Executive Summary and Origin

Under existing law, before accepting a plea of guilty or no contest, courts must advise a defendant on the record that if they are not a citizen, conviction of the charged offense may result in specified immigration consequences. Recent legislation requires courts to advise defendants of these immigration consequences with the verbatim language of Penal Code section 1016.5(a). Additionally, when a defendant pleads guilty or no contest to a sexually violent offense, the California Supreme Court has directed trial courts to advise defendants about the possibility of being referred to sexually violent predator civil commitment proceedings. The Criminal Law Advisory Committee proposes amendments to the optional felony plea form to incorporate the verbatim immigration advisement and to clarify the advisement in cases involving sexually violent offenses.

Background

Since January 1, 1978, Penal Code section 1016.5¹ has required courts, before accepting a guilty or no contest plea, to advise a defendant on the record that, if they are not a citizen, conviction of the charged offense may result in deportation, exclusion from admission to the United States, or denial of naturalization. Based on this statute, Plea Form, With Explanations and Waiver of Rights—Felony (form CR-101) includes an immigration advisement as item 3j.²

Effective January 1, 2026, Senate Bill 281 (Stats. 2025, ch. 666) amended section 1016.5 to require courts to administer the advisement using the verbatim language of the statute. According to the bill’s author, the bill’s intent is to ensure consistency in the administration of the immigration advisement by courts. The author noted that some courts state that as a result of the plea, immigration consequences “will” occur, versus using the statutory language that they “may” occur, impacting the defendant’s understanding of the plea agreement.³ To assist courts with providing the statutory verbatim advisement, the committee proposes modifying item 3j.

In addition to the immigration advisement, courts are also required to advise a defendant when they could be subject to civil commitment as a sexually violent predator. Specifically, In re Tellez (2024) 17 Cal.5th 77 requires trial courts to advise a defendant—when pleading guilty or no contest to a sexually violent offense⁴ or when the court is aware that the defendant has a prior conviction for a sexually violent offense—along the following lines: “At the end of your sentence for this offense, you may be subject to screening by the State Department of State Hospitals to determine whether you qualify for trial as a sexually violent predator, which could result in your being committed to a secure medical facility indefinitely.”⁵

To implement the advisement in In re Tellez, the Judicial Council approved revisions to form CR-101 effective July 1, 2025.⁶ After these revisions, a superior court judge advised the committee of a minor error: although In re Tellez states that specified defendants may be subject to screening by the State Department of State Hospitals, the judge noted that the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (CDCR) and the Board of Parole Hearings actually conduct the initial screening.⁷

If this screening determines that the person potentially meets the criteria for a sexually violent predator, CDCR then refers the person to the State Department of State Hospitals for a full evaluation of whether the person meets the statutory criteria for a sexually violent predator.⁸ As a result, the committee recommends removing the reference in the advisement to the State Department of State Hospitals so that the advisement generally states that the person may be subject to screening. The committee believes that specifying the state agency conducting the screening is not necessary for the advisement, which is merely intended to notify a defendant that they could be subject to civil commitment as a sexually violent predator.

² “I understand that if I am not a citizen of the United States, my plea of guilty or no contest may result in my deportation, exclusion from admission to the United States, or denial of naturalization under the laws of the United States.”

The Proposal

The committee proposes the following revisions to form CR-101:

- Modifying item 3j, Immigration Consequences, to state that the defendant understands the following:

If you are not a citizen of the United States, you are hereby advised that conviction of the offense for which you have been charged may have the consequences of deportation, exclusion from admission to the United States, or denial of naturalization pursuant to the laws of the United States.

- Modifying item 3h, Sexually Violent Predator Civil Commitment, to remove a reference to the State Department of State Hospitals as the agency conducting the screening for whether the person meets the criteria for indeterminate commitment as a sexually violent predator.

Alternatives Considered

The committee did not consider the alternative of not revising the form because it determined that revising the immigration consequences advisement was necessary to implement recent legislation.

For the In re Tellez advisement, the committee considered referencing both the CDCR and the State Department of State Hospitals as the agencies that conduct the screening and evaluation for sexually violent predator civil commitment proceedings. However, the committee concluded that a simplified approach referencing a screening as part of the procedure was sufficient. A committee member also suggested replacing the reference to an “indeterminate” commitment as a sexually violent predator with an “indefinite” commitment, finding that “indefinite” was more accurate. When the advisement previously circulated for public comment, the committee requested specific comment on two different versions of the advisement. One version was a more specific advisement regarding the possibility of an indeterminate civil commitment, and the other referenced commitment to a secure medical facility indefinitely. Commenters preferred the former, which was incorporated into the plea form. Because this issue had been deliberated before, the committee declined to make the change.

The committee also considered a request from a superior court judge to add a waiver of appellate rights to the plea form. The committee declined this request, finding that local practices on waiving appellate rights differed across the state and did not seem suitable for a statewide form.

Fiscal and Operational Impacts

The fiscal and operational impacts of this proposal are attributable to recent legislation and case law. Expected costs include training, case management system updates, and the production of new forms.

Request for Specific Comments

In addition to comments on the proposal as a whole, the advisory committee is interested in comments on the following:

- Does the proposal appropriately address the stated purpose?

The advisory committee also seeks comments from courts on the following cost and implementation matters:

- Would the proposal provide cost savings? If so, please quantify.
- What would the implementation requirements be for courts—for example, training staff (please identify position and expected hours of training), revising processes and procedures (please describe), changing docket codes in case management systems, or modifying case management systems?
- Would two months from Judicial Council approval of this proposal until its effective date provide sufficient time for implementation?
- How well would this proposal work in courts of different sizes?

k. Firearms (Guns), Firearm Parts, and Ammunition Prohibition and Relinquishment

I understand that under federal and state law a conviction in this case prohibits me from owning, using, purchasing, receiving, or having under my custody or control firearms (guns), firearm parts, ammunition, reloaded ammunition, and ammunition feeding devices, including but not limited to magazines, for life. This includes firearm receivers and frames, and any item that may be used as or easily turned into a receiver or frame (see Penal Code section 16531). At the trial, I would be presumed to be innocent, and I could not be convicted unless, after hearing all of the evidence, 12 impartial jurors chosen from the community were unanimously convinced beyond a reasonable doubt that I am guilty. I have a right, through my counsel, to participate in jury selection.

b. Right to a Court Trial

I understand that, as an alternative to a jury trial, if the prosecutor agrees, I may give up a jury trial and have a court trial in which the judge alone, without a jury, hears the evidence.
