voluntary act which renders substantial performance of the contract impossible or apparently impossible." (C. A. Crane v. East Side Canal & Irrigation Co. (1935) 6 Cal.App.2d 361, 367 [44 P.2d 455].)

- Anticipatory breach can be express or implied: "An express repudiation is a clear, positive, unequivocal refusal to perform; an implied repudiation results from conduct where the promisor puts it out of his power to perform so as to make substantial performance of his promise impossible." (Taylor v. Johnston (1975) 15 Cal.3d 130, 137 [123 Cal.Rptr. 641, 539 P.2d 425].)

- "In the event the promisor repudiates the contract before the time for his or her performance has arrived, the plaintiff has an election of remedies--he or she may 'treat the repudiation as an anticipatory breach and immediately seek damages for breach of contract, thereby terminating the contractual relation between the parties, or he [or she] can treat the repudiation as an empty threat, wait until the time for performance arrives and exercise his [or her] remedies for actual breach if a breach does in fact occur at such time.' " (Romano v. Rockwell Internat., Inc. (1996) 14 Cal.4th 479, 489 [59 Cal.Rptr.2d 20, 926 P.2d 1114].)

- Anticipatory breach can be used as an excuse for plaintiff's failure to substantially perform. (Gold Mining & Water Co. v. Swinerton (1943) 23 Cal.2d 19, 29 [142 P.2d 22].)

- "Although it is true that an anticipatory breach or repudiation of a contract by one party permits the other party to sue for damages without performing or offering to perform its own obligations, this does not mean damages can be recovered without evidence that, but for the defendant's breach, the plaintiff would have had the ability to perform." (Ersa Grae Corp. v. Fluor Corp. (1991) 1 Cal.App.4th 613, 625 [2 Cal.Rptr.2d 288], internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Contracts, §§ ~~861~~886 ~~868~~893

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, §§ 140.54, 140.105 (Matthew Bender)

5 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 50, Contracts, § 50.23 (Matthew Bender)

27 California Legal Forms, Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations, §§ 77.15, 77.361 (Matthew Bender)

2 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 22, Suing or Defending Action for Breach of Contract, 22.23

325. Breach of Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing—Essential Factual Elements

In every contract or agreement there is an implied promise of good faith and fair dealing. This implied promise means that each party will not do anything to unfairly interfere with the right of any other party to receive the benefits of the contract. Good faith means honesty of purpose without any intention to mislead or to take unfair advantage of another. Generally speaking, it means being faithful to one's duty or obligation. However, the implied promise of good faith and fair dealing cannot create obligations that are inconsistent with the terms of the contract.

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] violated the duty to act fairly and in good faith. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [*name of plaintiff] and [name of defendant] entered into a contract;

[2. That [*name of plaintiff] did all, or substantially all of the significant things that the contract required [him/her/nonbinary pronoun/it] to do [or that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] was excused from having to do those things];]

[3. That all conditions required for [*name of defendant]'s performance [had occurred/ [or] were excused];]

4. That [*name of defendant] [specify conduct that plaintiff claims prevented ~~him/her/it~~ plaintiff from receiving the benefits ~~that he/she/it was entitled to have received~~ under the contract];

5. That by doing so, [*name of defendant] did not act fairly and in good faith; and

6. That [*name of plaintiff] was harmed by [name of defendant]'s conduct.

New April 2004; Revised June 2011, December 2012, June 2014, November 2019, May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction should be given if the plaintiff has brought a separate count for breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing. It may be given in addition to CACI No. 303, Breach of Contract—Essential Factual Elements, if breach of contract on other grounds is also alleged.

Include element 2 if the plaintiff's substantial performance of contract requirements is at issue. Include element 3 if the contract contains conditions precedent that must occur before the defendant is required to perform. For discussion of element 3, see the Directions for Use to CACI No. 303.

In element 4, insert an explanation of the defendant's conduct that violated the duty to act in good faith.

If a claim for breach of the implied covenant does nothing more than allege a mere contract breach and, relying on the same alleged acts, simply seeks the same damages or other relief already claimed in a contract cause of action, it may be disregarded as superfluous because no additional claim is actually stated. (Careau & Co. v. Security Pacific Business Credit, Inc. (1990) 222 Cal.App.3d 1371, 1395 [272 Cal.Rptr. 387].) The harm alleged in element 6 may produce contract damages that are different from those claimed for breach of the express contract provisions. (See Digerati Holdings, LLC v. Young Money Entertainment, LLC (2011) 194 Cal.App.4th 873, 885 [123 Cal.Rptr.3d 736] [noting that gravamen of the two claims rests on different facts and different harm].)

It has been noted that one may bring a claim for breach of the implied covenant without also bringing a claim for breach of other contract terms. (See Careau & Co., supra, 222 Cal.App.3d at p. 1395.) Thus it would seem that a jury should be able to find a breach of the implied covenant even if it finds for the defendant on all other breach of contract claims.

Sources and Authority

- "There is an implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing in every contract that neither party will do anything which will injure the right of the other to receive the benefits of the agreement." (Comunale v. Traders & General Ins. Co. (1958) 50 Cal.2d 654, 658 [328 P.2d 198], internal citation omitted.)

- " ' "Every contract imposes upon each party a duty of good faith and fair dealing in its performance and its enforcement." ' [] The covenant of good faith finds particular application in situations where one party is invested with a discretionary power affecting the rights of another. Such power must be exercised in good faith." (Carma Developers (Cal.), Inc. v. Marathon Development California, Inc. (1992) 2 Cal.4th 342, 371–372 [6 Cal.Rptr.2d 467, 826 P.2d 710], internal citations omitted.)

- "When one party to a contract retains the unilateral right to amend the agreement governing the parties' relationship, its exercise of that right is constrained by the covenant of good faith and fair dealing which precludes amendments that operate retroactively to impair accrued rights." (Cobb v. Ironwood Country Club (2015) 233 Cal.App.4th 960, 963 [183 Cal.Rptr.3d 282].)

- "The covenant of good faith and fair dealing, implied by law in every contract, exists merely to prevent one contracting party from unfairly frustrating the other party's right to receive the benefits of the agreement actually made. The covenant thus cannot ' " 'be endowed with an existence independent of its contractual underpinnings.' " ' It cannot impose substantive duties or limits on the contracting parties beyond those incorporated in the specific terms of their agreement." (Guz v. Bechtel National, Inc. (2000) 24 Cal.4th 317, 349–350 [100 Cal.Rptr.2d 352, 8 P.3d 1089], original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- "The implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing cannot be read to require defendants to take a particular action that is discretionary under the contract when the contract also expressly grants them the discretion to take a different action. To apply the covenant to require a party to take one of two alternative actions expressly allowed by the contract and forgo the other would contravene the rule that the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing may not be 'read to prohibit a party from doing that which is expressly permitted by an agreement.' " (Bevis v. Terrace View Partners, LP (2019) 33 Cal.App.5th 230, 256 [244 Cal.Rptr.3d 797], original italics.)

- "The implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing rests upon the existence of some specific contractual obligation. 'The covenant of good faith is read into contracts in order to protect the express covenants or promises of the contract, not to protect some general public policy interest not directly tied to the contract's purpose.' ... 'In essence, the covenant is implied as a supplement to the express contractual covenants, to prevent a contracting party from engaging in conduct which (while not technically transgressing the express covenants) frustrates the other party's rights to the benefits of the contract.' " (Racine & Laramie, Ltd. v. Department of Parks & Recreation (1992) 11 Cal.App.4th 1026, 1031–1032 [14 Cal.Rptr.2d 335], internal citations omitted.)

- "There is no obligation to deal fairly or in good faith absent an existing contract. If there exists a contractual relationship between the parties ... the implied covenant is limited to assuring compliance with the express terms of the contract, and cannot be extended to create obligations not contemplated in the contract." (Racine & Laramie, Ltd., supra, 11 Cal.App.4th at p. 1032, internal citations omitted.)

- "Although breach of the implied covenant often is pleaded as a separate count, a breach of the implied covenant is necessarily a breach of contract." (Digerati Holdings, LLC, supra, 194 Cal.App.4th at p. 885.)

- " '[B]reach of a specific provision of the contract is not … necessary' to a claim for breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing." (Thrifty Payless, Inc. v. The Americana at Brand, LLC (2013) 218 Cal.App.4th 1230, 1244 [160 Cal.Rptr.3d 718].)

- "The issue of whether the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing has been breached is ordinarily 'a question of fact unless only one inference [can] be drawn from the evidence.' " (Hicks v. E.T. Legg & Associates (2001) 89 Cal.App.4th 496, 509 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 10], internal citation omitted.)

- "If the allegations do not go beyond the statement of a mere contract breach and, relying on the same alleged acts, simply seek the same damages or other relief already claimed in a companion contract cause of action, they may be disregarded as superfluous as no additional claim is actually stated. Thus, absent those limited cases where a breach of a consensual contract term is not claimed or alleged, the only justification for asserting a separate cause of action for breach of the implied covenant is to obtain a tort recovery." (Careau & Co., supra, 222 Cal.App.3d at p. 1395.)

- "[W]e believe that the gravamen of the two counts differs. The gravamen of the breach of contract count is [cross defendants'] alleged failure to comply with their express contractual obligations specified in paragraph 37 of the cross-complaint, while the gravamen of the count for breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing is their alleged efforts to undermine or prevent the potential sale and distribution of the film, both by informing distributors that the film was unauthorized and could be subject to future litigation and by seeking an injunction. (Digerati Holdings, LLC, supra, 194 Cal. App. 4th at p. 885.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Contracts, §§ 822, 824–826

13 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts, §§ 140.12, 140.50 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

2 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 23, Suing or Defending Action for Breach of Duty of Good Faith and Fair Dealing, 23.05

333. Affirmative Defense—Economic Duress

[*Name of defendant] claims that there was no contract because [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] consent was given under duress. To succeed, [name of defendant] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] used a wrongful act or wrongful threat to pressure [name of defendant] into consenting to the contract;

2. That a reasonable person in [name of defendant]'s position would have believed that ~~he or she had~~ there was no reasonable alternative except to consent to the contract; and

3. That [name of defendant] would not have consented to the contract without the wrongful act or wrongful threat.

An act or a threat is wrongful if [*insert relevant rule, e.g., "a bad-faith breach of contract is threatened"].

If you decide that [*name of defendant] has proved all of the above, then no contract was created.

New September 2003; Revised December 2005, June 2011, December 2011, May 2020

Directions for Use

Different elements may apply if economic duress is alleged to avoid an agreement to settle a debt. (See Perez v. Uline, Inc. (2007) 157 Cal.App.4th 953, 959–960 [68 Cal.Rptr.3d 872].)

Element 2 requires that the defendant have had "no reasonable alternative" other than to consent. Economic duress to avoid a settlement agreement may require that the creditor be placed in danger of imminent bankruptcy or financial ruin. (See Rich & Whillock, Inc. v. Ashton Development, Inc. (1984) 157 Cal.App.3d 1154, 1156–1157, 204 Cal.Rptr. 86].) At least one court has stated this standard in a case not involving a settlement (see Uniwill v. City of Los Angeles (2004) 124 Cal.App.4th 537, 545 [21 Cal.Rptr.3d 464]), though most cases do not require that the only alternative be bankruptcy or financial ruin. (See, e.g., Chan v. Lund (2010) 188 Cal.App.4th 1159, 1173–1174 [116 Cal.Rptr.3d 122].)

In the next-to-last paragraph, state the rule that makes the alleged conduct wrongful. (See Restatement 2d of Contracts, § 176, When a Threat is Improper.) The conduct must be something more than the breach or threatened breach of the contract itself. An act for which a party has an adequate legal remedy is not duress. (River Bank America v. Diller (1995) 38 Cal.App.4th 1400, 1425 [45 Cal.Rptr.2d 790].)

Sources and Authority

- When Consent Not Freely Given. Civil Code sections 1567, 1568.

- "The doctrine of 'economic duress' can apply when one party has done a wrongful act which is sufficiently coercive to cause a reasonably prudent person, faced with no reasonable alternative, to agree to an unfavorable contract. The party subjected to the coercive act, and having no reasonable alternative, can then plead 'economic duress' to avoid the contract." (CrossTalk Productions, Inc. v. Jacobson (1998) 65 Cal.App.4th 631, 644 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 615], internal citation omitted.)

- The nonexistence of a "reasonable alternative" is a question of fact. (CrossTalk Productions, Inc., supra, 65 Cal.App.4th at p. 644.)

- " 'At the outset it is helpful to acknowledge the various policy considerations which are involved in cases involving economic duress. Typically, those claiming such coercion are attempting to avoid the consequences of a modification of an original contract or of a settlement and release agreement. On the one hand, courts are reluctant to set aside agreements because of the notion of freedom of contract and because of the desirability of having private dispute resolutions be final. On the other hand, there is an increasing recognition of the law's role in correcting inequitable or unequal exchanges between parties of disproportionate bargaining power and a greater willingness to not enforce agreements which were entered into under coercive circumstances.' " (Rich & Whillock, Inc., supra, 157 Cal.App.3d at p. 1158.)

- " 'As it has evolved to the present day, the economic duress doctrine is not limited by early statutory and judicial expressions requiring an unlawful act in the nature of a tort or a crime. … Instead, the doctrine now may come into play upon the doing of a wrongful act which is sufficiently coercive to cause a reasonably prudent person faced with no reasonable alternative to succumb to the perpetrator's pressure. … The assertion of a claim known to be false or a bad faith threat to breach a contract or to withhold a payment may constitute a wrongful act for purposes of the economic duress doctrine. … Further, a reasonably prudent person subject to such an act may have no reasonable alternative but to succumb when the only other alternative is bankruptcy or financial ruin. …' " (Chan, supra, 188 Cal.App.4th at pp. 1173–1174.)

- " 'It is not duress . . . to take a different view of contract rights, even though mistaken, from that of the other contracting party, and it is not duress to refuse, in good faith, to proceed with a contract, even though such refusal might later be found to be wrong. [¶] . . . "A mere threat to withhold a legal right for the enforcement of which a person has an adequate [legal] remedy is not duress." ' " (River Bank America, supra, 38 Cal.App.4th at p. 1425.)

- "[W]rongful acts will support a claim of economic duress when 'a reasonably prudent person subject to such an act may have no reasonable alternative but to succumb when the only other alternative is bankruptcy or financial ruin.' " (Uniwill, supra, 124 Cal.App.4th at p. 545.)

- "Economic duress has been recognized as a basis for rescinding a settlement. However, the courts, in desiring to protect the freedom of contracts and to accord finality to a privately negotiated dispute resolution, are reluctant to set aside settlements and will apply 'economic duress' only in limited circumstances and as a 'last resort.' " (San Diego Hospice v. County of San Diego (1995) 31 Cal.App.4th 1048, 1058 [37 Cal.Rptr.2d 501].)

- "Required criteria that must be proven to invalidate a settlement agreement are: '(1) the debtor knew there was no legitimate dispute and that it was liable for the full amount; (2) the debtor nevertheless refused in bad faith to pay and thereby created the economic duress of imminent bankruptcy; (3) the debtor, knowing the vulnerability its own bad faith had created, used the situation to escape an acknowledged debt; and (4) the creditor was forced to accept an inequitably low amount. …' " (Perez, supra, 157 Cal.App.4th at pp. 959–960.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Contracts, §§ ~~314~~315–~~316~~317

17 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 215, Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake, §§ 215.22, 215.122 (Matthew Bender)

9 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 92, Duress, Menace, Fraud, Undue Influence, and Mistake, § 92.24 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 8, Seeking or Opposing Equitable Remedies in Contract Actions, 8.07

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Contract Litigation, Ch. 17, Attacking or Defending Existence of Contract—Fraud, Duress, Menace, and Undue Influence, 17.03–17.06, 17.20–17.24[2]

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Did [name of plaintiff] and [name of defendant] enter into a contract?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

[2. Did [name of plaintiff] do all, or substantially all, of the significant things that the contract required [him/her/nonbinary pronoun/it] to do?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 2 is yes, [skip question 3 and] answer question 4. If you answered no, [answer question 3 if excuse is at issue/stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form].]

[3.
Was [name of plaintiff] excused from having to do all, or substantially all, of the significant things that the contract required [him/her/nonbinary pronoun/it] to do?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 3 is yes, then answer question 4. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.]

[4. Did all the conditions that were required for [name of defendant]'s performance occur?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 4 is yes, [skip question 5 and] answer question 6. If you answered no, [answer question 5 if waiver or excuse is at issue/stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form].]

[5. Were the required conditions that did not occur [excused/waived]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 5 is yes, then answer question 6. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.]

6. [Did [name of defendant] fail to do something that the contract required [him/her/nonbinary pronoun/it] to do?

____ Yes ____ No]

[or]

[Did [name of defendant] do something that the contract prohibited [him/her/nonbinary pronoun/it] from doing?
____ Yes ____ No]

If your answer to [either option for] question 6 is yes, then answer question 7. If you answered no [to both options], stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

7. Was [name of plaintiff] harmed by [name of defendant]'s breach of contract?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 7 is yes, then answer question 8. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

8. What are [name of plaintiff]'s damages?

[a. Past [economic] loss [including [*insert descriptions of claimed damages]]:

$ _____]

[b. Future [economic] loss [including [*insert descriptions of claimed damages]]:

$ _____]

TOTAL $ _____

Signed: _____
Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

After [this verdict form has/all verdict forms have] been signed, notify the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant] that you are ready to present your verdict in the courtroom.

New April 2004; Revised December 2010, June 2011, June 2013, June 2015, May 2020

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 303, Breach of Contract—Essential Factual Elements. This form is intended for use in most contract disputes. If more specificity is desired, see verdict forms that follow.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

Optional questions 2 and 3 address acts that the plaintiff must have performed before the defendant's duty to perform is triggered. Include question 2 if the court has determined that the contract included dependent covenants, such that the failure of the plaintiff to perform some obligation would relieve the defendant of the obligation to perform. (See Brown v. Grimes (2011) 192 Cal.App.4th 265, 277–279 [120 Cal.Rptr.3d 893].) Include question 3 if the plaintiff claims that ~~he or she~~the plaintiff was excused from having to perform an otherwise required obligation.

Optional questions 4 and 5 address conditions precedent to the defendant's performance. Include question 4 if the occurrence of conditions for performance is at issue. (See CACI No. 322, Occurrence of Agreed Condition Precedent.) Include question 5 if the plaintiff alleges that conditions that did not occur were excused. The most common form of excuse is the defendant's waiver. (See CACI No. 323, Waiver of Condition Precedent; see also Restatement Second of Contracts, section 225, Comment b.) Waiver must be proved by clear and convincing evidence. (DRG/Beverly Hills, Ltd. v. Chopstix Dim Sum Cafe & Takeout III, Ltd. (1994) 30 Cal.App.4th 54, 60 [35 Cal.Rptr.2d 515].)

Note that questions 4 and 5 address conditions precedent, not the defendant's nonperformance after the conditions have all occurred or been excused. The defendant's nonperformance is the first option for question 6. If the defendant alleges that its nonperformance was excused or waived by the plaintiff, an additional question on excuse or waiver should be included after question 6.

If the verdict form used combines other causes of action involving both economic and noneconomic damages, use "economic" in question 8.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize the damages listed in question 8. The breakdown is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Were the contract terms clear enough so that the parties could understand what each was required to do?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Did the parties agree to give each other something of value?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 2 is yes, then answer question 3. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

3. Did the parties agree to the terms of the contract?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 3 is yes, then answer question 4. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

[4. Did [name of plaintiff] do all, or substantially all, of the significant things that the contract required [him/her/nonbinary pronoun/it] to do?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 4 is yes, [skip question 5 and] answer question 6. If you answered no, [answer question 5 if excuse is at issue/stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date the form].]

[5. Was [name of plaintiff] excused from having to do all, or substantially all, of the significant things that the contract required [him/her/nonbinary pronoun/it] to do?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 5 is yes, then answer question 6. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.]

[6. Did all the conditions that were required for [name of defendant]'s performance occur?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 6 is yes, [skip question 7 and] answer question 8. If you answered no, [answer question 7 if excuse_or waiver is at issue/stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form].

[7. Were the required conditions that did not occur [excused/waived]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 7 is yes, then answer question 8. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.]

8. [Did [*name of defendant] fail to do something that the contract required [him/her/nonbinary pronoun/it] to do?
____ Yes ____ No]

[or]

[Did [*name of defendant] do something that the contract prohibited [him/her/nonbinary pronoun/it] from doing?
____ Yes ____ No]

If your answer to [either option for] question 8 is yes, then answer question 9. If you answered no [to both options], stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

9. Was [*name of plaintiff] harmed by [name of defendant]'s breach of contract?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 9 is yes, then answer question 10. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

10. What are [*name of plaintiff]'s damages?

[a. Past [economic] loss [including] [*insert descriptions of claimed damages]:
$ _____]

[b. Future [economic] loss [including] [*insert descriptions of claimed damages]:
$ _____]

TOTAL $ _____

Signed: _____
Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

After [this verdict form has/all verdict forms have] been signed, notify the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant] that you are ready to present your verdict in the courtroom.

New October 2004; Revised December 2010, June 2015. May 2020

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 302, Contract Formation—Essential Factual Elements, and CACI No. 303, Breach of Contract—Essential Factual Elements. The elements concerning the parties' legal capacity and legal purpose will likely not be issues for the jury. If the jury is needed to make a factual determination regarding these issues, appropriate questions may be added to this verdict form.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

Optional questions 4 and 5 address acts that the plaintiff must have performed before the defendant's duty to perform is triggered. Include question 4 if the court has determined that the contract included dependent covenants, such that the failure of the plaintiff to perform some obligation would relieve the defendant of the obligation to perform. (See Brown v. Grimes (2011) 192 Cal.App.4th 265, 277–279 [120 Cal.Rptr.3d 893].) Include question 5 if the plaintiff claims that ~~he or she~~the plaintiff was excused from having to perform an otherwise required obligation.

Optional questions 6 and 7 address conditions precedent to the defendant's performance. Include question 6 if the occurrence of conditions for performance is at issue. (See CACI No. 322, Occurrence of Agreed Condition Precedent.) Include question 7 if the plaintiff alleges that conditions that did not occur were excused. The most common form of excuse is the defendant's waiver. (See CACI No. 323, Waiver of Condition Precedent; see also Restatement Second of Contracts, section 225, Comment b.) Waiver must be proved by clear and convincing evidence. (DRG/Beverly Hills, Ltd. v. Chopstix Dim Sum Cafe & Takeout III, Ltd. (1994) 30 Cal.App.4th 54, 60 [35 Cal.Rptr.2d 515].)

Note that questions 6 and 7 address conditions precedent, not the defendant's nonperformance after the conditions have all occurred or been excused. The defendant's nonperformance is the first option for question 8. If the defendant alleges that its nonperformance was excused or waived by the plaintiff, an additional question on excuse or waiver should be included after question 8.

If the verdict form used combines other causes of action involving both economic and noneconomic damages, use "economic" in question 10.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 10. The breakdown is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

401. Basic Standard of Care

Negligence is the failure to use reasonable care to prevent harm to oneself or to others.

A person can be negligent by acting or by failing to act. A person is negligent if ~~he or she~~that person does something that a reasonably careful person would not do in the same situation or fails to do something that a reasonably careful person would do in the same situation.

You must decide how a reasonably careful person would have acted in [*name of plaintiff/defendant]'s situation.

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Sources and Authority

- "The formulation of the standard of care is a question of law for the court. Once the court has formulated the standard, its application to the facts of the case is a task for the trier of fact if reasonable minds might differ as to whether a party's conduct has conformed to the standard." (Ramirez v. Plough, Inc. (1993) 6 Cal.4th 539, 546 [25 Cal.Rptr.2d 97, 863 P.2d 167], internal citations omitted.)

- Restatement Second of Torts, section 282, defines negligence as "conduct which falls below the standard established by law for the protection of others against unreasonable risk of harm."

- Restatement Second of Torts, section 283, provides: "Unless the actor is a child, the standard of conduct to which he must conform to avoid being negligent is that of a reasonable man under like circumstances."

- The California Supreme Court has stated: "Because application of [due care] is inherently situational, the amount of care deemed reasonable in any particular case will vary, while at the same time the standard of conduct itself remains constant, i.e., due care commensurate with the risk posed by the conduct taking into consideration all relevant circumstances. [Citations]." (Flowers v. Torrance Memorial Hospital Medical Center (1994) 8 Cal.4th 992, 997 [35 Cal.Rptr.2d 685, 884 P.2d 142]; see also Tucker v. Lombardo (1956) 47 Cal.2d 457, 464 [303 P.2d 1041].)

- The proper conduct of a reasonable person in a particular situation may become settled by judicial decision or may be established by statute or administrative regulation. (Ramirez, supra, 6 Cal.4th at p. 547.) (See CACI Nos. 418 to 421 on negligence per se.)

- Negligence can be found in the doing of an act, as well as in the failure to do an act. (Rest.2d Torts, § 284.)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~867~~998, ~~868~~999

California Tort Guide (Cont.Ed.Bar 3d ed.) § 1.3

1 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 1, Negligence: Duty and Breach, §§ 1.01, 1.02, 1.30 (Matthew Bender)

33 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 380, Negligence (Matthew Bender)

16 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 165, Negligence, § 165.31 (Matthew Bender)

404. Intoxication

A person is not necessarily negligent just because ~~he or she~~ that person used alcohol [or drugs]. However, people who drink alcohol [or take drugs] must act just as carefully as those who do not.

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction should be given only if there is evidence of alcohol or drug consumption. This instruction is not intended for situations in which intoxication is grounds for a negligence per se instruction (e.g., driving under the influence).

Sources and Authority

- Mere consumption of alcohol is not negligence in and of itself: "The fact that a person when injured was intoxicated is not in itself evidence of contributory negligence, but it is a circumstance to be considered in determining whether his intoxication contributed to his injury." (Coakley v. Ajuria (1930) 209 Cal. 745, 752 [290 P. 33].)

- Intoxication is not generally an excuse for failure to comply with the reasonable-person standard. (Cloud v. Market Street Railway Co. (1946) 74 Cal.App.2d 92, 97 [168 P.2d 191].)

- Intoxication is not negligence as a matter of law, but it is a circumstance for the jury to consider in determining whether such intoxication was a contributing cause of an injury and is also a question of fact for the jury. (Pittman v. Boiven (1967) 249 Cal.App.2d 207, 217 [57 Cal.Rptr. 319]; Barr v. Scott (1955) 134 Cal.App.2d 823, 827–828 [286 P.2d 552]; see also Emery v. Los Angeles Ry. Corp. (1943) 61 Cal.App.2d 455, 461 [143 P.2d 112].)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, § ~~1320~~1477

2 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 20, Motor Vehicles, §§ 20.02, 20.04 (Matthew Bender)

33 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 380, Negligence (Matthew Bender)

411. Reliance on Good Conduct of Others

Every person has a right to expect that every other person will use reasonable care [and will not violate the law], unless ~~he or she~~that person knows, or should know, that the other person will not use reasonable care [or will violate the law].

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction should not be used if the only other actor is the plaintiff and there is no evidence that the plaintiff acted unreasonably. (Springer v. Reimers (1970) 4 Cal.App.3d 325, 336 [84 Cal.Rptr. 486].)

Sources and Authority

- "[E]very person has a right to presume that every other person will perform his duty and obey the law and in the absence of reasonable grounds to think otherwise, it is not negligence to assume that he is not exposed to danger which could come to him only from violation of law or duty by such other person." (Celli v. Sports Car Club of America, Inc. (1972) 29 Cal.App.3d 511, 523 [105 Cal.Rptr. 904].)

- "However, this rule does not extend to a person who is not exercising ordinary care, nor to one who knows or, by the exercise of such care, would know that the law is not being observed." (Malone v. Perryman (1964) 226 Cal.App.2d 227, 234 [37 Cal.Rptr. 864].)

- "[CACI No. 411] is a pattern jury instruction designed for use in civil negligence cases involving a plaintiff suing a defendant for failing to prevent harm caused by a third party. The principle it espouses is essentially that a defendant will not be liable for harm caused by a third party's negligent or criminal conduct, unless the third party's conduct was foreseeable … ." (People v. Elder (2017) 11 Cal.App.5th 123, 135 [217 Cal.Rptr.3d 493].)

- "[Defendant], if exercising ordinary care himself, was entitled to assume that plaintiff's employer had furnished to plaintiff a safe place within which to work and he could further assume that the plaintiff would reasonably use the protection afforded to him by the employer." (Tucker v. Lombardo (1956) 47 Cal.2d 457, 467 [303 P.2d 1041] [approved language in jury instruction].)

- "If there is evidence on both sides of the question as to whether the conduct of a third person is or is not foreseeable, the jury instruction is correct. Its application or effect will depend on the finding of the jury as to whether the act of the third person should have been anticipated or foreseen." (Whitton v. State of California (1979) 98 Cal.App.3d 235, 246 [159 Cal.Rptr. 405].)

- "If the likelihood that a third person may act in a particular manner is the hazard or one of the hazards which makes the actor negligent, such an act whether innocent, negligent, intentionally tortious, or criminal does not prevent the actor from being liable for harm caused thereby." (Bigbee v.

Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. (1983) 34 Cal.3d 49, 58 [192 Cal.Rptr. 857, 665 P.2d 947]; see also Rest.2d Torts, § 449.)

- "Foreseeability, when analyzed to determine the existence or scope of a duty, is a question of law to be decided by the court." (Ann M. v. Pacific Plaza Shopping Center (1993) 6 Cal.4th 666, 678 [25 Cal.Rptr.2d 137, 863 P.2d 207], disapproved on other grounds in Reid v. Google Inc. (2010) 50 Cal.4th 512, 527 fn. 5 [113 Cal.App.3d 327, 235 P.3d 988].)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Torts, §§ 1468–1470

1 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 1, Negligence, § 1.02 (Matthew Bender)

4 California Trial Guide, Unit 90, Closing Argument, §§ 90.88, 90.90 (Matthew Bender)

California Products Liability Actions, Ch. 2, Liability for Defective Products, § 2.21 (Matthew Bender)

33 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 380, Negligence, § 380.51 (Matthew Bender)

16 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 165, Negligence, § 165.120 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

414. Amount of Caution Required in Dangerous Situations

People must be extremely careful when they deal with dangerous items or participate in dangerous activities. [*Insert type of dangerous item or activity] is dangerous in and of itself. The risk of harm is so great that the failure to use extreme caution is negligence.

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

An instruction on the standard of care for extremely dangerous activities is proper only "in situations where the nature of the activity or substance is so inherently dangerous or complex, as such, that the hazard persists despite the exercise of ordinary care." (Benwell v. Dean (1964) 227 Cal.App.2d 226, 233 [38 Cal.Rptr. 542]; see also Menchaca v. Helms Bakeries, Inc. (1968) 68 Cal.2d 535, 544 [67 Cal.Rptr. 775, 439 P.2d 903].)

This instruction should not be given at the same time as an instruction pertaining to standard of care for employees who have to work in dangerous situations. In appropriate cases, juries may be instructed that a person of ordinary prudence is required to exercise extreme caution when engaged in a dangerous activity. (Borenkraut v. Whitten (1961) 56 Cal.2d 538, 544–546 [15 Cal.Rptr. 635, 364 P.2d 467].) However, this rule does not apply when a person's lawful employment requires that ~~he or she must~~ person to work in a dangerous situation. (McDonald v. City of Oakland (1967) 255 Cal.App.2d 816, 827 [63 Cal.Rptr. 593].) This is because "reasonable ~~men~~ [employees] who are paid to give at least part of their attention to their job" may not be as able to maintain the same standards for personal safety as nonemployees. (Young v. Aro Corp. (1974) 36 Cal.App.3d 240, 245 [111 Cal.Rptr. 535].) (See CACI No. 415, Employee Required to Work in Dangerous Situations.)

Sources and Authority

- Even a slight deviation from the standards of care will constitute negligence in cases involving dangerous instrumentalities. (Borenkraut, supra, 56 Cal.2d at p. 545.)

- Dangerous instrumentalities include fire, firearms, explosive or highly inflammable materials, and corrosive or otherwise dangerous or noxious fluids. (Warner v. Santa Catalina Island Co. (1955) 44 Cal.2d 310, 317 [282 P.2d 12].)

- In Menchaca, the Court held that "[d]riving a motor vehicle may be sufficiently dangerous to warrant special instructions, but it is not so hazardous that it always requires 'extreme caution.' " (Menchaca, supra, 68 Cal.2d at p. 544.)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~918~~1050–~~922~~ 1054

1 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 1, Negligence, §§ 1.02, 1.30 (Matthew Bender)

California Products Liability Actions, Ch. 2, Liability for Defective Products, § 2.14 (Matthew Bender)

33 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 380, Negligence (Matthew Bender)

16 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 165, Negligence (Matthew Bender)

417. Special Doctrines: Res ipsa loquitur

[Name of plaintiff] may prove that [name of defendant]'s negligence caused [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] harm if [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] proves all of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff]'s harm ordinarily would not have happened unless someone was negligent;

2. That the harm was caused by something that only [name of defendant] controlled; and

3. That [name of plaintiff]'s voluntary actions did not cause or contribute to the event[s] that harmed [him/her/nonbinary pronoun].

If you decide that [name of plaintiff] did not prove one or more of these three things, you must decide whether [name of defendant] was negligent in light of the other instructions I have read.

If you decide that [name of plaintiff] proved all of these three things, you may, but are not required to, find that [name of defendant] was negligent or that [name of defendant]'s negligence was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm, or both.

[Name of defendant] contends that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] was not negligent or that [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] negligence, if any, did not cause [name of plaintiff] harm. If after weighing all of the evidence, you believe that it is more probable than not that [name of defendant] was negligent and that [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] negligence was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm, you must decide in favor of [name of plaintiff]. Otherwise, you must decide in favor of [name of defendant].

New September 2003; Revised June 2011, December 2011

Directions for Use

The first paragraph of this instruction sets forth the three elements of res ipsa loquitur. The second paragraph explains that if the plaintiff fails to establish res ipsa loquitur as a presumption, the jury may still find for the plaintiff if it finds based on its consideration of all of the evidence that the defendant was negligent. (See Howe v. Seven Forty Two Co., Inc. (2010) 189 Cal.App.4th 1155, 1163–1164 [117 Cal.Rptr.3d 126].)

If the plaintiff has established the three conditions that give rise to the doctrine, the jury is required to find that the accident resulted from the defendant's negligence unless the defendant comes forward with evidence that would support a contrary finding. (See Cal. Law Revision Com. com. ~~Comment~~ to Evid. Code, § 646.) The last two paragraphs of the instruction assume that the defendant has presented evidence that would support a finding that the defendant was not negligent or that any negligence on the defendant's part was not a proximate cause of the accident. In this case, the presumption drops out, and the plaintiff must then prove the elements of negligence without the benefit of the presumption of res ipsa loquitur. (See Howe, supra, 189 Cal.App.4th at pp. 1163–1164; see also Evid. Code, § 646(c).)

Sources and Authority

- Res Ipsa Loquitur. Evidence Code section 646(c).

- Presumption Affecting Burden of Producing Evidence. Evidence Code section 604.

- "In California, the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur is defined by statute as 'a presumption affecting the burden of producing evidence.' The presumption arises when the evidence satisfies three conditions: '(1) the accident must be of a kind which ordinarily does not occur in the absence of someone's negligence; (2) it must be caused by an agency or instrumentality within the exclusive control of the defendant; (3) it must not have been due to any voluntary action or contribution on the part of the plaintiff.' A presumption affecting the burden of producing evidence 'require[s] the trier of fact to assume the existence of the presumed fact' unless the defendant introduces evidence to the contrary. The presumed fact, in this context, is that 'a proximate cause of the occurrence was some negligent conduct on the part of the defendant ... .' If the defendant introduces 'evidence which would support a finding that he was not negligent or that any negligence on his part was not a proximate cause of the occurrence,' the trier of fact determines whether defendant was negligent without regard to the presumption, simply by weighing the evidence." (Brown v. Poway Unified School Dist. (1993) 4 Cal.4th 820, 825–826 [15 Cal.Rptr.2d 679, 843 P.2d 624], internal citations omitted.)
- " 'The doctrine of res ipsa loquitur is applicable where the accident is of such a nature that it can be said, in the light of past experience, that it probably was the result of negligence by someone and that the defendant is probably the one responsible.' " (Howe, supra, 189 Cal.App.4th at p. 1161.)

- "Res ipsa loquitur is an evidentiary rule for 'determining whether circumstantial evidence of negligence is sufficient.' " (Howe, supra, 189 Cal.App.4th at p. 1161, internal citation omitted.)

- The doctrine "is based on a theory of 'probability' where there is no direct evidence of defendant's conduct, permitting a common sense inference of negligence from the happening of the accident." (Gicking v. Kimberlin (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 73, 75 [215 Cal.Rptr. 834].)

- "All of the cases hold, in effect, that it must appear, either as a matter of common experience or from evidence in the case, *that the accide*nt is of a type which probably would not happen unless someone was negligent." (Zentz v. Coca Cola Bottling Co. of Fresno (1952) 39 Cal.2d 436, 442–443 [247 P.2d 344].)

- The purpose of the second "control" requirement is to "link the defendant with the probability, already established, that the accident was negligently caused." (Newing v. Cheatham (1975) 15 Cal.3d 351, 362 [124 Cal.Rptr. 193, 540 P.2d 33].)

- "The purpose of [the third] requirement, like that of control by the defendant is to establish that the defendant is the one probably responsible for the accident. The plaintiff need not show that he was entirely inactive at the time of the accident in order to satisfy this requirement, so long as the evidence is such as to eliminate his conduct as a factor contributing to the occurrence." (Newing, supra, 15 Cal.3d at p. 363, internal citations omitted.)

- The third condition "should not be confused with the problem of contributory negligence, as to which defendant has the burden of proof. ... [I]ts purpose, like that of control by the defendant, is merely to assist the court in determining whether it is more probable than not that the defendant was responsible for the accident." (Zentz, supra, 39 Cal.2d at p. 444.)

- "[Evidence Code section 646] … classified the doctrine as a presumption affecting the burden of producing evidence. Under that classification, when the predicate facts are established to give rise to the presumption, the burden of producing evidence to rebut it shifts to the defendant to prove lack of negligence or lack of proximate cause that the injury claimed was the result of that negligence. As a presumption affecting the burden of producing evidence (as distinguished from a presumption affecting the burden of proof), if evidence is presented to rebut the presumed fact, the presumption is out of the case—it 'disappears.' But if no such evidence is submitted, the trier of fact must find the presumed fact to be established." (Howe, supra, 189 Cal.App.4th at p. 1162.)

- " 'If evidence is produced that would support a finding that the defendant was not negligent or that any negligence on his part was not a proximate cause of the accident, the presumptive effect of the doctrine vanishes.' '[T]he mere introduction of evidence sufficient to sustain a finding of the nonexistence of the presumed fact causes the presumption, as a matter of law, to disappear.' When the presumptive effect vanishes, it is the plaintiff's burden to introduce actual evidence that would show that the defendant is negligent and that such negligence was the proximate cause of the accident." (Howe, supra, 189 Cal.App.4th at p. 1163, internal citations omitted.)

- "As the [Law Revision Commission] Comment [to Evidence Code section 646] explains, even though the presumptive effect of the doctrine vanishes, 'the jury may still be able to draw an inference that the accident was caused by the defendant's lack of due care from the facts that gave rise to the presumption. … [¶] … [¶] … An inference of negligence may well be warranted from all of the evidence in the case even though the plaintiff fails to establish all the elements of res ipsa loquitur. In appropriate cases, therefore, the jury may be instructed that, even though it does not find that the facts giving rise to the presumption have been proved by a preponderance of the evidence, it may nevertheless find the defendant negligent if it concludes from a consideration of all the evidence that it is more probable than not that the defendant was negligent.' " (Howe, supra, 189 Cal.App.4th at p. 1163, internal citation omitted.)

- "It follows that where part of the facts basic to the application of the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur is established as a matter of law but that others are not, the court should instruct that application of the doctrine by the jury depends only upon the existence of the basic facts not conclusively established." (Rimmele v. Northridge Hospital Foundation (1975) 46 Cal.App.3d 123, 130 [120 Cal.Rptr. 39].)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (~~4th~~ 5th ed. ~~2000~~2012) Burden of Proof and Presumptions, §§ ~~114~~116–~~118~~120

7 Witkin, California Procedure (5th ed. 2008) Trial, § 300

Haning et al., California Practice Guide: Personal Injury, Ch. 2(II)-G, Inability To Prove Negligence Or Causation—Res Ipsa Loquitur, "Alternative Liability" And "Market Share Liability~~,~~". ¶¶ 2:1751–2:1753 (The Rutter Group)

1 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 3, Proof of Negligence, § 3.20 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

1A California Trial Guide, Unit 11, Opening Statement, § 11.42, Unit 90, Closing Argument, § 90.90 (Matthew Bender)

33 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 380, Negligence, § 380.11 (Matthew Bender)

16 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 165, Negligence, § 165.340 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

422. Providing Alcoholic Beverages to Obviously Intoxicated Minors (Bus. & Prof. Code, § 25602.1)

[*Name of plaintiff] claims [name of defendant] is responsible for [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] harm because [name of defendant] [sold/gave] alcoholic beverages to [name of alleged minor], a minor who was already obviously intoxicated.

To establish this claim, [*name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. [That [name of defendant] was [required to be] licensed to sell alcoholic beverages;]

   [*or]

   [That [*name of defendant] was authorized by the federal government to sell alcoholic beverages on a military base or other federal enclave;]
2. [That [name of defendant] [sold/ gave] alcoholic beverages to [name of alleged minor];]

   [or]

   [That [*name of defendant] caused alcoholic beverages to be [sold/given away] to [name of alleged minor];]
3. That [name of alleged minor] was less than 21 years old at the time;
4. That when [name of defendant] provided the alcoholic beverages, [name of alleged minor] displayed symptoms that would lead a reasonable person to conclude that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was obviously intoxicated;
5. That [name of alleged minor] harmed [name of plaintiff]; and
6. That [name of defendant]'s [selling/ giving] alcoholic beverages to [name of alleged minor] was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

In deciding whether [*name of alleged minor] was obviously intoxicated, you may consider whether [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] displayed one or more of the following symptoms to [name of defendant] before the alcoholic beverages were provided: impaired judgment; alcoholic breath; incoherent or slurred speech; poor muscular coordination; staggering or unsteady walk or loss of balance; loud, boisterous, or argumentative conduct; flushed face; or other symptoms of intoxication. The mere fact that [name of alleged minor] had been drinking is not enough.

New September 2003; Revised December 2009, June 2014, December 2014, May 2020

Directions for Use

Business and Professions Code section 25602.1 imposes potential liability on those who have or are required to have a liquor license for the selling, furnishing, or giving away of alcoholic beverages to an obviously intoxicated minor. It also imposes potential liability on a person who is not required to be licensed who sells alcohol to an obviously intoxicated minor. (See Ennabe v. Manosa (2014) 58 Cal.4th 697, 711 [168 Cal.Rptr.3d 440, 319 P.3d 201].) In this latter case, omit element 1, select "sold" in the opening paragraph and in element 2, and select "selling" in element 6.

If the plaintiff is the minor who is suing for ~~his or her~~ the plaintiff's own injuries (see Chalup v. Aspen Mine Co. (1985) 175 Cal.App.3d 973, 974 [221 Cal.Rptr. 97]), modify the instruction by substituting the appropriate pronoun for "[name of alleged minor]" throughout.

For purposes of this instruction, a "minor" is someone under the age of 21. (Rogers v. Alvas (1984) 160 Cal.App.3d 997, 1004 [207 Cal.Rptr. 60].)

Sources and Authority

- Liability for Providing Alcohol to Minors. Business and Professions Code section 25602.1.

- Sales Under the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act. Business and Professions Code section 23025.

- "In sum, if a plaintiff can establish the defendant provided alcohol to an obviously intoxicated minor, and that such action was the proximate cause of the plaintiff's injuries or death, section 25602.1--the applicable statute in this case--permits liability in two circumstances: (1) the defendant was either licensed to sell alcohol, required to be licensed, or federally authorized to sell alcoholic beverages in certain places, and the defendant sold, furnished, or gave the minor alcohol or caused alcohol to be sold, furnished, or given to the minor; or (2) the defendant was 'any other person' (i.e., neither licensed nor required to be licensed), and he or she sold alcohol to the minor or caused it to be sold. Whereas licensees (and those required to be licensed) may be liable if they merely furnish or give an alcoholic beverage away, a nonlicensee may be liable only if a sale occurs; that is, a nonlicensee, such as a social host, who merely furnishes or gives drinks away--even to an obviously intoxicated minor--retains his or her statutory immunity." (Ennabe, supra, 58 Cal.4th at pp. 709−710, original italics.)

- "[W]e conclude that the placement of section 25602.1 in the Business and Professions Code does not limit the scope of that provision to commercial enterprises. First, the structure of section 25602.1 suggests it applies to noncommercial providers of alcohol. The statute addresses four categories of persons and we assume those falling in the first three categories--those licensed by the Department of ABC, those without licenses but who are nevertheless required to be licensed, and those authorized to sell alcohol by the federal government--are for the most part engaged in some commercial enterprise. The final category of persons addressed by section 25602.1 is more of a catchall: 'any other person' who sells alcohol. Consistent with the plain meaning of the statutory language and the views of the Department of ABC, we find this final category includes private persons and ostensible social hosts who, for whatever reason, charge money for alcoholic drinks." (Ennabe, supra, 58 Cal.4th at p. 711.)

- "[Business and Professions Code] Section 23025's broad definition of a sale shows the Legislature intended the law to cover a wide range of transactions involving alcoholic beverages: a qualifying sale includes 'any transaction' in which title to an alcoholic beverage is passed for 'any consideration.' (Italics added.) Use of the term 'any' to modify the words 'transaction' and 'consideration' demonstrates the Legislature intended the law to have a broad sweep and thus include both indirect as well as direct transactions." (Ennabe, supra, 58 Cal.4th at p. 714, orginal italics.)

- In " 'The use of intoxicating liquor by the average person in such quantity as to produce intoxication causes many commonly known outward manifestations which are "plain" and "easily seen or discovered." If such outward manifestations exist and the seller still serves the customer so affected, he has violated the law, whether this was because he failed to observe what was plain and easily seen or discovered, or because, having observed, he ignored that which was apparent.' " (Schaffield v. Abboud (1993) 15 Cal.App.4th 1133, 1140 [19 Cal.Rptr.2d 205], original italics.)

- "[T]he standard for determining 'obvious intoxication' is measured by that of a reasonable person." (Schaffield, supra, 15 Cal.App.4th at p. 1140.)

- "We shall make no effort to state definitively the meaning of the word 'furnishes' … . As used in a similar context the word 'furnish' has been said to mean: ' "To supply; to offer for use, to give, to hand." ' It has also been said the word 'furnish' is synonymous with the words 'supply' or 'provide.' In relation to a physical object or substance, the word 'furnish' connotes possession or control over the thing furnished by the one who furnishes it. The word 'furnish' implies some type of affirmative action on the part of the furnisher; failure to protest or attempt to stop another from imbibing an alcoholic beverage does not constitute 'furnishing.' " (Bennett v. Letterly (1977) 74 Cal.App.3d 901, 904–905 [141 Cal.Rptr. 682], internal citations omitted.)

- "As used in liquor laws, 'furnish' means to provide in any way, and includes giving as well as selling. … [¶] California courts have interpreted the terms 'furnish' and 'furnished' as requiring an affirmative act by the purported furnisher to supply the alcoholic beverage to the drinker." (Fiorini v. City Brewing Co., LLC (2014) 231 Cal.App.4th 306, 320−321 [179 Cal.Rptr.3d 827] [beverage manufacturer does not "furnish" beverage to the consumer], footnote and internal citation omitted.)

- "As instructed by the court, the jury was told to consider several outward manifestations of obvious intoxication, which included incontinence, unkempt appearance, alcoholic breath, loud or boisterous conduct, bloodshot or glassy eyes, incoherent or slurred speech, flushed face, poor muscular coordination or unsteady walking, loss of balance, impaired judgment, or argumentative behavior. This instruction was correct." (Jones v. Toyota Motor Co. (1988) 198 Cal.App.3d 364, 370 [243 Cal.Rptr. 611], internal citation omitted.)

- "[S]ection 25602.1's phrase 'causes to be sold' requires an affirmative act directly related to the sale of alcohol which necessarily brings about the resultant action to which the statute is directed, i.e., the furnishing of alcohol to an obviously intoxicated minor." (Hernandez v. Modesto Portuguese Pentecost Assn. (1995) 40 Cal.App.4th 1274, 1276 [48 Cal.Rptr.2d 229].)

- "The undisputed evidence shows [defendant]'s checker sold beer to Spitzer and that Spitzer later gave some of that beer to Morse. As in Salem [Salem v. Superior Court (1989) 211 Cal.App.3d 595, 600 [259 Cal.Rptr. 447]] , we conclude defendant cannot be held liable because the person to whom it sold alcohol was not the person whose negligence allegedly caused the injury at issue." ( Safeway, Inc. (2013) 209 Cal.App.4th 1455, 1462 [147 Cal.Rptr.3d 809].)

- "[O]bviously intoxicated minors who are served alcohol by a licensed purveyor of liquor, may bring a cause of action for negligence against the purveyor for [their own] subsequent injuries." (Chalup, supra, 175 Cal.App.3d at p. 979.)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, § ~~1072~~1218

California Tort Guide (Cont.Ed.Bar 3d ed.) § 4.63

Haning et al., California Practice Guide: Personal Injury, Ch. 2(II)-L, Liability For Providing Alcoholic Beverages, ¶ 2:2101 (The Rutter Group)

1 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 1, Negligence: Duty and Breach, § 1.21 (Matthew Bender)

3 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 19, Alcoholic Beverages: Civil Liability, §§ 19.12, 19.52, 19.75 (Matthew Bender)

1 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 15A, Alcoholic Beverages: Civil Liability for Furnishing, § 15A.21 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

427. Furnishing Alcoholic Beverages to Minors (Civ. Code, § 1714(d))

[*Name of plaintiff] claims [name of defendant] is responsible for [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] harm because [name of defendant] furnished alcoholic beverages to [him/her/nonbinary pronoun/[name of minor]], a minor, at [name of defendant]'s home.

To establish this claim, [*name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] was an adult;

2. That [name of defendant] knowingly furnished alcoholic beverages to [him/her/nonbinary pronoun/[name of minor]] at [name of defendant]'s home;

3. That [name of defendant] knew or should have known that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/[name of minor]] was less than 21 years old at the time;

4. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed [by [name of minor]]; and

5. That [name of defendant]'s furnishing alcoholic beverages to [[name of plaintiff]/[name of minor]] was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

New December 2011; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction is for use for a claim of social host (noncommercial) liability for furnishing alcohol to a minor. (See Civ. Code, § 1714(d).) For an instruction for commercial liability, see CACI No. 422, Sale of Alcoholic Beverages to Obviously Intoxicated Minors.

Under the statute, the minor may sue for ~~his or her~~ the minor's own injuries, or a third person may sue for injuries caused by the minor. (Civ. Code, § 1714(d)(2).) If the minor is the plaintiff, use the appropriate pronoun throughout. If the plaintiff is a third person, select "[name of minor]" throughout and include "by [name of minor]" in element 4.

Sources and Authority

- No Social Host Liability for Furnishing Alcohol. Civil Code section 1714(c).
- Exception to Nonliability. Civil Code section 1714(d).
- "Although the claim against [host] appears to fall within the section 1714, subdivision (d) exception, plaintiffs cannot bootstrap respondents into that exception by alleging that respondents conspired with or aided and abetted [host] by providing alcoholic beverages that were furnished to [minor]. Subdivision (b) of section 1714 unequivocally states that 'the furnishing of alcoholic beverages is not the proximate cause of injuries resulting from intoxication … .' This provision necessarily precludes liability against anyone who furnished alcohol to someone who caused injuries due to intoxication. The exception set forth in subdivision (d) vitiates subdivision (b) for a very narrow class of claims: claims against an adult who knowingly furnishes alcohol at his or her residence to a person he or she knows is under the age of 21. Because respondents are not alleged to have furnished alcohol to [minor] at their residences, plaintiffs' claims against them are barred because, as a matter of statutory law, plaintiffs cannot establish that respondents' actions proximately caused plaintiffs' injuries." (Rybicki v. Carlson (2013) 216 Cal.App.4th 758, 764 [157 Cal.Rptr.3d 660].)

- "We shall make no effort to state definitively the meaning of the word 'furnishes' … . As used in a similar context the word 'furnish' has been said to mean: ' "To supply; to offer for use, to give, to hand." ' It has also been said the word 'furnish' is synonymous with the words 'supply' or 'provide.' In relation to a physical object or substance, the word 'furnish' connotes possession or control over the thing furnished by the one who furnishes it. The word 'furnish' implies some type of affirmative action on the part of the furnisher; failure to protest or attempt to stop another from imbibing an alcoholic beverage does not constitute 'furnishing.' " (Bennett v. Letterly (1977) 74 Cal.App.3d 901, 904–905 [141 Cal.Rptr. 682], internal citations omitted.)

- "As used in liquor laws, 'furnish' means to provide in any way, and includes giving as well as selling. … [¶] California courts have interpreted the terms 'furnish' and 'furnished' as requiring an affirmative act by the purported furnisher to supply the alcoholic beverage to the drinker." (Fiorini v. City Brewing Co., LLC (2014) 231 Cal.App.4th 306, 320−321 [179 Cal.Rptr.3d 827] [beverage manufacturer does not "furnish" beverage to the consumer], footnote and internal citation omitted.)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, § ~~1070~~1215 et seq.

1 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 1, Duty and Breach, § 1.21 (Matthew Bender)

3 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 19, Alcoholic Beverages: Civil Liability, §§ 19.11, 19.13 (Matthew Bender)

1 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 15A, Alcoholic Beverages: Civil Liability for Furnishing, § 15A.21 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

429. Negligent Sexual Transmission of Disease

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] sexually transmitted [specify sexually transmitted disease, e.g., HIV] to [him/her/nonbinary pronoun]. [Name of defendant] may be negligent for this transmission if [name of plaintiff] proves that [name of defendant] knew, or had reason to know, that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was infected with [e.g., HIV].

New May 2017; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction should be given with CACI No. 400, Negligence—Essential Factual Elements. In a claim for negligent transmission of a sexually communicable disease, the elements of negligence, duty, breach, and causation of harm must be proved. (John B. v. Superior Court (2006) 38 Cal.4th 1177, 1188 [45 Cal.Rptr.3d 316, 137 P.3d 153].)

One has a duty to avoid ~~transmission~~ transmitting an infectious disease if ~~he or she~~ that person should have known of ~~that he or she was infected with~~ the ~~disease~~ infection (constructive knowledge). (John B., supra, 38 Cal.4th at pp. 1190−1191.) While the existence of a duty is a question of law for the court, what a person should have known is a question of fact.

It must be noted that in John B., the court limited its holding on constructive knowledge to the facts of the case before it, which involved a couple who were engaged and subsequently married; a defendant who was alleged to have falsely represented himself as monogamous and disease-free, and who insisted the couple stop using condoms; and a plaintiff who agreed to stop using condoms in reliance on those allegedly false representations. The court did not consider the existence or scope of a duty for persons whose relationship did not extend beyond the sexual encounter itself, whose relationship did not contemplate sexual exclusivity, who had not represented themselves as disease-free, or who had not insisted on having sex without condoms. (John B., supra, 38 Cal.4th at p. 1193.) Therefore, this instruction may not be appropriate on facts that were expressly reserved in John B.

Sources and Authority

- "[A] person who unknowingly contracts a sexually transmitted disease such as herpes may maintain an action for damages against one who either negligently or through deceit infects her with the disease." (Doe v. Roe (1990) 218 Cal.App.3d 1538, 1543 [267 Cal.Rptr. 564].)

- "[T]o be stricken with disease through another's negligence is in legal contemplation as it often is in the seriousness of consequences, no different from being struck with an automobile through another's negligence." (John B., supra, 38 Cal.4th at p. 1188, original italics.)

- "Because ' "[a]ll persons are required to use ordinary care to prevent others being injured as a result of their conduct" ', this court has repeatedly recognized a cause of action for negligence not only against those who have actual knowledge of unreasonable danger, but also against those who have constructive knowledge of it." (John B., supra, 38 Cal.4th at p. 1190, internal citation omitted.)

- " '[C]onstructive knowledge,' which means knowledge 'that one using reasonable care or diligence should have, and therefore is attributed by law to a given person', encompasses a variety of mental states, ranging from one who is deliberately indifferent in the face of an unjustifiably high risk of harm to one who merely should know of a dangerous condition. (John B., supra, 38 Cal.4th at pp. 1190−1191, internal citations omitted.)

- "[T]he tort of negligent transmission of HIV does not depend solely on actual knowledge of HIV infection and would extend at least to those situations where the actor, under the totality of the circumstances, has reason to know of the infection. Under the reason-to-know standard, 'the actor has information from which a person of reasonable intelligence or of the superior intelligence of the actor would infer that the fact in question exists, or that such person would govern his conduct upon the assumption that such fact exists.' In other words, 'the actor has knowledge of facts from which a reasonable man of ordinary intelligence or one of the superior intelligence of the actor would either infer the existence of the fact in question or would regard its existence as so highly probable that his conduct would be predicated upon the assumption that the fact did exist.' " (John B., supra, 38 Cal.4th at p. 1191, internal citations omitted.)

- "[W]e are mindful that our precedents direct us to consider whether a duty of care exists ' "on a case-by-case basis." ' Accordingly, our conclusion that a claim of negligent transmission of HIV lies against those who know or at least have reason to know of the disease must be understood in the context of the allegations in this case, which involves a couple who were engaged and subsequently married; a defendant who falsely represented himself as monogamous and disease-free and insisted the couple stop using condoms; and a plaintiff who agreed to stop using condoms in reliance on those false representations. We need not consider the existence or scope of a duty for persons whose relationship does not extend beyond the sexual encounter itself, whose relationship does not contemplate sexual exclusivity, who have not represented themselves as disease-free, or who have not insisted on having sex without condoms." (John B., supra, 38 Cal.4th at p. 1193.)

Secondary Sources

~~9~~ 6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, § ~~912~~1044

1 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 1, Negligence: Duty and Breach, § 1.13 (Matthew Bender)

33 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 380, Negligence, § 380.32[2] (Matthew Bender)

16 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 165, Negligence, § 165.170 (Matthew Bender)

430. Causation: Substantial Factor

A substantial factor in causing harm is a factor that a reasonable person would consider to have contributed to the harm. It must be more than a remote or trivial factor. It does not have to be the only cause of the harm.

[Conduct is not a substantial factor in causing harm if the same harm would have occurred without that conduct.]

New September 2003; Revised October 2004, June 2005, December 2005, December 2007, May 2018, May 2020

Directions for Use

As phrased, this definition of "substantial factor" subsumes the "but for" test of causation, that is, "but for" the defendant's conduct, the plaintiff's harm would not have occurred. (Mitchell v. Gonzales (1991) 54 Cal.3d 1041, 1052 [1 Cal.Rptr.2d 913, 819 P.2d 872]; see Rest.2d Torts, § 431.) The optional last sentence makes this explicit, and in some cases it may be error not to give this sentence. (See Soule v. GM Corp. (1994) 8 Cal.4th 548, 572–573 [34 Cal.Rptr.2d 607, 882 P.2d 298]; Rest.2d Torts, § 432(1).)

"Conduct," in this context, refers to the culpable acts or omissions on which a claim of legal fault is based, e.g., negligence, product defect, breach of contract, or dangerous condition of public property. This is in contrast to an event that is not a culpable act but that happens to occur in the chain of causation, e.g., that the plaintiff's alarm clock failed to go off, causing her to be at the location of the accident at a time when she otherwise would not have been there. The reference to "conduct" may be changed as appropriate to the facts of the case.

The "but for" test of the last optional sentence does not apply to concurrent independent causes, which are multiple forces operating at the same time and independently, each of which would have been sufficient by itself to bring about the same harm. (Viner v. Sweet (2003) 30 Cal.4th 1232, 1240 [135 Cal.Rptr.2d 629, 70 P.3d 1046]; Barton v. Owen (1977) 71 Cal.App.3d 484, 503–504 [139 Cal.Rptr. 494]; see Rest.2d Torts, § 432(2).) Accordingly, do not include the last sentence in a case involving concurrent independent causes. (See also Major v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. (2017) 14 Cal.App.5th 1179, 1198 [222 Cal.Rptr.3d 563] [court did not err in refusing to give last sentence of instruction in case involving exposure to carcinogens in cigarettes].)

In cases of multiple (concurrent dependent) causes, CACI No. 431, Causation: Multiple Causes, should also be given.

In a case in which the plaintiff's claim is that ~~he or she~~the plaintiff contracted cancer from exposure to the defendant's asbestos-containing product, Rutherford v. Owens-Illinois, Inc. (1997) 16 Cal.4th 953, 977 [67 Cal.Rptr.2d 16, 941 P.2d 1203] requires a different instruction regarding exposure to a particular product. Give CACI No. 435, Causation for Asbestos-Related Cancer Claims, and do not give this instruction. (Cf. Petitpas v. Ford Motor Co. (2017) 13 Cal.App.5th 261, 298–299 [220 Cal.Rptr.3d 185]

[not error to give both CACI Nos. 430 and 435 in case with both product liability and premises liability defendants].)

Under this instruction, a remote or trivial factor is not a substantial factor. This sentence could cause confusion in an asbestos case. "Remote" often connotes a time limitation. Nothing in Rutherford suggests such a limitation; indeed asbestos cases are brought long after exposure due to the long-term latent nature of asbestos-related diseases. (See City of Pasadena v. Superior Court (Jauregui) (2017) 12 Cal.App.5th 1340, 1343–1344 [220 Cal.Rptr.3d 99] [cause of action for a latent injury or disease generally accrues when the plaintiff discovers or should reasonably have discovered ~~he or she~~the plaintiff has suffered a compensable injury].)

Although the court in Rutherford did not use the word "trivial," it did state that "a force [that] plays only an 'infinitesimal' or 'theoretical' part in bringing about injury, damage, or loss is not a substantial factor." (Rutherford, supra, 16 Cal.4th at p. 969.) While it may be argued that "trivial" and "infinitesimal" are synonyms, a very minor force that does cause harm is a substantial factor. This rule honors the principle of comparative fault. (Bockrath v. Aldrich Chem. Co. (1999) 21 Cal.4th 71, 79 [86 Cal.Rptr.2d 846, 980 P.2d 398].) In Rutherford, the jury allocated the defendant only 1.2 percent of comparative fault, and the court upheld this allocation. (See Rutherford, supra, 16 Cal.4th at p. 985.) Instructing the jury that a de minimis force (whether trivial or infinitesimal) is not a substantial factor could confuse the jury in allocating comparative fault at the lower end of the exposure spectrum.

Sources and Authority

- "The test for joint tort liability is set forth in section 431 of the Restatement of Torts 2d, which provides: 'The actor's negligent conduct is a legal cause of harm to another if (a) his conduct is a substantial factor in bringing about the harm, and, (b) there is no rule of law relieving the actor from liability because of the manner in which his negligence has resulted in the harm.' Section 431 correctly states California law as to the issue of causation in tort cases." (Wilson v. Blue Cross of So. Cal. (1990) 222 Cal.App.3d 660, 671–672 [271 Cal.Rptr. 876].)

- "California has definitively adopted the substantial factor test of the Restatement Second of Torts for cause-in-fact determinations. Under that standard, a cause in fact is something that is a substantial factor in bringing about the injury. The substantial factor standard generally produces the same results as does the 'but for' rule of causation which states that a defendant's conduct is a cause of the injury if the injury would not have occurred 'but for' that conduct. The substantial factor standard, however, has been embraced as a clearer rule of causation—one which subsumes the 'but for' test while reaching beyond it to satisfactorily address other situations, such as those involving independent or concurrent causes in fact." (Rutherford, supra, 16 Cal.4th at pp. 968–969, internal citations omitted.)

- "The term 'substantial factor' has not been judicially defined with specificity, and indeed it has been observed that it is 'neither possible nor desirable to reduce it to any lower terms.' This court has suggested that a force which plays only an 'infinitesimal' or 'theoretical' part in bringing about injury, damage, or loss is not a substantial factor. Undue emphasis should not be placed on the term 'substantial.' For example, the substantial factor standard, formulated to aid plaintiffs as a broader rule of causality than the 'but for' test, has been invoked by defendants whose conduct is clearly a 'but for' cause of plaintiff's injury but is nevertheless urged as an insubstantial contribution to the injury. Misused in this way, the substantial factor test 'undermines the principles of comparative negligence, under which a party is responsible for his or her share of negligence and the harm caused thereby.' " (Rutherford, supra, 16 Cal.4th at pp. 968–969, internal citations omitted.)

- "The substantial factor standard is a relatively broad one, requiring only that the contribution of the individual cause be more than negligible or theoretical. Thus, 'a force which plays only an "infinitesimal" or "theoretical" part in bringing about injury, damage, or loss is not a substantial factor', but a very minor force that does cause harm is a substantial factor. This rule honors the principle of comparative fault." (Bockrath, supra, 21 Cal.4th at p. 79*,* internal citations omitted.)

- "The text of Restatement Torts second section 432 demonstrates how the 'substantial factor' test subsumes the traditional 'but for' test of causation. Subsection (1) of section 432 provides: 'Except as stated in Subsection (2), the actor's negligent conduct is not a substantial factor in bringing about harm to another if the harm would have been sustained even if the actor had not been negligent.' … Subsection (2) states that if 'two forces are actively operating … and each of itself is sufficient to bring about harm to another, the actor's negligence may be found to be a substantial factor in bringing it about.' " (Viner, supra, 30 Cal.4th at p. 1240, original italics.)

- "Because the 'substantial factor' test of causation subsumes the 'but for' test, the 'but for' test has been phrased in terms of 'substantial factor,' as follows, in the context, as here, of a combination of causes dependent on one another: A defendant's negligent conduct may combine with another factor to cause harm; if a defendant's negligence was a substantial factor in causing the plaintiff's harm, then the defendant is responsible for the harm; a defendant cannot avoid responsibility just because some other person, condition, or event was also a substantial factor in causing the plaintiff's harm; but conduct is not a substantial factor in causing harm if the same harm would have occurred without that conduct." (Yanez v. Plummer (2013) 221 Cal.App.4th 180, 187 [164 Cal.Rptr.3d 309].)

- "A tort is a legal cause of injury only when it is a substantial factor in producing the injury. If the external force of a vehicle accident was so severe that it would have caused identical injuries notwithstanding an abstract 'defect' in the vehicle's collision safety, the defect cannot be considered a substantial factor in bringing them about. [¶] The general causation instruction given by the trial court correctly advised that plaintiff could not recover for a design defect unless it was a 'substantial factor' in producing plaintiff's 'enhanced' injuries. However, this instruction dealt only by 'negative implication' with [defendant]'s theory that any such defect was not a 'substantial factor' in this case because this particular accident would have broken plaintiff's ankles in any event. As we have seen, [defendant] presented substantial evidence to that effect. [Defendant] was therefore entitled to its special instruction, and the trial court's refusal to give it was error." (Soule, supra, 8 Cal.4th at p. 572–573, original italics, footnote and internal citations omitted.)

- "The first element of legal cause is cause in fact ... . The 'but for' rule has traditionally been applied to determine cause in fact. The Restatement formula uses the term substantial factor 'to denote the fact that the defendant's conduct has such an effect in producing the harm as to lead reasonable men to regard it as a cause.' " (Mayes v. Bryan (2006) 139 Cal.App.4th 1075, 1095 [44 Cal.Rptr.3d 14], internal citations omitted.)

- "If the accident would have happened anyway, whether the defendant was negligent or not, then his or her negligence was not a cause in fact, and of course cannot be the legal or responsible cause." (Toste v. CalPortland Construction (2016) 245 Cal.App.4th 362, 370 [199 Cal.Rptr.3d 522].)

- "We have recognized that proximate cause has two aspects. ' "One is cause in fact. An act is a cause in fact if it is a necessary antecedent of an event." ' This is sometimes referred to as 'but-for' causation. In cases where concurrent independent causes contribute to an injury, we apply the 'substantial factor' test of the Restatement Second of Torts, section 423, which subsumes traditional 'but for' causation. This case does not involve concurrent independent causes, so the 'but for' test governs questions of factual causation." (State Dept. of State Hospitals v. Superior Court (2015) 61 Cal.4th 339, 354 [188 Cal.Rptr.3d 309, 349 P.3d 1013], original italics, footnote omitted.)

- "The second aspect of proximate cause 'focuses on public policy considerations. Because the purported [factual] causes of an event may be traced back to the dawn of humanity, the law has imposed additional "limitations on liability other than simple causality." [Citation.] "These additional limitations are related not only to the degree of connection between the conduct and the injury, but also with public policy." [Citation.] Thus, "proximate cause 'is ordinarily concerned, not with the fact of causation, but with the various considerations of policy that limit an actor's responsibility for the consequences of his conduct.' " [Citation.]' " (State Dept. of State Hospitals, supra, 61 Cal.4th at p. 353, internal citation omitted.)

- "On the issue … of causation, as on other issues essential to the cause of action for negligence, the plaintiff, in general, has the burden of proof. The plaintiff must introduce evidence which affords a reasonable basis for the conclusion that it is more likely than not that the conduct of the defendant was a cause in fact of the result. A mere possibility of such causation is not enough; and when the matter remains one of pure speculation or conjecture, or the probabilities are at best evenly balanced, it becomes the duty of the court to direct a verdict for the defendant." (Leyva v. Garcia (2018) 20 Cal.App.5th 1095, 1104 [236 Cal.Rptr.3d 128].)

- " 'Whether a defendant's conduct actually caused an injury is a question of fact … that is ordinarily for the jury … .' '[C]ausation in fact is ultimately a matter of probability and common sense: "[A plaintiff] is not required to eliminate entirely all possibility that the defendant's conduct was not a cause. It is enough that he introduces evidence from which reasonable [persons] may conclude that it is more probable that the event was caused by the defendant than that it was not. The fact of causation is incapable of mathematical proof, since no [person] can say with absolute certainty what would have occurred if the defendant had acted otherwise. If, as a matter of ordinary experience, a particular act or omission might be expected to produce a particular result, and if that result has in fact followed, the conclusion may be justified that the causal relation exists. In drawing that conclusion, the triers of fact are permitted to draw upon ordinary human experience as to the probabilities of the case." ' … ' "A mere possibility of … causation is not enough; and when the matter remains one of pure speculation or conjecture, or the probabilities are at best evenly balanced, it becomes the duty of the court to direct a verdict for the defendant." ' " (Raven H. v. Gamette (2007) 157 Cal.App.4th 1017, 1029–1030 [68 Cal.Rptr.3d 897], internal citations omitted.)

- "Ordinarily, proximate cause is a question of fact which cannot be decided as a matter of law from the allegations of a complaint. … Nevertheless, where the facts are such that the only reasonable conclusion is an absence of causation, the question is one of law, not of fact." (Modisette v. Apple Inc.

(2018) 30 Cal.App.5th 136, 152 [241 Cal.Rptr.3d 209].)

- "[E]vidence of causation 'must rise to the level of a reasonable probability based upon competent testimony. [Citations.] "A possible cause only becomes 'probable' when, in the absence of other reasonable causal explanations, it becomes more likely than not that the injury was a result of its action." [Citation.] The defendant's conduct is not the cause in fact of harm " 'where the evidence indicates that there is less than a probability, i.e., a 50–50 possibility or a mere chance,' " that the harm would have ensued.' " (Bowman v. Wyatt (2010) 186 Cal.App.4th 286, 312 [111 Cal.Rptr.3d 787].)

- "However the test is phrased, causation in fact is ultimately a matter of probability and common sense." (Osborn v. Irwin Memorial Blood Bank (1992) 5 Cal.App.4th 234, 253 [7 Cal.Rptr.2d 101], relying on Rest.2d Torts, § 433B, com. b.)

- "As a general matter, juries may decide issues of causation without hearing expert testimony. But '[w]here the complexity of the causation issue is beyond common experience, expert testimony is required to establish causation.' " (Webster v. Claremont Yoga (2018) 26 Cal.App.5th 284, 290 [236 Cal.Rptr.3d 802], internal citation omitted.)

- "The Supreme Court … set forth explicit guidelines for plaintiffs attempting to allege injury resulting from exposure to toxic materials: A plaintiff must 'allege that he was exposed to each of the toxic materials claimed to have caused a specific illness'; 'identify each product that allegedly caused the injury'; allege 'the toxins entered his body' 'as a result of the exposure'; allege that 'he suffers from a specific illness, and that each toxin that entered his body was a substantial factor in bringing about, prolonging, or aggravating that illness'; and, finally, allege that 'each toxin he absorbed was manufactured or supplied by a named defendant.' " (Jones v. ConocoPhillips Co. (2011) 198 Cal.App.4th 1187, 1194 [130 Cal.Rptr.3d 571], quoting Bockrath, supra, 21 Cal.4th at p. 80, footnote omitted.)

- "[M]ultiple sufficient causes exist not only when there are two causes each of which is sufficient to cause the harm, but also when there are more than two causes, partial combinations of which are sufficient to cause the harm. As such, the trial court did not err in refusing to instruct the jury with the but-for test." (Major, supra, 14 Cal.App.5th at p. 1200.)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Torts, §§ 1334–1341

California Tort Guide (Cont.Ed.Bar 3d ed.) §§ 1.13–1.15

1 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 2, Causation, § 2.02 (Matthew Bender)

4 California Trial Guide, Unit 90, Closing Argument, § 90.89 (Matthew Bender)

California Products Liability Actions, Ch. 2, Liability for Defective Products, § 2.22, Ch. 7, Proof, § 7.06 (Matthew Bender)

33 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 380, Negligence, § 380.71 (Matthew Bender)

16 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 165, Negligence, §§ 165.260–165.263 (Matthew Bender)

435. Causation for Asbestos-Related Cancer Claims

A substantial factor in causing harm is a factor that a reasonable person would consider to have contributed to the harm. It does not have to be the only cause of the harm.

[*Name of plaintiff] may prove that exposure to asbestos from [name of defendant]'s product was a substantial factor causing [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/[name of decedent]'s] illness by showing, through expert testimony, that there is a reasonable medical probability that the exposure was a substantial factor contributing to [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] risk of developing cancer.

New September 2003; Revised December 2007, May 2018, November 2018, May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction is to be given in a case in which the plaintiff's claim is that ~~he or she~~the plaintiff contracted an asbestos-related disease from exposure to the defendant's asbestos-containing product. This instruction is based on Rutherford v. Owens-Illinois, Inc. (1997) 16 Cal.4th 953, 982–983 [67 Cal.Rptr.2d 16, 941 P.2d 1203], which addresses only exposure to asbestos from "defendant's defective asbestos-containing products." Whether the same causation standards from Rutherford would apply to defendants who are alleged to have created exposure to asbestos but are not manufacturers or suppliers of asbestos-containing products is not settled. However, at least one court has given CACI No. 435 with regard to a defendant other than an asbestos manufacturer or supplier, but there was no analysis of the issue on appeal. (See Petitpas v. Ford Motor Co. (2017) 13 Cal.App.5th 261, 290 [220 Cal.Rptr.3d 185] [court gave CACI No. 435 with regard to premises liability defendant]; see also Casey v. Perini Corp. (2012) 206 Cal.App.4th 1222, 1236–1239 [142 Cal.Rptr.3d 678] [Rutherford causation standards cited in case against contractor alleged to have created exposure to asbestos at job site].) See the discussion in the Directions for Use to CACI No. 430, Causation: Substantial Factor, with regard to whether CACI No. 430 may also be given.

If the issue of medical causation is tried separately, revise this instruction to focus on that issue.

If necessary, CACI No. 431, Causation: Multiple Causes, may also be given.

Sources and Authority

- "In the context of a cause of action for asbestos-related latent injuries, the plaintiff must first establish some threshold exposure to the defendant's defective asbestos-containing products, and must further establish in reasonable medical probability that a particular exposure or series of exposures was a 'legal cause' of his injury, i.e., a substantial factor in bringing about the injury. In an asbestos-related cancer case, the plaintiff need not prove that fibers from the defendant's product were the ones, or among the ones, that actually began the process of malignant cellular growth. Instead, the plaintiff may meet the burden of proving that exposure to defendant's product was a substantial factor causing the illness by showing that in reasonable medical probability it was a substantial factor contributing to the plaintiff's or decedent's risk of developing cancer. The jury should be so instructed. The standard instructions on substantial factor and concurrent causation remain correct in this context and should also be given." (Rutherford, supra, 16 Cal.4th at pp. 982–983, original italics, internal citation and footnotes omitted.)

- "The term 'substantial factor' has not been judicially defined with specificity, and indeed it has been observed that it is 'neither possible nor desirable to reduce it to any lower terms.' This court has suggested that a force which plays only an 'infinitesimal' or 'theoretical' part in bringing about injury, damage, or loss is not a substantial factor. Undue emphasis should not be placed on the term 'substantial.' For example, the substantial factor standard, formulated to aid plaintiffs as a broader rule of causality than the 'but for' test, has been invoked by defendants whose conduct is clearly a 'but for' cause of plaintiff's injury but is nevertheless urged as an insubstantial contribution to the injury. Misused in this way, the substantial factor test 'undermines the principles of comparative negligence, under which a party is responsible for his or her share of negligence and the harm caused thereby.' " (Rutherford, supra, 16 Cal.4th at p. 969, internal citations omitted.)

- "[A] very minor force that does cause harm is a substantial factor. This rule honors the principle of comparative fault." (Bockrath v. Aldrich Chem. Co. (1999) 21 Cal.4th 71, 79 [86 Cal.Rptr.2d 846, 980 P.2d 398], internal citation omitted.)

- "Contrary to defendant's assertion, the California Supreme Court's decision in Viner v. Sweet (2003) 30 Cal.4th 1232 [135 Cal.Rptr.2d 629, 70 P.3d 1046] (Viner) did not alter the causation requirement in asbestos-related cases. In Viner, the court noted that subsection (1) of section 432 of the Restatement Second of Torts, which provides that 'the actor's negligent conduct is not a substantial factor in bringing about harm to another if the harm would have been sustained even if the actor had not been negligent,' 'demonstrates how the "substantial factor" test subsumes the traditional "but for" test of causation.' Defendant argues that Viner required plaintiffs to show that defendant's product 'independently caused [plaintiff's] injury or that, but for that exposure, [plaintiff] would not have contracted lung cancer.' Viner, however, is a legal malpractice case. It does not address the explicit holding in Rutherford that 'plaintiffs may prove causation in asbestos-related cancer cases by demonstrating that the plaintiff's exposure to defendant's asbestos-containing product in reasonable medical probability was a substantial factor in contributing to the aggregate dose of asbestos the plaintiff or decedent inhaled or ingested, and hence to the risk of developing asbestos-related cancer, without the need to demonstrate that fibers from the defendant's particular product were the ones, or among the ones, that actually produced the malignant growth.' " Viner is consistent with Rutherford insofar as Rutherford requires proof that an individual asbestos-containing product is a substantial factor contributing to the plaintiff's risk or probability of developing cancer." (Jones v. John Crane, Inc. (2005) 132 Cal.App.4th 990, 998, fn. 3 [35 Cal.Rptr.3d 144], internal citations omitted.)

- " 'A threshold issue in asbestos litigation is exposure to the defendant's product. … If there has been no exposure, there is no causation.' Plaintiffs bear the burden of 'demonstrating that exposure to [defendant's] asbestos products was, in reasonable medical probability, a substantial factor in causing or contributing to [plaintiff's] risk of developing cancer.' 'Factors relevant to assessing whether such a medical probability exists include frequency of exposure, regularity of exposure and proximity of the asbestos product to [plaintiff].' Therefore, '[plaintiffs] cannot prevail against [defendant] without evidence that [plaintiff] was exposed to asbestos-containing materials manufactured or furnished by [defendant] with enough frequency and regularity as to show a reasonable medical probability that this exposure was a factor in causing the plaintiff's injuries.' " (Whitmire v. Ingersoll-Rand Co. (2010) 184 Cal.App.4th 1078, 1084 [109 Cal.Rptr.3d 371], internal citations omitted.)

- "Further, '[t]he mere "possibility" of exposure' is insufficient to establish causation. '[P]roof that raises mere speculation, suspicion, surmise, guess or conjecture is not enough to sustain [the plaintiff's] burden' of persuasion." (Izell v. Union Carbide Corp. (2014) 231 Cal.App.4th 962, 969 [180 Cal.Rptr.3d 382], internal citations omitted.)

- "[T]here is no requirement that plaintiffs show that [defendant] was the exclusive, or even the primary, supplier of asbestos-containing gaskets to PG&E." (Turley v. Familian Corp. (2017) 18 Cal.App.5th 969, 981 [227 Cal.Rptr.3d 321].)

- "[T]o establish exposure in an asbestos case a plaintiff has no obligation to prove a specific exposure to a specific product on a specific date or time. Rather, it is sufficient to establish 'that defendant's product was definitely at his work site and that it was sufficiently prevalent to warrant an inference that plaintiff was exposed to it' during his work there." (Turley, supra, 18 Cal.App.5th at p. 985.)

- "To support an allocation of liability to another party in an asbestos case, a defendant must 'present evidence that the aggregate dose of asbestos particles arising from' exposure to that party's asbestos 'constituted a substantial factor in the causation of [the decedent's] cancer.' " (Soto v. BorgWarner Morse TEC Inc. (2015) 239 Cal.App.4th 165, 205 [191 Cal.Rptr.3d 263].)

- " '[G]iven the long latency period of asbestos-related disease, and the occupational settings that commonly exposed the worker to multiple forms and brands of asbestos products with varying degrees of toxicity,' our Supreme Court has held that a plaintiff 'need not prove with medical exactitude that fibers from a particular defendant's asbestos-containing products were those, or among those, that actually began the cellular process of malignancy.' Rather, a 'plaintiff may meet the burden of proving that exposure to defendant's product was a substantial factor causing the illness by showing that in reasonable medical probability it was a substantial factor contributing to the plaintiff's or decedent's risk of developing cancer.' " (Izell, supra, 231 Cal.App.4th at p. 975, original italics, internal citation omitted.)

- "Many factors are relevant in assessing the medical probability that an exposure contributed to plaintiff's asbestos disease. Frequency of exposure, regularity of exposure, and proximity of the asbestos product to plaintiff are certainly relevant, although these considerations should not be determinative in every case. [Citation.] Additional factors may also be significant in individual cases, such as the type of asbestos product to which plaintiff was exposed, the type of injury suffered by plaintiff, and other possible sources of plaintiff's injury. [Citations.] 'Ultimately, the sufficiency of the evidence of causation will depend on the unique circumstances of each case.' [Citation.] " (Paulus v. Crane Co. (2014) 224 Cal.App.4th 1357, 1363−1364 [169 Cal.Rptr.3d 373].)

- "In this case, [defendant] argues the trial court's refusal to give its proposed instruction was error because the instruction set forth 'the requirement in Rutherford that causation be decided by taking into account "the length, frequency, proximity and intensity of exposure, the peculiar properties of the individual product, [and] any other potential causes to which the disease could be attributed." ' But Rutherford does not require the jury to take these factors into account when deciding whether a plaintiff's exposure to an asbestos-containing product was a substantial factor in causing mesothelioma. Instead, those factors are ones that a medical expert may rely upon in forming his or her expert medical opinion." (Davis v. Honeywell Internat. Inc. (2016) 245 Cal.App.4th 477, 495 [199 Cal.Rptr.3d 583], internal citation omitted.)

- "Mere presence at a site where asbestos was present is insufficient to establish legally significant asbestos exposure." (Shiffer v. CBS Corp. (2015) 240 Cal.App.4th 246, 252 [192 Cal.Rptr.3d 346].)

- "We disagree with the trial court's view that Rutherford mandates that a medical doctor must expressly link together the evidence of substantial factor causation. The Rutherford court did not create a requirement that specific words must be recited by appellant's expert. Nor did the Rutherford court specify that the testifying expert in asbestos cases must always be 'somebody with an M.D. after his name.' The Rutherford court agreed with the Lineaweaver court that 'the reference to "medical probability" in the standard "is no more than a recognition that asbestos injury cases (like medical malpractice cases) involve the use of medical evidence." [Citation.]' The Supreme Court has since clarified that medical evidence does not necessarily have to be provided by a medical doctor." (Hernandez v. Amcord, Inc. (2013) 215 Cal.App.4th 659, 675 [156 Cal.Rptr.3d 90], internal citations omitted.)

- "Nothing in Rutherford precludes a plaintiff from establishing legal causation through opinion testimony by a competent medical expert to the effect that every exposure to respirable asbestos contributes to the risk of developing mesothelioma. On the contrary, Rutherford acknowledges the scientific debate between the 'every exposure' and 'insignificant exposure' camps, and recognizes that the conflict is one for the jury to resolve." (Izell, supra, 231 Cal.App.4th at p. 977.)

- "[T]he identified-exposure theory is a more rigorous standard of causation than the every-exposure theory. As a single example of the difference, we note [expert]'s statement that it 'takes significant exposures' to increase the risk of disease. This statement uses the plural 'exposures' and also requires that those exposures be 'significant.' The use of 'significant' as a limiting modifier appears to be connected to [expert]'s earlier testimony about the concentrations of airborne asbestos created by particular activities done by [plaintiff], such as filing, sanding and using an airhose to clean a brake drum." (Phillips v. Honeywell Internat. Inc. (2017) 9 Cal.App.5th 1061, 1088 [217 Cal.Rptr.3d 147].)

- "Nor is there a requirement that 'specific words must be recited by [plaintiffs'] expert.' [¶] The connection, however, must be made between the defendant's asbestos products and the risk of developing mesothelioma suffered by the decedent." (Paulus, supra, 224 Cal.App.4th at p. 1364.)

- "We hold that the duty of employers and premises owners to exercise ordinary care in their use of asbestos includes preventing exposure to asbestos carried by the bodies and clothing of on-site workers. Where it is reasonably foreseeable that workers, their clothing, or personal effects will act as vectors carrying asbestos from the premises to household members, employers have a duty to take reasonable care to prevent this means of transmission. This duty also applies to premises owners who use asbestos on their property, subject to any exceptions and affirmative defenses generally applicable to premises owners, such as the rules of contractor liability. Importantly, we hold that this duty extends only to members of a worker's household. Because the duty is premised on the foreseeability of both the regularity and intensity of contact that occurs in a worker's home, it does not extend beyond this circumscribed category of potential plaintiffs." (Kesner v. Superior Court (2016) 1 Cal.5th 1132, 1140 [210 Cal.Rptr.3d 283, 384 P.3d 283].)

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin, California Procedure (5th ed. 2008) Actions, § 570

Haning et al., California Practice Guide: Personal Injury, Ch. 2(II)-D, Theories of Recovery—Strict Liability For Defective Products, ¶ 2:1259 (The Rutter Group)

Haning et al., California Practice Guide: Personal Injury, Ch. 2(II)-O, Theories of Recovery—Causation Issues, ¶ 2:2409 (The Rutter Group)

1 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 2, Causation, § 2.03 (Matthew Bender)

California Products Liability Actions, Ch. 2, Liability for Defective Products, § 2.22, Ch. 7, Proof, § 7.06 (Matthew Bender)

33 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 380, Negligence, § 380.72 (Matthew Bender)

450B. Good Samaritan—Scene of Emergency

[Name of defendant] claims that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] is not responsible for [name of plaintiff]'s harm because [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was trying to protect [name of plaintiff] from harm at the scene of an emergency.

To succeed on this defense, [name of defendant] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] rendered medical or nonmedical care or assistance to [name of plaintiff] at the scene of an emergency;

2. That [name of defendant] was acting in good faith; and

3. That [name of defendant] was not acting for compensation.

If you decide that [name of defendant] has proved all of the above, but you decide that [name of defendant] was negligent, [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] is not responsible unless [name of plaintiff] proves that [name of defendant]'s conduct constituted gross negligence or willful or wanton misconduct.

"Gross negligence" is the lack of any care or an extreme departure from what a reasonably careful person would do in the same situation.

"Willful or wanton misconduct" means conduct by a person who may have no intent to cause harm, but who intentionally performs an act so unreasonable and dangerous that ~~he or she~~ the person knows or should know it is highly probable that harm will result.

If you find that [name of defendant] was grossly negligent or acted willfully or wantonly, [name of plaintiff] must then also prove:

1. [(a) That [name of defendant]'s conduct added to the risk of harm;]

   [or]

   [(b) That [name of defendant]'s conduct caused [name of plaintiff] to reasonably rely on [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] protection;]

   AND

2. That the [additional risk/ [or] reliance] was a substantial factor in causing harm to [name of plaintiff].

Derived from former CACI No. 450 December 2010; Revised December 2011, May 2020

Directions for Use

Use this instruction for situations at the scene of an emergency not involving medical, law enforcement, or emergency personnel. (See Health & Saf. Code, § 1799.102.) In a nonemergency situation, give CACI No. 450A, Good Samaritan—Nonemergency.

Under Health and Safety Code section 1799.102(b), the defendant must have acted at the scene of an emergency, in good faith, and not for compensation. These terms are not defined, and neither the statute nor case law indicates who has the burden of proof. However, the advisory committee believes that it is more likely that the defendant has the burden of proving those things necessary to invoke the protections of the statute. (See Evid. Code, § 500 [party has the burden of proof as to each fact the existence or nonexistence of which is essential to the claim for relief or defense asserted].)

If the jury finds that the statutory standards have been met, then presumably it must also find that the common-law standards for Good-Samaritan liability have also been met. (See Health & Saf. Code, § 1799.102(c) ["Nothing in this section shall be construed to change any existing legal duties or obligations"].) In the common-law part of the instruction, select either or both options for element 1 depending on the facts.

See also CACI No. 425, "Gross Negligence" Explained.

Sources and Authority

- Immunity for Persons Rendering Care at Scene of Emergency. Health and Safety Code section 1799.102.

- " 'Gross negligence' long has been defined in California and other jurisdictions as either a ' " 'want of even scant care' " ' or ' " 'an extreme departure from the ordinary standard of conduct.' " ' " (City of Santa Barbara v. Superior Court (2007) 41 Cal.4th 747, 754 [62 Cal.Rptr.3d 527, 161 P.3d 1095], internal citations omitted.)

- "By contrast, 'wanton' or 'reckless' misconduct (or ' "willful and wanton negligence" ') describes conduct by a person who may have no intent to cause harm, but who intentionally performs an act so unreasonable and dangerous that he or she knows or should know it is highly probable that harm will result." (City of Santa Barbara, supra, 41 Cal.4th at p. 754, fn. 4, internal citations omitted.)

- "Under well-established common law principles, a person has no duty to come to the aid of another. If, however, a person elects to come to someone's aid, he or she has a duty to exercise due care. Thus, a 'good Samaritan' who attempts to help someone might be liable if he or she does not exercise due care and ends up causing harm." (Van Horn v. Watson (2008) 45 Cal.4th 322, 324 [86 Cal.Rptr.3d 350, 197 P.3d 164], internal citations omitted.)

- "A person who has not created a peril is not liable in tort merely for failure to take affirmative action to assist or protect another unless there is some relationship between them which gives rise to a duty to act. Also pertinent to our discussion is the role of the volunteer who, having no initial duty to do so, undertakes to come to the aid of another—the 'good Samaritan.' ... He is under a duty to exercise due care in performance and is liable if (a) his failure to exercise such care increases the risk of such harm, or (b) the harm is suffered because of the other's reliance upon the undertaking." (Williams v. State of California (1983) 34 Cal.3d 18, 23 [192 Cal.Rptr. 233, 664 P.2d 137], internal citations omitted.)

- "A police officer, paramedic or other public safety worker is as much entitled to the benefit of this general rule as anyone else." (Camp v. State of California (2010) 184 Cal.App.4th 967, 975 [109 Cal.Rptr.3d 676].)

- "Under the good Samaritan doctrine, CHP may have a duty to members of the public to exercise due care when CHP voluntarily assumes a protective duty toward a certain member of the public and undertakes action on behalf of that member thereby inducing reliance, when an express promise to warn of a danger has induced reliance, or when the actions of CHP place a person in peril or increase the risk of harm. In other words, to create a special relationship and a duty of care, there must be evidence that CHP ' "made misrepresentations that induced a citizen's detrimental reliance [citation], placed a citizen in harm's way [citations], or lulled a citizen into a false sense of security and then withdrew essential safety precautions." ' Nonfeasance that leaves the citizen in exactly the same position that he or she already occupied cannot support a finding of duty of care. Affirmative conduct or misfeasance on the part of CHP that induces reliance or changes the risk of harm is required." (Greyhound Lines, Inc. v. Department of the California Highway Patrol (2013) 213 Cal.App.4th 1129, 1136 [152 Cal.Rptr.3d 492], internal citations omitted.)

- Statutory exceptions to Good Samaritan liability include immunities under certain circumstances for medical licensees (Bus. & Prof. Code, §§ 2395–2398), nurses (Bus. & Prof. Code, §§ 2727.5, 2861.5), dentists (Bus. & Prof. Code, § 1627.5), rescue teams (Health & Saf. Code, § 1317(f)), persons rendering emergency medical services (Health & Saf. Code, § 1799.102), paramedics (Health & Saf. Code, § 1799.104), and first-aid volunteers (Gov. Code, § 50086).

Secondary Sources

4 Witkin, California Procedure (5th ed. 2008) Pleadings, § 594

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th~~10th~~ ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~1060~~1205–~~1065~~1210

Haning~~,~~ et al., California Practice Guide: Personal Injury, Ch. 2(IV~~H~~)-H~~I~~, Emergency Medical Services Immunity, ¶¶ 2:3495–2:3516 ~~Negligence Liability Based On Omission To Act—Legal Duty Arising From "Special Relationship," ¶¶ 2:1985, 2:2005~~ (The Rutter Group)

1 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 1, Negligence: Duty and Breach, § 1.11 (Matthew Bender)

4 California Trial Guide, Unit 90, Closing Argument, § 90.90 (Matthew Bender)

33 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 380, Negligence, § 380.32[5][c] (Matthew Bender)

16 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 165, Negligence, § 165.150 (Matthew Bender)

454. Affirmative Defense—Statute of Limitations

[*Name of defendant] contends that [name of plaintiff]'s lawsuit was not filed within the time set by law. To succeed on this defense, [name of defendant] must prove that [name of plaintiff]'s claimed harm occurred before [insert date from applicable statute of limitation].

New April 2007; Revised December 2007

Directions for Use

This instruction states the common-law rule that an action accrues on the date of injury. (Jolly v. Eli Lilly & Co. (1988) 44 Cal.3d 1103, 1109 [245 Cal.Rptr. 658, 751 P.2d 923].) The date to be inserted is the applicable limitation period before the filing date. For example, if the limitation period is two years and the filing date is August 31, 2007, the date is August 31, 2005.

For an instruction on the delayed-discovery rule, see CACI No. 455, Statute of Limitations—Delayed Discovery. See also verdict form CACI No. VF-410, Statute of Limitations—Delayed Discovery—Reasonable Investigation Would Not Have Disclosed Pertinent Facts.

Do not use this instruction for attorney malpractice. (See CACI No. 610, Affirmative Defense—Statute of Limitations—Attorney Malpractice—One-Year Limit, and CACI No. 611, Affirmative Defense—Statute of Limitations—Attorney Malpractice—Four-Year Limit.)

"Claimed harm" refers to all of the elements of the cause of action, which must have occurred before the cause of action accrues and the limitation period begins. (Glue-Fold, Inc. v. Slautterback Corp. (2000) 82 Cal.App.4th 1018, 1029 [98 Cal.Rptr.2d 661].) In some cases, it may be necessary to modify this term to refer to specific facts that give rise to the cause of action.

Sources and Authority

- Two-Year Statute of Limitations. Code of Civil Procedure section 335.1.
- Three-Year Statute of Limitations. Code of Civil Procedure section 338(c).
- One-Year Statute of Limitations. Code of Civil Procedure section 340.2(c).
- "A limitation period does not begin until a cause of action accrues, i.e., all essential elements are present and a claim becomes legally actionable." (Glue-Fold, Inc., supra, 82 Cal.App.4th at p. 1029, internal citations omitted.)
- " ' " ' "Ordinarily this is when the wrongful act is done and the obligation or the liability arises, but it does not 'accrue until the party owning it is entitled to begin and prosecute an action thereon.' " … In other words, "[a] cause of action accrues 'upon the occurrence of the last element essential to the cause of action.' " ' " ' " (Choi v. Sagemark Consulting (2017) 18 Cal.App.5th 308, 323 [226 Cal.Rptr.3d 267], original italics.)

- "It is undisputed that plaintiffs discovered shortly after the accident in 2010 that [defendant] had failed to secure the insurance coverage plaintiffs requested. Thus, this case does not involve the delayed discovery doctrine, which makes 'accrual of a cause of action contingent on when a party discovered or should have discovered that his or her injury had a wrongful cause.' In delayed discovery cases, 'plaintiffs are required to conduct a reasonable investigation after becoming aware of an injury, and are charged with knowledge of the information that would have been revealed by such an investigation.' Here, the question is when plaintiffs incurred 'actual injury'—not when they discovered [defendant]'s negligence. The trial court erred to the extent that it relied on the delayed discovery doctrine to determine when plaintiffs incurred actual injury." (Lederer v. Gursey Schneider LLP (2018) 22 Cal.App.5th 508, 521 [231 Cal.Rptr.3d 518], internal citations omitted.)

- "Where, as here, 'damages are an element of a cause of action, the cause of action does not accrue until the damages have been sustained. … "Mere threat of future harm, not yet realized, is not enough." … "Basic public policy is best served by recognizing that damage is necessary to mature such a cause of action." … Therefore, when the wrongful act does not result in immediate damage, "the cause of action does not accrue prior to the maturation of perceptible harm." ' " (Thomson v. Canyon (2011) 198 Cal.App.4th 594, 604 [129 Cal.Rptr.3d 525].)

- " '[O]nce plaintiff has suffered actual and appreciable harm, neither the speculative nor uncertain character of damages nor the difficulty of proof will toll the period of limitation.' Cases contrast actual and appreciable harm with nominal damages, speculative harm or the threat of future harm. The mere breach of duty—causing only nominal damages, speculative harm or the threat of future harm not yet realized—normally does not suffice to create a cause of action." (San Francisco Unified School Dist. v. W. R. Grace & Co. (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 1318, 1326 [44 Cal.Rptr.2d 305], internal citations omitted.)

- "Violations of a continuing or recurring obligation may give rise to 'continuous accrual' of causes of action, meaning that ' "a cause of action accrues each time a wrongful act occurs, triggering a new limitations period." [Citation.]' " (Esparza v. Safeway, Inc. (2019) 36 Cal.App.5th 42, 59 [247 Cal.Rptr.3d 875].)

- "Generally, the bar of the statute of limitations is raised as an affirmative defense, subject to proof by the defendant." (Czajkowski v. Haskell & White (2012) 208 Cal.App.4th 166, 174 [144 Cal.Rptr.3d 522].)

- " '[R]esolution of the statute of limitations issue is normally a question of fact … .' " (Romano v. Rockwell Int'~~ernatl~~, Inc. (1996) 14 Cal.4th 479, 487 [59 Cal.Rptr.2d 20, 926 P.2d 1114].)

- "Commencement of the statute of limitations is usually a factual question, but can be resolved as a matter of law when, as here, the material facts are not disputed." Moss v. Duncan (2019) 36 Cal.App.5th 569, 574 [248 Cal.Rptr.3d 689].)

- "Because the relevant facts are not in dispute, the application of the statute of limitations may be decided as a question of law." (Lederer, supra, 22 Cal.App.5th at p. 521.)

- "So long as the time allowed for filing an action is not inherently unreasonable, California courts afford 'contracting parties considerable freedom to modify the length of a statute of limitations.' " (Wind Dancer Production Group v. Walt Disney Pictures (2017) 10 Cal.App.5th 56, 74 [215 Cal.Rptr.3d 835].)

Secondary Sources

4 Witkin, California Procedure (5th ed. 2008) Actions, §§ 493–507, 553–592, 673

5 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 71, Commencement, Prosecution, and Dismissal of Tort Actions, §§ 71.01–71.06 (Matthew Bender)

30 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 345, Limitation of Actions, §§ 345.19, 345.20 (Matthew Bender)

33 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 380, Negligence, § 380.150 (Matthew Bender)

14 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 143, Limitation of Actions, § 143.20 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Pretrial Civil Procedure, Ch. 4, Limitation of Actions, 4.05, 4.14, 4.38, 4.39

455. Statute of Limitations—Delayed Discovery

If [*name of defendant] proves that [name of plaintiff]'s claimed harm occurred before [insert date from applicable statute of limitations], [name of plaintiff]'s lawsuit was still filed on time if [name of plaintiff] proves that before that date,

[[*name of plaintiff] did not discover, and did not know of facts that would have caused a reasonable person to suspect, that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] had suffered harm that was caused by someone's wrongful conduct.]

[*or]

[[*name of plaintiff] did not discover, and a reasonable and diligent investigation would not have disclosed, that [specify factual basis for cause of action, e.g., "a medical device" or "inadequate medical treatment"] contributed to [name of plaintiff]'s harm.]

New April 2007; Revised December 2007, April 2009, December 2009, May 2020

Directions for Use

Read this instruction with the first option after CACI No. 454, Affirmative Defense—Statute of Limitations, if the plaintiff seeks to overcome the statute-of-limitations defense by asserting the "delayed-discovery rule" or "discovery rule." The discovery rule provides that the accrual date of a cause of action is delayed until the plaintiff is aware of ~~his or her~~the plaintiff's injury and its negligent cause. (Jolly v. Eli Lilly & Co. (1988) 44 Cal.3d 1103, 1109 [245 Cal.Rptr. 658, 751 P.2d 923].) The date to be inserted is the applicable limitation period before the filing date. For example, if the limitation period is two years and the filing date is August 31, 2009, the date is August 31, 2007.

If the facts suggest that even if the plaintiff had conducted a timely and reasonable investigation, it would not have disclosed the limitation-triggering information, read the second option. (See Fox v. Ethicon Endo-Surgery (2005) 35 Cal.4th 797 [27 Cal.Rptr.3d 661, 110 P.3d 914] [fact that plaintiff suspected her injury was caused by surgeon's negligence and timely filed action for medical negligence against health care provider did not preclude "discovery rule" from delaying accrual of limitations period on products liability cause of action against medical staple manufacturer whose role in causing injury was not known and could not have been reasonably discovered within the applicable limitations period commencing from date of injury].)

See also verdict form CACI No. VF-410, Statute of Limitations—Delayed Discovery—Reasonable Investigation Would Not Have Disclosed Pertinent Facts.

Do not use this instruction for medical malpractice (see CACI No. 555, Affirmative Defense—Statute of Limitations—Medical Malpractice—One-Year Limit, and CACI No. 556, Affirmative Defense—Statute of Limitations—Medical Malpractice—Three-Year Limit) or attorney malpractice (see CACI No. 610, Affirmative Defense—Statute of Limitations—Attorney Malpractice—One-Year Limit, and CACI No. 611, Affirmative Defense—Statute of Limitations—Attorney Malpractice—Four-Year Limit). Also, do not use this instruction if the case was timely but a fictitiously named defendant was identified and substituted in after the limitation period expired. (See McOwen v. Grossman (2007) 153 Cal.App.4th 937, 942 [63 Cal.Rptr.3d 615] [if lawsuit is initiated within the applicable period of limitations against one party and the plaintiff has complied with Code of Civil Procedure section 474 by alleging the existence of unknown additional defendants, the relevant inquiry when the plaintiff seeks to substitute a real defendant for one sued fictitiously is what facts the plaintiff actually knew at the time the original complaint was filed].)

"Claimed harm" refers to all of the elements of the cause of action, which must have occurred before the cause of action accrues and the limitation period begins. (Glue-Fold, Inc. v. Slautterback Corp. (2000) 82 Cal.App.4th 1018, 1029 [98 Cal.Rptr.2d 661].) In some cases, it may be necessary to modify this term to refer to specific facts that give rise to the cause of action.

Sources and Authority

- "An exception to the general rule for defining the accrual of a cause of action—indeed, the 'most important' one—is the discovery rule. … It postpones accrual of a cause of action until the plaintiff discovers, or has reason to discover, the cause of action. [¶] … [T]he plaintiff discovers the cause of action when he at least suspects a factual basis, as opposed to a legal theory, for its elements, even if he lacks knowledge thereof—when, simply put, he at least 'suspects … that someone has done something wrong' to him, 'wrong' being used, not in any technical sense, but rather in accordance with its 'lay understanding.' He has reason to discover the cause of action when he has reason at least to suspect a factual basis for its elements. He has reason to suspect when he has 'notice or information of circumstances to put a reasonable person on inquiry'; he need not know the 'specific "facts" necessary to establish' the cause of action; rather, he may seek to learn such facts through the 'process contemplated by pretrial discovery'; but, within the applicable limitations period, he must indeed seek to learn the facts necessary to bring the cause of action in the first place—he 'cannot wait for' them to 'find him' and 'sit on' his 'rights'; he 'must go find' them himself if he can and 'file suit' if he does." (Norgart v. Upjohn Co. (1999) 21 Cal.4th 383, 397–398 [87 Cal.Rptr.2d 453, 981 P.2d 79], original italics, internal citations and footnote omitted.)

- "[I]t is the discovery of facts, not their legal significance, that starts the statute." (Jolly, supra, 44 Cal.3d at p. 1113.)

- "Jolly 'sets forth two alternate tests for triggering the limitations period: (1) a subjective test requiring actual suspicion by the plaintiff that the injury was caused by wrongdoing; and (2) an objective test requiring a showing that a reasonable person would have suspected the injury was caused by wrongdoing. [Citation.] The first to occur under these two tests begins the limitations period.' " (Nguyen v. Western Digital Corp. (2014) 229 Cal.App.4th 1522, 1552 [178 Cal.Rptr.3d 897].)

- "While ignorance of the existence of an injury or cause of action may delay the running of the statute of limitations until the date of discovery, the general rule in California has been that ignorance of the identity of the defendant is not essential to a claim and therefore will not toll the statute." (Bernson v. Browning-Ferris Industries (1994) 7 Cal.4th 926, 932 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 440, 873 P.2d 613].)

- "[U]nder the delayed discovery rule, a cause of action accrues and the statute of limitations begins to run when the plaintiff has reason to suspect an injury and some wrongful cause, unless the plaintiff pleads and proves that a reasonable investigation at that time would not have revealed a factual basis for that particular cause of action. In that case, the statute of limitations for that cause of action will be tolled until such time as a reasonable investigation would have revealed its factual basis." (Fox, supra, 35 Cal.4th at p. 803.)

- "[A]s Fox teaches, claims based on two independent legal theories against two separate defendants can accrue at different times." (E-Fab, Inc. v. Accountants, Inc. Services (2007) 153 Cal.App.4th 1308, 1323 [64 Cal.Rptr.3d 9].)

- "A limitation period does not begin until a cause of action accrues, i.e., all essential elements are present and a claim becomes legally actionable. Developed to mitigate the harsh results produced by strict definitions of accrual, the common law discovery rule postpones accrual until a plaintiff discovers or has reason to discover the cause of action." (Glue-Fold, Inc., supra, 82 Cal.App.4th at p. 1029, internal citations omitted.)

- "A plaintiff's inability to discover a cause of action may occur 'when it is particularly difficult for the plaintiff to observe or understand the breach of duty, or when the injury itself (or its cause) is hidden or beyond what the ordinary person could be expected to understand.' " (NBCUniversal Media, LLC v. Superior Court (2014) 225 Cal.App.4th 1222, 1232 [171 Cal.Rptr.3d 1].)

- "[T]he plaintiff may discover, or have reason to discover, the cause of action even if he does not suspect, or have reason to suspect, the identity of the defendant. That is because the identity of the defendant is not an element of any cause of action. It follows that failure to discover, or have reason to discover, the identity of the defendant does not postpone the accrual of a cause of action, whereas a like failure concerning the cause of action itself does. 'Although never fully articulated, the rationale for distinguishing between ignorance' of the defendant and 'ignorance' of the cause of action itself 'appears to be premised on the commonsense assumption that once the plaintiff is aware of' the latter, he 'normally' has 'sufficient opportunity,' within the 'applicable limitations period,' 'to discover the identity' of the former. He may 'often effectively extend[]' the limitations period in question 'by the filing' and amendment 'of a Doe complaint' and invocation of the relation-back doctrine. 'Where' he knows the 'identity of at least one defendant … , [he] must' proceed thus." (Norgart, supra, 21 Cal.4th at p. 399, internal citations and footnote omitted.)

- "The discovery rule only delays accrual until the plaintiff has, or should have, inquiry notice of the cause of action. The discovery rule does not encourage dilatory tactics because plaintiffs are charged with presumptive knowledge of an injury if they have ' " 'information of circumstances to put [them] on inquiry' " ' or if they have ' " 'the opportunity to obtain knowledge from sources open to [their] investigation.' " ' In other words, plaintiffs are required to conduct a reasonable investigation after becoming aware of an injury, and are charged with knowledge of the information that would have been revealed by such an investigation." (Fox, supra, 35 Cal.4th at pp. 807–808, internal citations omitted.)

- "Thus, a two-part analysis is used to assess when a claim has accrued under the discovery rule. The initial step focuses on whether the plaintiff possessed information that would cause a reasonable person to inquire into the cause of his injuries. Under California law, this inquiry duty arises when the plaintiff becomes aware of facts that would cause a reasonably prudent person to suspect his injuries were the result of wrongdoing. If the plaintiff was in possession of such facts, thereby triggering his duty to investigate, it must next be determined whether 'such an investigation would have disclosed a factual basis for a cause of action[.] [T]he statute of limitations begins to run on that cause of action when the investigation would have brought such information to light.' " (Alexander v. Exxon Mobil (2013) 219 Cal.App.4th 1236, 1251 [162 Cal.Rptr.3d 617], internal citation omitted.)

- " [I]f continuing injury from a completed act generally extended the limitations periods, those periods would lack meaning. Parties could file suit at any time, as long as their injuries persisted. This is not the law. The time bar starts running when the plaintiff first learns of actionable injury, even if the injury will linger or compound. ' " '[W]here an injury, although slight, is sustained in consequence of the wrongful act of another, and the law affords a remedy therefor, the statute of limitations attaches at once. It is not material that all the damages resulting from the act shall have been sustained at that time, and the running of the statute is not postponed by the fact that the actual or substantial damages do not occur until a later date … .' " ' " (Vaca v. Wachovia Mortgage Corp. (2011) 198 Cal.App.4th 737, 745 [129 Cal.Rptr.3d 354], original italics, internal citation omitted.)

- "[T]he discovery rule 'may be applied to breaches [of contract] which can be, and are, committed in secret and, moreover, where the harm flowing from those breaches will not be reasonably discoverable by plaintiffs until a future time.' " (Wind Dancer Production Group v. Walt Disney Pictures (2017) 10 Cal.App.5th 56, 73 [215 Cal.Rptr.3d 835].)

- There is no doctrine of constructive or imputed suspicion arising from media coverage. "[Defendant]'s argument amounts to a contention that, having taken a prescription drug, [plaintiff] had an obligation to read newspapers and watch television news and otherwise seek out news of dangerous side effects not disclosed by the prescribing doctor, or indeed by the drug manufacturer, and that if she failed in this obligation, she could lose her right to sue. We see no such obligation." (Nelson v. Indevus Pharmaceuticals, Inc. (2006) 142 Cal.App.4th 1202, 1206 [48 Cal.Rptr.3d 668].)

- "The statute of limitations does not begin to run when some members of the public have a suspicion of wrongdoing, but only '[o]nce the plaintiff has a suspicion of wrongdoing.' " (Unruh-Haxton v. Regents of University of California (2008) 162 Cal.App.4th 343, 364 [76 Cal.Rptr.3d 146], original italics.)

- "Generally, the bar of the statute of limitations is raised as an affirmative defense, subject to proof by the defendant. [¶] However, when a plaintiff relies on the discovery rule or allegations of fraudulent concealment as excuses for an apparently belated filing of a complaint, 'the burden of pleading and proving belated discovery of a cause of action falls on the plaintiff.' " (Czajkowski v. Haskell & White, LLP (2012) 208 Cal.App.4th 166, 174 [144 Cal.Rptr.3d 522].)

- " '[R]esolution of the statute of limitations issue is normally a question of fact … .' " (Romano v. Rockwell Internat., Inc. (1996) 14 Cal.4th 479, 487 [59 Cal.Rptr.2d 20, 926 P.2d 1114].)

- "More specifically, as to accrual, 'once properly pleaded, belated discovery is a question of fact.' " (Nguyen, supra, 229 Cal.App.4th at p. 1552.)

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin, California Procedure (5th ed. 2008) Actions, §§ 493–507, 553–592, 673

Haning et al., California Practice Guide: Personal Injury, Ch. 5-B, When To Sue—Statute Of Limitations, ¶¶ 5:108–5:111.6 (The Rutter Group)

5 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 71, Commencement, Prosecution, and Dismissal of Tort Actions, § 71.03[3] (Matthew Bender)

30 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 345, Limitation of Actions, § 345.19[3] (Matthew Bender)

14 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 143, Limitation of Actions, §§ 143.47, 143.52 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Pretrial Civil Procedure, Ch. 4, Limitation of Actions, 4.15

McDonald, California Medical Malpractice: Law and Practice §§ 7:1–7:7 (Thomson Reuters)

456. Defendant Estopped From Asserting Statute of Limitations Defense

[Name of plaintiff] claims that even if [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] lawsuit was not filed on time, [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] may still proceed because [name of defendant] did or said something that caused [name of plaintiff] to delay filing the lawsuit. In order to establish the right to proceed, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] said or did something that caused [name of plaintiff] to believe that it would not be necessary to file a lawsuit;

2. That [name of plaintiff] relied on [name of defendant]'s conduct and therefore did not file the lawsuit within the time otherwise required;

3. That a reasonable person in [name of plaintiff]'s position would have relied on [name of defendant]'s conduct; [and]

4. [That after the limitation period had expired, [name of defendant]'s representations by words or conduct proved to not be true; and]

5. That [name of plaintiff] proceeded diligently to file suit once [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] discovered the need to proceed.

It is not necessary that [name of defendant] have acted in bad faith or intended to mislead [name of plaintiff].

New October 2008; Revised December 2014, June 2015, May 2020

Directions for Use

Equitable estoppel, including any disputed issue of fact, is to be decided by the court, even if there are disputed issues of fact. (Hopkins v. Kedzierski (2014) 225 Cal.App.4th 736, 745 [170 Cal.Rptr.3d 551].) This instruction is for use if the court submits the issue to the jury for advisory findings.

There is perhaps a question as to whether all the elements of equitable estoppel must be proved in order to establish an estoppel to rely on a statute of limitations. These elements are (1) the party to be estopped must know the facts; (2) the party must intend that ~~his or her~~the party's conduct will be acted on, or must act in such a way that the party asserting the estoppel had the right to believe that the conduct was so intended; (3) the party asserting the estoppel must be ignorant of the true state of facts; and, (4) that party must rely upon the conduct to ~~his or her~~the party's detriment. (See Ashou v. Liberty Mutual Fire Ins. Co. (2006) 138 Cal.App.4th 748, 766–767 [41 Cal.Rptr.3d 819]; see also Olofsson v. Mission Linen Supply (2012) 211 Cal.App.4th 1236, 1246 [150 Cal.Rptr.3d 446] [equitable estoppel to deny family leave under California Family Rights Act].)

Most cases do not frame the issue as one of equitable estoppel and its four elements. All that is required is that the defendant's conduct actually have misled the plaintiff, and that plaintiff reasonably have relied on that conduct. Bad faith or an intent to mislead is not required. (Lantzy v. Centex Homes (2003) 31 Cal.4th 363, 384 [2 Cal.Rptr.3d 655, 73 P.3d 517]; Shaffer v. Debbas (1993) 17 Cal.App.4th 33, 43 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 110].) Nor does it appear that there is a requirement that the defendant specifically intended to induce the plaintiff to defer filing suit. Therefore, no specific intent element has been included. However, the California Supreme Court has stated that element 4 is to be given in a construction defect case in which the defendant has assured the plaintiff that all defects will be repaired. (See Lantzy, supra, 31 Cal.4th at p. 384.)

Sources and Authority

- "As the name suggests, equitable estoppel is an equitable issue for court resolution." (Hopkins, supra, 225 Cal.App.4th at p. 745.)

- "While the judge determines equitable causes of action, the judge may (in rare instances) empanel an advisory jury to make preliminary factual findings. The factual findings are purely advisory because, on equitable causes of action, the judge is the proper fact finder. '[W]hile a jury may be used for advisory verdicts as to questions of fact [in equitable actions], it is the duty of the trial court to make its own independent findings and to adopt or reject the findings of the jury as it deems proper.' " (Hoopes v. Dolan (2008) 168 Cal.App.4th 146, 156 [85 Cal.Rptr.3d 337], internal citations omitted.)

- "[CACI No. 456 is] appropriate for use when a trial court 'empanel[s] an advisory jury to make preliminary factual findings,' with respect to equitable estoppel … ." (Hopkins, supra, 225 Cal.App.4th at p. 745.)

- "Equitable tolling and equitable estoppel are distinct doctrines. ' "Tolling, strictly speaking, is concerned with the point at which the limitations period begins to run and with the circumstances in which the running of the limitations period may be suspended. … Equitable estoppel, however, … comes into play only after the limitations period has run and addresses … the circumstances in which a party will be estopped from asserting the statute of limitations as a defense to an admittedly untimely action because his conduct has induced another into forbearing suit within the applicable limitations period. [Equitable estoppel] is wholly independent of the limitations period itself and takes its life … from the equitable principle that no man [may] profit from his own wrongdoing in a court of justice." ' Thus, equitable estoppel is available even where the limitations statute at issue expressly precludes equitable tolling." (Lantzy, supra, 31 Cal.4th at pp. 383–384, internal citations omitted.)

- "Accordingly, (1) if one potentially liable for a construction defect represents, while the limitations period is still running, that all actionable damage has been or will be repaired, thus making it unnecessary to sue, (2) the plaintiff reasonably relies on this representation to refrain from bringing a timely action, (3) the representation proves false after the limitations period has expired, and (4) the plaintiff proceeds diligently once the truth is discovered, the defendant may be equitably estopped to assert the statute of limitations as a defense to the action." (Lantzy, supra, 31 Cal.4th at p. 384, internal citations omitted.)

- "Equitable estoppel does not require factually misleading statements in all cases." (J. P. v.

Carlsbad Unified Sch. Dist. (2014) 232 Cal.App.4th 323, 335 [181 Cal.Rptr.3d 286].)

- " 'An estoppel may arise although there was no designed fraud on the part of the person sought to be estopped. … To create an equitable estoppel, "it is enough if the party has been induced to refrain from using such means or taking such action as lay in his power, by which he might have retrieved his position and saved himself from loss. … Where the delay in commencing action is induced by the conduct of the defendant it cannot be availed of by him as a defense." ' " (Vu v. Prudential Property & Casualty Ins. Co. (2001) 26 Cal.4th 1142, 1152–1153 [113 Cal.Rptr.2d 70, 33 P.3d 487].)

- [T]he parties may, by their words or conduct, be estopped from enforcing a written contract provision. Under the doctrine of estoppel, '[a] defendant may be equitably estopped from asserting a statutory or contractual limitations period as a defense if the defendant's act or omission caused the plaintiff to refrain from filing a timely suit and the plaintiff's reliance on the defendant's conduct was reasonable.' ' "It is not necessary that the defendant acted in bad faith or intended to mislead the plaintiff. [Citations.] It is sufficient that the defendant's conduct in fact induced the plaintiff to refrain from instituting legal proceedings. [Citation.]" ' (Wind Dancer Production Group v. Walt Disney Pictures (2017) 10 Cal.App.5th 56, 78–79 [215 Cal.Rptr.3d 835].)

- " "'[W]hether an estoppel exists—whether the acts, representations or conduct lulled a party into a sense of security preventing him from instituting proceedings before the running of the statute, and whether the party relied thereon to his prejudice—is a question of fact and not of law." [Citations.]' " (Holdgrafer v. Unocal Corp. (2008) 160 Cal.App.4th 907, 925–926 [73 Cal.Rptr.3d 216], internal citations omitted.)

- "It is well settled that a public entity may be estopped from asserting the limitations of the claims statute where its agents or employees have prevented or deterred the filing of a timely claim by some affirmative act. Estoppel most commonly results from misleading statements about the need for or advisability of a claim; actual fraud or the intent to mislead is not essential. A fortiori, estoppel may certainly be invoked when there are acts of violence or intimidation that are intended to prevent the filing of a claim." (John R. v. Oakland Unified Sch. Dist. (1989) 48 Cal.3d 438, 445 [256 Cal.Rptr. 766, 769 P.2d 948], internal citations omitted.)

- " 'Estoppel as a bar to a public entity's assertion of the defense of noncompliance arises when the plaintiff establishes by a preponderance of the evidence: (1) the public entity was apprised of the facts, (2) it intended its conduct to be acted upon, (3) plaintiff was ignorant of the true state of facts, and (4) relied upon the conduct to his detriment.' " (J.P. supra, 232 Cal.App.4th at p. 333.)

- "It is well settled that the doctrine of estoppel in pais is applicable in a proper case to prevent a fraudulent or inequitable resort to the statute of limitations." (Estate of Pieper (1964) 224 Cal.App.2d 670, 690–691 [37 Cal.Rptr. 46], internal citations omitted.)

- "Although 'ignorance of the identity of the defendant … will not toll the statute', 'a defendant may be equitably estopped from asserting the statute of limitations when, as the result of intentional concealment, the plaintiff is unable to discover the defendant's actual identity'." (Vaca

v. Wachovia Mortgage Corp. (2011) 198 Cal.App.4th 737, 745 [129 Cal.Rptr.3d 354], original italics, internal citation omitted.)

- "Settlement negotiations are relevant and admissible to prove an estoppel to assert the statute of limitations." (Holdgrafer, supra, 160 Cal.App.4th at p. 927.)

- "The estoppel issue in this case arises in a unique context. Defendants' wrongful conduct has given rise to separate causes of action for property damage and personal injury with separate statutes of limitation. Where the plaintiffs reasonably rely on defendants' promise to repair the property damage without a lawsuit, is a jury permitted to find that plaintiffs' decision to delay filing a personal injury lawsuit was also reasonable? We conclude such a finding is permissible on the facts of this case." (Shaffer, supra, 17 Cal.App.4th at p. 43, internal citation omitted.)

- "At the very least, [plaintiff] cannot establish the second element necessary for equitable estoppel. [Plaintiff] argues that [defendant] was estopped to rely on the time bar of section 340.9 by its continued reconsideration of her claim after December 31, 2001, had passed. But she cannot prove [defendant] intended its reconsideration of the claim to be relied upon, or acted in such a way that [plaintiff] had a right to believe it so intended." (Ashou, supra, 138 Cal.App.4th at p. 767.)

- " 'It is well settled that a public entity may be estopped from asserting the limitations of the claims statute where its agents or employees have prevented or deterred the filing of a timely claim by some affirmative act.' Estoppel as a bar to a public entity's assertion of the defense of noncompliance arises when a plaintiff establishes by a preponderance of the evidence (1) the public entity was apprised of the facts, (2) it intended its conduct to be acted upon, (3) the plaintiff was ignorant of the true state of facts, and (4) relied upon the conduct to his detriment." (K.J. v. Arcadia Unified School Dist. (2009) 172 Cal.App.4th 1229, 1239–1240 [92 Cal.Rptr.3d 1], internal citation omitted.)

- "A nondisclosure is a cause of injury if the plaintiff would have acted so as to avoid injury had the plaintiff known the concealed fact. The plaintiff's reliance on a nondisclosure was reasonable if the plaintiff's failure to discover the concealed fact was reasonable in light of the plaintiff's knowledge and experience. Whether the plaintiff's reliance was reasonable is a question of fact for the trier of fact unless reasonable minds could reach only one conclusion based on the evidence. The fact that a plaintiff was represented by counsel and the scope and timing of the representation are relevant to the question of the reasonableness of the plaintiff's reliance." (Superior Dispatch, Inc. v. Insurance Corp. of New York (2010) 181 Cal.App.4th 175, 187–188 [104 Cal.Rptr.3d 508], internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin, California Procedure (5th ed. 2008) Actions, §§ 566–581

Haning et al., California Practice Guide: Personal Injury, Ch. 5-B, When To Sue—Statute Of Limitations, ¶ 5:111.6 (The Rutter Group)

5 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 71, Commencement, Prosecution, and Dismissal of Action, § 71.06 (Matthew Bender)

30 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 345, Limitation of Actions, § 345.81 (Matthew Bender)

14 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 143, Limitation of Actions, § 143.50 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Pretrial Civil Procedure, Ch. 4, Limitation of Actions, 4.42

462. Strict Liability for Injury Caused by Domestic Animal With Dangerous Propensities—Essential Factual Elements

---

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant]'s [insert type of animal] harmed [him/her/nonbinary pronoun] and that [name of defendant] is responsible for that harm.

People who own, keep, or control animals with unusually dangerous natures or tendencies can be held responsible for the harm that their animals cause to others, no matter how carefully they guard or restrain their animals.

To establish [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] owned, kept, or controlled a [insert type of animal];
2. That the [insert type of animal] had an unusually dangerous nature or tendency;
3. That before [name of plaintiff] was injured, [name of defendant] knew or should have known that the [insert type of animal] had this nature or tendency;
4. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and
5. That the [insert type of animal]'s unusually dangerous nature or tendency was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

New September 2003; Revised April 2007, June 2013

Directions for Use

Give this instruction to impose strict liability on an animal owner if the owner knew or should have known that the animal had a dangerous propensity. (See Thomas v. Stenberg (2012) 206 Cal.App.4th 654, 665 [142 Cal.Rptr.3d 24].) There is also strict liability for injuries caused by animals of a type that are inherently dangerous without the need to show the owner's knowledge of dangerousness. (Baugh v. Beatty (1949) 91 Cal.App.2d 786, 791–792 [205 P.2d 671]; see CACI No. 461, Strict Liability for Injury Caused by Wild Animal—Essential Factual Elements.)

For an instruction on statutory strict liability under the dog-bite statute, see CACI No. 463, Dog Bite Statute (Civ. Code, § 3342)—Essential Factual Elements.

Sources and Authority

- "A common law strict liability cause of action may also be maintained if the owner of a domestic animal that bites or injures another person knew or had reason to know of the animal's vicious propensities. If [defendant] knew or should have known of his dog's vicious propensities and failed to inform [plaintiff] of such facts, he could be found to have exposed [plaintiff] to an unknown risk and thereby be held strictly liable at common law for her injuries. Under such circumstances, the defense of primary assumption of risk would not bar [plaintiff]'s claim since she could not be found to have assumed a risk of which she was unaware." (Priebe v. Nelson (2006) 39 Cal.4th 1112, 1115–1116 [47 Cal.Rptr.3d 553, 140 P.3d 848], original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- "The doctrine of strict liability for harm done by animals has developed along two separate and independent lines: (1) Strict liability for damages by trespassing livestock, and (2) strict liability apart from trespass (a) for damages by animals of a species regarded as inherently dangerous, and (b) for damages by animals of a species not so regarded but which, in the particular case, possess dangerous propensities which were or should have been known to the possessor." (Thomas, supra, 206 Cal.App.4th at p. 665.)

- "California has long followed the common law rule of strict liability for harm done by a domestic animal with known vicious or dangerous propensities abnormal to its class." (Drake v. Dean (1993) 15 Cal.App.4th 915, 921 [19 Cal.Rptr.2d 325].)

- Any propensity that is likely to cause injury under the circumstances is a dangerous or vicious propensity within the meaning of the law. (Talizin v. Oak Creek Riding Club (1959) 176 Cal.App.2d 429, 437 [1 Cal.Rptr. 514].)

- The question of whether a domestic animal is vicious or dangerous is ordinarily a factual one for the jury. (Heath v. Fruzia (1942) 50 Cal.App.2d 598, 601 [123 P.2d 560].)

- " 'The gist of the action is not the manner of keeping the vicious animal, but the keeping him at all with knowledge of the vicious propensities. In such instances the owner is an insurer against the acts of the animal, to one who is injured without fault, and the question of the owner's negligence is not in the case.' " (Hillman v. Garcia-Ruby (1955) 44 Cal.2d 625, 626 [283 P.2d 1033], internal citations omitted.)

- "The absolute duty to restrain the dog could not be invoked unless the jury found, not only that the dog had the alleged dangerous propensity, but that defendants knew or should have known that it had." (Hillman, supra, 44 Cal.2d at p. 628.)

- "[N]egligence may be predicated on the characteristics of the animal which, although not abnormal to its class, create a foreseeable risk of harm. As to those characteristics, the owner has a duty to anticipate the harm and to exercise ordinary care to prevent the harm." (Drake, supra, 15 Cal.App.4th at p. 929.)

- "'It is well settled in cases such as this (the case involved a bull) that the owner of an animal, not naturally vicious, is not liable for an injury done by it, unless two propositions are established: 1. That the animal in fact was vicious, and 2. That the owner knew it." (Mann v. Stanley (1956) 141 Cal.App.2d 438, 441 [296 P.2d 921].)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~1414~~1575–~~1427~~1588 et seq.

California Tort Guide (Cont.Ed.Bar 3d ed.) §§ 3.3–3.6

1 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 6, Strict Liability for Injuries Caused by Animals, §§ 6.01–6.10 (Matthew Bender)

3 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 23, Animals: Civil Liability, § 23.33 (Matthew Bender)

1 California Civil Practice: Torts, §§ 2:20–2:21 (Thomson Reuters ~~West~~)

463. Dog Bite Statute (Civ. Code, § 3342)—Essential Factual Elements

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant]'s dog bit [him/her/nonbinary pronoun] and that [name of defendant] is responsible for that harm.

People who own dogs can be held responsible for the harm from a dog bite, no matter how carefully they guard or restrain their dogs.

To establish [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] owned a dog;
2. That the dog bit [name of plaintiff] while [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was in a public place or lawfully on private property;
3. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and
4. That [name of defendant]'s dog was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

[[Name of plaintiff] was lawfully on private property of the owner if [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was performing any duty required by law or was on the property at the invitation, express or implied, of the owner.]

New September 2003; Revised April 2007, May 2020

Directions for Use

Read the last optional paragraph if there is an issue regarding whether the plaintiff was lawfully on private property when ~~he or she~~the plaintiff was bitten.

For an instruction on common-law liability based on the defendant's knowledge of his or her pet's dangerous propensities, see CACI No. 462, Strict Liability for Injury Caused by Domestic Animal With Dangerous Propensities—Essential Factual Elements.

Sources and Authority

- Liability for Dog Bites. Civil Code section 3342(a).
- This statute creates an exception to the general rule that an owner is not strictly liable for harm caused by a domestic animal absent knowledge of the animal's vicious propensity. (Hicks v. Sullivan (1932) 122 Cal.App. 635, 639 [10 P.2d 516].)
- It is not necessary that the skin be broken in order for the statute to apply. (Johnson v. McMahan

(1998) 68 Cal.App.4th 173, 176 [80 Cal.Rptr.2d 173].)

- "The defenses of assumption of the risk and contributory negligence may still be asserted" in an action brought under section 3342. (Johnson, supra, 68 Cal.App.4th at p. 176.)

- "A veterinarian or a veterinary assistant who accepts employment for the medical treatment of a dog, aware of the risk that any dog, regardless of its previous nature, might bite while being treated, has assumed this risk as part of his or her occupation." (Nelson v. Hall (1985) 165 Cal.App.3d 709, 715 [211 Cal.Rptr. 668], original italics.)

- "[Plaintiff], by virtue of the nature of her occupation as a kennel worker, assumed the risk of being bitten or otherwise injured by the dogs under her care and control while in the custody of the commercial kennel where she worked pursuant to a contractual boarding agreement. The Court of Appeal correctly concluded a strict liability cause of action under the dog bite statute (§ 3342) was therefore unavailable to [plaintiff]." (Priebe v. Nelson (2006) 39 Cal.4th 1112, 1132 [47 Cal.Rptr.3d 553, 140 P.3d 848].)

- The definition of "lawfully upon the private property of such owner" effectively prevents trespassers from obtaining recovery under the Dog Bite Statute. (Fullerton v. Conan (1948) 87 Cal.App.2d 354, 358 [197 P.2d 59].)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~1408~~1569 ~~1412~~1573

California Tort Guide (Cont.Ed.Bar 3d ed.) § 3.2

1 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 6, Strict Liability for Injuries Caused by Animals, § 6.12 (Matthew Bender)

3 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 23, Animals: Civil Liability (Matthew Bender)

17 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 178, Premises Liability (Matthew Bender)

1 California Civil Practice: Torts ~~(Thomson West)~~ § 2:16 (Thomson Reuters)

471. Primary Assumption of Risk—Exception to Nonliability—Instructors, Trainers, or Coaches

[*Name of plaintiff] claims [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was harmed by [name of defendant]'s [coaching/training/instruction]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] was [name of plaintiff]'s [coach/trainer/instructor];

2. [That [name of defendant] intended to cause [name of plaintiff] injury or acted recklessly in that [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] conduct was entirely outside the range of ordinary activity involved in teaching or coaching [sport or other recreational activity, e.g., horseback riding] in which [name of plaintiff] was participating;]

   [or]

   [That [*name of defendant] unreasonably increased the risks to [name of plaintiff] over and above those inherent in [e.g., horseback riding];]

3. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

4. That [name of defendant]'s conduct was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

New September 2003; Revised April 2004, June 2012, December 2013; Revised and Renumbered From CACI No. 409 May 2017; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction sets forth a plaintiff's response to a defendant's assertion of the affirmative defense of primary assumption of risk. Primary assumption of risk generally absolves the defendant of a duty of care toward the plaintiff with regard to injury incurred in the course of a sporting or other recreational activity covered by the doctrine. (See Knight v. Jewett (1992) 3 Cal.4th 296, 320 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 2, 834 P.2d 696].)

There are exceptions, however, in which there is a duty of care. Use the first option for element 2 if it is alleged that the coach or trainer intended to cause the student's injury or engaged in conduct totally outside the range of the ordinary activity involved in teaching or coaching the sport or activity. Use the second option if it is alleged that the coach's or trainer's failure to use ordinary care increased the risk of injury to the plaintiff, for example, by encouraging or allowing ~~him or her~~ the plaintiff to participate in the sport or activity when ~~he or she~~ the plaintiff was physically unfit to participate or by allowing the plaintiff to use unsafe equipment or instruments. (See Eriksson v. Nunnink (2011) 191 Cal.App.4th 826, 845 [120 Cal.Rptr.3d 90].) If the second option is selected, also give CACI No. 400, Negligence—Essential Factual Elements.

While duty is a question of law, courts have held that whether the defendant has unreasonably increased the risk is a question of fact for the jury. (See Luna v. Vela (2008) 169 Cal.App.4th 102, 112–113 [86 Cal.Rptr.3d 588] [and cases cited therein].) There may also be disputed facts that must be resolved by a jury before it can be determined if the doctrine applies. (See Shin v. Ahn (2007) 42 Cal.4th 482, 486 [64 Cal.Rptr.3d 803, 165 P.3d 581].)

For an instruction on primary assumption of risk applicable to coparticipants, see CACI No. 470, Primary Assumption of Risk—Exception to Nonliability─Coparticipant in Sport or Other Recreational Activity. For an instruction on primary assumption of risk applicable to facilities owners and operators and to event sponsors, see CACI No. 472, Primary Assumption of Risk—Exception to Nonliability─Facilities Owners and Operators and Event Sponsors. For an instruction applicable to occupations with inherent risk, see CACI No. 473, Primary Assumption of Risk─Exception to Nonliability─Occupation with Inherent Risk.

Sources and Authority

- "In order to support a cause of action in cases in which it is alleged that a sports instructor has required a student to perform beyond the student's capacity or without providing adequate instruction, it must be alleged and proved that the instructor acted with intent to cause a student's injury or that the instructor acted recklessly in the sense that the instructor's conduct was 'totally outside the range of the ordinary activity' involved in teaching or coaching the sport." (Kahn v. East Side Union High School District (2003) 31 Cal.4th 990, 1011 [4 Cal.Rptr.3d 103, 75 P.3d 30], internal citation omitted.)

- "[T]he primary assumption of risk doctrine is not limited to activities classified as sports, but applies as well to other recreational activities 'involving an inherent risk of injury to voluntary participants … where the risk cannot be eliminated without altering the fundamental nature of the activity.' " (Nalwa v. Cedar Fair, L.P. (2012) 55 Cal.4th 1148, 1156 [150 Cal.Rptr.3d 551, 290 P.3d 1158].)

- "Although the doctrine is often applied as between sports coparticipants, it defines the duty owed as between persons engaged in any activity involving inherent risks. The doctrine applies to activity 'done for enjoyment or thrill, requires physical exertion as well as elements of skill, and involves a challenge containing a potential risk of injury' … ." (Jimenez v. Roseville City School Dist. (2016) 247 Cal.App.4th 594, 601 [202 Cal.Rptr.3d 536], internal citations omitted; see also Bertsch v. Mammoth Community Water Dist. (2016) 247 Cal.App.4th 1201, 1208 [202 Cal.Rptr.3d 757] ["These factors certainly apply to skateboarding"], internal citations omitted.)

- "Here, we do not deal with the relationship between coparticipants in a sport, or with the duty that an operator may or may not owe to a spectator. Instead, we deal with the duty of a coach or trainer to a student who has entrusted himself to the former's tutelage. There are precedents reaching back for most of this century that find an absence of duty to coparticipants and, often, to spectators, but the law is otherwise as applied to coaches and instructors. For them, the general rule is that coaches and instructors owe a duty of due care to persons in their charge. The coach or instructor is not, of course, an insurer, and a student may be held to notice that which is obvious and to ask appropriate questions. But all of the authorities that comment on the issue have recognized the existence of a duty of care." (Tan v. Goddard (1993) 13 Cal.App.4th 1528, 1535–1536 [17 Cal.Rptr.2d 89], internal citations

omitted.)

- "[D]ecisions have clarified that the risks associated with learning a sport may themselves be inherent risks of the sport, and that an instructor or coach generally does not increase the risk of harm inherent in learning the sport simply by urging the student to strive to excel or to reach a new level of competence." (Kahn, supra, 31 Cal.4th at p. 1006.)

- "To the extent a duty is alleged against a coach for 'pushing' and/or 'challenging' a student to improve and advance, the plaintiff must show that the coach intended to cause the student's injury or engaged in reckless conduct—that is, conduct totally outside the range of the ordinary activity involved in teaching or coaching the sport. Furthermore, a coach has a duty of ordinary care not to increase the risk of injury to a student by encouraging or allowing the student to participate in the sport when he or she is physically unfit to participate or by allowing the student to use unsafe equipment or instruments." (Eriksson, supra, 191 Cal.App.4th at p. 845, internal citation omitted.)

- "That an instructor might ask a student to do more than the student can manage is an inherent risk of the activity. Absent evidence of recklessness, or other risk-increasing conduct, liability should not be imposed simply because an instructor asked the student to take action beyond what, with hindsight, is found to have been the student's abilities. To hold otherwise would discourage instructors from requiring students to stretch, and thus to learn, and would have a generally deleterious effect on the sport as a whole." (Honeycutt v. Meridian Sports Club, LLC (2014) 231 Cal.App.4th 251, 258 [179 Cal.Rptr.3d 473].)

- Coaches and sports instructors "owe students a duty 'not to increase the risks inherent in the learning process undertaken by the student.' But this does not require them to 'fundamentally alter the nature of the sport and, in some instances, effectively preclude participation altogether ... .' Instead, '[b]y choosing to participate in a sport that poses the obvious possibility of injury, the student athlete must learn to accept an adverse result of the risks inherent in the sport.' " (Lupash v. City of Seal Beach (1999) 75 Cal.App.4th 1428, 1436−1437 [89 Cal.Rptr.2d 920], internal citations omitted.)

- "The determinant of duty, 'inherent risk,' is to be decided solely as a question of law and based on the general characteristics of the sport activity and the parties' relationship to it." (Griffin v. The Haunted Hotel, Inc. (2015) 242 Cal.App.4th 490, 501 [194 Cal.Rptr.3d 830].)

- "Admittedly, it is sometimes said that '[t]he existence and scope of a defendant's duty of care in the primary assumption of risk context "is a legal question which depends on the nature of the sport or activity … and on the parties' general relationship to the activity, and is an issue to be decided by the court, rather than the jury." ' This statement of the rule is correct where there is no dispute about the inherent risks, and such cases may be resolved on summary judgment. [¶] However this statement is overly broad. Although the risks inherent in many activities are not subject to reasonable dispute (e.g., being hit with a baseball during a game), the risks inherent in some activities are not commonly known. In such cases, expert testimony may be required ' "for purposes of weighing whether the inherent risks of the activity were increased by the defendant's conduct." ' … Thus, it is not entirely accurate to say inherent risks of an activity always present purely legal questions, because sometimes the nature of an activity and its risks must be gleaned from the evidence." (Jimenez, supra, 247 Cal.App.4th at p. 608, original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- "Although we recognize the Court of Appeal decisions specifically addressing the point are in conflict, we believe resolving this issue is not a matter of further defining [defendant]'s duty, which would be a question of law for the court. Rather, it requires application of the governing standard of care (the duty not to increase the risks inherent in the sport) to the facts of this particular case—the traditional role of the trier of fact. (See, e.g., Vine v. Bear Valley Ski Co., supra, 118 Cal.App.4th at pp. 591–592 [whether defendant's design of snowboard jump increased inherent risks of snowboarding is question for jury]; Solis v. Kirkwood Resort Co., supra, 94 Cal.App.4th at p. 365 [whether artificial jumps built by resort increased inherent risk of falling while skiing is question for jury]; Lowe v. California League of Prof. Baseball (1997) 56 Cal.App.4th 112, 123 [65 Cal.Rptr.2d 105] [whether distraction caused by activities of minor league baseball team's mascot increased inherent risk of spectator being hit by a foul ball 'is issue of fact to be resolved at trial']; but see Huff v. Wilkins, supra, 138 Cal.App.4th at p. 745 ['it is the trial court's province to determine whether defendants breached their duty not to increase the inherent risk of a collision [in the sport of off-roading], and it should hold a hearing for this purpose before impaneling a jury']; American Golf Corp. v. Superior Court (2000) 79 Cal.App.4th 30, 37 [93 Cal.Rptr.2d 683] ['[i]t is for the court to decide … whether the defendant has increased the risks of the activity beyond the risks inherent in the sport']; see also Huffman v. City of Poway (2000) 84 Cal.App.4th 975, 995, fn. 23 [101 Cal.Rptr.2d 325] [indicating it is for the court to determine whether defendant's conduct increased the risk inherent in participating in a particular sport, but that trial court may receive expert testimony on the customary practices in the sport to make that determination].) [¶] Our conclusion it is for the trier of fact to determine whether [defendant] breached his limited duty not to increase the risks inherent in the sport of volleyball finds solid support in the Supreme Court's most recent sports injury, primary assumption of the risk decision, Shin v. Ahn, supra, 42 Cal.4th 482, a case that postdates the appellate court decisions suggesting the issue is one for the court to resolve." (Luna, supra, 169 Cal.App.4th at pp. 112–113.)

- "The existence of a duty of care is a separate issue from the question whether (on the basis of forseeability among other factors) a particular defendant breached that duty of care, which is an essentially factual matter." (Kockelman v. Segal (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 491, 498 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 552].)

- "[A duty not to increase the risk] arises only if there is an ' "organized relationship" ' between the defendants and the participant in relation to the sporting activity, such as exists between … a coach or instructor and his or her students. [I]mposing such a duty in the context of these types of relationships is justified because the defendants are 'responsible for, or in control of, the conditions under which the [participant] engaged in the sport.' " (Bertsch, supra, 247 Cal.App.4th at pp. 1208−1209, internal citation omitted.)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~1339~~1496, ~~1340~~1497, ~~1343~~1501–~~1350~~1508

Haning et al., California Practice Guide: Personal Injury, Ch. 3-D, Mitigating Factors In Reduction Of Damages, ¶¶ 3:~~234~~1067–3:~~254.30~~ 1078 (The Rutter Group)

1 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 4, Comparative Negligence, Assumption of the Risk, and Related Defenses, § 4.03 (Matthew Bender)

23 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 273, Games, Sports, and Athletics, § 273.31 (Matthew Bender)

16 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 165, Negligence, § 165.401 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

473. Primary Assumption of Risk—Exception to Nonliability—Occupation Involving Inherent Risk

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was harmed by [name of defendant] while [name of plaintiff] was performing [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] job duties as [specify, e.g., a firefighter]. [Name of defendant] is not liable if [name of plaintiff]'s injury arose from a risk inherent in the occupation of [e.g., firefighter]. However, [name of plaintiff] may recover if [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] proves all of the following:

[1. That [name of defendant] unreasonably increased the risks to [name of plaintiff] over and above those inherent in [e.g., firefighting];]

[or]

[1. That [name of defendant] [misrepresented to/failed to warn] [name of plaintiff] [of] a dangerous condition that [name of plaintiff] could not have known about as part of [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] job duties;]

[or]

[1. That the cause of [name of plaintiff]'s injury was not related to the inherent risk;]

2. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

3. That [name of defendant]'s conduct was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

New May 2017; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

Give this instruction if the plaintiff asserts an exception to assumption of risk of the injury that ~~he or she~~the plaintiff suffered because the risk is an inherent part of ~~his or her job~~the plaintiff's duties. This has traditionally been referred to as the "firefighter's rule." (See Gregory v. Cott (2014) 59 Cal. 4th 996, 1001 [176 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1, 331 P.3d 179].)

There are, however, exceptions to nonliability under the firefighter's rule. The plaintiff may recover if (1) the defendant's actions have unreasonably increased the risks of injury beyond those inherent in the occupation; (2) the defendant misrepresented or failed to disclose a hazardous condition that the plaintiff had no reason to know about; or (3) the cause of the injury was not related to the inherent risk. This instruction asks the jury to determine whether an exception applies. (Gregory, supra, 59 Cal.4th at p. 1010.) These exceptions are presented in the options to element 1.

While duty is a question of law, courts have held that whether the defendant has increased the risk is a question of fact for the jury. (See Luna v. Vela (2008) 169 Cal.App.4th 102, 112–113 [86 Cal.Rptr.3d 588] [and cases cited therein].)

For an instruction on primary assumption of risk applicable to coparticipants, see CACI No. 470, Primary Assumption of Risk—Exception to Nonliability─Coparticipant in Sport or Other Recreational Activity. For an instruction applicable to coaches, instructors, or trainers, see CACI No. 471, Primary Assumption of Risk─Exception to Nonliability─Instructors, Trainers, or Coaches. For an instruction applicable to facilities owners and operators and to event sponsors, see CACI No. 472, Primary Assumption of Risk─Exception to Nonliability─Facilities Owners and Operators and Event Sponsors.

Sources and Authority

- "Primary assumption of risk cases often involve recreational activity, but the doctrine also governs claims arising from inherent occupational hazards. The bar against recovery in that context first developed as the 'firefighter's rule,' which precludes firefighters and police officers from suing members of the public for the conduct that makes their employment necessary. After Knight, we have viewed the firefighter's rule 'not … as a separate concept,' but as a variant of primary assumption of risk, 'an illustration of when it is appropriate to find that the defendant owes no duty of care.' Whether a duty of care is owed in a particular context depends on considerations of public policy, viewed in light of the nature of the activity and the relationship of the parties to the activity." (Gregory, supra, 59 Cal. 4th at pp. 1001−1002, internal citations omitted.)

- "The firefighter's rule, upon which the [defendant] relies, and the analogous veterinarian's rule, are examples of the primary assumption of risk doctrine applied in the employment context." (Moore v. William Jessup University (2015) 243 Cal.App.4th 427, 435 [197 Cal.Rptr.3d 51].)

- "Our holding does not preclude liability in situations where caregivers are not warned of a known risk, where defendants otherwise increase the level of risk beyond that inherent in providing care, or where the cause of injury is unrelated to the symptoms of [Alzheimers] disease." (Gregory, supra, 59 Cal.4th at p. 1000.)

- "[T]he principle of assumption of risk, which forms the theoretical basis for the fireman's rule, is not applicable where a fireman's injuries are proximately caused by his being misled as to the nature of the danger to be confronted." (Lipson v. Superior Court (1982) 31 Cal.3d 362, 371 [182 Cal. Rptr. 629, 644 P.2d 822].)

- "The firefighter's rule, however, is hedged about with exceptions. The firefighter does not assume every risk of his or her occupation. The rule does not apply to conduct other than that which necessitated the summoning of the firefighter or police officer, and it does not apply to independent acts of misconduct that are committed after the firefighter or police officer has arrived on the scene." (Neighbarger v. Irwin Industries, Inc. (1994) 8 Cal.4th 532, 538 [34 Cal. Rptr. 2d 630, 882 P.2d 347], internal citation omitted.)

- "We have noted that the duty to avoid injuring others 'normally extends to those engaged in hazardous work.' 'We have never held that the doctrine of assumption of risk relieves all persons of a duty of care to workers engaged in a hazardous occupation.' However, the doctrine does apply in favor of those who hire workers to handle a dangerous situation, in both the public and the private sectors. Such a worker, 'as a matter of fairness, should not be heard to complain of the negligence that is the cause of his or her employment. [Citations.] In effect, we have said it is unfair to charge the defendant with a duty of care to prevent injury to the plaintiff arising from the very condition or hazard the defendant has contracted with the plaintiff to remedy or confront.' This rule encourages the remediation of dangerous conditions, an important public policy. Those who hire workers to manage a hazardous situation are sheltered from liability for injuries that result from the risks that necessitated the employment." (Gregory, supra, 59 Cal.4th at p. 1002, internal citations omitted.)

- "[A] person whose conduct precipitates the intervention of a police officer owes no duty of care to the officer 'with respect to the original negligence that caused the officer's intervention.' " (Harry v. Ring the Alarm, LLC (2019) 34 Cal.App.5th 749, 759 [246 Cal.Rptr.3d 471].)

- "Because of the nature of the activity, caring for the mentally infirm, and the relationship between the parties, patient and caregiver, mentally incompetent patients should not owe a legal duty to protect caregivers from injuries suffered in attending to them. Here, the very basis of the relationship between plaintiff and [defendant] was to protect [defendant] from harming either herself or others." (Herrle v. Estate of Marshall (1996) 45 Cal.App.4th 1761, 1770 [53 Cal.Rptr.2d 713].)

Secondary Sources

69 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, § ~~1355~~1515

1 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 15, General Premises Liability, § 15.23 (Matthew Bender)

33 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 380, Negligence, § 380.173 (Matthew Bender)

16 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 165, Negligence, § 165.412 (Matthew Bender)

VF-402. Negligence—Fault of Plaintiff and Others at Issue

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Was [*name of first defendant] negligent?
____ Yes ____ No

Was [*name of second defendant] negligent?
____ Yes ____ No

[*Repeat as necessary for other defendants.]

If you answered yes for any defendant in question 1, then answer question 2 for that defendant. If you answered no for any defendant in question 1, insert the number zero next to that defendant's name in question 8. If you answered no for all defendants in question 1, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. For each defendant that received a "yes" answer in question 1, answer the following:

Was [*name of first defendant]'s negligence a substantial factor in causing harm to [name of plaintiff]?
____ Yes ____ No

Was [*name of second defendant]'s negligence a substantial factor in causing harm to [name of plaintiff]?
____ Yes ____ No

[*Repeat as necessary for other defendants.]

If you answered yes for any defendant in question 2, then answer question 3. If you answered no for any defendant in question 2, insert the number zero next to that defendant's name in question 8. If you did not answer yes for any defendant in question 2, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

3. What are [*name of plaintiff]'s total damages? Do not reduce the damages based on the fault, if any, of [name of plaintiff] or others.

[a. Past economic loss
[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other past economic loss $ _____]
Total Past Economic Damages: $ _____]

[b. Future economic loss

[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other future economic loss $ _____]

Total Future Economic Damages: $ _____]

[c. Past noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]

$ _____]

[d. Future noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]

$ _____]

TOTAL $ _____

If [name of plaintiff] has proved any damages, then answer question 4. If [name of plaintiff] has not proved any damages, then stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

4. Was [name of plaintiff] negligent?

____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 4 is yes, then answer question 5. If you answered no, insert the number zero next to [name of plaintiff]'s name in question 8, skip question 5, and answer question 6.

5. Was [name of plaintiff]'s negligence a substantial factor in causing [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] harm?

____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 5 is yes, then answer question 6. If you answered no, insert the number zero next to [name of plaintiff]'s name in question 8 and answer question 6.

6. Was [name/description of first nonparty] negligent?

____ Yes ____ No

Was [name/description of second nonparty] negligent?

____ Yes ____ No

[*Repeat as necessary for other nonparties.]

If you answered yes for any person in question 6, then answer question 7 for that person. If you answered no for any person in question 6, insert the number zero next to that person's name in question 8. If you answered no for all persons in question 6, skip question 7 and answer question 8.

7. For each person who received a "yes" answer in question 6, answer the following:

Was [*name/description of first nonparty]'s negligence a substantial factor in causing harm to [name of plaintiff]?
____ Yes ____ No

Was [*name/description of second nonparty]'s negligence a substantial factor in causing harm to [name of plaintiff]?
____ Yes ____ No

[*Repeat as necessary for other nonparties.]

If you answered yes for any person in question 7, then answer question 8. If you answered no for any person in question 7, then insert the number zero next to that person's name in question 8 and answer question 8.

8. What percentage of responsibility for [*name of plaintiff]'s harm do you assign to the following? Insert a percentage for only those who received "yes" answers in questions 2, 5, or 7:

[*Name of first defendant]:	____%
[*Name of second defendant]:	____%
[*Name of plaintiff]:	____%
[*Name/description of first nonparty]:	____%
[*Name/description of second nonparty]:	____%
TOTAL	100%

Signed: _____
Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

After [this verdict form has/all verdict forms have] been signed, notify the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant] that you are ready to present your verdict in the courtroom.

New September 2003; Revised April 2007, December 2009, December 2010, June 2014, December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 400, Negligence—Essential Factual Elements, CACI No. 405, Comparative Fault of Plaintiff, and CACI No. 406, Apportionment of Responsibility.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 3. The breakdown is optional depending on the circumstances.

This verdict form is designed for a single plaintiff, multiple defendants, and multiple nonparties who are alleged to have been negligent. If there are multiple plaintiffs, consider preparing a separate verdict form for each. If a coplaintiff is alleged to have been negligent and that coplaintiff's negligence is alleged to have harmed the plaintiff, treat the allegedly negligent coplaintiff as a nonparty in questions 6 and 7 and add ~~his or her~~the coplaintiff's name to the list of contributing persons in question 8 of the plaintiff's verdict form.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

503A. Psychotherapist's Duty to Protect Intended Victim From Patient's Threat

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant]'s failure to protect [name of plaintiff/decedent] was a substantial factor in causing [injury to [name of plaintiff]/the death of [name of decedent]]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] was a psychotherapist;
2. That [name of patient] was [name of defendant]'s patient;
3. That [name of patient] communicated to [name of defendant] a serious threat of physical violence;
4. That [name of plaintiff/decedent] was a reasonably identifiable victim of [name of patient]'s threat;
5. That [name of patient] [injured [name of plaintiff]/killed [name of decedent]];
6. That [name of defendant] failed to make reasonable efforts to protect [name of plaintiff/decedent]; and
7. That [name of defendant]'s failure was a substantial factor in causing [[name of plaintiff]'s injury/the death of [name of decedent]].

Derived from former CACI No. 503 April 2007; Revised June 2013, May 2020

Directions for Use

Read this instruction for a Tarasoff cause of action for professional negligence against a psychotherapist for failure to protect a victim from a patient's act of violence after the patient communicated to the therapist a threat against the victim. (See Tarasoff v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1976) 17 Cal.3d 425 [131 Cal.Rptr. 14, 551 P.2d 334].) The liability imposed by Tarasoff is modified by the provisions of Civil Code section 43.92(a). First read CACI No. 503B, Affirmative Defense—Psychotherapist's Communication of Threat to Victim and Law Enforcement, if the therapist asserts that ~~he or she~~the therapist is immune from liability under Civil Code section 43.92(b) because ~~he or she~~the therapist made reasonable efforts to communicate the threat to the victim and to a law enforcement agency.

In a wrongful death case, insert the name of the decedent victim where applicable.

Sources and Authority

- Limited Psychotherapist Immunity. Civil Code section 43.92(a).
- "[T]herapists cannot escape liability merely because [the victim] was not their patient. When a therapist determines, or pursuant to the standards of his profession should determine, that his patient presents a serious danger of violence to another, he incurs an obligation to use reasonable care to protect the intended victim against such danger. The discharge of this duty may require the therapist to take one or more of various steps, depending upon the nature of the case. Thus it may call for him to warn the intended victim or others likely to apprise the victim of the danger, to notify the police, or to take whatever other steps are reasonably necessary under the circumstances." (Tarasoff, supra, 17 Cal.3d at p. 431.)

- Civil Code section 43.92 was enacted to limit the liability of psychotherapists under Tarasoff regarding a therapist's duty to warn an intended victim. (Barry v. Turek (1990) 218 Cal.App.3d 1241, 1244–1245 [267 Cal.Rptr. 553].) Under this provision, "[p]sychotherapists thus have immunity from Tarasoff claims except where the plaintiff proves that the patient has communicated to his or her psychotherapist a serious threat of physical violence against a reasonably identifiable victim or victims." (Barry, supra, 218 Cal.App.3d at p. 1245.)

- "When the communication of the serious threat of physical violence is received by the therapist from a member of the patient's immediate family and is shared for the purpose of facilitating and furthering the patient's treatment, the fact that the family member is not technically a 'patient' is not crucial to the statute's purpose." (Ewing v. Goldstein (2004) 120 Cal.App.4th 807, 817 [15 Cal.Rptr.3d 864].)

- "Section 43.92 strikes a reasonable balance in that it does not compel the therapist to predict the dangerousness of a patient. Instead, it requires the therapist to attempt to protect a victim under limited circumstances, even though the therapist's disclosure of a patient confidence will potentially disrupt or destroy the patient's trust in the therapist. However, the requirement is imposed upon the therapist only after he or she determines that the patient has made a credible threat of serious physical violence against a person." (Calderon v. Glick (2005) 131 Cal.App.4th 224, 231 [31 Cal.Rptr.3d 707].)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~1050~~1189, ~~1051~~1190

32 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 361A, Mental Health and Mental Disabilities: Judicial Commitment, Health Services and Civil Rights, § 361A.93 (Matthew Bender)

11 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 154, Mental Health and Mental Disabilities, § 154.30 (Matthew Bender)

503B. Affirmative Defense—Psychotherapist's Communication of Threat to Victim and Law Enforcement

[*Name of defendant] is not responsible for [[name of plaintiff]'s injury/the death of [name of decedent]] if [name of defendant] proves that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] made reasonable efforts to communicate the threat to [name of plaintiff/decedent] and to a law enforcement agency.

Derived from former CACI No. 503 April 2007; Revised June 2013, May 2020

Directions for Use

Read this instruction for a Tarasoff cause of action for professional negligence against a psychotherapist (Tarasoff v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1976) 17 Cal.3d 425 [131 Cal.Rptr. 14, 551 P.2d 334]) if there is a dispute of fact regarding whether the defendant made reasonable efforts to communicate to the victim and to a law enforcement agency a threat made by the defendant's patient. The therapist is immune from liability under Tarasoff if ~~he or she~~the therapist makes reasonable efforts to communicate the threat to the victim and to a law enforcement agency. (Civ. Code, § 43.92(b).) CACI No. 503A, Psychotherapist's Duty to Protect Intended Victim From Patient's Threat, sets forth the elements of a Tarasoff cause of action if the defendant is not immune.

In a wrongful death case, insert the name of the decedent victim where applicable.

Sources and Authority

- Limited Psychotherapist Immunity. Civil Code section 43.92(b).

- Failure to inform a law enforcement agency concerning a homicidal threat made by a patient against his work supervisor did not abrogate the "firefighter's rule" and, therefore, did not render the psychiatrist liable to a police officer who was subsequently shot by the patient. (Tilley v. Schulte (1999) 70 Cal.App.4th 79, 85–86 [82 Cal.Rptr.2d 497].)

- "When the communication of the serious threat of physical violence is received by the therapist from a member of the patient's immediate family and is shared for the purpose of facilitating and furthering the patient's treatment, the fact that the family member is not technically a 'patient' is not crucial to the statute's purpose." (Ewing v. Goldstein (2004) 120 Cal.App.4th 807, 817 [15 Cal.Rptr.3d 864].)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~1050~~1189, ~~1051~~1190

32 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 361A, Mental Health and Mental Disabilities: Judicial Commitment, Health Services and Civil Rights, § 361A.93 (Matthew Bender)

11 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 154, Mental Health and Mental Disabilities, § 154.30 (Matthew Bender)

510. Derivative Liability of Surgeon

A surgeon is responsible for the negligence of other medical practitioners or nurses who are under ~~his or her~~the surgeon's supervision and control and actively participating during an operation.

New September 2003; Revised April 2007, May 2020

Directions for Use

Give this instruction in a case in which the plaintiff seeks to hold a surgeon vicariously responsible under the "captain-of-the-ship" doctrine for the negligence of nurses or other hospital employees that occurs during the course of an operation. There is some disagreement in the courts regarding whether the captain-of-the-ship doctrine remains a viable rule of law. (Compare Truhitte v. French Hospital (1982) 128 Cal.App.3d 332, 348 [180 Cal.Rptr. 152] (doctrine has been eroded) with Baumgardner v. Yusuf (2006) 144 Cal.App.4th 1381, 1397–1398 [51 Cal.Rptr.3d 277] (doctrine remains viable).)

Sources and Authority

- The "captain of the ship" doctrine imposes liability on a surgeon under the doctrine of respondeat superior for the acts of those under the surgeon's special supervision and control during the operation. (Thomas v. Intermedics Orthopedics, Inc. (1996) 47 Cal.App.4th 957, 967 [55 Cal.Rptr.2d 197].)

- "The doctrine has been explained as follows: 'A physician generally is not liable for the negligence of hospital or other nurses, attendants, or internes, who are not his employees, particularly where he has no knowledge thereof or no connection therewith. On the other hand, a physician is liable for the negligence of hospital or other nurses, attendants, or internes, who are not his employees, where such negligence is discoverable by him in the exercise of ordinary care, he is negligent in permitting them to attend the patient, or the negligent acts were performed under conditions where, in the exercise of ordinary care, he could have or should have been able to prevent their injurious effects and did not. [¶] The mere fact that a physician or surgeon gives instructions to a hospital employee does not render the physician or surgeon liable for negligence of the hospital employee in carrying out the instructions. Similarly, the mere right of a physician to supervise a hospital employee is not sufficient to render the physician liable for the negligence of such employee. On the other hand, if the physician has the right to exercise control over the work to be done by the hospital employee and the manner of its performance, or an employee of a hospital is temporarily detached in whole or in part from the hospital's general control so as to become the temporary servant of the physician he assists, the physician will be subject to liability for the employee's negligence. [¶] Thus, where a hospital employee, although not in the regular employ of an operating surgeon, is under his special supervision and control during the operation, the relationship of master and servant exists, and the surgeon is liable, under the doctrine of respondeat superior, for the employee's negligence.' '' (Thomas, supra, 47 Cal.App.4th at pp. 966–967, original italics.)

- This doctrine applies only to medical personnel who are actively participating in the surgical procedure. (Thomas, supra, 47 Cal.App.4th at pp. 966–967.)

- While the "captain of the ship" doctrine has never been expressly rejected, it has been eroded by modern courts. "A theory that the surgeon directly controls all activities of whatever nature in the operating room certainly is not realistic in present day medical care." (Truhitte, supra, 128 Cal.App.3d at p. 348, original italics.)

- "[T]he Truhitte court ignores what we have already recognized as the special relationship between a vulnerable hospital patient and the surgeon operating on the patient. A helpless patient on the operating table who cannot understand or control what is happening reasonably expects a surgeon to oversee her care and to look out for her interests. We find this special relationship sufficient justification for the continued application of captain of the ship doctrine. Moreover, in light of the Supreme Court's expressions of approval of the doctrine … , we feel compelled to adhere to the doctrine." (Baumgardner, supra, 144 Cal.App.4th at pp. 1397–1398, internal citations omitted.)

- Absent evidence of right to control, an operating surgeon is generally not responsible for the conduct of anesthesiologists or others who independently carry out their duties. (Seneris v. Haas (1955) 45 Cal.2d 811, 828 [291 P.2d 915]; Marvulli v. Elshire (1972) 27 Cal.App.3d 180, 187 [103 Cal.Rptr. 461].)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, § ~~976~~1109

California Tort Guide (Cont.Ed.Bar 3d ed.) § 9.4

3 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 31, Liability of Physicians and Other Medical Practitioners, § 31.45 (Matthew Bender)

36 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 415, Physicians: Medical Malpractice, § 415.11 (Matthew Bender)

17 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 175, Physicians and Surgeons, § 175.25 (Matthew Bender)

517. Affirmative Defense—Patient's Duty to Provide for ~~His or Her~~the Patient's Own Well-Being

A patient must use reasonable care to provide for ~~his or her~~the patient's own well-being. This includes a responsibility to [follow [a/an] [insert type of medical practitioner]'s instructions/seek medical assistance] when a reasonable person in the same situation would do so.

[Name of defendant] claims that [name of plaintiff]'s harm was caused, in whole or in part, by [name of plaintiff]'s negligence in failing to [follow [name of defendant]'s instructions/seek medical assistance]. To succeed, [name of defendant] must prove both of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] did not use reasonable care in [following [name of defendant]'s instructions/seeking medical assistance]; and

2. That [name of plaintiff]'s failure to [follow [name of defendant]'s instructions/seek medical assistance] was a substantial factor in causing [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] harm.

New September 2003; Revised December 2015, May 2020

Directions for Use

Read this instruction in conjunction with basic comparative fault and damages instructions (CACI Nos. 405, 406, 407).

The defendant has the burden of proving that the plaintiff was comparatively negligent and that this negligence was a cause of the harm. (Pfeifer v. John Crane, Inc. (2013) 220 Cal.App.4th 1270, 1285 [164 Cal.Rptr.3d 112].)

Sources and Authority

- "It is error for a trial court to charge the jury with regard to contributory negligence [for failure to follow doctor's advice] when there is no expert testimony the plaintiff was negligent." (Bolen v. Woo (1979) 96 Cal.App.3d 944, 952 [158 Cal.Rptr. 454].)

- "[I]t is error in medical malpractice cases to [instruct on contributory negligence] in the absence of some evidence that the injured patient's acts or omissions were a proximate cause of the harm sustained." (LeMons v. Regents of University of California (1978) 21 Cal.3d 869, 875 [148 Cal.Rptr. 355, 582 P.2d 946].)

- "Unquestionably the jury must have considered whether the attitude of respondent was one of refusal to follow the advice of his physicians or was, because of his extended experience, one of justifiable fear of want of their skill. Whether such delays under the circumstances were those of a reasonably prudent person determines the right of respondent to recover all of the special damages, and the implied finding was that respondent was not arbitrary in not promptly acceding to each suggestion of an operation." (Dodds v. Stellar (1946) 77 Cal.App.2d 411, 422 [175 P.2d 607].)

- "Negligence, in fact, may often explain why the patient, to begin with, needed and sought out the physician's assistance. The health care professional, in this instance, takes the patient as he finds him. Other than in very rare cases, the only legitimate application of the doctrine of contributory fault is when it takes place concurrently with or after the delivery of the practitioner's care and treatment." (Harb v. City of Bakersfield (2015) 233 Cal.App.4th 606, 632 [183 Cal.Rptr.3d 89].)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, § ~~1624~~1798

California Tort Guide (Cont.Ed.Bar 3d ed.) § 9.66

3 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 31, Liability of Physicians and Other Medical Practitioners, § 31.61 (Matthew Bender)

25 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 295, Hospitals, § 295.14 (Matthew Bender)

533. Failure to Obtain Informed Consent—Essential Factual Elements

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] was negligent because [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] performed [a/an] [insert medical procedure] on [name of plaintiff] without first obtaining [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] informed consent. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] performed [a/an] [insert medical procedure] on [name of plaintiff];

2. That [name of defendant] did not disclose to [name of plaintiff] the important potential results and risks of[, and alternatives to] the [insert medical procedure];

3. That a reasonable person in [name of plaintiff]'s position would not have agreed to the [insert medical procedure] if ~~he or she~~that person had been adequately informed; and

4. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed by a result or risk that [name of defendant] should have explained.

New September 2003; Revised June 2014, May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction should be read in conjunction with CACI No. 532, Informed Consent—Definition. See also the Directions for Use and Sources and Authority to that instruction.

If the patient is a minor or is incapacitated, tailor the instruction accordingly.

Also, see CACI No. 531, Consent on Behalf of Another.

Sources and Authority

- "[W]hen there is a more complicated procedure, … the jury should be instructed that when a given procedure inherently involves a known risk of death or serious bodily harm, a medical doctor has a duty to disclose to his patient the potential of death or serious harm, and to explain in lay terms the complications that might possibly occur. Beyond the foregoing minimal disclosure, a doctor must also reveal to his patient such additional information as a skilled practitioner of good standing would provide under similar circumstances." (Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal.3d 229, 244−245 [104 Cal.Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1], internal citations omitted.

- "There must be a causal relationship between the physician's failure to inform and the injury to the plaintiff. Such causal connection arises only if it is established that had revelation been made consent to treatment would not have been given." (Cobbs, supra, 8 Cal.3d at p. 245.)

- "[E]ven though a physician has no general duty of disclosure with respect to nonrecommended procedures, he nevertheless must make such disclosures as are required for competent practice within the medical community" (Vandi v. Permanente Medical Group, Inc. (1992) 7 Cal.App.4th 1064, 1071 [9 Cal.Rptr.2d 463].)

- "The patient-plaintiff may testify on this subject but the issue extends beyond his credibility. Since at the time of trial the uncommunicated hazard has materialized, it would be surprising if the patient-plaintiff did not claim that had he been informed of the dangers he would have declined treatment. Subjectively he may believe so, with the 20/20 vision of hindsight, but we doubt that justice will be served by placing the physician in jeopardy of the patient's bitterness and disillusionment. Thus an objective test is preferable: i.e., what would a prudent person in the patient's position have decided if adequately informed of all significant perils." (Cobbs, supra, 8 Cal.3d at p. 245.)

- "[T]he objective test required of the plaintiff does not prevent the defendant-physician from showing, by way of defense, that even though a reasonably prudent person might not have undergone the procedure if properly informed of the perils, this particular plaintiff still would have consented to the procedure." (Warren v. Schecter (1997) 57 Cal.App.4th 1189, 1206 [67 Cal.Rptr.2d 573], original italics.)

- "[A]n action for failure to obtain informed consent lies where 'an undisclosed inherent complication ... occurs,' not where a disclosed complication occurs." (Warren, supra, 57 Cal.App.4th at p. 1202 (citation omitted).)

- "[Plaintiff] is entitled to recover not only for the undisclosed complications, but also for the disclosed complications, because she would not have consented to either surgery had the true risk been disclosed, and therefore would not have suffered either category of complications." (Warren, supra, 57 Cal.App.4th at p. 1195.)

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th~~10th~~ ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~395~~466, ~~400~~471

California Tort Guide (Cont.Ed.Bar 3d ed.) § 9.11

3 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 31, Liability of Physicians and Other Medical Practitioners, § 31.14 (Matthew Bender)

6 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 58, Assault and Battery, § 58.14 (Matthew Bender)

36 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 415, Physicians: Medical Malpractice, § 415.13 (Matthew Bender)

2 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 21, Assault and Battery, § 21.23 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

17 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 175, Physicians and Surgeons, §§ 175.23, 175.29 (Matthew Bender)

535. Risks of Nontreatment—Essential Factual Elements

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] was negligent because [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] did not adequately inform [name of plaintiff] about the risks of refusing the [insert medical procedure]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] did not perform the [insert medical procedure] on [name of plaintiff];

2. That [name of defendant] did not disclose to [name of plaintiff] the important potential risks of refusing the [insert medical procedure];

3. That a reasonable person in [name of plaintiff]'s position would have agreed to the [insert medical procedure] if ~~he or she~~that person had been adequately informed about these risks; and

4. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed by the failure to have the [insert medical procedure] performed.

New September 2003; Revised June 2014, May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction presents the "informed refusal" doctrine. (See Townsend v. Turk (1990) 218 Cal.App.3d 278, 284 [266 Cal.Rptr. 821].) It should be given with CACI No. 534, Informed Refusal—Definition.

If the patient is a minor or is incapacitated, tailor the instruction accordingly.

Also, see CACI No. 531, Consent on Behalf of Another.

Sources and Authority

- "Applying these principles, the court in Cobbs [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal.3d 229, 243 [104 Cal.Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1]] stated that a patient must be apprised not only of the 'risks inherent in the procedure [prescribed, but also] the risks of a decision not to undergo the treatment, and the probability of a successful outcome of the treatment.' This rule applies whether the procedure involves treatment or a diagnostic test. On the one hand, a physician recommending a risk-free procedure may safely forego discussion beyond that necessary to conform to competent medical practice and to obtain the patient's consent. If a patient indicates that he or she is going to decline the risk-free test or treatment, then the doctor has the additional duty of advising of all material risks of which a reasonable person would want to be informed before deciding not to undergo the procedure. On the other hand, if the recommended test or treatment is itself risky, then the physician should always explain the potential consequences of declining to follow the recommended course of action." (Truman v. Thomas (1980) 27 Cal.3d 285, 292 [165 Cal.Rptr. 308, 611 P.2d 902], internal citations omitted.)

- "The duty of reasonable disclosure was expanded in Truman v. Thomas [supra]. There, a doctor recommended that his patient undergo a risk-free diagnostic procedure but failed to advise her of the risks involved in the failure to follow his recommendation. The Supreme Court concluded that for a patient to make an informed choice to decline a recommended procedure the patient must be adequately advised of the risks of refusing to undergo the procedure. Thus, the high court extended the duty to make disclosure to include recommended diagnostic as well as therapeutic procedures and to include situations in which the patient declines the recommended procedure." (Vandi v. Permanente Medical Group, Inc. (1992) 7 Cal.App.4th 1064, 1069 [9 Cal.Rptr.2d 463].)

- "In a nutshell, a doctor has a duty to disclose all material information to his patient which will enable that patient to make an informed decision regarding the taking or refusal to take such a test." (Moore v. Preventive Medicine Medical Group, Inc. (1986) 178 Cal.App.3d 728, 736 [223 Cal.Rptr. 859].)

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th~~10th~~ ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~395, 400–404, 406, 407, 409, 410~~ 466, 471, 475, 477, 480, 481

California Tort Guide (Cont.Ed.Bar 3d ed.) § 9.12

3 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 31, Liability of Physicians and Other Medical Practitioners, § 31.14 (Matthew Bender)

36 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 415, Physicians: Medical Malpractice, § 415.13[2] (Matthew Bender)

17 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 175, Physicians and Surgeons, § 175.33 (Matthew Bender)

550. Affirmative Defense—Plaintiff Would Have Consented

[Name of defendant] claims that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] is not responsible for [name of plaintiff]'s harm because [name of plaintiff] would have consented to the procedure, even if [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] had been informed of the risks. To establish this defense, [name of defendant] must prove that had [name of plaintiff] been adequately informed about the risks of the [insert medical procedure], [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] would have consented, even if a reasonable person in [name of plaintiff]'s position might not have consented.

New September 2003; Revised June 2015, May 2020

Directions for Use

Give this instruction if the defendant asserts as an affirmative defense that the plaintiff would have consented (and thereby would have suffered the same harm) had ~~he or she~~the plaintiff been informed of the risks. This instruction can be modified to cover "informed refusal" cases by redrafting it to state, in substance, that even if the plaintiff had known of the risks of refusal, ~~he or she~~the plaintiff still would have refused the test.

Sources and Authority

- "Whenever appropriate, the court should instruct the jury on the defenses available to a doctor who has failed to make the disclosure required by law." (Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal.3d 229, 245 [104 Cal.Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1].)

- "The patient-plaintiff may testify on this subject but the issue extends beyond his credibility. Since at the time of trial the uncommunicated hazard has materialized, it would be surprising if the patient-plaintiff did not claim that had he been informed of the dangers he would have declined treatment. Subjectively he may believe so, with the 20/20 vision of hindsight, but we doubt that justice will be served by placing the physician in jeopardy of the patient's bitterness and disillusionment. Thus an objective test is preferable: i.e., what would a prudent person in the patient's position have decided if adequately informed of all significant perils." (Cobbs, supra, 8 Cal.3d at p. 245.)

- "The prudent person test for causation was established to protect defendant physicians from the unfairness of having a jury consider the issue of proximate cause with the benefit of the '20/20 vision of hindsight . . .' This standard should not be employed to prevent a physician from raising the defense that even given adequate disclosure the injured patient would have made the same decision, regardless of whether a reasonably prudent person would have decided differently if adequately informed." (Truman v. Thomas (1980) 27 Cal.3d 285, 294 fn. 5 [165 Cal. Rptr. 308, 611 P.2d 902].)

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th~~10th~~ ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~395~~466, ~~398~~469

California Tort Guide (Cont.Ed.Bar 3d ed.) § 9.11

3 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 31, Liability of Physicians and Other Medical Practitioners, § 31.14 (Matthew Bender)

36 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 415, Physicians: Medical Malpractice, § 415.13 (Matthew Bender)

551. Affirmative Defense—Waiver

[*Name of defendant] claims that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] did not have to inform [name of patient] of the risks of the [insert medical procedure] because [name of patient] asked not to be told of the risks.

If [*name of defendant] has proved that [name of patient] told [him/her/nonbinary pronoun] that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] did not want to be informed of the risks of the [insert medical procedure], then you must conclude that [name of defendant] was not negligent in failing to inform [name of patient] of the risks.

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

"Whenever appropriate, the court should instruct the jury on the defenses available to a doctor who has failed to make the disclosure required by law." (Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal.3d 229, 245 [104 Cal.Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1].) This instruction could be modified to cover "informed refusal" cases by redrafting it to state, in substance, that the plaintiff indicated that ~~he or she~~the plaintiff did not want to be informed of the risks of refusing the test.

Sources and Authority

- "[A] medical doctor need not make disclosure of risks when the patient requests that he not be so informed." (Cobbs, supra, 8 Cal.3d at p. 245.)

- This defense is considered a "justification." Justification for failure to disclose is an affirmative defense on which the defendant has the burden of proof. (Mathis v. Morrissey (1992) 11 Cal.App.4th 332, 347, fn. 9 [13 Cal.Rptr.2d 819].)

- In Putensen v. Clay Adams, Inc. (1970) 12 Cal.App.3d 1062, 1083–1084 [91 Cal.Rptr. 319], the court held that it was not error for the court to refuse an instruction on informed consent where the evidence showed that the doctor's attempt to explain the medical procedure was prevented by the plaintiff's insistence on remaining ignorant of the risks involved.

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th~~10th~~ ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~395~~466, ~~398~~469

California Tort Guide (Cont.Ed.Bar 3d ed.) § 9.11

3 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 31, Liability of Physicians and Other Medical Practitioners, § 31.14 (Matthew Bender)

36 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 415, Physicians: Medical Malpractice, § 415.13 (Matthew Bender)

555. Affirmative Defense—Statute of Limitations—Medical Malpractice—One-Year Limit (Code Civ. Proc., § 340.5)

[*Name of defendant] contends that [name of plaintiff]'s lawsuit was not filed within the time set by law. To succeed on this defense, [name of defendant] must prove that before [insert date one year before date of filing], [name of plaintiff] discovered, or knew of facts that would have caused a reasonable person to suspect, that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] had suffered harm that was caused by someone's wrongful conduct.

[If, however, [*name of plaintiff] proves [insert tolling provision(s) of general applicability, e.g., Code Civ. Proc., §§ 351 [absence from California], 352 [insanity], 352.1 [prisoners], 352.5 [restitution orders], 353.1 [court's assumption of attorney's practice], 354 [war], 356 [injunction]], the period within which [name of plaintiff] had to file the lawsuit is extended for the amount of time that [insert tolling provision, e.g., [name of defendant] was absent from California].]

New April 2009; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

Use CACI No. 556, Affirmative Defense—Statute of Limitations—Medical Malpractice—Three-Year Limit, if the three-year limitation provision is at issue.

If the notice of intent to sue required by Code of Civil Procedure section 364 is served within 90 days of the date on which the statute of limitations will run, the statute of limitations is tolled for 90 days beyond the end of the limitations period. (See Code Civ. Proc., § 364; Woods v. Young (1991) 53 Cal.3d 315, 325–326 [279 Cal.Rptr. 613, 807 P.2d 455].) Adjust the "date one year before the date of filing" in the instruction accordingly. If there is an issue of fact with regard to compliance with the requirements of section 364, the instruction may need to be modified accordingly.

Give the optional last paragraph if there is a question of fact concerning a tolling provision from the Code of Civil Procedure. If so, the verdict form should ask the jury to find (1) the "discovery" date (the date on which the plaintiff discovered or knew of facts that would have caused a reasonable person to suspect that ~~he or she~~the person had suffered harm that was caused by someone's wrongful conduct); (2) whether the tolling provision applies; and (3) if so, for what period of time. The court can then add the additional time to the discovery date and determine whether the action is timely.

Contrary to the otherwise applicable rule (see CACI No. 455, Statute of Limitations—Delayed Discovery), the defendant has been given the burden of proving that the plaintiff discovered or should have discovered the facts alleged to constitute the defendant's wrongdoing more than one year before filing the action. (See Samuels v. Mix (1999) 22 Cal.4th 1, 8–10 [91 Cal.Rptr.2d 273, 989 P.2d 701] [construing structurally similar Code Civ. Proc., § 340.6, on legal malpractice, to place burden regarding delayed discovery on the defendant and disapproving Burgon v. Kaiser Foundation Hospitals (1979) 93 Cal.App.3d 813 [155 Cal.Rptr. 763], which had reached the opposite result under Code Civ. Proc., § 340.5].) See also CACI No. 610, Affirmative Defense—Statute of Limitations—Attorney Malpractice—One-Year Limit.

Sources and Authority

- Statutes of Limitation for Medical Malpractice. Code of Civil Procedure section 340.5.
- Notice of Intent to Commence Action. Code of Civil Procedure section 364(a).
- 90-Day Extension of Limitation Period. Code of Civil Procedure section 364(d).
- "The one-year limitation period of section 340.5 is a codification of the discovery rule, under which a cause of action accrues when the plaintiff is aware, or reasonably should be aware, of 'injury,' a term of art which means 'both the negligent cause and the damaging effect of the alleged wrongful act.' " (Arroyo v. Plosay (2014) 225 Cal.App.4th 279, 290 [170 Cal.Rptr.3d 125].)
- "When a plaintiff has information which would put a reasonable person on inquiry, when a plaintiff's "reasonably founded suspicions [have been] aroused" and the plaintiff has "become alerted to the necessity for investigation and pursuit of her remedies," the one-year period commences. "Possession of 'presumptive' as well as 'actual' knowledge will commence the running of the statute." ' " (Dolan v. Borelli (1993) 13 Cal.App.4th 816, 823 [16 Cal.Rptr.2d 714], internal citations omitted.)
- "[W]hen the plaintiff in a medical malpractice action alleges the defendant health care provider misdiagnosed or failed to diagnose a preexisting disease or condition, there is no injury for purposes of section 340.5 until the plaintiff first experiences appreciable harm as a result of the misdiagnosis, which is when the plaintiff first becomes aware that a preexisting disease or condition has developed into a more serious one." (Drexler v. Petersen (2016) 4 Cal.App.5th 1181, 1183–1184 [209 Cal.Rtpr.3d 332].)
- "The fact that [plaintiff] contemplated suing [defendants] is strong evidence that [plaintiff] suspected the doctors had not properly diagnosed or treated his headaches. Even with the presence of such suspicions, however, the one-year and three-year limitations periods did not begin to run until [plaintiff] discovered his injury—that is, became aware of additional, appreciable harm from his preexisting condition—and, with respect to the one-year limitations period, also had reason to believe that injury was caused by the wrongdoing of [defendants]." (Drexler, supra, 4 Cal.App.5th at p. 1190, internal citation omitted.)
- "We see no reason to apply the second sentence of section 340.5 to the one-year period it does not mention, in addition to the three-year period it does mention. The general purpose of MICRA does not require us to expand that sentence beyond its language." (Belton v. Bowers Ambulance Serv. (1999) 20 Cal.4th 928, 934 [86 Cal.Rptr.2d 107, 978 P.2d 591] [Code Civ. Proc., § 352.1, which tolls statutes of limitation for prisoners, applies to extend one-year period of Code Civ. Proc., § 340.5].)
- "The implications of Belton's analysis for our case here is inescapable. Like tolling the statute of limitations for confined prisoners under section 352.1, tolling under section 351 for a defendant's absence from California is of general applicability [and therefore extends the one-year period of Code of Civil Procedure section 340.5]. (For other general tolling provisions, see § 352 [minors or insanity]; § 352.5 [restitution orders]; § 353.1 [court's assumption of attorney's practice]; § 354 [war]; § 356 [injunction].)" (Kaplan v. Mamelak (2008) 162 Cal.App.4th 637, 643 [75 Cal.Rptr.3d 861].)

- "[A] plaintiff's minority as such does not toll the limitations period of section 340.5. When the Legislature added the separate statute of limitations for minors to section 340.5 in 1975, it clearly intended that the general provision for tolling of statutes of limitation during a person's minority (§ 352, subd. (a)(1)) should no longer apply to medical malpractice actions." (Steketee v. Lintz (1985) 38 Cal.3d 46, 53 [210 Cal.Rptr 781, 694 P.2d 1153], internal citations omitted.)

- "Section 340.5 creates two separate statutes of limitations, both of which must be satisfied if a plaintiff is to timely file a medical malpractice action. First, the plaintiff must file within one year after she first 'discovers' the injury and the negligent cause of that injury. Secondly, she must file within three years after she first experiences harm from the injury. This means that if a plaintiff does not 'discover' the negligent cause of her injury until more than three years after she first experiences harm from the injury, she will not be able to bring a malpractice action against the medical practitioner or hospital whose malpractice caused her injury." (Ashworth v. Mem'l Hosp. (1988) 206 Cal.App.3d 1046, 1054 [254 Cal.Rptr. 104], original italics.)

- "That legislative purpose [re: Code Civ. Proc., § 364] is best effectuated by construing section 364(d) as tolling the one-year statute of limitations when section 364(a)'s ninety-day notice of intent to sue is served during, but not before, the last ninety days of the one-year limitations period. Because the statute of limitations is tolled for 90 days and not merely extended by 90 days from the date of service of the notice, this construction results in a period of 1 year and 90 days in which to file the lawsuit. In providing for a waiting period of at least 90 days before suit can be brought, this construction achieves the legislative objective of encouraging negotiated resolutions of disputes." (Woods, supra, 53 Cal.3d at p. 325.)

- "[I]f the act or omission that led to the plaintiff's injuries was negligence in the maintenance of equipment that, under the prevailing standard of care, was reasonably required to treat or accommodate a physical or mental condition of the patient, the plaintiff's claim is one of professional negligence under section 340.5. But section 340.5 does not extend to negligence in the maintenance of equipment and premises that are merely convenient for, or incidental to, the provision of medical care to a patient." (Flores v. Presbyterian Intercommunity Hospital (2016) 63 Cal.4th 75, 88 [201 Cal.Rptr.3d 449, 369 P.3d 229]; see Johnson v. Open Door Community Health Centers (2017) 15 Cal.App.5th 153, 157–162 [222 Cal.Rptr.3d 838] [tripping over scale does not involve provision of medical care].)

- "[W]hile MICRA is not limited to suits by patients, it 'applies only to actions alleging injury suffered as a result of negligence in … the provision of medical care to patients.' Driving to an accident victim is not the same as providing medical care to the victim. A paramedic's exercise of due care while driving is not 'necessary or otherwise integrally related to the medical treatment and diagnosis of the patient", at least when the patient is not in the vehicle.' " (Aldana v. Stillwagon (2016) 2 Cal.App.5th 1, 8 [205 Cal.Rptr.3d 719], internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

~~Haning, et al., California Practice Guide: Personal Injury, Ch. 1-B, Initial Evaluation Of Case: Decision To Accept Or Reject Employment Or Undertake Further Evaluation Of Claim, ¶ 1:67.1 (The Rutter Group)~~

Haning~~,~~ et al., California Practice Guide: Personal Injury, Ch. 5-B, When To Sue—Statute Of Limitations, ¶ 5:109 (The Rutter Group)

California Tort Guide (Cont.Ed.Bar 3d ed.) §§ 9.26, 9.67–9.72

3 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 31, Liability of Physicians and Other Medical Professionals, § 31.60 (Matthew Bender)

36 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 415, Physicians: Medical Malpractice, § 415.47 (Matthew Bender)

17 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 175, Physicians and Surgeons: Medical Malpractice, § 175.45 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Pretrial Civil Procedure, Ch. 4, Limitation of Actions, 4.27

McDonald, California Medical Malpractice: Law and Practice, §§ 7:1–7:7 (Thomson Reuters)

VF-501. Medical Negligence—Informed Consent—Affirmative Defense—Plaintiff Would Have Consented Even If Informed

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Did [name of defendant] perform a [insert medical procedure] on [name of plaintiff]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Did [name of plaintiff] give [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] informed consent for the [insert medical procedure]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 2 is no, then answer question 3. If you answered yes, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

3. Would a reasonable person in [name of plaintiff]'s position have refused the [insert medical procedure] if ~~he or she~~that person had been adequately informed of the possible results and risks of [and alternatives to] the [insert medical procedure]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 3 is yes, then answer question 4. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

4. Would [name of plaintiff] have consented to the [insert medical procedure] even if [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] had been given adequate information about the risks of the [insert medical procedure]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 4 is no, then answer question 5. If you answered yes, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

5. Was [name of plaintiff] harmed as a consequence of a result or risk that [name of defendant] should have explained before the [insert medical procedure] was performed?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 5 is yes, then answer question 6. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

6. What are [name of plaintiff]'s damages?

[a. Past economic loss

[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other past economic loss $ _____]
Total Past Economic Damages: $ _____]

[b. Future economic loss

[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other future economic loss $ _____]
Total Future Economic Damages: $ _____]

[c. Past noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]

$ _____]

[d. Future noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]

$ _____]

TOTAL $ _____

Signed: _____
Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

After [this verdict form has/all verdict forms have] been signed, notify the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant] that you are ready to present your verdict in the courtroom.

New September 2003; Revised April 2007, December 2010, June 2015, December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 533, Failure to Obtain Informed Consent—Essential Factual

Elements, and CACI No. 550, Affirmative Defense—Plaintiff Would Have Consented.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 6. The breakdown is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the affirmative defense, which is contained in question 4, is not an issue in the case, question 4 should be omitted and the remaining questions renumbered accordingly.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

VF-502. Medical Negligence—Informed Consent—Affirmative Defense—Emergency

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Did [name of defendant] perform a [insert medical procedure] on [name of plaintiff]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Did [name of plaintiff] give [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] informed consent to the [insert medical procedure]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 2 is no, then answer question 3. If you answered yes, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

3. Would a reasonable person in [name of plaintiff]'s position have refused the [insert medical procedure] if ~~he or she~~that person had been fully informed of the possible results and risks of [and alternatives to] the [insert medical procedure]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 3 is yes, then answer question 4. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

4. Was [name of plaintiff] harmed as a consequence of a result or risk that [name of defendant] should have explained before the [insert medical procedure] was performed?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 4 is yes, then answer question 5. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

5. Did [name of defendant] reasonably believe the [insert medical procedure] had to be done immediately in order to preserve the life or health of [name of plaintiff]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 5 is no, then answer question 7. If you answered yes to this question, answer question 6.

6. Was [name of plaintiff] unconscious?
   ____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 6 is no, then answer question 7. If you answered yes, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

7. What are [name of plaintiff]'s damages?

[a. Past economic loss

[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other past economic loss $ _____]
Total Past Economic Damages: $ _____]

[b. Future economic loss

[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other future economic loss $ _____]
Total Future Economic Damages: $ _____]

[c. Past noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]

$ _____]

[d. Future noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]

$ _____]

TOTAL $ _____

Signed: _____
Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

After [this verdict form has/all verdict forms have] been signed, notify the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant] that you are ready to present your verdict in the courtroom.

New September 2003; Revised April 2007, October 2008, December 2010, December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 533, Failure to Obtain Informed Consent—Essential Factual Elements, and CACI No. 554, Affirmative Defense—Emergency.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

Depending on the facts, alternative language may be substituted for question 6 as in item 2 of CACI No. 554. If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 7. The breakdown is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the affirmative defense, which is contained in questions 5 and 6, is not an issue in the case, then questions 5 and 6 should be omitted and the remaining questions renumbered accordingly.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

600. Standard of Care

[A/An] [insert type of professional] is negligent if [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] fails to use the skill and care that a reasonably careful [insert type of professional] would have used in similar circumstances. This level of skill, knowledge, and care is sometimes referred to as "the standard of care."

[You must determine the level of skill and care that a reasonably careful [insert type of professional] would use in similar circumstances based only on the testimony of the expert witnesses[, including [name of defendant],] who have testified in this case.]

New September 2003; Revised October 2004, December 2007, May 2020

Directions for Use

Use this instruction for all professional negligence cases other than professional medical negligence, for which CACI No. 501, Standard of Care for Health Care Professionals, should be used. See CACI No. 400, Negligence—Essential Factual Elements, for an instruction on the plaintiff's burden of proof. The word "legal" or "professional" should be added before the word "negligence" in the first paragraph of CACI No. 400. (See Sources and Authority following CACI No. 500, Medical Negligence—Essential Factual Elements.)

Read the second paragraph if the standard of care must be established by expert testimony.

See CACI Nos. 219–221 on evaluating the credibility of expert witnesses.

If the defendant is a specialist in ~~his or her~~ a field, this instruction should be modified to reflect that the defendant is held to the standard of care of a specialist. (Wright v. Williams (1975) 47 Cal.App.3d 802, 810 [121 Cal.Rptr. 194].) The standard of care for claims related to a specialist's expertise is determined by expert testimony. (Id. at pp. 810–811.)

Whether an attorney-client relationship exists is a question of law. (Responsible Citizens v. Superior Court (1993) 16 Cal.App.4th 1717, 1733 [20 Cal.Rptr.2d 756].) If the evidence bearing upon this decision is in conflict, preliminary factual determinations are necessary. (Ibid.) Special instructions may need to be crafted for that purpose.

Sources and Authority

- "The elements of a cause of action in tort for professional negligence are (1) the duty of the professional to use such skill, prudence, and diligence as other members of his profession commonly possess and exercise; (2) a breach of that duty; (3) a proximate causal connection between the negligent conduct and the resulting injury; and (4) actual loss or damage resulting from the professional's negligence." (Budd v. Nixen (1971) 6 Cal.3d 195, 200 [98 Cal.Rptr. 849, 491 P.2d 433].)

- "Plaintiffs' argument that CACI No. 600 altered their burden of proof is misguided in that it assumes that a 'professional' standard of care is inherently different than the standard in ordinary negligence cases. It is not. 'With respect to professionals, their specialized education and training do not serve to impose an increased duty of care but rather are considered additional "circumstances' relevant to an overall assessment of what constitutes "ordinary prudence" in a particular situation.' 'Since the standard of care remains constant in terms of "ordinary prudence," it is clear that denominating a cause of action as one for "professional negligence" does not transmute its underlying character. For substantive purposes, it merely serves to establish the basis by which "ordinary prudence" will be calculated and the defendant's conduct evaluated.' " (LAOSD Asbestos Cases (2016) 5 Cal.App.5th 1022, 1050 [211 Cal.Rptr.3d 261], internal citation omitted.)

- " 'In addressing breach of duty, "the crucial inquiry is whether [the attorney's] advice was so legally deficient when it was given that he [or she] may be found to have failed to use 'such skill, prudence, and diligence as lawyers of ordinary skill and capacity commonly possess and exercise in the performance of the tasks which they undertake.' …" … ' " (Blanks v. Seyfarth Shaw LLP (2009) 171 Cal.App.4th 336, 357 [89 Cal.Rptr.3d 710].)

- "[I]f the allegedly negligent conduct does not cause damage, it generates no cause of action in tort." (Moua v. Pittullo, Howington, Barker, Abernathy, LLP (2014) 228 Cal.App.4th 107, 112−113 [174 Cal.Rptr.3d 662].)

- "[T]he issue of negligence in a legal malpractice case is ordinarily an issue of fact." (Blanks, supra, 171 Cal.App.4th at p. 376.)

- " '[T]he requirement that the plaintiff prove causation should not be confused with the method or means of doing so. Phrases such as "trial within a trial," "case within a case," … and "better deal" scenario describe methods of proving causation, not the causation requirement itself or the test for determining whether causation has been established.' " (Knutson v. Foster (2018) 25 Cal.App.5th 1075, 1091 [236 Cal.Rptr.3d 473].)

- "Plaintiffs argue that 'laying pipe is not a "profession." ' However, case law, statutes, and secondary sources suggest that the scope of those held to a 'professional' standard of care—a standard of care similar to others in their profession, as opposed to that of a 'reasonable person'—is broad enough to encompass a wide range of specialized skills. As a general matter, '[t]hose undertaking to render expert services in the practice of a profession or trade are required to have and apply the skill, knowledge and competence ordinarily possessed by their fellow practitioners under similar circumstances, and failure to do so subjects them to liability for negligence.' " (LAOSD Asbestos Cases, supra, 5 Cal.App.5th at p. 1050.)

- "It is well settled that an attorney is liable for malpractice when his negligent investigation, advice, or conduct of the client's affairs results in loss of the client's meritorious claim." (Gutierrez v. Mofid (1985) 39 Cal.3d 892, 900 [218 Cal.Rptr. 313, 705 P.2d 886].)

- "[A] lawyer holding himself out to the public and the profession as specializing in an area of the law must exercise the skill, prudence, and diligence exercised by other specialists of ordinary skill and capacity specializing in the same field." (Wright, supra, 47 Cal.App.3d at p. 810.)

- "To establish a [professional] malpractice claim, a plaintiff is required to present expert testimony establishing the appropriate standard of care in the relevant community. 'Standard of care " 'is a matter peculiarly within the knowledge of experts; it presents the basic issue in a malpractice action and can only be proved by their testimony [citations] … .' " [Citation.]' " (Quigley v. McClellan (2013) 214 Cal.App.4th 1276, 1283 [154 Cal.Rptr.3d 719], internal citations omitted.)

- "California law does not require an expert witness to prove professional malpractice in all circumstances. 'In professional malpractice cases, expert opinion testimony is required to prove or disprove that the defendant performed in accordance with the prevailing standard of care [citation], except in cases where the negligence is obvious to laymen.' " (Ryan v. Real Estate of the Pacific, Inc. (2019) 32 Cal.App.5th 637, 644–645 [244 Cal.Rptr.3d 129].)

- "Where … the malpractice action is brought against an attorney holding himself out as a legal specialist and the claim against him is related to his expertise as such, then only a person knowledgeable in the specialty can define the applicable duty of care and opine whether it was met." (Wright, supra, 47 Cal.App.3d at pp. 810−811, footnote and internal citations omitted.)

- "The standard is that of members of the profession 'in the same or a similar locality under similar circumstances' … . The duty encompasses both a knowledge of law and an obligation of diligent research and informed judgment." (Wright, supra, 47 Cal.App.3d at p. 809, internal citations omitted; but see Avivi v. Centro Medico Urgente Medical Center (2008) 159 Cal.App.4th 463, 470–471 [71 Cal.Rptr.3d 707] [geographical location may be a factor to be considered, but by itself, does not provide a practical basis for measuring similar circumstances].)

- Failing to Act Competently. Rules of Professional Conduct, rule 3-110.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Procedure (5th ed. 2008) Attorneys, §§ ~~290–293~~288

4 Witkin, California Procedure (5th ed. 2008) Pleadings, § 593

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Torts, §§ 1124, 1125, 1128–1131

Vapnek, et al., California Practice Guide: Professional Responsibility, Ch. 1-A, Sources Of Regulation Of Practice Of Law In California-Overview, ¶ 1:39 (The Rutter Group)

Vapnek, et al., California Practice Guide: Professional Responsibility, Ch. 6-E~~D~~, Professional Liability, ¶¶ 6:230–6:234 (The Rutter Group)

1 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 1, Negligence: Duty and Breach, § 1.31 (Matthew Bender)

3 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 30, General Principles of Liability of Professionals, §§ 30.12, 30.13, Ch. 32, Liability of Attorneys, § 32.13 (Matthew Bender)

7 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 76, Attorney Professional Liability, §§ 76.50, 76.51 (Matthew Bender)

33 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 380, Negligence, § 380.50 (Matthew Bender)

2A California Points and Authorities, Ch. 24A, Attorneys at Law: Malpractice, § 24A.20 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

601. Negligent Handling of Legal Matter

To recover damages from [name of defendant], [name of plaintiff] must prove that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] would have obtained a better result if [name of defendant] had acted as a reasonably careful attorney. [Name of plaintiff] was not harmed by [name of defendant]'s conduct if the same harm would have occurred anyway without that conduct.

New September 2003; Revised June 2015, May 2020

Directions for Use

In cases involving professionals other than attorneys, this instruction would need to be modified by inserting the type of the professional in place of "attorney." (See, e.g., Mattco Forge, Inc. v. Arthur Young & Co. (1997) 52 Cal.App.4th 820, 829−830 [60 Cal.Rptr.2d 780] [trial-within-a-trial method was applied to accountants].)

The plaintiff must prove that but for the attorney's negligent acts or omissions, ~~he or she~~the plaintiff would have obtained a more favorable judgment or settlement in the underlying action. (Viner v. Sweet (2003) 30 Cal.4th 1232, 1241 [135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 629, 70 P.3d 1046].) The second sentence expresses this "but for" standard.

Sources and Authority

- "If the allegedly negligent conduct does not cause damage, it generates no cause of action in tort. The mere breach of a professional duty, causing only nominal damages, speculative harm, or the threat of future harm—not yet realized—does not suffice to create a cause of action for negligence." (Jordache Enterprises, Inc. v. Brobeck, Phleger & Harrison (1998) 18 Cal.4th 739, 749−750 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 749, 958 P.2d 1062].)

- "In the legal malpractice context, the elements of causation and damage are particularly closely linked." (Namikas v. Miller (2014) 225 Cal.App.4th 1574, 1582 [171 Cal.Rptr.3d 23].)

- "In a client's action against an attorney for legal malpractice, the client must prove, among other things, that the attorney's negligent acts or omissions caused the client to suffer some financial harm or loss. When the alleged malpractice occurred in the performance of transactional work (giving advice or preparing documents for a business transaction), must the client prove this causation element according to the 'but for' test, meaning that the harm or loss would not have occurred without the attorney's malpractice? The answer is yes." (Viner, supra, 30 Cal.4th at p. 1235.)

- "[The trial-within-a-trial method] is the most effective safeguard yet devised against speculative and conjectural claims in this era of ever expanding litigation. It is a standard of proof designed to limit damages to those actually caused by a professional's malfeasance." (Mattco Forge Inc., supra, 52 Cal.App.4th at p. 834.)

- " 'Damage to be subject to a proper award must be such as follows the act complained of as a legal certainty … .' Conversely, ' " '[t]he mere probability that a certain event would have happened, upon which a claim for damages is predicated, will not support the claim or furnish the foundation of an action for such damages.' " ' " (Filbin v. Fitzgerald (2012) 211 Cal.App.4th 154, 165−166 [149 Cal.Rptr.3d 422], original italics, footnote and internal citations omitted.)

- "One who establishes malpractice on the part of his or her attorney in prosecuting a lawsuit must also prove that careful management of it would have resulted in a favorable judgment and collection thereof, as there is no damage in the absence of these latter elements." (DiPalma v. Seldman (1994) 27 Cal.App.4th 1499, 1506−1507 [33 Cal.Rptr.2d 219], original italics.)

- " 'The element of collectibility requires a showing of the debtor's solvency. " ['W]here a claim is alleged to have been lost by an attorney's negligence, … to recover more than nominal damages it must be shown that it was a valid subsisting debt, and that the debtor was solvent.' [Citation.]" The loss of a collectible judgment "by definition means the lost opportunity to collect a money judgment from a solvent [defendant] and is certainly legally sufficient evidence of actual damage." ' " (Wise v. DLA Piper LLP (US) (2013) 220 Cal.App.4th 1180, 1190 [164 Cal.Rptr.3d 54], original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- "Collectibility is part of the plaintiff's case, and a component of the causation and damages showing, rather than an affirmative defense which the Attorney Defendants must demonstrate." (Wise, supra, 220 Cal.App.4th at p. 1191.)

- "Because of the legal malpractice, the original target is out of range; thus, the misperforming attorney must stand in and submit to being the target instead of the former target which the attorney negligently permitted to escape. This is the essence of the case-within-a-case doctrine." (Arciniega v. Bank of San Bernardino (1997) 52 Cal.App.4th 213, 231 [60 Cal.Rptr.2d 495].)

- "Where the attorney's negligence does not result in a total loss of the client's claim, the measure of damages is the difference between what was recovered and what would have been recovered but for the attorney's wrongful act or omission. [¶] Thus, in a legal malpractice action, if a reasonably competent attorney would have obtained a $3 million recovery for the client but the negligent attorney obtained only a $2 million recovery, the client's damage due to the attorney's negligence would be $1 million-the difference between what a competent attorney would have obtained and what the negligent attorney obtained." (Norton v. Superior Court (1994) 24 Cal.App.4th 1750, 1758 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 217].)

- "[A] plaintiff who alleges an inadequate settlement in the underlying action must prove that, if not for the malpractice, she would certainly have received more money in settlement or at trial. [¶] The requirement that a plaintiff need prove damages to 'a legal certainty' is difficult to meet in any case. It is particularly so in 'settle and sue' cases … ." (Filbin, supra, 211 Cal.App.4th at p. 166, original italics, internal citation omitted.)

- "In a legal malpractice action, causation is an issue of fact for the jury to decide except in those cases where reasonable minds cannot differ; in those cases, the trial court may decide the issue itself as a matter of law." (Yanez v. Plummer (2013) 221 Cal.App.4th 180, 187 [164 Cal.Rptr.3d 309].)

- " 'The trial-within-a-trial method does not "recreate what a particular judge or fact finder would have done. Rather, the jury's task is to determine what a reasonable judge or fact finder would have done … ." … Even though "should" and "would" are used interchangeably by the courts, the standard remains an objective one. The trier of fact determines what should have been, not what the result would have been, or could have been, or might have been, had the matter been before a particular judge or jury. …' " (Blanks v. Seyfarth Shaw LLP (2009) 171 Cal.App.4th 336, 357 [89 Cal.Rptr.3d 710], original italics.)

- "If the underlying issue originally was a factual question that would have gone to a tribunal rather than a judge, it is the jury who must decide what a reasonable tribunal would have done. The identity or expertise of the original trier of fact (i.e., a judge or an arbitrator or another type of adjudicator) does not alter the jury's responsibility in the legal malpractice trial-within-a-trial." (Blanks, supra, 171 Cal.App.4th at pp. 357–358.)

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Procedure (5th ed. 2008) Attorneys, §§ 319–322

Vapnek et al., California Practice Guide: Professional Responsibility, Ch. 6-ED, Professional Liability, ¶ 6:322 (The Rutter Group)

3 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 32, Liability of Attorneys, § 32.10 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

7 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 76, Attorney Professional Liability, § 76.50 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

2A California Points and Authorities, Ch. 24A, Attorneys at Law: Malpractice, § 24A.20 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

603. Alternative Legal Decisions or Strategies

An attorney is not necessarily negligent just because ~~he or she~~the attorney [chooses one legal strategy/makes a decision/makes a recommendation] and it turns out that another [strategy/decision/recommendation] would have been a better choice.

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Sources and Authority

- "We recognize, of course, that an attorney engaging in litigation may have occasion to choose among various alternative strategies available to his client ... ." (Smith v. Lewis (1975) 13 Cal.3d 349, 359 [118 Cal.Rptr. 621, 530 P.2d 589], overruled in part on other grounds in In re Marriage of Brown (1976) 15 Cal.3d 838, 851 [126 Cal.Rptr. 633, 544 P.2d 561].)

- " 'In view of the complexity of the law and the circumstances which call for difficult choices among possible courses of action, the attorney cannot be held legally responsible for an honest and reasonable mistake of law or an unfortunate selection of remedy or other procedural step.' [Citation.]" (Banerian v. O'Malley (1974) 42 Cal.App.3d 604, 613 [116 Cal.Rptr. 919].)

Secondary Sources

3 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 32, Liability of Attorneys, § 32.11 (Matthew Bender)

7 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 76, Attorney Professional Liability (Matthew Bender)

2A California Points and Authorities, Ch. 24A, Attorneys at Law: Malpractice (Matthew Bender)

610. Affirmative Defense—Statute of Limitations—Attorney Malpractice—One-Year Limit (Code Civ. Proc., § 340.6)

[*Name of defendant] contends that [name of plaintiff]'s lawsuit was not filed within the time set by law. To succeed on this defense, [name of defendant] must prove that before [insert date one year before date of filing] [name of plaintiff] knew, or with reasonable diligence should have discovered, the facts of [name of defendant]'s alleged wrongful act or omission.

[If, however, [*name of plaintiff] proves

[*Choose one or more of the following three options:]

[that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] did not sustain actual injury until on or after [*insert date one year before date of filing][,/; or]]

[that on or after [*insert date one year before date of filing] [name of defendant] continued to represent [name of plaintiff] regarding the specific subject matter in which the wrongful act or omission occurred[,/; or]]

[that on or after [*insert date one year before date of filing] [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] was under a legal or physical disability that restricted [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] ability to file a lawsuit[,/;]]

the period within which [*name of plaintiff] had to file the lawsuit is extended for the amount of time that [insert tolling provision, e.g., [name of defendant] continued to represent [name of plaintiff]].]

New April 2007; Revised April 2009, May 2020

Directions for Use

Use CACI No. 611, Affirmative Defense—Statute of Limitations—Attorney Malpractice—Four-Year Limit, if the four-year limitation provision is at issue.

The court may need to define the term "actual injury" depending on the facts and circumstances of the particular case.

If no tolling provision from Code of Civil Procedure section 340.6 is at issue, read only through the end of the first paragraph. Read the rest of the instruction if there is a question of fact concerning a tolling provision. If so, the verdict form should ask the jury to find (1) the "discovery" date (the date on which the plaintiff discovered or knew of facts that would have caused a reasonable person to suspect that ~~he or she~~ the person had suffered harm that was caused by someone's wrongful conduct); (2) whether the tolling provision applies; and (3) if so, for what period of time. The court can then add the additional time to the discovery date and determine whether the action is timely.

Sources and Authority

- Statute of Limitation for Attorney Malpractice. Code of Civil Procedure section 340.6.

- Persons Under Disabilities. Code of Civil Procedure section 352.

- "Under section 340.6, the one-year limitations period commences when the plaintiff actually or constructively discovers the facts of the wrongful act or omission, but the period is tolled until the plaintiff sustains actual injury. That is to say, the statute of limitations will not run during the time the plaintiff cannot bring a cause of action for damages from professional negligence." (Jordache Enterprises, Inc. v. Brobeck, Phleger & Harrison (1998) 18 Cal.4th 739, 751 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 749, 958 P.2d 1062].)

- "Summary judgment was proper under section 340.6, subdivision (a)'s one-year limitations period only if the undisputed facts compel the conclusion that [plaintiff] was on inquiry notice of his claim more than one year before the complaint was filed. Inquiry notice exist where 'the plaintiffs have reason to at least suspect that a type of wrongdoing has injured them.' ' "A plaintiff need not be aware of the specific 'facts' necessary to establish the claim; that is a process contemplated by pretrial discovery. Once the plaintiff has a suspicion of wrongdoing, and therefore an incentive to sue, she must decide whether to file suit or sit on her rights. So long as a suspicion exists, it is clear that the plaintiff must go find the facts; she cannot wait for the facts to find her." [Citation.]' " (Genisman v. Carley (2018) 29 Cal.App.5th 45, 50–51 [239 Cal.Rptr.3d 780], internal citation omitted.)

- " ' "[S]ubjective suspicion is not required. If a person becomes aware of facts which would make a reasonably prudent person suspicious, he or she has a duty to investigate further and is charged with knowledge of matters which would have been revealed by such an investigation." [Citation.]' " (Genisman, supra, 29 Cal.App.5th at p. 51.)

- "For purposes of section 340.6, 'actual injury occurs when the plaintiff sustains any loss or injury legally cognizable as damages in a legal malpractice action based on the acts or omissions that the plaintiff alleged.' While 'nominal damages will not end the tolling of section 340.6's limitations period,' it is 'the fact of damage, rather than the amount, [that] is the critical factor.' " (Genisman, supra, 29 Cal.App.5th at p. 52, internal citation omitted.)

- "Actual injury refers only to the legally cognizable damage necessary to assert the cause of action. There is no requirement that an adjudication or settlement must first confirm a causal nexus between the attorney's error and the asserted injury. The determination of actual injury requires only a factual analysis of the claimed error and its consequences." (Truong v. Glasser (2009) 181 Cal.App.4th 102, 113 [103 Cal.Rptr.3d 811].)

- " '[S]ection 340.6, subdivision (a)(1), will not toll the limitations period once the client can plead damages that could establish a cause of action for legal malpractice.' '[T]he limitations period is not tolled after the plaintiff sustains actual injury [even] if the injury is, in some sense, remediable. [Citation.] Furthermore, the statutory scheme does not depend on the plaintiff's recognizing actual injury. Actual injury must be noticeable, but the language of the tolling provision does not require that it be noticed.' On the other hand, 'the statute of limitations will not run during the time the plaintiff cannot bring a cause of action for damages from professional negligence' because the plaintiff cannot allege actual injury resulted from an attorney's malpractice." (Croucier v. Chavos (2012) 207 Cal.App.4th 1138, 1148 [144 Cal.Rptr.3d 180], internal citations omitted.)

- "[A]ctual injury exists even if the client has yet to 'sustain[] all, or even the greater part, of the damages occasioned by his attorney's negligence'; even if the client will encounter 'difficulty in proving damages'; and even if that damage might be mitigated or entirely eliminated in the future. [¶] However, 'actual injury' does not include 'speculative and contingent injuries … that do not yet exist … .' " (Shaoxing City Maolong Wuzhong Down Products, Ltd. v. Keehn & Associates, APC (2015) 238 Cal.App.4th 1031, 1036 [190 Cal.Rptr.3d 90], internal citations omitted.)

- "[B]ecause 'determining actual injury is predominately a factual inquiry' to the extent a question remains on this point, the matter is properly resolved by the trier of fact … ." (Callahan v. Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher LLP (2011) 194 Cal.App.4th 557, 576 [125 Cal.Rptr.3d 120].)

- "[W]here, as here, the 'material facts are undisputed, the trial court can resolve the matter [of actual injury] as a question of law in conformity with summary judgment principles.' " (Shaoxing City Maolong Wuzhong Down Products, Ltd., supra, 238 Cal.App.4th at pp. 1037−1038.)

- "[P]rior to the enactment of section 340.6 the running of the statute of limitations coincided with accrual of the plaintiff's malpractice cause of action, including damages. By contrast, under the provisions of section 340.6, discovery of the negligent act or omission initiates the statutory period, and the absence of injury or damages serves as a tolling factor." (Adams v. Paul (1995) 11 Cal.4th 583, 589, fn. 2 [46 Cal.Rptr.2d 594, 904 P.2d 1205], internal citations omitted.)

- "[A] defendant must prove the facts necessary to enjoy the benefit of a statute of limitations." (Samuels v. Mix (1999) 22 Cal.4th 1, 10 [91 Cal.Rptr.2d 273, 989 P.2d 701], internal citations omitted.)

- "[D]efendant, if he is to avail himself of the statute's one-year-from-discovery limitation defense, has the burden of proving, under the 'traditional allocation of the burden of proof' that plaintiff discovered or should have discovered the facts alleged to constitute defendant's wrongdoing more than one year prior to filing this action." (Samuels, supra, 22 Cal.4th at pp. 8–9, internal citations omitted.)

- "In ordinary tort and contract actions, the statute of limitations, it is true, begins to run upon the occurrence of the last element essential to the cause of action. The plaintiff's ignorance of the cause of action, or of the identity of the wrongdoer, does not toll the statute. In cases of professional malpractice, however, postponement of the period of limitations until discovery finds justification in the special nature of the relationship between the professional man and his client." (Neel v. Magana, Olney, Levy, Cathcart & Gelfand (1971) 6 Cal.3d 176, 187–188 [98 Cal.Rptr. 837, 491 P.2d 421], footnote omitted.)

- "We hold that a cause of action for legal malpractice does not accrue until the client discovers, or should discover, the facts establishing the elements of his cause of action." (Neel, supra, 6 Cal.3d at p. 194.)

- " '[W]here there is a professional relationship, the degree of diligence in ferreting out the negligence for the purpose of the statute of limitations is diminished. [Citation.]' " (Stueve Bros. Farms, LLC v. Berger Kahn (2013) 222 Cal.App.4th 303, 315 [166 Cal.Rptr.3d 116].)

- "If the allegedly negligent conduct does not cause damage, it generates no cause of action in tort. The mere breach of a professional duty, causing only nominal damages, speculative harm, or the threat of future harm—not yet realized—does not suffice to create a cause of action for negligence. Hence, until the client suffers appreciable harm as a consequence of his attorney's negligence, the client cannot establish a cause of action for malpractice." (Budd v. Nixen (1971) 6 Cal.3d 195, 200 [98 Cal.Rptr. 849, 491 P.2d 433], internal citations omitted.)

- "A plaintiff who is aware of, and has been actually injured by, attorney malpractice in a matter need not file suit for malpractice while that attorney is still representing him on the same 'specific subject matter.' " (Shaoxing City Maolong Wuzhong Down Products, Ltd., supra, 238 Cal.App.4th at p. 1038.)

- "The continuous representation tolling provision in section 340.6, subdivision (a)(2) 'was adopted in order to "avoid the disruption of an attorney-client relationship by a lawsuit while enabling the attorney to correct or minimize an apparent error, and to prevent an attorney from defeating a malpractice cause of action by continuing to represent the client until the statutory period has expired." ' " (Kelly v. Orr (2016) 243 Cal.App.4th 940, 950 [196 Cal.Rptr.3d 901].)

- "The mere existence of an attorney-client relationship does not trigger the continuous representation rule: 'Instead, the statute's tolling language addresses a particular phase of such a relationship-representation regarding a specific subject matter. Moreover, the limitations period is not tolled when an attorney's subsequent role is only tangentially related to the legal representation the attorney provided to the plaintiff. Therefore, "[t]he inquiry is not whether an attorney-client relationship still exists but when the representation of the specific matter terminated." ' Tolling does not apply where there is a continuing relationship between the attorney and client 'involving only unrelated matters.' " (Lockton v. O'Rourke (2010) 184 Cal.App.4th 1051, 1064 [109 Cal.Rptr.3d 392], original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- "[W]here a client hires a law firm to represent it, the provisions of section 340.6 apply to that firm; the term 'attorney' in section 340.6 may embrace the entire partnership, law corporation, or other legal entity the client retains. [¶] That either an attorney or a firm may be the subject of an action does not support a reading under which representation by one attorney or firm might toll the limitations period as to another no longer affiliated attorney or firm. Rather, the text implies an action against a law firm is tolled so long as that firm continues representation, just as an action against an attorney is tolled so long as that attorney continues representation, but representation by one attorney or firm does not toll claims that may exist against a different, unaffiliated attorney or firm." (Beal Bank, SSB v. Arter & Hadden, LLP (2007) 42 Cal.4th 503, 509 [66 Cal.Rptr.3d 52, 167 P.3d 666], original italics.)

- " '[W]hen an attorney leaves a firm and takes a client with him or her, … the tolling in ongoing matters [does not] continue for claims against the former firm and partners.' " (Stueve Bros. Farms, LLC, supra, 222 Cal.App.4th at p. 314.)

- " 'Ordinarily, an attorney's representation is not completed until the agreed tasks or events have occurred, the client consents to termination or a court grants an application by counsel for withdrawal.' 'The rule is that, for purposes of the statute of limitations, the attorney's representation is concluded when the parties so agree, and that result does not depend upon formal termination, such as withdrawing as counsel of record.' 'Continuity of representation ultimately depends, not on the client's subjective beliefs, but rather on evidence of an ongoing mutual relationship and of activities in furtherance of the relationship.' " (Nielsen v. Beck (2007) 157 Cal.App.4th 1041, 1049 [69 Cal.Rptr.3d 435], internal citations omitted.)

- "[T]he continuous representation tolling provision in section 340.6, subdivision (a)(2), applies to toll legal malpractice claims brought by successor trustees against attorneys who represented the predecessor trustee." (Kelly, supra, 243 Cal.App.4th at p. 951.)

- "[A]bsent a statutory standard to determine when an attorney's representation of a client regarding a specific subject matter ends, and consistent with the purposes of the continuing representation rule, we conclude that for purposes of … section 340.6, subdivision (a)(2), in the event of an attorney's unilateral withdrawal or abandonment of the client, the representation ends when the client actually has or reasonably should have no expectation that the attorney will provide further legal services. … That may occur upon the attorney's express notification to the client that the attorney will perform no further services, or, if the attorney remains silent, may be inferred from the circumstances. Absent actual notice to the client that the attorney will perform no further legal services or circumstances that reasonably should cause the client to so conclude, a client should be entitled to rely on an attorney to perform the agreed services and should not be required to interrupt the attorney-client relationship by filing a malpractice complaint. After a client has no reasonable expectation that the attorney will provide further legal services, however, the client is no longer hindered by a potential disruption of the attorney-client relationship and no longer relies on the attorney's continuing representation, so the tolling should end. To this extent and for these reasons, we conclude that continuous representation should be viewed objectively from the client's perspective … ." (Laclette v. Galindo (2010) 184 Cal.App.4th 919, 928 [109 Cal.Rptr.3d 660], original italics.)

- "Continuity of representation ultimately depends, not on the client's subjective beliefs, but rather on evidence of an ongoing mutual relationship and of activities in furtherance of the relationship." (GoTek Energy, Inc. v. SoCal IP Law Group, LLP (2016) 3 Cal.App.5th 1240, 1248 [208 Cal.Rptr.3d 428], original italics.)

- "Section 340.6, subdivision (a), states that 'in no event' shall the prescriptive period be tolled except under those circumstances specified in the statute. Thus, the Legislature expressly intended to disallow tolling under any circumstances not enumerated in the statute." (Laird v. Blacker (1992) 2 Cal.4th 606, 618 [7 Cal.Rptr.2d 550, 828 P.2d 691] [applying rule to one-year limitation period]; cf. Belton v. Bowers Ambulance Serv. (1999) 20 Cal.4th 928, 934 [86 Cal.Rptr.2d 107, 978 P.2d 591] [substantially similar language in Code Civ. Proc., § 340.5, applicable to medical malpractice, construed to apply only to three-year limitation period].)

- "[T]he fourth tolling provision of section 340.6, subdivision (a)—that is, the provision applicable to legal and physical disabilities—encompasses the circumstances set forth in section 351 [exception, where defendant is out of the state].” (Jocer Enterprises, Inc. v. Price (2010) 183 Cal.App.4th 559, 569 [107 Cal.Rptr.3d 539].)

- “[A] would-be plaintiff is ‘imprisoned on a criminal charge’ within the meaning of section 352.1 if he or she is serving a term of imprisonment in the state prison.” (Austin v. Medicis (2018) 21 Cal.App.5th 577, 597 [230 Cal.Rptr.3d 528].)

- “In light of the Legislature's intent that section 340.6(a) cover more than claims for legal malpractice, the term ‘professional services’ is best understood to include nonlegal services governed by an attorney's professional obligations.” (Lee v. Hanley (2015) 61 Cal.4th 1225, 1237 [191 Cal.Rptr.3d 536, 354 P.3d 334].)

- “For purposes of section 340.6(a), the question is not simply whether a claim alleges misconduct that entails the violation of a professional obligation. Rather, the question is whether the claim, in order to succeed, necessarily depends on proof that an attorney violated a professional obligation as opposed to some generally applicable nonprofessional obligation.” (Lee, supra, 61 Cal.4th at p. 1238.)

- “Lee held that ‘section 340.6(a)'s time bar applies to claims whose merits necessarily depend on proof that an attorney violated a professional obligation in the course of providing professional services. In this context, a “professional obligation” is an obligation that an attorney has by virtue of being an attorney, such as fiduciary obligations, the obligation to perform competently, the obligation to perform the services contemplated in a legal services contract into which an attorney has entered, and the obligations embodied in the State Bar Rules of Professional Conduct.’ ” (Foxen v. Carpenter (2016) 6 Cal.App.5th 284, 292 [211 Cal.Rptr.3d 372].)

- “In sum, consistent with Lee, section 340.6(a) applies to malicious prosecution claims against attorneys who performed professional services in the underlying litigation.” (Connelly v. Bornstein (2019) 33 Cal.App.5th 783, 799 [245 Cal.Rptr.3d 452].)

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin, California Procedure (5th ed. 2008) Actions, §§ ~~573,~~ 626–655

3 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 32, Liability of Attorneys, § 32.60 (Matthew Bender)

1 Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Pretrial Civil Procedure, Ch. 4, Limitation of Actions, 4.05

7 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 76, Attorney Professional Liability, §§ 76.170, 76.430 (Matthew Bender)

33 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 380, Negligence, § 380.150 (Matthew Bender)

702. Waiver of Right-of-Way

A [driver/pedestrian] who has the right-of-way may give up that right and let [another vehicle/a pedestrian] go first. If a [driver/pedestrian] reasonably believes that [[another/a] driver/a pedestrian] has given up the right-of-way, then ~~he or she~~[the driver/the pedestrian] may go first.

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Sources and Authority

- "[I]f one who has the right of way 'conducts himself in such a definite manner as to create a reasonable belief in the mind of another person that the right-of-way has been waived, then such other person is entitled to assume that the right of way has been given up to him ...'." (Hopkins v. Tye (1959) 174 Cal.App.2d 431, 433 [344 P.2d 640].)

- "A conscious intentional act of waiver of the right of way by the pedestrian is not required. Whether there is a waiver depends upon the acts of the pedestrian. If they are such that a driver could reasonably believe that the pedestrian did not intend to assert her right of way, a waiver occurs." (Cohen v. Bay Area Pie Company (1963) 217 Cal.App.2d 69, 72–73 [31 Cal.Rptr. 426], internal citation omitted.)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~879~~1010, ~~880~~ 1011

California Tort Guide (Cont.Ed.Bar 3d ed.) § 4.15

2 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 20, Motor Vehicles, § 20.68[1][c] (Matthew Bender)

704. Left Turns (Veh. Code, § 21801)

The statute just read to you uses the word "hazard." A "hazard" exists if any approaching vehicle is so near or is approaching so fast that a reasonably careful person would realize that there is a danger of a collision [or accident].

[A driver who is attempting to make a left turn must make sure that no oncoming vehicles are close enough to be a hazard before ~~he or she~~the driver proceeds across each lane.]

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

The bracketed paragraph should be given in appropriate cases involving multiple lanes of oncoming traffic. (Sesler v. Ghumman (1990) 219 Cal.App.3d 218, 227 [268 Cal.Rptr. 70].)

Sources and Authority

- Duty to Yield Right of Way: Left Turn. Vehicle Code section 21801(a).

- "We hold section 21802, subdivision (a), requires that where, as here, some, but not all, of the oncoming vehicles have yielded their right-of-way to a left-turning driver, that driver has a continuing duty during the turning movement to ascertain, before proceeding across the next open lane(s), if any vehicle is approaching from the opposite direction so close as to constitute a hazard." (Sesler, supra, 219 Cal.App.3d at pp. 224–225)

- Noting that in 1957 the Legislature added the phrase "at any time during the turning movement" to this section, the court in In re Kirk (1962) 202 Cal.App.2d 288, 291 [20 Cal.Rptr. 787], reasoned that "if the oncoming vehicle in the lane closest to the left turning vehicle surrenders its right of way by indicating to the operator of the left turning vehicle that it desires him to proceed, such operator may not proceed beyond that first lane of traffic, now effectively blocked by the waiving vehicle, if in fact other vehicles approaching in any of the other oncoming lanes will constitute a hazard to the left turning vehicle during the turning movement."

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11~~10~~th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~879~~1010, ~~880~~1011

California Tort Guide (Cont.Ed.Bar 3d ed.) §§ 4.10–4.11

2 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 20, Motor Vehicles, § 20.68[2][g] (Matthew Bender)

707. Speed Limit (Veh. Code, § 22352)

The speed limit where the accident occurred was [*insert number] miles per hour.

The speed limit is a factor to consider when you decide whether or not [*name of plaintiff/name of defendant] was negligent. A driver is not necessarily negligent just because ~~he or she~~the driver was driving faster than the speed limit. However, a driver may be negligent even if ~~he or she~~the driver was driving at or below the speed limit.

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Sources and Authority

- Speed Limits. Vehicle Code section 22352.
- Speeding as Negligence. Vehicle Code section 40831.
- A party is entitled to an instruction that the prima facie speed limit is a factor for the jury to consider in making its negligence determination. (Hardin v. San Jose City Lines, Inc. (1953) 41 Cal.2d 432, 439 [260 P.2d 63].)
- "The mere driving of an automobile in excess of the speed limit does not show negligence as a matter of law. The jury was free to find [defendant] not guilty of negligence even if they found that he was exceeding the speed limit." (Williams v. Cole (1960) 181 Cal.App.2d 70, 74 [5 Cal.Rptr. 24], internal citations omitted.)
- The burden of proving negligence in a civil action is on the party charging negligence, and even if such party has established speed in excess of the applicable prima facie limit the party must establish negligence under the circumstances. (Faselli v. Southern Pacific Co. (1957) 150 Cal.App.2d 644, 648 [310 P.2d 698].)
- "Even though the Texaco truck was traveling at a speed less than the maximum specified in the Vehicle Code, the reasonableness of its speed was a question of fact under all the circumstances, and circumstances may make travel at a speed less than the maximum rate a negligent operation of a motor vehicle." (Scott v. Texaco, Inc. (1966) 239 Cal.App.2d 431, 436–437 [48 Cal.Rptr. 785], internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th~~10th~~ ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, § ~~878~~1009

California Tort Guide (Cont.Ed.Bar 3d ed.) § 4.18

2 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 20, Motor Vehicles, § 20.63[2][c], [4] (Matthew Bender)

8 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 82, Automobiles: Causes of Action, § 82.10 (Matthew Bender)

709. Driving Under the Influence (Veh. Code, §§ 23152, 23153)

The statute just read to you uses the term "under the influence." A driver is not necessarily "under the influence" just because ~~he or she~~the driver has consumed some alcohol [or drugs]. A driver is "under the influence" when ~~he or she~~the driver has consumed an amount of alcohol [or drugs] that impairs ~~his or her~~the driver's ability to drive in a reasonably careful manner.

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction is designed to supplement a negligence per se instruction on driving under the influence.

The presumption of intoxication based on a 0.08 blood level applies to criminal prosecutions only. There is no statutory or case authority supporting the conclusion that the presumption applies in civil cases. (Hyatt v. Sierra Boat Co. (1978) 79 Cal.App.3d 325, 334 [145 Cal.Rptr. 47].)

For a definition of "drug," see Vehicle Code section 312: "The term 'drug' means any substance or combination of substances, other than alcohol, which could so affect the nervous system, brain, or muscles of a person as to impair, to an appreciable degree, his ability to drive a vehicle in the manner that an ordinarily prudent and cautious man, in full possession of his faculties, using reasonable care, would drive a similar vehicle under like conditions."

Sources and Authority

- Driving Under the Influence of Alcohol or Drugs. Vehicle Code sections 23152(a), 23153(a).

- "All of the decided cases on the subject recognize that it is negligence as a matter of law to drive a vehicle upon a public highway while in an intoxicated condition." (Zamucen v. Crocker (1957) 149 Cal.App.2d 312, 316 [308 P.2d 384], internal citations omitted.)

- The term "under the influence" was first defined in People v. Dingle (1922) 56 Cal.App. 445, 449 [205 P. 705], as follows: "[I]f intoxicating liquor has so far affected the nervous system, brain, or muscles of the driver of an automobile as to impair, to an appreciable degree, his ability to operate his car in the manner that an ordinarily prudent and cautious man, in the full possession of his faculties, using reasonable care, would operate or drive a similar vehicle under like conditions, then such driver is 'under the influence of intoxicating liquor' within the meaning of the statute."

- "One is not necessarily under the influence of intoxicating liquor as the result of taking one or more drinks. The circumstances and effect must be considered; whether or not a person was under the influence of intoxicating liquor at a certain time is a question of fact for the jury to decide." (Pittman v. Boiven (1967) 249 Cal.App.2d 207, 217 [57 Cal.Rptr. 319].)

- Driving while "under the influence" under Vehicle Code sections 23152 and 23153 is not the same as "being under the influence" of a controlled substance under Health and Safety Code section 11550. Under the Vehicle Code provisions, "the defendant's ability to drive must actually be impaired," while the Health and Safety Code provision is violated as soon as the influence is present "in any detectable manner." (People v. Enriquez (1996) 42 Cal.App.4th 661, 665 [49 Cal.Rptr.2d 710].)

- Courts have also distinguished the "under the influence" standard from the "obvious intoxication" standard used in Business and Professions Code section 25602.1. (Jones v. Toyota Motor Co. (1988) 198 Cal.App.3d 364, 368 [243 Cal.Rptr. 611]: " 'Under the influence' is defined by a person's capability to drive safely, whereas 'obvious intoxication' is defined by a person's appearance.")

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~883~~1014, ~~884~~1015, ~~886~~1017

California Tort Guide (Cont.Ed.Bar 3d ed.) § 4.25

2 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 20, Motor Vehicles, § 20.02[3][b] (Matthew Bender)

2 California Civil Practice: Torts § 25:28 (Thomson Reuters)

710. Duties of Care for Pedestrians and Drivers in Crosswalk (Veh. Code, § 21950)

A driver of a vehicle must yield the right-of-way to a pedestrian who is crossing the roadway within any marked crosswalk or within any unmarked crosswalk at an intersection. When approaching a pedestrian who is within any marked or unmarked crosswalk, a driver must use reasonable care and must reduce ~~his or her~~the vehicle's speed or take any other action necessary to ensure the safety of the pedestrian.

~~A p~~Pedestrians must also use reasonable care for ~~his or her~~ their own safety. ~~A p~~Pedestrians may not suddenly leave a curb or other place of safety and walk or run into the path of a vehicle that is so close as to constitute an immediate hazard. ~~A p~~Pedestrians also must not unnecessarily stop or delay traffic while in a marked or unmarked crosswalk.

The failure of a pedestrian to exercise reasonable care does not relieve a driver of a vehicle from the duty of exercising reasonable care for the safety of any pedestrian within any marked crosswalk or within any unmarked crosswalk at an intersection.

New September 2003; Revised December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction sets forth the respective duties of drivers and pedestrians in a crosswalk. (See Veh. Code, § 21950.) Crosswalk accidents often present a comparative negligence analysis based on the statutory duties of both parties.

Sources and Authority

- Right-of-Way at Crosswalks. Vehicle Code section 21950.
- Vehicles Stopped for Pedestrians at Crosswalks. Vehicle Code section 21951.
- "Driving a motor vehicle may be sufficiently dangerous to warrant special instructions, but it is not so hazardous that it always requires 'extreme caution.' " (Menchaca v. Helms Bakeries, Inc. (1968) 68 Cal.2d 535, 544 [67 Cal.Rptr. 775, 439 P.2d 903], internal citations omitted.)
- "When the pedestrian suddenly leaves his place of safety, the vehicle must be so close as to constitute an immediate hazard. Such wording [in Veh. Code, § 21950] indicates the statute was intended to apply to those situations where a pedestrian unexpectedly asserts his right-of-way in an intersection at a time when the vehicle is so close that it is virtually impossible to avoid an accident. Typical situations include when a pedestrian steps, jumps, walks or runs directly in front of a vehicle travelling in lanes which are adjacent to the curb or other place of safety occupied by the pedestrian. Under such circumstances, the vehicle would most certainly constitute an immediate hazard to the pedestrian." (Spann v. Ballesty (1969) 276 Cal.App.2d 754, 761 [81 Cal.Rptr. 229], original italics.)

- "It is undisputed that defendant did not yield the right of way to plaintiff. Such failure constitutes a violation of the statute and negligence as a matter of law in the absence of reasonable explanation for defendant's conduct." (Schmitt v. Henderson (1969) 1 Cal.3d 460, 463 [82 Cal.Rptr 502, 462 P.2d 30].)

- "When, as here, each motorist has acted reasonably and the pedestrian has failed to exercise due care for her own safety, the law of this state does not permit the technical violation of the pedestrian's right of way statute to impose negligence on the motorists as a matter of law. The statute creates a preferential, but not absolute, right in favor of the pedestrian who is still under a duty to exercise ordinary care." (Byrne v. City and County of San Francisco (1980) 113 Cal.App.3d 731, 742 [170 Cal.Rptr. 302], internal citation omitted.)

- "While it is the duty of both the driver of a motor vehicle and a pedestrian, using a public roadway, to exercise ordinary care, that duty does not require necessarily the same amount of caution from each. The driver of a motor vehicle, when ordinarily careful, will be alertly conscious of the fact that he is in charge of a machine capable of projecting into serious consequences any negligence of his own. Thus his caution must be adequate to that responsibility as related to all the surrounding circumstances. A pedestrian, on the other hand, has only his own physical body to manage and with which to set in motion a cause of injury. While, usually, that fact limits his capacity to cause injury, as compared with a vehicle driver, still, in exercising ordinary care, he, too, will be alertly conscious of the mechanical power acting, or that may act, on the public roadway, and of the possible, serious consequences from any conflict between himself and such forces. And the caution required of him is measured by the possibilities of injury apparent to him in the conditions at hand, or that would be apparent to a person of ordinary prudence in the same position." (Cucinella v. Weston Biscuit Co. (1954) 42 Cal.2d 71, 75−76, 81 [265 P.2d 513] [proposed jury instruction correctly stated the law].)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~881~~1012, ~~882~~1013, ~~885~~1016

California Tort Guide (Cont.Ed.Bar 3d ed.) §§ 4.72-4.73

2 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 20, Motor Vehicles, §§ 20.10-20.12 (Matthew Bender)

8 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 82, Automobiles: Causes of Action, § 82.10 (Matthew Bender)

711. The Passenger's Duty of Care for Own Safety

A passenger is not required to be aware of the conditions on the highway and is entitled to expect that a driver will use reasonable care. However, if a passenger becomes aware of [a danger on the highway] [the driver's impairment or failure to use reasonable care], then the passenger must take reasonable steps to protect ~~his or her~~the passenger's own safety.

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Sources and Authority

- " 'In the absence of some fact brought to his attention which would cause a person of ordinary prudence to act otherwise, a passenger in an automobile has no duty to observe traffic conditions on the highway, and his mere failure to do so, without more, will not support a finding of contributory negligence. In other words, an automobile passenger's "duty to look" does not arise until some factor of danger comes to his attention, thus charging him as a person of ordinary prudence to take steps for his own safety. …' " (Casey v. Russell (1982) 138 Cal.App.3d 379, 386–387 [188 Cal.Rptr. 18], internal citations omitted.)

- "Even when negligence of a driver may not be imputed to him, the passenger is bound to exercise ordinary care for his own safety. He may not shut his eyes to an obvious danger; he may not blindly rely on the driver in approaching a place of danger. He is normally bound to protest against actual negligence or recklessness of the driver, the extent of his duty in this regard depending upon the particular circumstances of each case and ordinarily being a question of fact for the jury." (Pobor v. Western Pacific Railroad Co. (1961) 55 Cal.2d 314, 324 [11 Cal.Rptr. 106, 359 P.2d 474], internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

California Tort Guide (Cont.Ed.Bar 3d ed.) §§ 4.67–4.71

2 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 20, Motor Vehicles, § 20.03[2][c] (Matthew Bender)

2 California Civil Practice: Torts ~~(Thomson West)~~ § 25:29 (Thomson Reuters)

806. Comparative Fault—Duty to Approach Crossing With Care

A driver approaching a railroad crossing is required to use reasonable care to discover whether a train is approaching. The amount of care that is reasonable will depend on the circumstances. A railroad track is itself a warning of danger. If the driver's view of approaching trains is blocked, ~~he or she~~the driver must use greater care than when the view is clear.

If a bell or signal has been placed to warn drivers of danger, a driver is not required to use as much care as when there are no such warnings. However, even if the warning devices are not activated, a driver must use reasonable care in looking and listening for approaching trains.

New September 2003; Revised December 2009, May 2020

Directions for Use

For an instruction regarding the prima facie speed limits set by Vehicle Code section 22352, see CACI No. 707, Speed Limit. For an instruction on the duty of care of a passenger, see CACI No. 711, The Passenger's Duty of Care for Own Safety. For instructions on negligence per se, see CACI Nos. 418 to 421.

Sources and Authority

- Vehicle Proceeding at Railroad Crossing. Vehicle Code section 22451.
- Speed Limit at Railroad Crossing. Vehicle Code section 22352(a)(1).
- "[T]hat the driver's view is somewhat obstructed does not make him contributorily negligent as a matter of law; whether his failure to stop, the place from which he looks and the character and extent of the obstruction to his view are such that a reasonably prudent person would not have so conducted himself are questions for the jury in determining whether he was guilty of contributory negligence." (Lucas v. Southern Pacific Co. (1971) 19 Cal.App.3d 124, 139 [96 Cal.Rptr. 356].)
- "A railroad track is itself a warning of danger and a driver intending to cross must avail himself of every opportunity to look and listen; if there are obstructions to the view, he is required to take greater care." (Wilkinson v. Southern Pacific Co. (1964) 224 Cal.App.2d 478, 488 [36 Cal.Rptr. 689], internal citation omitted.)
- "A railroad company will not be permitted to encourage persons to relax their vigil concerning the dangers that lurk in railroad crossings by assuring them, through the erection of safety devices, that the danger has been removed or minimized, and, at the same time, to hold them to the same degree of care as would be required if those devices had not been provided." (Will v. Southern Pacific Co. (1941) 18 Cal.2d 468, 474 [116 P.2d 44], internal citation omitted.)
- "[A] driver may not cross tracks in reliance upon the safety appliances installed by the railroad with complete disregard for his own safety and recover damages for injuries sustained by reason of his own failure to use reasonable care." (Will, supra, 18 Cal.2d at p. 475.)

- "Violation of the railroad's statutory duty to sound bell and whistle at a highway crossing does not absolve a driver from his failure to look and listen and, if necessitated by circumstances such as obstructed vision, even to stop." (Wilkinson, supra, 224 Cal.App.2d at p. 489.)

- "It is settled that a railroad may not encourage persons traveling on highways to rely on safety devices and then hold them to the same degree of care as if the devices were not present." (Startup v. Pacific Electric Ry. Co. (1947) 29 Cal.2d 866, 871 [180 P.2d 896].)

- "When a flagman or mechanical warning device has been provided at a railroad crossing, the driver of an automobile is thereby encouraged to relax his vigilance, and, in using other means to discover whether there is danger of approaching trains, he is not required to exercise the same quantum of care as would otherwise be necessary." (Spendlove v. Pacific Electric Ry. Co. (1947) 30 Cal.2d 632, 634 [184 P.2d 873], internal citations omitted.)

- ~~An instruction that a driver must stop, look, and listen when his or her view is obstructed was held prejudicially erroneous in~~"When the case before us was tried January 30, 1958, the stop, look and listen instruction was included in BAJI as instruction Number 203-B. Since the trial, the editors of BAJI have concluded that the instruction does not conform to the standards of negligence which prevail in California." (Anello v. Southern Pacific Co. (1959) 174 Cal.App.2d 317, 322 [344 P.2d 843].)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (5th ed. 2017) Torts §§ 1039, 1239, 1240, 1479

California Tort Guide (Cont.Ed.Bar 3d ed.) Railroad Crossings, §§ 12.10-12.12

2 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 23, Carriers, § 23.27 (Matthew Bender)

42 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 485, Railroads § 485.67 (Matthew Bender)

907. Status of Passenger Disputed

A common carrier owes the highest care and vigilance to persons only while they are passengers. [Name of plaintiff] claims that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was [name of defendant]'s passenger at the time of the incident.

To establish that [name of plaintiff] was a passenger, [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] intended to become a passenger;

2. That [name of plaintiff] was accepted as a passenger by [name of defendant]; and

3. That [name of plaintiff] placed [himself/herself/nonbinary pronoun] under the control of [name of defendant]

To be a passenger, it is not necessary for the person to actually enter the carrier's vehicle [or name mode of travel, e.g., bus, train]; however, the carrier must have taken some action indicating acceptance of the person as a passenger. A person continues to be a passenger until ~~he or she~~the person safely leaves the carrier's vehicle [or equipment].

A common carrier must use the highest care and vigilance in providing its passengers with a safe place to get on and off its vehicles [or equipment].

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Sources and Authority

- The heightened degree of care for common carriers is owed only while "passengers are in transitu, and until they have safely departed the carrier's vehicle." (Marshall v. United Airlines (1973) 35 Cal.App.3d 84, 86 [110 Cal.Rptr. 416].)

- The relationship of carrier and passenger is "created when one offers to become a passenger, and is accepted as a passenger after he has placed himself under the control of the carrier." (Grier v. Ferrant (1944) 62 Cal.App.2d 306, 310 [144 P.2d 631].)

- It is not necessary that the passenger have entered the vehicle for the relationship to exist: " 'The relation is in force when one, intending in good faith to become a passenger, goes to the place designated as the site of departure at the appropriate time and the carrier takes some action indicating acceptance of the passenger as a traveler.' " (Orr v. Pacific Southwest Airlines (1989) 208 Cal.App.3d 1467, 1473 [257 Cal.Rptr. 18], internal citations omitted.)

- The carrier-passenger relationship terminates once the passenger has disembarked and entered a place of relative safety. (McGettigan v. Bay Area Rapid Transit Dist. (1997) 57 Cal.App.4th 1011, 1018 [67

Cal.Rptr.2d 516].)

- Carriers must exercise utmost care " '[u]ntil the passenger reaches a place outside the sphere of any activity of the carrier which might reasonably constitute a mobile or animated hazard to the passenger.' " (Brandelius v. City and County of San Francisco (1957) 47 Cal.2d 729, 735 [306 P.2d 432], internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~926~~1058, ~~927~~1059

2 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 23, Carriers, § 23.02[4] (Matthew Bender)

11 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 109, Carriers , § 109.36 (Matthew Bender)

2A California Points and Authorities, Ch. 33, Carriers, § 33.22 (Matthew Bender)

2 California Civil Practice: Torts ~~(Thomson West)~~ § 28:7 (Thomson Reuters)

1001. Basic Duty of Care

A person who [owns/leases/occupies/controls] property is negligent if ~~he or she~~that person fails to use reasonable care to keep the property in a reasonably safe condition. A person who [owns/leases/occupies/controls] property must use reasonable care to discover any unsafe conditions and to repair, replace, or give adequate warning of anything that could be reasonably expected to harm others.

In deciding whether [*name of defendant] used reasonable care, you may consider, among other factors, the following:

(a) The location of the property;

(b) The likelihood that someone would come on to the property in the same manner as [*name of plaintiff] did;

(c) The likelihood of harm;

(d) The probable seriousness of such harm;

(e) Whether [*name of defendant] knew or should have known of the condition that created the risk of harm;

(f) The difficulty of protecting against the risk of such harm; [and]

(g) The extent of [*name of defendant]'s control over the condition that created the risk of harm; [and]

(h) [*Other relevant factor(s).]

New September 2003; Revised June 2010, May 2020

Directions for Use

Not all of these factors will apply to every case. Select those that are appropriate to the facts of the case.

Under the doctrine of nondelegable duty, a property owner cannot escape liability for failure to maintain property in a safe condition by delegating the duty to an independent contractor. (Brown v. George Pepperdine Foundation (1943) 23 Cal.2d 256, 260 [143 P.2d 929].) For an instruction for use with regard to a landowner's liability for the acts of an independent contractor, see CACI No. 3713, Nondelegable Duty.

Sources and Authority

- "Broadly speaking, premises liability alleges a defendant property owner allowed a dangerous condition on its property or failed to take reasonable steps to secure its property against criminal acts by third parties." (Delgado v. American Multi-Cinema, Inc. (1999) 72 Cal.App.4th 1403, 1406, fn. 1 [85 Cal.Rptr.2d 838], internal citation omitted.)

- "It is now well established that California law requires landowners to maintain land in their possession and control in a reasonably safe condition." (Ann M. v. Pacific Plaza Shopping Center (1993) 6 Cal.4th 666, 674 [25 Cal.Rptr.2d 137, 863 P.2d 207], internal citations omitted.)

- "To comply with this duty, a person who controls property must ' " ' "inspect [the premises] or take other proper means to ascertain their condition" ' " ' and, if a dangerous condition exists that would have been discovered by the exercise of reasonable care, has a duty to give adequate warning of or remedy it." (Staats v. Vintner's Golf Club, LLC (2018) 25 Cal.App.5th 826, 833 [236 Cal.Rptr.3d 236].)

- "[T]he measures an operator must take to comply with the duty to keep the premises in a reasonably safe condition depend on the circumstances, and the issue is a question for the jury unless the facts of the case are not reasonably in dispute." (Staats, supra, 25 Cal.App.5th at p. 840.)

- "An owner of real property is 'not the insurer of [a] visitor's personal safety … .' However, an owner is responsible ' "for an injury occasioned to another by [the owner's] want of ordinary care or skill in the management of his or her property . …" ' Accordingly, landowners are required 'to maintain land in their possession and control in a reasonably safe condition', and to use due care to eliminate dangerous conditions on their property." (Taylor v. Trimble (2017) 13 Cal.App.5th 934, 943–944 [220 Cal.Rptr.3d 741], internal citations omitted.)

- "[T]he issue concerning a landlord's duty is not the existence of the duty, but rather the scope of the duty under the particular facts of the case. Reference to the scope of the landlord's duty 'is intended to describe the specific steps a landlord must take in a given specific circumstance to maintain the property's safety to protect a tenant from a specific class of risk.' " (Lawrence v. La Jolla Beach & Tennis Club, Inc. (2014) 231 Cal.App.4th 11, 23 [179 Cal.Rptr.3d 758], original italics, internal citation omitted.)

- "The proper test to be applied to the liability of the possessor of land ... is whether in the management of his property he has acted as a reasonable man in view of the probability of injury to others ... ." (Rowland v. Christian (1968) 69 Cal.2d 108, 119 [70 Cal.Rptr. 97, 443 P.2d 561].)

- "It is well settled that a property owner is not liable for damages caused by a minor, trivial, or insignificant defect in his property. This principle is sometimes referred to as the 'trivial defect defense,' although it is not an affirmative defense but rather an aspect of duty that a plaintiff must plead and prove. … Moreover, what constitutes a minor defect may be a question of law." (Cadam v. Somerset Gardens Townhouse HOA (2011) 200 Cal.App.4th 383, 388–389 [132 Cal.Rptr.3d 617], internal citations omitted.)

- In this state, duties are no longer imposed on an occupier of land solely on the basis of rigid classifications of trespasser, licensee, and invitee. The purpose of plaintiff's presence on the land is not determinative. We have recognized, however, that this purpose may have some bearing upon the liability issue. This purpose therefore must be considered along with other factors weighing for and against the imposition of a duty on the landowner." (Ann M., supra, 6 Cal.4th at pp. 674–675, internal citations omitted.)

- "As stated in Beauchamp v. Los Gatos Golf Course (1969) 273 Cal.App.2d 20, 25 [77 Cal.Rptr. 914], '[t]he term "invitee" has not been abandoned, nor have "trespasser" and "licensee." In the minds of the jury, whether a possessor of the premises has acted as a reasonable man toward a plaintiff, in view of the probability of injury to him, will tend to involve the circumstances under which he came upon defendant's land; and the probability of exposure of plaintiff and others of his class to the risk of injury; as well as whether the condition itself presented an unreasonable risk of harm, in view of the foreseeable use of the property.' Thus, the court concluded, and we agree, Rowland 'does not generally abrogate the decisions declaring the substantive duties of the possessor of land to invitees nor those establishing the correlative rights and duties of invitees.' (Id., at p. 27.)" (Williams v. Carl Karcher Enterprises, Inc. (1986) 182 Cal.App.3d 479, 486–487 [227 Cal.Rptr. 465], overruled on other grounds in Soule v. GM Corp. (1994) 8 Cal.4th 548 [34 Cal.Rptr.2d 607, 882 P.2d 298].)

- "The distinction between artificial and natural conditions [has been] rejected." (Sprecher v. Adamson Companies (1981) 30 Cal.3d 358, 371 [178 Cal.Rptr. 783, 636 P.2d 1121].)

- "It must also be emphasized that the liability imposed is for negligence. The question is whether in the management of his property, the possessor of land has acted as a reasonable person under all the circumstances. The likelihood of injury to plaintiff, the probable seriousness of such injury, the burden of reducing or avoiding the risk, the location of the land, and the possessor's degree of control over the risk-creating condition are among the factors to be considered by the trier of fact in evaluating the reasonableness of a defendant's conduct." (Sprecher, supra, 30 Cal.3d at p. 372.)

- "[A] landowner's duty of care to avoid exposing others to a risk of injury is not limited to injuries that occur on premises owned or controlled by the landowner. Rather, the duty of care encompasses a duty to avoid exposing persons to risks of injury that occur off site if the landowner's property is maintained in such a manner as to expose persons to an unreasonable risk of injury offsite. (Annocki v. Peterson Enterprises, LLC (2014) 232 Cal.App.4th 32, 38 [180 Cal.Rptr.3d 474].)

- "The duty which a possessor of land owes to others to put and maintain it in reasonably safe condition is nondelegable. If an independent contractor, no matter how carefully selected, is employed to perform it, the possessor is answerable for harm caused by the negligent failure of his contractor to put or maintain the buildings and structures in reasonably safe condition, irrespective of whether the contractor's negligence lies in his incompetence, carelessness, inattention or delay." (Brown, supra, 23 Cal.2d at p. 260.)

- "[A] defendant property owner's compliance with a law or safety regulation, in and of itself, does not establish that the owner has utilized due care. The owner's compliance with applicable safety regulations, while relevant to show due care, is not dispositive, if there are other circumstances requiring a higher degree of care." (Lawrence, supra, 231 Cal.App.4th at p. 31.)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Torts, § 1228

Friedman et al., California Practice Guide: Landlord-Tenant, Ch. 6-A, Liability For Defective Conditions On Premises, ¶ 6:1 et seq. (The Rutter Group)

Friedman et al., California Practice Guide: Landlord-Tenant, Ch. 6-B, Landlord Liability For Injuries From Acts Of Others, ¶ 6:48 et seq. (The Rutter Group)

1 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 15, General Premises Liability, § 15.01 (Matthew Bender)

6 California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 170, The Premises: Duties and Liabilities, §§ 170.01, 170.03, 170.20 (Matthew Bender)

11 California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 381, Tort Liability of Property Owners, § 381.01 (Matthew Bender)

29 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 334, Landlord and Tenant: Claims for Damages, §§ 334.10, 334.50 (Matthew Bender)

36 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 421, Premises Liability, § 421.11 (Matthew Bender)

17 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 178, Premises Liability, § 178.20 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

1 California Civil Practice: Torts § 16:3 (Thomson Reuters)

1002. Extent of Control Over Premises Area

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] controlled the property involved in [name of plaintiff]'s harm, even though [name of defendant] did not own or lease it. A person controls property that ~~he or she~~the person does not own or lease when ~~he or she~~ the person uses the property as if it were ~~his or her~~the person's own. A person is responsible for maintaining, in reasonably safe condition, all areas ~~he or she~~ that person controls.

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

Use this instruction only for property that is not actually owned or leased by the defendant.

Sources and Authority

- "[A] defendant's duty to maintain land in a reasonably safe condition extends to land over which the defendant exercises control, regardless of who owns the land. 'As long as the defendant exercised control over the land, the location of the property line would not affect the defendant's potential liability.' " (University of Southern California v. Superior Court (2018) 30 Cal.App.5th 429, 445 [241 Cal.Rptr.3d 616], internal citation omitted.)

- "[I]t is clear from [Alcaraz v. Vece (1997) 14 Cal.4th 1149, 1167 [60 Cal.Rptr.2d 448, 929 P.2d 1239]] that simple maintenance of an adjoining strip of land owned by another does not constitute an exercise of control over that property. Although evidence of maintenance is considered 'relevant on the issue of control,' the court limited its holding by stating that 'the simple act of mowing a lawn on adjacent property (or otherwise performing minimal, neighborly maintenance of property owned by another) generally will [not], standing alone, constitute an exercise of control over [the] property ... .' " (Contreras v. Anderson (1997) 59 Cal.App.4th 188, 198–199 [69 Cal.Rptr.2d 69].)

- "In Alcaraz ... , our Supreme Court held that a landowner who exercises control over an adjoining strip of land has a duty to protect or warn others entering the adjacent land of a known hazard there. This duty arises even if the person does not own or exercise control over the hazard and even if the person does not own the abutting property on which the hazard is located. … [¶] The Alcaraz court concluded that such evidence was 'sufficient to raise a triable issue of fact as to whether defendants exercised control over the strip of land containing the meter box and thus owed a duty of care to protect or warn plaintiff of the allegedly dangerous condition of the property.' " (Contreras, supra, 59 Cal.App.4th at pp.197–198, footnote and internal citations omitted.)

- " ' "The crucial element is control." [Citation.]' '[W]e have placed major importance on the existence of possession and control as a basis for tortious liability for conditions on the land.' " (Salinas v. Martin (2008) 166 Cal.App.4th 404, 414 [82 Cal.Rptr.3d 735], original italics, internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Torts, §§ 1225, 1226

1 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 15, General Premises Liability, §§ 15.02–15.03 (Matthew Bender)

11 California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 381, Tort Liability of Property Owners, §§ 381.03–381.04 (Matthew Bender)

29 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 334, Landlord and Tenant: Claims for Damages, § 334.52 (Matthew Bender)

36 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 421, Premises Liability, § 421.15 (Matthew Bender)

17 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 178, Premises Liability, § 178.60 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

1 California Civil Practice: Torts § 16:2 (Thomson Reuters)

VF-1101. Dangerous Condition of Public Property—Affirmative Defense—Reasonable Act or Omission (Gov. Code, § 835.4)

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Did [name of defendant] own [or control] the property?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Was the property in a dangerous condition at the time of the incident?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 2 is yes, then answer question 3. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

3. Did the dangerous condition create a reasonably foreseeable risk that this kind of incident would occur?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 3 is yes, then answer question 4. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

4. [Did negligent or wrongful conduct of [name of defendant]'s employee acting within the scope of ~~his or her~~the employee's employment create the dangerous condition?]
____ Yes ____ No

[or]

[Did [name of defendant] have notice of the dangerous condition for a long enough time to have protected against it?]
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to [either option for] question 4 is yes, then answer question 5. If you answered no [to both options], stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

5. Was the dangerous condition a substantial factor in causing harm to [name of plaintiff]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 5 is yes, then answer question 6. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

6. [Answer if you answered yes to the first option for question 4: When you consider the likelihood and seriousness of potential injury, compared with the practicality and cost of either (a) taking alternative action that would not have created the risk of injury, or (b) protecting against the risk of injury, was [*name of defendant]'s [act/specify failure to act] that created the dangerous condition reasonable under the circumstances?]

____ Yes ____ No

[or]

[Answer if you answered yes to the second option for question 4: When you consider the likelihood and seriousness of potential injury, compared with (a) how much time and opportunity [*name of defendant] had to take action, and (b) the practicality and cost of protecting against the risk of injury, was [name of defendant]'s failure to take sufficient steps to protect against the risk of injury created by the dangerous condition reasonable under the circumstances?]

____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to [either option for] question 6 is no, then answer question 7. If you answered yes [to both options], stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

7. What are [*name of plaintiff]'s damages?

[a. Past economic loss

[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other past economic loss $ _____]

Total Past Economic Damages: $ _____]

[b. Future economic loss

[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other future economic loss $ _____]

Total Future Economic Damages: $ _____]

[c. Past noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]

$ _____]

[d. Future noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]

$ _____]

TOTAL $ _____

Signed: _____
Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

After [this verdict form has/all verdict forms have] been signed, notify the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant] that you are ready to present your verdict in the courtroom.

New September 2003; Revised April 2007, April 2008, October 2008, June 2010, December 2010, December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 1100, Dangerous Condition on Public Property—Essential Factual Elements, CACI No. 1111, Affirmative Defense—Condition Created by Reasonable Act or Omission, and CACI No. 1112, Affirmative Defense—Reasonable Act or Omission to Correct.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

For questions 4 and 6, choose the first bracketed options if liability is alleged because of an employee's negligent conduct under Government Code section 835(a). Use the second bracketed options if liability is alleged for failure to act after actual or constructive notice under Government Code section 835(b). Both options may be given if the plaintiff is proceeding under both theories of liability.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 7. The breakdown is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

1201. Strict Liability—Manufacturing Defect—Essential Factual Elements

[Name of plaintiff] claims that the [product] contained a manufacturing defect. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] [manufactured/distributed/sold] the [product];
2. That the [product] contained a manufacturing defect when it left [name of defendant]'s possession;
3. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and
4. That the [product]'s defect was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

New September 2003; Revised April 2009, December 2009, June 2011, May 2020

Directions for Use

To make a prima facie case, the plaintiff has the initial burden of producing evidence that ~~he or she~~the plaintiff was injured while the product was being used in an intended or reasonably foreseeable manner. If this prima facie burden is met, the burden of proof shifts to the defendant to prove that the plaintiff's injury resulted from a misuse of the product. (See Perez v. VAS S.p.A. (2010) 188 Cal.App.4th 658, 678 [115 Cal.Rptr.3d 590] [risk-benefit design defect case]; Cronin v. J.B.E. Olson Corp. (1972) 8 Cal.3d 121, 125–126 [104 Cal.Rptr. 433, 501 P.2d 1153] [product misuse asserted as a defense to manufacturing defect]; see also CACI No. 1245, Affirmative Defense—Product Misuse or Modification.) Product misuse is a complete defense to strict products liability if the defendant proves that an unforeseeable abuse or alteration of the product after it left the manufacturer's hands was the sole cause of the plaintiff's injury. (Campbell v. Southern Pacific Co. (1978) 22 Cal.3d 51, 56 [148 Cal.Rptr. 596, 583 P.2d 121]; see CACI No. 1245.) Misuse or modification that was a substantial factor in, but not the sole cause of, plaintiff's harm may also be considered in determining the comparative fault of the plaintiff or of third persons. See CACI No. 1207A, Strict Liability—Comparative Fault of Plaintiff, and CACI No. 1207B, Strict Liability—Comparative Fault of Third Person.

Sources and Authority

- "[T]he term defect as utilized in the strict liability context is neither self-defining nor susceptible to a single definition applicable in all contexts." (Johnson v. United States Steel Corp. (2015) 240 Cal.App.4th 22, 31 [192 Cal.Rptr.2d 158].)
- "A manufacturing defect occurs when an item is manufactured in a substandard condition." (Gonzalez v. Autoliv ASP, Inc. (2007) 154 Cal.App.4th 780, 792 [64 Cal.Rptr.3d 908].)

- "A product has a manufacturing defect if it differs from the manufacturer's intended result or from other ostensibly identical units of the same product line. In other words, a product has a manufacturing defect if the product as manufactured does not conform to the manufacturer's design." (Garrett v. Howmedica Osteonics Corp. (2013) 214 Cal.App.4th 173, 190 [153 Cal.Rptr.3d 693].)

- " 'Regardless of the theory which liability is predicated upon ... it is obvious that to hold a producer, manufacturer, or seller liable for injury caused by a particular product, there must first be proof that the defendant produced, manufactured, sold, or was in some way responsible for the product ... .' " (Garcia v. Joseph Vince Co. (1978) 84 Cal.App.3d 868, 874 [148 Cal.Rptr. 843], internal citation omitted.)

- "[W]here a plaintiff alleges a product is defective, proof that the product has malfunctioned is essential to establish liability for an injury caused by the defect." (Khan v. Shiley Inc. (1990) 217 Cal.App.3d 848, 855 [266 Cal.Rptr. 106], original italics.)

- "We think that a requirement that a plaintiff also prove that the defect made the product 'unreasonably dangerous' places upon him a significantly increased burden and represents a step backward in the area pioneered by this court." (Cronin, supra, 8 Cal.3d at pp. 134–135.)

- "[T]he policy underlying the doctrine of strict liability compels the conclusion that recovery should not be limited to cases involving latent defects." (Luque v. McLean (1972) 8 Cal.3d 136, 145 [104 Cal.Rptr. 443, 501 P.2d 1163].)

- "A manufacturer is liable only when a defect in its product was a legal cause of injury. A tort is a legal cause of injury only when it is a substantial factor in producing the injury." (Soule v. General Motors Corp. (1994) 8 Cal.4th 548, 572 [34 Cal.Rptr.2d 607, 882 P.2d 298], internal citations omitted.)

- "[S]trict liability should not be imposed upon a manufacturer when injury results from a use of its product that is not reasonably foreseeable." (Cronin, supra, 8 Cal.3d at p. 126.)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~1428–1437~~1591

Haning et al., California Practice Guide: Personal Injury, Ch. 2(II)-D, Strict Liability For Defective Products, ¶¶ 2:1215, 2:1216 (The Rutter Group)

California Products Liability Actions, Ch. 2, Liability for Defective Products, § 2.11, Ch. 7, Proof, § 7.06 (Matthew Bender)

40 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 460, Products Liability, §§ 460.11, 460.30 (Matthew Bender)

19 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 190, Products Liability, § 190.140 (Matthew Bender)

1203. Strict Liability—Design Defect—Consumer Expectation Test—Essential Factual Elements

[Name of plaintiff] claims the [product]'s design was defective because the [product] did not perform as safely as an ordinary consumer would have expected it to perform. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] [manufactured/distributed/sold] the [product];

2. That the [product] did not perform as safely as an ordinary consumer would have expected it to perform when used or misused in an intended or reasonably foreseeable way;

3. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

4. That the [product]'s failure to perform safely was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

New September 2003; Revised December 2005, April 2009, December 2009, June 2011, January 2018, May 2020

Directions for Use

The consumer expectation test and the risk-benefit test for design defect are not mutually exclusive, and depending on the facts and circumstances of the case, both may be presented to the trier of fact in the same case. (Demara v. The Raymond Corp. (2017) 13 Cal.App.5th 545, 554 [221 Cal.Rptr.3d 102].) If both tests are asserted by the plaintiff, the burden-of-proof instructions must make it clear that the two tests are alternatives. (Bracisco v. Beech Aircraft Corp. (1984) 159 Cal.App.3d 1101, 1106–1107 [206 Cal.Rptr. 431].)

The court must make an initial determination as to whether the consumer expectation test applies to the product. In some cases, the court may determine that the product is one to which the test may, but not necessarily does, apply, leaving the determination to the jury. (See Saller v. Crown Cork & Seal Co., Inc. (2010) 187 Cal.App.4th 1220, 1233–1234 [115 Cal.Rptr.3d 151].) In such a case, modify the instruction to advise the jury that it must first determine whether the product is one about which an ordinary consumer can form reasonable minimum safety expectations.

To make a prima facie case, the plaintiff has the initial burden of producing evidence that ~~he or she~~the plaintiff was injured while the product was being used in an intended or reasonably foreseeable manner. If this prima facie burden is met, the burden of proof shifts to the defendant to prove that the plaintiff's injury resulted from a misuse of the product. (See Perez v. VAS S.p.A. (2010) 188 Cal.App.4th 658, 678 [115 Cal.Rptr.3d 590] [risk-benefit case]; see also CACI No. 1245, Affirmative Defense—Product Misuse or Modification.) Product misuse is a complete defense to strict products liability if the defendant proves that an unforeseeable abuse or alteration of the product after it left the manufacturer's hands was the sole cause of the plaintiff's injury. (Campbell v. Southern Pacific Co. (1978) 22 Cal.3d 51, 56 [148 Cal.Rptr.

596, 583 P.2d 121]; see CACI No. 1245.) Misuse or modification that was a substantial factor in, but not the sole cause of, plaintiff's harm may also be considered in determining the comparative fault of the plaintiff or of third persons. See CACI No. 1207A, Strict Liability—Comparative Fault of Plaintiff, and CACI No. 1207B, Strict Liability—Comparative Fault of Third Person.

Sources and Authority

- "A manufacturer, distributor, or retailer is liable in tort if a defect in the manufacture or design of its product causes injury while the product is being used in a reasonably foreseeable way." (Soule v. General Motors Corp. (1994) 8 Cal.4th 548, 560 [34 Cal.Rptr.2d 607, 882 P.2d 298].)

- "[T]he term defect as utilized in the strict liability context is neither self-defining nor susceptible to a single definition applicable in all contexts." (Johnson v. United States Steel Corp. (2015) 240 Cal.App.4th 22, 31 [192 Cal.Rptr.2d 158].)

- "[A] product is defective in design either (1) if the product has failed to perform as safely as an ordinary consumer would expect when used in an intended or reasonably foreseeable manner, or (2) if, in light of the relevant factors … , the benefits of the challenged design do not outweigh the risk of danger inherent in such design." (Barker v. Lull Engineering Co. (1978) 20 Cal.3d 413, 418 [143 Cal.Rptr. 225, 573 P.2d 443].)

- "The [consumer-expectation and risk-benefit] tests provide alternative means for a plaintiff to prove design defect and do not serve as defenses to one another. A product may be defective under the consumer expectation test even if the benefits of the design outweigh the risks. [Citation.] On the other hand, a product may be defective if it satisfies consumer expectations but contains an excessively preventable danger in that the risks of the design outweigh its benefits." (Chavez v. Glock, Inc. (2012) 207 Cal.App.4th 1283, 1303 [144 Cal.Rptr.3d 326].)

- "In order to establish a design defect under the consumer expectation test when a ' " 'product is one within the common experience of ordinary consumers,' " ' the plaintiff must ' " 'provide[] evidence concerning (1) his or her use of the product; (2) the circumstances surrounding the injury; and (3) the objective features of the product which are relevant to an evaluation of its safety.' [Citation.] The test is that of a hypothetical reasonable consumer, not the expectation of the particular plaintiff in the case." ' " (Trejo v. Johnson & Johnson (2017) 13 Cal.App.5th 110, 157 [220 Cal.Rptr.3d 127].)

- "The rationale of the consumer expectations test is that '[t]he purposes, behaviors, and dangers of certain products are commonly understood by those who ordinarily use them.' Therefore, in some cases, ordinary knowledge of the product's characteristics may permit an inference that the product did not perform as safely as it should. 'If the facts permit such a conclusion, and if the failure resulted from the product's design, a finding of defect is warranted without any further proof,' and the manufacturer may not defend by presenting expert evidence of a risk/benefit analysis. … Nonetheless, the inherent complexity of the product itself is not controlling on the issue of whether the consumer expectations test applies; a complex product 'may perform so unsafely that the defect is apparent to the common reason, experience, and understanding of its ordinary consumers.' " (Saller, supra, 187 Cal.App.4th at p. 1232, original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- "The critical question, in assessing the applicability of the consumer expectation test, is not whether the product, when considered in isolation, is beyond the ordinary knowledge of the consumer, but whether the product, in the context of the facts and circumstances of its failure, is one about which the ordinary consumers can form minimum safety expectations." (Pannu v. Land Rover North America, Inc. (2011) 191 Cal.App.4th 1298, 1311–1312 [120 Cal.Rptr.3d 605].)

- "Whether the jury should be instructed on either the consumer expectations test or the risk/benefit test depends upon the particular facts of the case. In a jury case, the trial court must initially determine as a question of foundation, within the context of the facts and circumstances of the particular case, whether the product is one about which the ordinary consumer can form reasonable minimum safety expectations. 'If the court concludes it is not, no consumer expectation instruction should be given. … If, on the other hand, the trial court finds there is sufficient evidence to support a finding that the ordinary consumer can form reasonable minimum safety expectations, the court should instruct the jury, consistent with Evidence Code section 403, subdivision (c), to determine whether the consumer expectation test applies to the product at issue in the circumstances of the case [or] to disregard the evidence about consumer expectations unless the jury finds that the test is applicable. If it finds the test applicable, the jury then must decide whether the product failed to perform as safely as an ordinary consumer would expect when the product is used in an intended or reasonably foreseeable manner.' " (Saller, supra, 187 Cal.App.4th at pp. 1233–1234, internal citations omitted.)

- "[The] dual standard for design defect assures an injured plaintiff protection from products that either fall below ordinary consumer expectations as to safety or that, on balance, are not as safely designed as they should be." (Barker, supra, 20 Cal.3d at p. 418.)

- "The consumer expectation test "acknowledges the relationship between strict tort liability for a defective product and the common law doctrine of warranty, which holds that a product's presence on the market includes an implied representation 'that it [will] safely do the jobs for which it was built.' " (Soule, supra, 8 Cal.4th at p. 562, internal citations omitted.)

- "[T]he jury may not be left free to find a violation of ordinary consumer expectations whenever it chooses. Unless the facts actually permit an inference that the product's performance did not meet the minimum safety expectations of its ordinary users, the jury must engage in the balancing of risks and benefits required by the second prong of Barker. Accordingly, as Barker indicated, instructions are misleading and incorrect if they allow a jury to avoid this risk-benefit analysis in a case where it is required." (Soule, supra, 8 Cal.4th at p. 568.)

- "[T]he consumer expectation test does not apply merely because the consumer states that he or she did not expect to be injured by the product." (Trejo, supra, 13 Cal.App.5th at p. 159.)

- "[T]he consumer expectation test is reserved for cases in which the everyday experience of the product's users permits a conclusion that the product's design violated minimum safety assumptions, and is thus defective regardless of expert opinion about the merits of the design." (Soule, supra, 8 Cal.4th at p. 567, original italics.)

- "[A] product's users include anyone whose injury was 'reasonably foreseeable.' " (Demara, supra, 13 Cal.App.5th at p. 559.)

- "If the facts permit an inference that the product at issue is one about which consumers may form minimum safety assumptions in the context of a particular accident, then it is enough for a plaintiff, proceeding under the consumer expectation test, to show the circumstances of the accident and 'the objective features of the product which are relevant to an evaluation of its safety' [citation], leaving it to the fact finder to 'employ "[its] own sense of whether the product meets ordinary expectations as to its safety under the circumstances presented by the evidence." ' [Citations.] Expert testimony as to what consumers ordinarily 'expect' is generally improper." (Chavez, supra, 207 Cal.App.4th at p. 1303.)

- "That causation for a plaintiff's injuries was proved through expert testimony does not mean that an ordinary consumer would be unable to form assumptions about the product's safety. Accordingly, the trial court properly instructed the jury on the consumer expectations test." (Romine v. Johnson Controls, Inc. (2014) 224 Cal.App.4th 990, 1004 [169 Cal.Rptr.3d 208], internal citations omitted.)

- " An exception [to the rule that expert testimony is generally improper] exists where the product is in specialized use with a limited group of consumers. In such cases, 'if the expectations of the product's limited group of ordinary consumers are beyond the lay experience common to all jurors, expert testimony on the limited subject of what the product's actual consumers do expect may be proper.' " (McCabe v. American Honda Motor Co. (2002) 100 Cal.App.4th 1111, 1120 fn. 3 [123 Cal.Rptr.2d 303], internal citations omitted.)

- "In determining whether a product's safety satisfies [the consumer expectation test], the jury considers the expectations of a hypothetical reasonable consumer, rather than those of the particular plaintiff in the case." (Campbell v. General Motors Corp. (1982) 32 Cal.3d 112, 126, fn. 6 [184 Cal.Rptr. 891, 649 P.2d 224].)

- "[E]vidence as to what the scientific community knew about the dangers … and when they knew it is not relevant to show what the ordinary consumer of [defendant]'s product reasonably expected in terms of safety at the time of [plaintiff]' s exposure. It is the knowledge and reasonable expectations of the consumer, not the scientific community, that is relevant under the consumer expectations test." (Morton v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1995) 33 Cal.App.4th 1529, 1536 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 22].)

- "Where liability depends on the proof of a design defect, no practical difference exists between negligence and strict liability; the claims merge." (Lambert v. General Motors (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 1179, 1185 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 657].)

- " '[T]he law now requires a manufacturer to foresee some degree of misuse and abuse of his product, either by the user or by third parties, and to take reasonable precautions to minimize the harm that may result from misuse and abuse. … [T]he extent to which designers and manufacturers of dangerous machinery are required to anticipate safety neglect presents an issue of fact.' " (Wright v. Stang Manufacturing Co. (1997) 54 Cal.App.4th 1218, 1235 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 422].)

- "[T]he plaintiff bears an initial burden of making 'a prima facie showing that the injury was proximately caused by the product's design.' This showing requires evidence that the plaintiff was injured while using the product in an intended or reasonably foreseeable manner and that the plaintiff's ability to avoid injury was frustrated by the absence of a safety device, or by the nature of the product's design. If this prima facie burden is met, the burden of proof shifts to the defendant to prove, in light of the relevant factors, that the product is not defective. Importantly, the plaintiff's prima facie burden of producing evidence that injury occurred while the product was being used in an intended or reasonably foreseeable manner must be distinguished from the ultimate burden of proof that rests with the defendant to establish that its product was not defective because the plaintiff's injury resulted from a misuse of the product." (Perez, supra, 188 Cal.App.4th at p. 678, original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- "The use of asbestos insulation is a product that is within the understanding of ordinary lay consumers." (Saller, supra, 187 Cal.App.4th at p. 1236.)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Torts, §§ 1615–1631

Haning et al., California Practice Guide: Personal Injury, Ch. 2(II)-D, Strict Liability For Defective Products, ¶¶ 2:1220–2:1222 (The Rutter Group)

California Products Liability Actions, Ch. 2, Liability for Defective Products, § 2.11, Ch. 7, Proof, § 7.02 (Matthew Bender)

40 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 460, Products Liability, § 460.11 (Matthew Bender)

19 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 190, Products Liability, § 190.116 (Matthew Bender)

1204. Strict Liability—Design Defect—Risk-Benefit Test—Essential Factual Elements—Shifting Burden of Proof

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that the [product]'s design caused harm to [name of plaintiff]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] [manufactured/distributed/sold] the [product];

2. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

3. That the [product]'s design was a substantial factor in causing harm to [name of plaintiff].

If [*name of plaintiff] has proved these three facts, then your decision on this claim must be for [name of plaintiff] unless [name of defendant] proves that the benefits of the [product]'s design outweigh the risks of the design. In deciding whether the benefits outweigh the risks, you should consider the following:

(a) The gravity of the potential harm resulting from the use of the [*product];

(b) The likelihood that this harm would occur;

(c) The feasibility of an alternative safer design at the time of manufacture;

(d) The cost of an alternative design; [and]

(e) The disadvantages of an alternative design; [and]

[(f) [*Other relevant factor(s)].]

New September 2003; Revised February 2007, April 2009, December 2009, December 2010, June 2011, January 2018, May 2019, May 2020

Directions for Use

The consumer expectation test and the risk-benefit test for design defect are not mutually exclusive, and depending on the facts and circumstances of the case, both may be presented to the trier of fact in the same case. (Demara v. The Raymond Corp. (2017) 13 Cal.App.5th 545, 554 [221 Cal.Rptr.3d 102].) If the plaintiff asserts both tests, the instructions must make it clear that the two tests are alternatives. (Bracisco v. Beech Aircraft Corp. (1984) 159 Cal.App.3d 1101, 1106–1107 [206 Cal.Rptr. 431].) Risk-benefit weighing is not a formal part of, nor may it serve as a defense to, the consumer expectations test. (Chavez v. Glock, Inc. (2012) 207 Cal.App.4th 1283, 1303 [144 Cal.Rptr.3d 326].)

To make a prima facie case, the plaintiff has the initial burden of producing evidence that ~~he or~~

~~she~~the plaintiff was injured while the product was being used in an intended or reasonably foreseeable manner. If this prima facie burden is met, the burden of proof shifts to the defendant to prove that the plaintiff's injury resulted from a misuse of the product. (See Perez v. VAS S.p.A. (2010) 188 Cal.App.4th 658, 678 [115 Cal.Rptr.3d 590]; see also CACI No. 1245, Affirmative Defense—Product Misuse or Modification.) Product misuse is a complete defense to strict products liability if the defendant proves that an unforeseeable abuse or alteration of the product after it left the manufacturer's hands was the sole cause of the plaintiff's injury. (Campbell v. Southern Pacific Co. (1978) 22 Cal.3d 51, 56 [148 Cal.Rptr. 596, 583 P.2d 121]; see CACI No. 1245.) Misuse or modification that was a substantial factor in, but not the sole cause of, plaintiff's harm may also be considered in determining the comparative fault of the plaintiff or of third persons. See CACI No. 1207A, Strict Liability—Comparative Fault of Plaintiff, and CACI No. 1207B, Strict Liability—Comparative Fault of Third Person.

If evidence of industry custom and practice has been admitted for a limited purpose, at the timely request of a party opposing this evidence, the jury must be given a limiting instruction on how this evidence may and may not be considered under the risk-benefit test. (See Kim v. Toyota Motor Corp. (2018) 6 Cal.5th 21, 30, 38 [237 Cal.Rptr.3d 205, 424 P.3d 290].)

Aesthetics might be an additional factor to be considered in an appropriate case in which there is evidence that appearance is important in the marketability of the product. (See Bell v. Bayerische Motoren Werke Aktiengesellschaft (2010) 181 Cal.App.4th 1108, 1131 [105 Cal.Rptr.3d 485].)

Sources and Authority

- "A manufacturer, distributor, or retailer is liable in tort if a defect in the manufacture or design of its product causes injury while the product is being used in a reasonably foreseeable way." (Soule v. General Motors Corp. (1994) 8 Cal.4th 548, 560 [34 Cal.Rptr.2d 607, 882 P.2d 298].)

- "[T]he term defect as utilized in the strict liability context is neither self-defining nor susceptible to a single definition applicable in all contexts." (Johnson v. United States Steel Corp. (2015) 240 Cal.App.4th 22, 31 [192 Cal.Rptr.3d 158].)

- "The risk-benefit test requires the plaintiff to first 'demonstrate[] that the product's design proximately caused his injury.' If the plaintiff makes this initial showing, the defendant must then 'establish, in light of the relevant factors, that, on balance, the benefits of the challenged design outweigh the risk of danger inherent in such design.' " (Kim, supra, 6 Cal.5th at p. 30, internal citation omitted.)

- "Appellants are therefore correct in asserting that it was not their burden to show that the risks involved in the loader's design—the lack of mechanical safety devices, or of a warning—outweighed the benefits of these aspects of its designs. The trial court's instruction to the jury, which quite likely would have been understood to place this burden on appellants, was therefore an error." (Lunghi v. Clark Equipment Co., Inc. (1984) 153 Cal.App.3d 485, 497–498 [200 Cal.Rptr. 387], internal citations omitted.)

- "[U]nder the risk/benefit test, the plaintiff may establish the product is defective by showing that its design proximately caused his injury and the defendant then fails to establish that on balance the benefits of the challenged design outweigh the risk of danger inherent in such design. In such case, the jury must evaluate the product's design by considering the gravity of the danger posed by the design, the likelihood such danger would occur, the feasibility of a safer alternative design, the financial cost of an improved design, and the adverse consequences to the consumer resulting from an alternative design. 'In such cases, the jury must consider the manufacturer's evidence of competing design considerations … , and the issue of design defect cannot fairly be resolved by standardless reference to the "expectations" of an "ordinary consumer." '" (Saller v. Crown Cork & Seal Co., Inc. (2010) 187 Cal.App.4th 1220, 1233 [115 Cal.Rptr.3d 151], internal citations omitted.)

- "[T]he defendant's burden is one 'affecting the burden of proof, rather than simply the burden of producing evidence.' " (Moreno v. Fey Manufacturing Corp. (1983) 149 Cal.App.3d 23, 27 [196 Cal.Rptr. 487].)

- "The [consumer-expectation and risk-benefit] tests provide alternative means for a plaintiff to prove design defect and do not serve as defenses to one another. A product may be defective under the consumer expectation test even if the benefits of the design outweigh the risks. [Citation.] On the other hand, a product may be defective if it satisfies consumer expectations but contains an excessively preventable danger in that the risks of the design outweigh its benefits." (Chavez, supra, 207 Cal.App.4th at p. 1303.)

- "Under Barker, in short, the plaintiff bears an initial burden of making 'a prima facie showing that the injury was proximately caused by the product's design.' This showing requires evidence that the plaintiff was injured while using the product in an intended or reasonably foreseeable manner and that the plaintiff's ability to avoid injury was frustrated by the absence of a safety device, or by the nature of the product's design. If this prima facie burden is met, the burden of proof shifts to the defendant to prove, in light of the relevant factors, that the product is not defective. Importantly, the plaintiff's prima facie burden of producing evidence that injury occurred while the product was being used in an intended or reasonably foreseeable manner must be distinguished from the ultimate burden of proof that rests with the defendant to establish that its product was not defective because the plaintiff's injury resulted from a misuse of the product." (Perez, supra, 188 Cal.App.4th at p. 678, original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- " '[I]n evaluating the adequacy of a product's design pursuant to [the risk-benefit] standard, a jury may consider, among other relevant factors, the gravity of the danger posed by the challenged design, the likelihood that such danger would occur, the mechanical feasibility of a safer alternative design, the financial cost of an improved design, and the adverse consequences to the product and to the consumer that would result from an alternative design.'" (Gonzalez v. Autoliv ASP, Inc. (2007) 154 Cal.App.4th 780, 786–787 [64 Cal.Rptr.3d 908], internal citations omitted.)

- "[E]xpert evidence about compliance with industry standards can be considered on the issue of defective design, in light of all other relevant circumstances, even if such compliance is not a complete defense. An action on a design defect theory can be prosecuted and defended through expert testimony that is addressed to the elements of such a claim, including risk-benefit considerations." (Howard v. Omni Hotels Management Corp. (2012) 203 Cal.App.4th 403, 426 [136 Cal.Rptr.3d 739].)

- "We stress that while industry custom and practice evidence is not categorically inadmissible, neither is it categorically admissible; its admissibility will depend on application of the ordinary rules of evidence in the circumstances of the case. … First, the party seeking admission of such evidence must establish its relevance to at least one of the elements of the risk-benefit test, either causation or the Barker factors. The evidence is relevant to the Barker inquiry if it sheds light on whether, objectively speaking, the product was designed as safely as it should have been, given 'the complexity of, and trade-offs implicit in, the design process.' Whether the evidence serves this purpose depends on whether, under the circumstances of the case, it is reasonable to conclude that other manufacturers' choices do, as the Court of Appeal put it, 'reflect legitimate, independent research and practical experience regarding the appropriate balance of product safety, cost, and functionality.' If the proponent of the evidence establishes a sufficient basis for drawing such a conclusion, the evidence is admissible, even though one side or the other may argue it is entitled to little weight because industry participants have weighed the relevant considerations incorrectly. The evidence may not, however, be introduced simply for the purpose of showing the manufacturer was acting no worse than its competitors." (Kim, supra, 6 Cal.5th at p. 37, internal citations omitted.)

- "[I]f the party opposing admission of this evidence makes a timely request, the trial court must issue a jury instruction that explains how this evidence may and may not be considered under the risk-benefit test." (Kim, supra, 6 Cal.5th at p. 38.)

- "Plaintiffs contend aesthetics is not a proper consideration in the risk-benefit analysis, and the trial court's ruling to the contrary was an '[e]rror in law.' We disagree. In our view, much of the perceived benefit of a car lies in its appearance. A car is not a strictly utilitarian product. We believe that a jury properly may consider aesthetics in balancing the benefits of a challenged design against the risk of danger inherent in the design. Although consideration of the disadvantages of an alternative design (CACI No. 1204, factor (e)) would encompass any impact on aesthetics, we conclude that there was no error in the trial court's approval of the modification listing aesthetics as a relevant factor." (Bell, supra, 181 Cal.App.4th at p. 1131, internal citations omitted.)

- "Taken together, section 2, subdivision (b), and section 5 of the Restatement indicate that a component part manufacturer may be held liable for a defect in the component. When viewed in its entirety, the Restatement does not support [defendant]'s argument that '[o]nly if the component part analysis establishes sufficient control over the design of the alleged defect should the component manufacturer be held to the standard of the risk-benefit test.' Instead, the test considering foreseeable risks of harm and alternative designs is applied to the component part manufacturer when the alleged defect is in the component." (Gonzalez, supra, 154 Cal.App.4th at pp. 789–790.)

- "Where liability depends on the proof of a design defect, no practical difference exists between negligence and strict liability; the claims merge." (Lambert v. General Motors (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 1179, 1185 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 657].)

Secondary Sources

~~9~~ 6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Torts, §§ 1615–1631

Haning et al., California Practice Guide: Personal Injury, Ch. 2(II)-D, Strict Liability For Defective Products, ¶¶ 2:1223–2:1224 (The Rutter Group)

California Products Liability Actions, Ch. 7, Proof, § 7.02 (Matthew Bender)

40 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 460, Products Liability, § 460.11 (Matthew Bender)

19 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 190, Products Liability, §§ 190.110, 190.118–190.122 (Matthew Bender)

1205. Strict Liability—Failure to Warn—Essential Factual Elements

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that the [product] lacked sufficient [instructions] [or] [warning of potential [risks/side effects/allergic reactions]]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] [manufactured/distributed/sold] the [product];

2. That the [product] had potential [risks/side effects/allergic reactions] that were [known/ [or] knowable in light of the [scientific/ [and] medical] knowledge that was generally accepted in the scientific community] at the time of [manufacture/distribution/sale];

3. That the potential [risks/side effects/allergic reactions] presented a substantial danger when the [product] is used or misused in an intended or reasonably foreseeable way;

4. That ordinary consumers would not have recognized the potential [risks/side effects/allergic reactions];

5. That [name of defendant] failed to adequately warn [or instruct] of the potential [risks/side effects/allergic reactions];

6. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

7. That the lack of sufficient [instructions] [or] [warnings] was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

[The warning must be given to the prescribing physician and must include the potential risks, side effects, or allergic reactions that may follow the foreseeable use of the product. [*Name of defendant] had a continuing duty to warn physicians as long as the product was in use.]

New September 2003; Revised April 2009, December 2009, June 2011, December 2011, May 2020

Directions for Use

With regard to element 2, it has been often stated in the case law that a manufacturer is liable for failure to warn of a risk that is "knowable in light of generally recognized and prevailing best scientific and medical knowledge available." (See, e.g., Anderson v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1991) 53 Cal.3d 987, 1002 [281 Cal.Rptr. 528, 810 P.2d 549]; Carlin v. Superior Court (1996) 13 Cal.4th 1104, 1112 [56 Cal.Rptr.2d 162, 920 P.2d 1347]; Saller v. Crown Cork & Seal Company (2010) 187 Cal.App.4th 1220, 1239 [115 Cal.Rptr.3d 151]; Rosa v. City of Seaside (N.D. Cal. 2009) 675 F.Supp.2d 1006, 1012.) The advisory committee believes that this standard is captured by the phrase "generally accepted in the scientific community." A risk may be "generally recognized" as a view (knowledge) advanced by one body of scientific thought and experiment, but it may not be the "prevailing" or "best" scientific view; that is, it may be a minority view. The committee believes that when a risk is (1) generally recognized (2) as prevailing in the relevant scientific community, and (3) represents the best scholarship available, it is sufficient to say that the risk is knowable in light of "the generally accepted" scientific knowledge.

The last bracketed paragraph should be read only in prescription product cases: In the case of prescription drugs and implants, the physician stands in the shoes of the ordinary user because it is through the physician that a patient learns of the properties and proper use of the drug or implant. Thus, the duty to warn in these cases runs to the physician, not the patient. (Bigler-Engler v. Breg, Inc. (2017) 7 Cal.App 5th 276, 319 [213 Cal.Rptr.3d 82], original italics.)

To make a prima facie case, the plaintiff has the initial burden of producing evidence that ~~he or she~~the plaintiff was injured while the product was being used in an intended or reasonably foreseeable manner. If this prima facie burden is met, the burden of proof shifts to the defendant to prove that the plaintiff's injury resulted from a misuse of the product. (See Perez v. VAS S.p.A. (2010) 188 Cal.App.4th 658, 678 [115 Cal.Rptr.3d 590] [risk-benefit design defect case].) See also CACI No. 1245, Affirmative Defense—Product Misuse or Modification. Product misuse is a complete defense to strict products liability if the defendant proves that an unforeseeable abuse or alteration of the product after it left the manufacturer's hands was the sole cause of the plaintiff's injury. (Campbell v. Southern Pacific Co. (1978) 22 Cal.3d 51, 56 [148 Cal.Rptr. 596, 583 P.2d 121]; see CACI No. 1245.) Misuse or modification that was a substantial factor in, but not the sole cause of, plaintiff's harm may also be considered in determining the comparative fault of the plaintiff or of third persons. See CACI No. 1207A, Strict Liability—Comparative Fault of Plaintiff, and CACI No. 1207B, Strict Liability—Comparative Fault of Third Person.

Sources and Authority

- "Our law recognizes that even ' "a product flawlessly designed and produced may nevertheless possess such risks to the user without a suitable warning that it becomes 'defective' simply by the absence of a warning." …' Thus, manufacturers have a duty to warn consumers about the hazards inherent in their products. The purpose of requiring adequate warnings is to inform consumers about a product's hazards and faults of which they are unaware, so that the consumer may then either refrain from using the product altogether or avoid the danger by careful use." (Taylor v. Elliott Turbomachinery Co., Inc. (2009) 171 Cal.App.4th 564, 577 [90 Cal.Rptr.3d 414], internal citations and footnote omitted.)

- "Negligence and strict products liability are separate and distinct bases for liability that do not automatically collapse into each other because the plaintiff might allege both when a product warning contributes to her injury." (Conte v. Wyeth, Inc. (2008) 168 Cal.App.4th 89, 101 [85 Cal.Rptr.3d 299].)

- "The 'known or knowable' standard arguably derives from negligence principles, and failure to warn claims are generally ' "rooted in negligence" to a greater extent than' manufacturing or design defect claims. Unlike those other defects, a ' "warning defect" relates to a failure extraneous to the product itself' and can only be assessed by examining the manufacturer's conduct. These principles notwithstanding, California law recognizes separate failure to warn claims under both strict liability and negligence theories. In general, a product seller will be strictly liable for failure to warn if a warning was feasible and the absence of a warning caused the plaintiff's injury. Reasonableness of the seller's failure to warn is immaterial in the strict liability context. Conversely, to prevail on a claim for negligent failure to warn, the plaintiff must prove that the seller's conduct fell below the standard of care. If a prudent seller would have acted reasonably in not giving a warning, the seller will not have been negligent." (Webb v. Special Electric Co., Inc. (2016) 63 Cal.4th 167, 181 [202 Cal.Rptr.3d 460, 370 P.3d 1022], original italics, footnote and internal citations omitted.)

- "It is true that the two types of failure to warn claims are not necessarily exclusive: 'No valid reason appears to require a plaintiff to elect whether to proceed on the theory of strict liability in tort or on the theory of negligence. … [¶] Nor does it appear that instructions on the two theories will be confusing to the jury. There is nothing inconsistent in instructions on the two theories and to a large extent the two theories parallel and supplement each other.' Despite the often significant overlap between the theories of negligence and strict liability based on a product defect, a plaintiff is entitled to instructions on both theories if both are supported by the evidence." (Oxford v. Foster Wheeler LLC (2009) 177 Cal.App.4th 700, 717 [99 Cal.Rptr.3d 418].)

- "The actual knowledge of the individual manufacturer, even if reasonably prudent, is not the issue. We view the standard to require that the manufacturer is held to the knowledge and skill of an expert in the field; it is obliged to keep abreast of any scientific discoveries and is presumed to know the results of all such advances." (Carlin, supra, 13 Cal.4th at p. 1113, fn. 3.)

- "[A] defendant in a strict products liability action based upon an alleged failure to warn of a risk of harm may present evidence of the state of the art, i.e., evidence that the particular risk was neither known nor knowable by the application of scientific knowledge available at the time of manufacture and/or distribution." (Anderson, supra, 53 Cal.3d at p. 1004.)

- "[T]here can be no liability for failure to warn where the instructions or warnings sufficiently alert the user to the possibility of danger." (Aguayo v. Crompton & Knowles Corp. (1986) 183 Cal.App.3d 1032, 1042 [228 Cal.Rptr. 768], internal citation omitted.)

- "A duty to warn or disclose danger arises when an article is or should be known to be dangerous for its intended use, either inherently or because of defects." (DeLeon v. Commercial Manufacturing and Supply Co. (1983) 148 Cal.App.3d 336, 343 [195 Cal.Rptr. 867], internal citation omitted.)

- " California is well settled into the majority view that knowledge, actual or constructive, is a requisite for strict liability for failure to warn ... ." (Anderson, supra, 53 Cal.3d at p. 1000.)

- "[T]he duty to warn is not conditioned upon [actual or constructive] knowledge [of a danger] where the defectiveness of a product depends on the adequacy of instructions furnished by the supplier which are essential to the assembly and use of its product." (Midgley v. S. S. Kresge Co. (1976) 55 Cal.App.3d 67, 74 [127 Cal.Rptr. 217].)

- Under Cronin, plaintiffs in cases involving manufacturing and design defects do not have to prove that a defect made a product unreasonably dangerous; however, that case "did not preclude weighing the degree of dangerousness in the failure to warn cases." (Cavers v. Cushman Motor Sales, Inc. (1979) 95 Cal.App.3d 338, 343 [157 Cal.Rptr. 142].)

- "Two types of warnings may be given. If the product's dangers may be avoided or mitigated by proper use of the product, 'the manufacturer may be required adequately to instruct the consumer as to how the product should be used.' If the risks involved in the use of the product are unavoidable, as in the case of potential side effects of prescription drugs, the supplier must give an adequate warning to enable the potential user to make an informed choice whether to use the product or abstain." (Buckner v. Milwaukee Electric Tool Corp. (2013) 222 Cal.App.4th 522, 532 [166 Cal.Rptr.3d 202], internal citation omitted.)

- "[T]he warning requirement is not limited to unreasonably or unavoidably dangerous products. Rather, directions or warnings are in order where reasonably required to prevent the use of a product from becoming unreasonably dangerous. It is the lack of such a warning which renders a product unreasonably dangerous and therefore defective." (Gonzales v. Carmenita Ford Truck Sales, Inc. (1987) 192 Cal.App.3d 1143, 1151 [238 Cal.Rptr. 18], original italics.)

- "In most cases, ... the adequacy of a warning is a question of fact for the jury." (Jackson v. Deft, Inc. (1990) 223 Cal.App.3d 1305, 1320 [273 Cal.Rptr. 214].)

- "There is no duty to warn of known risks or obvious dangers." (Chavez v. Glock, Inc. (2012) 207 Cal.App.4th 1283, 1304 [144 Cal.Rptr.3d 326].)

- "In the context of prescription drugs, a manufacturer's duty is to warn physicians about the risks known or reasonably known to the manufacturer. The manufacturer has no duty to warn of risks that are 'merely speculative or conjectural, or so remote and insignificant as to be negligible.' " (T.H. v. Novartis Pharmaceuticals Corp. (2017) 4 Cal.5th 145, 164 [226 Cal.Rptr.3d 336, 407 P.3d 18], internal citations omitted.)

- "[A] pharmaceutical manufacturer may not be required to provide warning of a risk known to the medical community." (Carlin, supra, 13 Cal.4th at p. 1116.)

- "To be liable in California, even under a strict liability theory, the plaintiff must prove that the defendant's failure to warn was a substantial factor in causing his or her injury. (CACI No. 1205.) The natural corollary to this requirement is that a defendant is not liable to a plaintiff if the injury would have occurred even if the defendant had issued adequate warnings." (Huitt v. Southern California Gas Co. (2010) 188 Cal.App.4th 1586, 1604 [116 Cal.Rptr.3d 453].)

- "When a manufacturer or distributor has no effective way to convey a product warning to the ultimate consumer, the manufacturer should be permitted to rely on downstream suppliers to provide the warning. 'Modern life would be intolerable unless one were permitted to rely to a certain extent on others doing what they normally do, particularly if it is their duty to do so.' " (Persons v. Salomon N. Am. (1990) 217 Cal.App.3d 168, 178 [265 Cal.Rptr. 773], internal citation omitted.)

- "[A] manufacturer's liability to the ultimate consumer may be extinguished by 'intervening cause' where the manufacturer either provides adequate warnings to a middleman or the middleman alters the product before passing it to the final consumer." (Garza v. Asbestos Corp., Ltd. (2008) 161 Cal.App.4th 651, 661 [74 Cal.Rptr.3d 359].)

- " 'A manufacturer's duty to warn is a continuous duty which lasts as long as the product is in use.' [¶] ... [T]he manufacturer must continue to provide physicians with warnings, at least so long as it is manufacturing and distributing the product." (Valentine v. Baxter Healthcare Corp. (1999) 68 Cal.App.4th 1467, 1482 [81 Cal.Rptr.2d 252].)

- " '[T]he law now requires a manufacturer to foresee some degree of misuse and abuse of his product, either by the user or by third parties, and to take reasonable precautions to minimize the harm that may result from misuse and abuse. … [T]he extent to which designers and manufacturers of dangerous machinery are required to anticipate safety neglect presents an issue of fact. … [A] manufacturer owes a foreseeable user of its product a duty to warn of risks of using the product.' " (Wright v. Stang Manufacturing Co. (1997) 54 Cal.App.4th 1218, 1235 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 422].)

- "California law does not impose a duty to warn about dangers arising entirely from another manufacturer's product, even if it is foreseeable that the products will be used together." (O'Neil v. Crane Co. (2012) 53 Cal.4th 335, 361 [135 Cal.Rptr.3d 288, 266 P.3d 987].)

- "The O'Neil [supra] court concluded that Tellez-Cordova [Tellez-Cordova v. Campbell-Hausfeld/Scott Fetzger Co. (2004) 129 Cal.App.4th 577] marked an exception to the general rule barring imposition of strict liability on a manufacturer for harm caused by another manufacturer's product. That exception is applicable when 'the defendant's own product contributed substantially to the harm … .' In expounding the exception, the court rejected the notion that imposition of strict liability on manufacturers is appropriate when it is merely foreseeable that their products will be used in conjunction with products made or sold by others. The O'Neil court further explained: 'Recognizing a duty to warn was appropriate in Tellez-Cordova because there the defendant's product was intended to be used with another product for the very activity that created a hazardous situation. Where the intended use of a product inevitably creates a hazardous situation, it is reasonable to expect the manufacturer to give warnings. Conversely, where the hazard arises entirely from another product, and the defendant's product does not create or contribute to that hazard, liability is not appropriate.' " (Sherman v. Hennessy Industries, Inc. (2015) 237 Cal.App.4th 1133, 1142 [188 Cal.Rptr.3d 769], original italics, internal citations omitted ; see also Hetzel v. Hennessy Industries, Inc. (2016) 247 Cal.App.4th 521, 529 [202 Cal.Rptr.3d 310] [O'Neil does not require evidence of exclusive use, but rather requires a showing of inevitable use]; Rondon v. Hennessy Industries, Inc. (2016) 247 Cal.App.4th 1367, 1379 [202 Cal.Rptr.3d 773] [same].)

- "[L]ike a manufacturer, a raw material supplier has a duty to warn about product risks that are known or knowable in light of available medical and scientific knowledge." (Webb, supra, 63 Cal.4th at p. 181.)

- "[T]he duty of a component manufacturer or supplier to warn about the hazards of its products is not unlimited. … 'Making suppliers of inherently safe raw materials and component parts pay for the mistakes of the finished product manufacturer would not only be unfair, but it also would impose and intolerable burden on the business world . . . . Suppliers of versatile materials like chains, valves, sand gravel, etc., cannot be expected to become experts in the infinite number of finished products that might conceivably incorporate their multi-use raw materials or components.' Thus, cases have subjected claims made against component suppliers to two related doctrines, the 'raw material supplier defense' and 'the bulk sales/sophisticated purchaser rule.' Although the doctrines are distinct, their application oftentimes overlaps and together they present factors which should be carefully considered in evaluating the liability of component suppliers. Those factors include whether the raw materials or components are inherently dangerous, whether the materials are significantly altered before integration into an end product, whether the supplier was involved in designing the end-product and whether the manufacturer of the end product was in a position to discover and disclose hazards." (Artiglio v. General Electric Co. (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 830, 837 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 817].)

Secondary Sources

~~9~~6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Torts, §§ 1631–1643

Haning et al., California Practice Guide: Personal Injury, Ch. 2(II)-D, Strict Liability for Defective Products, ¶¶ 2:1275–2:1276 (The Rutter Group)

California Products Liability Actions, Ch. 2, Liability for Defective Products, § 2.11[4]; Ch. 7, Proof, § 7.05 (Matthew Bender)

40 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 460, Products Liability, §§ 460.11, 460.164 (Matthew Bender)

19 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 190, Products Liability, §§ 190.193–190.194 (Matthew Bender)

1207A. Strict Liability—Comparative Fault of Plaintiff

[Name of defendant] claims that [name of plaintiff]'s own negligence contributed to [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] harm. To succeed on this claim, [name of defendant] must prove both of the following:

1. [insert one or more of the following:]

   [That [name of plaintiff] negligently [used/misused/modified] the [product];] [or]

   [That [name of plaintiff] was [otherwise] negligent;]

   and

2. That this negligence was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

If [name of defendant] proves the above, [name of plaintiff]'s damages are reduced by your determination of the percentage of [name of plaintiff]'s responsibility. I will calculate the actual reduction.

Derived from former CACI No. 1207 April 2009; Revised December 2009, May 2020

Directions for Use

Give this instruction if the defendant alleges that the plaintiff's own negligence contributed to ~~his or her~~the plaintiff's harm. See also CACI No. 405, Comparative Fault of Plaintiff. For an instruction on the comparative fault of a third person, see CACI No. 1207B, Strict Liability—Comparative Fault of Third Person.

Subsequent misuse or modification may be considered in determining comparative fault if it was a substantial factor in causing the plaintiff's injury. (See Torres v. Xomox Corp. (1996) 49 Cal.App.4th 1, 17 [56 Cal.Rptr.2d 455].) Unforeseeable misuse or modification can be a complete defense if it is the sole cause of the plaintiff's harm. (See Campbell v. Southern Pacific Co. (1978) 22 Cal.3d 51, 56 [148 Cal.Rptr. 596, 583 P.2d 121].) See also CACI No. 1245, Affirmative Defense—Product Misuse or Modification.

Sources and Authority

- "[W]e do not permit plaintiff's own conduct relative to the product to escape unexamined, and as to that share of plaintiff's damages which flows from his own fault we discern no reason of policy why it should, following Li, be borne by others." (Daly v. General Motors Corp. (1978) 20 Cal.3d 725, 737 [144 Cal.Rptr. 380, 575 P.2d 1162] [comparative fault applies to strict product liability actions].)

- "[A] petitioner's recovery may accordingly be reduced, but not barred, where his lack of reasonable care is shown to have contributed to his injury." (Bradfield v. Trans World Airlines, Inc. (1979) 88 Cal.App.3d 681, 686 [152 Cal.Rptr. 172].)

- "The record does not support [defendant]'s assertion that modification of the bracket was the sole cause of the accident. The record does indicate that if the bracket had not been modified there would have been no need to remove it to reach the flange bolts, and thus the modification was one apparent cause of [plaintiff]'s death. However, a number of other causes, or potential causes, were established, including: [plaintiff]'s failure to wear protective clothing; [third party]'s failure to furnish the correct replacement bracket for the valve; [third party]'s failure to furnish [employer] with all of the literature it received from [defendant]; and negligence on the part of [employer] independent of its modification of the valve, including violations of various federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration regulations governing equipment and training in connection with the accident." (Torres, supra, 49 Cal.App.4th at p. 17.)

- "While a jury may well find [plaintiff]'s conduct substantially contributed to the accident [citing this instruction], we cannot say that conduct, even if sufficient to establish criminal storage of a firearm, absolves [defendants], as a matter of law, from all liability for a design defect that may otherwise be shown to exist in the Glock 21. [Plaintiff]'s responsibility for his own injuries is quintessentially a question for the jury." (Chavez v. Glock, Inc. (2012) 207 Cal.App.4th 1283, 1308 [144 Cal.Rptr.3d 326], internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, § ~~1542~~1709

California Products Liability Actions, Ch. 8, Defenses, §§ 8.03, 8.04 (Matthew Bender)

40 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 460, Products Liability, §§ 460.53, 460.182 (Matthew Bender)

19 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 190, Products Liability, § 190.253 (Matthew Bender)

1222. Negligence—Manufacturer or Supplier—Duty to Warn—Essential Factual Elements

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] was negligent by not using reasonable care to warn [or instruct] about the [product]'s dangerous condition or about facts that made the [product] likely to be dangerous. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] [manufactured/distributed/sold] the [product];

2. That [name of defendant] knew or reasonably should have known that the [product] was dangerous or was likely to be dangerous when used or misused in a reasonably foreseeable manner;

3. That [name of defendant] knew or reasonably should have known that users would not realize the danger;

4. That [name of defendant] failed to adequately warn of the danger [or instruct on the safe use of the [product]];

5. That a reasonable [manufacturer/distributor/seller] under the same or similar circumstances would have warned of the danger [or instructed on the safe use of the [product]];

6. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

7. That [name of defendant]'s failure to warn [or instruct] was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

[The warning must be given to the prescribing physician and must include the potential risks or side effects that may follow the foreseeable use of the product. [Name of defendant] had a continuing duty to warn physicians as long as the product was in use.]

New September 2003; Revised June 2011, December 2012, May 2020

Directions for Use

Give this instruction in a case involving product liability in which a claim for failure to warn is included under a negligence theory. For an instruction on failure to warn under strict liability and for additional sources and authority, see CACI No. 1205, Strict Liability—Failure to Warn—Essential Factual Elements. For instructions on design and manufacturing defect under a negligence theory, see CACI No. 1220, Negligence—Essential Factual Elements, and CACI No. 1221, Negligence—Basic Standard of Care.

To make a prima facie case, the plaintiff has the initial burden of producing evidence that ~~he or she~~the plaintiff was injured while the product was being used in an intended or reasonably foreseeable manner.

If this prima facie burden is met, the burden of proof shifts to the defendant to prove that the plaintiff's injury resulted from a misuse of the product. (See Perez v. VAS S.p.A. (2010) 188 Cal.App.4th 658, 678 [115 Cal.Rptr.3d 590] [strict liability design defect risk-benefit case].) See also CACI No. 1245, Affirmative Defense—Product Misuse or Modification. Product misuse is a complete defense to strict products liability if the defendant proves that an unforeseeable abuse or alteration of the product after it left the manufacturer's hands was the sole cause of the plaintiff's injury. (Campbell v. Southern Pacific Co. (1978) 22 Cal.3d 51, 56 [148 Cal.Rptr. 596, 583 P.2d 121]; see CACI No. 1245.) Misuse or modification that was a substantial factor in, but not the sole cause of, plaintiff's harm may also be considered in determining the comparative fault of the plaintiff or of third persons. See CACI No. 1207A, Strict Liability—Comparative Fault of Plaintiff, and CACI No. 1207B, Strict Liability—Comparative Fault of Third Person.

The last bracketed paragraph is to be used in prescription drug cases only.

Sources and Authority

- "[T]he manufacturer has a duty to use reasonable care to give warning of the dangerous condition of the product or of facts which make it likely to be dangerous to those whom he should expect to use the product or be endangered by its probable use, if the manufacturer has reason to believe that they will not realize its dangerous condition." (Putensen v. Clay Adams, Inc. (1970) 12 Cal.App.3d 1062, 1076–1077 [91 Cal.Rptr. 319].)

- "Negligence law in a failure-to-warn case requires a plaintiff to prove that a manufacturer or distributor did not warn of a particular risk for reasons which fell below the acceptable standard of care, i.e., what a reasonably prudent manufacturer would have known and warned about." (Chavez v. Glock, Inc. (2012) 207 Cal.App.4th 1283, 1305 [144 Cal.Rptr.3d 326], internal citation omitted.)

- "Thus, the question defendants wanted included in the special verdict form—whether a reasonable manufacturer under the same or similar circumstances would have given a warning—is an essential inquiry in the negligent failure to warn claim." (Trejo v. Johnson & Johnson (2017) 13 Cal.App.5th 110, 137 [220 Cal.Rptr.3d 127] [citing this instruction].)

- "Negligence and strict products liability are separate and distinct bases for liability that do not automatically collapse into each other because the plaintiff might allege both when a product warning contributes to her injury." (Conte v. Wyeth, Inc. (2008) 168 Cal.App.4th 89, 101 [85 Cal.Rptr.3d 299].)

- "The 'known or knowable' standard arguably derives from negligence principles, and failure to warn claims are generally ' "rooted in negligence" to a greater extent than' manufacturing or design defect claims. Unlike those other defects, a ' "warning defect" relates to a failure extraneous to the product itself' and can only be assessed by examining the manufacturer's conduct. These principles notwithstanding, California law recognizes separate failure to warn claims under both strict liability and negligence theories. In general, a product seller will be strictly liable for failure to warn if a warning was feasible and the absence of a warning caused the plaintiff's injury. Reasonableness of the seller's failure to warn is immaterial in the strict liability context. Conversely, to prevail on a claim for negligent failure to warn, the plaintiff must prove that the seller's conduct fell below the standard of care. If a prudent seller would have acted reasonably in not giving a warning, the seller will not have been negligent." (Webb v. Special Electric Co., Inc. (2016) 63 Cal.4th 167, 181 [202 Cal.Rptr.3d 460, 370 P.3d 1022], footnote and internal citations omitted.)

- "It is true that the two types of failure to warn claims are not necessarily exclusive: 'No valid reason appears to require a plaintiff to elect whether to proceed on the theory of strict liability in tort or on the theory of negligence. … [¶] Nor does it appear that instructions on the two theories will be confusing to the jury. There is nothing inconsistent in instructions on the two theories and to a large extent the two theories parallel and supplement each other.' Despite the often significant overlap between the theories of negligence and strict liability based on a product defect, a plaintiff is entitled to instructions on both theories if both are supported by the evidence." (Oxford v. Foster Wheeler LLC (2009) 177 Cal.App.4th 700, 717 [99 Cal.Rptr.3d 418].)

- "(1) [T]he strict liability instructions 'more than subsumed the elements of duty to warn set forth in the negligence instructions'; (2) under the instructions, there is no 'real difference between a warning to ordinary users about a product use that involves a substantial danger, and a warning about a product that is dangerous or likely to be dangerous for its intended use'; (3) [defendant]'s duty under the strict liability instructions 'to warn of potential risks and side effects envelope[d] a broader set of risk factors than the duty, [under the] negligence instructions, to warn of facts which make the product "likely to be dangerous" for its intended use'; (4) the reference in the strict liability instructions here to 'potential risks … that were known or knowable through the use of scientific knowledge' encompasses the concept in the negligence instructions of risks [defendant] 'knew or reasonably should have known'; and (5) for all these reasons, the jury's finding that [defendant] was not liable under a strict liability theory 'disposed of any liability for failure to warn' on a negligence theory." (Trejo, supra, 13 Cal.App.5th at pp. 132–133, original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- "In the context of prescription drugs, a manufacturer's duty is to warn physicians about the risks known or reasonably known to the manufacturer. The manufacturer has no duty to warn of risks that are 'merely speculative or conjectural, or so remote and insignificant as to be negligible.' If the manufacturer provides an adequate warning to the prescribing physician, the manufacturer need not communicate a warning directly to the patient who uses the drug." (T.H. v. Novartis Pharmaceuticals Corp. (2017) 4 Cal.5th 145, 164 [226 Cal.Rptr.3d 336, 407 P.3d 18], internal citations omitted.)

- "Because the same warning label must appear on the brand-name drug as well as its generic bioequivalent, a brand-name drug manufacturer owes a duty of reasonable care in ensuring that the label includes appropriate warnings, regardless of whether the end user has been dispensed the brand-name drug or its generic bioequivalent. If the person exposed to the generic drug can reasonably allege that the brand-name drug manufacturer's failure to update its warning label foreseeably and proximately caused physical injury, then the brand-name manufacturer's liability for its own negligence does not automatically terminate merely because the brand-name manufacturer transferred its rights in the brand-name drug to a successor manufacturer." (T.H., supra, 4 Cal.5th at p. 156.)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Torts, §§ 1317–1321

Haning et al., California Practice Guide: Personal Injury, Ch. 2(II)-D, Strict Liability For Defective

Products, ¶¶ 2:1271, 2:1295 (The Rutter Group)

California Products Liability Actions, Ch. 2, Liability for Defective Products, § 2.21, Ch. 7, Proof, § 7.05 (Matthew Bender)

40 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 460, Products Liability, § 460.11 (Matthew Bender)

19 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 190, Products Liability, § 190.165 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

1224. Negligence—Negligence for Product Rental/Standard of Care

[A person who rents products to others for money is negligent if ~~he or she~~that person fails to use reasonable care to:

1. Inspect the products for defects;

2. Make them safe for their intended use; and

3. Adequately warn of any known dangers.]

[or]

[A person who lends products to others without charge only is required to use reasonable care to warn of known defects.]

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

Use this instruction in conjunction with CACI No. 1220, Negligence—Essential Factual Elements, and instead of CACI No. 1221, Negligence—Basic Standard of Care, in cases involving rentals.

If the case involves a product lent gratuitously for the mutual benefit of the parties (e.g., to a prospective purchaser), the first paragraph is applicable and the instruction needs to be modified.

In a purely gratuitous lending case, if the object is a "dangerous instrumentality" there may be a duty to conduct a reasonable inspection before lending. (See Tierstein v. Licht (1959) 174 Cal.App.2d 835, 842 [345 P.2d 341].)

Sources and Authority

- Duties of Lessor of Personal Property. Civil Code section 1955.

- If a bailment is for hire, or provides a mutual benefit, the bailor has a duty to the bailee and to third persons to (1) warn of actually known defects and (2) to use reasonable care to make an examination of the good before lending it "in order to make certain that it [is] fit for the use known to be intended." (Tierstein, supra, 174 Cal.App.2d at pp. 840–841.)

- A bailment, otherwise gratuitous, where made to induce a purchase, has been considered sufficient to give rise to the same duty of reasonable care on the part of the bailor as an ordinary bailment for hire. This is regarded as a bailment for mutual benefit. (Tierstein, supra, 174 Cal.App.2d at p. 842.)

- Under either a negligence or an implied warranty theory, "the essential inquiry ... is whether [the defendants] made such inspection of their equipment as was necessary to discharge their duty of reasonable care." (McNeal v. Greenberg (1953) 40 Cal.2d 740, 742 [255 P.2d 810].) The bailor is not an insurer or guarantor. (Tierstein, supra, 174 Cal.App.2d at p. 841.)

- Restatement Second of Torts, section 408, provides: "One who leases a chattel as safe for immediate use is subject to liability to those whom he should expect to use the chattel, or to be endangered by its probable use, for physical harm caused by its use in a manner for which, and by a person for whose use, it is leased, if the lessor fails to exercise reasonable care to make it safe for such use or to disclose its actual condition to those who may be expected to use it."

- This Restatement section was cited with approval in Rae v. California Equipment Co. (1939) 12 Cal.2d 563, 569 [86 P.2d 352].

- "The general rule is that the only duty which a gratuitous bailor owes either to the bailee or to third persons is to warn them of actually known defects which render the chattel dangerous for the purpose for which it is ordinarily used; he has no liability for injuries caused by defects in the subject matter of the bailment of which he was not aware." (Tierstein, supra, 174 Cal.App.2d at p. 841.)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, § ~~1506~~1670

2 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 20, Motor Vehicles, § 20.053 (Matthew Bender)

44 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 413, Personal Property Leases, § 413.34 (Matthew Bender)

VF-1206. Products Liability—Express Warranty—Affirmative Defense—Not "Basis of Bargain"

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Did [*name of defendant] represent to [name of plaintiff] by a [statement/description/sample/model/other] that the [product] [insert description of alleged express warranty]?

____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Was the resulting bargain between the parties in which [*name of plaintiff] decided to [purchase/use] the [product] based in any way on [name of defendant]'s [statement/description/sample/model/other]?

____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 2 is yes, then answer question 3. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

3. Did the [*product] fail to [perform] [or] [have the same quality] as represented?

____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 3 is yes, then answer question 4. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

4. Was the failure of the [*product] to [perform] [or] [meet the quality] as represented a substantial factor in causing harm to [name of plaintiff]?

____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 4 is yes, then answer question 5. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

5. What are [*name of plaintiff]'s damages?

[a. Past economic loss

[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other past economic loss $ _____]

Total Past Economic Damages: $ _____]

[b. Future economic loss

[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other future economic loss $ _____]

Total Future Economic Damages: $ _____]

[c. Past noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]

$ _____]

[d. Future noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]

$ _____]

TOTAL $ _____

Signed: _____
Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

After [this verdict form has/all verdict forms have] been signed, notify the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant] that you are ready to present your verdict in the courtroom.

New September 2003; Revised February 2005, April 2007, December 2010, June 2011, December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 1230, Express Warranty—Essential Factual Elements, and CACI No. 1240, Affirmative Defense to Express Warranty—Not "Basis of Bargain."

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

Under various circumstances, the plaintiff must also prove that ~~he or she~~the plaintiff made a reasonable attempt to notify the defendant of the defect. Thus, if appropriate, the following question should be added before the question regarding the plaintiff's harm: "Did [name of plaintiff] take reasonable steps to notify [name of defendant] within a reasonable time that the [product] [was not/did not perform] as requested?"

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 5. The breakdown is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

Do not include question 2 if the affirmative defense is not at issue.

VF-1207. Products Liability—Implied Warranty of Merchantability—Affirmative Defense—Exclusion of Implied Warranties

---

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Did [name of plaintiff] buy the [product] from [name of defendant]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Was [name of defendant] in the business of selling these goods?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 2 is yes, then answer question 3. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

3. Did the sale of the [product] include notice that would have made a buyer aware that it was being sold without any representations relating to the quality that a buyer would expect?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 3 is no, then answer question 4. If you answered yes, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

4. Was the [product] fit for the ordinary purposes for which such goods are used?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 4 is no, then answer question 5. If you answered yes, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

5. Was the failure of the [product] to have the expected quality a substantial factor in causing harm to [name of plaintiff]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 5 is yes, then answer question 6. If you answered no stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

6. What are [name of plaintiff]'s damages?

[a. Past economic loss

[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other past economic loss $ _____]

Total Past Economic Damages: $ _____]

[b. Future economic loss

[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other future economic loss $ _____]

Total Future Economic Damages: $ _____]

[c. Past noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]

$ _____]

[d. Future noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]

$ _____]

TOTAL $ _____

Signed: _____
Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

After [this verdict form has/all verdict forms have] been signed, notify the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant] that you are ready to present your verdict in the courtroom.

New September 2003; Revised April 2007, December 2010, December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 1231, Implied Warranty of Merchantability—Essential Factual Elements, and CACI No. 1242, Affirmative Defense—Exclusion of Implied Warranties.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

Under various circumstances, the plaintiff must also prove that ~~he or she~~the plaintiff made a reasonable attempt to notify the defendant of the defect. Thus, where appropriate, the following question should be added prior to the question regarding the plaintiff's harm: "Did [name of plaintiff] take reasonable steps to notify [name of defendant] within a reasonable time that the [product] [was not/did not perform] as requested?"

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 6. The breakdown is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

Question 2 should be modified if the defendant ~~held himself or herself out as having~~ purported to have special knowledge or skill regarding the goods. Question 3 should be modified if a different ground of liability is asserted under Commercial Code section 2314(2). Question 6 should be modified if the defendant is asserting other grounds under Commercial Code section 2316(3). This form should also be modified if notification is an issue.

Do not include question 3 if the affirmative defense is not at issue.

VF-1208. Products Liability—Implied Warranty of Fitness for a Particular Purpose

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Did [name of plaintiff] buy the [product] from [name of defendant]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. At the time of purchase, did [name of defendant] know or have reason to know that [name of plaintiff] intended to use the [product] for a particular purpose?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 2 is yes, then answer question 3. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

3. At the time of purchase, did [name of defendant] know that [name of plaintiff] was relying on [name of defendant]'s skill and judgment to select or furnish a product that was suitable for the particular purpose?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 3 is yes, then answer question 4. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

4. Did [name of plaintiff] justifiably rely on [name of defendant]'s skill and judgment?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 4 is yes, then answer question 5. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

5. Was the [product] suitable for the particular purpose?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 5 is no, then answer question 6. If you answered yes, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

6. Was the failure of the [product] to be suitable a substantial factor in causing harm to [name of plaintiff]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 6 is yes, then answer question 7. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

7. What are [name of plaintiff]'s damages?

[a. Past economic loss

[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other past economic loss $ _____]

Total Past Economic Damages: $ _____]

[b. Future economic loss

[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other future economic loss $ _____]

Total Future Economic Damages: $ _____]

[c. Past noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]

$ _____]

[d. Future noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]

$ _____]

TOTAL $ _____

Signed: _____
Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

After [this verdict form has/all verdict forms have] been signed, notify the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant] that you are ready to present your verdict in the courtroom.

New September 2003; Revised April 2007, December 2010, December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 1232, Implied Warranty of Fitness for a Particular Purpose—Essential Factual Elements.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 7. The breakdown is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

Question 2 of this form should be modified if the defendant ~~held himself or herself out as having~~ purported to have special knowledge or skill regarding the goods. Question 3 should be modified if a different ground of liability is asserted under Commercial Code section 2314(2). This form should also be modified if notification is an issue.

1400. No Arrest Involved—Essential Factual Elements

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was wrongfully [restrained/confined/detained] by [name of defendant]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] intentionally deprived [name of plaintiff] of [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] freedom of movement by use of [physical barriers/force/threats of force/menace/fraud/deceit/unreasonable duress];

2. That the [restraint/confinement/detention] compelled [name of plaintiff] to stay or go somewhere for some appreciable time, however short;

3. That [name of plaintiff] did not [knowingly or voluntarily] consent;

4. That [name of plaintiff] was actually harmed; and

5. That [name of defendant]'s conduct was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

[If you find elements 1, 2, and 3 above, but you find that [*name of plaintiff] was not actually harmed, [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] is still entitled to a nominal sum, such as one dollar.]

[[*Name of plaintiff] need not have been aware that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was being [restrained/confined/detained] at the time.]

New September 2003; Revised December 2010, December 2011, May 2020

Directions for Use

In element 3, include the words "knowingly or voluntarily" if it is alleged that the plaintiff's consent was obtained by fraud.(See Scofield v. Critical Air Medicine, Inc. (1996) 45 Cal.App.4th 990, 1006, fn. 16 [52 Cal.Rptr.2d 915].)

Include the paragraph about nominal damages if there is a dispute about whether the plaintiff was actually harmed. (See Scofield, supra, 45 Cal.App.4th at p. 1007.) Include the last paragraph if applicable. (See Id. at pp. 1006–1007.)

If the defendant alleges ~~that he or she had~~ the existence of a lawful privilege, the judge should read the applicable affirmative defense instructions immediately following this one.

Sources and Authority

- "The crime of false imprisonment is defined by Penal Code section 236 as the 'unlawful violation of the personal liberty of another.' The tort is identically defined. As we recently formulated it, the tort consists of the ‘ “nonconsensual, intentional confinement of a person, without lawful privilege, for an appreciable length of time, however short.” ’ That length of time can be as brief as 15 minutes. Restraint may be effectuated by means of physical force, threat of force or of arrest, confinement by physical barriers, or by means of any other form of unreasonable duress.” (Fermino v. Fedco, Inc. (1994) 7 Cal.4th 701, 716 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 18, 872 P.2d 559], internal citations omitted.)

- “ ‘[T]he tort [of false imprisonment] consists of the “ ‘nonconsensual, intentional confinement of a person, without lawful privilege, for an appreciable length of time, however short.’ ” ’ ” (Scofield, supra, 45 Cal.App.4th at p. 1001, internal citations omitted.)

- “The only mental state required to be shown to prove false imprisonment is the intent to confine, or to create a similar intrusion.” (Fermino, supra, 7 Cal.4th at p. 716.)

- “[False imprisonment] requires some restraint of the person and that he be deprived of his liberty or compelled to stay where he does not want to remain, or compelled to go where he does not wish to go; and that the person be restrained of his liberty without sufficient complaint or authority.” (Collins v. County of Los Angeles (1966) 241 Cal.App.2d 451, 459–460 [50 Cal.Rptr. 586], internal citations omitted.)

- “[I]t is clear that force or the threat of force are not the only means by which the tort of false imprisonment can be achieved. Fraud or deceit or any unreasonable duress are alternative methods of accomplishing the tort.” (Scofield, supra, 45 Cal.App.4th at p. 1002, internal citations omitted.)

- “Because ‘[t]here is no real or free consent when it is obtained through fraud’ … the [plaintiffs’] confinement on the aircraft was nonconsensual and therefore actionable as a false imprisonment.” (Scofield, supra, 45 Cal.App.4th at p. 1006, fn. 16, internal citations omitted.)

- “[C]ontemporaneous awareness of the false imprisonment is not, and need not be, an essential element of the tort.” (Scofield, supra, 45 Cal.App.4th at p. 1006.)

- “[T]he critical question as to causation in intentional torts is whether the actor’s conduct is a substantial factor in bringing about the type of harm which he intended from his original act.” (Null v. City of Los Angeles (1988) 206 Cal.App.3d 1528, 1536, fn. 6 [254 Cal.Rptr. 492], internal citations omitted.)

- “[T]he law of this state clearly allows a cause of action for false imprisonment notwithstanding the fact a plaintiff suffered merely nominal damage.” (Scofield, supra, 45 Cal.App.4th at p. 1007.)

- “In addition to recovery for emotional suffering and humiliation, one subjected to false imprisonment is entitled to compensation for other resultant harm, such as loss of time, physical discomfort or inconvenience, any resulting physical illness or injury to health, business interruption, and damage to reputation, as well as punitive damages in appropriate cases.” (Scofield, supra, 45 Cal.App.4th at p. 1009, internal citation omitted.)

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~426~~499 ~~429~~502

3 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 42, False Imprisonment and False Arrest, §§ 42.01, 42.07, 42.20 (Matthew Bender)

22 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 257, False Imprisonment, § 257.17 (Matthew Bender)

10 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 103, False Imprisonment, § 103.40 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

1 California Civil Practice: Torts §§ 13:8–13:10 (Thomson Reuters ~~West~~)

1511. Wrongful Use of Civil Proceedings—Affirmative Defense—Attorney's Reliance on Information Provided by Client

When filing a lawsuit for a client, an attorney is entitled to rely on the facts and information provided by the client.

[*Name of attorney defendant] claims that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] had reasonable grounds for bringing the lawsuit against [name of plaintiff] because [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was relying on facts and information provided by [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] client. To succeed on this defense, [name of attorney defendant] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of client] provided [name of attorney defendant] with the following information: [specify information on which attorney relied];

2. That [name of attorney defendant] did not know that this information was false or inaccurate; and

3. That [name of attorney defendant] relied on the facts and information provided by the client.

New June 2013; Revised June 2014, May 2020

Directions for Use

Give this instruction if an attorney defendant alleges ~~that he or she relied~~ reliance on information provided by the client to establish probable cause. If a civil proceeding other than a lawsuit is involved, substitute the appropriate word for "lawsuit" throughout.

The presence or absence of probable cause on undisputed facts is a question of law for the court. (See Sheldon Appel Co. v. Albert & Oliker (1989) 47 Cal.3d 863, 881 [254 Cal.Rptr. 336, 765 P.2d 498]; CACI No. 1501, Wrongful Use of Civil Proceedings.) The questions here for the jury to resolve are what information was communicated to the attorney that established apparent probable cause, and whether the attorney knew that the information was inaccurate.

The attorney generally has no obligation to investigate the information provided by the client before filing suit. (See Sheldon Appel Co., supra, 47 Cal.3d at pp. 882–883.) Therefore, there is no liability under a theory that the attorney should have known that the information was false. Actual knowledge is required. But if the attorney later learns that the client has not been truthful, the attorney may no longer rely on the client's information to continue the lawsuit. (Daniels v. Robbins (2010) 182 Cal.App.4th 204, 223 [105 Cal.Rptr.3d 683].)

Sources and Authority

- "In general, a lawyer 'is entitled to rely on information provided by the client.' If the lawyer discovers the client's statements are false, the lawyer cannot rely on such statements in prosecuting an action." (Daniels, supra, 182 Cal.App.4th at p. 223, internal citation omitted.)

- "[W]hen evaluating a client's case and making an initial assessment of tenability, the attorney is entitled to rely on information provided by the client. An exception to this rule exists where the attorney is on notice of specific factual mistakes in the client's version of events. Absent such notice, an attorney 'may, without being guilty of malicious prosecution, vigorously pursue litigation in which he is unsure of whether his client or the client's adversary is truthful, so long as that issue is genuinely in doubt.' A respected authority has summed up the issue as follows: 'Usually, the client imparts information upon which the attorney relies in determining whether probable cause exists for initiating a proceeding. The rule is that the attorney may rely on those statements as a basis for exercising judgment and providing advice, unless the client's representations are known to be false.' " (Morrison v. Rudolph (2002) 103 Cal.App.4th 506, 512–513 [126 Cal.Rprt.2d 747], disapproved on other grounds in Zamos v. Stroud (2004) 32 Cal.4th 958, 972 [12 Cal.Rptr.3d 54, 87 P.3d 802], internal citations omitted.)

- "The trial court found the undisputed facts establish that the lawyers had probable cause to assert the fraudulent inducement claim. We agree. It is undisputed that the allegations in the complaint accurately reflected the facts as given to the lawyers by [client] and that she never told them those facts were incorrect. The information provided to the lawyers, if true, was sufficient to state a cause of action … ." (Swat-Fame, Inc. v. Goldstein (2002) 101 Cal.App.4th 613, 625 [124 Cal.Rptr.2d 556], disapproved on other grounds in Zamos, supra, 32 Cal.4th at p. 972.)

- "Normally, the adequacy of a prefiling investigation is not relevant to the determination of probable cause." (Swat-Fame, Inc., supra, 101 Cal.App.4th at p. 627, disapproved on other grounds in Zamos, supra, 32 Cal.4th at p. 972.)

- "If the lawyer discovers the client's statements are false, the lawyer cannot rely on such statements in prosecuting an action." (Daniels, supra, 182 Cal.App.4th at p. 223.)

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10th~~ 11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~471 et seq.~~554, ~~510~~603

4 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 43, Malicious Prosecution and Abuse of Process, § 43.05 (Matthew Bender)

31 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 357, Malicious Prosecution and Abuse of Process, § 357.23 (Matthew Bender)

14 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 147, Malicious Prosecution and Abuse of Process, § 147.27 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

1803. Appropriation of Name or Likeness—Essential Factual Elements

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] violated [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] right to privacy. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] used [name of plaintiff]'s name, likeness, or identity;
2. That [name of plaintiff] did not consent to this use;
3. That [name of defendant] gained a commercial benefit [or some other advantage] by using [name of plaintiff]'s name, likeness, or identity;
4. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and
5. That [name of defendant]'s conduct was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

New September 2003; Revised December 2014, November 2017, May 2020

Directions for Use

If the plaintiff is asserting more than one privacy right, give an introductory instruction stating that a person's right to privacy can be violated in more than one way and listing the legal theories under which the plaintiff is suing.

If the alleged "benefit" is not commercial, the judge will need to determine whether the advantage gained by the defendant qualifies as "some other advantage."

If suing under both the common law and Civil Code section 3344, the judge may need to explain that a person's voice, for example, may qualify as "identity" if the voice is sufficient to cause listeners to identify the plaintiff. The two causes of action overlap, and the same conduct should be covered by both.

Even if the elements are established, the First Amendment may require that the right to be protected from unauthorized publicity be balanced against the public interest in the dissemination of news and information. (See Gionfriddo v. Major League Baseball (2001) 94 Cal.App.4th 400, 409 [114 Cal.Rptr.2d 307].) In a closely related right-of-publicity claim, the California Supreme Court has held that an artist who is faced with a challenge to ~~his or her~~the artist's work may raise as affirmative defense that the work is protected by the First Amendment because it contains significant transformative elements or that the value of the work does not derive primarily from the celebrity's fame. (Comedy III Productions, Inc. v. Gary Saderup, Inc. (2001) 25 Cal.4th 387, 407 [106 Cal.Rptr.2d 126, 21 P.3d 797]; see CACI No. 1805, Affirmative Defense to Use or Appropriation of Name or Likeness—First Amendment (Comedy III).) Therefore, if there is an issue of fact regarding a First Amendment balancing test, it most probably should be considered to be an affirmative defense. (Cf. Gionfriddo, supra, 94 Cal.App.4th at p. 414 ["Given the significant public interest in this sport, plaintiffs can only prevail if they demonstrate a substantial competing interest~~.~~"].)

Sources and Authority

- "A common law misappropriation claim is pleaded by 'alleging: "(1) the defendant's use of the plaintiff's identity; (2) the appropriation of plaintiff's name or likeness to defendant's advantage, commercially or otherwise; (3) lack of consent; and (4) resulting injury. [Citations.]" [Citation.]' " (Maxwell v. Dolezal (2014) 231 Cal.App.4th 93, 97 [179 Cal.Rptr.3d 807].)

- " '[T]he right of publicity has come to be recognized as distinct from the right of privacy'. 'What may have originated as a concern for the right to be left alone has become a tool to control the commercial use and, thus, protect the economic value of one's name, voice, signature, photograph, or likeness.' 'What the right of publicity holder possesses is … a right to prevent others from misappropriating the economic value generated … through the merchandising of the 'name, voice, signature, photograph, or likeness' of the [holder].' " (Timed Out, LLC v. Youabian, Inc. (2014) 229 Cal.App.4th 1001, 1006 [177 Cal.Rptr.3d 773], internal citations omitted.)

- "The common law cause of action may be stated by pleading the defendant's unauthorized use of the plaintiff's identity; the appropriation of the plaintiff's name, voice, likeness, signature, or photograph to the defendant's advantage, commercially or otherwise; and resulting injury." (Ross v. Roberts (2013) 222 Cal.App.4th 677, 684−685 [166 Cal.Rptr.3d 359].)

- "[B]oth the statutory and common law versions of a right of publicity claim require that the defendant actually use the plaintiff's likeness … ." (Cross v. Facebook, Inc. (2017) 14 Cal.App.5th 190, 210 [222 Cal.Rptr.3d 250].)

- "California common law has generally followed Prosser's classification of privacy interests as embodied in the Restatement." (Hill v. National Collegiate Athletic Assn. (1994) 7 Cal.4th 1, 24 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 834, 865 P.2d 633], internal citation omitted.)

- "Consent to the use of a name or likeness is determined by traditional principles of contract interpretation." (Local TV, LLC v. Superior Court (2016) 3 Cal.App.5th 1, 8 [206 Cal.Rptr.3d 884].)

- "[T]he appearance of an 'endorsement' is not the sine qua non of a claim for commercial appropriation." (Eastwood v. Superior Court (1983) 149 Cal.App.3d 409, 419 [198 Cal.Rptr. 342].)

- "[N]o cause of action will lie for the '[p]ublication of matters in the public interest, which rests on the right of the public to know and the freedom of the press to tell it.' " (Montana v. San Jose Mercury News (1995) 34 Cal.App.4th 790, 793 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 639], internal citation omitted.)

- "The difficulty in defining the boundaries of the right, as applied in the publication field, is inherent in the necessity of balancing the public interest in the dissemination of news, information and education against the individuals' interest in peace of mind and freedom from emotional disturbances. When words relating to or actual pictures of a person or his name are published, the circumstances may indicate that public interest is predominant. Factors deserving consideration may include the medium of publication, the extent of the use, the public interest served by the publication, and the seriousness of the interference with the person's privacy." (Gill v. Curtis Publishing Co. (1952) 38 Cal.2d 273, 278–279 [239 P.2d 630].)

- "Even if each of these elements is established, however, the common law right does not provide relief for every publication of a person's name or likeness. The First Amendment requires that the right to be protected from unauthorized publicity 'be balanced against the public interest in the dissemination of news and information consistent with the democratic processes under the constitutional guaranties of freedom of speech and of the press.' " (Gionfriddo, supra, 94 Cal.App.4th at pp. 409–410, internal citations and footnote omitted.)

- "Public interest attaches to people who by their accomplishments or mode of living create a bona fide attention to their activities." (Dora v. Frontline Video, Inc. (1993) 15 Cal.App.4th 536, 542 [18 Cal.Rptr.2d 790], internal citation omitted.)

- "[T]he fourth category of invasion of privacy, namely, appropriation, 'has been complemented legislatively by Civil Code section 3344, adopted in 1971.' " (Eastwood, supra, 149 Cal.App.3d at pp. 416–417.)

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Torts, §§ 784–786

4 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 46, Invasion of Privacy, § 46.05 (Matthew Bender)

37 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 429, Privacy, §§ 429.35, 429.36 (Matthew Bender)

18 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 184, Privacy: Invasion of Privacy, § 184.21 (Matthew Bender)

~~1~~ California Civil Practice: Torts § 20:16 (Thomson Reuters)

1821. Damages for Use of Name or Likeness (Civ. Code § 3344(a))

If you decide that [*name of plaintiff] has proved [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] claim against [name of defendant], you also must decide how much money will reasonably compensate [name of plaintiff] for the harm. This compensation is called "damages."

[*Name of plaintiff] must prove the amount of [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] damages. [Name of plaintiff] does not have to prove the exact amount of damages that will provide reasonable compensation for the harm. However, you must not speculate or guess in awarding damages.

The following are the specific items of damages claimed by [*name of plaintiff]:

1. [Humiliation, embarrassment, and mental distress, including any physical ~~symptons~~symptoms;]

2. [Harm to [name of plaintiff]'s reputation;] [and]

3. [Insert other item(s) of claimed harm].

In addition, [*name of plaintiff] may recover any profits that [name of defendant] received from the use of [name of plaintiff]'s [name/voice/signature/photograph/likeness] [that have not already been taken into account with regard to the above damages]. To establish the amount of these profits you must:

1. Determine the gross, or total, revenue that [name of defendant] received from the use;

2. Determine the expenses that [name of defendant] had in obtaining the gross revenue; and

3. Deduct [name of defendant]'s expenses from the gross revenue.

[*Name of plaintiff] must prove the amount of gross revenue, and [name of defendant] must prove the amount of expenses.

New September 2003; Revised June 2012, December 2012

Directions for Use

Under Civil Code section 3344(a), an injured party may recover either actual damages or $750, whichever is greater, as well as profits from the unauthorized use that were not taken into account in calculating actual damages. (Orthopedic Systems Inc. v. Schlein (2011) 202 Cal.App.4th 529, 547 [135 Cal.Rptr.3d 200].) If no actual damages are sought, the first part of the instruction may be deleted or modified to simply instruct the jury to award $750 if it finds liability.

The plaintiff might claim that ~~he or she~~ the plaintiff would have earned the same profits that the defendant wrongfully earned. In such a case, to avoid a double recovery, the advisory committee recommends computing damages to recover the defendant's wrongful profits separately from actual damages, that is, under the second part of the instruction and not under actual damages item 3 ("other item(s) of claimed harm"). See also CACI No. VF-1804, Privacy—Use of Name or Likeness. Give the bracketed phrase in the paragraph that introduces the second part of the instruction if the plaintiff alleges lost profits that are different from the defendant's wrongful profits and that are claimed under actual damages item 3.

Sources and Authority

- Liability for Use of Name or Likeness. Civil Code section 3344.

- "[Plaintiff] alleges, and submits evidence to show, that he was injured economically because the ad will make it difficult for him to endorse other automobiles, and emotionally because people may be led to believe he has abandoned his current name and assume he has renounced his religion. These allegations suffice to support his action. Injury to a plaintiff's right of publicity is not limited to present or future economic loss, but 'may induce humiliation, embarrassment, and mental distress.' " (Abdul-Jabbar v. General Motors Corp. (9th Cir. 1996) 85 F.3d 407, 416, internal citation omitted.)

- "The statutory language of section 3344 is unambiguous—the plaintiff bears the burden of presenting proof of the gross revenue attributable to the defendant's unauthorized use of the plaintiff's likeness, and the defendant must then prove its deductible expenses. CACI No. 1821 mirrors the language of section 3344: '[plaintiff] must prove the amount of gross revenue, and [… defendant] must prove the amount of expenses.' (CACI No. 1821.)" (Olive v. General Nutrition Centers, Inc. (2018) 30 Cal.App.5th 804, 814 [242 Cal.Rptr.3d 15], internal citation omitted.)

- "CACI No. 1821 adequately explained the applicable law to the jury." (Olive, supra, 30 Cal.App.5th at p. 815.)

- "We can conceive no rational basis for the Legislature to limit the $750 as an alternative to all other damages, including profits. If someone profits from the unauthorized use of another's name, it makes little sense to preclude the injured party from recouping those profits because he or she is entitled to statutory damages as opposed to actual damages. Similar reasoning appears to be reflected in the civil jury instructions for damages under section 3344, which provides: 'If [name of plaintiff] has not proved the above damages, or has proved an amount of damages less than $750, then you must award [him/her] $750. [¶] In addition, [name of plaintiff] may recover any profits that [name of defendant] received from the use of [name of plaintiff]'s [name …] [that have not already been taken into account in computing the above damages].' (CACI No. 1821, italics omitted.)." (Orthopedic Systems Inc., supra, 202 Cal.App.4th at p. 546.)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Torts, §§ 1715–1724

Chin et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 5-L~~K~~, Invasion Of Privacy, ¶¶ ~~5:710–5:891~~ 5:1116–5:1118 (The Rutter Group)

4 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 46, Invasion of Privacy, § 46.13 (Matthew Bender)

37 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 429, Privacy, § 429.36 (Matthew Bender)

18 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 184, Privacy: Invasion of Privacy, § 184.35 (Matthew Bender)

California Civil Practice, Torts § 20:17 (Thomson Reuters)

1904. Opinions as Statements of Fact

Ordinarily, an opinion is not considered a representation of fact. An opinion is a person's belief that a fact exists, a statement regarding a future event, or a judgment about quality, value, authenticity, or similar matters. However, [*name of defendant]'s opinion is considered a representation of fact if [name of plaintiff] proves that:

[[*Name of defendant] claimed to have special knowledge about the subject matter that [name of plaintiff] did not have;] [or]

[[*Name of defendant] made a representation, not as a casual expression of belief, but in a way that declared the matter to be true;] [or]

[[*Name of defendant] had a relationship of trust and confidence with [name of plaintiff];] [or]

[[*Name of defendant] had some other special reason to expect that [name of plaintiff] would rely on ~~his or her~~the defendant's opinion.]

New September 2003; Revised April 2004, May 2020

Directions for Use

This is not a stand-alone instruction. It should be read in conjunction with one of the elements instructions (CACI Nos. 1900–1903).

The second bracketed option appears to be limited to cases involving professional opinions. (Bily v. Arthur Young & Co. (1992) 3 Cal.4th 370, 408 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 51, 834 P.2d 745].)

Alternative bracketed options that do not apply to the facts of the case may be deleted.

Sources and Authority

- "Representations of opinion, particularly involving matters of value, are ordinarily not actionable representations of fact. A representation is an opinion ' "if it expresses only (a) the belief of the maker, without certainty, as to the existence of a fact; or (b) his judgment as to quality, value … or other matters of judgment." ' " (Graham v. Bank of America, N.A. (2014) 226 Cal.App.4th 594, 606−607 [172 Cal.Rptr.3d 218], internal citations omitted.)

  "Plaintiffs cite the exceptions to the general rule that, to be actionable, a misrepresentation must be of an existing fact, not an opinion or prediction of future events. They arise '(1) where a party holds himself out to be specially qualified and the other party is so situated that he may reasonably rely upon the former's superior knowledge; (2) where the opinion is by a fiduciary or other trusted person; (3) where a party states his opinion as an existing fact or as implying facts which justify a belief in the truth of the opinion. [Citation.]' " (Brakke v. Economic Concepts, Inc. (2013) 213 Cal.App.4th 761, 769 [153 Cal.Rptr.3d 1], internal citation omitted.)

- "[W]hen one of the parties possesses, or assumes to possess, superior knowledge or special information regarding the subject matter of the representation, and the other party is so situated that he may reasonably rely upon such supposed superior knowledge or special information, a representation made by the party possessing or assuming to possess such knowledge or information, though it might be regarded as but the expression of an opinion if made by any other person, is not excused if it be false." (Jolley v. Chase Home Finance, LLC (2013) 213 Cal.App.4th 872, 892 [153 Cal.Rptr.3d 546].)

- "Since the appraisal is a value opinion performed for the benefit of the lender, there is no representation of fact upon which a buyer may reasonably rely." (Graham, supra, 226 Cal.App.4th at p. 607.)

- "Whether a statement is nonactionable opinion or actionable misrepresentation of fact is a question of fact for the jury." (Furla v. Jon Douglas Co. (1998) 65 Cal.App.4th 1069, 1080–1081 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 911], internal citations omitted.)

- "If defendants' assertion of safety is merely a statement of opinion—mere 'puffing'—they cannot be held liable for its falsity." (Hauter v. Zogarts (1975) 14 Cal.3d 104, 111 [120 Cal.Rptr. 681, 534 P.2d 377].)

- "The alleged false representations in the subject brochures were not statements of 'opinion' or mere 'puffing.' They were, in essence, representations that the DC-10 was a safe aircraft. In Hauter, [supra,] the Supreme Court held that promises of safety are not statements of opinion—they are 'representations of fact.' " (Continental Airlines, Inc. v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (1989) 216 Cal.App.3d 388, 424 [264 Cal.Rptr. 779].)

- "Under certain circumstances, expressions of professional opinion are treated as representations of fact. When a statement, although in the form of an opinion, is 'not a casual expression of belief' but 'a deliberate affirmation of the matters stated,' it may be regarded as a positive assertion of fact. Moreover, when a party possesses or holds itself out as possessing superior knowledge or special information or expertise regarding the subject matter and a plaintiff is so situated that it may reasonably rely on such supposed knowledge, information, or expertise, the defendant's representation may be treated as one of material fact." (Bily, supra, 3 Cal.4th at p. 408, internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10~~11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~774~~892–~~778~~896

3 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 40, Fraud and Deceit and Other Business Torts, § 40.03[1][b] (Matthew Bender)

23 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit, § 269.17 (Matthew Bender)

10 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 105, Fraud and Deceit, § 105.50 (Matthew Bender)

2 California Civil Practice: Torts, §§ 22:21–22:28 (Thomson Reuters)

1908. Reasonable Reliance

In determining whether [name of plaintiff]'s reliance on the [misrepresentation/concealment/false promise] was reasonable, [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] must first prove that the matter was material. A matter is material if a reasonable person would find it important in deciding what to do ~~determining his or her choice of action~~.

If you decide that the matter is material, you must then decide whether it was reasonable for [name of plaintiff] to rely on the [misrepresentation/concealment/false promise]. In making this decision, take into consideration [name of plaintiff]'s intelligence, knowledge, education, and experience.

However, it is not reasonable for anyone to rely on a [misrepresentation/concealment/false promise] that is preposterous. It also is not reasonable for anyone to rely on a [misrepresentation/concealment/false promise] if facts that are within [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] observation show that it is obviously false.

New September 2003; Revised October 2004, December 2013, May 2020

Directions for Use

There would appear to be three considerations in determining reasonable reliance. First, the representation or promise must be material, as judged by a reasonable-person standard. (Charpentier v. Los Angeles Rams (1999) 75 Cal.App.4th 301, 312–313 [89 Cal.Rptr.2d 115].) Second, if the matter is material, reasonableness must take into account the plaintiff's own knowledge, education, and experience; the objective reasonable person is irrelevant at this step. Third, some matters are simply too preposterous to be believed by anyone, notwithstanding limited knowledge, education, and experience. (Blankenheim v. E. F. Hutton, Co., Inc. (1990) 217 Cal.App.3d 1463, 1474 [266 Cal.Rptr. 593].)

See also CACI No. 1907, Reliance.

Sources and Authority

- "After establishing actual reliance, the plaintiff must show that the reliance was reasonable by showing that (1) the matter was material in the sense that a reasonable person would find it important in determining how he or she would act, and (2) it was reasonable for the plaintiff to have relied on the misrepresentation." (Hoffman v. 162 North Wolfe LLC (2014) 228 Cal.App.4th 1178, 1194 [175 Cal.Rptr.3d 820], internal citations omitted.)

- "According to the Restatement of Torts, '[r]eliance upon a fraudulent misrepresentation is not justifiable unless the matter misrepresented is material. ... The matter is material if ... a reasonable [person] would attach importance to its existence or nonexistence in determining his choice of action in the transaction in question ... .' But materiality is a jury question, and a 'court may [only] withdraw the case from the jury if the fact misrepresented is so obviously unimportant that the jury could not reasonably find that a reasonable man would have been influenced by it.' " (Charpentier, supra, 75

Cal.App.4th at pp. 312–313, internal citations omitted.)

- "[T]he issue is whether the person who claims reliance was justified in believing the representation in the light of his own knowledge and experience." (Gray v. Don Miller & Associates, Inc. (1984) 35 Cal.3d 498, 503 [198 Cal.Rptr. 551, 674 P.2d 253], internal citations omitted.)

- "[N]or is a plaintiff held to the standard of precaution or of minimum knowledge of a hypothetical, reasonable man. Exceptionally gullible or ignorant people have been permitted to recover from defendants who took advantage of them in circumstances where persons of normal intelligence would not have been misled. 'No rogue should enjoy his ill-gotten plunder for the simple reason that his victim is by chance a fool.'" (Blankenheim, supra, 217 Cal.App.3d at p. 1474, internal citations omitted.)

- "[G]enerally speaking, ' "[a] plaintiff will be denied recovery only if his conduct is manifestly unreasonable in the light of his own intelligence or information. It must appear that he put faith in representations that were 'preposterous' or 'shown by facts within his observation to be so patently and obviously false that he must have closed his eyes to avoid discovery of the truth.' [Citation.] Even in case of a mere negligent misrepresentation, a plaintiff is not barred unless his conduct, in the light of his own information and intelligence, is preposterous and irrational. … The effectiveness of disclaimers is assessed in light of these principles. [Citation.]" ' " (Public Employees' Retirement System v. Moody's Investors Service, Inc. (2014) 226 Cal.App.4th 643, 673 [172 Cal.Rptr.3d 238].)

- "[I]f the conduct of the plaintiff in the light of his own intelligence and information was manifestly unreasonable, however, he will be denied a recovery." (Thrifty Payless, Inc. v. The Americana at Brand, LLC (2013) 218 Cal.App.4th 1230, 1239 [160 Cal.Rptr.3d 718].)

- "Except in the rare case where the undisputed facts leave no room for a reasonable difference of opinion, the question of whether a plaintiff's reliance is reasonable is a question of fact." (Beckwith v. Dahl (2012) 205 Cal.App.4th 1039, 1067 [141 Cal.Rptr.3d 142].)

- " 'What would constitute fraud in a given instance might not be fraudulent when exercised toward another person. The test of the representation is its actual effect on the particular mind ... .' " (Blankenheim, supra, 217 Cal.App.3d at p. 1475, internal citation omitted.)

- "[Plaintiff]'s deposition testimony on which appellants rely also reveals that she is a practicing attorney and uses releases in her practice. In essence, she is asking this court to rule that a practicing attorney can rely on the advice of an equestrian instructor as to the validity of a written release of liability that she executed without reading. In determining whether one can reasonably or justifiably rely on an alleged misrepresentation, the knowledge, education and experience of the person claiming reliance must be considered. Under these circumstances, we conclude as a matter of law that any such reliance was not reasonable." (Guido v. Koopman (1991) 1 Cal.App.4th 837, 843–844 [2 Cal.Rptr.2d 437], internal citations omitted.)

- "[I]t is inherently unreasonable for any person to rely on a prediction of future IRS enactment, enforcement, or non-enforcement of the law by someone unaffiliated with the federal government. As such, the reasonable reliance element of any fraud claim based on these predictions fails as a matter of law." (Brakke v. Economic Concepts, Inc. (2013) 213 Cal.App.4th 761, 769 [153 Cal.Rptr.3d 1].)

- "[A] presumption, or at least an inference, of reliance arises wherever there is a showing that a misrepresentation was material. A misrepresentation is judged to be 'material' if 'a reasonable man would attach importance to its existence or nonexistence in determining his choice of action in the transaction in question' and as such, materiality is generally a question of fact unless the 'fact misrepresented is so obviously unimportant that the jury could not reasonably find that a reasonable man would have been influenced by it.' " (Engalla v. Permanente Medical Group, Inc. (1997) 15 Cal.4th 951, 977 [64 Cal.Rptr.2d 843, 938 P.2d 903], internal citations omitted.)

- "[I]t is well established that the kind of disclaimers and exculpatory documents—such as the 'estoppel' attached to the lease and signed by [plaintiff] that disavowed any representations made by landlord or its agents to him—do not operate to insulate defrauding parties from liability or preclude [plaintiff] from demonstrating justifiable reliance on misrepresentations." (Orozco v. WPV San Jose, LLC (2019) 36 Cal.App.5th 375, 393 [248 Cal.Rptr.3d 623].)

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10~~11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~812~~933 ~~815~~937

3 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 40, Fraud and Deceit and Other Business Torts, § 40.06 (Matthew Bender)

23 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 269, Fraud and Deceit, § 269.19 (Matthew Bender)

10 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 105, Fraud and Deceit, § 105.229 (Matthew Bender)

2 California Civil Practice: Torts, § 22:32 (Thomson Reuters)

1910. Real Estate Seller's Nondisclosure of Material Facts

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] failed to disclose certain information, and that because of this failure to disclose, [name of plaintiff] was harmed. In order to establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] purchased [describe real property] from [name of defendant];
2. That [name of defendant] knew that [specify information that was not disclosed];
3. That [name of defendant] did not disclose this information to [name of plaintiff];
4. That [name of plaintiff] did not know, and could not reasonably have discovered, this information;
5. That [name of defendant] knew that [name of plaintiff] did not know, and could not reasonably have discovered, this information;
6. That this information significantly affected the value or desirability of the property;
7. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and
8. That [name of defendant]'s failure to disclose the information was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

New December 2009; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction sets forth the common law duty of disclosure that a real estate seller has to ~~his or her~~ a buyer. Nondisclosure is tantamount to a misrepresentation. (See Calemine v. Samuelson (2009) 171 Cal.App.4th 153, 161 [89 Cal.Rptr.3d 495].)

For certain transfers, there is also a statutory duty of disclosure. (See Civ. Code, § 1102 et seq.) The scope of the required disclosure is set forth on a statutory form. (See Civ. Code, § 1102.6.) The common law duty is not preempted by the statutory duty (see Civ. Code, § 1102.1(a)), but breach of the statutory duty can constitute proof of breach of the common law duty if all of the elements are established. (See, e.g., Calemine, supra, 171 Cal.App.4th at pp. 164–165 [seller did not disclose earlier lawsuits, as required by statutory form].)

Sources and Authority

- Real Estate Buyer's Action Against Seller. Civil Code section 1102.13.

- " 'A real estate seller has both a common law and statutory duty of disclosure. … "In the context of a real estate transaction, '[i]t is now settled in California that where the seller knows of facts materially affecting the value or desirability of the property … and also knows that such facts are not known to, or within the reach of the diligent attention and observation of the buyer, the seller is under a duty to disclose them to the buyer. [Citations.]' [Citations.] Undisclosed facts are material if they would have a significant and measurable effect on market value. [Citation.]" … Where a seller fails to disclose a material fact, he may be subject to liability 'for mere nondisclosure since his conduct in the transaction amounts to a representation of the nonexistence of the facts which he has failed to disclose [citation]." [Citation.]' " (RSB Vineyards, LLC v. Orsi (2017) 15 Cal.App.5th 1089, 1097 [223 Cal.Rptr.3d 458], original italics.)

- "Generally, whether the undisclosed matter was of sufficient materiality to have affected the value or desirability of the property is a question of fact." (Calemine, supra, 171 Cal.App.4th at p. 161, internal citations omitted.)

- "Actual knowledge can, and often is, shown by inference from circumstantial evidence. In that case, however, ' "actual knowledge can be inferred from the circumstances only if, in the light of the evidence, such inference is not based on speculation or conjecture. Only where the circumstances are such that the defendant 'must have known' and not 'should have known' will an inference of actual knowledge be permitted." ' " (RSB Vineyards, LLC, supra, 15 Cal.App.5th at p. 1098, internal citation omitted.)

- "Generally, where one party to a transaction has sole knowledge or access to material facts and knows that such facts are not known or reasonably discoverable by the other party, then a duty to disclose exists." (See Shapiro v. Sutherland (1998) 64 Cal.App.4th 1534, 1544 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 101].)

- "Failure of the seller to fulfill [the] duty of disclosure constitutes actual fraud." (Lingsch v. Savage (1963) 213 Cal.App.2d 729, 736 [29 Cal.Rptr. 201].)

- "When and where the action by the purchaser is based on conditions that are visible and that a personal inspection at once discloses and, when it is admitted that such personal inspection was in fact made, then manifestly it cannot be successfully contended that the purchaser relied upon any alleged misrepresentations with regard to such visible conditions. But personal inspection is no defense when and where the conditions are not visible and are known only to the seller, and 'where material facts are accessible to the vendor only and he knows them not to be within the reach of the diligent attention and observation of the vendee, the vendor is bound to disclose such facts to the vendee.' " (Buist v. C. Dudley De Velbiss Corp. (1960) 182 Cal.App.2d 325, 331 [6 Cal.Rptr. 259].)

- "In enacting [Civil Code section 1102 et seq.], the Legislature made clear it did not intend to alter a seller's common law duty of disclosure. The purpose of the enactment was instead to make the required disclosures specific and clear. (Calemine, supra, 171 Cal.App.4th at pp. 161–162.)

- "The legislation was sponsored by the California Association of Realtors to provide a framework for formal disclosure of facts relevant to a decision to purchase realty. The statute therefore confirms and perhaps clarifies a disclosure obligation that existed previously at common law." (Shapiro, supra, 64 Cal.App.4th at p. 1539, fn. 6.)

Secondary Sources

1 California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 71, Real Property Purchase and Sale Agreements, § 71.30 (Matthew Bender)

10 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 103, Brokers, § 103.31 (Matthew Bender)

50 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 569, Vendor and Purchaser of Real Property, § 569.11 (Matthew Bender)

2A California Points and Authorities, Ch. 31, Brokers and Salesperson, § 31.142 (Matthew Bender)

Greenwald et al., California Practice Guide: Real Property Transactions, Ch. 4-E, Purchase and Sale Agreement—Terms and Conditions, ~~(The Rutter Group)~~ ¶ 4:351 et seq. (The Rutter Group)

2000. Trespass—Essential Factual Elements

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] trespassed on [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] property. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] [owned/leased/occupied/controlled] the property;

2. That [name of defendant] [intentionally/, although not intending to do so, [recklessly [or] negligently]] entered [name of plaintiff]'s property] [or]

   [intentionally/, although not intending to do so, [recklessly [or] negligently]] caused [another person/[insert name of thing]] to enter [name of plaintiff]'s property];

3. That [name of plaintiff] did not give permission for the entry [or that [name of defendant] exceeded [name of plaintiff]'s permission];

4. That [name of plaintiff] was [actually] harmed; and

5. That [name of defendant]'s [entry/conduct] was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

[Entry can be on, above, or below the surface of the land.]

[Entry may occur indirectly, such as by causing vibrations that damage the land or structures or other improvements on the land.]

New September 2003; Revised June 2013, May 2020

Directions for Use

With regard to element 2, liability for trespass may be imposed for conduct that is intentional, reckless, negligent, or the result of an extra-hazardous activity. (Staples v. Hoefke (1987) 189 Cal.App.3d 1397, 1406 [235 Cal.Rptr. 165].) However, intent to trespass means only that the person intended to be in the particular place where the trespass is alleged to have occurred. (Miller v. National Broadcasting Corp. (1986) 187 Cal.App.3d 1463, 1480–1481 [232 Cal.Rptr. 668].) Liability may be also based on the defendant's unintentional, but negligent or reckless, act, for example, an automobile accident. An intent to damage is not necessary. (Meyer v. Pacific Employers Insurance Co. (1965) 233 Cal.App.2d 321, 326 [43 Cal.Rptr. 542].)

It is no defense that the defendant mistakenly, but in good faith, believed that ~~he or she~~the defendant had a right to be in that location. (Cassinos v. Union Oil Co. (1993) 14 Cal.App.4th 1770, 1780 [18 Cal.Rptr.2d 574].) In such a case, the word "intentionally" in element 2 might be confusing to the jury. To alleviate this possible confusion, give the third option to CACI No. 2004, "Intentional Entry" Explained.

If plaintiff is seeking nominal damages as an alternative to actual damages, insert the following paragraph above element 4, add "and" at the end of element 2, and adjust punctuation accordingly:

> If you find all of the above, then the law assumes that [name of plaintiff] has been harmed and [name of plaintiff] is entitled to a nominal sum such as one dollar. [Name of plaintiff] is entitled to additional damages if [name of plaintiff] proves the following:

The last sentence of the above paragraph, along with the final two elements of this instruction, should be omitted if plaintiff is seeking nominal damages only. Read "actually" in the fourth element only if nominal damages are also being sought.

Nominal damages alone are not available in cases involving intangible intrusions such as noise and vibrations; proof of actual damage to the property is required: "[T]he rule is that actionable trespass may not be predicated upon nondamaging noise, odor, or light intrusion. …" (San Diego Gas & Electric Co. v. Superior Court (1996) 13 Cal.4th 893, 936 [55 Cal.Rptr.2d 724, 920 P.2d 669], internal citation omitted.) For an instruction on control of property, see CACI No. 1002, Extent of Control Over Premises Area, in the Premises Liability series.

Sources and Authority

- "Generally, landowners and tenants have a right to exclude persons from trespassing on private property; the right to exclude persons is a fundamental aspect of private property ownership." (Ralphs Grocery Co. v. Victory Consultants, Inc. (2017) 17 Cal.App.5th 245, 258 [225 Cal.Rptr.3d 305].)

- " 'Trespass is an unlawful interference with possession of property.' The elements of trespass are: (1) the plaintiff's ownership or control of the property; (2) the defendant's intentional, reckless, or negligent entry onto the property; (3) lack of permission for the entry or acts in excess of permission; (4) harm; and (5) the defendant's conduct was a substantial factor in causing the harm. (See CACI No. 2000.)" (Ralphs Grocery Co., supra, 17 Cal.App.5th at pp. 261–262, internal citation omitted.)

- "[I]n order to state a cause of action for trespass a plaintiff must allege an unauthorized and tangible entry on the land of another, which interfered with the plaintiff's exclusive possessory rights." (McBride v. Smith (2018) 18 Cal.App.5th 1160, 1174 [227 Cal.Rptr.3d 390].)

- "The emission of sound waves which cause actual physical damage to property constitutes a trespass. Liability for trespass may be imposed for conduct which is intentional, reckless, negligent or the result of an extra-hazardous activity." (Staples, supra, 189 Cal.App.3d at p. 1406, internal citations omitted.)

- "California's definition of trespass is considerably narrower than its definition of nuisance. " 'A trespass is an invasion of the interest in the exclusive possession of land, as by entry upon it ... . A nuisance is an interference with the interest in the private use and enjoyment of the land and does not require interference with the possession.' " California has adhered firmly to the view that '[t]he cause of action for trespass is designed to protect possessory-not necessarily ownership-interests in land from unlawful interference.' " (Capogeannis v. Superior Court (1993) 12 Cal.App.4th 668, 674 [15 Cal.Rptr.2d 796], internal citations omitted.)

- "In the context of a trespass action, 'possession' is synonymous with 'occupation' and connotes a subjection of property to one's will and control." (Veiseh v. Stapp (2019) 35 Cal.App.5th 1099, 1105 [247 Cal.Rptr.3d 868].)

- " '[A] trespass may be committed by the continued presence on the land of a structure, chattel, or other thing which the actor has tortiously placed there, whether or not the actor has the ability to remove it.' Under this definition, 'tortious conduct' denotes that conduct, whether of act or omission, which subjects the actor to liability under the principles of the law of torts." (Newhall Land & Farming Co. v. Superior Court (1993) 19 Cal.App.4th 334, 345 [23 Cal.Rptr.2d 377], internal citations omitted.)

- The common-law distinction between direct and constructive trespass is not followed in California. A trespass may be committed by consequential and indirect injuries as well as by direct and forcible harm. (Gallin v. Poulou (1956) 140 Cal.App.2d 638, 641 [295 P.2d 958].)

- " 'It is a well-settled proposition that the proper party plaintiff in an action for trespass to real property is the person in actual possession. No averment of title in plaintiff is necessary. [Citations.]' … 'A defendant who is a mere stranger to the title will not be allowed to question the title of a plaintiff in possession of the land. It is only where the trespasser claims title himself, or claims under the real owner, that he is allowed to attack the title of the plaintiff whose peaceable possession he has disturbed.' " (Veiseh, supra, 35 Cal.App.5th at p. 1104, internal citation omitted.)

- "An action for trespass may technically be maintained only by one whose right to possession has been violated; however, an out-of-possession property owner may recover for an injury to the land by a trespasser which damages the ownership interest." (Smith v. Cap Concrete, Inc. (1982) 133 Cal.App.3d 769, 774 [184 Cal.Rptr. 308], internal citation omitted.)

- "Under the forcible entry statutes the fact that a defendant may have title or the right to possession of the land is no defense. The plaintiff's interest in peaceable even if wrongful possession is secured against forcible intrusion by conferring on him the right to restitution of the premises, the primary remedy, and incidentally awarding damages proximately caused by the forcible entry." (Allen v. McMillion (1978) 82 Cal.App.3d 211, 218–219 [147 Cal.Rptr. 77], internal citations omitted.)

- "Where there is a consensual entry, there is no tort, because lack of consent is an element of the wrong." (Civic Western Corp. v. Zila Industries, Inc. (1977) 66 Cal.App.3d 1, 16–17 [135 Cal.Rptr. 915].)

- " 'A conditional or restricted consent to enter land creates a privilege to do so only insofar as the condition or restriction is complied with.' " (Civic Western Corp., supra, 66 Cal.App.3d at p. 17, quoting Rest.2d Torts, § 168.)

- "Where one has permission to use land for a particular purpose and proceeds to abuse the privilege, or commits any act hostile to the interests of the lessor, he becomes a trespasser. [¶] 'A good faith belief that entry has been authorized or permitted provides no excuse for infringement of property rights if consent was not in fact given by the property owner whose rights are at issue. Accordingly, by showing they gave no authorization, [plaintiffs] established the lack of consent necessary to support their action for injury to their ownership interests.' " (Cassinos, supra, 14 Cal.App.4th at p. 1780, internal citations omitted.)

- " '[T]he intent required as a basis for liability as a trespasser is simply an intent to be at the place on the land where the trespass allegedly occurred ... . The defendant is liable for an intentional entry although he has acted in good faith, under the mistaken belief, however reasonable, that he is committing no wrong.' " (Miller, supra, 187 Cal.App.3d at pp. 1480–1481, internal citation omitted.)

- "The general rule is simply that damages may be recovered for annoyance and distress, including mental anguish, proximately caused by a trespass." (Armitage v. Decker (1990) 218 Cal.App.3d 887, 905 [267 Cal.Rptr. 399], internal citations omitted.)

- "Causes of action for conversion and trespass support an award for exemplary damages." (Krieger v. Pacific Gas & Electric Co. (1981) 119 Cal.App.3d 137, 148 [173 Cal.Rptr. 751], internal citation omitted.)

- "It is true that an action for trespass will support an award of nominal damages where actual damages are not shown. However, nominal damages need not be awarded where no actual loss has occurred. 'Failure to return a verdict for nominal damages is not in general ground for reversing a judgment or granting a new trial.' " (Staples, supra, 189 Cal.App.3d at p. 1406, internal citations omitted.)

- "Trespass may be ' "by personal intrusion of the wrongdoer or by his failure to leave; by throwing or placing something on the land; or by causing the entry of some other person." ' A trespass may be on the surface of the land, above it, or below it. The migration of pollutants from one property to another may constitute a trespass, a nuisance, or both." (Martin Marietta Corp. v. Insurance Co. of North America (1995) 40 Cal.App.4th 1113, 1132 [47 Cal.Rptr.2d 670], internal citations omitted.)

- "Respondent's plant was located in a zone which permitted its operation. It comes within the protection of section 731a of the Code of Civil Procedure which, subject to certain exceptions, generally provides that where a manufacturing or commercial operation is permitted by local zoning, no private individual can enjoin such an operation. It has been determined, however, that this section does not operate to bar recovery for damages for trespassory invasions of another's property occasioned by the conduct of such manufacturing or commercial use." (Roberts v. Permanente Corp. (1961) 188 Cal.App.2d 526, 529 [10 Cal.Rptr. 519], internal citations omitted.)

- "[A]s a matter of law, [plaintiff] cannot state a cause of action against the [defendants] for trespassing on the Secondary Access Easement because they own that land and her easement does not give her a possessory right, not to mention an exclusive possessory right in that property." (McBride, supra, 18 Cal.App.5th at p. 1174.)

- "[A] failure to comply with one or more provisions of the California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act does not render the grantor's continued possession and control of the real property unlawful for purposes of the tort of trespass to realty." (Veiseh, supra, 35 Cal.App.5th at p. 1107.)

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10~~11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~693~~803–~~695~~805

2 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 17, Nuisance and Trespass, § 17.20 (Matthew Bender)

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 550, Trespass, §§ 550.11, 550.19 (Matthew Bender)

22 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 225, Trespass, § 225.20 (Matthew Bender)

1 California Civil Practice: Torts §§ 18:1, 18:4–18:8, 18:10 (Thomson Reuters)

2002. Trespass to Timber—Essential Factual Elements (Civ. Code, § 3346)

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] trespassed on [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] property and [cut down or damaged trees/took timber]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] [owned/leased/occupied/controlled] the property;

2. That [name of defendant] intentionally entered [name of plaintiff]'s property and [cut down or damaged trees/took timber] located on the property;

   [*or]

   That [*name of defendant], although not intending to do so, [recklessly/ [or] negligently] entered [name of plaintiff]'s property and damaged trees located on the property;

3. That [name of plaintiff] did not give permission to [cut down or damage the trees/take timber] [or that [name of defendant] exceeded [name of plaintiff]'s permission];

4. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

5. That [name of defendant]'s conduct was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

[In considering whether [*name of plaintiff] was harmed, you may take into account the lost aesthetics and functionality of an injured tree.]

New September 2003; Revised June 2013, May 2020

Directions for Use

Give this instruction for loss of timber or damages to trees. Note that actual damages are to be doubled regardless of the defendant's intent. (See Civ. Code, § 3346(a).) If treble damages for willful and malicious conduct are sought, also give CACI No. 2003, Damage to Timber—Willful and Malicious Conduct.

With regard to element 2, liability for trespass may be imposed for conduct that is intentional, reckless, negligent, or the result of an extra-hazardous activity. (Staples v. Hoefke (1987) 189 Cal.App.3d 1397, 1406 [235 Cal.Rptr. 165].) However, intent to trespass means only that the person intended to be in the particular place where the trespass is alleged to have occurred. (Miller v. National Broadcasting Corp. (1986) 187 Cal.App.3d 1463, 1480–1481 [232 Cal.Rptr. 668].) Liability may be also based on the defendant's unintentional, but negligent or reckless, act; for example an automobile accident that damages a tree. An intent to damage is not necessary. (Meyer v. Pacific Employers Insurance Co. (1965)

233 Cal.App.2d 321 [43 Cal.Rptr. 542].)

It is no defense that the defendant mistakenly, but in good faith, believed that ~~he or she~~the defendant had a right to be in that location. (Cassinos v. Union Oil Co. (1993) 14 Cal.App.4th 1770, 1780 [18 Cal.Rptr.2d 574].) In such a case, the word "intentionally" in element 2 might be confusing to the jury. To alleviate this possible confusion, give the third option to CACI No. 2004, "Intentional Entry" Explained. See also the Sources and Authority to CACI No. 2000, Trespass—Essential Factual Elements.

Include the last paragraph if the plaintiff claims harm based on lost aesthetics and functionality.

Sources and Authority

- Damages for Injury to Timber. Civil Code section 3346(a).

- "[T]he effect of [Civil Code] section 3346 as amended, read together with [Code of Civil Procedure] section 733, is that the Legislature intended, insofar as wilful and malicious trespass is concerned under either section, to leave the imposition of treble damages discretionary with the court, but to place a floor upon that discretion at double damages which must be applied whether the trespass be wilful and malicious or casual and involuntary, etc. There are now three measures of damages applicable to the pertinent types of trespass: (1) for wilful and malicious trespass the court may impose treble damages but must impose double damages; (2) for casual and involuntary trespass, etc., the court must impose double damages; and (3) for trespass under authority actual damages." (Salazar v. Matejcek (2016) 245 Cal.App.4th 634, 645, fn.3 [199 Cal.Rptr.3d 705].)

- "The measure of damages to be doubled or trebled under Code of Civil Procedure section 733 and Civil Code section 3346 is not limited to the value of the timber or the damage to the trees. The statutes have been interpreted to permit doubling or trebling the full measure of compensable damages for tortious injury to property." (Fulle v. Kanani (2017) 7 Cal.App.5th 1305, 1312 [212 Cal.Rptr.3d 920] [annoyance and discomfort damages resulting from tortious injuries to timber or trees are subject to the damage multiplier under Code of Civil Procedure section 733 and Civil Code section 3346].)

- The damages provisions in sections 3346 and 733 must be "treated as penal and punitive." (Baker v. Ramirez (1987) 190 Cal.App.3d 1123, 1138 [235 Cal.Rptr. 857], internal citation omitted.)

- " 'However, due to the penal nature of these provisions, the damages should be neither doubled nor tripled under section 3346 if punitive damages are awarded under section 3294. That would amount to punishing the defendant twice and is not necessary to further the policy behind section 3294 of educating blunderers (persons who mistake location of boundary lines) and discouraging rogues (persons who ignore boundary lines).' " (Hassoldt v. Patrick Media Group, Inc. (2000) 84 Cal.App.4th 153, 169 [100 Cal.Rptr.2d 662], internal citations omitted.)

- "Diminution in market value ... is not an absolute limitation; several other theories are available to fix appropriate compensation for the plaintiff's loss. ... [¶] One alternative measure of damages is the cost of restoring the property to its condition prior to the injury. Courts will normally not award costs of restoration if they exceed the diminution in the value of the property; the plaintiff may be awarded the lesser of the two amounts." (Heninger v. Dunn (1980) 101 Cal.App.3d 858, 862 [162 Cal.Rptr. 104], internal citations omitted.)

- "The rule precluding recovery of restoration costs in excess of diminution in value is, however, not of invariable application. Restoration costs may be awarded even though they exceed the decrease in market value if 'there is a reason personal to the owner for restoring the original condition,' or 'where there is reason to believe that the plaintiff will, if fact, make the repairs.' " (Heninger, supra, 101 Cal.App.3d at p. 863, internal citations omitted.)

- "Courts have stressed that only reasonable costs of replacing destroyed trees with identical or substantially similar trees may be recovered." (Heninger, supra, 101 Cal.App.3d at p. 865.)

- "As a tree growing on a property line, the Aleppo pine tree was a 'line tree.' Civil Code section 834 provides: 'Trees whose trunks stand partly on the land of two or more coterminous owners, belong to them in common.' As such, neither owner 'is at liberty to cut the tree without the consent of the other, nor to cut away the part which extends into his land, if he thereby injures the common property in the tree.' " (Kallis v. Sones (2012) 208 Cal.App.4th 1274, 1278 [146 Cal.Rptr.3d 419].)

- "[W]hen considering the diminished value of an injured tree, the finder of fact may account for lost aesthetics and functionality." (Rony v. Costa (2012) 210 Cal.App.4th 746, 755 [148 Cal.Rptr.3d 642].)

- "Although [plaintiff] never quantified the loss of aesthetics at $15,000, she need not have done so. As with other hard-to-quantify injuries, such as emotional and reputational ones, the trier of fact court was free to place any dollar amount on aesthetic harm, unless the amount was ' "so grossly excessive as to shock the moral sense, and raise a reasonable presumption that the [trier of fact] was under the influence of passion or prejudice." ' " (Rony, supra, 210 Cal.App.4th at p. 756.)

- "[P]laintiffs here showed (i) the tree's unusual size and form made it very unusual for a 'line tree'—it functioned more like two trees growing on the separate properties; (ii) the tree's attributes, such as its broad canopy, provided significant benefits to the [plaintiffs'] property; and (iii) the [plaintiffs] placed great personal value on the tree. The trial court correctly recognized that it could account for these factors when determining damages, including whether or not damages should be reduced." (Kallis, supra, 208 Cal.App.4th at p. 1279.)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Torts, §§ 1917−1919

2 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 17, Nuisance and Trespass, § 17.20 (Matthew Bender)

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 550, Trespass, § 550.10 (Matthew Bender)

22 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 225, Trespass, § 225.161 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

2003. Damage to Timber—Willful and Malicious Conduct

[Name of plaintiff] also claims that [name of defendant]'s conduct in cutting down, damaging, or harvesting [name of plaintiff]'s trees was willful and malicious.

"Willful" simply means that [name of defendant]'s conduct was intentional.

"Malicious" means that [name of defendant] acted with intent to vex, annoy, harass, or injure, or that [name of defendant]'s conduct was done with a knowing disregard of the rights or safety of another. A person acts with knowing disregard when ~~he or she~~the person is aware of the probable dangerous consequences of ~~his or her~~the person's conduct and deliberately fails to avoid those consequences.

New September 2003; Revised December 2010, May 2020

Directions for Use

Read this instruction if the plaintiff is seeking double or treble damages because the defendant's conduct was willful and malicious. (See Civ. Code, § 3346; Code Civ. Proc., § 733; Ostling v. Loring (1994) 27 Cal.App.4th 1731, 1742 [33 Cal.Rptr.2d 391].) The judge should ensure that this finding is noted on the special verdict form. The jury should find the actual damages suffered. If the jury finds willful and malicious conduct, the court must award double damages and may award treble damages. (See Ostling, supra, 27 Cal.App.4th at p. 1742.)

Sources and Authority

- Damages for Injury to Timber. Civil Code section 3346(a).
- Treble Damages for Injury to Timber. Code of Civil Procedure section 733.
- "[T]he effect of [Civil Code] section 3346 as amended, read together with [Code of Civil Procedure] section 733, is that the Legislature intended, insofar as wilful and malicious trespass is concerned under either section, to leave the imposition of treble damages discretionary with the court, but to place a floor upon that discretion at double damages which must be applied whether the trespass be wilful and malicious or casual and involuntary, etc. There are now three measures of damages applicable to the pertinent types of trespass: (1) for wilful and malicious trespass the court may impose treble damages but must impose double damages; (2) for casual and involuntary trespass, etc., the court must impose double damages; and (3) for trespass under authority actual damages." (Salazar v. Matejcek (2016) 245 Cal.App.4th 634, 645, fn. 3 [199 Cal.Rptr.3d 705].)
- "The measure of damages to be doubled or trebled under Code of Civil Procedure section 733 and Civil Code section 3346 is not limited to the value of the timber or the damage to the trees. The statutes have been interpreted to permit doubling or trebling the full measure of compensable damages for tortious injury to property." (Fulle v. Kanani (2017) 7 Cal.App.5th 1305, 1312 [212 Cal.Rptr.3d 920] [annoyance and discomfort damages resulting from tortious injuries to timber or trees are subject to the damage multiplier under Code of Civil Procedure section 733 and Civil Code section 3346].)

- The damages provisions in sections 3346 and 733 must be "treated as penal and punitive." (Baker v. Ramirez (1987) 190 Cal.App.3d 1123, 1138 [235 Cal.Rptr. 857], internal citation omitted.)

- " 'However, due to the penal nature of these provisions, the damages should be neither doubled nor tripled under section 3346 if punitive damages are awarded under section 3294. That would amount to punishing the defendant twice and is not necessary to further the policy behind section 3294 of educating blunderers (persons who mistake location of boundary lines) and discouraging rogues (persons who ignore boundary lines).' " (Hassoldt v. Patrick Media Group, Inc. (2000) 84 Cal.App.4th 153, 169 [100 Cal.Rptr.2d 662], internal citations omitted.)

- " ' " '[T]reble damages may only be awarded when the wrongdoer intentionally acted wilfully or maliciously. The intent required is the intent to vex, harass, or annoy or injure the plaintiff. It is a question of fact for the trial court whether or not such intent exists.' [Civil Code section 3346 and Code of Civil Procedure section 733] are permissive and not mandatory and while they 'prescribe the degree of penalty to be invoked they commit to the sound discretion of the trial court the facts and circumstances under which it shall be invoked.' " ' " (Salazar, supra, 245 Cal.App.4th at p. 646, internal citation omitted.)

- "Although neither section [3346 or 733] expressly so provides, it is now settled that to warrant such an award of treble damages it must be established that the wrongful act was willful and malicious." (Caldwell v. Walker (1963) 211 Cal.App.2d 758, 762 [27 Cal.Rptr. 675], internal citations omitted.)

- "A proper and helpful analogue here is the award of exemplary damages under section 3294 of the Civil Code when a defendant has been guilty, inter alia, of 'malice, express or implied.' … 'In order to warrant the allowance of such damages the act complained of must not only be wilful, in the sense of intentional, but it must be accompanied by some aggravating circumstance, amounting to malice. Malice implies an act conceived in a spirit of mischief or with criminal indifference towards the obligations owed to others. There must be an intent to vex, annoy or injure. Mere spite or ill will is not sufficient.' … Malice may consist of a state of mind determined to perform an act with reckless or wanton disregard of or indifference to the rights of others. Since a defendant rarely admits to such a state of mind, it must frequently be established from the circumstances surrounding his allegedly malicious acts." (Caldwell, supra, 211 Cal.App.2d at pp. 763–764, internal citations omitted.)

- "Under [Health and Safety Code] section 13007, a tortfeasor generally is liable to the owner of property for damage caused by a negligently set fire. '[T]he statute places no restrictions on the type of property damage that is compensable.' Such damages might include, for example, damage to structures, to movable personal property, to soil, or to undergrowth; damages may even include such elements as the lost profits of a business damaged by fire. If the fire also damages trees—that is, causes 'injuries to … trees … upon the land of another'—then the actual damages recoverable under section 13007 may be doubled (for negligently caused fires) or trebled (for fires intended to spread to the plaintiff's property) pursuant to section 3346." (Kelly v. CB&I Constructors, Inc. (2009) 179 Cal.App.4th 442, 461 [102 Cal.Rptr.3d 32], internal citations omitted; but see Gould v. Madonna (1970) 5 Cal.App.3d 404, 407–408 [85 Cal.Rptr. 457] [Civ. Code, § 3346 does not apply to fires negligently set; Health & Saf. Code, § 13007 provides sole remedy].)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Torts, § 1918

4 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 52, Recovery for Medical Expenses and Economic Loss, § 52.34 (Matthew Bender)

31 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 350, Logs and Timber, § 350.12 (Matthew Bender)

22 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 225, Trespass, § 225.161 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

2004. "Intentional Entry" Explained

[An entry is intentional if a person knowingly goes onto the property of another or knowingly causes something to go onto that property.]

[An entry is intentional if a person engages in conduct that is substantially certain to cause something to go onto that property.]

[Intent to trespass means only that a person intended to be in the particular location where the trespass is alleged to have occurred. An entry is intentional even if the person reasonably but mistakenly thought that ~~he or she~~the person had a right to come onto that property.]

An intent to do harm to the property or to the owner is not required.

New September 2003; Revised June 2013, May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction is not intended for general use in every case. Give one of the three bracketed optionsif an issue regarding the intent of the entry is raised and further explanation is required. The third option should be given if the entry could appear to the jury to be unintentional, such as if the defendant was not aware that ~~he or she~~the defendant was trespassing. (See Miller v. National Broadcasting Corp. (1986) 187 Cal.App.3d 1463, 1480–1481 [232 Cal.Rptr. 668].)

Sources and Authority

- "The doing of an act which will to a substantial certainty result in the entry of foreign matter upon another's land suffices for an intentional trespass to land upon which liability may be based. It was error to instruct the jury that an 'intent to harm' was required." (Roberts v. Permanente Corp. (1961) 188 Cal.App.2d 526, 530–531 [10 Cal.Rptr. 519], internal citation omitted.)

- An instruction on the definition of intentional trespass is considered a proper statement of law. Failure to give this instruction on request where appropriate is error. (Staples v. Hoefke (1987) 189 Cal.App.3d 1397, 1407 [235 Cal.Rptr. 165].)

- "As Prosser and Keeton on Torts ... explained, '[t]he intent required as a basis for liability as a trespasser is simply an intent to be at the place on the land where the trespass allegedly occurred ... . The defendant is liable for an intentional entry although he has acted in good faith, under the mistaken belief, however reasonable, that he is committing no wrong.' " (Miller, supra, 187 Cal.App.3d at pp. 1480–1481, internal citation omitted.)

- "Intent to cause damage was not, however, an element of [trespass] and … the trespasser was liable for such damage as he caused even though that damage was not intended or foreseen by him." (Meyer

v. Pacific Employers Ins. Co. (1965) 233 Cal.App.2d 321, 326 [43 Cal.Rptr. 542].)

Secondary Sources

2 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 17, Nuisance and Trespass, § 17.20[3] (Matthew Bender)

48 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 550, Trespass, § 550.15 (Matthew Bender)

22 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 225, Trespass, § 225.40 (Matthew Bender)

~~1~~ California Civil Practice: Torts § 18:4 (Thomson Reuters ~~West~~)

2200. Inducing Breach of Contract

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] intentionally caused [name of third party] to breach [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] contract with [name of plaintiff]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That there was a contract between [name of plaintiff] and [name of third party];

2. That [name of defendant] knew of the contract;

3. That [name of defendant] intended to cause [name of third party] to breach the contract;

4. That [name of defendant]'s conduct caused [name of third party] to breach the contract;

5. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

6. That [name of defendant]'s conduct was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

New September 2003

Directions for Use

If the validity of a contract is an issue, see the series of contracts instructions (CACI No. 300 et seq.).

Sources and Authority

- "[C]ases have pointed out that while the tort of inducing breach of contract requires proof of a breach, the cause of action for interference with contractual relations is distinct and requires only proof of interference." (Pacific Gas & Electric Co. v. Bear Stearns & Co. (1990) 50 Cal.3d 1118, 1129 [270 Cal.Rptr. 1, 791 P.2d 587], internal citations omitted.)

- "The elements which a plaintiff must plead to state the cause of action for intentional interference with contractual relations are (1) a valid contract between plaintiff and a third party; (2) defendant's knowledge of this contract; (3) defendant's intentional acts designed to induce a breach or disruption of the contractual relationship; (4) actual breach or disruption of the contractual relationship; and (5) resulting damage." (Pacific Gas & Electric Co., supra, 50 Cal.3d at p. 1126, internal citations omitted.)

- "[A] cause of action for intentional interference with contract requires an underlying enforceable contract. Where there is no existing, enforceable contract, only a claim for interference with prospective advantage may be pleaded." (PMC, Inc. v. Saban Entertainment, Inc. (1996) 45 Cal.App.4th 579, 601 [52 Cal.Rptr.2d 877].)

- "The act of inducing the breach must be an intentional one. If the actor had no knowledge of the existence of the contract or his actions were not intended to induce a breach, he cannot be held liable though an actual breach results from his lawful and proper acts." (Imperial Ice Co. v. Rossier (1941) 18 Cal.2d 33, 37 [112 P.2d 631], internal citations omitted.)

- " 'To recover damages for inducing a breach of contract, the plaintiff need not establish that the defendant had full knowledge of the contract's terms. Comment i to Restatement Second of Torts, section 766, … states: "To be subject to liability [for inducing a breach of contract], the actor must have knowledge of the contract with which he is interfering and of the fact that he is interfering with the performance of the contract." ' " (Jenni Rivera Enterprises, LLC v. Latin World Entertainment Holdings, Inc. (2019) 36 Cal.App.5th 766, 783 [249 Cal.Rptr.3d 122].)

- "It is not enough that the actor intended to perform the acts which caused the result-he or she must have intended to cause the result itself." (Kasparian v. County of Los Angeles (1995) 38 Cal.App.4th 242, 261 [45 Cal.Rptr.2d 90].)

- "The question is whether a plaintiff must plead and prove that the defendant engaged in wrongful acts with the specific intent of interfering with the plaintiff's business expectancy. We conclude that specific intent is not a required element of the tort of interference with prospective economic advantage. While a plaintiff may satisfy the intent requirement by pleading specific intent, i.e., that the defendant desired to interfere with the plaintiff's prospective economic advantage, a plaintiff may alternately plead that the defendant knew that the interference was certain or substantially certain to occur as a result of its action." (Korea Supply Co. v. Lockheed Martin Corp. (2003) 29 Cal.4th 1134, 1154 [131 Cal.Rptr.2d 29, 63 P.3d 937], original italics.)

- "The actionable wrong lies in the inducement to break the contract or to sever the relationship, not in the kind of contract or relationship so disrupted, whether it is written or oral, enforceable or not enforceable." (Pacific Gas & Electric Co., supra, 50 Cal.3d at p. 1127.)

- " '[I]t may be actionable to induce a party to a contract to terminate the contract according to its terms.' … '[I]t is the contractual relationship, not any term of the contract, which is protected against outside interference.' " (I-CA Enterprises, Inc. v. Palram Americas, Inc. (2015) 235 Cal.App.4th 257, 289 [185 Cal.Rptr.3d 24], internal citation omitted.)

- "[T]he tort cause of action for interference with a contract does not lie against a party to the contract. [Citations.] [¶] ... The tort duty not to interfere with the contract falls only on strangers-interlopers who have no legitimate interest in the scope or course of the contract's performance." (Applied Equipment Corp. v. Litton Saudi Arabia Ltd. (1994) 7 Cal.4th 503, 514 [28 Cal.Rptr.2d 475, 869 P.2d 454], internal citations omitted.)

- "[I]nterference with an at-will contract is actionable interference with the contractual relationship, on the theory that a contract 'at the will of the parties, respectively, does not make it one at the will of others. [Citations]'" (Pacific Gas & Electric Co., supra, 50 Cal.3d at p. 1127, internal citations and quotations omitted.)

- "Because interference with an existing contract receives greater solicitude than does interference with prospective economic advantage, it is not necessary that the defendant's conduct be wrongful apart from the interference with the contract itself." (Quelimane Co. v. Stewart Title Guaranty Co. (1998) 19 Cal.4th 26, 55 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 709, 960 P.2d 513], internal citations omitted.)

- " '[A] person is not justified in inducing a breach of contract simply because he is in competition with one of the parties to the contract and seeks to further his own economic advantage at the expense of the other. [Citations.]' This is because, '[w]hatever interest society has in encouraging free and open competition by means not in themselves unlawful, contractual stability is generally accepted as of greater importance than competitive freedom.' A party may not, 'under the guise of competition actively and affirmatively induce the breach of a competitor's contract.' " (I-CA Enterprises, Inc., supra, 235 Cal.App.4th at p. 290, internal citations omitted.)

- "We conclude that a plaintiff seeking to state a claim for intentional interference with contract or prospective economic advantage because defendant induced another to undertake litigation, must allege that the litigation was brought without probable cause and that the litigation concluded in plaintiff's favor." (Pacific Gas & Electric Co., supra, 50 Cal.3d at p. 1137.)

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10~~11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Torts, §§ ~~730~~842–~~740~~853

3 Levy et al., California Torts, Ch. 40, Fraud and Deceit and Other Business Torts, §§ 40.110–40.117 (Matthew Bender)

49 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 565, Unfair Competition, § 565.132 et seq (Matthew Bender)

12 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 122, Interference, § 122.20 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

2308. Affirmative Defense—Misrepresentation or Concealment in Insurance Application

[*Name of insurer] claims that no insurance contract was created because [name of insured] [concealed an important fact/made a false representation] in [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] application for insurance. To establish this defense, [name of insurer] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of insured] submitted an application for insurance with [name of insurer];

2. That in the application for insurance [name of insured], whether intentionally or unintentionally, [failed to state/represented] that [insert omission or alleged misrepresentation];

3. [That the application asked for that information;]

4. That [name of insured] knew that [specify facts that were misrepresented or omitted]; and

5. That [name of insurer] would not have issued the insurance policy if [name of insured] had stated the true facts in the application.

New September 2003; Revised April 2004, October 2004, June 2015, May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction presents an insurer's affirmative defense to a claim for coverage. The defense is based on a misrepresentation or omission made by the insured in the application for the insurance. (See Douglas v. Fid. Nat'l Ins. Co. (2014) 229 Cal.App.4th 392, 408 [177 Cal.Rptr.3d 271].) If the policy at issue is a standard fire insurance policy, replace "intentionally or unintentionally" in element 2 with "willfully." (See Ins. Code, § 2071.) Otherwise, the insurer is not required to prove an intent to deceive; negligence or inadvertence is enough if the misrepresentation or omission is material. (Douglas, supra, 229 Cal.App.4th at p. 408.) Element 5 expresses materiality.

Element 3 applies only if plaintiff omitted information, not if ~~he or she~~the plaintiff misrepresented information.

While no intent to mislead is required, the insured must know the facts that constitute the omission or misrepresentation (see element 4). For example, if the application does not disclose that property on which insurance is sought is being used commercially, the applicant must have known that the property is being used commercially. (See Ins. Code, § 332.) It is not a defense, however, if the insured gave incorrect or incomplete responses on the application because ~~he or she~~the insured failed to appreciate the significance of some information known to him or her. (See Thompson v. Occidental Life Insurance Co. of California (1973) 9 Cal.3d 904, 916 [109 Cal.Rptr. 473, 513 P.2d 353].)

If it is alleged that omission occurred in circumstances other than a written application, this instruction should be modified accordingly.

Sources and Authority

- Rescission of Contract. Civil Code section 1689(b)(1).
- Time of Insurer's Rescission of Policy. Insurance Code section 650.
- Concealment by Failure to Communicate. Insurance Code section 330.
- Concealment Entitles Insurer to Rescind. Insurance Code section 331.
- Duty to Communicate in Good Faith. Insurance Code section 332.
- Materiality. Insurance Code section 334.
- Intentional Omission of Information Tending to Prove Falsity. Insurance Code section 338.
- False Representation: Time for Rescission. Insurance Code section 359.
- "It is well established that material misrepresentations or concealment of material facts in an application for insurance entitle an insurer to rescind an insurance policy, even if the misrepresentations are not intentionally made. Additionally, '[a] misrepresentation or concealment of a material fact in an insurance application also establishes a complete defense in an action on the policy. [Citations.] As with rescission, an insurer seeking to invalidate a policy based on a material misrepresentation or concealment as a defense need not show an intent to deceive. [Citations.]' " (Douglas, supra, 229 Cal.App.4th at p. 408, internal citations omitted.)
- "When the [automobile] insurer fails ... to conduct ... a reasonable investigation [of insurability] it cannot assert ... a right of rescission" under section 650 of the Insurance Code as an affirmative defense to an action by an injured third party. (Barrera v. State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Co. (1969) 71 Cal.2d 659, 678 [79 Cal.Rptr. 106, 456 P.2d 674].)
- "[A]n insurer has a right to know all that the applicant for insurance knows regarding the state of his health and medical history. Material misrepresentation or concealment of such facts [is] grounds for rescission of the policy, and an actual intent to deceive need not be shown. Materiality is determined solely by the probable and reasonable effect [that] truthful answers would have had upon the insurer. The fact that the insurer has demanded answers to specific questions in an application for insurance is in itself usually sufficient to establish materiality as a matter of law." (Thompson, supra, 9 Cal.3d at pp. 915–916, internal citations omitted.)
- "[A]lthough an insurer generally 'has the right to rely on the applicant's answers without verifying their accuracy[,] … [¶] … [t]he insurer cannot rely on answers given where the applicant-insured was misled by vague or ambiguous questions.' " (Duarte v. Pacific Specialty Ins. Co. (2017) 13 Cal.App.5th 45, 54 [220 Cal.Rptr.3d 170], original italics.)

- "[I]f the applicant for insurance had no present knowledge of the facts sought, or failed to appreciate the significance of information related to him, his incorrect or incomplete responses would not constitute grounds for rescission. Moreover, '[questions] concerning illness or disease do not relate to minor indispositions but are to be construed as referring to serious ailments which undermine the general health.' Finally, as the misrepresentation must be a material one, 'incorrect answer on an insurance application does not give rise to the defense of fraud where the true facts, if known, would not have made the contract less desirable to the insurer.' And the trier of fact is not required to believe the 'post mortem' testimony of an insurer's agents that insurance would have been refused had the true facts been disclosed." (Thompson, supra, 9 Cal.3d at p. 916, internal citations omitted.)

- "[T]he burden of proving misrepresentation [for purposes of rescission] rests upon the insurer." (Thompson, supra, 9 Cal.3d at p. 919.)

- "To prevail, the insurer must prove that the insured made a material 'false representation' in an insurance application. 'A representation is false when the facts fail to correspond with its assertions or stipulations.' The test for materiality of the misrepresentation or concealment is the same as it is for rescission, 'a misrepresentation or concealment is material if a truthful statement would have affected the insurer's underwriting decision.' " (Douglas, supra, 229 Cal.App.4th at p. 408, internal citations omitted.)

- "The materiality of a representation made in an application for a contract of insurance is determined by a subjective standard (i.e., its effect on the particular insurer to whom it was made) and rescission will be allowed even though the misrepresentation was the result of negligence or the product of innocence. On the other hand, in order to void a policy based upon the insured's violation of the standard fraud and concealment clause ... , the false statement must have been knowingly and wilfully made with the intent (express or implied) of deceiving the insurer. The materiality of the statement will be determined by the objective standard of its effect upon a reasonable insurer." (Cummings v. Fire Insurance Exchange (1988) 202 Cal.App.3d 1407, 1415, fn.7 [249 Cal.Rptr. 568], original italics, internal citation omitted.)

- "The insurer is not required to show a causal relationship between the material misrepresentation or concealment of material fact and the nature of the claim." (Duarte, supra, 13 Cal.App.5th at p. 53.)

- "Cancellation and rescission are not synonymous. One is prospective, while the other is retroactive." (Fireman's Fund American Insurance Co. v. Escobedo (1978) 80 Cal.App.3d 610, 619 [145 Cal.Rptr. 785].)

- "[U]pon a rescission of a policy of insurance, based upon a material concealment or misrepresentation, all rights of the insured thereunder (except the right to recover any consideration paid in the purchase of the policy) are extinguished ... ." (Imperial Casualty & Indemnity Co. v. Sogomonian (1988) 198 Cal.App.3d 169, 184 [243 Cal.Rptr. 639].)

- "The consequence of rescission is not only the termination of further liability, but also the restoration of the parties to their former positions by requiring each to return whatever consideration has been received. ... [T]his would require the refund by [the insurer] of any premiums and the repayment by the defendants of any proceed advance which they may have received." (Imperial Casualty & Indemnity Co., supra, 198 Cal.App.3d at p. 184, internal citation omitted.)

Secondary Sources

Croskey et al., California Practice Guide: Insurance Litigation, Ch. 5-F, Rescission by Insurer, ¶¶ 5:143–5:146, 5:153–5:159.1, 5:160–5:287, 15:241–15:256 (The Rutter Group)

2 California Liability Insurance Practice: Claims & Litigation (Cont.Ed.Bar) Rescission and Reformation, §§ 21.2–21.12, 21.35–21.37

2 California Insurance Law & Practice, Ch. 8, The Insurance Contract, § 8.10[1] (Matthew Bender)

2 California Uninsured Motorist Law, Ch. 24, Bad Faith in Uninsured Motorist Law, § 24.40 (Matthew Bender)

26 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 308, Insurance, § 308.18 (Matthew Bender)

12 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 120, Insurance, §§ 120.250–120.251, 120.260 (Matthew Bender)

2333. Bad Faith (First Party)—Breach of Duty to Inform Insured of Rights—Essential Factual Elements

[Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] breached the obligation of good faith and fair dealing by failing to reasonably inform [him/her/nonbinary pronoun/it] of [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] rights and obligations under an insurance policy. To succeed, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] suffered a loss covered under an insurance policy with [name of defendant];

2. That [name of defendant] [denied coverage for/refused to pay] [name of plaintiff]'s loss;

3. That under the policy [name of plaintiff] had the [right/obligation] to [describe right or obligation at issue, e.g., "to request arbitration within 180 days"];

4. That [name of defendant] did not reasonably inform [name of plaintiff] of [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] [right/obligation] to [describe right or obligation];

5. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

6. That [name of defendant]'s failure to reasonably inform [name of plaintiff] was a substantial factor in causing [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] harm.

New September 2003; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

The instructions in this series assume that the plaintiff is the insured and the defendant is the insurer. The party designations may be changed if appropriate to the facts of the case.

This instruction is intended for use in appropriate cases if the insured alleges that the insurer breached the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing by failing to reasonably inform the insured of ~~his or her~~the insured's remedial rights and obligations under an insurance policy.

For instructions regarding general breach of contract issues, refer to the Contracts series (CACI No. 300 et seq.).

Sources and Authority

- The insurer's implied duty of good faith and fair dealing includes "the duty reasonably to inform an insured of the insured's rights and obligations under the insurance policy. In particular, in situations in which an insured's lack of knowledge may potentially result in a loss of benefits or a forfeiture of rights, an insurer [is] required to bring to the insured's attention relevant information so as to enable the insured to take action to secure rights afforded by the policy." (Davis v. Blue Cross of Northern California (1979) 25 Cal.3d 418, 428 [158 Cal.Rptr. 828, 600 P.2d 1060].)

- The trial court in the instant case found that [the insurer] knew that in many instances its insureds would not be aware of the arbitration clause and that, despite this knowledge, [it] deliberately decided not to inform its insureds of the arbitration procedure. In this context, the practical effect of the insurer's practice was to transform its arbitration clause into a unilateral provision, establishing a procedure to which the insurer could require its insureds to resort when [it] deemed it advisable, but one that would not generally provide a speedy, economic or readily accessible remedy for the bulk of [its] uninformed insureds. [¶] We think the trial court was fully justified in finding that [the insurer] had breached its duty of good faith and fair dealing in adopting such a course of conduct. (Davis, supra, 25 Cal.3d at pp. 430–431.)

- "When a court is reviewing claims under an insurance policy, it must hold the insured bound by clear and conspicuous provisions in the policy even if evidence suggests that the insured did not read or understand them. Once it becomes clear to the insurer that its insured disputes its denial of coverage, however, the duty of good faith does not permit the insurer passively to assume that its insured is aware of his rights under the policy. The insurer must instead take affirmative steps to make sure that the insured is informed of his remedial rights." (Sarchett v. Blue Shield of California (1987) 43 Cal.3d 1, 14–15 [233 Cal.Rptr. 76, 729 P.2d 267], plurality opinion.)

- But see Chase v. Blue Cross of California (1996) 42 Cal.App.4th 1142, 1155 [50 Cal.Rptr.2d 178] [while insurer may not misrepresent facts or fail to clarify an insured's obvious misunderstanding of the policy coverage, it does not have an ongoing duty to keep the insured informed of his or her rights once those rights have been clearly set forth in the policy].)

- "In order to find a forfeiture by the insurer of the right to arbitration, we understand Davis and Sarchett to require conduct designed to mislead policyholders." (Chase, supra, 42 Cal.App.4th at p. 1157, original italics.)

- An insurer owes a duty to an additional insured under an automobile policy to disclose within a reasonable time the existence and amount of any underinsured motorist coverage. (Ramirez v. USAA Casualty Insurance Co. (1991) 234 Cal.App.3d 391, 397–402 [285 Cal.Rptr. 757].)

- "California courts have imposed a duty on the insurer to advise its insureds of the availability of and procedure for initiating arbitration; to notify him of a 31-day option period in which to convert his group insurance policy into individual coverage after termination; and to notify an assignee of a life insurance policy taken as security for a loan to the insured of previous assignments of the policy known to the insurer." (Westrick v. State Farm Insurance (1982) 137 Cal.App.3d 685, 692 [187 Cal.Rptr. 214], internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

Croskey et al., California Practice Guide: Insurance Litigation, Ch. 12C-D, Application–Matters Held "Unreasonable", ~~(The Rutter Group)~~ ¶¶ 12:953–12:963 (The Rutter Group)

2 California Insurance Law and Practice, Ch. 13, Claims Handling and the Duty of Good Faith, § 13.05 (Matthew Bender)

2 California Uninsured Motorist Law, Ch. 24, Bad Faith in Uninsured Motorist Law, § 24.22 (Matthew Bender)

12 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 120, Insurance, §§ 120.383–120.384, 120.390 (Matthew Bender)

2337. Factors to Consider in Evaluating Insurer's Conduct

In determining whether [name of defendant] acted unreasonably, that is, without proper cause, you may consider whether the defendant did any of the following:

[(a) Misrepresented to [name of plaintiff] relevant facts or insurance policy provisions relating to any coverage at issue.]

[(b) Failed to acknowledge and act reasonably promptly after receiving communications about [name of plaintiff]'s claim arising under the insurance policy.]

[(c) Failed to adopt and implement reasonable standards for the prompt investigation and processing of claims arising under its insurance policies.]

[(d) Failed to accept or deny coverage of claims within a reasonable time after [name of plaintiff] completed and submitted proof-of-loss requirements.]

[(e) Did not attempt in good faith to reach a prompt, fair, and equitable settlement of [name of plaintiff]'s claim after liability had become reasonably clear.]

[(f) Required [name of plaintiff] to file a lawsuit to recover amounts due under the policy by offering substantially less than the amount that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] ultimately recovered in the lawsuit, even though [name of plaintiff] had made a claim for an amount reasonably close to the amount ultimately recovered.]

[(g) Attempted to settle [name of plaintiff]'s claim for less than the amount to which a reasonable person would have believed ~~he or she~~[name of plaintiff] was entitled by referring to written or printed advertising material accompanying or made part of the application.]

[(h) Attempted to settle the claim on the basis of an application that was altered without notice to, or knowledge or consent of, [name of plaintiff], [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] representative, agent, or broker.]

[(i) Failed, after payment of a claim, to inform [name of plaintiff] at [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] request, of the coverage under which payment was made.]

[(j) Informed [name of plaintiff] of its practice of appealing from arbitration awards in favor of insureds or claimants for the purpose of forcing them to accept settlements or compromises less than the amount awarded in arbitration.]

[(k) Delayed the investigation or payment of the claim by requiring [name of plaintiff], [or [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] physician], to submit a preliminary claim report, and then also required the submission of formal proof-of-loss forms, both of which contained substantially the same information.]

[(l) Failed to settle a claim against [name of plaintiff] promptly once [his/her/nonbinary

pronoun/its] liability had become apparent, under one portion of the insurance policy coverage in order to influence settlements under other portions of the insurance policy coverage.]

[(m) Failed to promptly provide a reasonable explanation of its reasons for denying the claim or offering a compromise settlement, based on the provisions of the insurance policy in relation to the facts or applicable law.]

[(n) Directly advised [*name of plaintiff] not to hire an attorney.]

[(o) Misled [*name of plaintiff] as to the applicable statute of limitations, that is, the date by which an action against [name of defendant] on the claim had to be filed.]

[(p) Delayed the payment or provision of hospital, medical, or surgical benefits for services provided with respect to acquired immune deficiency syndrome (AIDS) or AIDS-related complex for more than 60 days after it had received [*name of plaintiff]'s claim for those benefits, doing so in order to investigate whether [name of plaintiff] had the condition before obtaining the insurance coverage. However, the 60-day period does not include any time during which [name of defendant] was waiting for a response for relevant medical information from a healthcare provider.]

The presence or absence of any of these factors alone is not enough to determine whether [*name of defendant]'s conduct was or was not unreasonable, that is, without proper cause. You must consider [name of defendant]'s conduct as a whole in making this determination.

New April 2008; Revised December 2015, May 2020

Directions for Use

Although there is no private cause of action under Insurance Code section 790.03(h) (see Moradi-Shalal v. Fireman's Fund Ins. Companies (1988) 46 Cal.3d 287, 304–305 [250 Cal.Rptr. 116, 758 P.2d 58]), this instruction may be given in an insurance bad-faith action to assist the jury in determining whether the insurer's conduct was unreasonable or without proper cause. (See Jordan v. Allstate Ins. Co. (2007) 148 Cal.App.4th 1062, 1078 [56 Cal.Rptr.3d 312], internal citations omitted.)

Include only the factors that are relevant to the case.

Sources and Authority

- Bad-Faith Insurance Practices. Insurance Code section 790.03.
- "[Plaintiff] was not seeking to recover on a claim based on a violation of Insurance Code section 790.03, subdivision (h). Rather, her claim was based on a claim of common law bad faith arising from [defendant]'s breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing which she is entitled to pursue. [Plaintiff]'s reliance upon the [expert's] declaration was for the purpose of providing evidence supporting her contention that [defendant] had breached the implied covenant by its actions. This is a proper use of evidence of an insurer's violations of the statute and the corresponding regulations." (Jordan, supra, 148 Cal.App.4th at p. 1078, original italics, internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10~~11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Insurance §§ ~~252, 253, 255, 321~~360, 361, 365, 461

Croskey et al., California Practice Guide: Insurance Litigation, Ch. 14-A, Statutory and Administrative Regulation—The California Regulator, ¶ 14:109 et seq. (The Rutter Group)

1 California Liability Insurance Practice: Claims and Litigation, Ch. 24, General Principles of Contract and Bad Faith (Cont.Ed.Bar) § 24.30 et seq.

26 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 308, Insurance, § 308.25 (Matthew Bender)

1 Rushing et al., Matthew Bender Practice Guide: California Unfair Competition and Business Torts, Ch. 2, Unfair Competition, 2.11 (Matthew Bender)

2403. Breach of Employment Contract—Unspecified Term—Implied-in-Fact Promise Not to Discharge Without Good Cause

An employer promises to [discharge/demote] an employee only for good cause if it is reasonable for an employee to conclude, from the employer's words or conduct, that ~~[he/she]~~ the employee will be [discharged/demoted] only for good cause.

In deciding whether [*name of defendant] promised to [discharge/demote] [name of plaintiff] only for good cause, you may consider, among other factors, the following:

(a) [*Name of defendant]'s personnel policies [and/or] practices;

(b) [*Name of plaintiff]'s length of service;

(c) Any raises, commendations, positive evaluations, and promotions received by [*name of plaintiff]; [and]

(d) Whether [*name of defendant] said or did anything to assure [name of plaintiff] of continued employment; [and]

(e) [*Insert other relevant factor(s).]

Length of service, raises, and promotions by themselves are not enough to imply such a promise, although they are factors for you to consider.

New September 2003; Revised April 2009, June 2013, May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction should be read when an employee is basing ~~his or her~~the claim of wrongful discharge on an implied covenant not to terminate except for good cause. Only those factors that apply to the facts of the particular case should be read.

In certain cases, it may be necessary to instruct the jury that if it finds there is an at-will provision in an express written agreement, there may not be an implied agreement to the contrary. (See Faigin v. Signature Group Holdings, Inc. (2012) 211 Cal.App.4th 726, 739 [150 Cal.Rptr.3d 123] [there cannot be a valid express contract and an implied contract, each embracing the same subject, but requiring different results].)

Sources and Authority

- Express and Implied Contracts. Civil Code sections 1619–1621.
- "Labor Code section 2922 establishes a statutory presumption of at-will employment. However, an employer and an employee are free to depart from the statutory presumption and specify that the employee will be terminated only for good cause, either by an express, or an implied, contractual agreement." (Stillwell v. The Salvation Army (2008) 167 Cal.App.4th 360, 380 [84 Cal.Rptr.3d 111], internal citations omitted.)

- "[M]ost cases applying California law … have held that an at-will provision in an express written agreement, signed by the employee, cannot be overcome by proof of an implied contrary understanding." (Guz v. Bechtel National, Inc. (2000) 24 Cal.4th 317, 340 fn. 10 [100 Cal.Rptr.2d 352, 8 P.3d 1089], original italics.)

- "Where there is no express agreement, the issue is whether other evidence of the parties' conduct has a 'tendency in reason' to demonstrate the existence of an actual mutual understanding on particular terms and conditions of employment. If such evidence logically permits conflicting inferences, a question of fact is presented." (Guz, supra, 24 Cal.4th at p. 337, internal citations omitted.)

- "The question whether such an implied-in-fact agreement [to termination only for cause] exists is a factual question for the trier of fact unless the undisputed facts can support only one reasonable conclusion." (Faigin, supra, 211 Cal.App.4th at p. 739.)

- "In the employment context, factors apart from consideration and express terms may be used to ascertain the existence and content of an employment agreement, including 'the personnel policies or practices of the employer, the employee's longevity of service, actions or communications by the employer reflecting assurances of continued employment, and the practices of the industry in which the employee is engaged.' " (Foley v. Interactive Data Corp. (1988) 47 Cal.3d 654, 680 [254 Cal.Rptr. 211, 765 P.2d 373], internal citation omitted.)

- "[A]n employee's mere passage of time in the employer's service, even where marked with tangible indicia that the employer approves the employee's work, cannot alone form an implied-in-fact contract that the employee is no longer at will. Absent other evidence of the employer's intent, longevity, raises and promotions are their own rewards for the employee's continuing valued service; they do not, in and of themselves, additionally constitute a contractual guarantee of future employment security." (Guz v. Bechtel National, Inc. (2000) 24 Cal.4th 317, 341–342 [100 Cal.Rptr.2d 352, 8 P.3d 1089], original italics.)

- "We agree that disclaimer language in an employee handbook or policy manual does not necessarily mean an employee is employed at will. But even if a handbook disclaimer is not controlling in every case, neither can such a provision be ignored in determining whether the parties' conduct was intended, and reasonably understood, to create binding limits on an employer's statutory right to terminate the relationship at will. Like any direct expression of employer intent, communicated to employees and intended to apply to them, such language must be taken into account, along with all other pertinent evidence, in ascertaining the terms on which a worker was employed." (Guz, supra, 24 Cal.4th at p. 340, internal citations omitted.)

- "Conceptually, there is no rational reason why an employer's policy that its employees will not be demoted except for good cause, like a policy restricting termination or providing for severance pay, cannot become an implied term of an employment contract. In each of these instances, an employer promises to confer a significant benefit on the employee, and it is a question of fact whether that promise was reasonably understood by the employee to create a contractual obligation." (Scott v. Pac. Gas & Elec. Co. (1995) 11 Cal.4th 454, 464 [46 Cal.Rptr.2d 427, 904 P.2d 834].)

- "[Employer] retained the right to terminate [employee] for any lawful reason. Thus, … the fact that [employer] was obligated to pay compensation if it terminated [employee] for reasons other than his misconduct did not convert an otherwise at-will agreement into a for-cause agreement." (Popescu v. Apple Inc. (2016) 1 Cal.App.5th 39, 59 [204 Cal.Rptr.3d 302].)

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11~~10~~th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Agency and Employment, §§ ~~233, 237, 238~~246, 250, 251

Chin et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 4-B, Agreements Limiting At–Will Termination, ¶¶ 4:81, 4:105, 4:112 (The Rutter Group)

1 Wrongful Employment Termination Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) Contract Actions, §§ 8.6–8.16

4 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 60, Liability for Wrongful Termination and Discipline, § 60.05[2][a]–[e] (Matthew Bender)

21 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 249, Employment Law: Termination and Discipline, §§ 249.01, 249.13, 249.15, 249.50 (Matthew Bender)

10 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 100, Employer and Employee: Wrongful Termination and Discipline, §§ 100.21, 100.22, 100.25–100.27, 100.29, 100.34 (Matthew Bender)

California Civil Practice: Employment Litigation §§ 6:14–6:16 (Thomson Reuters)

2423. Breach of Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing—Employment Contract—Essential Factual Elements

In every employment [contract/agreement] there is an implied promise of good faith and fair dealing. This implied promise means that neither the employer nor the employee will do anything to unfairly interfere with the right of the other to receive the benefits of the employment relationship. Good faith means honesty of purpose without any intention to mislead or to take unfair advantage of another. Generally speaking, it means being faithful to one's duty or obligation. However, the implied promise of good faith and fair dealing cannot create obligations that are inconsistent with the terms of the contract.

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] violated the duty implied in their employment [contract/agreement] to act fairly and in good faith. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] and [name of defendant] entered into an employment relationship;

[2. That [name of plaintiff] substantially performed [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] job duties [unless [name of plaintiff]'s performance was excused [or prevented]];]

[3. That all conditions required for [name of defendant]'s performance [had occurred/ [or] were excused];]

4. That [name of defendant] [specify conduct that the plaintiff claims prevented ~~him/her~~ plaintiff from receiving the benefits ~~that he/she was entitled to have received~~ under the contract];

5. That by doing so, [name of defendant] did not act fairly and in good faith; and

6. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed by [name of defendant]'s conduct.

New September 2003; Revised November 2019, May 2020

Directions for Use

In every contract, there is an implied promise that each party will not do anything to unfairly interfere with the right of any other party to receive the benefits of the contract. (Comunale v. Traders & General Ins. Co. (1958) 50 Cal.2d 654, 658 [328 P.2d 198].) Give this instruction if the employee asserts a claim that ~~his or her~~the employee's termination or other adverse employment action was in breach of this implied covenant. If the existence of a contract is at issue, see instructions on contract formation in the 300 series.

Include element 2 if the employee's substantial performance of ~~his or her~~the employee's required job duties is at issue. Include element 3 if there are conditions precedent that the employee must fulfill before the employer is required to perform. In element 4, insert an explanation of the employer's conduct that violated the duty to act in good faith.

Do not give this instruction if the alleged breach is only the termination of an at-will contract. (See Eisenberg v. Alameda Newspapers (1999) 74 Cal.App.4th 1359, 1391 [88 Cal.Rptr.2d 802].)

See also the Sources and Authority to CACI No. 325, Breach of Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing—Essential Factual Elements, for more authorities on the implied covenant outside of employment law.

Sources and Authority

- Contractual Conditions Precedent. Civil Code section 1439.

- "We therefore conclude that the employment relationship is not sufficiently similar to that of insurer and insured to warrant judicial extension of the proposed additional tort remedies in view of the countervailing concerns about economic policy and stability, the traditional separation of tort and contract law, and finally, the numerous protections against improper terminations already afforded employees." (Foley v. Interactive Data Corp. (1988) 47 Cal.3d 654, 693 [254 Cal.Rptr. 211, 765 P.2d 373].)

- "A breach of the contract may also constitute a breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing. But insofar as the employer's acts are directly actionable as a breach of an implied-in-fact contract term, a claim that merely realleges that breach as a violation of the covenant is superfluous. This is because, as we explained at length in Foley, the remedy for breach of an employment agreement, including the covenant of good faith and fair dealing implied by law therein, is solely contractual. In the employment context, an implied covenant theory affords no separate measure of recovery, such as tort damages." (Guz v. Bechtel National, Inc. (2000) 24 Cal.4th 317, 352 [100 Cal.Rptr.2d 352, 8 P.3d 1089], internal citation omitted.)

- "We do not suggest the covenant of good faith and fair dealing has no function whatever in the interpretation and enforcement of employment contracts. As indicated above, the covenant prevents a party from acting in bad faith to frustrate the contract's actual benefits. Thus, for example, the covenant might be violated if termination of an at-will employee was a mere pretext to cheat the worker out of another contract benefit to which the employee was clearly entitled, such as compensation already earned." (Guz, supra, 24 Cal.4th at p. 353, fn. 18.)

- "The reason for an employee's dismissal and whether that reason constitutes bad faith are evidentiary questions most properly resolved by the trier of fact." (Luck v. Southern Pacific Transportation Co. (1990) 218 Cal.App.3d 1, 26 [267 Cal.Rptr. 618], internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

Chin et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 4-D, Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing, ¶¶ 4:330, 4:331, 4:340, 4:343, 4:346 (The Rutter Group)

1 Wrongful Employment Termination Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) Contract Actions, §§ 8.27–8.28

4 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 60, Liability for Wrongful Termination and Discipline, §§ 60.02[2][c], 60.06 (Matthew Bender)

21 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 249, Employment Law: Termination and Discipline, § 249.14 (Matthew Bender)

California Civil Practice: Employment Litigation §§ 6:21–6:22 (Thomson Reuters)

2424. Affirmative Defense—Breach of the Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing—Good Faith Though Mistaken Belief

---

[Name of defendant] claims that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] did not breach the duty to act fairly and in good faith because [he/she/nonbinary pronoun/it] believed that there was a legitimate and reasonable business purpose for the conduct.

To succeed, [name of defendant] must prove both of the following:

1. That [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] conduct was based on an honest belief that [insert alleged mistake]; and

2. That, if true, [insert alleged mistake] would have been a legitimate and reasonable business purpose for the conduct.

New September 2003; Revised November 2019, May 2020

Directions for Use

In every contract, there is an implied promise that each party will not do anything to unfairly interfere with the right of any other party to receive the benefits of the contract. (Comunale v. Traders & General Ins. Co. (1958) 50 Cal.2d 654, 658 [328 P.2d 198].) Give CACI No. 2423, Breach of Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing—Employment Contract—Essential Factual Elements, if the employee asserts a claim that ~~his or her~~the employee's termination or other adverse employment action was in breach of this implied covenant. Give this instruction if the employer asserts the defense that an honest, though mistaken, belief does not constitute a breach.

Sources and Authority

- "[B]ecause the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing requires the employer to act fairly and in good faith, an employer's honest though mistaken belief that legitimate business reasons provided good cause for discharge, will negate a claim it sought in bad faith to deprive the employee of the benefits of the contract." (Wilkerson v. Wells Fargo Bank (1989) 212 Cal.App.3d 1217, 1231 [261 Cal.Rptr. 185], internal citation omitted, disapproved on other grounds in Cotran v. Rollins Hudig Hall International, Inc. (1998) 17 Cal.4th 93, 96 [69 Cal.Rptr.2d 900, 948 P.2d 412].)

- "The jury was instructed that the neglect or refusal to fulfill a contractual obligation based on an honest, mistaken belief did not constitute a breach of the implied covenant." (Luck v. Southern Pacific Transportation Co. (1990) 218 Cal.App.3d 1, 26 [267 Cal.Rptr. 618].)

- "[F]oley does not preclude inquiry into an employer's motive for discharging an employee ... ." (Seubert v. McKesson Corp. (1990) 223 Cal.App.3d 1514, 1521 [273 Cal.Rptr. 296], overruled on other grounds, Dore v. Arnold Worldwide, Inc. (2006) 39 Cal.4th 384, 389 [46 Cal.Rptr.3d 668, 139 P.3d 56].)

- "[T]he jury was asked to determine in its special verdict whether appellants had a legitimate reason to terminate [plaintiff]'s employment and whether appellants acted in good faith on an honest but mistaken belief that they had a legitimate business reason to terminate [plaintiff]'s employment." (Seubert, supra, 223 Cal.App.3d at p. 1521 [upholding jury instruction].)

Secondary Sources

Chin et al., California. Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 4-A, ~~Employment Contract Claims — Employment Presumed At Will~~, ¶¶ 4:5~~, 4:271~~ (The Rutter Group)

Chin et al., California. Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch.4-C, "Good Cause" for Termination~~Ch. 4-D, Employment Contract Claims — Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing~~, ¶¶ 4:271 ~~et seq., 4:342 et seq.~~ (The Rutter Group)

10 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 100, Employer and Employee: Wrongful Termination and Discipline, § 100.30 (Matthew Bender)

2430. Wrongful Discharge in Violation of Public Policy—Essential Factual Elements

[*Name of plaintiff] claims [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was discharged from employment for reasons that violate a public policy. It is a violation of public policy [specify claim in case, e.g., to discharge someone from employment for refusing to engage in price fixing]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] was employed by [name of defendant];

2. That [name of defendant] discharged [name of plaintiff];

3. That [insert alleged violation of public policy, e.g., "[name of plaintiff]'s refusal to engage in price fixing"] was a substantial motivating reason for [name of plaintiff]'s discharge;

4. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

5. That the discharge was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff] harm.

New September 2003; Revised June 2013, June 2014, December 2014, November 2018, May 2020

Directions for Use

The judge should determine whether the purported reason for firing the plaintiff would amount to a violation of public policy. (See Gantt v. Sentry Insurance (1992) 1 Cal.4th 1083, 1092 [4 Cal.Rptr.2d 874, 824 P.2d 680]; overruled on other grounds in Green v. Ralee Engineering Co. (1998) 19 Cal.4th 66, 80 fn. 6 [78 Cal. Rptr.2d 16, 960 P.2d 1046].) The jury should then be instructed that the alleged conduct would constitute a public-policy violation if proved.

Note that there are two causation elements. First, there must be causation between the public policy violation and the discharge (element 3). This instruction uses the term "substantial motivating reason" to express this causation element. "[S]ubstantial motivating reason" has been held to be the appropriate standard for cases alleging termination in violation of public policy. (Alamo v. Practice Management Information Corp. (2013) 219 Cal.App.4th 466, 479 [161 Cal.Rptr.3d 758]; see Harris v. City of Santa Monica (2013) 56 Cal.4th 203, 232 [152 Cal.Rptr.3d 392, 294 P.3d 49]; CACI No. 2507, "Substantial Motivating Reason" Explained.) Element 5 then expresses a second causation requirement; that the plaintiff was harmed as a result of the wrongful discharge.

If plaintiff alleges ~~he or she~~the plaintiff was forced or coerced to resign, then CACI No. 2431, Constructive Discharge in Violation of Public Policy—Plaintiff Required to Violate Public Policy, or CACI No. 2432, Constructive Discharge in Violation of Public Policy—Plaintiff Required to Endure Intolerable Conditions That Violate Public Policy, should be given instead. See also CACI No. 2510, "Constructive Discharge" Explained.

This instruction may be modified for adverse employment actions other than discharge, for example demotion, if done in violation of public policy. (See Garcia v. Rockwell Internat. Corp. (1986) 187 Cal.App.3d 1556, 1561 [232 Cal.Rptr. 490], disapproved on other grounds in Gantt v. Sentry Ins. (1992) 1 Cal.4th 1083, 1093 [4 Cal.Rptr.2d 874, 824 P.2d 680] [public policy forbids retaliatory action taken by employer against employee who discloses information regarding employer's violation of law to government agency].) See also CACI No. 2509, "Adverse Employment Action" Explained.

For an instruction on damages, give CACI No. 3903P, Damages From Employer for Wrongful Discharge (Economic Damage).

Sources and Authority

- " '[W]hile an at-will employee may be terminated for no reason, or for an arbitrary or irrational reason, there can be no right to terminate for an unlawful reason or a purpose that contravenes fundamental public policy. Any other conclusion would sanction lawlessness, which courts by their very nature are bound to oppose.' " (Casella v. SouthWest Dealer Services, Inc. (2007) 157 Cal.App.4th 1127, 1138–1139 [69 Cal.Rptr.3d 445], internal citations omitted.)

- "[W]hen an employer's discharge of an employee violates fundamental principles of public policy, the discharged employee may maintain a tort action and recover damages traditionally available in such actions." (Tameny v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (1980) 27 Cal.3d 167, 170 [164 Cal.Rptr. 839, 610 P.2d 1330].)

- "The elements of a claim for wrongful discharge in violation of public policy are (1) an employer-employee relationship, (2) the employer terminated the plaintiff's employment, (3) the termination was substantially motivated by a violation of public policy, and (4) the discharge caused the plaintiff harm." (Yau v. Allen (2014) 229 Cal.App.4th 144, 154 [176 Cal.Rptr.3d 824].)

- "[T]his court established a set of requirements that a policy must satisfy to support a tortious discharge claim. First, the policy must be supported by either constitutional or statutory provisions. Second, the policy must be 'public' in the sense that it 'inures to the benefit of the public' rather than serving merely the interests of the individual. Third, the policy must have been articulated at the time of the discharge. Fourth, the policy must be 'fundamental' and 'substantial.' " (Stevenson v. Superior Court (1997) 16 Cal.4th 880, 889–890 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 888, 941 P.2d 1157], footnote omitted.)

- "Policies are not 'public' (and thus do not give rise to a common law tort claim) when they are derived from statutes that 'simply regulate conduct between private individuals, or impose requirements whose fulfillment does not implicate fundamental public policy concerns.' " (Diego v. Pilgrim United Church of Christ (2014) 231 Cal.App.4th 913, 926 [180 Cal.Rptr.3d 359].)

- "[T]he cases in which violations of public policy are found generally fall into four categories: (1) refusing to violate a statute; (2) performing a statutory obligation (3) exercising a statutory right or privilege; and (4) reporting an alleged violation of a statute of public importance." (Gantt, supra, 1 Cal.4th at pp. 1090–1091, internal citations and footnote omitted, overruled on other grounds in Green v. Ralee Engineering Co. (1998) 19 Cal.4th 66, 80, fn. 6 [78 Cal.Rptr.2d 16, 960 P.2d 1046]; accord Stevenson, supra, 16 Cal.4th at p. 889.)

- " [T]ermination of an employee most clearly violates public policy when it contravenes the provision of a statute forbidding termination for a specified reason … ." (Diego, supra, 231 Cal.App.4th at p. 926)

- "[Discharge because of employee's] [r]efusal to violate a governmental regulation may also be the basis for a tort cause of action where the administrative regulation enunciates a fundamental public policy and is authorized by statute." (Scott v. Phoenix Schools, Inc. (2009) 175 Cal.App.4th 702, 708–709 [96 Cal.Rptr.3d 159].)

- "In the context of a tort claim for wrongful discharge, tethering public policy to specific constitutional or statutory provisions serves not only to avoid judicial interference with the legislative domain, but also to ensure that employers have adequate notice of the conduct that will subject them to tort liability to the employees they discharge ... ." (Stevenson, supra, 16 Cal.4th at p. 889.)

- "[A]n employee need not prove an actual violation of law; it suffices if the employer fired him for reporting his 'reasonably based suspicions' of illegal activity." (Green, supra, 19 Cal.4th at p. 87, internal citation omitted.)

- "[A]n employer's authority over its employee does not include the right to demand that the employee commit a criminal act to further its interests, and an employer may not coerce compliance with such unlawful directions by discharging an employee who refuses to follow such an order ... ." (Tameny, supra, 27 Cal.3d at p. 178.)

- " [T]here is a 'fundamental public interest in a workplace free from illegal practices … .' '[T]he public interest is in a lawful, not criminal, business operation. Attainment of this objective requires that an employee be free to call his or her employer's attention to illegal practices, so that the employer may prevent crimes from being committed by misuse of its products by its employees.' " (Yau, supra, 229 Cal.App.4th at p. 157.)

- "An action for wrongful termination in violation of public policy 'can only be asserted against an employer. An individual who is not an employer cannot commit the tort of wrongful discharge in violation of public policy; rather, he or she can only be the agent by which an employer commits that tort.' " (Kim v. Konad USA Distribution, Inc. (2014) 226 Cal.App.4th 1336, 1351 [172 Cal.Rptr.3d 686], original italics.)

- Employees in both the private and public sector may assert this claim. (See Shoemaker v. Myers (1992) 2 Cal.App.4th 1407 [4 Cal.Rptr.2d 203].)

- "Sex discrimination in employment may support a claim of tortious discharge in violation of public policy." (Kelley v. The Conco Cos. (2011) 196 Cal.App.4th 191, 214 [126 Cal.Rptr.3d 651].)

- "In sum, a wrongful termination against public policy common law tort based on sexual harassment can be brought against an employer of any size." (Kim, supra, 226 Cal.App.4th at p. 1351.)

- "To establish a claim for wrongful termination in violation of public policy, an employee must prove causation. (See CACI No. 2430 [using phrase 'substantial motivating reason' to express causation].) Claims of whistleblower harassment and retaliatory termination may not succeed where a plaintiff 'cannot demonstrate the required nexus between his reporting of alleged statutory violations and his allegedly adverse treatment by [the employer].' " (Ferrick v. Santa Clara University (2014) 231 Cal.App.4th 1337, 1357 [181 Cal.Rptr.3d 68].)

- "It would be nonsensical to provide a different standard of causation in FEHA cases and common law tort cases based on public policies encompassed by FEHA." (Mendoza v. Western Medical Center Santa Ana (2014) 222 Cal.App.4th 1334, 1341 [166 Cal.Rptr.3d 720].)

- "If claims for wrongful termination in violation of public policy must track FEHA, it necessarily follows that jury instructions pertinent to causation and motivation must be the same for both. Accordingly, we conclude the trial court did not err in giving the instructions set forth in the CACI model jury instructions." (Davis v. Farmers Ins. Exchange (2016) 245 Cal.App.4th 1302, 1323 [200 Cal.Rptr.3d 315].)

- "Under California law, if an employer did not violate FEHA, the employee's claim for wrongful termination in violation of public policy necessarily fails." (Featherstone v. Southern California Permanente Medical Group (2017) 10 Cal.App.5th 1150, 1169 [217 Cal.Rptr.3d 258].)

- "FEHA's policy prohibiting disability discrimination in employment is sufficiently substantial and fundamental to support a claim for wrongful termination in violation of public policy." (Rope v. Auto-Chlor System of Washington, Inc. (2013) 220 Cal.App.4th 635, 660 [163 Cal.Rptr.3d 392].)

- "Although the fourth cause of action references FEHA as one source of the public policy at issue, this is not a statutory FEHA cause of action. FEHA does not displace or supplant common law tort claims for wrongful discharge." (Kim, supra, 226 Cal.App.4th at p. 1349.)

- "[T]o the extent the trial court concluded Labor Code section 132a is the exclusive remedy for work-related injury discrimination, it erred. The California Supreme Court held '[Labor Code] section 132a does not provide an exclusive remedy and does not preclude an employee from pursuing FEHA and common law wrongful discharge remedies.' " (Prue v. Brady Co./San Diego, Inc. (2015) 242 Cal.App.4th 1367, 1381 [196 Cal.Rptr.3d 68].)

- "California's minimum wage law represents a fundamental policy for purposes of a claim for wrongful termination or constructive discharge in violation of public policy." (Vasquez v. Franklin Management Real Estate Fund, Inc. (2013) 222 Cal.App.4th 819, 831−832 [166 Cal.Rptr.3d 242].)

- " 'Labor Code section 1102.5, subdivision (b), which prohibits employer retaliation against an employee who reports a reasonably suspected violation of the law to a government or law enforcement agency, reflects the broad public policy interest in encouraging workplace "whistleblowers," who may without fear of retaliation report concerns regarding an employer's illegal conduct. This public policy is the modern day equivalent of the long-established duty of the citizenry to bring to public attention the doings of a lawbreaker. [Citation.] …' " (Ferrick, supra, 231 Cal.App.4th at p. 1355.)

- "That [defendant]'s decision not to renew her contract for an additional season might have been influenced by her complaints about an unsafe working condition … does not change our conclusion in light of the principle that a decision not to renew a contract set to expire is not actionable in tort." (Touchstone Television Productions v. Superior Court (2012) 208 Cal.App.4th 676, 682 [145 Cal.Rptr.3d 766], original italics.)

- " ' "[P]ublic policy' as a concept is notoriously resistant to precise definition, and … courts should venture into this area, if at all, with great care … ." [Citation.] Therefore, when the constitutional provision or statute articulating a public policy also includes certain substantive limitations in scope or remedy, these limitations also circumscribe the common law wrongful discharge cause of action. Stated another way, the common law cause of action cannot be broader than the constitutional provision or statute on which it depends, and therefore it 'presents no impediment to employers that operate within the bounds of law." [Citation.]' " (Dutra v. Mercy Medical Center Mt. Shasta (2012) 209 Cal.App.4th 750, 756 [146 Cal.Rptr.3d 922], original italics.)

Secondary Sources

~~4~~ 3 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Agency and Employment, § ~~255 et seq.~~272

Chin et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 5-(I)B~~A~~, Wrongful Discharge In Violation Of Public Policy (Tameny Claims), ¶¶ ~~5:2,~~ 5:47, 5:50, 5:70, 5:105, 5:115, 5:150, 5:151, 5:170, 5:195, 5:220, 5:235 (The Rutter Group)

1 Wrongful Employment Termination Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) Public Policy Violations, § 5.45

4 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 60, Liability for Wrongful Termination and Discipline, § 60.04 (Matthew Bender)

21 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 249, Employment Law: Termination and Discipline, §§ 249.12, 249.50–249.52 (Matthew Bender)

10 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 100, Employer and Employee: Wrongful Termination and Discipline, §§ 100.52–100.61B (Matthew Bender)

California Civil Practice: Employment Litigation §§ 6:23–6:25 (Thomson Reuters)

2431. Constructive Discharge in Violation of Public Policy—Plaintiff Required to Violate Public Policy

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was forced to resign rather than commit a violation of public policy. It is a violation of public policy [specify claim in case, e.g. , for an employer to require that an employee engage in price fixing]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] was employed by [name of defendant];

2. That [name of defendant] required [name of plaintiff] to [specify alleged conduct in violation of public policy, e.g., "engage in price fixing"];

3. That this requirement was so intolerable that a reasonable person in [name of plaintiff]'s position would have had no reasonable alternative except to resign;

4. That [name of plaintiff] resigned because of this requirement;

5. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

6. That the requirement was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

New September 2003; Revised June 2014, December 2014, May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction should be given if a plaintiff claims that ~~his or her~~the plaintiff's constructive termination was wrongful because the defendant required the plaintiff to commit an act in violation of public policy. If the plaintiff alleges ~~he or she~~the plaintiff was subjected to intolerable working conditions that violate public policy, see CACI No. 2432, Constructive Discharge in Violation of Public Policy—Plaintiff Required to Endure Intolerable Conditions for Improper Purpose That Violates Public Policy.

This instruction must be supplemented with CACI No. 3903P, Damages From Employer for Wrongful Discharge (Economic Damage). See also CACI No. 2510, "Constructive Discharge" Explained.

The judge should determine whether the purported reason for plaintiff's resignation would amount to a violation of public policy. (See Gantt v. Sentry Insurance (1992) 1 Cal.4th 1083, 1092 [4 Cal.Rptr.2d 874, 824 P.2d 680]~~.~~; overruled on other grounds in Green v. Ralee Engineering Co. (1998) 19 Cal.4th 66, 80 fn. 6 [78 Cal.Rptr.2d 16, 960 P.2d 1046].) The jury should then be instructed that the alleged conduct would constitute a public-policy violation if proved.

Sources and Authority

- "[W]hen an employer's discharge of an employee violates fundamental principles of public policy, the discharged employee may maintain a tort action and recover damages traditionally available in such actions." (Tameny v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (1980) 27 Cal.3d 167, 170 [164 Cal.Rptr. 839, 610 P.2d 1330].)

- "[A]n employer's authority over its employees does not include the right to demand that the employee commit a criminal act to further its interests, and an employer may not coerce compliance with such unlawful directions by discharging an employee who refuses to follow such an order. An employer engaging in such conduct violates a basic duty imposed by law upon all employers, and thus an employee who has suffered damages as a result of such discharge may maintain a tort action for wrongful discharge against the employer." (Tameny, supra, 27 Cal.3d at p. 178.)

- "[T]his court established a set of requirements that a policy must satisfy to support a tortious discharge claim. First, the policy must be supported by either constitutional or statutory provisions. Second, the policy must be 'public' in the sense that it 'inures to the benefit of the public' rather than serving merely the interests of the individual. Third, the policy must have been articulated at the time of the discharge. Fourth, the policy must be 'fundamental' and 'substantial.' " (Stevenson v. Superior Court (1997) 16 Cal.4th 880, 889–890 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 888, 941 P.2d 1157], footnote omitted.)

- "[T]he cases in which violations of public policy are found generally fall into four categories: (1) refusing to violate a statute; (2) performing a statutory obligation (3) exercising a statutory right or privilege; and (4) reporting an alleged violation of a statute of public importance." (Gantt v. Sentry Insurance (1992) 1 Cal.4th 1083, 1090–1091 [4 Cal.Rptr.2d 874, 824 P.2d 680], internal citations and fn. omitted, overruled on other grounds in Green v. Ralee Engineering Co. (1998) 19 Cal.4th 66, 80, fn. 6 [78 Cal.Rptr.2d 16, 960 P.2d 1046]; accord Stevenson, supra, 16 Cal.4th at p. 889.)

- "In addition to statutes and constitutional provisions, valid administrative regulations may also serve as a source of fundamental public policy that impacts on an employer's right to discharge employees when such regulations implement fundamental public policy found in their enabling statutes." (D'sa v. Playhut, Inc. (2000) 85 Cal.App.4th 927, 933 [102 Cal.Rptr.2d 495], internal citation omitted.)

- "Constructive discharge occurs when the employer's conduct effectively forces an employee to resign. Although the employee may say, 'I quit,' the employment relationship is actually severed involuntarily by the employer's acts, against the employee's will. As a result, a constructive discharge is legally regarded as a firing rather than a resignation." (Turner v. Anheuser-Busch, Inc. (1994) 7 Cal.4th 1238, 1244–1245 [32 Cal.Rptr.2d 223, 876 P.2d 1022], internal citation omitted.)

- "Although situations may exist where the employee's decision to resign is unreasonable as a matter of law, '[w]hether conditions were so intolerable as to justify a reasonable employee's decision to resign is normally a question of fact. [Citation.]' " (Vasquez v. Franklin Management Real Estate Fund, Inc. (2013) 222 Cal.App.4th 819, 827 [166 Cal.Rptr.3d 242].)

- "In order to establish a constructive discharge, an employee must plead and prove ... that the employer either intentionally created or knowingly permitted working conditions that were so intolerable or aggravated at the time of the employee's resignation that a reasonable employer would realize that a reasonable person in the employee's position would be compelled to resign." (Turner, supra, 7 Cal.4th at p. 1251.)

- "The conditions giving rise to the resignation must be sufficiently extraordinary and egregious to overcome the normal motivation of a competent, diligent, and reasonable employee to remain on the job to earn a livelihood and to serve his or her employer. The proper focus is on whether the resignation was coerced, not whether it was simply one rational option for the employee." (Turner, supra, 7 Cal.4th at p. 1246.)

- "In some circumstances, a single intolerable incident, such as a crime of violence against an employee by an employer, or an employer's ultimatum that an employee commit a crime, may constitute a constructive discharge. Such misconduct potentially could be found 'aggravated.' " (Turner, supra, 7 Cal.4th at p. 1247, fn. 3.)

- "The mere existence of illegal conduct in a workplace does not, without more, render employment conditions intolerable to a reasonable employee." (Turner, supra, 7 Cal.4th at p. 1254.)

- "[T]he standard by which a constructive discharge is determined is an objective one-the question is 'whether a reasonable person faced with the allegedly intolerable employer actions or conditions of employment would have no reasonable alternative except to quit.' " (Turner, supra, 7 Cal.4th at p. 1248, internal citations omitted.)

- "[U]nder Turner, the proper focus is on the working conditions themselves, not on the plaintiff's subjective reaction to those conditions." (Simers v. Los Angeles Times Communications, LLC (2018) 18 Cal.App.5th 1248, 1272 [227 Cal.Rptr.3d 695], original italics.)

- "The length of time the plaintiff remained on the job may be one relevant factor in determining the intolerability of employment conditions from the standpoint of a reasonable person." (Turner, supra, 7 Cal.4th at p. 1254.)

- "[T]here was, as the trial court found, substantial evidence that plaintiff's age and disability were 'substantial motivating reason[s]' for the adverse employment action or actions to which plaintiff was subjected. But the discriminatory motive for plaintiff's working conditions has no bearing on whether the evidence was sufficient to establish constructive discharge." (Simers, supra, 18 Cal.App.5th at p. 1271.)

Secondary Sources

~~8~~ 3 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10~~11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Agency and Employment, § ~~222~~235

Chin et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 4-G, Constructive Discharge, ¶¶ 4:405–4:406, 4:409–4:410, 4:421–4:422 (The Rutter Group)

Chin et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 5-A, Wrongful Discharge In Violation Of Public Policy (Tameny Claims), ¶¶ 5~~:2,~~ 5:45–5:47, 5:50, 5:70, 5:105, 5:115, 5:150, 5:151, 5:170, 5:195, 5:220 (The Rutter Group)

1 Wrongful Employment Termination Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) Public Policy Violations, §§ 5.45–

5.46

4 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 60, Liability for Wrongful Termination and Discipline, § 60.04 (Matthew Bender)

21 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 249, Employment Law: Termination and Discipline, §§ 249.12, 249.15 (Matthew Bender)

10 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 100, Employer and Employee: Wrongful Termination and Discipline, §§ 100.31, 100.35–100.38 (Matthew Bender)

California Civil Practice: Employment Litigation §§ 6:23–6:25 (Thomson Reuters)

2432. Constructive Discharge in Violation of Public Policy—Plaintiff Required to Endure Intolerable Conditions That Violate Public Policy

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] forced [him/her/nonbinary pronoun] to resign for reasons that violate public policy. It is a violation of public policy [specify claim in case, e.g., for an employer to require an employee to work more than forty hours a week for less than minimum wage]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] was employed by [name of defendant];

2. That [name of plaintiff] was subjected to working conditions that violated public policy, in that [describe conditions imposed on the employee that constitute the violation, e.g., "[name of plaintiff] was required to work more than forty hours a week for less than minimum wage"];

3. That [name of defendant] intentionally created or knowingly permitted these working conditions;

4. That these working conditions were so intolerable that a reasonable person in [name of plaintiff]'s position would have had no reasonable alternative except to resign;

5. That [name of plaintiff] resigned because of these working conditions;

6. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

7. That the working conditions were a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

To be intolerable, the adverse working conditions must be unusually aggravated or involve a continuous pattern of mistreatment. Trivial acts are insufficient.

New September 2003; Revised December 2014, June 2015, May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction should be given if the plaintiff claims that ~~his or her~~the plaintiff's constructive termination was wrongful because defendant subjected plaintiff to intolerable working conditions in violation of public policy. The instruction must be supplemented with CACI No. 2433, Wrongful Discharge in Violation of Public Policy—Damages. See also CACI No. 2510, "Constructive Discharge" Explained.

The judge should determine whether the purported reason for plaintiff's resignation would amount to a violation of public policy. (See Gantt v. Sentry Insurance (1992) 1 Cal.4th 1083, 1092 [4 Cal.Rptr.2d 874, 824 P.2d 680],~~;~~ overruled on other grounds in Green v. Ralee Engineering Co. (1998) 19 Cal.4th 66, 80 fn. 6 [78 Cal.Rptr.2d 16, 960 P.2d 1046].) The jury should then be instructed that the alleged conduct would constitute a public-policy violation if proved.

Whether conditions are so intolerable as to justify the employee's decision to quit rather than endure them is to be judged by an objective reasonable-employee standard. (Turner v. Anheuser-Busch, Inc. (1994) 7 Cal.4th 1238, 1247 [32 Cal.Rptr.2d 223, 876 P.2d 1022].) This standard is captured in element 4. The paragraph at the end of the instruction gives the jury additional guidance as to what makes conditions intolerable. (See id. at p. 1247.) Note that in some circumstances, a single intolerable incident, such as a crime of violence against an employee by an employer, or an employer's ultimatum that an employee commit a crime, may constitute a constructive discharge. (Id. at p. 1247, fn. 3.)

Sources and Authority

- "[W]hen an employer's discharge of an employee violates fundamental principles of public policy, the discharged employee may maintain a tort action and recover damages traditionally available in such actions." (Tameny v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (1980) 27 Cal.3d 167, 170 [164 Cal.Rptr. 839, 610 P.2d 1330].)

- "[T]his court established a set of requirements that a policy must satisfy to support a tortious discharge claim. First, the policy must be supported by either constitutional or statutory provisions. Second, the policy must be 'public' in the sense that it 'inures to the benefit of the public' rather than serving merely the interests of the individual. Third, the policy must have been articulated at the time of the discharge. Fourth, the policy must be 'fundamental' and 'substantial.' " (Stevenson v. Superior Court (1997) 16 Cal.4th 880, 889–890 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 888, 941 P.2d 1157], footnote~~n.~~ omitted.)

- "In addition to statutes and constitutional provisions, valid administrative regulations may also serve as a source of fundamental public policy that impacts on an employer's right to discharge employees when such regulations implement fundamental public policy found in their enabling statutes." (D'sa v. Playhut, Inc. (2000) 85 Cal.App.4th 927, 933 [102 Cal.Rptr.2d 495], internal citation omitted.)

- "Plaintiffs assert, in essence, that they were terminated for refusing to engage in conduct that violated fundamental public policy, to wit, nonconsensual sexual acts. They also assert, in effect, that they were discharged in retaliation for attempting to exercise a fundamental right -- the right to be free from sexual assault and harassment. Under either theory, plaintiffs, in short, should have been granted leave to amend to plead a cause of action for wrongful discharge in violation of public policy." (Rojo v. Kliger (1990) 52 Cal.3d 65, 91 [276 Cal.Rptr. 130, 801 P.2d 373].)

- "Constructive discharge occurs when the employer's conduct effectively forces an employee to resign. Although the employee may say, 'I quit,' the employment relationship is actually severed involuntarily by the employer's acts, against the employee's will. As a result, a constructive discharge is legally regarded as a firing rather than a resignation." (Turner,supra, 7 Cal.4th at pp. 1244–1245, internal citation omitted.)

- "Although situations may exist where the employee's decision to resign is unreasonable as a matter of law, '[w]hether conditions were so intolerable as to justify a reasonable employee's decision to resign is normally a question of fact. [Citation.]' " (Vasquez v. Franklin Management Real Estate Fund, Inc.

(2013) 222 Cal.App.4th 819, 827 [166 Cal.Rptr.3d 242].)

- "In order to establish a constructive discharge, an employee must plead and prove ... that the employer either intentionally created or knowingly permitted working conditions that were so intolerable or aggravated at the time of the employee's resignation that a reasonable employer would realize that a reasonable person in the employee's position would be compelled to resign." (Turner, supra, 7 Cal.4th at p. 1251.)

- "The conditions giving rise to the resignation must be sufficiently extraordinary and egregious to overcome the normal motivation of a competent, diligent, and reasonable employee to remain on the job to earn a livelihood and to serve his or her employer. The proper focus is on whether the resignation was coerced, not whether it was simply one rational option for the employee." (Turner, supra, 7 Cal.4th at p. 1246.)

- "In order to amount to a constructive discharge, adverse working conditions must be unusually 'aggravated' or amount to a 'continuous pattern' before the situation will be deemed intolerable. In general, '[s]ingle, trivial, or isolated acts of [misconduct] are insufficient' to support a constructive discharge claim. Moreover, a poor performance rating or a demotion, even when accompanied by reduction in pay, does not by itself trigger a constructive discharge" (Turner, supra, 7 Cal.4th at p. 1247, footnote and internal citation omitted.)

- "The mere existence of illegal conduct in a workplace does not, without more, render employment conditions intolerable to a reasonable employee." (Turner, supra, 7 Cal.4th at p. 1254.)

- "[T]he standard by which a constructive discharge is determined is an objective one-the question is 'whether a reasonable person faced with the allegedly intolerable employer actions or conditions of employment would have no reasonable alternative except to quit.' " (Turner, supra, 7 Cal.4th at p. 1248, internal citations omitted.)

- "[U]nder Turner, the proper focus is on the working conditions themselves, not on the plaintiff's subjective reaction to those conditions." (Simers v. Los Angeles Times Communications, LLC (2018) 18 Cal.App.5th 1248, 1272 [227 Cal.Rptr.3d 695], original italics.)

- "The length of time the plaintiff remained on the job may be one relevant factor in determining the intolerability of employment conditions from the standpoint of a reasonable person." (Turner, supra, 7 Cal.4th at p. 1254.)

- "[T]here was, as the trial court found, substantial evidence that plaintiff's age and disability were 'substantial motivating reason[s]' for the adverse employment action or actions to which plaintiff was subjected. But the discriminatory motive for plaintiff's working conditions has no bearing on whether the evidence was sufficient to establish constructive discharge." (Simers, supra, 18 Cal.App.5th at p. 1271.)

Secondary Sources

~~8~~ 3 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10~~11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Agency and Employment, § ~~222~~235

Chin et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 4-G, Constructive Discharge, ¶¶ 4:405–4:406, 4:409–4:411, 4:421–4:422 (The Rutter Group)

Chin et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 5-(I)BA, Wrongful Discharge In Violation Of Public Policy (Tameny Claims), ¶¶ 5:42, 5:45–5:47, 5:50, 5:70, 5:105, 5:115, 5:150, 5:151, 5:170, 5:195, 5:220 (The Rutter Group)

1 Wrongful Employment Termination Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) Public Policy Violations, §§ 5.45–5.46

4 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 60, Liability for Wrongful Termination and Discipline, § 60.04 (Matthew Bender)

21 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 249, Employment Law: Termination and Discipline, §§ 249.15, 249.50 (Matthew Bender)

10 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 100, Employer and Employee: Wrongful Termination and Discipline, §§ 100.31, 100.32, 100.36–100.38 (Matthew Bender)

California Civil Practice: Employment Litigation §§ 6:23–6:25 (Thomson Reuters)

VF-2404. Employment—Breach of the Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Did [name of plaintiff] and [name of defendant] enter into an employment relationship?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Did [name of plaintiff] substantially perform [his/her*/nonbinary pronoun*] job duties?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 2 is yes, skip question 3 and answer question 4. If you answered no, answer question 3.

3. Was [name of plaintiff]'s performance excused or prevented?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 3 is yes, then answer question 4. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

4. Did [name of defendant] [specify conduct that plaintiff claims prevented ~~him/her~~ plaintiff from receiving the benefits ~~that he/she was entitled to have received~~ under the contract]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 4 is yes, then answer question 5. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

5. Did [name of defendant] fail to act fairly and in good faith?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 5 is yes, then answer question 6. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

6. Was [name of plaintiff] harmed by [name of defendant]'s failure to act fairly and in good faith?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 6 is yes, then answer question 7. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

7. What are [name of plaintiff]'s damages?

[a. Past economic loss:

$ _____]

[b. Future economic loss:

$ _____]

TOTAL $ _____

Signed: _____
Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

After [this verdict form has/all verdict forms have] been signed, notify the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant] that you are ready to present your verdict in the courtroom.

New September 2003; Revised December 2010, December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 2423, Breach of the Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing—Employment Contract—Essential Factual Elements.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

Questions 2 and 3 should be deleted if substantial performance is not at issue.

The breakdown of damages in question 7 is optional; depending on the circumstances, users may wish to break down the damages even further.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

VF-2405. Breach of the Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing—Affirmative Defense—Good Faith Mistaken Belief

---

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Did [name of plaintiff] and [name of defendant] enter into an employment agreement?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Did [name of plaintiff] substantially perform [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] job duties?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 2 is yes, skip question 3 and answer question 4. If you answered no, answer question 3.

3. Was [name of plaintiff]'s performance excused or prevented?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 3 is yes, then answer question 4. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

4. Did [name of defendant] [specify conduct that plaintiff claims prevented ~~him/her~~ plaintiff from receiving the benefits ~~that he/she was entitled to have received~~ under the contract]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 4 is yes, then answer question 5. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

5. Was [name of defendant]'s conduct based on an honest belief that [insert alleged mistake]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 5 is yes, then answer question 6. If you answered no, skip question 6 and answer question 7.

6. If true, would [insert alleged mistake] have been a legitimate and reasonable business purpose for the conduct?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 6 is no, then answer question 7. If you answered yes, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

7. Did [name of defendant] fail to act fairly and in good faith?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 7 is yes, then answer question 8. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

8. Was [name of plaintiff] harmed by [name of defendant]'s failure to act in good faith?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 8 is yes, then answer question 9. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

9. What are [name of plaintiff]'s damages?

[a. Past economic loss:

$ _____]

[b. Future economic loss:

$ _____]

TOTAL $ _____

Signed: _____
Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

After [this verdict form has/all verdict forms have] been signed, notify the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant] that you are ready to present your verdict in the courtroom.

New September 2003; Revised December 2010, December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 2423, Breach of the Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing—Employment Contract—Essential Factual Elements, and CACI No. 2424, Affirmative Defense—Breach of the Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing—Good Faith Though Mistaken Belief.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

Questions 2 and 3 should be deleted if substantial performance is not at issue.

The breakdown of damages in question 9 is optional; depending on the circumstances, users may wish to break down the damages even further.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

2500. Disparate Treatment—Essential Factual Elements (Gov. Code, § 12940(a))

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] wrongfully discriminated against [him/her/nonbinary pronoun]. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] was [an employer/[other covered entity]];

2. That [name of plaintiff] [was an employee of [name of defendant]/applied to [name of defendant] for a job/[describe other covered relationship to defendant]];

3. [That [name of defendant] [discharged/refused to hire/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff];]

   [or]

   [That [*name of defendant] subjected [name of plaintiff] to an adverse employment action;]

   [or]

   [That [*name of plaintiff] was constructively discharged;]

4. That [name of plaintiff]'s [protected status--for example, race, gender, or age] was a substantial motivating reason for [name of defendant]'s [decision to [discharge/refuse to hire/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff]/conduct];

5. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

6. That [name of defendant]'s conduct was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

New September 2003; Revised April 2009, June 2011, June 2012, June 2013, May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction is intended for use when a plaintiff alleges disparate treatment discrimination under the FEHA against an employer or other covered entity. Disparate treatment occurs when an employer treats an individual less favorably than others because of the individual's protected status. In contrast, disparate impact (the other general theory of discrimination) occurs when an employer has an employment practice that appears neutral but has an adverse impact on members of a protected group. For disparate impact claims, see CACI No. 2502, Disparate Impact—Essential Factual Elements.

If element 1 is given, the court may need to instruct the jury on the statutory definition of "employer" under the FEHA. Other covered entities under the FEHA include labor organizations, employment agencies, and apprenticeship training programs. (See Gov. Code, § 12940(a)–(d).)

Read the first option for element 3 if there is no dispute as to whether the employer's acts constituted an adverse employment action. Read the second option and also give CACI No. 2509, "Adverse Employment Action" Explained, if whether there was an adverse employment action is a question of fact for the jury. If constructive discharge is alleged, give the third option for element 3 and also give CACI No. 2510, "Constructive Discharge" Explained. Select "conduct" in element 4 if either the second or third option is included for element 3.

Note that there are two causation elements. There must be a causal link between the discriminatory animus and the adverse action (see element 4), and there must be a causal link between the adverse action and the damage (see element 6). (See Mamou v. Trendwest Resorts, Inc. (2008) 165 Cal.App.4th 686, 713 [81 Cal.Rptr.3d 406].)

Element 4 requires that discrimination based on a protected classification be a substantial motivating reason for the adverse action. (See Harris v. City of Santa Monica (2013) 56 Cal.4th 203, 232 [152 Cal.Rptr.3d 392, 294 P.3d 49]; see also CACI No. 2507, "Substantial Motivating Reason" Explained.) Modify element 4 if plaintiff was not actually a member of the protected class, but alleges discrimination because ~~he or she~~the plaintiff was perceived to be a member, or associated with someone who was or was perceived to be a member, of the protected class. (See Gov. Code, § 12926(o).)

For damages instructions, see applicable instructions on tort damages.

Sources and Authority

- Discrimination Prohibited Under Fair Employment and Housing Act. Government Code section 12940(a).

- Perception and Association. Government Code section 12926(o).

- "Race" and "Protective Hairstyles." Government Code section 12926(w), (x).

- "[C]onceptually the theory of '[disparate] treatment' ... is the most easily understood type of discrimination. The employer simply treats some people less favorably than others because of their race, color, religion, sex or national origin." (Mixon v. Fair Employment and Housing Com. (1987) 192 Cal.App.3d 1306, 1317 [237 Cal.Rptr. 884], quoting Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 335–336, fn. 15 [97 S.Ct. 1843, 52 L.Ed.2d 396].)

- "California has adopted the three-stage burden-shifting test for discrimination claims set forth in McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792 [93 S.Ct. 1817, 36 L.Ed. 2d 668]. 'This so-called McDonnell Douglas test reflects the principle that direct evidence of intentional discrimination is rare, and that such claims must usually be proved circumstantially. Thus, by successive steps of increasingly narrow focus, the test allows discrimination to be inferred from facts that create a reasonable likelihood of bias and are not satisfactorily explained.' " (Sandell v. Taylor-Listug, Inc. (2010) 188 Cal.App.4th 297, 307 [115 Cal.Rptr.3d 453], internal citations omitted.)

- "The McDonnell Douglas framework was designed as 'an analytical tool for use by the trial judge in applying the law, not a concept to be understood and applied by the jury in the factfinding process.' " (Abed v. Western Dental Services, Inc. (2018) 23 Cal.App.5th 726, 737 [233 Cal.Rptr.3d 242].)

- "At trial, the McDonnell Douglas test places on the plaintiff the initial burden to establish a prima facie case of discrimination. This step is designed to eliminate at the outset the most patently meritless claims, as where the plaintiff is not a member of the protected class or was clearly unqualified, or where the job he sought was withdrawn and never filled. While the plaintiff's prima facie burden is 'not onerous', he must at least show ' "actions taken by the employer from which one can infer, if such actions remain unexplained, that it is more likely than not that such actions were 'based on a [prohibited] discriminatory criterion . . . .' …." …' " (Guz v. Bechtel National, Inc. (2000) 24 Cal.4th 317, 354–355 [100 Cal.Rptr.2d 352, 8 P.3d 1089], internal citations omitted.)

- "If, at trial, the plaintiff establishes a prima facie case, a presumption of discrimination arises. This presumption, though 'rebuttable,' is 'legally mandatory.' Thus, in a trial, '[i]f the trier of fact believes the plaintiff's evidence, and if the employer is silent in the face of the presumption, the court must enter judgment for the plaintiff because no issue of fact remains in the case.' [¶] Accordingly, at this trial stage, the burden shifts to the employer to rebut the presumption by producing admissible evidence, sufficient to 'raise[] a genuine issue of fact' and to 'justify a judgment for the [employer],' that its action was taken for a legitimate, nondiscriminatory reason. [¶] If the employer sustains this burden, the presumption of discrimination disappears. The plaintiff must then have the opportunity to attack the employer's proffered reasons as pretexts for discrimination, or to offer any other evidence of discriminatory motive. In an appropriate case, evidence of dishonest reasons, considered together with the elements of the prima facie case, may permit a finding of prohibited bias. The ultimate burden of persuasion on the issue of actual discrimination remains with the plaintiff." (Guz, supra, 24 Cal.4th at pp. 355–356, internal citations omitted.)

- "The trial court decides the first two stages of the McDonnell Douglas test as questions of law. If the plaintiff and defendant satisfy their respective burdens, the presumption of discrimination disappears and the question whether the defendant unlawfully discriminated against the plaintiff is submitted to the jury to decide whether it believes the defendant's or the plaintiff's explanation." (Swanson v. Morongo Unified School Dist. (2014) 232 Cal.App.4th 954, 965 [181 Cal.Rptr.3d 553].)

- "To succeed on a disparate treatment claim at trial, the plaintiff has the initial burden of establishing a prima facie case of discrimination, to wit, a set of circumstances that, if unexplained, permit an inference that it is more likely than not the employer intentionally treated the employee less favorably than others on prohibited grounds. Based on the inherent difficulties of showing intentional discrimination, courts have generally adopted a multifactor test to determine if a plaintiff was subject to disparate treatment. The plaintiff must generally show that: he or she was a member of a protected class; was qualified for the position he sought; suffered an adverse employment action, and there were circumstances suggesting that the employer acted with a discriminatory motive. [¶] On a defense motion for summary judgment against a disparate treatment claim, the defendant must show either that one of these elements cannot be established or that there were one or more legitimate, nondiscriminatory reasons underlying the adverse employment action." (Jones v. Department of Corrections (2007) 152 Cal.App.4th 1367, 1379 [62 Cal.Rptr.3d 200], internal citations omitted.)

- "Although '[t]he specific elements of a prima facie case may vary depending on the particular facts,' the plaintiff in a failure-to-hire case '[g]enerally … must provide evidence that (1) he [or she] was a member of a protected class, (2) he [or she] was qualified for the position he [or she] sought … , (3) he [or she] suffered an adverse employment action, such as … denial of an available job, and (4) some other circumstance suggests discriminatory motive,' such as that the position remained open and the employer continued to solicit applications for it." (Abed, supra, 23 Cal.App.5th at p. 736.)

- "Although we recognize that in most cases, a plaintiff who did not apply for a position will be unable to prove a claim of discriminatory failure to hire, a job application is not an element of the claim." (Abed, supra, 23 Cal.App.5th at p. 740, original italics.)

- "Employers who lie about the existence of open positions are not immune from liability under the FEHA simply because they are effective in keeping protected persons from applying." (Abed, supra, 23 Cal.App.5th at p. 741.)

- "[Defendant] still could shift the burden to [plaintiff] by presenting admissible evidence showing a legitimate, nondiscriminatory reason for terminating her. 'It is the employer's honest belief in the stated reasons for firing an employee and not the objective truth or falsity of the underlying facts that is at issue in a discrimination case.' … '[I]f nondiscriminatory, [the employer's] true reasons need not necessarily have been wise or correct. … While the objective soundness of an employer's proffered reasons supports their credibility … , the ultimate issue is simply whether the employer acted with a motive to discriminate illegally. Thus, "legitimate" reasons … in this context are reasons that are facially unrelated to prohibited bias, and which, if true, would thus preclude a finding of discrimination. …' " (Wills v. Superior Court (2011) 195 Cal.App.4th 143, 170–171 [125 Cal.Rptr.3d 1], original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- "The burden therefore shifted to [plaintiff] to present evidence showing the [defendant] engaged in intentional discrimination. To meet her burden, [plaintiff] had to present evidence showing (1) the [defendant]'s stated reason for not renewing her contract was untrue or pretextual; (2) the [defendant] acted with a discriminatory animus in not renewing her contract; or (3) a combination of the two." (Swanson, supra, 232 Cal.App.4th at p. 966.)

- "Evidence that an employer's proffered reasons were pretextual does not necessarily establish that the employer intentionally discriminated: ' " '[I]t is not enough … to disbelieve the employer; the factfinder must believe the plaintiff's explanation of intentional discrimination.' " ' However, evidence of pretext is important: ' "[A] plaintiff's prima facie case, combined with sufficient evidence to find that the employer's asserted justification is false, may permit the trier of fact to conclude that the employer unlawfully discriminated." ' " (Diego v. City of Los Angeles (2017) 15 Cal.App.5th 338, 350–351 [223 Cal.Rptr.3d 173], internal citations omitted.)

- "While a complainant need not prove that [discriminatory] animus was the sole motivation behind a challenged action, he must prove by a preponderance of the evidence that there was a 'causal connection' between the employee's protected status and the adverse employment decision." (Mixon, supra, 192 Cal.App.3d at p. 1319.)

- "Requiring the plaintiff to show that discrimination was a substantial motivating factor, rather than simply a motivating factor, more effectively ensures that liability will not be imposed based on evidence of mere thoughts or passing statements unrelated to the disputed employment decision. At the same time, … proof that discrimination was a substantial factor in an employment decision triggers the deterrent purpose of the FEHA and thus exposes the employer to liability, even if other factors would have led the employer to make the same decision at the time." (Harris, supra, 56 Cal.4th at p. 232, original italics.)

- "We do not suggest that discrimination must be alone sufficient to bring about an employment decision in order to constitute a substantial motivating factor. But it is important to recognize that discrimination can be serious, consequential, and even by itself determinative of an employment decision without also being a "but for" cause." (Harris, supra, 56 Cal.4th at p. 229.)

- "In cases involving a comparison of the plaintiff's qualifications and those of the successful candidate, we must assume that a reasonable juror who might disagree with the employer's decision, but would find the question close, would not usually infer discrimination on the basis of a comparison of qualifications alone. In a close case, a reasonable juror would usually assume that the employer is more capable of assessing the significance of small differences in the qualifications of the candidates, or that the employer simply made a judgment call. [Citation.] But this does not mean that a reasonable juror would in every case defer to the employer's assessment. If that were so, no job discrimination case could ever go to trial. If a factfinder can conclude that a reasonable employer would have found the plaintiff to be significantly better qualified for the job, but this employer did not, the factfinder can legitimately infer that the employer consciously selected a less-qualified candidate—something that employers do not usually do, unless some other strong consideration, such as discrimination, enters into the picture." (Reeves v. MV Transportation, Inc. (2010) 186 Cal.App.4th 666, 674–675 [111 Cal.Rptr.3d 896], original italics.)

- "While not all cases hold that 'the disparity in candidates' qualifications "must be so apparent as to jump off the page and slap us in the face to support a finding of pretext" ' the precedents do consistently require that the disparity be substantial to support an inference of discrimination." (Reeves, supra, 186 Cal.App.4th at p. 675, internal citation omitted.)

- "[Defendant] contends that a trial court must assess the relative strength and nature of the evidence presented on summary judgment in determining if the plaintiff has 'created only a weak issue of fact.' However, [defendant] overlooks that a review of all of the evidence is essential to that assessment. The stray remarks doctrine, as advocated by [defendant], goes further. It allows a court to weigh and assess the remarks in isolation, and to disregard the potentially damaging nature of discriminatory remarks simply because they are made by 'nondecisionmakers, or [made] by decisionmakers unrelated to the decisional process.' [Defendant] also argues that ambiguous remarks are stray, irrelevant, prejudicial, and inadmissible. However, 'the task of disambiguating ambiguous utterances is for trial, not for summary judgment.' Determining the weight of discriminatory or ambiguous remarks is a role reserved for the jury. The stray remarks doctrine allows the trial court to remove this role from the jury." (Reid v. Google, Inc. (2010) 50 Cal.4th 512, 540–541 [113 Cal.Rptr.3d 327, 235 P.3d 988], internal citations omitted; see also Gov. Code, § 12923(c) [Legislature affirms the decision in Reid v. Google, Inc. in its rejection of the "stray remarks doctrine"].)

- "[D]iscriminatory remarks can be relevant in determining whether intentional discrimination occurred: 'Although stray remarks may not have strong probative value when viewed in isolation, they may corroborate direct evidence of discrimination or gain significance in conjunction with other circumstantial evidence. Certainly, who made the comments, when they were made in relation to the adverse employment decision, and in what context they were made are all factors that should be considered." (Husman v. Toyota Motor Credit Corp. (2017) 12 Cal.App.5th 1168, 1190–1191 [220 Cal.Rptr.3d 42].)

- "Because of the similarity between state and federal employment discrimination laws, California courts look to pertinent federal precedent when applying our own statutes." (Guz, supra, 24 Cal.4th at p. 354.)

- "We have held 'that, in a civil action under the FEHA, all relief generally available in noncontractual actions ... may be obtained.' This includes injunctive relief." (Aguilar v. Avis Rent A Car System, Inc. (1999) 21 Cal.4th 121, 132 [87 Cal.Rptr.2d 132, 980 P.2d 846], internal citations omitted.)

- "The FEHA does not itself authorize punitive damages. It is, however, settled that California's punitive damages statute, Civil Code section 3294, applies to actions brought under the FEHA ... ." (Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie (1998) 63 Cal.App.4th 1128, 1147–1148 [74 Cal.Rptr.2d 510], internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

8 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Constitutional Law, §§ ~~1017~~1143–~~1021~~1147

Chin et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 7-A, Title VII And The California Fair Employment And Housing Act, ¶¶ 7:194, 7:200–7:201, 7:356, 7:391–7:392 (The Rutter Group)

1 Wrongful Employment Termination Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) Discrimination Claims, §§ 2.44–2.82

3 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 43, Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws, § 43.01 (Matthew Bender)

11 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 115, Civil Rights: Employment Discrimination, § 115.23[2] (Matthew Bender)

California Civil Practice: Employment Litigation, §§ 2:2, 2:20 (Thomson Reuters)

2508. Failure to File Timely Administrative Complaint (Gov. Code, § 12960(ed))—Plaintiff Alleges Continuing Violation

---

[*Name of defendant] contends that [name of plaintiff]'s lawsuit may not proceed because [name of plaintiff] did not timely file a complaint with the Department of Fair Employment and Housing (DFEH). A complaint is timely if it was filed within ~~one~~ three years of the date on which [name of defendant]'s alleged unlawful practice occurred.

[*Name of plaintiff] filed a complaint with the DFEH on [date]. [Name of plaintiff] may recover for acts of alleged [specify the unlawful practice, e.g., harassment] that occurred before [insert date ~~one~~ three years before the DFEH complaint was filed], only if [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] proves all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant]'s [e.g., harassment] that occurred before [insert date ~~one~~ three years before the DFEH complaint was filed] was similar or related to the conduct that occurred on or after that date;

2. That the conduct was reasonably frequent; and

3. That the conduct had not yet become permanent before that date.

"Permanent" in this context means that the conduct has stopped, [*name of plaintiff] has resigned, or [name of defendant]'s statements and actions would make it clear to a reasonable employee that any further efforts to resolve the issue internally would be futile.

New June 2010; Revised December 2011, June 2015, May 2019; May 2020

Directions for Use

Give this instruction if the plaintiff relies on the continuing-violation doctrine in order to avoid the bar of the limitation period of ~~one~~ three years within which to file an administrative complaint. (See Gov. Code, § 12960(ed).) Although the continuing-violation doctrine is labeled an equitable exception ~~to the one-year deadline~~, it may involve triable issues of fact. (See Dominguez v. Washington Mutual Bank (2008) 168 Cal.App.4th 714, 723–724 [85 Cal.Rptr.3d 705].)

If the case involves multiple claims of FEHA violations, replace "lawsuit" in the opening sentence with reference to the particular claim or claims to which the continuing-violation rule may apply.

In the second paragraph, insert the date on which the administrative complaint was filed and the dates on which both sides allege that the complaint requirement was triggered. The verdict form should ask the jury to specify the date that it finds that the requirement accrued. If there are multiple claims with different continuing-violation dates, repeat this paragraph for each claim.

The plaintiff has the burden to plead and prove timely exhaustion of administrative remedies, such as filing a sufficient complaint with the DFEH. (Kim v. Konad USA Distribution, Inc. (2014) 226 Cal.App.4th 1336, 1345 [172 Cal.Rptr.3d 686].) This burden of proof extends to any excuse or justification for the failure to timely file, such as the continuing--violation exception. (Jumaane v. City of Los Angeles (2015) 241 Cal.App.4th 1390, 1402 [194 Cal.Rptr.3d 689].)

Sources and Authority

- Administrative Complaint for FEHA Violation. Government Code section 12960.

- "At a jury trial, the facts are presented and the jury must decide whether there was a continuing course of unlawful conduct based on the law as stated in CACI No. 2508." (Jumaane, supra, 241 Cal.App.4th at p. 1401.)

- "Under the FEHA, the employee must exhaust the administrative remedy provided by the statute by filing a complaint with the Department of Fair Employment and Housing (Department) and must obtain from the Department a notice of right to sue in order to be entitled to file a civil action in court based on violations of the FEHA. The timely filing of an administrative complaint is a prerequisite to the bringing of a civil action for damages under the FEHA. As for the applicable limitation period, the FEHA provides that no complaint for any violation of its provisions may be filed with the Department 'after the expiration of one year from the date upon which the alleged unlawful practice or refusal to cooperate occurred,' with an exception for delayed discovery not relevant here." (Morgan v. Regents of University of California (2000) 88 Cal.App.4th 52, 63 [105 Cal.Rptr.2d 652], original italics, internal citations omitted.)

- "[I]t is 'plaintiff's burden to plead and prove timely exhaustion of administrative remedies, such as filing a sufficient complaint with [DFEH] and obtaining a right-to-sue letter.' " (Kim, supra, 226 Cal.App.4th at p. 1345.)

- "[W]hen defendant has asserted the statute of limitation defense, plaintiff has the burden of proof to show his or her claims are timely under the continuing violation doctrine." (Jumaane, supra, 241 Cal.App.4th at p. 1402.)

- "Under the continuing violation doctrine, a plaintiff may recover for unlawful acts occurring outside the limitations period if they continued into that period. The continuing violation doctrine requires proof that (1) the defendant's actions inside and outside the limitations period are sufficiently similar in kind; (2) those actions occurred with sufficient frequency; and (3) those actions have not acquired a degree of permanence." (Wassmann v. South Orange County Community College Dist. (2018) 24 Cal.App.5th 825, 850–851 [234 Cal.Rptr.3d 712] , internal citations omitted.)

- " '[P]ermanence' in the context of an ongoing process of accommodation of disability, or ongoing disability harassment, should properly be understood to mean the following: that an employer's statements and actions make clear to a reasonable employee that any further efforts at informal conciliation to obtain reasonable accommodation or end harassment will be futile. [¶] Thus, when an employer engages in a continuing course of unlawful conduct under the FEHA by refusing reasonable accommodation of a disabled employee or engaging in disability harassment, and this course of conduct does not constitute a constructive discharge, the statute of limitations begins to run, not necessarily when the employee first believes that his or her rights may have been violated, but rather, either when the course of conduct is brought to an end, as by the employer's cessation of such conduct or by the employee's resignation, or when the employee is on notice that further efforts to end the unlawful conduct will be in vain. Accordingly, an employer who is confronted with an employee seeking accommodation of disability or relief from disability harassment may assert control over its legal relationship with the employee either by accommodating the employee's requests, or by making clear to the employee in a definitive manner that it will not be granting any such requests, thereby commencing the running of the statute of limitations." (Richards v. CH2M Hill, Inc. (2001) 26 Cal.4th 798, 823–824 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 87, 29 P.3d 175], internal citations omitted.)

- "[T]he Richards court interpreted section 12960 to mean that when a continuing pattern of wrongful conduct occurs partly in the statutory period and partly outside the statutory period, the limitations period begins to accrue once an employee is on notice of the violation of his or her rights and on notice that 'litigation, not informal conciliation, is the only alternative for the vindication of his or her rights.' " (Acuna v. San Diego Gas & Electric Co. (2013) 217 Cal.App.4th 1402, 1412 [159 Cal.Rptr.3d 749].)

- "A continuing violation may be established by demonstrating 'a company wide policy or practice' or 'a series of related acts against a single individual.' 'The continuing violation theory generally has been applied in the context of a continuing policy and practice of discrimination on a company-wide basis; a plaintiff who shows that a policy and practice operated at least in part within the limitation period satisfies the filing requirements. "[A] systematic policy of discrimination is actionable even if some or all of the events evidencing its inception occurred prior to the limitations period. The reason is that the continuing system of discrimination operates against the employee and violates his or her rights up to a point in time that falls within the applicable limitations period. Such continuing violations are most likely to occur in the matter of placements or promotions." ' The plaintiff must demonstrate that at least one act occurred within the filing period and that 'the harassment is "more than the occurrence of isolated or sporadic acts of intentional discrimination." … The relevant distinction is between the occurrence of isolated, intermittent acts of discrimination and a persistent, on-going pattern.' " (Morgan, supra, 88 Cal.App.4th at p. 64, internal citations omitted.)

- "[A] continuing violation claim will likely fail if the plaintiff knew, or through the exercise of reasonable diligence would have known, [~~he~~the plaintiff] was being discriminated against at the time the earlier events occurred." (Morgan, supra, 88 Cal.App.4th at p. 65.)

- "The Supreme Court has extended the continuing violation doctrine to retaliation claims. And the doctrine also applies to racial harassment claims. Indeed, as we observed in Morgan v. Regents of University of California, supra, 88 Cal.App.4th 52, 65: 'Cases alleging a hostile work environment due to racial or sexual harassment are often found to come within the continuing violations framework.' " (Nazir v. United Airlines, Inc. (2009) 178 Cal.App.4th 243, 270 [100 Cal.Rptr.3d 296], internal citations omitted.)

Secondary Sources

~~7~~ 8 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Constitutional Law, § 1065

3 Witkin, California Procedure (5th ed. 2008) Actions, § 564

Chin et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 7-A, Title VII And The California Fair Employment And Housing Act, ¶¶ 7:561.1, 7:975 (The Rutter Group)

Chin et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 16-A, Failure To Exhaust Administrative Remedies, ¶ 16:85 (The Rutter Group)

3 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 43, Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws, § 43.01[4] (Matthew Bender)

11 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 115, Civil Rights: Employment Discrimination, § 115.51[1] (Matthew Bender)

10 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 100, Employer and Employee: Wrongful Termination and Discipline, § 100.59 (Matthew Bender)

2510. "Constructive Discharge" Explained

[Name of plaintiff] must prove that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was constructively discharged. To establish constructive discharge, [name of plaintiff] must prove the following:

1. That [name of defendant] [through [name of defendant]'s officers, directors, managing agents, or supervisory employees] intentionally created or knowingly permitted working conditions to exist that were so intolerable that a reasonable person in [name of plaintiff]'s position would have had no reasonable alternative except to resign; and

2. That [name of plaintiff] resigned because of these working conditions.

In order to be sufficiently intolerable, adverse working conditions must be unusually aggravated or amount to a continuous pattern. In general, single, trivial, or isolated acts of misconduct are insufficient to support a constructive discharge claim. But in some circumstances, a single intolerable incident may constitute a constructive discharge.

New June 2012; Revised May 2019, May 2020

Directions for Use

Give this instruction with CACI No. 2401, Breach of Employment Contract—Unspecified Term—Actual or Constructive Discharge—Essential Factual Elements, CACI No. 2500, Disparate Treatment—Essential Factual Elements, CACI No. 2505, Retaliation, CACI No. 2540, Disability Discrimination—Disparate Treatment—Essential Factual Elements, CACI No. 2560, Religious Creed Discrimination—Failure to Accommodate—Essential Factual Elements, or CACI No. 2570, Age Discrimination—Disparate Treatment—Essential Factual Elements, if the employee alleges that because of the employer's actions, ~~he or she~~the employee had no reasonable alternative other than to leave the employment. Constructive discharge can constitute the adverse employment action required to establish a FEHA violation for discrimination or retaliation. (See Steele v. Youthful Offender Parole Bd. (2008) 162 Cal.App.4th 1241, 1253 [76 Cal.Rptr.3d 632].)

Sources and Authority

- "[C]onstructive discharge occurs only when an employer terminates employment by forcing the employee to resign. A constructive discharge is equivalent to a dismissal, although it is accomplished indirectly. Constructive discharge occurs only when the employer coerces the employee's resignation, either by creating working conditions that are intolerable under an objective standard, or by failing to remedy objectively intolerable working conditions that actually are known to the employer. We have said 'a constructive discharge is legally regarded as a firing rather than a resignation.' " (Mullins v. Rockwell Internat. Corp. (1997) 15 Cal.4th 731, 737 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 636, 936 P.2d 1246], internal citations omitted.)

- "Actual discharge carries significant legal consequences for employers, including possible liability for wrongful discharge. In an attempt to avoid liability, an employer may refrain from actually firing an employee, preferring instead to engage in conduct causing him or her to quit. The doctrine of constructive discharge addresses such employer-attempted 'end runs' around wrongful discharge and other claims requiring employer-initiated terminations of employment." (Turner v. Anheuser-Busch, Inc. (1994) 7 Cal.4th 1238, 1244 [32 Cal.Rptr.2d 223, 876 P.2d 1022].)

- "Standing alone, constructive discharge is neither a tort nor a breach of contract, but a doctrine that transforms what is ostensibly a resignation into a firing." (Turner, supra, 7 Cal.4th at p. 1251.)

- "In order to amount to constructive discharge, adverse working conditions must be unusually 'aggravated' or amount to a 'continuous pattern' before the situation will be deemed intolerable. In general, '[s]ingle, trivial, or isolated acts of [misconduct] are insufficient' to support a constructive discharge claim. Moreover, a poor performance rating or a demotion, even when accompanied by reduction in pay, does not by itself trigger a constructive discharge." (Turner, supra, 7 Cal.4th at p. 1247, internal citation and footnotes omitted.)

- "In some circumstances, a single intolerable incident, such as a crime of violence against an employee by an employer, or an employer's ultimatum that an employee commit a crime, may constitute a constructive discharge. Such misconduct potentially could be found 'aggravated.' " (Turner, supra, 7 Cal.4th at p. 1247, fn. 3.)

- "Although situations may exist where the employee's decision to resign is unreasonable as a matter of law, '[w]hether conditions were so intolerable as to justify a reasonable employee's decision to resign is normally a question of fact. [Citation.]' " (Vasquez v. Franklin Management Real Estate Fund, Inc. (2013) 222 Cal.App.4th 819, 827 [166 Cal.Rptr.3d 242].)

- "[T]he standard by which a constructive discharge is determined is an objective one—the question is 'whether a reasonable person faced with the allegedly intolerable employer actions or conditions of employment would have no reasonable alternative except to quit.' " (Turner, supra, 7 Cal.4th at p. 1248, internal citations omitted.)

- "[U]nder Turner, the proper focus is on the working conditions themselves, not on the plaintiff's subjective reaction to those conditions." (Simers v. Los Angeles Times Communications, LLC (2018) 18 Cal.App.5th 1248, 1272 [227 Cal.Rptr.3d 695].)

- "The length of time the plaintiff remained on the job may be one relevant factor in determining the intolerability of employment conditions from the standpoint of a reasonable person." (Turner, supra, 7 Cal.4th at p. 1254, original italics.)

- "[T]here was, as the trial court found, substantial evidence that plaintiff's age and disability were 'substantial motivating reason[s]' for the adverse employment action or actions to which plaintiff was subjected. But the discriminatory motive for plaintiff's working conditions has no bearing on whether the evidence was sufficient to establish constructive discharge." (Simers, supra, 18 Cal.App.5th at p. 1271.)

- "In order to establish a constructive discharge, an employee must plead and prove, by the usual preponderance of the evidence standard, that the employer either intentionally created or knowingly permitted working conditions that were so intolerable or aggravated at the time of the employee's resignation that a reasonable employer would realize that a reasonable person in the employee's position would be compelled to resign. [¶] For purposes of this standard, the requisite knowledge or intent must exist on the part of either the employer or those persons who effectively represent the employer, i.e., its officers, directors, managing agents, or supervisory employees." (Turner, supra, 7 Cal.4th at p. 1251.)

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Agency and Employment, § 238

Chin et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 4-G, Constructive Discharge, ¶ 4:405 et seq. (The Rutter Group)

3 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 43, Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws, § 43.01 (Matthew Bender)

11 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 115, Civil Rights: Employment Discrimination, § 115.34 (Matthew Bender)

21 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 249, Employment Law: Termination and Discipline, § 249.15 (Matthew Bender)

10 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 100, Employer and Employee: Wrongful Termination and Discipline, § 100.31 et seq. (Matthew Bender)

2521A. Work Environment Harassment—Conduct Directed at Plaintiff—Essential Factual Elements—Employer or Entity Defendant (Gov. Code, §§ 12923, 12940(j))

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was subjected to harassment based on [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] [describe protected status, e.g., race, gender, or age] at [name of defendant] and that this harassment created a work environment that was hostile, intimidating, offensive, oppressive, or abusive.

To establish this claim, [*name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] was [an employee of/a person providing services under a contract with/an unpaid intern with/a volunteer with] [name of defendant];

2. That [name of plaintiff] was subjected to harassing conduct because [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was [protected status, e.g., a woman];

3. That the harassing conduct was severe or pervasive;

4. That a reasonable [e.g., woman] in [name of plaintiff]'s circumstances would have considered the work environment to be hostile, intimidating, offensive, oppressive, or abusive;

5. That [name of plaintiff] considered the work environment to be hostile, intimidating, offensive, oppressive, or abusive;

6. [Select applicable basis of defendant's liability:]

   [That a supervisor engaged in the conduct;]

   [*or]

   [That [*name of defendant] [or [his/her/nonbinary pronoun/its] supervisors or agents] knew or should have known of the conduct and failed to take immediate and appropriate corrective action;]

7. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

8. That the conduct was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

Derived from former CACI No. 2521 December 2007; Revised June 2013, December 2015, May 2018, July 2019, May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction is for use in a hostile work environment case when the defendant is an employer or other entity covered by the FEHA. For an individual defendant, such as the alleged harasser or plaintiff's coworker, see CACI No. 2522A, Work Environment Harassment—Conduct Directed at Plaintiff—Essential Factual Elements—Individual Defendant. For a case in which the plaintiff is not the target of the harassment, see CACI No. 2521B, Work Environment Harassment—Conduct Directed at Others—Essential Factual Elements—Employer or Entity Defendant. For an instruction for use if the hostile environment is due to sexual favoritism, see CACI No. 2521C, Work Environment Harassment—Widespread Sexual Favoritism—Essential Factual Elements—Employer or Entity Defendant. Also read CACI No. 2523, "Harassing Conduct" Explained, and CACI No. 2524, "Severe or Pervasive" Explained.

Modify element 2 if plaintiff was not actually a member of the protected class, but alleges harassment because ~~he or she~~the plaintiff was perceived to be a member, or associated with someone who was or was perceived to be a member, of the protected class. (See Gov. Code, § 12926(o).)

In element 6, select the applicable basis of employer liability: (a) strict liability for a supervisor's harassing conduct, or (b) the employer's ratification of the conduct. For a definition of "supervisor," see CACI No. 2525, Harassment—"Supervisor" Defined. If there are both employer and individual supervisor defendants (see CACI No. 2522A, Work Environment Harassment—Conduct Directed at Plaintiff—Essential Factual Elements—Individual Defendant) and both are found liable, they are both jointly and severally liable for any damages. Comparative fault and Proposition 51 do not apply to the employer's strict liability for supervisor harassment. (State Dep't of Health Servs. v. Superior Court (2003) 31 Cal.4th 1026, 1041–1042 [6 Cal.Rptr.3d 441, 79 P.3d 556]; see Bihun v. AT&T Information Systems, Inc. (1993) 13 Cal.App.4th 976, 1000 [16 Cal.Rptr.2d 787], disapproved on other grounds in Lakin v. Watkins Associated Industries (1993) 6 Cal.4th 644, 664 [25 Cal.Rptr.2d 109, 863 P.2d 179]; see also Rashtian v. BRAC-BH, Inc. (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1847, 1851 [12 Cal.Rptr.2d 411] [Proposition 51 cannot be applied to those who are without fault and only have vicarious liability by virtue of some statutory fiat].)

Sources and Authority

- Legislative Intent With Regard to Application of the Laws About Harassment. Government Code section 12923.
- Harassment Prohibited Under Fair Employment and Housing Act. Government Code section 12940(j)(1).
- "Employer" Defined for Harassment. Government Code section 12940(j)(4)(A).
- Harassment Because of Sex. Government Code section 12940(j)(4)(C).
- Person Providing Services Under Contract. Government Code section 12940(j)(5).
- Aiding and Abetting Fair Employment and Housing Act Violations. Government Code section 12940(i).
- Perception and Association. Government Code section 12926(o).

- "The elements [of a prima facie claim of hostile-environment sexual harassment] are: (1) plaintiff belongs to a protected group; (2) plaintiff was subject to unwelcome sexual harassment; (3) the harassment complained of was based on sex; (4) the harassment complained of was sufficiently pervasive so as to alter the conditions of employment and create an abusive working environment; and (5) respondeat superior." (Fisher v. San Pedro Peninsula Hospital (1989) 214 Cal.App.3d 590, 608 [262 Cal.Rptr. 842], footnote omitted.)

- "[T]he adjudicator's inquiry should center, dominantly, on whether the discriminatory conduct has unreasonably interfered with the plaintiff's work performance. To show such interference, 'the plaintiff need not prove that his or her tangible productivity has declined as a result of the harassment.' It suffices to prove that a reasonable person subjected to the discriminatory conduct would find, as the plaintiff did, that the harassment so altered working conditions as to 'make it more difficult to do the job.' " (Harris v. Forklift Sys. (1993) 510 U.S. 17, 25 [114 S.Ct. 367, 126 L.Ed.2d 295], conc. opn. of Ginsburg, J.; see Gov. Code, § 12923(a) endorsing this language as reflective of California law.)

- "[A]n employer is strictly liable for all acts of sexual harassment by a supervisor." (State Dep't of Health Servs., supra, 31 Cal.4th at p. 1042.)

- "The applicable language of the FEHA does not suggest that an employer's liability for sexual harassment by a supervisor is constrained by principles of agency law. Had the Legislature so intended, it would have used language in the FEHA imposing the negligence standard of liability on acts of harassment by an employee 'other than an agent,' 'not acting as the employer's agent,' or 'not acting within the scope of an agency for the employer.' By providing instead in section 12940, subdivision (j)(1), that the negligence standard applies to acts of harassment 'by an employee other than an agent or supervisor' (italics added), the Legislature has indicated that all acts of harassment by a supervisor are to be exempted from the negligence standard, whether or not the supervisor was then acting as the employer's agent, and that agency principles come into play only when the harasser is not a supervisor. (State Dept. of Health Services, supra, 31 Cal.4th at p. 1041, original italics.)

- "When the harasser is a nonsupervisory employee, employer liability turns on a showing of negligence (that is, the employer knew or should have known of the harassment and failed to take appropriate corrective action)." (Rehmani v. Superior Court (2012) 204 Cal.App.4th 945, 952 [139 Cal.Rptr.3d 464].)

- "If an employee other than an agent or supervisor commits the harassment, and the employer takes immediate and appropriate corrective action when it becomes or reasonably should become aware of the conduct—for example, when the victim or someone else informs the employer—there simply is no 'unlawful employment practice' that the FEHA governs." (Carrisales v. Dept. of Corrections (1999) 21 Cal.4th 1132, 1136 [90 Cal.Rptr.2d 804, 988 P.2d 1083], called into doubt on other grounds by statute.)

- "[I]n order for the employer to avoid strict liability for the supervisor's actions under the FEHA, the harassment must result from a completely private relationship unconnected with the employment. Otherwise, the employer is strictly liable for the supervisor's actions regardless of whether the supervisor was acting as the employer's agent." (Myers v. Trendwest Resorts, Inc. (2007) 148 Cal.App.4th 1403, 1421 [56 Cal.Rptr.3d 501].)

- Employers may be liable for the conduct of certain agents. (See Gov. Code, §§ 12925(d), 12926(d), and 12940(j)(1) and Reno v. Baird (1998) 18 Cal.4th 640, 658 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 499, 957 P.2d 1333] [California Supreme Court declined to express opinion whether "agent" language in the FEHA merely incorporates respondeat superior principles or has some other meaning].)

- "Here, [defendant] was jointly liable with its employees on a respondeat superior or vicarious liability theory on every cause of action in which it was named as a defendant." (Bihun, supra, 13 Cal.App.4th at p. 1000.)

- "The McDonnell Douglas burden-shifting framework does not apply to [plaintiff]'s harassment claim either. Since 'there is no possible justification for harassment in the workplace,' an employer cannot offer a legitimate nondiscriminatory reason for it." (Cornell v. Berkeley Tennis Club (2017) 18 Cal.App.5th 908, 927 [227 Cal.Rptr.3d 286].)

- "[A]lthough no California cases have directly addressed racial harassment in the workplace, the California courts have applied the federal threshold standard to claims of sexual harassment and held that FEHA is violated when the harassment was 'sufficiently severe or pervasive to alter the conditions of the victim's employment.' " (Etter v. Veriflo Corp. (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 457, 464–465 [79 Cal.Rptr.2d 33], internal citations and footnote omitted.)

- "When the workplace is permeated with discriminatory intimidation, ridicule and insult that is 'sufficiently severe or pervasive to alter the conditions of the victim's employment and create an abusive working environment,' the law is violated." (Kelly-Zurian v. Wohl Shoe Co., Inc. (1994) 22 Cal.App.4th 397, 409 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 457], internal citation omitted.)

- "[N]ot every utterance of a racial slur in the workplace violates the FEHA or Title VII. As the United States Supreme Court has recognized in the context of sexual harassment: '[N]ot all workplace conduct that may be described as "harassment" affects a "term, condition, or privilege" of employment within the meaning of Title VII. For sexual harassment to be actionable, it must be sufficiently severe or pervasive "to alter the conditions of [the victim's] employment and create an abusive working environment." ' . . . 'Conduct that is not severe or pervasive enough to create an objectively hostile or abusive work environment—an environment that a reasonable person would find hostile or abusive—is beyond Title VII's purview. Likewise, if the victim does not subjectively perceive the environment to be abusive, the conduct has not actually altered the conditions of the victim's employment, and there is no Title VII violation.' . . . California courts have adopted the same standard in evaluating claims under the FEHA." (Aguilar v. Avis Rent A Car System, Inc. (1999) 21 Cal.4th 121, 129–130 [87 Cal.Rptr.2d 132, 980 P.2d 846], internal citations omitted.)

- "To be actionable, 'a sexually objectionable environment must be both objectively and subjectively offensive, one that a reasonable person would find hostile or abusive, and one that the victim in fact did perceive to be so.' That means a plaintiff who subjectively perceives the workplace as hostile or abusive will not prevail under the FEHA, if a reasonable person in the plaintiff's position, considering all the circumstances, would not share the same perception. Likewise, a plaintiff who does not perceive the workplace as hostile or abusive will not prevail, even if it objectively is so." (Lyle v. Warner Brothers Television Productions (2006) 38 Cal.4th 264, 284 [42 Cal.Rptr.3d 2, 132 P.3d 211], internal citations omitted.)

- "The stray remarks doctrine … allows a court to weigh and assess the remarks in isolation, and to disregard the potentially damaging nature of discriminatory remarks simply because they are made by 'nondecisionmakers, or [made] by decisionmakers unrelated to the decisional process.' [Defendant] also argues that ambiguous remarks are stray, irrelevant, prejudicial, and inadmissible. However, 'the task of disambiguating ambiguous utterances is for trial, not for summary judgment.' Determining the weight of discriminatory or ambiguous remarks is a role reserved for the jury." (Reid v. Google, Inc. (2010) 50 Cal.4th 512, 540–541 [113 Cal.Rptr.3d 327, 235 P.3d 988], internal citations omitted.)

- "[I]n reviewing the trial court's grant of [defendant]'s summary judgment motion, the Court of Appeal properly considered evidence of alleged discriminatory comments made by decision makers and coworkers along with all other evidence in the record." (Reid, supra, 50 Cal.4th at p. 545.)

- "[M]any employment cases present issues of intent, and motive, and hostile working environment, issues not determinable on paper. Such cases, we caution, are rarely appropriate for disposition on summary judgment, however liberalized it be." (Nazir v. United Airlines, Inc. (2009) 178 Cal.App.4th 243, 286 [100 Cal.Rptr.3d 296].)

- "In contending that the 'subjectively offensive' element was not proven, a defendant 'will assert that a plaintiff consented to the conduct through active participation in it, or was not injured because the plaintiff did not subjectively find it abusive.' [¶] [Evidence Code] Section 1106 limits the evidence the defendant may use to support this assertion. It provides that '[i]n any civil action alleging conduct which constitutes sexual harassment, sexual assault, or sexual battery, opinion evidence, reputation evidence, and evidence of specific instances of the plaintiff's sexual conduct, or any of that evidence, is not admissible by the defendant in order to prove consent by the plaintiff or the absence of injury to the plaintiff … .' This general rule is, however, subject to the exception that it 'does not apply to evidence of the plaintiff's sexual conduct with the alleged perpetrator.' The term 'sexual conduct' within the meaning of section 1106 has been broadly construed to include 'all active or passive behavior (whether statements or actions), that either directly or through reasonable inference establishes a plaintiff's willingness to engage in sexual activity,' including 'racy banter, sexual horseplay, and statements concerning prior, proposed, or planned sexual exploits.' " (Meeks v. AutoZone, Inc. (2018) 24 Cal.App.5th 855, 874 [235 Cal.Rptr.3d 161], internal citations omitted.)

- "[A]llegations of a racially hostile work-place must be assessed from the perspective of a reasonable person belonging to the racial or ethnic group of the plaintiff." (McGinest v. GTE Serv. Corp. (9th Cir. 2004) 360 F.3d 1103, 1115.)

- "Under … FEHA, sexual harassment can occur between members of the same gender as long as the plaintiff can establish the harassment amounted to discrimination because of sex." (Lewis v. City of Benicia (2014) 224 Cal.App.4th 1519, 1525 [169 Cal.Rptr.3d 794], original italics.)

- "[T]here is no requirement that the motive behind the sexual harassment must be sexual in nature. '[H]arassing conduct need not be motivated by sexual desire to support an inference of discrimination on the basis of sex.' Sexual harassment occurs when, as is alleged in this case, sex is used as a weapon to create a hostile work environment." (Singleton v. United States Gypsum Co. (2006) 140 Cal.App.4th 1547, 1564 [45 Cal.Rptr.3d 597], original italics, internal citation omitted.)

- "The plaintiff must show that the harassing conduct took place because of the plaintiff's sex, but need not show that the conduct was motivated by sexual desire. For example, a female plaintiff can prevail by showing that the harassment was because of the defendant's bias against women; she need not show that it was because of the defendant's sexual interest in women. In every case, however, the plaintiff must show a discriminatory intent or motivation based on gender." (Pantoja v. Anton (2011) 198 Cal.App.4th 87, 114 [129 Cal.Rptr.3d 384], internal citations omitted.)

- "[A] heterosexual male is subjected to harassment because of sex under the FEHA when attacks on his heterosexual identity are used as a tool of harassment in the workplace, irrespective of whether the attacks are motivated by sexual desire or interest." (Taylor v. Nabors Drilling USA, LP (2014) 222 Cal.App.4th 1228, 1239–1240 [166 Cal.Rptr.3d 676].)

- "A recent legislative amendment modifies section 12940, subdivision (j)(4)(C) (a provision of FEHA specifying types of conduct that constitute harassment because of sex) to read: 'For purposes of this subdivision, "harassment" because of sex includes sexual harassment, gender harassment, and harassment based on pregnancy, childbirth, or related medical conditions. Sexually harassing conduct need not be motivated by sexual desire.' " (Lewis, supra, 224 Cal.App.4th at p. 1527 fn. 8, original italics.)

- "California courts have held so-called 'me too' evidence, that is, evidence of gender bias against employees other than the plaintiff, may be admissible evidence in discrimination and harassment cases." (Meeks, supra, 24 Cal.App.5th at p. 871.)

Secondary Sources

~~4~~ 3 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Agency and Employment, §§ 363, 370

Chin et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 10-A, Sources Of Law Prohibiting Harassment, ¶¶ 10:18–10:19, 10:22, 10:31 (The Rutter Group)

Chin et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 10-B, Sexual Harassment, ¶¶ 10:40, 10:110–10:260 (The Rutter Group)

1 Wrongful Employment Termination Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) Discrimination Claims, §§ 2.68, 2.75, Sexual and Other Harassment, §§ 3.1, 3.14, 3.17, 3.21, 3.36, 3.45

2 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 41, Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws, §§ 41.80[1][a], 41.81[1][b] (Matthew Bender)

3 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 43, Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws, § 43.01[10][g][i] (Matthew Bender)

11 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 115, Civil Rights: Employment Discrimination, § 115.36 (Matthew Bender)

California Civil Practice: Employment Litigation § 2:56 (Thomson Reuters)

2522A. Work Environment Harassment—Conduct Directed at Plaintiff—Essential Factual Elements—Individual Defendant (Gov. Code, §§ 12923, 12940(j))

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] subjected [him/her/nonbinary pronoun] to harassment based on [describe protected status, e.g., race, gender, or age] at [name of employer] and that this harassment created a work environment that was hostile, intimidating, offensive, oppressive, or abusive.

To establish this claim, [*name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of plaintiff] was [an employee of/a person providing services under a contract with/an unpaid intern with/a volunteer with] [name of employer];

2. That [name of plaintiff] was subjected to harassing conduct because [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] was [protected status, e.g., a woman];

3. That the harassing conduct was severe or pervasive;

4. That a reasonable [e.g., woman] in [name of plaintiff]'s circumstances would have considered the work environment to be hostile, intimidating, offensive, oppressive, or abusive;

5. That [name of plaintiff] considered the work environment to be hostile, intimidating, offensive, oppressive, or abusive;

6. That [name of defendant] [participated in/assisted/ [or] encouraged] the harassing conduct;

7. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

8. That the conduct was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

Derived from former CACI No. 2522 December 2007; Revised June 2013, December 2015, May 2018, July 2019, May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction is for use in a hostile work environment case if the plaintiff was the target of the harassing conduct and the defendant is an individual such as the alleged harasser or plaintiff's coworker. For an employer defendant, see CACI No. 2521A, Work Environment Harassment—Conduct Directed at Plaintiff—Essential Factual Elements—Employer or Entity Defendant. For a case in which the plaintiff is not the target of the harassment, see CACI No. 2522B, Work Environment Harassment—Conduct Directed at Others—Essential Factual Elements—Individual Defendant. For an instruction for use if the hostile environment is due to sexual favoritism, see CACI No. 2522C, Work Environment Harassment—Widespread Sexual Favoritism—Essential Factual Elements—Individual Defendant. Also read CACI No.

2523, "Harassing Conduct" Explained, and CACI No. 2524, "Severe or Pervasive" Explained.

Modify element 2 if the plaintiff was not actually a member of the protected class, but alleges harassment because ~~he or she~~the plaintiff was perceived to be a member, or associated with someone who was or was perceived to be a member, of the protected class. (See Gov. Code, § 12926(o).)

If there are both employer and individual supervisor defendants (see CACI No. 2521A, Work Environment Harassment—Conduct Directed at Plaintiff—Essential Factual Elements—Employer or Entity Defendant) and both are found liable, they are both jointly and severally liable for any damages. Comparative fault and Proposition 51 do not apply to the employer's strict liability for supervisor harassment. (State Dep't of Health Servs. v. Superior Court (2003) 31 Cal.4th 1026, 1041–1042 [6 Cal.Rptr.3d 441, 79 P.3d 556]; see Bihun v. AT&T Information Systems, Inc. (1993) 13 Cal.App.4th 976, 1000 [16 Cal.Rptr.2d 787], disapproved on other grounds in Lakin v. Watkins Associated Industries (1993) 6 Cal.4th 644, 664 [25 Cal.Rptr.2d 109, 863 P.2d 179]; see also Rashtian v. BRAC-BH, Inc. (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1847, 1851 [12 Cal.Rptr.2d 411] [Proposition 51 cannot be applied to those who are without fault and only have vicarious liability by virtue of some statutory fiat].)

See also the Sources and Authority to CACI No. 2521A, Work Environment Harassment—Conduct Directed at Plaintiff—Essential Factual Elements—Employer or Entity Defendant.

Sources and Authority

- Legislative Intent With Regard to Application of the Laws About Harassment. Government Code section 12923.
- Harassment Prohibited Under Fair Employment and Housing Act. Government Code section 12940(j)(1).
- Personal Liability for Harassment. Government Code section 12940(j)(3).
- "Employer" Defined for Harassment. Government Code section 12940(j)(4)(A).
- Harassment Because of Sex. Government Code section 12940(j)(4)(C).
- Person Providing Services Under Contract. Government Code section 12940(j)(5).
- Aiding and Abetting Fair Employment and Housing Act Violations. Government Code section 12940(i).
- Perception and Association. Government Code section 12926(o).
- "The elements [of a prima facie claim of hostile-environment sexual harassment] are: (1) plaintiff belongs to a protected group; (2) plaintiff was subject to unwelcome sexual harassment; (3) the harassment complained of was based on sex; (4) the harassment complained of was sufficiently pervasive so as to alter the conditions of employment and create an abusive working environment; and (5) respondeat superior." (Fisher v. San Pedro Peninsula Hospital (1989) 214 Cal.App.3d 590, 608 [262 Cal.Rptr. 842], footnote omitted.)

- "[T]he adjudicator's inquiry should center, dominantly, on whether the discriminatory conduct has unreasonably interfered with the plaintiff's work performance. To show such interference, 'the plaintiff need not prove that his or her tangible productivity has declined as a result of the harassment.' It suffices to prove that a reasonable person subjected to the discriminatory conduct would find, as the plaintiff did, that the harassment so altered working conditions as to 'make it more difficult to do the job.' " (Harris v. Forklift Sys. (1993) 510 U.S. 17, 25 [114 S.Ct. 367, 126 L.Ed.2d 295], conc. opn. of Ginsburg, J.; see Gov. Code, § 12923(a) endorsing this language as reflective of California law.)

- "Under FEHA, an employee who harasses another employee may be held personally liable." (Lewis v. City of Benicia (2014) 224 Cal.App.4th 1519, 1524 [169 Cal.Rptr.3d 794].)

- "A supervisor who, without more, fails to take action to prevent sexual harassment of an employee is not personally liable as an aider and abettor of the harasser, an aider and abettor of the employer or an agent of the employer." (Fiol v. Doellstedt (1996) 50 Cal.App.4th 1318, 1331 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 308].)

Secondary Sources

~~4~~ 3 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Agency and Employment, §§ 363, 370

Chin et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 10-B, Sexual Harassment, ¶¶ 10:40, 10:110–10:260 (The Rutter Group)

1 Wrongful Employment Termination Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) Discrimination Claims, §§ 2.68, 2.75, Sexual and Other Harassment, §§ 3.1, 3.14, 3.17, 3.36–3.45

2 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 41, Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws, §§ 41.80[1][a], 41.81[1][b] (Matthew Bender)

3 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 43, Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws, § 43.01[10][g][i] (Matthew Bender)

11 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 115, Civil Rights: Employment Discrimination, § 115.36 (Matthew Bender)

California Civil Practice: Employment Litigation §§ 2:56–2:56.50~~1~~ (Thomson Reuters)

2526. Affirmative Defense—Avoidable Consequences Doctrine (Sexual Harassment by a Supervisor)

If [name of plaintiff] proves that [name of supervisor] sexually harassed [him/her/nonbinary pronoun], [name of employer defendant] is responsible for [name of plaintiff]'s harm caused by the harassment. However, [name of employer defendant] claims that [name of plaintiff] could have avoided some or all of the harm with reasonable effort. To succeed, [name of employer defendant] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of employer defendant] took reasonable steps to prevent and correct workplace sexual harassment;

2. That [name of plaintiff] unreasonably failed to use the preventive and corrective measures for sexual harassment that [name of employer defendant] provided; and

3. That the reasonable use of [name of employer defendant]'s procedures would have prevented some or all of [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

You should consider the reasonableness of [name of plaintiff]'s actions in light of the circumstances facing [him/her/nonbinary pronoun] at the time, including [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] ability to report the conduct without facing undue risk, expense, or humiliation.

If you decide that [name of employer defendant] has proved this claim, you should not include in your award of damages the amount of damages that [name of plaintiff] could have reasonably avoided.

New April 2004; Revised December 2011, December 2015, May 2020

Directions for Use

Give this instruction if the employer asserts the affirmative defense of "avoidable consequences." The essence of the defense is that the employee could have avoided part or most of the harm had ~~he or she~~the employee taken advantage of procedures that the employer had in place to address sexual harassment in the workplace. The avoidable-consequences doctrine is a defense only to damages, not to liability. (State Dept. of Health Services v. Superior Court (2003) 31 Cal.4th 1026, 1045 [6 Cal.Rptr.3d 441, 79 P.3d 556].) For other instructions that may also be given on failure to mitigate damages generally, see CACI No. 3963, Affirmative Defense—Employee's Duty to Mitigate Damages, and CACI No. 3930, Mitigation of Damages (Personal Injury).

Whether this defense may apply to claims other than for supervisor sexual harassment has not been clearly addressed by the courts. It has been allowed against a claim for age discrimination in a constructive discharge case. (See Rosenfeld v. Abraham Joshua Heschel Day School, Inc. (2014) 226 Cal.App.4th 886, 900−901 [172 Cal.Rptr.3d 465].)

Sources and Authority

- "[W]e conclude that under the FEHA, an employer is strictly liable for all acts of sexual harassment by a supervisor. But strict liability is not absolute liability in the sense that it precludes all defenses. Even under a strict liability standard, a plaintiff's own conduct may limit the amount of damages recoverable or bar recovery entirely." (State Dept. of Health Services, supra, 31 Cal.4th at p. 1042, internal citations omitted.)

- "We emphasize that the defense affects damages, not liability. An employer that has exercised reasonable care nonetheless remains strictly liable for harm a sexually harassed employee could not have avoided through reasonable care. The avoidable consequences doctrine is part of the law of damages; thus, it affects only the remedy available. If the employer establishes that the employee, by taking reasonable steps to utilize employer-provided complaint procedures, could have caused the harassing conduct to cease, the employer will nonetheless remain liable for any compensable harm the employee suffered before the time at which the harassment would have ceased, and the employer avoids liability only for the harm the employee incurred thereafter." (State Dept. of Health Services, supra, 31 Cal.4th at p. 1045, internal citation omitted.)

- "Under the avoidable consequences doctrine as recognized in California, a person injured by another's wrongful conduct will not be compensated for damages that the injured person could have avoided by reasonable effort or expenditure. The reasonableness of the injured party's efforts must be judged in light of the situation existing at the time and not with the benefit of hindsight. 'The standard by which the reasonableness of the injured party's efforts is to be measured is not as high as the standard required in other areas of law.' The defendant bears the burden of pleading and proving a defense based on the avoidable consequences doctrine." (State Dept. of Health Services, supra, 31 Cal.4th at p. 1043, internal citations omitted.)

- "Although courts explaining the avoidable consequences doctrine have sometimes written that a party has a 'duty' to mitigate damages, commentators have criticized the use of the term 'duty' in this context, arguing that it is more accurate to state simply that a plaintiff may not recover damages that the plaintiff could easily have avoided." (State Dept. of Health Services, supra, 31 Cal.4th at p. 1043, internal citations omitted.)

- "We hold ... that in a FEHA action against an employer for hostile environment sexual harassment by a supervisor, an employer may plead and prove a defense based on the avoidable consequences doctrine. In this particular context, the defense has three elements: (1) the employer took reasonable steps to prevent and correct workplace sexual harassment; (2) the employee unreasonably failed to use the preventive and corrective measures that the employer provided; and (3) reasonable use of the employer's procedures would have prevented at least some of the harm that the employee suffered." (State Dept. of Health Services, supra, 31 Cal.4th at p. 1044.)

- "This defense will allow the employer to escape liability for those damages, and only those damages, that the employee more likely than not could have prevented with reasonable effort and without undue risk, expense, or humiliation, by taking advantage of the employer's internal complaint procedures appropriately designed to prevent and eliminate sexual harassment." (State Dept. of Health Services, supra, 31 Cal.4th at p. 1044, internal citations omitted.)

- "If the employer establishes that the employee, by taking reasonable steps to utilize employer-provided complaint procedures, could have caused the harassing conduct to cease, the employer will nonetheless remain liable for any compensable harm the employee suffered before the time at which the harassment would have ceased, and the employer avoids liability only for the harm the employee incurred thereafter." (State Dept. of Health Services, supra, 31 Cal.4th at p. 1045, internal citations omitted.)

- "We stress also that the holding we adopt does not demand or expect that employees victimized by a supervisor's sexual harassment must always report such conduct immediately to the employer through internal grievance mechanisms. The employer may lack an adequate antiharassment policy or adequate procedures to enforce it, the employer may not have communicated the policy or procedures to the victimized employee, or the employee may reasonably fear reprisal by the harassing supervisor or other employees. Moreover, in some cases an employee's natural feelings of embarrassment, humiliation, and shame may provide a sufficient excuse for delay in reporting acts of sexual harassment by a supervisor." (State Dept. of Health Services, supra, 31 Cal.4th at p. 1045.)

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10~~11th ed. ~~2010~~2017) Torts, § ~~1624~~1798

Chin et al., Cal~~ifornia.~~ Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 10-D, Employer Liability For Workplace Harassment, ¶¶ 10:360, 10:361, 10:365–10:367, 10:371, 10:375 (The Rutter Group)

2 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 41, Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws, §§ 41.81[7][c], 41.92A (Matthew Bender)

11 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 115, Civil Rights: Employment Discrimination, §§ 115.36[2][a], 115.54[3] (Matthew Bender)

2543. Disability Discrimination—"Essential Job Duties" Explained (Gov. Code, §§ 12926(f), 12940(a)(1))

In deciding whether a job duty is essential, you may consider, among other factors, the following:

a. Whether the reason the job exists is to perform that duty;

b. Whether there is a limited number of employees available who can perform that duty;

c. Whether the job duty is highly specialized so that the person currently holding the position was hired for ~~his or her~~the person's expertise or ability to perform the particular duty.

Evidence of whether a particular duty is essential includes, but is not limited to, the following:

a. [Name of defendant]'s judgment as to which functions are essential;

b. Written job descriptions prepared before advertising or interviewing applicants for the job;

c. The amount of time spent on the job performing the duty;

d. The consequences of not requiring the person currently holding the position to perform the duty;

e. The terms of a collective bargaining agreement;

f. The work experiences of past persons holding the job;

g. The current work experience of persons holding similar jobs;

h. Reference to the importance of the job in prior performance reviews.

"Essential job duties" do not include the marginal duties of the position. "Marginal duties" are those that, if not performed would not eliminate the need for the job, or those that could be readily performed by another employee, or those that could be performed in another way.

New September 2003; Revoked June 2013; Restored and Revised December 2013; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

Give this instruction with CACI No. 2540, Disability Discrimination—Disparate Treatment—Essential Factual Elements, or CACI No. 2541, Disability Discrimination—Reasonable Accommodation—

Essential Factual Elements, or both, if it is necessary to explain what is an "essential job duty." (See Gov. Code, §§ 12926(f), 12940(a)(1); see also Furtado v. State Personnel Bd. (2013) 212 Cal.App.4th 729, 743−744 [151 Cal.Rptr.3d 292].) While the employee has the burden to prove that ~~he or she~~the employee can perform essential job duties, with or without reasonable accommodation, it is unresolved which party has the burden of proving that a job duty is essential. (See Lui v. City and County of San Francisco (2012) 211 Cal.App.4th 962, 972−973 [150 Cal.Rptr.3d 385].)

Sources and Authority

- Ability to Perform Essential Duties. Government Code section 12940(a)(1).
- "Essential Functions" Defined. Government Code section 12926(f).
- Evidence of Essential Functions. 2 California Code of Regulations section 11065(e)(2).
- Marginal Functions. 2 California Code of Regulations section 11065(e)(3).
- " ' "Essential functions" means the fundamental job duties of the employment position the individual with a disability holds or desires. "Essential functions" does not include the marginal functions of the position.' ' "Marginal functions" of an employment position are those that, if not performed, would not eliminate the need for the job or that could be readily performed by another employee or that could be performed in an alternative way.' 'A job function may be considered essential for any of several reasons, including, but not limited to, any one or more of the following: [¶] (A) … [T]he reason the position exists is to perform that function. [¶] (B) … [T]he limited number of employees available among whom the performance of that job function can be distributed. [¶] [And] (C) … the incumbent in the position is hired for his or her expertise or ability to perform the particular [highly specialized] function.' " (Nealy v. City of Santa Monica (2015) 234 Cal.App.4th 359, 373 [184 Cal.Rptr.3d 9], internal citations omitted.)
- "Evidence of 'essential functions' may include the employer's judgment, written job descriptions, the amount of time spent on the job performing the function, the consequences of not requiring employees to perform the function, the terms of a collective bargaining agreement, the work experiences of past incumbents in the job, and the current work experience of incumbents in similar jobs." (Atkins v. City of Los Angeles (2017) 8 Cal.App.5th 696, 717–718 [214 Cal.Rptr.3d 113].)
- "The trial court's essential functions finding is also supported by the evidence presented by defendant corresponding to the seven categories of evidence listed in [Government Code] section 12926(f)(2). 'Usually no one listed factor will be dispositive … .' " (Lui, supra, 211 Cal.App.4th at p. 977.)
- "The question whether plaintiffs could perform the essential functions of a position to which they sought reassignment is relevant to a claim for failure to accommodate under section 12940, subdivision (m), and to a claim for failure to engage in the interactive process under section 12940, subdivision (n)." (Atkins, supra, 8 Cal.App.5th at p. 717.)
- "The identification of essential job functions is a 'highly fact-specific inquiry.' " (Lui, supra, 211 Cal.App.4th at p. 971.)

- "It is clear that plaintiff bore the burden of proving 'that he or she is a qualified individual under the FEHA (i.e., that he or she can perform the essential functions of the job with or without reasonable accommodation).' It is less clear whether that burden included the burden of proving what the essential functions of the position are, rather than just plaintiff's ability to perform the essential functions. Under the ADA, a number of federal decisions have held that '[a]lthough the plaintiff bears the ultimate burden of persuading the fact finder that he can perform the job's essential functions, … "an employer who disputes the plaintiff's claim that he can perform the essential functions must put forth evidence establishing those functions." [Citation.]' … Arguably, plaintiff's burden of proving he is a qualified individual includes the burden of proving which duties are essential functions of the positions he seeks. Ultimately, we need not and do not decide in the present case which party bore the burden of proof on the issue at trial … ." (Lui, supra, 211 Cal.App.4th at pp. 972−973, internal citations omitted.)

- " [R]equiring employers to eliminate an essential function of a job to accommodate a disabled employee 'would be at odds with the definition of the employee's prima facie case' under FEHA. The employee's burden includes 'showing he or she can perform the essential functions of the job with accommodation, not that an essential function can be eliminated altogether to suit his or her restrictions.' " (Atkins, supra, 8 Cal.App.5th at p. 720.)

Secondary Sources

8 Witkin, Summary of California Law (11th ed. 2017) Constitutional Law, §§ 1045–1049

Chin et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 9-C, California Fair Employment and Housing Act (FEHA), ¶¶ 9:2247, 9:2247.1, 9:2247.2, 9:2402–9:2402.1 (The Rutter Group)

1 Wrongful Employment Termination Practice (Cont.Ed.Bar 2d ed.) Discrimination Claims, § 2.79

2 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 41, Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws, § 41.97[1] (Matthew Bender)

11 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 115, Civil Rights: Employment Discrimination, §§ 115.22, 115.54, 115.104 (Matthew Bender)

California Civil Practice: Employment Litigation § 2:86 (Thomson Reuters)

2547. Disability-Based Associational Discrimination—Essential Factual Elements

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] wrongfully discriminated against [him/her/nonbinary pronoun] based on [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] association with a disabled person. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] was [an employer/[other covered entity]];

2. That [name of plaintiff] [was an employee of [name of defendant]/applied to [name of defendant] for a job/[describe other covered relationship to defendant]];

3. That [name of plaintiff] was [specify basis of association or relationship, e.g., the brother of [name of disabled person]], who had [a] [e.g., physical condition];

4. [That [name of disabled person]'s [e.g., physical condition] was costly to [name of defendant] because [specify reason, e.g., [name of disabled person] was covered under [plaintiff]'s employer-provided health care plan];]

   [or]

   [That [*name of defendant] feared [name of plaintiff]'s association with [name of disabled person] because [specify, e.g., [name of disabled person] has a disability with a genetic component and [name of plaintiff] may develop the disability as well];]

   [or]

   [That [*name of plaintiff] was somewhat inattentive at work because [name of disabled person]'s [e.g., physical condition] requires [name of plaintiff]'s attention, but not so inattentive that to perform to [name of defendant]'s satisfaction [name of plaintiff] would need an accommodation;]

   [or]

   [[*Specify other basis for associational discrimination];]

5. That [name of plaintiff] was able to perform the essential job duties;

6. [That [name of defendant] [discharged/refused to hire/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff];]

   [*or]

   [That [*name of defendant] subjected [name of plaintiff] to an adverse employment action;]

   [*or]

[That [name of plaintiff] was constructively discharged;]

7. That [name of plaintiff]'s association with [name of disabled person] was a substantial motivating reason for [name of defendant]'s [decision to [discharge/refuse to hire/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff]/conduct];

8. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

9. That [name of defendant]'s conduct was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

New December 2014; Revised May 2017, May 2020

Directions for Use

Give this instruction if plaintiff claims that ~~he or she~~the plaintiff was subjected to an adverse employment action because of ~~his or her~~the plaintiff's association with a disabled person. Discrimination based on an employee's association with a person who is (or is perceived to be) disabled is an unlawful employment practice under the FEHA. (See Gov. Code, § 12926(o).)

Select a term to use throughout to describe the source of the disabled person's limitations. It may be a statutory term such as "physical disability," "mental disability," or "medical condition." (See Gov. Code, § 12940(a).) Or it may be a general term such as "condition," "disease," or "disorder." Or it may be a specific health condition such as "diabetes."

Three versions of disability-based associational discrimination have been recognized, called "expense," "disability by association," and "distraction." (See Rope v. Auto-Chlor System of Washington, Inc. (2013) 220 Cal.App.4th 635, 655–660 [163 Cal.Rptr.3d 392] [claim for "disability-based associational discrimination" adequately pled].) Element 4 sets forth options for the three versions. But the versions are illustrative rather than exhaustive; therefore, an "other" option is provided. (See Castro-Ramirez v. Dependable Highway Express, Inc. (2016) 2 Cal.App.5th 1028, 1042 [207 Cal.Rptr.3d 120].)

An element of a disability discrimination case is that the plaintiff must be otherwise qualified to do the job, with or without reasonable accommodation. (Green v. State of California (2007) 42 Cal.4th 254, 262 [64 Cal.Rptr.3d 390, 165 P.3d 118] (see element 5).) However, the FEHA does not expressly require reasonable accommodation for association with a disabled person. (Gov. Code, § 12940(m) [employer must reasonably accommodate applicant or employee].) Nevertheless, one court has suggested that such a requirement may exist, without expressly deciding the issue. (See Castro-Ramirez, supra, 2 Cal.App.5th at pp. 1038−1039.) A reference to reasonable accommodation may be added to element 5 if the court decides to impose this requirement.

Read the first option for element 6 if there is no dispute as to whether the employer's acts constituted an adverse employment action. Read the second option and also give CACI No. 2509, "Adverse Employment Action" Explained, if whether there was an adverse employment action is a question of fact for the jury. If constructive discharge is alleged, give the third option for element 6 and also give CACI

No. 2510, "Constructive Discharge" Explained. Select "conduct" in element 7 if either the second or third option is included for element 4.

Element 7 requires that the disability be a substantial motivating reason for the adverse action. (See Harris v. City of Santa Monica (2013) 56 Cal.4th 203, 232 [152 Cal.Rptr.3d 392, 294 P.3d 49]; Castro-Ramirez, supra, 2 Cal.App.5th at p. 1037; see also CACI No. 2507, "Substantial Motivating Reason" Explained.)

If the existence of the associate's disability is disputed, additional instructions defining "medical condition," "mental disability," and "physical disability," may be required. (See Gov. Code, § 12926(i), (j), (m).)

Sources and Authority

- Disability Discrimination Prohibited Under Fair Employment and Housing Act. Government Code section 12940(a).
- "Medical Condition" Defined. Government Code section 12926(i).
- "Mental Disability" Defined. Government Code section 12926(j).
- "Physical Disability" Defined. Government Code section 12926(m).
- Association With Disabled Person Protected. Government Code section 12926(o).
- " 'Three types of situation are, we believe, within the intended scope of the rarely litigated … association section. We'll call them "expense," "disability by association," and "distraction." They can be illustrated as follows: an employee is fired (or suffers some other adverse personnel action) because (1) ("expense") his spouse has a disability that is costly to the employer because the spouse is covered by the company's health plan; (2a) ("disability by association") the employee's homosexual companion is infected with HIV and the employer fears that the employee may also have become infected, through sexual contact with the companion; (2b) (another example of disability by association) one of the employee's blood relatives has a disabling ailment that has a genetic component and the employee is likely to develop the disability as well (maybe the relative is an identical twin); (3) ("distraction") the employee is somewhat inattentive at work because his spouse or child has a disability that requires his attention, yet not so inattentive that to perform to his employer's satisfaction he would need an accommodation, perhaps by being allowed to work shorter hours.' " (Rope, supra, 220 Cal.App.4th at p. 657.)
- "We agree with Rope [supra] that Larimer [Larimer v. International Business Machines Corp. (7th Cir. 2004) 370 F.3d 698] provides an illustrative, rather than an exhaustive, list of the kinds of circumstances in which we might find associational disability discrimination. The common thread among the Larimer categories is simply that they are instances in which the 'employer has a motive to discriminate against a nondisabled employee who is merely associated with a disabled person.' As we discuss above, this is an element of a plaintiff's prima facie case—that the plaintiff's association with a disabled person was a substantial motivating factor for the employer's adverse employment action.

Rope held the alleged facts in that case could give rise to an inference of such discriminatory motive. Our facts do not fit neatly within one of the Larimer categories either, but a jury could reasonably infer the requisite discriminatory motive." (Castro-Ramirez, supra, 2 Cal.App.5th at p. 1042, internal citation omitted.)

- " '[A]n employer who discriminates against an employee because of the latter's association with a disabled person is liable even if the motivation is purely monetary. But if the disability plays no role in the employer's decision … then there is no disability discrimination.' " (Rope, supra, 220 Cal.App.4th at p. 658, original italics.)

- "A prima facie case of disability discrimination under FEHA requires a showing that (1) the plaintiff suffered from a disability, (2) the plaintiff was otherwise qualified to do his or her job, with or without reasonable accommodation, and (3) the plaintiff was subjected to adverse employment action because of the disability. Adapting this [disability discrimination] framework to the associational discrimination context, the 'disability' from which the plaintiff suffers is his or her association with a disabled person. … [T]he disability must be a substantial factor motivating the employer's adverse employment action." (Castro-Ramirez, supra, 2 Cal.App.5th at p. 1037.)

- "Requiring the plaintiff to show that discrimination was a substantial motivating factor, rather than simply a motivating factor, more effectively ensures that liability will not be imposed based on evidence of mere thoughts or passing statements unrelated to the disputed employment decision. At the same time, … proof that discrimination was a substantial factor in an employment decision triggers the deterrent purpose of the FEHA and thus exposes the employer to liability, even if other factors would have led the employer to make the same decision at the time." (Harris, supra, 56 Cal.4th at p. 232, original italics.)

- "We do not suggest that discrimination must be alone sufficient to bring about an employment decision in order to constitute a substantial motivating factor. But it is important to recognize that discrimination can be serious, consequential, and even by itself determinative of an employment decision without also being a 'but for' cause." (Harris, supra, 56 Cal.4th at p. 229.)

- "[W]hen section 12940, subdivision (m) requires employers to reasonably accommodate 'the known physical … disability of an applicant or employee,' read in conjunction with other relevant provisions, subdivision (m) may reasonably be interpreted to require accommodation based on the employee's association with a physically disabled person." (Castro-Ramirez, supra, 2 Cal.App.5th at pp. 1038–1039.)

Secondary Sources

8 Witkin, Summary of California Law (10~~th~~11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Constitutional Law, §§ ~~936~~1045, 1046, 1049

Chin et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 9-C, ~~Disability Discrimination — California Fair Employment And Housing Act (FEHA)~~, ¶¶ 9:2213–9:2215 (The Rutter Group)

2 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 41, Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment

Opportunity Laws, § 41.32[2] (Matthew Bender)

11 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 115, Civil Rights: Employment Discrimination, §§ 115.14, 115.23, 115.34 (Matthew Bender)

2548. Disability Discrimination—Refusal to Make Reasonable Accommodation in Housing (Gov. Code, § 12927(c)(1))

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] refused to reasonably accommodate [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] [select term to describe basis of limitations, e.g., physical disability] as necessary to afford [him/her/nonbinary pronoun] an equal opportunity to use and enjoy a dwelling. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] was the [specify defendant's source of authority to provide housing, e.g., owner] of [a/an] [specify nature of housing at issue, e.g., apartment building];

2. That [name of plaintiff] [sought to rent/was living in/[specify other efforts to obtain housing]] the [e.g., apartment];

3. That [name of plaintiff] had [a history of having] [a] [e.g., physical disability] [that limited [insert major life activity]];

4. That [name of defendant] knew of, or should have known of, [name of plaintiff]'s disability;

5. That in order to afford [name of plaintiff] an equal opportunity to use and enjoy the [e.g., apartment], it was necessary to [specify accommodation required];

6. That it was reasonable to [specify accommodation];

7. That [name of defendant] refused to make this accommodation.

New May 2017; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction is for use in a case alleging discrimination in housing based on a failure to reasonably accommodate a disability. Under the Fair Employment and Housing Act, "discrimination" includes the refusal to make reasonable accommodations in rules, policies, practices, or services when these accommodations may be necessary to afford a disabled person equal opportunity to use and enjoy a dwelling. (Gov. Code, § 12927(c)(1).)

In the introductory paragraph, select a term to describe the source of the plaintiff's limitations. It may be a statutory term such as "physical disability," "mental disability," or "medical condition." (See Gov. Code, § 12940(a).) Or it may be a general term such as "condition," "disease," or "disorder." Or it may be a specific health condition such as "diabetes." Use the term in element 3.

In element 2, if the plaintiff encountered a barrier before actually submitting an application, such as discovering a policy that would make it impossible to live in the unit, specify what ~~he or she~~the plaintiff did to obtain the housing.

In element 3, select the bracketed language on "history" of disability if the claim of discrimination is based on a history of disability rather than a current actual disability.

Modify element 3 if the plaintiff was not actually disabled or had a history of disability, but alleges denial of accommodation because ~~he or she~~the plaintiff was perceived to be disabled or associated with someone who has, or is perceived to have, a disability. (See Gov. Code, § 12926(o); see also Gov. Code, § 12926(j)(4), (m)(4) [mental and physical disability include being regarded or treated as disabled by the employer].)

In element 5, explain the accommodation in rules, policies, practices that is alleged to be needed.

Sources and Authority

- Discrimination Defined Regarding Housing Disability Accommodations. Government Code section 12927(c)(1).

- "Disability" Defined for Housing Discrimination. Government Code section 12955.3.

- "Housing" Defined. Government Code section 12927(d).

- " 'FEHA in the housing area is thus intended to conform to the general requirements of federal law in the area and may provide greater protection against discrimination.' In other words, the FHA provides a minimum level of protection that FEHA may exceed. Courts often look to cases construing the FHA, the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 when interpreting FEHA." (Auburn Woods I Homeowners Assn. v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (2004) 121 Cal.App.4th 1578, 1591 [18 Cal.Rptr.3d 669], internal citations omitted.)

- "[T]he basic principles applicable in employment cases should also apply in the housing context." (Brown v. Smith (1997) 55 Cal.App.4th 767, 782 [64 Cal.Rptr.2d 301].)

- "In order to establish discrimination based on a refusal to provide reasonable accommodations, a party must establish that he or she (1) suffers from a disability as defined in FEHA, (2) the discriminating party knew of, or should have known of, the disability, (3) accommodation is necessary to afford an equal opportunity to use and enjoy the dwelling, and (4) the discriminating party refused to make this accommodation." (Auburn Woods I Homeowners Assn., supra, 121 Cal.App.4th at p.1592.)

- "FEHA prohibits, as unlawful discrimination, a 'refusal to make reasonable accommodations in rules, policies, practices, or services when these accommodations may be necessary to afford a disabled person equal opportunity to use and enjoy a dwelling.' 'In order to establish discrimination based on a refusal to provide reasonable accommodations, a party must establish that he or she (1) suffers from a disability as defined in FEHA, (2) the discriminating party knew of, or should have known of, the disability, (3) accommodation is necessary to afford an equal opportunity to use and enjoy the dwelling, and (4) the discriminating party refused to make this accommodation.' " (Roman v. BRE Properties, Inc. (2015) 237 Cal.App.4th 1040, 1051 [188 Cal.Rptr.3d 537], internal citation omitted.)

- "We note that, currently, section 12955.3 explicitly states that 'disability' includes 'any physical or mental disability as defined in Section 12926.' That statute in turn defines 'mental disability' to include "any mental or psychological disorder or condition … that limits a major life activity', that is, 'makes the achievement of the major life activity difficult.' 'Major life activities' is to be broadly construed, and includes 'physical, mental, and social activities and working.' " (Auburn Woods I Homeowners Assn., supra, 121 Cal.App.4th at p. 1592, internal citations omitted.)

- " 'If a landlord is skeptical of a tenant's alleged disability or the landlord's ability to provide an accommodation, it is incumbent upon the landlord to request documentation or open a dialogue.' This obligation to 'open a dialogue' with a party requesting a reasonable accommodation is part of an interactive process in which each party seeks and shares information." (Auburn Woods I Homeowners Assn., supra, 121 Cal.App.4th at p. 1598, internal citation omitted.)

- "This evidence established the requisite causal link between the [defendant]'s no-pets policy and the interference with the [plaintiffs]' use and enjoyment of their condominium." (Auburn Woods I Homeowners Assn., supra, 121 Cal.App.4th at p. 1593.)

- "When the reasons for a delay in offering a reasonable accommodation are subject to dispute, the matter is left for the trier of fact to resolve. The administrative law judge properly characterized this lengthy delay as a refusal to provide reasonable accommodation." (Auburn Woods I Homeowners Assn., supra, 121 Cal.App.4th at p. 1599, internal citation omitted.)

- "We reiterate that the FEHC did not rule that companion pets are always a reasonable accommodation for individuals with mental disabilities. Each inquiry is fact specific and requires a case-by-case determination." (Auburn Woods I Homeowners Assn., supra, 121 Cal.App.4th at p. 1593.)

Secondary Sources

Joint Statement of the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Department of Justice, ~~on~~ Reasonable Accommodations U~~u~~nder the Fair Housing Act (May 17, 2004), www.justice.gov/sites/default/files/crt/legacy/2010/12/14/joint_statement_ra.pdf~~https://www.hud.gov/offices/fheo/library/huddojstatement.pdf~~

8 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10~~11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Constitutional Law, § ~~946~~1063

7 California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 214, Government Regulation and Enforcement, § 214.41 (Matthew Bender)

11 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 117, Civil Rights: Housing Discrimination, § 117.14 (Matthew Bender)

2549. Disability Discrimination—Refusal to Permit Reasonable Modification to Housing Unit (Gov. Code, § 12927(c)(1))

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] refused to permit reasonable modifications of [name of plaintiff]'s [specify type of housing, e.g., apartment] necessary to afford [name of plaintiff] full enjoyment of the premises. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] was the [specify defendant's source of authority to provide housing, e.g., owner] of [a/an] [e.g., apartment building];

2. That [name of plaintiff] [sought to rent/was living in/[specify other efforts to obtain housing]] the [e.g., apartment];

3. That [name of plaintiff] had [a history of having] [a] [select term to describe basis of limitations, e.g., physical disability] [that limited [insert major life activity]];

4. That [name of defendant] knew of, or should have known of, [name of plaintiff]'s disability;

5. That in order to afford [name of plaintiff] an equal opportunity to use and enjoy the [e.g., apartment], it was necessary to [specify modification(s) required];

6. That it was reasonable to expect [name of defendant] to [specify modification(s) required];

7. That [name of plaintiff] agreed to pay for [this/these] modification[s]; [and]

8. [That [name of plaintiff] agreed that [he/she/nonbinary pronoun] would restore the interior of the unit to the condition that existed before the modifications, other than for reasonable wear and tear; and]

9. That [name of defendant] refused to permit [this/these] modification[s].

New May 2017; Revised May 2020

Directions for Use

This instruction is for use in a case alleging discrimination in housing based on a failure to permit reasonable modifications to a living unit to accommodate a disability. Under the Fair Employment and Housing Act, "discrimination" includes the refusal to permit, at the expense of the disabled person, reasonable modifications of existing premises occupied or to be occupied by the disabled person, if the modifications may be necessary to afford the disabled person full enjoyment of the premises. (Gov. Code, § 12927(c)(1).)

In element 2, if the plaintiff encountered a barrier before actually submitting an application, such as discovering a policy that would make it impossible to live in the unit, specify what ~~he or she~~the plaintiff did to obtain the housing.

In element 3, select a term to describe the source of the plaintiff's limitations. It may be a statutory term such as "physical disability," "mental disability," or "medical condition." (See Gov. Code, § 12940(a).) Or it may be a general term such as "condition," "disease," or "disorder." Or it may be a specific health condition such as "diabetes."

In element 3, select the bracketed language on "history" of disability if the claim of discrimination is based on a history of disability rather than a current actual disability.

Modify element 3 if the plaintiff was not actually disabled or had a history of disability, but alleges denial of accommodation because ~~he or she~~the plaintiff was perceived to be disabled or associated with someone who has, or is perceived to have, a disability. (See Gov. Code, § 12926(o); see also Gov. Code, § 12926(j)(4), (m)(4) [mental and physical disability include being regarded or treated as disabled by the employer].)

In element 5, specify the modifications that are alleged to be needed.

Element 7 may not apply if section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (applicable to federal subsidized housing) or Title II of the Americans With Disabilities Act requires the landlord to incur the cost of reasonable modifications.

In the case of a rental, the landlord may, if it is reasonable to do so, condition permission for a modification on the renter's agreeing to restore the interior of the premises to the condition that existed before the modification (other than for reasonable wear and tear). (Gov. Code, § 12927(c)(1).) Include element 8 if the premises to be physically altered is a rental unit, and the plaintiff agreed to restoration. If the parties dispute whether restoration is reasonable, presumably the defendant would have to prove reasonableness. (See Evid. Code, § 500 [party has the burden of proof as to each fact the existence or nonexistence of which is essential to the claim for relief or defense that s/he is asserting].)

Sources and Authority

- Discrimination Defined Regarding Housing Disability Accommodations. Government Code section 12927(c)(1).
- "Disability" Defined for Housing Discrimination. Government Code section 12955.3.
- "Housing" Defined. Government Code section 12927(d).
- " 'FEHA in the housing area is thus intended to conform to the general requirements of federal law in the area and may provide greater protection against discrimination.' In other words, the FHA provides a minimum level of protection that FEHA may exceed. Courts often look to cases construing the FHA, the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 when interpreting FEHA." (Auburn Woods I Homeowners Assn. v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (2004) 121 Cal.App.4th 1578, 1591 [18 Cal.Rptr.3d 669], internal citations omitted.)

- "[T]he basic principles applicable in employment cases should also apply in the housing context." (Brown v. Smith (1997) 55 Cal.App.4th 767, 782 [64 Cal.Rptr.2d 301].)

- "We note that, currently, section 12955.3 explicitly states that 'disability' includes 'any physical or mental disability as defined in Section 12926.' That statute in turn defines 'mental disability' to include "any mental or psychological disorder or condition … that limits a major life activity', that is, 'makes the achievement of the major life activity difficult.' 'Major life activities' is to be broadly construed, and includes 'physical, mental, and social activities and working.' " (Auburn Woods I Homeowners Assn., supra, 121 Cal.App.4th at p. 1592, internal citations omitted.)

- " 'If a landlord is skeptical of a tenant's alleged disability or the landlord's ability to provide an accommodation, it is incumbent upon the landlord to request documentation or open a dialogue.' This obligation to 'open a dialogue' with a party requesting a reasonable accommodation is part of an interactive process in which each party seeks and shares information." (Auburn Woods I Homeowners Assn., supra, 121 Cal.App.4th at p. 1598, internal citation omitted.)

Secondary Sources

Joint Statement of the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Department of Justice, ~~on~~ Reasonable Modifications U~~n~~nder the Fair Housing Act (March 5~~3~~, 2008), ~~https://www.hud.gov/offices/fheo/disabilities/reasonable_modifications_mar08.pdf~~ www.hud.gov/sites/documents/reasonable_modifications_mar08.pdf

8 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10~~11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Constitutional Law, § ~~946~~1063

7 California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 214, Government Regulation and Enforcement, § 214.41 (Matthew Bender)

11 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 117, Civil Rights: Housing Discrimination, § 117.14 (Matthew Bender)

2570. Age Discrimination—Disparate Treatment—Essential Factual Elements

[*Name of plaintiff] claims that [name of defendant] wrongfully discriminated against [him/her/nonbinary pronoun] because of [his/her/nonbinary pronoun] age. To establish this claim, [name of plaintiff] must prove all of the following:

1. That [name of defendant] was [an employer/[other covered entity]];

2. That [name of plaintiff] [was an employee of [name of defendant]/applied to [name of defendant] for a job/[describe other covered relationship to defendant]];

3. [That [name of defendant] [discharged/refused to hire/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff];]

   [or]

   [That [*name of defendant] subjected [name of plaintiff] to an adverse employment action;]

   [or]

   [That [*name of plaintiff] was constructively discharged;]

4. That [name of plaintiff] was age 40 or older at the time of the [discharge/[other adverse employment action]];

5. That [name of plaintiff]'s age was a substantial motivating reason for [name of defendant]'s -[decision to [discharge/refuse to hire/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff]/conduct];

6. That [name of plaintiff] was harmed; and

7. That [name of defendant]'s conduct was a substantial factor in causing [name of plaintiff]'s harm.

New June 2011; Revised June 2012, June 2013, May 2020

Directions for Use

Read the first option for element 3 if there is no dispute as to whether the employer's acts constituted an adverse employment action. Read the second option and also give CACI No. 2509, "Adverse Employment Action" Explained, if whether there was an adverse employment action is a question of fact for the jury. If constructive discharge is alleged, give the third option for element 3 and also give CACI No. 2510, "Constructive Discharge" Explained. Select "conduct" in element 5 if the either the second or third option is included for element 3.

Note that there are two causation elements. There must be a causal link between the discriminatory animus based on age and the adverse action (see element 5), and there must be a causal link between the adverse action and the damage (see element 7). (See Mamou v. Trendwest Resorts, Inc. (2008) 165 Cal.App.4th 686, 713 [81 Cal.Rptr.3d 406].)

Element 5 requires that age discrimination be a substantial motivating reason for the adverse action. (See Harris v. City of Santa Monica (2013) 56 Cal.4th 203, 232 [152 Cal.Rptr.3d 392, 294 P.3d 49]; see also CACI No. 2507, "Substantial Motivating Reason" Explained.)

Under the McDonnell Douglas (McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792 [93 S.Ct. 1817, 36 L.Ed.2d 668]) process for allocating burdens of proof and producing evidence, which is used in California for disparate-treatment cases under FEHA, the employee must first present a prima facie case of discrimination. The burden then shifts to the employer to produce evidence of a nondiscriminatory reason for the adverse action. At that point, the burden shifts back to the employee to show that the employer's stated reason was in fact a pretext for a discriminatory act.

Whether or not the employee has met ~~his or her~~the employee's prima facie burden, and whether or not the employer has rebutted the employee's prima facie showing, are questions of law for the trial court, not questions of fact for the jury. (See Caldwell v. Paramount Unified School Dist. (1995) 41 Cal.App.4th 189, 201 [48 Cal.Rptr.2d 448].) In other words, by the time that the case is submitted to the jury, the plaintiff has already established ~~his or her~~ a prima facie case, and the employer has already proffered a legitimate, nondiscriminatory reason for the adverse employment decision. The McDonnell Douglas shifting burden drops from the case. The jury is left to decide which evidence it finds more convincing, that of the employer's discriminatory intent or that of the employer's age-neutral reasons for the employment decision. (See Muzquiz v. City of Emeryville (2000) 79 Cal.App.4th 1106, 1118, fn. 5 [94 Cal.Rptr.2d 579]).

Under FEHA, age-discrimination cases require the employee to show that ~~his or her~~the employee's job performance was satisfactory at the time of the adverse employment action as a part of ~~his or her~~the employee's prima facie case (see Sandell v. Taylor-Listug, Inc. (2010) 188 Cal.App.4th 297, 321 [115 Cal.Rptr.3d 453]), even though it is the employer's burden to produce evidence of a nondiscriminatory reason for the action. Poor job performance is the most common nondiscriminatory reason that an employer advances for the action. Even though satisfactory job performance may be an element of the employee's prima facie case, it is not an element that the employee must prove to the trier of fact. Under element 5 and CACI No. 2507, the burden remains with the employee to ultimately prove that age discrimination was a substantial motivating reason for the action. (See Muzquiz, supra, 79 Cal.App.4th at p. 1119.)

See also the Sources and Authority to CACI No. 2500, Disparate Treatment—Essential Factual Elements.

Sources and Authority

- Age Discrimination Prohibited Under Fair Employment and Housing Act. Government Code section 12940(a).

- "Age" Defined. Government Code section 12926(b).

- Disparate Treatment; Layoffs Based on Salary. Government Code section 12941.

- "In order to make out a prima facie case of age discrimination under FEHA, a plaintiff must present evidence that the plaintiff (1) is over the age of 40; (2) suffered an adverse employment action; (3) was performing satisfactorily at the time of the adverse action; and (4) suffered the adverse action under circumstances that give rise to an inference of unlawful discrimination, i.e., evidence that the plaintiff was replaced by someone significantly younger than the plaintiff." (Sandell, supra, 188 Cal.App.4th at p. 321.)

- "In other words, '[b]y the time that the case is submitted to the jury, . . . the plaintiff has already established his or her prima facie case, and the employer has already proffered a legitimate, nondiscriminatory reason for the adverse employment decision, leaving only the issue of the employer's discriminatory intent for resolution by the trier of fact. Otherwise, the case would have been disposed of as a matter of law for the trial court. That is to say, if the plaintiff cannot make out a prima facie case, the employer wins as a matter of law. If the employer cannot articulate a nondiscriminatory reason for the adverse employment decision, the plaintiff wins as a matter of law. In those instances, no fact-finding is required, and the case will never reach a jury. [¶] In short, if and when the case is submitted to the jury, the construct of the shifting burden "drops from the case," and the jury is left to decide which evidence it finds more convincing, that of the employer's discriminatory intent, or that of the employer's race or age-neutral reasons for the employment decision.' " (Muzquiz, supra, 79 Cal.App.4th at p. 1118, fn. 5.)

- "Because the only issue properly before the trier of fact was whether the [defendant]'s adverse employment decision was motivated by discrimination on the basis of age, the shifting burdens of proof regarding appellant's prima facie case and the issue of legitimate nondiscriminatory grounds were actually irrelevant." (Muzquiz, supra, 79 Cal.App.4th at p. 1119.)

- "An employee alleging age discrimination must ultimately prove that the adverse employment action taken was based on his or her age. Since direct evidence of such motivation is seldom available, the courts use a system of shifting burdens as an aid to the presentation and resolution of age discrimination cases. That system necessarily establishes the basic framework for reviewing motions for summary judgment in such cases." (Hersant v. Department of Social Services (1997) 57 Cal.App.4th 997, 1002 [67 Cal.Rptr.2d 483], internal citations omitted.)

- "Requiring the plaintiff to show that discrimination was a substantial motivating factor, rather than simply a motivating factor, more effectively ensures that liability will not be imposed based on evidence of mere thoughts or passing statements unrelated to the disputed employment decision. At the same time, … proof that discrimination was a substantial factor in an employment decision triggers the deterrent purpose of the FEHA and thus exposes the employer to liability, even if other factors would have led the employer to make the same decision at the time." (Harris, supra, 56 Cal.4th at p. 232, original italics.)

- "We do not suggest that discrimination must be alone sufficient to bring about an employment decision in order to constitute a substantial motivating factor. But it is important to recognize that discrimination can be serious, consequential, and even by itself determinative of an employment decision without also being a "but for" cause." (Harris, supra, 56 Cal.4th at p. 229.)

- "While we agree that a plaintiff must demonstrate some basic level of competence at his or her job in order to meet the requirements of a prima facie showing, the burden-shifting framework established in McDonnell Douglas compels the conclusion that any measurement of such competency should, to the extent possible, be based on objective, rather than subjective, criteria. A plaintiff's burden in making a prima facie case of discrimination is not intended to be 'onerous.' Rather, the prima facie burden exists in order to weed out patently unmeritorious claims." (Sandell, supra, 188 Cal.App.4th at p. 322, internal citations omitted.)

- "A discharge is not 'on the ground of age' within the meaning of this prohibition unless age is a 'motivating factor' in the decision. Thus, ' "an employer would be entitled to judgment as a matter of law if the record conclusively revealed some other, nondiscriminatory reason for the employer's decision." ' '[A]n employee claiming discrimination must offer substantial evidence that the employer's stated nondiscriminatory reason for the adverse action was untrue or pretextual, or evidence the employer acted with a discriminatory animus, or a combination of the two, such that a reasonable trier of fact could conclude the employer engaged in intentional discrimination.' " (West v. Bechtel Corp. (2002) 96 Cal.App.4th 966, 978 [117 Cal.Rptr.2d 647].)

- "[D]ownsizing alone is not necessarily a sufficient explanation, under the FEHA, for the consequent dismissal of an age-protected worker. An employer's freedom to consolidate or reduce its work force, and to eliminate positions in the process, does not mean it may 'use the occasion as a convenient opportunity to get rid of its [older] workers.' " (Guz v. Bechtel National, Inc. (2000) 24 Cal.4th 317, 358 [100 Cal.Rptr.2d 352, 8 P.3d 1089].)

Secondary Sources

8 Witkin, Summary of California Law (~~10~~11th ed. ~~2005~~2017) Constitutional Law, §§ ~~932~~1041–~~935~~1044

Chin et al., California Practice Guide: Employment Litigation, Ch. 8-B, California Fair Employment and Housing Act, ¶¶ 8:740, 8:800 et seq. (The Rutter Group)

2 Wilcox, California Employment Law, Ch. 41, Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws, § 41.31 (Matthew Bender)

11 California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 115, Civil Rights: Employment Discrimination, § 115.22 (Matthew Bender)

10 California Points and Authorities, Ch. 100, Employer and Employee: Wrongful Termination and Discipline, § 100.43 (Matthew Bender)

VF-2501. Disparate Treatment—Affirmative Defense—Bona fide Occupational Qualification (Gov. Code, § 12940(a))

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Was [name of defendant] an [employer/[other covered entity]]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Was [name of plaintiff] [an employee of [name of defendant]/an applicant to [name of defendant] for a job/[other covered relationship to defendant]]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 2 is yes, then answer question 3. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

3. Did [name of defendant] [discharge/refuse to hire/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 3 is yes, then answer question 4. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

4. Was [name of plaintiff]'s [protected status] a substantial motivating reason for [name of defendant]'s [discharge/refusal to hire/[other adverse employment action]]?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 4 is yes, then answer question 5. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

5. Was the job requirement regarding [protected status] reasonably necessary for the operation of [name of defendant]'s business?
   ____ Yes ____ No

   If your answer to question 5 is yes, then answer question 6. If you answered no, skip questions 6, 7, and 8, and answer question 9.

6. Did [name of defendant] have a reasonable basis for believing that substantially all [members of protected group] are unable to safely and efficiently perform that job?

____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 6 is yes, then answer question 7. If you answered no, skip questions 7 and 8, and answer question 9.

7. Was it impossible or highly impractical for [*name of defendant] to consider whether each [applicant/employee] was able to safely and efficiently perform the job?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 7 is yes, then answer question 8. If you answered no, skip question 8 and answer question 9.

8. Was it impossible or highly impractical for [*name of defendant] to rearrange job responsibilities to avoid using [protected status] as a job requirement?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 8 is no, then answer question 9. If you answered yes, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

9. Was [*name of defendant]'s [discharge/refusal to hire/[other adverse employment action]] a substantial factor in causing harm to [name of plaintiff]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 9 is yes, then answer question 10. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

10. What are [*name of plaintiff]'s damages?

[a. Past economic loss

[lost earnings	$ _____]
[lost profits	$ _____]
[medical expenses	$ _____]
[other past economic loss	$ _____]

Total Past Economic Damages: $ _____]

[b. Future economic loss

[lost earnings	$ _____]
[lost profits	$ _____]
[medical expenses	$ _____]
[other future economic loss	$ _____]

Total Future Economic Damages: $ _____]

[c. Past noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]

$ _____]

[d. Future noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]

$ _____]

TOTAL $ _____

Signed: _____
Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

After [this verdict form has/all verdict forms have] been signed, notify the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant] that you are ready to present your verdict in the courtroom.

New September 2003; Revised April 2007, December 2010, June 2013, December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 2500, Disparate Treatment—Essential Factual Elements, and CACI No. 2501, Affirmative Defense—Bona fide Occupational Qualification.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

Relationships other than employer/employee can be substituted in question 2, as in element 2 in CACI No. 2500.

Modify question 4 if the plaintiff was not actually a member of the protected class, but alleges discrimination because ~~he or she~~the plaintiff was perceived to be a member, or associated with someone who was or was perceived to be a member, of the protected class. (See Gov. Code, § 12926(o).)

If specificity is not required, users do not have to itemize all the damages listed in question 10 and do not have to categorize "economic" and "noneconomic" damages, especially if it is not a Proposition 51 case. The breakdown of damages is optional depending on the circumstances.

If there are multiple causes of action, users may wish to combine the individual forms into one form. If different damages are recoverable on different causes of action, replace the damages tables in all of the verdict forms with CACI No. VF-3920, Damages on Multiple Legal Theories.

If the jury is being given the discretion under Civil Code section 3288 to award prejudgment interest (see Bullis v. Security Pac. Nat'l Bank (1978) 21 Cal.3d 801, 814 [148 Cal.Rptr. 22, 582 P.2d 109]), give CACI No. 3935, Prejudgment Interest. This verdict form may need to be augmented for the jury to make any factual findings that are required in order to calculate the amount of prejudgment interest.

VF-2515. Limitation on Remedies—Same Decision

We answer the questions submitted to us as follows:

1. Was [name of defendant] an [employer/[other covered entity]]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 1 is yes, then answer question 2. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

2. Was [name of plaintiff] [an employee of [name of defendant]/an applicant to [name of defendant] for a job/[other covered relationship to defendant]]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 2 is yes, then answer question 3. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

3. Did [name of defendant] [discharge/refuse to hire/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 3 is yes, then answer question 4. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

4. Was [name of plaintiff]'s [protected status or activity] a substantial motivating reason for [name of defendant]'s [discharge of/refusal to hire/[other adverse employment action]] [name of plaintiff]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 4 is yes, then answer question 5. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

5. Was [specify employer's stated legitimate reason, e.g., plaintiff's poor job performance] also a substantial motivating reason for [name of defendant]'s [discharge/refusal to hire/[other adverse employment action]]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 5 is yes, then answer question 6. If you answered no, skip question 6 and answer question 7.

6. Would [name of defendant] have [discharged/refused to hire/[other adverse employment] action]] [name of plaintiff] anyway at that time based on [e.g., plaintiff's poor job performance] had [name of defendant] not also been substantially motivated by [discrimination/retaliation]?

____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 6 is no, then answer question 7. If you answered yes, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

7. Was [*name of defendant]'s [discharge/refusal to hire/[other adverse employment action]] a substantial factor in causing harm to [name of plaintiff]?
____ Yes ____ No

If your answer to question 7 is yes, then answer question 8. If you answered no, stop here, answer no further questions, and have the presiding juror sign and date this form.

8. What are [*name of plaintiff]'s damages?

[a. Past economic loss
[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other past economic loss $ _____]
Total Past Economic Damages: $ _____]

[b. Future economic loss
[lost earnings $ _____]
[lost profits $ _____]
[medical expenses $ _____]
[other future economic loss $ _____]
Total Future Economic Damages: $ _____]

[c. Past noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]
$ _____]

[d. Future noneconomic loss, including [physical pain/mental suffering:]
$ _____]

TOTAL $ _____

Signed: _____

Presiding Juror

Dated: _____

After [this verdict form has/all verdict forms have] been signed, notify the [clerk/bailiff/court attendant] that you are ready to present your verdict in the courtroom.

New December 2013; Revised December 2015, December 2016, May 2020

Directions for Use

This verdict form is based on CACI No. 2512, Limitation of Damages—Same Decision. It incorporates questions from VF-2500, Disparate Treatment, and VF-2504, Retaliation, to guide the jury through the evaluation of the employer's purported legitimate reason for the adverse employment action.

The special verdict forms in this section are intended only as models. They may need to be modified depending on the facts of the case.

Question 5 asks the jury to determine whether the employer's stated legitimate reason actually was a motivating reason for the adverse action. In this way, the jury evaluates the employer's reason once. If it finds that it was an actual motivating reason, it then proceeds to question 6 to consider whether the employer has proved "same decision," that is, that it would have taken the adverse employment action anyway for the legitimate reason, even though it may have also had a discriminatory or retaliatory motivation. If the jury answers "no" to question 5 it then proceeds to consider substantial-factor causation of harm and damages in questions 7 and 8.

Relationships other than employer/employee can be substituted in question 2, as in element 2 in CACI No. 2500.

Modify question 4 if the plaintiff was not actually a member of the protected class, but alleges discrimination because ~~he or she~~the plaintiff was perceived to be a member, or associated with someone who was or was perceived to be a member, of the protected class. (See Gov. Code, § 12926(o).)

